a. dispensing justice.—Ju'dic'al a. pert. to a court of justice or to a judge; impartial.—Ju'dic'ally adv.—Ju'dic'lary n. the judges of the (Crown collectively);—a. pert. to the courts of law; passing judgment or sentence.—Ju'dic'lous a. wise; prudent; showing discrimination.—Ju'dic'lously adv.—Ju'dic'lousness n. [L. judicare, to judge].

Judo (joo-dō) n. a form of Ju-jitsu [Jap.].

Jug (jug) n. a vessel of earthenware, glass, etc., with handle and spout;—v.t. to stew (rabbit or hare) in a jug or covered vessel.—pr.p. jug'ging.—pa.p. jugged [etym. uncertain].

Jug (jug) v.t. to utter the sound, jug (of nightingale) [imit.].

Juggernaut (jug'er-nawt) n. the chief idol among the Hindus, beneath whose pyramidal carriage devotees were believed to sacrifice themselves; any fanatical idea for which people are prepared to sacrifice their lives; any irresistible, tyrannical force which crushes all that obstructs its path [Hind. Jagannath, the lord of the universe].

Juggle (jugl) v.t. to deceive by artifice; to perform conjuring tricks;—v.t. to defraud;—n. a trick by sleight of hand; an imposture; verbal trickery.—juggler n. a conjurer, a twister; a cheat.—jugglery n. [O.Fr. joquer, to jest].

Jugular (jug'g-lar) a. pert. to the neck or throat;—n. one of the large veins of the neck [L. jugulum, the throat].

Juice (jooz) n. sap; the liquid constituent of fruits or vegetables; any secretion of an animal body; (Slang) petrol or electricity used in a motor-car, aeroplane, etc.—Juic'iness n.—Juic'y a. full of juice [L. jus, broth].

Ju-ju (joo-joo) n. a W. African fetish, as an idol, to which sacrifices are made; a taboo effected by this [Afr.].

Juube (joo-joo) n. a shrub, native of Syria, with small, edible fruit; a lozenge made of gelatine, fruit-juice, sugar, etc. [Fr. fr. Gk. zuzubum, an Eastern tree].

Ju-jutsu (joo-jut-soo) n. a form of wrestling, originating in Japan.—also Ju-jit'su [Jap.].

Juke-box (jook-bok) n. (Colloq.) a phonograph which plays a tune when a coin is inserted.—also jook-box [etym. uncertain].

Julep (joolep) n. a sweet drink, esp. one in which medicine is taken.—also ju'lap [Pers. gul, rose; ab, water].

Julian (jool'yan) a. pert. to Julius Caesar.—Julian Calendar, the calendar as adjusted by Julius Caesar in 46 B.C. in which the year was made to consist of 365 days, 6 hours, instead of 365 days.

Julienne (joo-ll-en') n. a clear soup containing vegetables finely shredded [Fr.].

Juliet cap (joo-ll-et-kap) n. a small round cap of brocade [fr. Juliet, the Shakespearean heroine].

July (joo-ly) n. the seventh month of the year [fr. L. mensis Julius, the month named after Julius Caesar].

Jumble (jumbl) v.t. to mix in a confused mass;—v.i. to be in a muddle;—n. a miscellaneous collection; a chaotic muddle.—jum'ble-sale n. a sale of second-hand goods for a charity fund [prob. from fump and fumble].

Jumble (jumbl) n. a thin, sweet, sticky cake [etym. unknown].

Jumbo (jumbō) n. a huge person, animal, or thing, esp. the famous elephant in the 1880's.

Jump (jump) v.t. to spring over; to skip (as page of a book); to risk; to steal;—v.i. to lift feet from ground and alight again; to spring, to twitch; to coincide.—pr.p. jump'ing.—pa.p. jumped;—n. the act of jumping; a leap; a bound, a sudden, nervous start.—pl. (Colloq.) nervousness.—jump'iness n. nervous twitching.—jump'y a.—jump'ing-bean n. the seed of a Mexican plant containing larva which make it appear to jump.—jump'ing-jack n. a toy figure, the limbs of which twitch when a string is pulled.—count'er-jump'er n. a shopman, esp. in a drapery store [prob. imit.].

jumper (jump'er) n. a loose canvas tunic worn by sailors; a knitted jersey (prob. fr. Fr. tupe, a petticoat).

junction (jungk'shun) n. the act of joining; the place or point of joining; a connection.—junction n. a joint; an exigency; a particular moment in the trend of affairs (L. ungere, to join).

June (jóon) n. the sixth month of the year (L. Junius, the month of Juno).

jungle (jung'gl) n. land covered with forest trees, tangled undergrowth, esp. the dense forests of equatorial latitudes.—jung'le-fev'er n. a severe form of malaria.—jung'le-fowl n. the supposed parent of the common domestic fowl (Hind. jungul, forest).

junior (jóon'yur) a. younger, esp. of a son with the same name as his father; of lower status; n. a young person, the younger of two; a minor, one in a subordinate position (L. comp. of juvenis, young).

juniper (jóon'pér) n. a genus of evergreen coniferous shrub, with dark blue berries used in flavouring gin (L. juniperus).

junk (jungk) n. a flat-bottomed Chinese vessel (Port. junc, a boat).

junk (jungk) n. pieces of old cordage used for oakum, useless, discarded articles; (Naut.) hard, dry salted meat; v.t. to turn into junk; to cut into lumps. junk-dealer, junk'man n. one who buys and sells junk (L. nuus, a rush).

Junker (jóong'ker) n. a young German noble; a member of that reactionary political party in Prussia which was on the side of interests of the aristocracy.—Junk'erism n. (Ger. Junker, a young noble).

junket (jungk'et) n. orig. a cream cheese served on a rush mat, a dish of curds usually fruit flavoured, and served with cream; merry-making.—v.t. to feast, to picnic.—v.t. to entertain.—pr.p. junk'eting.—pa.p. junk'eted.—junk'eting n. merry-making; picnic-making (L. juncus, a rush).

junta (jun'ta) n. a council of state in Spain or Italy (Sp. junta, a committee).

junto (jun'to) n. a group of conspirators, a cabal (Sp. junta, a committee).

Jupiter (jóop'etér) n. in Roman mythology, the supreme god and ruler of heaven, equivalent to the Greek Zeus. Also Jove, the largest and brightest of the outer planets.—Jupiter Pluvius, the god of rain (L. fr. Jovis pater, father Jove).

Jurassic (jóo'rásh'k) a. (Geol.) of the middle system of Mesozoic rocks as found in the Jura mountains; oolitic (fr. Jura).

juridical (jóo'rid'ik'al) a. pert. to a judge, or the administration of justice, juridically adv. juridicus, judicial.

jurisdiction (jóo'ris-dik'shun) n. the administration of justice, legal authority, the limit or extent within which this authority may be exercised.—jurisdic'tional, jurisdic'tive a. juris law, diere, to say).

jurisprudence (jóo'ris-pró'dens) n. the science of law, the study of the fundamental principles underlying any legal system.—medical jurisprudence, forensic medicine, study of medicine as it concerns criminal law (L. jus, law; prudentia, knowledge).

jurist (jóo'rist) n. one versed in the law, esp. in Roman or civil law (L. jus, law).

jury (jóo'ri) n. a body of citizens (12 in England, 15 in Scotland (except in civil cases)) selected and sworn to give a verdict from the evidence produced in court; a committee chosen to decide the winners in a competition.—jur'or n. one who serves on a jury. Also jur'ymen, jur'ywoman (O.Fr. jurée, an oath).

jurymast (jóo'ri mast) n. a temporary mast erected in a ship to replace one broken or carried away in a storm. jur'y-strut n. (Aero.) a strut giving temporary support to a structure (L. adjuvare, to aid).

jussive (jus-iv) a. (Gram.) expressing a command;—n. a grammatical form expressing a command (L. jubere, to command).

just (just) n. Same as just.
just (just) a. straight; exact; complete; equitable; true; founded on fact; proper; well-deserved.—adv. exactly; nicely, closely; scarcely.—just'ly adv. in a just manner; deservedly; uprightly.—just'ness n. equity; fairness (L. justus, upright).

justice (jus'tis) n. the quality of being just; equity, merited reward or punishment; the administration of the law; a judge, a magistrate. justiceship n. the office of a judge.—justic'iar n. the chief judicial officer under the Norman and Plantagenet kings.—justic'ary n. a judge, a Lord Chief Justice;—a. pert. to the administration of the law.—Justice of the Peace (J.P.), a county or borough magistrate, commissioned to keep the peace in local areas (L. justitia, justice).

justify (jus'ti fy) v.t. to prove the justice of; to vindicate, to excuse; to adjust.—pr.p. justifying.—pa.p. justified.—justifi'able a. defensible, excusable.—justifi'ableness n. justifi'ably adv. justifica'tion n. vindication, (Theol.) absolution. jus tificative, jus tificatory a. having the power to justify.—jus'tifier n. (L. justificare, to justify).

juttle (same as jostle).

jut (jut) v.t. to project.—pr.p. jut'ing.—pa.p. jutted (a form of ut).

jute (jóo't) n. fibre of an Indian plant used in manufacture of carpets, cordage, sandbags, etc. (Bengal fr. Sans. juta, a tress of hair).

Jutes (jóos) n. pl. a Teutonic tribe (prob. fr. Jutland) which invaded Britain in 5th and 6th cents. (O.E. Jute).

juvenescent (jóo ven'scent) a. becoming young. juvenes'ence n. (L. juvenis, young).

juvenile (jóo ven'il) a. young, youthful; n. one a young person, a book written for children. juvenil'eness, juvenil'ity n.—juven'ile n. pl. works of author produced in childhood and early youth (L. juvenilis, youthful).

juxtapose (jaks'ta pôz') v.t. to place side by side.—juxtaposition n. the act of placing side by side, contiguity (L. juxta, near, ponere, to place).

K

kabala See cabbala.

Kafir, Káfir (káf'er) n. a - like race, a branch of the Bantu group of natives, living in the eastern part of S. Africa.—kaffir corn, a variety of sorghum akin to Indian millet grown in India and S. Africa.—Kaff'irs n. pl. Stock Exchange term for S. African mine shares (Ar. = an unbeliever).

kaffian See cafian.

kaiak See kayak.

kail (káil) n. colewort; a hardy member of the cabbage family with curled leaves; broth made of cabbage or kale in Scotland.—kail-yard n. a kitchen garden.—Kail'ard School, name given to a group of writers, including Barrie and Crockett, who dealt with humble life in rural Scotland (O.E. caedel, fr. L. caulis, a stalk).

kaimite (ká'nit) n. a mineral consisting of a hydrated compound of the cobalt, iron, and sulphates of magnesium and potassium, used as manure (Gk. kaimos, new).

kainozoic See cainozoic.

Kaiser (ká'zer, káz'zer) n. the name derived from the Latin Cæsar, given to the emperors of the Old Holy Roman Empire and of the rulers of the German Empire.—kaisership n. (Ger.).

kakistocracy (kak'is tok'ra-si) n. government by the worst people in the state, of aristocracy (Gk. kakistos, worst, kratos, rule).

kale See kail.

kaleidoscope (ka-lī'do-skōp) n. an optical instrument, varying patterns being displayed on rotation.—kaleidoscope a. ever-changing in beauty and form; variegated [Gk. kalos, beautiful; eidos, form; skopein, to view].

kaleids See calends.

kali (kā'li) n. the prickly salt-wort, from whose ashes caustic potash was formerly obtained for use in glass manufacture.—ka-hum n. potassium.

kali See caliph.

kaligenous See under kali.

kalinite (kā'li-nīt) n. hydrous sulphate of potassium and aluminum, a product of volcanoes [Ar. qali, potash].

kaliun See kali.

kames (kā'mz) n. pl. an e-kar, a high narrow ridge of gravel and sand, esp. in Scotland.

kampung (kam-pōng) n. an enclosed space or compound; a small village [Malay].

kamsin See khamin.

kanaka (ka-nak'a) n. a native of any South Sea island, a native labourer brought from the Pacific Islands to work on the sugar plantations of Queensland, Australia [Hawaiian — a man].

kangaroo (kang-gu-rōo') n. a ruminate marsupial found in Australia, having short, weak forelimbs with stout tail and progressing by flying bounds.—kangaroo-grass n. a valuable fodder grass of Australia and S. Africa.

Kantian (kan-shi-an, kan'tr-i-an) a. pert. to the German philosopher, Immanuel Kant, or his school of philosophy.

Kanuck, Canuck (ka-nuk') n. a Canadian; a French Canadian [Amer.-Ind.].

kaolin (kā'li-n) n. China clay, fine porcelain clay chiefly produced from feldspar in China, U.S.A. and Cornwall by weathering.—kaolin poultice, an antiseptic substitute for a linseed poultice [Chin. kaoling, high hill, mountain where first found].

kapok (ka-pok') n. a silky white vegetable fibre developed in the fruit pods of the white silk cotton-tree, used for stuffing pillows, lifebelts, etc.; vegetable down, W. Indian evergreen tree [Malay].

kaput (kap-dōt') n. (Slang) finished, no good; all over; done for [Ger.]. [Hurmah].

Karens (kā'renz) n. pl. a native hill race of karma (kā'rma) n. the law of Action and Reaction, of cause and effect or ethical causation, which affirms that good or evil actions on one life determine one's condition in lives to follow [Sans. = action].

karob, carob (kar-ob) n. the locust, an evergreen Mediterranean tree; its pods provide a succulent edible pulp; the seed of the tree, carat [Fr. caroubel].

karoo, karoo (ka-rōo') n. In S. Africa, one of the series of semi-barren terraces separating successive ridges of hills [Hottentot karusa, hard]. [Australia [Aborig.].

kari, kari (kar-i) n. a species of eucalyptus in kartel See cartel.

kashgar (kash'gar) n. a fine white silky wool, used in carpet manufacture [Kashgar, town in Chinese Turkestan].

katabolism (ka-tab'o-lizm) n. (Biol.) the disruptive metabolism which, results in the oxidation or other decomposition of protoplasm within the living organism to form less complex chemical compounds with concomitant liberation of energy—the opposite of anabolism [Gk. kata, down; bōle, a throw].

katagenesis (kat-a-jen'e-sis) n. (Zool.) retrogressive evolution [Gk. kata, down; genesis, origin].

katathermometer (kat-a-ther-mom'e-ter) n. a combination of the wet and dry bulb thermometer, designed to give an indication of the total effect of temperature, humidity, evaporation, wind, etc., on ventilation conditions.

kathode See cathode.

kation, cation (kat'i-on) n. an electro-positive ion which, in electrolysis, travels towards the kathode; a neutral atom which in consequence of losing an electron, has a positive charge [Gk. kata, down; ienai, to go].

katydid (kā'ti-did) n. a green insect of the grasshopper family [imit.].

kauri, kauri-pine (kau'ri-pīn) n. a coniferous tree of New Zealand giving valuable timber.—kau'ri-gum n. a resinous gum dug up on the sites of ancient kauri forests [Maori].

kava (kā'va) n. a narcotic beverage derived from a Polynesian shrub of the pepper family.—Also a'va [Hawman].

kayak (kī'yak) n. the Eskimo seal-skin canoe, long, narrow and covered over.

kayles (kālz) n. pl. an old form of the game of ninepins [Dut. kegel, a pin].

keblah (keb'lā) n. See kiblah.

keck (kek) v. i. to retch, as it about to vomit [imit. of the sound].

keckle (kek'l) v. t. to protect a cable or hawser from damage by fraying, by wrapping old rope, etc., round the length likely to be affected [etym. doubtful].

kedge (ke) n. a small anchor used to keep a ship steady or for warping, — v. t. to warp as a ship; to move a ship by means of small anchors and hawsers [Fr.].

kedgeree, kedjeree (kej-e-ree) n. an Indian dish of rice boiled with onions, eggs, pulse and butter; in European cookery, a breakfast dish of cold fish, boiled rice and eggs [Hind. kachari].

keek (kēk) v. t. and n. (Scot.) peep; glance [M.E. kēken, to peep].

keel (kēl) n. the length-wise beam of a ship on which the frames of the ship rest, hence, a ship, a low flat-bottomed barge used for coaling ships; a broad, flat vessel used for cooling liquids; — v. t. to plough with a keel, to navigate; to turn up the keel, keel'age n. dues for ships at rest in a port or harbour.—keel'haul v. t. to haul under the keel of a ship by ropes attached to the yard arms on each side, a form of punishment in the British navy during the 17th and 18th cents., to rebuke a subordinate severely, keelson n. a large vertical girder formed of plates and angles bolted to the top of a ship's keel to band the floor timbers to the keel and to help stiffen the ship, Also kel'son, to keel over, to capsize [O.E. ceol, a ship].

keelson See keel.

keen (kēn) a. having a fine cutting edge; sharp; penetrating; piercing (of wind), eager, intense (of frost), acrimonious, caustic (tongues); shrewd; discerning.—keen'ly adv. keen'ness n. [O.E. cenel].

keen (kēn) n. in Ireland, a lamentation or dirge for the dead; a coronach; — v. t. to wail over the dead before burial [Ir. caoine].

keep (kēp) v. t. to retain possession of; to detain; to observe; to carry out; to have the care of; to maintain, to cause to continue, to reserve; to manage, to commemorate, v. i. to remain (in good condition), to continue.—pa.p. kept.—n. care, guardian-ship; maintenance; food or fodder, the chief tower or dungeon (donjon) of a castle, a stronghold.

keep'er n. one who keeps or guards; an attendant; a gamekeeper; a finger-ring to prevent another from slipping off.—keep'ing n. care; custody; support; harmony. keep'sake n. anything given to recall the memory of the giver.—to keep at arm's length, to keep well away from.—to keep company with, to associate with.—to keep in touch with, to correspond with.—to keep in with, to remain on friendly terms out of self-interest.—to keep one's hand in, to maintain one's skill by occasional practice.—to keep open house, to be very hospitable to strangers.—to keep the peace, to be law-abiding.—to keep up, to maintain (appearances, spirits, etc.); to support.—for keeps (Slang) permanently [O.E. cepan].

keg (keg) n. a small cask or barrel [O.N. kappi, cask].

kell (kell) n. a caul; a ohrysalis; a film over the eye; a hair net; a skull-cap [O.E. kelle, a caul].

kelp [kelp] n. the calcined ash of certain seaweeds, used as a source of iodine; a general name for large seaweeds [etym. unknown].

kelpie, kelpy (kelpi) n. in Scots mythology, a water spirit, usually in the form of a fearsome horse [etym. doubtful].

kelson n. See keelson, under keel.

Kelt, Keltic Same as Celt, Celtic.

kelt (kelt) n. a salmon which has just spawned; a spent fish [etym. doubtful].

kemp (kemp) n. the coarse rough hairs in wool [etym. doubtful].

ken (ken) v.t. to know; to recognise, to deservy; — n. view; range of sight or knowledge [O.E. cennan, to know].

Kendal-green (kenda'l-grēn) n. a green cloth made for foresters [Kendal, town in Westmorland].

kennel (ken'el) n. a house or shelter for dogs; a pack of dogs; the hole of a fox or other animal, a small hovel of a house; — v.t. to confine in a kennel; — v.i. to live in a kennel, — pp. kenn'elling, — pp. kenn'elled, — kenn'el-maid, kenn'elman n. an attendant on dogs [Fr. chien, fr. L. canis, a dog].

kennel (ken'el) n. a street gutter or channel [O.E. canel, a channel].

Kennelly Heavside layer (ken-el-lē-jē-vē-sīd) n. a region of ionised atoms about 60-70 miles above the earth's surface, which is transparent to short wireless waves but deflects long wave waves [Fr. Dr. A. E. Kennelly, and Oliver Heaviside the discoverers].

kenotron (ken-ō-tron) n. Kenotron a high-voltage double-electrode valve used for rectifying.

kenspeckle (ken'spek-l) a. conspicuous; well-known in a certain locality [fr. ken].

Kentish (ken'tish) a. of, or pert. to, the county of Kent.

kentledge (kent'led) n. the loose balance weights of a crane; pieces of iron or lead placed on top of a monolith to cause it to sink into the ground, similar pieces placed in a ship's hold for permanent ballast [etym. doubtful].

kephalic See cephalic.

kepi (kē-pē) n. a light military cap, flat-topped with a straight peak [Fr.].

kept (kept) past and pp. of keep.

keramics Same as ceramics.

kerasine (ker-i-sin) a. horny, resembling horn [Gk. keras, a horn].

kerat-, kerato-, (kerat-ō) prefix fr. Gk. keras, a horn, used in the formation of compound terms, — keratol'gia n. (Med.) pain affecting the cornea, — kerat'ia n. an essential constituent of horny tissue, as horns, claws, nails, feathers, etc., a nitrogenous compound containing sulphur, — kerat'osis n. (Med.) a skin disease characterised by abnormal thickening of the epidermis.

kerb (kerb) n. the edge of the pavement; the curb, — kerb stone n. [var. of curb].

kerchief (ker'shif) n. a square of fine linen used by women to cover the head; any cloth used in dress, esp. on the head or round the neck, — ker'chiefed a. [Fr. couvre-chef, cover-head].

kermes (ker'mēs) n. a red and scarlet dye-stuff made from the dried bodies of the females of the homopterous insects, Coccus ilicis [Ar. kermes, a little worm].

kermess, kermis (ker'mēs) n. a church-festival or fair in the Low Countries; originally a dedication service at the opening of a new church [Dut. kerk, church; mis, mass].

kern (kern) n. See quern.

kern (kern) n. a light-armed footsoldier of Ireland or the Scottish Highlands; a boor, — kern'ish a. [Gael. ceatharnach, soldier].

kern (kern) n. in Scotland, the last sheaf of the harvest; a harvest-home. Also kirn; — v.t. to harden, as corn in ripening; to granulate [var. of corn].

kernel (ker'nel) n. the inner portion, the seed, of the stony endocarp of a drupe; the edible part of a nut; a little grain or corn; central or essential part; the nucleus [O.E. cyriel, dim. of corn].

kerosene (ker'ō-sēn) n. American term for paraffin oil, obtained in the fractional distillation of crude petroleum or from coal and shale [Gk. kēros, wax].

kersey (ker'zi) n. coarse woollen cloth, usually ribbed [etym. uncertain].

kerseymere (ker'zi-mēr) n. a fine light woollen twill cloth with an oil finish; — pl. trousers of this cloth [corrupt. of cashmere].

kerseynette (ker'zi-net) n. a thin woollen stuff [corrupt. of cassinet].

kestrel (kes'trel) n. a numerous genus of small falcons; a British bird of prey [Fr. crécelle].

ketch (kech) n. a small two-masted coasting vessel [etym. doubtful].

ketchup, catchup, catsup (kech'up) n. a sauce made from mushrooms, tomatoes or walnuts [Malay kerchap].

kettle (ket'l) n. a metal vessel, with spout and handle, used for heating and boiling water or other liquids, — kett'ledrum n. a musical percussion instrument made of a hemispherical copper shell covered with vellum, — kett'ledrummer n. — kett'le-furnace n. an open-top vessel used for melting metals with low melting points, e.g., lead, solder, — a pretty kettle of fish, an awkward affair [O.N. ketill].

key (kē) n. a low-lying island or reef near the coast, used esp. of Spain's former possessions off the coast of Florida. — Also cay [Sp. cayo, a reef].

key (kē) n. old spelling of quay.

key (kē) n. an instrument which shuts or opens a lock, an instrument by which anything is screwed and turned, as a wrench-key, bed-key, etc., a spanner; the highest central stone of an arch; a lever in a musical instrument, depressed by the fingers in playing; a lever on a type writer for actuating the mechanism in engineering, a hand tool for valve-control, a switch adapted for making and breaking easily contact in an electric circuit; a wedge to secure firmly a rail in the chair on railway lines, in carpentry, a small piece of hardwood inserted in joints to prevent shiving, or across grain of wood to prevent curvature, any rough surface or a space between laths or wire-meshing to secure adhesion of plaster, the window lock containing the seed of the ash, muske, etc.; (Mus.) a set of related notes, solution or explanation, a translation of a foreign book, esp. the classics, or solutions to questions set, — a. critical, of vital importance.

— key-board n. the whole range of keys on a keyed instrument; a manual, — key hole n. a hole in a door or lock for receiving a key, — key-industry, an industry on which vital interests of the country or other industries depend, — key-ing n. the roughing of the surface of new plaster to secure adhesion for the next coat; the operation of starting or stopping a high-frequency current, — key-man n. an indispensable employee, — key-mon'ey n. a gratuitous sum of money demanded from a new tenant as a condition of granting a lease, — key-note n. the first note of the scale in which a passage is written, — key-ring n. a ring for keeping a number of keys together, — key signature n. (Mus.) the essential sharps and flats placed at the beginning of a piece after the clef to indicate the key, — key-stone n. the wedge-shaped central voussoir at the crown of an arch; the boss of a dome, — all keyed up, agog with excitement and expectation.

— House of Keys, the lower house of the Tynwald, the legislature of the Isle of Man [O.E. caecg].

khaki (kāk'ē) a. dust-coloured or buff; — a. a cloth of this colour, used for the uniforms of soldiers, — Also khaki [Urdu = dusty].

khaliif, khalfat See caliph, caliphate.

khamsin (kam'sin) n. a hot, dry, south wind accompanied by sand, similar to a sirocco, which blows over Egypt, especially in March to May [Ar.].

khan (kàn) n. a title of respect in various Mohammedan countries of C. Asia and N. India; among Mongol races, a king, prince, or chief; —khan'ate n. the dominion of a khan [Pers. = a lord or prince].

khedive (ke-dév') n. the title of the ruler of Egypt, from 1867 to 1914, roughly equivalent to 'Viceroy' [Fr. fr. Pers. = prince].

kiang (ki-ang) n. the wild ass of the barren Tibetan plateau. Also ky'ang [Tibetan kyang].

kia ora (kē-a, ōra) interj. a Maori salutation, 'Your health.' [used in mining [Ger. Kubell].

kibble (kib'el) n. a large riveted steel bucket kibble (kib'el) v.t. to bruise or grind closely. — kib'bler n. a machine for cutting beans, etc., for cattle-feed [Prov. E.].

kibbutz (kē-bōōts') n. a Jewish communal settlement in Israel. pl. Kibbutzim (kē-bōōta-ēm') [Heb.].

kibe (kib) n. an ulcerated chilblain; a chap in the skin [W. cibest, fr. cib, cup; gust, a disease].

kiblah, keblah (kib'la, keb'la) n. the point towards which Mohammedans turn their faces in prayer [Ar. qiblah].

kibosh (kif'bosh, ki-bosh') n. Portland cement when blown on to sculptured work in order to give a charoosuro effect; (Colloq.) nonsense; rubbish. — to put the kibosh on, to silence; to defeat; to get rid of [etym. unknown].

kick (kik) v.t. to strike or hit with the foot; — v.i. to strike out with the foot; to show opposition; to resist; to recoil violently (of a rifle, etc.); — n. a blow with the foot; the recoil of a gun; (Slang) stimulation; thrill. — kick'er n. a horse liable to kick out. — kick'ing-plate n. a metal plate fixed to the horizontal bottom rail of a door to prevent damage by kicking. — kick-off n. the commencement of a game of football. — kick-up n. a disturbance, a shindy. — to kick over the traces, to throw off all restraint; to rebel openly. — to kick the bucket (Slang) to die. — drop-kick n. in rugby, a kick made as the ball, just dropped from the hand, rebounds from the ground. — free-kick n. in association football, the privilege granted to a football player to kick the ball once without interference from the opposing side. — place-kick n. in rugby, the kick allowed to the side which has scored a try, the ball being carefully 'placed' [M.E. kiken, of unknown origin].

licker (kik'ler) n. an agricultural machine for turning over swathes of mown grass, a tedder [fr. kick].

lickshaw (kik'shaw) n. a toy or trifle; something fantastic or uncommon, or with no particular name; a fanciful dressed dish [fr. Fr. quelque chose, something].

kid (kid) n. a young goat, leather made from the skin of a goat; (Slang) a child; — pl. gloves of smooth kid leather; — a. made of kid leather [O.N. kith].

kid (kid) v.t. and i. (Slang) to hoax; to pretend; — n. a pretence. — kid'der n. a practical joker [etym. doubtful].

Kidderminster (kid'der-min'ster) n. a carpet with fine and elaborate designs. Also known as 'Scotch carpet' or 'Ingrain carpet' [Kidderminster, town where such carpets were woven].

kidnap (kid'nap) v.t. to carry off, abduct, or secrete forcibly a person (esp. a child). — kid'napper n. — kid'napping n. [E. kid, a child; nap, to nab].

kidney (kid'ni) n. one of two glandular organs in the lumbar region of the abdominal cavity which excrete urine; nature; kind; temperament. — kidney bean, the kidney-shaped seed of any bean plant; the haricot or French bean [origin uncertain]. [in Morocco [Native].

kief (kēf) n. dried hemp leaves, used as tobacco kie-kie (ki-ki, kē-kē) n. the native name of a New Zealand climbing shrub, bearing large quantities of berries [Maori].

Kieselguhr (kē'zl-gŭr) n. a fine earth, nearly pure silica, consisting of the skeletons of minute algae called diatoms, used for polishing and as an absorbent for nitro-glycerine, the product being called dynamite [Ger. Kiesel, gravel; Gühr, sediment].

Kikuyu (ki-koo'ŭ) n. a native tribe of Kenya.

kilderkin (kil'der-kin) n. a small barrel; a liquid measure containing eighteen imperial gallons or two firkins [O.Dut. kindeken, a small barrel].

killerg (kil'erg) n. (Physics) a thousand ergs.

kill (kil) v.t. to deprive of life; to slay; to put to death; to destroy; to neutralise; to weaken or dilute; to render inactive; to pass (time); — n. the act or time of killing; the animal killed in a field-sport. — kill'er n. one who kills, a butcher or slaughterman; a club for killing fish. — kill'er-whale n. the grampus, a smaller variety of whale, with immense jaws and capable of swallowing seals, porpoises, etc., whole. — kill'ing a. depriving of life; very exhausting; fascinating; exceedingly funny. — kill'ingly adv. — kill'joy n. one who depresses others or objects to innocent amusements [etym. obscure].

killock (kil'ok) n. a small anchor; the fluke of an anchor. — Also kill'ock.

Kilmarnock (kil-mar'nok) n. a flat, round town-o'-shanter [town in Ayrshire, Scotland].

kiln (kil, kiln) n. a large oven, brick-built, generating great heat, in which various materials are dried, calcined, or hardened (clay, lime, malt, hops, etc.). — kiln-dry v.t. to dry in a kiln [L. culina, an oven].

kilo- (kil'o) prefx fr. Gk. chilioi, one thousand. In the metric system denoting a thousand. — kil'ocycle n. the unit for measuring vibrations, esp. the frequency of electric oscillations and wireless waves, 1000 complete cycles or oscillations per second. — kil'ogramme, kil'o-gram n. 1000 grammes, equal to 2 2046 lbs. avoirdupois. — kil'olitre, kil'oliter n. 1000 litres, equivalent to 35 31472 cubic feet and to 220 0967 imperial gallons. — kil'ometre, kil'o-meter n. 1000 metres, 3280 899 English feet or nearly $\frac{1}{2}$ of a mile. — kil'owatt n. an electric unit of power equal to 1000 watts. — kil'owatt-hour, n. one kilowatt expended for one hour, commonly called 'Board of Trade unit,' or simply 'unit.'

kilt (kilt) n. a short skirt usually of tartan cloth, deeply pleated, reaching from waist to knees. — r - t to tuck up or pleat vertically in the fashion of Highland kilt. — kiltie n. (Colloq.) a soldier in Highland regiment [Dun. kilte, to tuck up].

kimbo (kim'bō) a. crooked; bent; arched; akimbo [var. of akimbo].

kimono (ki-mō'nō) n. a dark-striped overgarment with short wide sleeves, worn in Japan by both men and women, a dressing-gown in imitation of this style [Jap.].

kin (kin) n. family relations; relationship, consanguinity; affinity. — a. of the same nature or kind; kindred; akin. — next of kin, the person or persons closest in relationship to a deceased person [O.E. cygn].

-kin (kin) noun suffix, used as a diminutive, e.g. lambkin, a little lamb.

kinaesthesia (kin-ēs-thē'si-az) n. muscle sense; the perception of muscular effort. — kinaesthetic a. [Gk. kinein, to move; aisthesis, perception].

kind (kind) n. genus; sort; variety; class; particular nature; — a. having a sympathetic nature, considerate; good; benevolent; obliging. — kind'heart'ed a. — kind'heart'edness n. — kind'ness n. benevolence. — kind'ly a. and adv. — kind'ness n. kind feeling or action. — kind of (Colloq.) somewhat; to a certain extent. — in kind, payment in goods, instead of money [O.E. gerunde, nature].

kindergarten (kin'der-gar'ten) n. a school for young children where they are taught by the organising of their natural tendency to play; the method initiated by Froebel [Ger. = children's garden].

kinderspiel (kin'der-spēl) n. a children's apparatus [Ger. Kind, child; spielen, to play].

kindle (kin'dl) v.t. to set on fire; to light; to excite (the passions); to inflame; to enrage; — v.i. to catch fire; to be excited; to grow warm or animated. — kindling n. the act of starting a fire; the material for starting a fire [O.N. kyndal].

kindred (kin'dred) n. relation by birth; affinity; relatives by blood or marriage; — a. related; cognate; of like nature; congenial; similar [M.E. kinrede].

kine (kin) n. pl. a plural form of cows.

kinema (kin'e-ma) n. an early variant of cinema [Gk. kinēma, movement].

kinematic, kinematical (kin-e-mat'ik, -l-ka) a. relating to pure motion. — kinematics n. pl. the branch of mechanics dealing with problems of motion as such [Gk. kinēma, movement].

kinetic, kinetical (ki-net'ik, -l-ka) a. relating to motion, imparting or growing out of motion. — kinetic energy, mechanical energy of a body by virtue of its motion. — kinetics n. the science which treats of changes in movements of matter produced by forces [Gk. kinēma, to move].

king (king) n. (fem. queen) supreme ruler of a country, a sovereign, a monarch, one who is distinguished above all others of his compatriots, a playing-card in each suit with a picture of a king, the chief piece in the game of chess, in draughts, a queen who is crowned. — King-at-Arms, King-of-Arms n. one of the three principal officers, under the Earl Marshal, of the College of Arms, with jurisdiction over heraldry and armoury — in Scotland, King-of-Arms; in Ireland, Ulster King-of-Arms. — king-coob'ra n. a large and rarer snake than the common cobra, hooded. — king-crab n. a marine creature, of the order Arachnida, found on the west coast of the U.S.A. — king-craft n. the art of ruling as a king (usually in a bad sense). — king-cup n. the marsh marigold, a common species of buttercup. — king-dom n. quality and attribute of a king, the country subject to a king, realm, sphere, domain, one of the three great divisions (animal, vegetable, and mineral) of Natural History. — king-fisher n. a native bird of the Old World, with brilliant plumage. — king-hood n. kingship; kingliness. — king-let n. a petty king; the golden crested or golden-crowned wren. — king-like, king'ly a. royal, becoming a king. — king-penguin n. a species of penguin distinguished by having a coat of greyish-blue which covers the back; the head covered with black plumage. — king-pin n. the metal rod upon which the steering stub axle of a motor-car is pivoted, the swivel pin. (Fig.) an important person. — King's Bench, one of the three divisions of the English High Court of Justice, bearing mainly common law actions. — King's Counsel, an honorary distinction conferred on eminent barristers giving them precedence in courts and the right to wear a silk gown (hence, to take silk). — King's evidence, the evidence in a court of law tendered by an accomplice, on behalf of the prosecution, against a prisoner. — king-ship n. the state or office of a king. — King's Proctor, the Treasury solicitor who may intervene to stop decrees nisi in divorce being made absolute. — King's Regulations, the official regulations for the organisation of the British Army or Navy [O.E. cyngwyl].*

kink (kingk) n. a short twist, accidentally formed, in a rope, wire, chain, etc., a mental twist; a crotchet, a whim; — v.t. and v.i. to twist spontaneously; to form a kink (in) [origin uncertain].

kinsfolk (kinz'fōk) n. blood relations; kin, members of the same family. — kin'ship n. state or condition of being related by birth. — kins-man, kin's-woman n. a person of the same kin or race with another [kin].

kiosk (ki-ōsk') n. an open pavilion or summer-house, supported by pillars; an erection, resembling a sentry-box, for the sale of periodicals, sweets, tobacco, etc.; a bandstand [Turk. kioshk].

kip (kip) n. the untanned hide of young cattle intermediate between calves and cows — kip'skin n. such, after tanning [etym. uncertain].

kip (kip) n. a unit of force equivalent to 1000 lbs.

kip (kip) n. (Slang) a house of ill-fame; a doss-house; lodging. Also kip'shop, — v.i. to go to bed.

kipper (kip'er) n. a herring, split, then smoked; a male salmon when spent after spawning season; — v.t. to cure fish by salting, smoking, or drying (origin uncertain).

kirk (kgrk) n. (Scot.) a church building, the congregation or denomination; the (established) Church of Scotland. — kirk'session n. the lowest ecclesiastical court in Scotland, composed of the ministers and elders of a parish.

kirtle (ker'tl) n. a kind of short gown or jacket, an outer petticoat; a bundle of flax, weighing 100 lbs. — kirtled a. [O.E. cyrtl].

kismet (kis'met) n. fate or destiny [Ar. = fate].

kiss (kis) v.t. and v.i. to touch with the lips, in affection or reverence; to touch gently. — to kiss by touching with lips. — kiss'able a. — kiss'curl n. a small lock of hair at temples. — kiss'er n. one who kisses; (Slang) the mouth. — kiss-me-quick a. a small bonnet; a side roll, a pious. — to kiss hands, to kiss the hand of sovereign on accepting office. — to kiss the book, to kiss the New Testament after taking a legal oath. — to kiss the gunner's daughter (Slang) to be flogged while tied to the front of a gun. — to kiss the rod, to accept punishment submissively [O.E. gyssan].

kistvaen (kis-vaen) n. (Archaeol.) a burial-chamber made of flat stones, cup and shales, and covered with earth [O.E. cost, chest, W. maen, a stone].

kit (kit) n. a soldier's outfit, excluding his uniform, a set of tools or implements, personal effects, a wooden tub. — kit-bag n. kit-box n. a box for holding small tools [O.E. uncertain].

kit (kit) n. a contr. of kitten — kit-cat n. cat, a game played with a shuffled deck of cards. — kit'y n. the pool in card games, about the jack.

kit (kit) n. a small fiddle, used by itinerant dancing-masters [etym. unknown].

Kitecat (kit'kat) n. a club, founded in 1773; a half-portrait, 36 by 28 ins. the size adopted by Kneller for portraits of members of the club [fr. Christopher Cat, the proprietor of the premises where the club met].

kitchen (kich'en) n. a room in which food is prepared and cooked, anything savoury eaten along with bread — kitchenette n. a small room combining offices of kitchen, party and scullery. — kit'chen-gar'den n. a garden for raising vegetables for the table. — kitch'en-maid, kitch'en-wench n. kitchen maiden, a scull-hep or refuse-dep of pre-historic origin, of interest to archaeologists. — kitch'en-rance n. a long grate with apparatus for cooking, all heated by a central fire [O.E. cycepe, fr. L. coquina, a kitchen].

kite (kit) n. bird of prey of Falcon family; a sheet of paper, silk, etc., stretched over a light frame and down by means of a cord attached and held from ground. — kite-fly'ing n. a non-committal effort to discover how the public at large will react to some proposal. — box-kite n. a light framework, partly covered with cloth, to carry meteorological instruments to high altitudes [O.E. cyrtl].

kith (krg) n. in phrase kith and kin, friends and acquaintances, as well as blood-relations [O.E. cythth].

kitten (kít'n) n. a young cat;—v.i. to bring forth young cats.—kitt'ish a. like a kitten; playful.—kitt'y n. a pet name for a cat [dim. of cat].

kittiwake (kít'l-wák) n. a species of gull with long grey wings and white head and neck [imit. fr. its cry].

kittle (kít'l) v.i. to tickle;—a. difficult to manage; ticklish; hazardous, intractable.—kitt'ly a. easily tickled.—kittle n. persons difficult to handle [Scand. kittelen].

kitty (kít'l) n. See kitt or kitten.

kiwi (kí-wé) n. a New Zealand flightless bird; the apteryx; (Slang) a non-flying member of the R.A.F. [imit. fr. its cry].

klang (klang) n. the sound of metal striking metal; a complex musical tone, consisting of a fundamental with its harmonics [Ger.].

Klaxon (klak'son) n. electric horn on motor-cars [Protected Trade Name].

kleptomania (klep't-má-ní-a) n. an uncontrollable morbid impulse to steal or secrete things.—kleptoma'nias n. [Gk. klepten, to steal; mania, madness].

click See click.

klieg eyes (klég-íz) n.pl. eye-strain due to the excessive brilliancy of incandescent flood-lighting lamps.—klieg-light n. a powerful incandescent lamp used in film studios for flood-lighting (proper name).

klipspringer (klíp-spring-er) n. a small antelope inhabiting inaccessible rocks in Cape Colony [Afrikaans = cliff-lempier].

klondyking (klon'dl-king) n. the icing of fish in bulk, esp. herrings, for the continental market.

klouf (klóof) n. a ravine; a gully; a mountain cleft [Afrikaans].

knack (nak) n. inborn dexterity; adroitness; mannerism; habit; a toy or plaything.—knack'er n. a maker of toys—pl. castanets; clappers.—knack'ness n. skill.—knack'y a. handy; clever; cunning [etym. uncertain].

knacker (nak'ter) n. one who deals in and disposes of old, worn-out, or diseased horses.—knack'ery n. a slaughter-house for worn-out horses [etym. uncertain].

knag (nag) n. a knot in wood; a peg; a branch of a deer's horn.—knaggy a. knotty; rugged [M.E. knagge, a knot in wood].

knap (nap) v.i. to snap; to split flints for walling;—pr.p. knapping;—pa.t. and pa.p. knapped.—knap'per n. one who breaks stones.—knapping-hamm'er n. [Dut. knappen, to crack].

knapsack (nap'sak) n. a leather bag for food and clothing, borne on the back; a rucksack [Dut. knapsak].

knapweed (nap-wéd) n. a name applied to many plants of the genus Centaurea [fr. E. knep & knob].

knar (nár) n. a knot in a tree or in timber.—knarred a. knotty; gnarled.—knaw (naw) n. a swollen outgrowth from the stem or root of trees [Dut. knarf, knot].

knave (náv) n. a dishonest person; a rascal; a boy; a servant; a playing-card with the representation of a servant or soldier.—knav'ery n. roguery; trickery; sharp practice.—knav'ish a. fraudulent; villainous; mischievous; roguish.—knav'ishly adv. [O.E. cnafa, a boy. Cf. Ger. Knabe, a boy].

knead (néd) v.i. to work up flour into dough; to work or shape anything by pressure; to blend together; to massage.—knead'er n. [O.E. cnedan].

knee (né) n. the joint formed by the articulation of the femur and the tibia, the two principal bones of the leg; a vertical convex curve in a hand-rail; anything of wood or metal bent like a knee;—v.i. to touch with the knees.—knee-breach a. n.pl. breeches reaching and fastened just below the knee-joints, as in court-dress.—knee-cap n. the patella, a flattened bone in front of knee-joint; a covering to protect the knees, esp. of horses.—knee-pad n.

pad made of thick material to protect the knee.—knee-reflex n. the involuntary jerk given by the leg in response to a tap on the knee-cap.—knee-tim'ber n. naturally bent timber suited for shipbuilding, etc. [O.E. cnecol].

knée (nól) v.i. to bend the knee; to fall on the knees; to rest on the knees in prayer.—pa.t. and pa.p. knéeled or knelt.—knée'ling n. [fr. knée].

knell (nól) n. the stroke of a bell rung at a funeral or death; a death-signal; a portent of doom;—v.i. to toll;—v.t. to summon by tolling bell [I.E. cnell].

know (nól) pa.t. of know.

knickerbockers (nik'ter-bok'ters) n.pl. loose breeches gathered in at the knees.—knick'ers n.pl. woman's undergarments; drawers; knickerbockers [fr. Diedrich Knickerbocker, the pseudonym of Washington Irving].

knick-knack (nik-nak) n. a trifle, toy, or trinket.—knick-knack'ery n. knick-knacks collectively [reduplication of knack].

knife (nif) n.—pl. knives (nívz) a cutting instrument;—v.t. to stab with a knife.—knife-board n. a board covered with leather for cleaning knives.—knife-edge n. the wedge-shaped piece of steel with a keen edge serving as the fulcrum of a balance.—to get one's knife into (Colloq.) to have a spite against [O.E. cnif].

knight (nit) n. orig. in feudal times, a young man admitted to the privilege of bearing arms; a person of a rank below baronet, giving the right to prefix Sir to his name, a champion, a minor piece in chess bearing a horse's head—v.t. to dub or create a knight.—knight'er'ant n. a knight who wandered about in search of adventures.—knight'er'antry n.—knight'hood n. the dignity or order of knights.—knight'liness n.—knight'ly a. and adv.—knight bachelor, one who has been knighted but not admitted to any particular Order [O.E. cnicht, youth].

knit (nit) v.i. to form into a knot; to tie; to form by the interlocking of yarn or thread in a series of connected knots by means of needles or pins, to cause to grow together, as a fractured bone; to contract (the brows), to unite closely;—v.t. to be united closely.—pr.p. knitting;—pa.t. and pa.p. knitted.—knit'er n.—knit'ing n. the work of a knitter; the net-work formed by knitting.—knit'ing-needle n. a long needle for knitting threads into stockings, etc.—knit'wear n. knitted garments [O.E. cnyttan].

knives (nívz) pl. of knife.

knob (nob) n. a rounded lump; a hard protuberance or swelling, a boss or stud, small round handle of a door, etc.—knobbed a set with or containing knobs.—knob'iness n.—knob'ing n. first rough dressing of stones from a quarry with a hammer.—knob'by a. full of knobs, lumpy.—knob'kerrie n. In S. Africa, a stick with a large knob on the end, used by the Kafirs as a weapon.—knob-stick n. an older term for black-leg, a workman who refused to go on strike [M.E. knop].

knock (nok) v.t. and v.i. to strike or beat with something hard or heavy; to strike against; to rap; to make a periodic noise, due to a faulty bearing in a reciprocating engine or to pinking in a petrol-engine; in N. America, to disparage, to criticize adversely;—a. a stroke with something heavy; a rap on a door; a blow; a turn at some game or sport.—knock'about n.pl. acrobats who combine skill and fun on the stage.—knock'er n. one who knocks; an ornamental metal attachment on a door.—knock'er-up n. a person who wakens workmen for a lee.—knock-kneed a. having the knees bent inward.—knock-out n. (Slang) surprising news; a blow in a boxing-match which knocks out an adversary [O.E. cnocian].

knoll (nól) n. a small rounded hill; the top of a hill; a hillock; a mound [O.E. cnoll].

knoll Same as knell.

knop (nop) n. a knob; a tufted top; a bud; a round bunch of flowers (O.E. cnopp).

knout (not) n. a complication of threads, cords, or ropes, formed by tying or entangling; in cordage, a method of fastening a rope to an object or to another rope; an epaulet; ribbon folded in different ways to provide a breast-knot, a shoulder-knot, etc.; a cockade; a bond of union; a small group of people, a difficulty; a hard lump, esp. of wood where a branch has sprung from the stem, (Bot.) a node in a grass stem; (Naut.) a measure of speed of ships, equal to one nautical mile (6,080 ft.) per hour; —v.t. to form a knot in; to entangle; —v.i. to form knots, to knit knots for a fringe. —pr.p. knott'ing. —pa.t. and pa.p. knotted. — knotted grass n. a weed found everywhere, a prostrate annual herb, with white or pink flowers and numerous stem joints or knots on the creeping ground-stem. — knottiness n. — knott'ing n. the process of covering knots in wood-work before initial coat of paint. — knotty a. full of knots, rugged, difficult; puzzling, intricate (O.E. cnotta).

knout (nont) n. a whip consisting of leather, and sometimes wire, thong, formerly used in Russia (Russ. knut, a whip).

know (nô) v.t. to be aware of, to have information about; to be acquainted with; to recognize; to have experience, to understand, to have sexual intercourse with; — v.i. to have information or understanding. — pa.t. knew (nô). — pa.p. known. — know-all n. a conceited person who thinks he knows everything. — know'ing a. pretending to know; sly; cute, cunning, clever. — know'ingly adv. — to know the ropes, to know from experience what to do (O.E. canum).

knowledge (nôfê) n. direct perception; understanding, acquaintance with, practical skill, information, learning, sexual intercourse. — know'ledgeable a. well informed (E. know).

knuckle (nukê) n. the joint of a finger; the knee joint of a calf or pig; — v.t. to strike with the knuckles, — v.i. to bend the fingers. — knuck'le-bones n. a game, dibs. — knuck'le-dust n. an iron or brass shield of rings fitting a cross the knuckles, used to deliver murderous blows. — to knuckle down or under, to yield or submit (M.E. knuckel).

knur, knurr (nur) n. a knot. See knar; a wooden ball, used in the game of knur and spell, or trip-ball, the ball being projected into the air and hit with a trip-stick or bat (O.Dut. knurre).

knurl (nerl) n. See nurl.

knut (nut) n. (Slang) a dandy; a fool.

koa (kôa) n. Hawaiian koaia (Native).

koala (ko-â-la) n. a small marsupial of arboreal habit, known in Australia as the Native Bear (Aborig.).

kobalt (kô-balt) See cobalt.

kobold (kô-bôld) n. an ugly dwarf-like, gnomelike in German folklore (Ger.).

Koh-i-noor (kô-i-nô-r) n. a famous diamond weighing 102 carats, now one of the British Crown Jewels, a superb specimen of anything (Pers. koh = mountain of light).

kohl (kôl) n. powdered antimony or lead sulfide used in the East for darkening eyebrows and eyelashes (Ar.).

kohl-rabi (kôl-râ-bi) n. a variety of cabbage with an edible turnip-shaped stem (Ger.).

kola (kô-la) n. an African tree whose seeds or nuts contain a large quantity of caffeine and are used as a stimulant by the natives; an aerated water (Native).

kolinsky (ko-lin'ski) n. Siberian polecat or mink, its fur (Kola Peninsula).

kolkhos (kôl-khôs) n. collective farm in Soviet Russia (Russ.).

Komintern (kom-in-tern') n. See Comintern. koodoo (kôô-dôo) n. the striped antelope of Africa. — Also ku'du (S. Afr.).

kookaburra (kook-ê-bur-â) n. the laughing jackass; the great king-fisher (Austral.).

kop, kople (kop', kop'î) n. a small flattened hill in S. Africa (Dut. kop, a top).

Koran (kô-rân', kô-ran) n. sacred book of Islam, containing revelations received by Mohammed from Angel Gabriel. Also Alkoran, Quran (Ar. quran, reading).

kosher (kô-shgr) a. (of food) pure, clean, esp. meat, made ceremonially clean according to Jewish ordinances. Also kosher (Heb. kasher, proper).

kosmos See cosmos.

kotow, kowtow (kô-, kou-tou') v.t. to perform the Chinese ceremony of prostration by touching the ground with the forehead; to abase oneself, to flawn on someone. — n. the ceremony of kowtowing; an obsequious act (Chin.).

koumiss, kumiss (koo-mis) n. a fermented milk drink prepared as invalid food, an intoxicating beverage from mare's milk (Tatar kumis).

kowtow See kotow.

kraal (krâ) n. a Hottentot or Kaffir village consisting of a group of huts encircled by a stockade, the community of such a village (Dut. fr. Port. curral, a cattle-pen).

Kraken (krâken) n. a huge fabulous sea-monster (Scand.).

krasis (krâ-sis) n. mixture of wine and water used for the Eucharist (Gk.).

kreese Same as kresek.

Kremlin (krêm-lin) n. the fortified area or citadel of a Russian town or city, esp. the citadel of Moscow, the seat of Soviet government (Russ. kreml).

kreosote Same as creosote.

Kreutzer (krôit-zer) n. an old German cap, a Russian Austrian coin equal to half a thaler (100 kr. = 1 golden rouble Kreuz, a cross, such being stamped on coin).

Krilum (kril-yum) n. a substance which, it is claimed, will improve the structure of barren and exhausted soils. (Protected Trade Name). — Also kreese (Malay).

kris (kris) n. Malay sword with a wavy blade.

Krishna (krish-na) n. in Hinduism, the 1st incarnation of Vishnu, the 2nd aspect of the Trimurti. — Shri-Krish na n. the child god (Sans.).

krone (krônê) n. a silver coin of Denmark and Norway. — pl. krone. — Also an old silver coin of Austria once worth about 10d., in Germany, the former ten mark gold piece. — pl. krone.

Kroo (kroo) n. a W. African negro race living on the coast of Liberia known as Kroo-boys. — Also Krou, Kru (Native, Kru).

krypton (krip-ton) n. a non-metallic chemical element belonging to the group of rare-gases, present in the proportion of about one part in twenty millions in the atmosphere. Discovered by Sir W. Ramsay (Gk. kruptein, to conceal).

kshatriya (kshâ-trî-yâ) n. the military caste of the Hindus, ranking second, after the Brahmins (Sans.).

kudos (kû-dôs) n. (Colloq.) fame; glory; credit (Gk.).

kudu Same as koodoo.

kuh-horn (koo-horn) n. a curved horn used by Swiss herdsmen when tending herds (Ger. Kuh, a cow).

Ku Klux Klan (kû-klus klan) n. a lawless American secret society of hooded men, founded c. 1865, to oppose granting of privileges to the freed negroes (Gk. ku-klos, a circle).

kulri (kook-ri) n. a short curved knife with a broad blade, used by Gurkhas (Hind.).

kulak (kôo-lâk) n. a prosperous small-holder in Russia who resisted the efforts of the Soviet to nationalise agriculture (Russ. first, a forestaller).

kultur (kôôl-tôr') n. German conception of the benefits of civilisation to be imposed on all others (Ger. = civilisation).

kumiss Same as koumiss.

kummel (kím-el) n. a liqueur flavoured with cummin and caraway seeds [Ger. = caraway seed].

kumquat (kum'kwot) n. a shrub, native to China and Japan, producing a small orange-like fruit [Chinese = golden orange].

Kuomintang (kwó-mín-táng) n. political party in China, founded by Sun Yat sen (1866-1925) [Chin.].

Kurd (kóord) n. a member of a war-like nomadic race inhabiting Kurdistan, a region on the Turkish-Persian border.

Kursaal (koo'r-sál) n. public room for use of visitors to German spas [Ger. = cure hall].

kvass (kvás) n. Russian beer made from fermented rye [Russ.].

kyang See kiáng.

kybosh See kibosh.

Kyle (kíl) n. W. Scotland name for a narrow channel [Gael. caol, a strait].

kylosis (kí-ló-sis) n. (Med.) club-foot [Gk.].

kyloe (kí-ló) n. one of a breed of small long-horned cattle in the Scottish Hebrides and Highlands [etym. unknown].

kyphosis (kí-fó-sis) n. humpback, angular deformity of the spine [Gk.].

Kyrie (kí-ri-é) n. the words and music of the Kyrie Eleison (kí-ri-é el-é-lí son, kí-ri-é el-í-son) 'Lord, have mercy on us' the part of the service in the R.C. Church which follows the Introit in the Mass; the response in the Anglican communion service after each of the Ten Commandments [Gk.]

L

la (lá) n. (Mus.) available for sixth tone of scale in tonic sol-fa notation.

laager (lá-ger) n. (S. Afr.) an encampment within a circle of wagons; (Mil.) a parking place for army transport vehicles, any temporary camping place.—v.t. to arrange in form of a laager [Cape Dut. lager, a camp].

labarum (lá-bá-rum) n. orig. a military standard of the non-Christian Roman Empire; the imperial standard of Constantine the Great, bearing on it the letters XP (Christ), which became the symbol of the later Christianised Roman Empire [L.].

label (lá-bel) n. paper, card, etc. affixed to anything, denoting its contents, nature, ownership, destination, etc.; (Fig.) a classifying phrase or word applied to persons, etc.; (Lan.) a written appendix to a will; (Her.) fillet with pendants, (Archit.) a dripstone;—v.t. to affix a label to; to identify by a label.—pr.p. la'beling.—pp.p. la'belled [O.Fr. label, a strip].

labellum (lá-bel-lum) n. the posterior petal of a flower of the orchid type [L. labellum, a small lip].

labial (lá-bí-al) a. pert. to the lips, formed by the lips, as certain speech sounds such as p, b, v, o,—n. a sound formed by the lips.—la-bí-ate, -d n. (Bot.) with calyx or corolla formed in two parts, resembling lips [L. labium, lip].

labiodental (lá-bí-d-en-tál) a. pert. to the lips and teeth,—n. a sound made with the lips and teeth.—la-bí-um n. a lip or lip-like structure.—pl. la-bí-ia [L. labium, a lip].

laboratory (lá-bor-á-tor-í) n. a place used for experiments or research in science, pharmacy, etc., or for manufacture of chemicals in industry [Colloq. abbrev. lab.] [L. laborare, to work].

labour (lá-bor) n. exertion of body or mind; toil, work demanding patience and endurance; manual workers collectively or politically; (Med.) the pains of childbirth;—pl. heroic achievements;—v.t. to work strenuously; to take pains; to move with difficulty; (Med.) to suffer the pains of childbirth;

(Naut.) to pitch and roll.—labo'rious a. toilsome; industrious.—labo'riously adv.—labo'riousness n.—la'boured a. constrained and forced, as of literary style.—la'boured n. a worker, esp. one who does manual work.—Labour Exchange, a bureau set up in local areas by the Government, to direct available labour into the appropriate channels.—Labour Party, a political party at home and abroad which champions the interests of the working classes.—labour of love, work undertaken voluntarily without thought of reward [L. labor, work].

Labrador dog (lá-b'ra-dor dog) n. a dog of the Newfoundland breed [fr. Labrador].

labret (lá-bret) n. an ornament inserted into a hole pierced in the lip, worn by some primitive tribes.—lab'ral a.—la'brosse a. having thick lips.—la'brum n. a lip-like structure.—pl. la-bra [L. labrum, a lip].

laburnum (lá-bur-num) n. a small, hardy deciduous tree, with hanging racemes of beautiful yellow flowers.—laburn'in n. an alkaloid found in its unripe seeds [L.].

labyrinth (lá-bí-rinth) n. a system of intricate winding passages; a maze; (Med.) the intricate passages of the internal ear.—labyrinth'al, labyrinth'ian, labyrinth'ine a. [Gk. laburinthos, a maze].

lac, lakh (lak) n. one hundred thousand, as a lac of rupees [Hind. lakh, 100,000].

lac (lak) n. a deep-red resinous substance, the excretion of an insect, found specially on the banyan tree, and used as a dye.—laccic (lak'ík) a. pert. to or produced from lac.—lac'oine n. a colouring matter obtained from shellac.—lac'lake n. a scarlet dye-stuff.—seed-lac n. the resinous substance cleared from twigs, etc.—shell-lac, shel'lac n. the resin melted and cleared of impurities [Hind. lakh, 100,000].

lace (las) n. a string or cord used for fastening dresses, shoes, etc.; a net-like fabric of linen, cotton, silk, with ornamental design interwoven by hand or machine; a tissue of silver or gold threads used as trimming;—v.t. to fasten with a lace, to ornament with lace, to mix, as coffee, with a dash of brandy,—v.t. to be fastened with a lace.—lac'ing n. a fastening formed by a lace threaded through eye-holes, in binding, the cords by which the leaves are fastened to the back-binding of the book; (Colloq.) a thrashing [O.Fr. las, a noose].

Lacedaemonian (lá-se-dé-mó-ní-an) a. pert. to Lacedaemon or Sparta, Spartan lacerate (lá-sej-át) v.t. to tear, to rend; to injure, to afflict sorely.—lac'erable a. capable of being lacerated.—lac'erate, -d a. torn; mangled.—lacera'tion n.—lac'orative a. having the power to tear or injure [L. lacerare, to tear].

lachrymal (lak'rí-mal) a. pert. to or producing tears, as the lachrymal duct, the tear-duct.—n. one of the bones of the face close to tear-duct, a small vessel, in ancient graves, supposed to contain tears of the bereaved.—lach'rymary, lach'rymatory a. containing tears; causing tears to flow, as lachrymatory pipes;—n. a lachrymal vase.—lach'rymose, lac'rymose a. tearful, mournful.—lach'rymously adv. [L. lacrima, a tear].

lack (lak) v.t. and v.t. to be destitute of, to want;—n. deficiency; shortage; need; want.—lack'astre a. dim; wanting in brightness;—n. dimness [M.Dut. lak, deficiency].

lack-a-day (lak'á-dá) interj. exclamation of sorrow, regret, or dismay.—lackada'sial a. affectedly pensive or languid.—lackada'sially adv. [abbrev. of Lack-a-day].

lackey (lak'í) n. a liveried manservant; a footman;—v.t. or v.t. to attend or serve as a lackey. Also lack'ey [O.Fr. laquais].

Laconian (lá-kó-ní-an) a. pert. to Laconia or Sparta,—n. an inhabitant of Sparta.

laconic (lá-kon'ík) a. pert. to the Lacones, or Spartans; (of style) brief; concise; expressing maximum meaning in the minimum of words;

Also lacon'ical. — lacon'ically adv. — lacon'ism, lacon'ism n. a brief, pithy style of speech; terse, sententious saying.

lacquer, lacker (lak'kər) n. a varnish consisting of a solution of shellac in alcohol; — v.t. to cover with a film of lacquer; to varnish [Fr. lacre, a kind of sealing-wax].

lacrosse (la-kroś) n. an outdoor ball-game introduced into England from Canada, played with a crosse or stick which has a net at the end [Fr. la crosse, the crook].

lacteal (lak-tē-əl) a. pert. to milk; milky; resembling chyle; — n. an absorbent vessel conveying chyle from the intestines to the thoracic duct. — lactate n. (Chem.) a salt of lactic acid, and a base. — lactation n. the act of giving or secreting milk, the period during which a mother suckles her child. — lacteous a. resembling milk. — lactescence n. the process of turning milky. — lactescence a. producing milk or white juice. — lactio a. pert. to milk, procured from milk or whey, as lactio acid. — lactiferous a. bearing or conveying milk, producing a thick, milky juice, as a plant. — lactose n. milk-sugar, lactine [L. lacteus, milky].

lacuna (la-kū-na) n. a hollow; a hiatus, an omission. pl. lacunae [L. lacuna, a pit].

lacustral (la-kus-trəl) a. pert. to lakes or swamps. Also lacustrian, lacustrine [L. lacus, a lake].

lad (lad) n. (Am. lads) a young man; a boy, (Colloq.) a reckless man. — lad'sie n. a young boy [M. E. ladde, a serving-man].

ladanum (lad-a-nū) n. a fragrant resin from leaves of a Mediterranean shrub. Also labdanum [Gk. ladanum].

ladder (lad-ər) n. a frame of wood, steel, ropes, etc., consisting of two sides connected by rungs for climbing up, anything resembling a ladder, as a scaffold ladder, a vertical break caused by a defective stitch in the woven fabric, — v.t. to cause a ladder in a stocking, — v.t. to develop a ladder in a stocking, (O. E. hlæder, a ladder).

lade (lad) v.t. to load, esp. a ship or wagon, to draw (fluid) by means of a ladle. — pat. lad'ed. — pa.p. lad'en. — n. (Scot.) watercourse, a mill-race. — lad'ing n. the act of loading, freight [O. E. hladan, to load].

ladle (ladl) n. a long handle spoon for drawing off liquid, — v.t. to draw off with a ladle [O. E. hladan, to lade].

ladrone (la-drōn') n. a robber; a pirate; a rogue [Sp. fr. L. latro, a robber].

lady (lād-ē) n. orig. a woman having authority over a household or estate; a woman of social distinction, position or independent means; a well-bred woman; a wife. pl. ladies. — La'dy n. the title given to the wife of any nobleman ranking below a duke, the title of the daughter of a duke, marquess, or earl, the courtesy title of the wife of a knight or baronet. — la'dybird n. a small beetle usually yellow or red in colour, feeding on plant life. Also la'dybug, la'dy-cow. — La'dy-day n. 25th March, the Feast of the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary. — la'dy-fern n. a common British fern with elegant lady fronds. — la'dyhood n. the condition of being a lady. — la'dy-in-waiting n. a lady in court circles appointed to attend on a Queen or Princess. — la'dyish a. affecting the airs of a lady. — la'dy-kill'er n. a man who imagines he has a fascination for women. — la'dy-like a. like a lady in manner and bearing, gracious, fastidious; (of a man) effeminate. — la'dy-love n. a sweetheart. — la'dyship n. the title of a lady. — la'dy's-maid n. the personal servant of a lady. — lady's man, a man who seems to prefer lady's company to that of men [O. E. hlædige, a kneader of bread].

laeve-rotation (lē-vō-rō-tā-shūn) n. counter-clockwise or left-hand rotation. — laevorotatory a. — laevulose n. fruit-sugar found in honey and certain fruits, so called because it turns the plane of polarised light to the left [L. laevus, left].

lag (lag) v.t. to bind round, as pipes, cistern, etc., with non-conducting material to prevent loss of heat; — n. a boiler-cover; a barrel-stave; piece of lagging material [Scand. lög, a barrel-edge].

lag (lag) a. slow; tardy; — n. he who or that which lags behind; the lag-end; time-lapse; retardation; — v.t. to move slowly; to fall behind. — pr.p. lag'ging. — pa.p. lagged. — lag'gard n. a slowcoach; a listless person. — lag'ger n. a laggard. — lag'ging a. loitering. — lag'gingly adv. [Celt.].

lag (lag) n. (Colloq.) a convict; a ticket-of-leave man [etym. unknown].

lager See laager.

lager-beer (lak-er-bēr) n. a light German beer [Ger. Lager, a store; Bier, beer].

lagoon (la-goon') n. a marsh, shallow pond, or lake, esp. one into which the sea flows; a lake in a coral atoll [It. laguna].

laic (lā-ik) a. lay; secular; — n. a layman. — la'ically adv. — la'icise v.t. to secularise, to render lay or lay [Gk. laos, the people].

laid (lād) put and pa.p. of the verb lay, — a. put down, of paper having a slightly ribbed surface showing the marks of the close parallel wires on which pulp was laid. — laid up, indisposed, (Naut.) dismantled, temporarily out of service, for repairs [fr. verb lay].

lain (lān) pa.p. of verb lie.

lair (lā-er) n. a den or bed of a wild animal; (Scot.) the ground for a grave in a cemetery [O. E. lȳr, a bed].

laird (lā-er) n. (Scot.) a landed proprietor, a landlord (Scots form of lord).

laissez-faire (lā-sā-fer) n. a policy of non-interference. Also lais'ar-faire [Fr. laissez-faire, let do].

laity (lā-ī-tē) n. the people, as distinct from the clergy [See lay].

lake (lā-ik) n. a large sheet of water within land.

lake dwelling n. a prehistoric dwelling built on piles some distance from the shore. — lake let n. a small lake. — la'ky a. pert. to lakes. — Lake District, the region in N.W. England noted for the picturesque beauty of its many lakes and hills [O. E. lac, a lake].

lake (lā-ik) n. a deep red colouring matter consisting of aluminous earth and ochre and other red substance [Fr. laque]. [See lac.]

lakh Same as lao, 100,000.

Lallans (la-lāns) n. a modern literary form of broad Scots incorporating words from various dialects [Broad Scots. — lowlands].

lam (lam) v.t. (Slang) to beat, to flog [Scand. lama, to beat].

lama (lā-mā) n. a Buddhist priest in Tibet. — La'maism n. that form of Buddhist religion practised in Tibet, Mongolia, etc. — la'masery n. a Tibetan monastery. — Da'la-La'ma n. or Grand Lama, the chief of the lamas [Tib. blama, a spiritual teacher].

lamb (lāmb) n. the young of a sheep; the flesh of lamb as food; a young and innocent person. — v.t. to bring forth lambs. — lamb'kin, lamb'ling n. a little lamb. — lamb'like a. gentle. — lamb'skin n. dressed skin of lamb with wool on, for rugs, slippers, etc. [O. E. lamb, a lamb].

lambent (lāmb-ent) a. playing on the surface; gleaming, flickering. — lamb'ency n. [L. lambere, to lick].

lame (lām) a. crippled in a limb; hobbling; (Fig.) unsatisfactory, as an excuse; imperfect; — v.t. to cripple. — lame-duck n. a defaulter; bankrupt; temporarily disabled ship. — lame'y ale — lame'ness n. — lām'ish a. rather lame [O. E. lama].

lamé (la-mā) n. a textile containing metal threads giving a gold or silver effect [Fr.].

lamella (la-mel-ā) n. a thin plate-like structure or scale. — pl. lamell'ae. — lam'ellar, lam'ellate a. composed of thin plates or scales.

Lamellibranchia'ta n. a class of molluscs or shell-fish which are bilaterally symmetrical bivalves, such as oysters, mussels [L. lamella, a thin plate].

lament (la-'ment') v.t. to utter cries of sorrow; to bemoan; to mourn for; —v.i. to deplore; —n. a heartfelt expression of sorrow; an elegy or dirge. —lam'entable a. grievous; sad; mean.

—lam'entably adv. —lamentation n. the act of lamenting; audible expression of grief. —Book of Lamentations (Bib.) one of the poetical books of the Old Testament, embodying the lamentations of Jeremiah. —lament'ed a. mourned. —lament'ing a. grieving. —lament'ingly adv. [L. lamentari, to wall].

lamina (lam'i-na) n. a thin plate or scale lying over another; (Bot.) the blade of a leaf. —pl. lam'inæ. —lam'inable, lam'inar, lam'inary a. consisting of, or resembling, thin plates. —Lamina'ria n. genus of seaweed with large leathery fronds. —lam'inate v.t. to cause to split into thin plates; —v.i. to split into layers. —lam'inate, —d a. formed of thin plates; stratified. —lamina'tion n. an arrangement in thin layers. —laminif'erous a. consisting of laminae [L. lamina, a thin plate].

Lammas (lam-'as) n. the feast of first-fruits, or 'the loaf-mass' festival of Aug. 1st (O.E. hlaf, a loaf; maesse, a feast).

lamp (lamp) n. a vessel containing combustible oil to be burned by a wick, or inflammable gas from a jet; any light-giving contrivance. —lampad'omaney n. divination by the flame of a burning torch. —lamp-black n. a fine soot formed by the smoke of a burning lamp; the soot formed by the condensation of smoke from burning resinous substances; the pigment from this soot. —lamp-burn'er n. the part of a lamp holding the wick. —lamp-chim'ney or —glass n. the glass funnel of an oil-lamp. —to smell of the lamp, to show trace of great labour and study, said of literary work (Gk. lampas, a torch).

lampas (lam-'pas) n. a patterned material of silk and wool used in upholstery (Fr.).

lampoon (lam-'poon') n. a bitter personal satire, usually in verse; abusive or scurrilous publication; —v.t. to abuse in written satire; to libel. —lampoon'er n. —lampoon'ery n. (O.Fr. lampoon, a drinking song).

lamprey (lam-'pri) n. an eel-like fish with a round, sucking mouth by which it attaches itself to rocks and stones [L. lampræ, to lick; pelra, a rock].

lanary (lā-'na-ri) n. a store-place for wool —lan'ate, —d a. woolly; (Bot.) covered with fine hairs resembling wool [L. lana, wool].

Lancastrian (lang-kas-'tri-an) a. pert. to the royal house or dukes of Lancaster.

lance (lāns) n. a former war-weapon consisting of a spear-head on a long wooden shaft; the soldier armed with a lance; —v.t. to pierce with a lance; to open with a lancest. —lan'ce-er or poral n. a private soldier with the temporary rank of a corporal. —lan'ceolate a. (Bot.) having the shape of a lance-head; tapering at both ends. Also lan'ceolar. —lan'cer n. a cavalry soldier armed with a lance; —pl. a square dance, like quadrilles. —lan'est n. a small two-edged surgical knife. —lan'est-arch n. narrow, pointed arch. —lan'est-win'dow n. a type of window, tall and pointed, common in early Ecclesiastical Architecture, occurring usually in groups of three. —lan'eiform a. shaped like a lance. —a free lance, one who acts on his own initiative; a journalist not attached to the staff of any particular newspaper (O.Fr. lance, a light spear).

lancinate (lan-'e-nāt) v.t. to tear; to lacerate [L. lancinare, to tear].

land (land) n. earth; the solid matter of surface of globe; any area of the earth; ground; soil; the inhabitants of a country; real estate; —v.t. to set on shore; —v.i. to go on shore; to disembark; (Aero.) to bring an aircraft to rest on land or water; —land agent, a person employed by an estate-owner to collect rents, let farms, etc. —land'er-my n. one of the Women's Services recruited in both World Wars to work on the land. —land-breeze n. an off-shore current of air. —land-crab n. a crab, which lives on land but breeds in the sea. —land'ed a. pert. to, or possessing, real estate; (Slang) left in the lurch or in an awkward situation. —land' fall n. sighting of land by a ship at sea. —land' girl n. a member of the Women's Land Army. —land'hold'er n. a proprietor of land. —land' ing n. the act of coming to land, disembarkation; the level part of a staircase between two flights of steps; the part of a quayside where passengers land. —land'ing-gear, n. the wheeled under-carriage of an aeroplane on which it rests when landing or taking off. —land'ing-net n. a net used by anglers for landing a fish already caught by rod. —land'ing-place n. point of disembarkation on a quayside. —land'ing-stage n. a small quayside or (sometimes) floating pier at which passengers and cargo are landed from sea-going vessels. —land' lady n. the owner of estate or property who leases land to tenants; one who lets rooms in a house, with or without service, the proprietrix of an inn. —land'less a. without land or property. —land'look v.t. to enclose by land. —land'lord n. the lord of a manor; the owner of houses rented to tenants, the proprietor of an inn, etc. —land'club'ber n. a landman (term used by sailors); one who knows little or nothing about boats. —land'mark n. a mark to indicate a boundary; any outstanding or elevated object indicating general direction or distinguishing a particular locality. —land' mine n. military high-explosive bomb with great destructive power. —land'owner n. one who owns land. —land'rail n. a corn-crake, a British bird, wintering in Africa, with a raucous cry frequently heard in corn-fields. —land'scape n. that portion of land which the eye can comprehend in a single view; a pictorial representation of an actual or imagined inland scene; a prospect. —landscape gardener, one who is employed professionally to lay out gardens according to a specified plan. —land'scapist n. a painter of landscape. —land'slide n. a fall of rock from a hillside or cliff; (Fig.) a sudden overwhelming change of public opinion. —land'slip n. a landslide. —lands man n. a non-seafaring person. —land' steward n. one who manages a large estate. —land'survey'or n. one who measures land and draws plans or maps. —land-tax n. a tax on land or property built on the land. —land' wait'er n. a Customs official who superintends unloading of goods from a vessel. —land'ward a. situated near the land; lying toward the land away from sea. —land'wind n. an off-shore wind. —landed interest, the combined interests of a landowning community (O.E. land, land). —landau (lan-'daw) n. a carriage, the top of which may be opened and thrown back. —landaulet, landaulette n. a small type of landau; a motor-car with folding hood (fr. Landau (in Germany)).

Landé (long'd) n. a sandy heather-grown tract along N.W. coast of France, now planted with pine-tree forests. Also landes (Fr.).

landgrave (land-'grāv) n. a German nobleman, corresponding in rank to an earl in England, and a count in France; —land'gravin n. the wife of a landgrave. —landgraviat n. the estates of a landgrave (Ger. Land, land; Graf, a count).

lane (lān) n. a narrow track between hedges or across fields; a narrow street or road; (Fig.) a specified route followed by ocean-going vessels (O.E. lane, an alley).

language (land-'gwā) n. speech; tongue; expression of ideas by words or written symbols; mode of speech peculiar to a nation. —lang' uaged a. —dead language, a language not spoken now, as opposed to living language (Fr. langue, language).

Langue d'oo (long-'dok) n. name for the Romance languages of S. France. —Langue'doe

a. a province of S. France in Middle Ages; French wines from the district. — Langue d'oui (long-dwè) or Langue d'oil, Romance language of France other than that of S. France [Fr. langue, a tongue; oc, yes; out, yes].

languid (lang-gwid) a. feeble; listless; flagging from exhaustion. — lang'uidly adv. — lang'uidness n. — lang'uish v.i. to become languid; to droop with weariness; to become wishful. — lang'uish a. drooping; sentimental. — lang'uishingly adv. — lang'uishment n. tenderness of look. — lang'uous n. lassitude; sentimental softness. — lang'uous a. languid [L. languere to be weary].

langur (lang-góór) n. a long-tailed Indian monkey esp. the sacred Hanuman of the Hindus [Hind.].

laniard (lan-yard) Same as lanyard laniferous (lan-if-er-us) a. bearing wool, fleecy. Also lanig'erous (L. lana, wool; ferre, gerere, to bear).

lank (langk) a. drooping; weak and thin, long and straight, as hair. — lank'y a. slender. lank'ly adv. — lank'ness, lank'iness n. [O.E. hlanc, lean].

lanolin, lanoline (lan-ó-lin) n. an oily substance obtained from wool [L. lana, wool; oleum, oil].

lantern (lan-tern) n. something portable or fixed, enclosing a light and protecting it from wind, rain, etc.; a little dome over a roof to give light, a square turret placed over the junction of the cross in a cathedral, with windows in each side of it; the light chamber of a lighthouse. — lan-tern n. obsolete form of lantern, the sides of which were often made from horn. — lan-tern-jaws n. hollow cheeks. — Chinese lantern, a coloured, collapsible paper lantern. — dark lantern, a lantern with sliding shutter to obscure the light. — magic lantern, an instrument by means of which magnified images of small objects or pictures are thrown on a screen in a dark room [Fr. lanterne, a lamp].

lanthanum (lan-than-um) n. a white, malleable metallic element, one of the rare earths, allied to cerium (symbol La) [Gk. lanthanai, to be hidden].

lanyard, laniard (lan-yard) n. a short rope or line for fastening, a cord, with knifecut tied, worn round the neck [Fr. lanière, a rope].

Laodicean (lā-ó-dí-si-an) a. like the Christians of Laodicea, lukewarm in religion [Rev. 3] [Fr. Laodicéen].

lap (lap) n. the loose part of a garment, that part of the clothing between waist and knees of a person who is sitting, the part of the body thus covered, an overlying part of any substance or fixture; a course or circuit, as in bicyclemanship, etc.; — v.t. to lay over or on, — v.i. to be spread or laid on or over, to be turned over or on; to be made even. — lap-dog n. a small pet dog fondled in the lap. — lapel n. that part of a coat or dress which laps over the facing (obs. lapel), lapel's, — lapelled a. — lap'ful n. that which fills a lap. — lap'pet n. a part of a garment which hangs loose, a fold of flesh. — lap'peted a. — lap-stone n. a stone held in the lap, on which shoemakers hammer leather [O.E. lappa, loosely].

lap (lap) v.t. to wrap or twist round; to enfold; to involve [M.E. wappen, a form of wrappen].

lap (lap) v.i. to take up food or drink by licking, to make a sound like an animal lapping its food; — v.t. to lick up; to wash or flow against. — pr. p. lap'ping; — pa. p. lapped [O.E. lapan, to drink].

lapidary (lap-i-dar-i) a. pert. to stones or to the art of cutting stones; pert. to inscriptions and monuments; — n. one who is skilled in the cutting, polishing and engraving of precious stones; a dealer in precious stones; a treatise on precious stones. Also lapid'arian, lap'idarist, lap'idist. — lapides'cence n. the process of turning into stone. — lapides'cent a. petrifying. — lapidification n. — lapid'ify v.t. to turn into stone; — v.i. to become petrified. — pr. p. lapid-ifying. — pa. p. lapid'ified. — lapil'lus n. a small rounded fragment of lava ejected from a volcano in eruption. — pl. lapil'li. — lapil'liform a. shaped like a small stone. — lap'is-lazu'li n. an opaque mineral, sapphire-blue in colour, much used in jewellery, ornaments, mosaics, etc. [L. lapidis, a stone].

Lapp (lap) n. a native of Lapland. Also Lap'lander. — Lap'landish, Lapp'ish a.

lapse (laps) v.t. to slip or fall; to fall to maintain a standard of conduct; to pass from one proprietor to another because of negligence, to pass slowly or by degrees. — n. a slip or fall; a gliding; a passing of time; an error of omission; failure to do one's duty; (Lawn) termination of legal possession through negligence. — lapsed a. no longer valid or operative, apostate [L. lapsus, a fall].

lapwing (lap-wing) n. a crestless bird of the plover family, commonly called pewit (from its cry) [O.E. hleapwince fr. hleapan, to run; wince, that which turns].

Lar (lar) n. one of the household duties of the Romans. — pl. Lares (lá-réz) [L.].

larboard (lar-bórd) n. an obsolete nautical term for the left-hand side of a ship looking towards the bow. Now called port. — a. pert. to left side of ship [etym. doubtful].

larceny (lar-sen-i) n. theft — lar'cenis n. one guilty of larceny; a thief — lar'cenus a. thieving; pilfering [O.E. larccen, theft].

larch (lárch) n. a genus of cone-bearing deciduous tree [L. larix].

lard (lárd) n. the clarified fat of swine. — v.t. to smear with fat, to stuff, as meat or fowl, with bacon or pork; (fig.) to embellish, as to lard one's speech with metaphors. — lar'daceous a. fatty. — lar'dy a. [L. lardum, the fat of bacon].

larder (lárd-er) n. a pantry where meat and food stuffs are kept, supply of provisions [O.E. lardier, a bacon-tub].

large (lárg) a. of great size, spacious; extensive, liberal, numerous; extravagant. — adv. in a large way. — large hearted a. generous, liberal. — large'ly adv. — large'ness n. largeness, magnanimity. — large'ish a. fairly big. — at large, free, escaped from prison [L. largus, abundant].

largess (lárg-es) n. a gift; a donation. Also lar'gesse [L. largari, to give freely].

larghetto (lárg-ét-ó) a. (Mus.) rather slow, less slow than largo. — lar go a. and adv. slow [It. larco, slow].

lariat (lá-rí-at) n. a lasso, a rope or thong of leather, with a noose for catching wild horses, etc. [Sp. la reata, the rope].

lark (lárk) n. a frolic; a prank; — v.t. to play practical jokes [O.E. lar, play].

lark (lárk) n. a small, singing bird. — v.i. to catch larks. — lark'spur n. the delphinium [M.E. laverock, a lark].

larrikin, larakin (lá-rí-kin) n. (Austral.) a rough, a disorderly person. — a. rosy. — lar'ikinism n. [conn. with lark].

larrup (lá-rup) v.t. (Collog.) to thrash [Dut. larpen, to beat].

larva (lá-rv-a) n. an insect in the caterpillar grub, or maggot stage. — pl. lar'vae. — lar'val a. [L. larva, a ghost].

larynx (lá-ri-ŋk) n. the upper part of the trachea or windpipe; a cartilaginous cavity containing the vocal cords. — pl. lar'ynxes (laryn-ces). — lar'ynx, — lar'yngeal, lar'yngean a. pert. to the larynx. — lar'yngeal n. inflammation of the larynx. — laryngeal *o*scope n. a special mirror for examining the larynx [Gk. larynx, the throat].

lascar (lá-skar) n. a native East-Indian sailor employed on European vessels [Pers. laskhar, an army].

lascivious (lá-sív-i-us) a. loose; lustful; wanton. — lasciv'iously adv. — lasciv'iousness n. [L. lascivus, wanton].

lash (lash) n. the thong of a whip; a cord; a stroke with a whip; a satirical or sarcastic reproof; an eyelash; — v.t. to strike with a lash; to dash against, as waves; to bind with a rope; to scourge with bitter criticism;—v.t. to ply the whip.—lash'ing n. the act of whipping; the ropes fastening anything securely;—pl. an abundance [etym. doubtful].

lass (las) n. a young woman; a girl; a sweet-heart.—lass'ie n. a little girl [prob. Scand.].

lassitude (las-i-tüd) n. exhaustion of body or mind; languor [L. lassus, faint].

lasso (las-dö) n. a long rope with a noose, used for catching wild horses; a lariat.—pl. lassos(s)—v.t. to catch with the lasso [Sp. fr. L. laqueus, a noose].

last (last) a. following all the rest; most unlikely; final; supreme;—adv. finally; immediately before in time; in conclusion;—n. final appearance.—the Last Day, the Day of Judgment.—the Last Supper, the memorial supper celebrated by Jesus on the eve of his betrayal.—at last, finally [contr. of latest].

last (last) n. a mould of the human foot in wood on which shoes are made or repaired;—v.t. to fit with a last.—to stick to one's last, to attend diligently to one's business [O.E. last, a trace or track].

last (last) n. a weight estimated at 4000 lbs. but varying according to different commodities.—last'age n. the freight of a vessel [O.E. laest, a load].

last (last) v.t. to continue in time; to endure; to remain unimpaired in strength or quality; to suffice.—last'ing a. durable; permanent [O.E. laestan, to continue on a track].

latakia (lat-a-köa) n. a superior quality of Turkish tobacco from Latakia in Syria.

latch (dach) n. a small piece of iron or wood used to fasten a door; a catch;—v.t. to fasten with a latch.—latch'et n. the thong or lace fastening a shoe.—latch'key n. a key used for raising the latch of a door; a pass-key [O.E. laecan, to catch].

late (lä't) a. behindhand; coming after; delayed; earlier than the present time; occurring at the close of a period of time; no longer in office, deceased;—adv. after the usual time; not long ago, lately; far into the night, day, week, etc.—late'ly adv.—late'ness n. tardiness.—lat'er a. (comp. of late) subsequent; posterior.—lat'est a. (superl. of late) longest after the usual time; most recent or up-to-date, as news.—lat'iter (lat'qr) a. (var. of later) later or more recent; the second of two just mentioned; modern.—lat'iterly adv.—lat'ish a. somewhat late.—of late, recently [O.E. laet, slow].

lateen (la-tén) a. applied to a triangular sail common in the Mediterranean [Fr. fr. L. latina, Latin].

latent (lä'tent) a. not visible or apparent; dormant; hid; concealed.—la'tence, la'tency n.—la'tently adv.—latent heat, heat which is absorbed in changing a body from solid to liquid, or liquid to gas, without increasing its temperature [L. latere, to lie hid].

lateral (lat'g-räl) a. relating to the side [L. latus, lateral, side].

Lateran (lat'e-rän) n. the Pope's cathedral Church in Rome, built on the site of the palace of Plautius Lateranus (executed A.D. 68);—a. pert. to this Church.

latex (lä'teks) n. the milky sap of trees, plants; the milky juice of the rubber tree [L. latex, a liquid].

lath (läth) n. a thin, narrow strip of wood to support plaster, slate, etc.—pl. laths (läthz);—v.t. to line with laths.—lath'en a. [O.E. laetha, a thin strip].

lath (läTH) n. a machine-tool for turning articles of wood, metal, etc. [Scand.].

lather (läTH'qr) n. foam or froth made with soap and water; froth from sweat;—v.t. to spread over with lather;—v.i. to form a lather [O.E. leathor, lather].

latifoliate (lat-i-fö'll-ät) a. broad-leaved [L. latus, broad; folium, a leaf].

Latin (lat'in) a. pert. to Latium, a part of ancient Italy with Rome as its chief cen'tre, or to its inhabitants; written or spoken in the language of the Latins; pert. to the Roman Catholic Church (as distinct from the Greek Church);—n. an inhabitant of ancient Latium; the language of ancient Latium; a member of one of the modern Latin races descended linguistically from the ancient Latins.—Lat'ian a.—Lat'in'er n. one who knows Latin.—Lat'inise v.t. to give a Latin form to; to translate into Latin;—v.t. to use Latin words.—Lat'inism n. a Latin idiom.—Lat'inist n. a Latin scholar or expert.—Latin'ity n. the Latin language and its idiom.—Latin Church, the Roman Catholic Church using Latin as its official language.—Latin languages, those languages derived mainly from Latin as French, Italian, Spanish, Rumanian, as opposed to Teutonic derived languages as English, Danish, Norwegian, etc.—Latin Quarter, part of Paris where University and Art students live and work.—Classical Latin, the language of the great Roman writers of the period (80 B.C. - A.D. 200)—Dog Latin, vulgar Latin.

latitude (lat'i-tüd) n. distance, measured in degrees, north or south of the Equator; any region defined according to latitude; the angular distance of a heavenly body from the ecliptic; (Fig.) breadth of signification, deviation from a standard, esp. religious or ethical; scope; range.—latitud'inal a. pert. to latitude.—latitudina'rian a. broad; liberal, esp. in religious principles;—n. one who departs from, or is indifferent to, strictly orthodox religious principles.—latitudina'rianism n.—latitudinous a. having latitude [L. latitudo, breadth].

latrine (la trén) n. a water-closet, esp. in barracks, hospitals, etc. [L. latrina, bath].

latten (lat'en) n. a metallic alloy of copper and zinc, with appearance of brass, used for church ornaments; sheet tin; non-plate covered with tin.—gold latten, very thin sheet gold [Ger. latte, a thin plate].

latter See late.

lattice (lat'is) n. a net-like framework of wood, metal, etc., formed by strips, laths, or bars crossing each other diagonally, a beaded window thus formed;—v.t. to furnish with a lattice.—lattice-work n. a trellis [Fr. latte, a lath].

Latvian (lat'vi-an) a. pert. to the Baltic state of Latvia, Lettish.

laud (lawd) v.t. to praise in words or singing; to extol.—n. a eulogy; praise.—pl. in R.C. services, the prayers immediately after matins.—laudability n. praiseworthiness.—laud'able a. commendable.—laud'ableness n.—laud'ably adv.—laudation n. praise, eulogy, the act of praising highly.—laud'atory a. expressing praise [L. laudare, to praise].

laudanum (law'da-num) n. a preparation of opium in spirit of wine, tincture of opium [same word as ladanum, transferred to a different drug].

laugh (lä't) v.t. to express mirth spontaneously; to make an involuntary explosive sound of amusement; to be merry or gay;—n. mirth peculiar to human species; laughter.—laugh'able a. droll; ludicrous; comical.—laugh'ableness n.—laugh'ably adv.—laugh'er n.—laugh'ing a. happy; merry.—laugh'ing-gas n. nitrous oxide gas used as anæsthetic in dental operations.—laugh'ing-hyæna n. the spotted hyæna with a peculiar cry like a human laugh.—laugh'ing-jack'ass n. the great kingfisher of Australia.—laugh'ingly adv.—laugh'ing-stock n. object of ridicule.—laugh'ter n. merriment; audible expression of amusement.—to laugh in (or up) one's sleeve, to laugh inwardly [O.E. hlthan, to laugh].

launch, lanch (law'nsh, länsh) v.t. to throw as a lance; to let fly; to cause to slide into the water for the first time, as a ship; to initiate, as an attack; to start a new activity;—v.i. to go into the water; to push out to sea; to go forth; to expatiate, as in talk; to en-

Meissen shell dish

Delft plate

DECORATIVE CHINA and PORCELAIN

Nymphenburg figurine

Spies cover and basin

20th century vase

1st to 2nd century glass

4th century glass

GLASS

16th century glass

Enamelled glass 1616

* Ruby glass 1700

Stained glass mid 12th century bark upon;—n. the sliding of a ship into the water for the first time [M.E. lanchen, to drop].

launch (lawnsh, lánsh) n. the largest size of boat carried on a warship or other vessel; a boat driven by steam, petrol, or electricity; a pinnace (Sp. lancha, a pinnace).

laundry (lawndri, lán-dri) n. a place where clothes are washed, dried and ironed; the process of washing clothes, etc.; clothes thus washed, etc.—laund'ry v.t. to wash linen;—n. (Mining) a long hollow trough for conveying powdered ore from the box where it is bruised.—laund'erer n.—laund'ress n. a woman who washes, irons, dresses, linen, etc. [L. lavandus, to be washed].

laurel (lor'el) n. evergreen shrub, much used formerly to make wreaths symbolical of honour;—pl. (Fig.) honours;—n. consisting of laurel.—lau'reate a. crowned with laurel, n. esp. in Poet. Laureate, a poet attached to the Royal Household;—v.t. to crown with a laurel wreath; to confer a University degree on, esp. for outstanding literary merit.—lau'reate-ship n.—lau'relled a. [L. laurus, a bay-tree].

lava (dáv'a) n. the molten rock, ejected by volcano, hardening as it cools [It. fr. L. lavare, to wash].

lavabo (la-vá-bó) n. ceremonial washing of a celebrant's hands after the offertory and before the eucharist, esp. in R.C. service; the towel or basin used in this ceremony; a wash-bowl in a monast'ry.

lave (dáv) v.t. to wash, to bathe;—v.i. to bathe; to wash oneself.—lav'atory n. a place for washing; a privy [L. lavare, to wash].

lavender (lav'en-dér) n. an aromatic plant of mint family, yielding an essential oil; pale-blue colour of lavender-flowers;—v.t. to sprinkle or perfume with lavender.—lav'ender-water n. a refreshing liquid perfume made of sprigs of wine and lavender-oil [Fr. lavande, fr. L. lavare, to wash].

laverock (lav' láv'ér-ok) n. a lark [M.E. laverock, a lark].

lavish (lav'ish) a. prodigal; over-generous; extravagant; ample;—v.t. to expend or bestow extravagantly; to squander.—lav'ishly adv.—lav'ishment n.—lav'ishness n. [O.E. lufan, to pour out].

law (law) n. a rule established by authority; a body of rules the practice of which is authorised by a community or state; legal science, established usage; a rule, principle, or maxim of science, art, etc.; the legal profession, legal procedure; (Theol.) the Jewish or Moslem code, as distinct from the Gospel.—law'abiding a. well-behaved; conforming to the law.—law'court n. a court in which law-cases are heard and judged.—law'ful a. allowed by law; legitimate.—law'fully adv.—law'fulness n.—law'giver n. a legislator.—law'less a. not conforming to the law; violent.—law'lessly adv.—law'lessness n.—Law'Lord n. a peer in the House of Lords who holds, or has held high judicial office, and is qualified to be a member of the highest Court of Appeal in England; (Scot.) a judge of the Court of Session.—law'monger n. a second-rate lawyer.—law'off'icer n. a legal adviser of the Government.—law'suit n. a process in law for recovery of a supposed right.—law'term n. a word or phrase peculiar to legal documents, etc.; a period in the year when the law-courts sit.—law'yer n. a practitioner of law; a solicitor.—common law, body of laws established more by custom than by definite legislation.—written law, statute law, codified and written down, as distinct from Common law [O.E. lagu, a thing laid down].

lawn (law'n) n. an open space between woods; a stretch of closely-cut, carefully-tended grass.—lawn'mower n. a machine for cutting grass.—lawn'tenn'is n. an outdoor game played on a court of grass, gravel, etc., by two or four persons with racquets and balls [O.Fr. lauande, a plain].

lawn (lawn) n. a fine linen or cambric;—a. made of lawn (fr. Laon, a town in France).

lax (laks) a. slack; flabby; loose, esp. in moral sense; unrestrained; not constipated.—lax'ative a. having purgative effect;—n. an aperient.—lax'ity, lax'ness n. slackness; looseness of moral standards; want of exactness.—lax'y adv. [L. laxus, loose].

lay (lá) v.t. to place or put down; to apply; to beat down, as corn; to cause to subside; to exorcise, as an evil spirit; to spread on a surface; to wager; to produce; to prepare; to station, as an ambush; to form, as a plot; to sight or aim a gun; to set out dishes, etc. (on a table); to charge, as with a responsibility;—v.i. to produce eggs.—pr.p. lay'ing.—pa.p. laid.—n. a situation; disposition; (Slang) field of operations; a line of business; the twist in a strand of rope.—lay'er n. one who, or that which lays, as a hen-laver, hen, etc.; a thickness or coating laid down, a stratum of rock or vegetation the shoot of a plant partly covered with earth, thus laid to encourage propagation.—lay'ering n. the artificial propagation of plants by layers.—lay-off n. a slack time in industry.—lay-out n. a garden is laid out; the design or plan, as of that which.

—to lay about one, to hit out vigorously in all directions.—to lay down the law, to assert dogmatically.—to lay in, to gather together, as a store of provisions.—to lay it on (Colloq.), to exaggerate; to charge exorbitantly.—to lay off, to discard; to steer (a ship) away from land.—to lay oneself out, to take great trouble over.—to lay oneself open, to expose oneself to (as attack, criticism).—to be laid up, to be confined to bed by illness, (of a ship, motor, etc.) to be temporarily out of service.—to lay waste, to devastate; to pillage [O.E. leagan, to lay].

lay (lá) n. a song; a narrative poem such as was recited by minstrels [O.Fr. lai, a song].

lay (la) a. pert. to the laity, as distinct from the clergy; unprofessional.—la'icize v.t. to deprive of clerical character.—la'icity n.—lay'broth'er n. a servant in a monastery.—lay'figure n. a jointed figure used by artists in imitation of the human form; a person of rather negative character.—lay'man n. one of the laity, or people, one who is not an expert in a branch of knowledge.—lay'read'er n. one who is not a clergyman, he is authorised to read the Scripture lessons during a Church service.—lay'sis ter n. a woman who serves the nuns in a convent (Gk. laos, the people).

layette (lá-yet') n. a complete outfit for a newborn baby [Fr.].

lazar (lá-ár) n. a person afflicted with a loathsome disease, like Lazarus, the beggar [fr. Lazarus, the beggar, Luke 16].

laze (dáz) v.i. (Colloq.) to be lazy; to lounge—n. a lazy time [fr. lazier].

lazy (dáz) a. disinclined to exertion; slothful;—v.t. to be lazy.—la'zily adv.—la'ziness n.—la'zy-bed, n. a seed-bed for potatoes.—la'zy-bones, n. a lazy fellow; an idler [O.Fr. lasche, weak].

lea (lé) n. a meadow; land left untilled; pastureage [O.E. leah, a field].

leach (léch) v.t. to wash by causing water to pass through; (Bot.) to remove salts from soil by percolation;—v.i. to pass through by percolation;—n. a vessel used for leaching. Also leach.—leach'y a. [O.E. leccan, to moisten].

lead (led) n. a well-known malleable bluish-grey metal, ductile and heavy, used for roofing, pipes, etc.; a plummet for sounding ocean depths; a thin strip of type metal to separate lines of print; graphite for pencils;—pl. sheets of lead for roof coverings;—a. made of, or containing lead.—lead'ed a. fitted with lead; set in lead, as panes of glass.—lead'en a. made of lead; heavy; dull.—lead'en-heart'ed a. callous; depressed.—lead'pencil n. a pencil

- containing black lead.—lead-poisoning n. a form of poisoning called plumbism caused by lead being absorbed into the blood and tissues.—swinging the lead (Slang) trying to evade a job [O.E. lead, lead].
- lead (léd) v.t. to show the way; to guide; to direct; to persuade; to precede; (Cards) to play the first card of a round;—v.i. to go in front and show the way; to outstrip; to conduct; to tend to;—n. precedence; guidance; direction; priority; principal part in a play or film; an electric wire or cable; the first card played in a card-game; a dog's chain or leash.—lead'er n. a guide; a conductor; a commander; the leading editorial in a newspaper; the foremost horse in a team; (Mus.) a performer who leads an orchestra or choir; (Print.) a series of dots (...) to guide the eye across the page.—leaderette n. a brief editorial.—lead'ership n. the state or function of a leader.—lead'ing n. direction; the act of guiding.—lead'ing-art'icle n. a leader or editorial in a newspaper.—lead'ing-lad'y, —man n. the actress (or actor) playing the principal rôle.—lead'ing-question n. (Law) a question so phrased as to suggest the answer expected.—lead'ing-strings n.pl. strap or cord used to support a young child learning to walk; (Fig.) a state of undue dependence.—to lead astray, to tempt from virtue [O.E. leadian, to lead].
- leaf (léf) n. a thin deciduous shoot from the stem or branch of a plant; anything resembling a leaf in shape or thinness; part of a book containing two pages; side of a double door or a shutter; one of the sections of a telescope table; a hinged flap; a very thin beaten plate, as of gold—pl. leaves.—v.t. to shoot out leaves.—pr.p. leaf'ing.—pa.p. leafed.—leaf'age n. leaves collectively; foliage.—leaf'iness n.—leaf'less a. devoid of leaves.—leaf'let n. a tiny leaf; a printed sheet advertisement, notice of meeting, etc.—leaf'met'al n. metal, such as gold or silver, beaten thinner than foil, and used for decoration.—leaf'mould n. leaves decayed and reduced to mould, used as manure.—leaf'y a. full of leaves.—to turn over a new leaf, to reform [O.E. leaf, leaf].
- league (lég) n. an old nautical measure equal to three geographical miles [O.Fr. league, fr. (L.L.) leuca, a Gallic mile of 1500 paces].
- league (lég) n. a compact made between nations or individuals for mutual aid and the promoting of common interests; an association, as of football clubs, for match games to be played during a season;—v.t. to combine in an association [Fr. liquer, a conspiracy].
- leaguer (lég-er) n. a military camp, esp. a siege camp [Dut. leger, a camp].
- leak (lék) n. a crack, crevice, fissure, or hole in a vessel; the oozing of liquid from such; (Elect.) an escape of electrical current from a faulty conductor;—v.i. to let fluid into, or out of, a defective vessel.—leak'age n. an oozing, or quantity of liquid which passes through a defect in a vessel; (Fig.) the giving away of secrets, news, etc., through unauthorised channels.—leak'iness n.—leak'y a. having leaks.—spring a leak, to develop a crack or flaw [Scand. leka, a drip].
- leal (lé) a. faithful; loyal; true.—Land o' the Leal (Scot.) heaven [var. of loyal].
- lean (lén) v.i. to incline; to cause to rest against;—v.t. to deviate from the perpendicular; to incline.—pa.t. and pa.p. leaned or leant (lent).—n. a slope; a rest against.—lean'ing n. inclination (of body or mind).—lean-to n. a shed or penthouse built against the wall or side of a house [O.E. laenan, to cause to incline].
- lean (lén) a. thin; wanting in flesh or fat; (Fig.) empty; impoverished;—n. that part of meat consisting of flesh without fat.—lean'y adv.—lean'ness n. [O.E. laene, thin].
- leap (lép) v.t. to spring; to jump up or forward; to vault;—v.i. to pass over by leaping.—pr.p. leap'ing.—pa.t. leaped or leapt (lept).—pa.p. leaped, leapt.—n. jumping up or forward; (Fig.) a sudden rise (as of book-sales).—leap'frog n. a game, in which one stoops down, and another vaults over his head.—leap-year n. a year of 366 days [O.E. leapyear, to leap].
- learn (lern) v.t. to acquire knowledge; to get to know; to gain skill by practice;—v.i. to gain knowledge; to take example from.—pa.t. and pa.p. learned (lerned) or learnt.—learned (lern'ed) a. having knowledge, erudite.—learn'edly adv.—learn'edness n.—learn'er n.—learn'ing n. that which is learned; letters; science; literature; erudition [O.E. leornian, to learn].
- lease (lése) n. a contract renting lands, houses, farms, etc., for a specified time; time covered by lease; any tenure;—v.t. to grant possession of lands, etc., to another for a rent; to let for a specified period of time.—pr.p. leas'ing.—pa.p. leased.—leas'able a.—leas'hold a. held on lease.—leas'holder n.—Leas'Land n. the pooling of material resources of Allied Nations in the struggle against Germany and Japan. Also Land-Lease. [O.Fr. laisser, to transmit].
- leash (lésh) n. a line by which a hawk or dog is held; a set of three hounds, or hares or foxes held in leash;—v.t. to hold by a leash; to bind [O.Fr. lesse, a thong].
- lying (léz'ing) n. lying; prevarication [O.E. lesian, to tell a lie].
- least (lést) a. (superl. of little) smallest; faintest; most minute;—adv. in the smallest degree;—n. the smallest amount.—leas't ways, leas't wise adv. at least, however.—at least, at any rate [O.E. laest, smallest].
- leat (lét) n. a channel conveying water to a mill [O.E. gelaet, a junction of ways].
- leather (léth'ér) n. the skin of an animal dressed and prepared for use; anything made of leather;—pl. riding-breeches;—v.t. to apply leather to; (Colloq.) to thrash with a strap.—leath'er-bound a. (of a book) bound in calf, morocco, or other leather.—leath'ering n. a thrashing.—leath'er-jack'et n. a crane fly grub; (Austral.) a type of eucalyptus tree; a fish; a kind of pancake.—leath'ern a. made of leather.—leath'er-neck n. (Sailor's slang) a soldier.—leath'ery a. like leather; tough.—patent leather, leather with shiny, varnished surface [O.E. lether, leather].
- leave (lév) n. liberty granted; formal good-bye; furlough; permission to be temporarily absent from duty.—to take one's leave of, bid farewell to.—French leave, absence without permission [O.E. leaf, permission].
- leave (lév) v.t. to quit; to forsake; to omit to remove, to suffer to remain unaltered; to bequeath; to permit; to entrust; to refer;—v.i. to cease; to desist; to depart from; to withdraw.—pr.p. leav'ing.—pa.p. left.—leav'ings n.pl. things left; relics; refuse [O.E. laefan, to bequeath].
- leaven (lév'n) n. a substance due to fermentation which causes bread dough to rise; (Fig.) anything which causes a general change in the mass;—v.t. to raise with leaven; to create a spiritual change [L. levare, to raise].
- lecher (léch'ér) n. a man given to lewdness; a fornicator;—v.t. to practise lewdness.—leach'orous a. lascivious; lustful.—leach'rously adv.—leach'rouness, leach'ry n. [O.Fr. lecher to lick].
- lectern (lek'térn) n. a reading-desk in a church, [L.L. lecturn, a reading-desk].
- lection (lek'shun) n. a variation in copies of a manuscript; a portion of Scripture read during a Church service.—lec'tenary n. a book containing portions of the Scripture to be read on particular days.—lec'tor n. a reader; a minor ecclesiastic in the early church.—lec'tress n. a female reader [L. legere, to read].
- lecture (lek'túr) n. a discourse on any subject; a formal reproof;—v.t. to instruct by discourses; to reprove;—v.i. to deliver a formal discourse.—lec'turer n. one who lectures; an assistant to a professor in a University department.—lee'tureship n. [L. legere, lectum, to read].

led (led) pa.t. and pa.p. of verb lead.

ledge (lej) n. a layer; a projection, as from a wall or cliff; a shelf; a ridge of rock near the surface of the sea [M.E. legge, a bar].

ledger (lej'gr) n. a book in which a business firm enters all debit and credit items in summary form; a cash book; a flat stone lying horizontally as on a grave; one of the pieces of timber used in a scaffolding;—a. stationary (only in compound words).—led'ger-line n. a line with hook and sinker to keep it stationary; (Mus.) an additional line above or below staff for note on with the normal range. Also leg'er [prob. M.E. leggan, to lie].

lee (lē) n. a place protected from the wind; shelter;—a. pert. to the part or side farthest from the wind.—lee-board n. a plank lowered on the side of a flat-bottomed boat to diminish its drifting to leeward.—lee-gage n. the sheltered side.—lee-shore n. the shore on the lee-side of a vessel.—lee-side n. the side of a vessel opposite to the direction from which the wind is blowing.—leeward, (lē'ward, loo'ward) a. pert. to, or in, the direction towards which the wind is blowing.—lee-way n. the side movement of a vessel to the leeward of her course; loss of progress [O.E. lēo, a shelter].

leech (lēch) n. a blood-sucking worm used for blood-letting; (Archaic) physician.—v.t. to bleed by application of leeches [O.E. læce, one who heals].

leek (lēk) n. a bluish-green onion plant allied to the onion; also, the national emblem of Wales [O.E. leac, leek].

leer (lē) n. a sly or furtive look expressive of malignity, lasciviousness, or triumph.—v.t. to look with a leer.—leer'ingly adv.—leer'y a. suspicious [O.E. lēor, cheek].

lees (lēz) n.pl. the sediment which settles at the bottom of a wine-cask; dregs [Fr. lie].

leet (lē) n. (Scot.) a selected list of candidates for a post or office.—short leet, a final list [Scand. leita, a share].

left (left) a. on the side of the body which is westward when one is facing north. Also left-hand.—n. the side opposite to the right; in legislative assemblies, the left side of the Speaker's chair where the Opposition members sit, hence an extreme or radical party;—adv. to or on the left.—left-hand n. the left side;—a. situated on the left side; executed with the left hand.—left-hand'ed a. using the left hand more easily than the right; awkward.—left-hand'edness n.—left'ish a. having political views which tend towards the left.—left'ward adv. towards the left.—left'wing n. a political group with extremist views [M.E. lēft, weak].

left (left) pa.t. and pa.p. of the verb leave.

leg (leg) n. the limb of an animal used in supporting the body and in walking, esp. that part of the limb between the knee and the foot; any support, as leg of a table; one of the two divisions of a forked object, as compasses; part of a garment covering the leg; (Crickets) field to left of, and behind, batsman; (Naut.) a ship's course covered on one tack;—v.t. (Colloq.) to walk briskly; to run away.—pr.p. leg'ging.—pa.t. and pa.p. legged.—legged a. having legs, as three-legged stool.—leg'ging n. a garter to cover the legs.—leg'guard n. (Crickets) padded covering to protect legs, worn by batsman, etc.—leg'y a. having disproportionately long legs, as a very young animal.—leg'less a. without legs.—leg-of-mutton a. shaped like a leg of mutton, as of a sleeve; triangular, as a sail.—leg'pull n. (Slang) a practical joke.—to be on its last legs, almost worn out.—to find one's legs (or feet), to become used to, or settled down, in a new environment [Scand. leogr, a leg].

legacy (leg'e-si) n. a bequest; a gift of personal property by will.—leg'atary n. a legatee.—

legatee n. one who receives a legacy [L. legare, to bequeath].

legal (lē'gal) a. pert. to, or according to, the law; defined by law; statutory; binding; constitutional.—legalisa'tion n.—le'galise v.t. to make lawful; to sanction.—legal'ity n. conformity to law.—le'gally adv.—legal tender, the form of money, coin, or notes, which may be lawfully used in paying a debt [L. lex, legis, a law].

legate (leg'āt) n. Pope's highest diplomatic envoy; an ambassador.—leg'ateship n.—leg'atine a. pert. to a legate.—lega'tion n. an embassy; the official residence of a diplomatic minister at a foreign court [L. legatus, an envoy].

legato (lē-gātō) adv. (Mus.) in a smooth, gliding manner [L. legare, to tie].

legend (lē'gend) n. orig. a chronicle of the lives of the saints; any marvellous story of ancient times; an inscription on a coin, medal, etc.—leg'endary n. book of, or relating to, legends;—a. comprising legends; fabulous; strange.—leg'endry n. legends collectively [L. legendus, to be read].

leger (lē'jer) a. small; light.—leger-main (lē-jer-de-mān) n. a sleight of hand [Fr. leger de main, light of hand].

leger-line (lē-jer-līn) n. See ledger.

Leghorn (lēg'horn) n. a plumed straw, from Leghorn in Italy; a hat made of this straw, a breed of domestic fowl.

legible (lēj'ə-bl) a. capable of being read.—leg'ibly adv.—leg'ibility, legibility n. [L. legere, to read].

legion (lē'jūn) n. in ancient Rome, a body of infantry of from three to six thousand; a military force; a great number.—le'gionary a. relating to, or consisting of, a legion or legions, containing a great number.—n. a soldier of a legion [L. legio, legions].

legislate (lēj'is-lā) v.t. to make or enact laws.—legisla'tion n. act of legislating; laws made.—leg'islative a. having power to make laws; constitutional.—leg'islatively adv.—leg'islator n. (fem. leg'islatress) one who enacts laws.

leg'islature n. the body empowered to make and repeal laws [L. lex, a law, ferre, latum, to carry].

legitimate (lē-jit'i-māt) a. lawful; in accordance with the law, born in lawful wedlock; justifiable, reasonable, genuine.—v.t. to make lawful; to render legitimate (as a child born out of wed'k), to legitimise.—leg'itimacy n. the state of being legitimate.—leg'imately adv.—legit'imateness n.—legitima'tion n. the act of investing with the rights and privileges of lawful birth.—legit'imise v.t. to legitimate.—legit'imism n.—legit'imist n. one who upholds hereditary monarchical government and divine right [L. legitimus, lawful].

legume (lēg'ūm) n. a seed-pod with two valves and having the seeds attached at one suture, as the pea; a plant bearing seed-pods. Also legu'men.—pl. legu'mens, legu'mina.—legu'minous a. pert. to pulse, bearing legumes as seed vessels [Fr. légume, a vegetable].

leisure (lēz'chūr, lē'chur) n. freedom from occupation; spare time;—a. unoccupied.—leisurable a.—leisured a. free from business duties.—leisur'ely a. unhurried, slow;—adv. slowly [Fr. loisir, to be lawful].

leitmotiv (lē'tmōt'if) n. (Mus.) a theme associated with a person or idea, constantly recurring in a composition [Ger. leit, leading; Fr. motif, motive].

leman (lē'man, lem'an) n. a sweetheart; a paramour [O.E. leof, loved; man, a man].

lemma (lē'mā) n. (Math.) a subsidiary proposition; (Logic) a premise taken for granted; a theme; a heading, headline, or head word of the pages of a dictionary [Gk. lemma, something taken for granted].

lemming, lemming (lēm'ing) n. a short-tailed rodent of the vole family found in N. Europe [Scand. lemming].

lemon (lem'on) n. an oval-shaped fruit with rind pale yellow in colour and containing very acid pulp and juice; the tree which provides this fruit; —a. of the colour of lemon rind. — lemonade n. a cooling drink made of lemon juice, sugar, and water (still or aerated). — lem-on-squash n. a beverage made of lemon juice and soda water. — salts of lemon, binxalate of potash [Fr. limon, the lemon fruit].

lemon sole (lem'on sôl) n. a flat fish, allied to the sole proper [Fr. limande, a dab].

lemur (lém'ur) n. one of a family of nocturnal monkey-like mammals found in Madagascar [L. lemur, a ghost].

lend (lend) v.t. to grant the temporary use of, to give in general; to let out money at interest; to permit the use of; to afford; to serve for; — v.i. to make a loan. — pr.p. lend'ing. — pa.p. lent — lend'er n. [O.E. lucn, a loan].

Lend-Lease See lease.

length (length) n. the measurement of anything from end to end; extension; duration of time; extent; intervening distance, as in a race; the quantity of a syllable or vowel in prosody. — length'en v.t. to extend in length; to protract; — v.i. to grow longer. — length'ly adv. — length'ness n. — length'wise a. in the direction of the length. — length'y a. — to keep at arm's length, to discourage friendly overtures [O.E. lang, long].

lenient (lén'ient) a. softening; clement; acting without severity; — n. (Med.) an emollient. — len'ience, len'ieney n. the quality of being lenient, clemency. — len'iently adv. — len'sitive n. a medicine which eases pain, — a. soothing; emollient. — len'tiy n. mildness; mercy [L. lenis, soft].

lens (lenz) n. (Optics) a piece of glass or other transparent substance ground with one or both sides curved so as to refract rays of light, and thereby modify vision, the crystalline biconvex tissue between the cornea and retina of the eye; a magnifying glass; — pl. lens'es [L. lens, a lentil].

Lent (lent) n. a fast of 40 days from Ash Wednesday until Easter Day, commemorating the fast of our Saviour in the wilderness. — lent'an a. pert. to Lent; meagre [O.E. lencen, spring].

lenticular (len-tik'ul-lar) a. shaped like a lens or lentil; resembling a double-convex lens. Also len'tiform. — len'toid a. lens-shaped [L. lenticula, a small lentil].

lentil (len'til) n. a Mediterranean plant allied to the bean, cultivated for fodder and for its seeds [L. lens, a lentil].

lentisk (len'tisk) n. the mastic-tree [L. lentiscus].

lento (len'tô) adv. (Mus.) slowly [It.].

l'envoi (len-vôl' or long'vwa) n. a kind of postscript to a poem; a short, final stanza [O.Fr. l'envoi, the sending].

Leo (lē'ô) n. the lion, the fifth sign of the Zodiac which the sun enters about July 22nd. — le'one a. of or like a lion [L. leo, a lion].

leopard (lep'ard) n. a large carnivorous member of the cat family, of a yellow or fawn colour with black spots [Gk. leôn, lion; pardos, pard].

leper (lep'er) n. a person afflicted with leprosy; (Fig.) an outcast. — lep'rous a. a chronic contagious disease affecting skin, tissues and nerves. — lep'rous a. [Gk. lepra, a scaly].

Lepidoptera (lep-i-dop'te-ra) n.pl. an order of insects having four wings covered with gossamer scales, as moths, butterflies, etc. — lepidop'teral, lepidop'terous a. [Gk. lepis, a scale; pteron, a wing].

leprechaun (lep're-hawn) n. a sprite; a brownie commonly referred to in Irish folk-stories [Ir.].

leprosy (lep'ro-si) n. See leper.

Lesbian (lez'bi-an) a. pert. to the island of Lesbos (Mytilene) in the Aegean Sea, or to the ancient school of lyric poets there; amatory.

— n. a woman who is sexually attracted to another woman.

lese-majesty (lés-maj'es-ti) n. (Law) a crime committed against the sovereign, or sovereign power of a state; high treason [Fr. fr. L. laesa majestas, injured majesty].

lesion (lêzhun) n. (Med.) any morbid change in the structure or functioning of the living tissues of the body; injury; (Law) loss or injury [L. laedere, laesum, to hurt].

less (lee) a. smaller in size; not equal to in number; lower; inferior; — adv. in a smaller or lower degree; — n. a smaller portion; the inferior. — less'en v.t. to make less; to diminish; — v.i. to contract; to decrease. — less'er a. smaller; inferior [O.E. laes, less].

lessee (les-ê') n. one to whom a lease is granted [fr. lease].

lesson (les'n) n. a reading; a piece of instruction, something to be learned by pupils; a Scripture passage read aloud as part of Church service; instruction gained by experience; reproof; — v.t. to teach [Fr. fr. L. legere, to read].

lest (lest) conj. for fear that [O.E.].

let (let) v.t. to allow; to give permission; to cause to do (foll. by inf. without to), to grant the temporary use of, for hire — pr.p. let'ting.

— pa.t. and pa.p. let. — to let alone, to refrain from interfering. — to let blood, to relieve blood pressure by cutting a vein. — to let down, to lower; (Colloq.) to fall in a promise to a person. — to let go, to release, to allow to pass without comment. — let-off n. exculpation [O.E. laetan, to permit]. — (Idem, to delay).

let (let) v.t. to hinder; — n. a hindrance [O.E. lethal (lêthal) a. deadly; mortal. — lethif'erous a. deadly [L. letum, death].

lethargy (leth'ar-jî) n. unnaturally heavy drowsiness, overpowering lassitude; inertia. — leth'argic, leth'argical a. drowsy, apathetic. — leth'argically adv. [Gk. lethargia, forgetfulness].

Lethe (lê-thê) n. a river of the underworld said to make those who drank of its waters forget their former existence; oblivion. — Lethe'an a. pert. to Lethe; oblivious [Gk. lêthê, a forgetting].

letter (let'er) n. a mark or symbol used to represent an articulate, elementary sound; a written or printed communication, an epistle, the literal statement; printing-type. — pl. letters; erudition; — v.t. to impress or form letters on; to print in special lettering; to stamp a title on book cover, etc. — let'ter-book n. a book in which copies of business letters are kept for reference. — let'ter-box n. a box for receiving letters, as on inside of house-door; a pillar-box. — let'ter-card n. paper, gummed at edges which may be folded and sealed, without use of envelope. — let'ter-case n. a pocket-book. — let'tered a. literate; educated; versed in literature, science, etc.; inscribed with lettering. — let'ter's n. — let'ter's n. a device for holding letters for reference. — let'ter-head n. printed heading on business stationery. — let'tering n. the act of impressing letters; the letters impressed. — let'ter-press n. a machine for making copies of letters. — let'ter-press n. printed matter as distinct from illustrations, diagrams, etc.; print. — letter of credit, a letter authorising money to be paid by a bank to the bearer. — letters patent, a document under seal of the State, granting some property privilege or authority, or conferring the exclusive right to use an invention or design [L. littera, a letter].

Lettic (let'ik) a. pert. to the Letts or to their language; — n. the language of the Letts. Also Let'tish. — Letts n.pl. the inhabitants of Lithuania and Latvia.

lettuce (let'us) n. a common garden plant, with tender, green leaves used in salads [L. lactuca, lettuce].

leucocyte (lê'ko-sit) n. one of the white corpuscles of the blood, destroying bacteria [Gk. leukos, white; kytos, a cell].

leucosis (lū-kō-sis) n. a disease characterised by undue pallor of the skin. — leu'ous a. white [Gk. leukos, white].

Levant (le-vant') n. lit. region where sun rises; Eastern Mediterranean countries; — a. eastern. — Levant'er n. wind blowing from E. Spain towards Levant. — Levant'ine a. pert. to Levant. — n. a native of the Levant; a kind of silk [L. levare, to raise].

levant (le-vant') v.i. to abscond; to decamp. — levant'er n. [L. levare, to raise].

levator (le-vā'tor) n. a muscle in the body which raises any part, as the eyelid, lips, etc. [L. levare, to raise].

levee (lev'ē, lev'ē) n. a Royal reception; orig. a reception held by Royal personage on rising from bed [Fr. lever, to rise].

levee (lev'ē, le-vē') n. (U. S.) a river embankment, as in Mississippi Valley; a quay [Fr. levée, raised].

level (lev'el) n. a line or plane which is everywhere parallel to the horizon, a state of equality, an instrument for finding or drawing a true horizontal line, — a. not having one part higher than another, even; horizontal; equal in rank or degree, impartial; — v.t. to make horizontal, to reduce to the same height with something else; to raise; to make equal in rank, etc.; to point a gun or arrow to the mark. — pr.p. lev'elling. — pa.t. and pa.p. lev'elled. — lev'el-cross'ing n. point at which a road crosses a railway at the same level. — lev'el-head'ed a. balanced; prudent. — lev'eller n. one who believes in making all on an equal. — lev'elling n. the act of making a surface even with another; the process of ascertaining the difference of elevation between two points, by the use of a levelling instrument — to be on the level, to be honest in one's dealings with another [L. libella, a water-level].

lever (lē-ver) n. a bar used to exert pressure or sustain a weight at one point of its length by receiving a force or power at a second, and turning at a third on a fixed point called a fulcrum; a crowbar for prising open, — v.t. to raise up, to prise open. — le'verage n. the action of a lever; mechanical advantage gained by use of the lever [L. levare, to raise].

leveret (lev'er-et) n. a hare in its first year [O. Fr. levret, a young hare].

leviathan (le-vī-than) n. a huge aquatic animal, a whale, a sea-monster, anything of colossal size [Heb. lyvathan, a sea-monster].

levin (lev'in) n. lightning [Scand. lygna, lightning].

levitation (lev-i-tā-shun) n. the act of making buoyant or light; the phenomenon of heavy bodies being made to float in air by spiritual agencies — lev'itate v.t. [L. levitas, light].

Levite (lē-vīt) n. one of the tribe of Levi; lower priest in ancient Jewish synagogue, Jew — Levit'ic, — a. — Leviti'ous n. (Rib.) third book of Old Testament [fr. Levi].

levity (lev-i-ti) n. lightness, buoyancy; want of seriousness [L. levitas, light].

levulose (lev'ū-lōs) n. See levulose.

levy (lev-i) v.t. to raise by assessment, as taxes; to enlist or collect, as troops; to impose, as a fine, v.t. to raise funds by a levy — pr.p. lev'ying. — pa.p. lev'ied. — n. collection of assessment by authority or compulsion, for public services, the money or troops thus collected [L. levare, to raise].

lew (lū) a. tepid (O.E. leow, warm).

lewd (lūd or lōd) a. base; indecent, given to unlawful indulgence. — lewd'y adv. — lewd'ness n. [O.E. læwede, lacy].

lewis (lē-wis) n. an iron clamp dove-tailed into a stone block to raise it, the son of a freemason [etym. unknown].

Lewis gun (lē-wis-gun) n. a light automatic machine gun with circular magazine [Lewis, the American inventor].

lewisite (lē-wis-it) n. a colourless or brown persistent blister gas, for use in chemical warfare [fr. W. L. Lewis, American chemist].

lexicon (lek-tō-kon) n. a dictionary, esp. of Greek, or Hebrew; a word-building game played with pack of cards. — lex'ial a. pert. to a lexicon. — lexicog'raper n. one who compiles a dictionary. — lexicograph'ic, — a. — lexicog'raphist, lexicog'ogist n. an expert in lexicology. — lexicog'raphy n. the art or process of compiling a dictionary. — lexicology n. the science which deals with the exact significance and use of vocabulary [Gk. lexis, speech; graphein, to write; logos, a discourse].

Leyden jar (lē-den jār) n. a jar, coated inside and out with tinfoil, used to accumulate electricity [fr. Leyden, in Holland].

liable (lē-ā-ly) a. obliged in law or equity; subject; answerable; responsible. — liab'ility n. the state of being liable; responsibility; obligation; tendency; — pl. debts [Fr. lier, to bind].

liaison (lē-ā-zōng) n. a union; connection; illicit intimacy between a man and a woman; (Msl.) contact maintained between one unit or command and another, the sounding, as in French, of the final consonant of a word before the initial vowel or mute h of the next word [Fr. fr. L. hure, to bind].

liana (lē-ā-nā) n. a climbing tropical plant of S. America and India [Fr. liane].

liar (lē-ār) n. one who tells lies [fr. lie].

lias (lē-ās) n. a blue argillaceous limestone. — has'le a. [Fr. lais, a limestone].

libation (lē-bā-shun) n. the ceremonial pouring of wine in honour of some deity; the liquid itself; (Colloq.) a drink, a drinking-bout [L. libare, to pour a little from].

libel (lē-bel) n. a defamatory writing or public statement; (Law) a written statement by the plaintiff of his allegations in a law case; (Colloq.) a statement injurious to a person's character, — v.t. to defame by a writing, picture, etc., to proceed against, by filing a libel. — pr.p. lib'elling. — pa.t. and pa.p. lib'elled. — lib'eller n. — lib'ellous a. defamatory, containing a libel. — lib'ellously adv. [L. libellus, a little book].

liberal (lē-bē-ral) a. fitting for a gentleman, open-minded, generous, catholic; unbiased, (in politics) favouring democratic ideals, and freedom of religion, — n. one who favours greater political and religious freedom, supporter of Whig or Liberal party. — liberalism n. the process of gaining greater freedom. — lib'eralise v.t. to cause to be freer or more enlightened. — lib'eralism n. the principles upheld by Liberal party. — lib'eral'ity n. generosity; munificence. — lib'eral'ity n. — lib'eral'ly adv. — lib'eral'ise v.t. to set free. — lib'eration n. the act of setting free, the state of being free from bondage. — lib'erator n. one who sets others free, esp. from tyranny. — Liberal Party, one of the political parties of Gt. Britain evolved in 1830 from the Whigs [L. liberalis, befitting a freeman].

liberty (lē-bē-rē-ti) n. freedom from bondage or restraint; power to act according to one's natural rights as an individual, privilege; freedom of act or speech unduly taken in social intercourse, — pl. rights, privileges, etc., conferred by grant or prescription. — libertarian n. one who upholds the doctrine of free-will. — libertarianism n. — libertine n. the debauchery of a libertine. — lib'ertine n. one who leads a dissolute life; — a. dissolute; debauched. — liberty man, a sailor on furlough. — Liberty ship, an American ship, built especially for the duration of World War 2 [L. libertas, liberty].

libido (lē-bē-dō) n. in psychology, the emotional craving behind all human impulse, esp. used by Freud to denote the sex-urge. — libid'inous a. lewd; obscene; lustful. — libid'inously adv. [L. libido, desire].

Libra (lē-brā) n. the balance, the 7th sign of the Zodiac [L. libra, a balance].

library (lē-brā-rē) n. a collection of books; the room or building which contains it. — libra'rian

- n. the keeper of a library. — libra'rian n. [L. liber, a book].
- librate (lĭ-brát) v.i. to poise; to balance; — v.t. to be poised; to oscillate. — libra'tion n. balancing; a quivering motion. — lib'ratory a. [L. libra, a balance].
- libretto (lĭ-bret-tó) n. the words of an opera or oratorio. — librett'ist n. the writer of librettos [It. = a little book].
- Libyan (lĭb-ĭ-an) a. pert. to Libya in N. Africa or to the language of the district.
- lice (lĭs) pl. of louse.
- licence, (lĭ-sens) n. authority granted to do any act; a legal permit authorising a person's right to marry, to preach, to practise medicine, to sell tobacco, liquor, etc., to keep a dog, to possess a motor, wireless set, etc.; excess of liberty. — lic'ense, lic'ence v.t. to permit by grant of authority; to authorise to act in a particular manner. — lic'ensable a. — lic'ensed a. privileged; holding a licence. — lic'enses' n. one who is given a licence. — lic'enser n. one legally entitled to grant a licence. — lic'ens'iate n. one who has a licence to practise a profession. — lic'entious a. using excessive licence; dissolute. — lic'entiously adv. — lic'entiousness n. [L. licentia, freedom].
- lichen (lĭ-ken, lich'en) n. one of an order of cellular, flowerless plants usually of scaly, expanded, frond-like forms growing on rocks, tree-trunks, etc.; (Med.) a skin eruption accompanied by itch and inflammation [L. fr. Gk. leichen, moss].
- lichgate (lich-gát) n. a roofed gateway or arch at entrance to churchyard where the coffin may be left to await the clergyman's arrival. Also lych'gate. — lich'house n. a mortuary [O.E. lic, a corpse].
- licit (lĭ-sĭt) a. lawful; allowable. — lic'itly adv. [L. licitus, lawful].
- lick (lĭk) v.t. to pass or draw the tongue over; to lap; to take in by the tongue; to touch lightly (as flames); (Colloq.) to thrash; to be superior over; — n. the act of licking; (Scot.) a small portion; (Colloq.) an attempt; — pl. a beating. — lick'er n. — lick'ing n. a lapping with tongue; a flogging; a beating (in a competition). — lick'spittle n. an abject flatterer; a parasite [O.E. liccan, to lick].
- lickerish (lĭk'er-ish) a. dainty; nice in the choice of food; greedy; lecherous. Also ly'corish [M.E. likerous, dainty].
- licorice, liquorice (lĭk-ó-ris) n. a Mediterranean plant, the root of which contains a sweet juice; the brittle, black substance extracted from the roots of this plant, and used medicinally, esp. as a laxative [Gk. glukus, sweet; rhiza, a root].
- lictor (lĭk-tor) n. an officer who attended a Roman magistrate, bearing the fasces [L. fr. ligare, to bind].
- lid (lĭd) n. a cover of a vessel or box; the covering of the eye [O.E. lĭd, a cover].
- lido (lĭd-ó) n. a pleasure resort; a public swimming pool [It. fr. L. litus, a shore].
- lie (lĭ) v.t. to utter untruth; to misrepresent; to deceive; to make false statement. — pr.p. ly'ing. — pa.p. and pa.p. lied. — n. a deliberate falsehood. — li'ar n. one who utters a falsehood. — ly'ing a. addicted to telling lies. — a white lie, an untruth uttered without evil intent [O.E. leogan, to lie].
- lie (lĭ) v.t. to be recumbent; to be in a horizontal position or nearly so; to be situated; to lean, to be at rest; to press upon; (Law) to be admissible. — pr.p. ly'ing. — pa.p. lay. — pa.p. lain. — n. manner of lying; relative position; direction. — lie-abed' n. one who is not an early riser. — to lie doggo, to remain in hiding. — to lie in, to be in childbirth. — to lie in wait, to be in ambush; to lie in concealment. — to lie low, to keep in background. — to lie off (Naut.) to anchor some distance off shore [O.E. leogan, to lie].
- Lieder (lĭd-der) n.pl. German lyrics set to music. — sing. lied [Ger. Lied, a song].
- lie (lĭ) adv. gladly; willingly; freely [O.E. leof, loved].
- liege (lĭ) a. bound by feudal tenure; (of a lord) entitled to receive homage; sovereign; — n. a vassal; a feudal lord to whom allegiance is owed. — pl. citizens generally [O.Fr. liege, an overlord].
- lien (lĭ-en, lĭn) n. (Law) a legal charge upon real or personal property for the satisfaction of some debt or duty [Fr. fr. L. ligare, to bind].
- lieu (lĭ) n. place; room; stead, as in phrase 'in lieu'. — lieutenant (lef-ten-ant) n. a deputy; an officer who takes the place of a superior in his absence; rank below a captain (Army) or below a commander (Navy). — lieuten'ant-colonel n. the rank below a colonel. — lieuten'ant-command'er n. in the British Navy, the rank intermediate between that of lieutenant and commander corresponding to that of major (Army) and squadron-leader (R.A.F.). — lieuten'ant-gen'eral n. military rank intermediate between that of major-general and general. — lieuten'ant-gov'ernor n. State official ruling a province in a British dominion (e.g. Canada, etc.) under a governor-general. — Lord-Lieuten'ant n. the King's deputy in Ireland (till 1922); the governor of a county [Fr. lieu, place; tenant, holding].
- life (lĭf) n. existence; vitality; condition of plants, animals, etc., in which they exercise functional powers; the span between birth and death; mode of living, narrative of a person's history. — pl. lives, men, persons. — life-and-death a. desperate. — life-assur'ance or insur'ance n. insurance on a person's life. — life-belt n. a belt either inflated, or made buoyant with cork, for keeping person afloat in case of shipwreck. — life-boat n. a special type of boat, designed for stability in stormy seas, for saving of human lives. — life-guard n. a military bodyguard. — Life Guards, a regiment of household cavalry. — life-his'tory n. the cycle of life of a person, organism, etc. — life-interest n. interest in an estate or business which continues during one's life, but which cannot be bequeathed by will. — life-jack'et n. a life-belt. — life-less a. inanimate; dead, inert. — lifelessly adv. — lifelessness n. — life-like a. like a living creature, resembling closely. — life-line n. a line attached to a life-buoy or lifeboat; a line fired by rocket from the shore to a ship in distress; the line round the base of the thumb supposed by palmists to reveal a person's life history; (Fig.) that which keeps a nation alive. — life-long a. lasting a lifetime. — life-preserver n. any apparatus (as life-belt, -buoy, -line) for preserving or rescuing life; a loaded cane for self-defence. — li'f'er n. (Colloq.) a criminal who has received a life-sentence. — life-rent n. a rent which one is legally entitled to receive during one's lifetime. — life-size a. resembling in proportions the living model. — life-time n. the duration of person's life. — life-work n. any task, usually creative, demanding a lifetime's work [O.E. lĭf, life].
- lift (lĭft) v.t. to raise; to take up and remove; to elevate socially; to exalt spiritually; (Colloq.) to arrest; to steal; to take passengers on a bus, etc.; — v.i. to rise, to be dispersed; — n. the act of lifting; assistance; the helping of a person on his way by offering conveyance in one's car; an elevator; a rise in the ground; (Aero.) an air force acting at right angles on aircraft's wing, thereby lifting it [Scand. lyfta, to raise].
- Ligament (lĭk-a-ment) n. anything which binds one thing to another; (Anat.) strong fibrous tissue bands connecting the bones of the body, a bond. — ligament'al, ligament'ary, ligament'ous a. — li'gate v.t. to bind; to bandage. — liga'tion n. the act of binding; the state of being bound with a ligature. — lig'ature n. anything which binds; a bandage; (Mus.) a line connecting two notes; (Print.) type consisting of two or more letters joined [L. ligare, to bind].

light (lit) v.i. to come to by chance; to alight; to settle. —pr.p. light'ing. —pa.p. light'ed, or lit (O.E. lithan, to dismount).

light (lit) a. having little weight; not heavy; easy; active; nimble; loose or sandy, as soil; moderate, as wind; spongy, as cake; not heavily armed, as a cruiser; unsettled; volatile; trifling; wanton; worthless; easily disturbed, as sleep. —light'en v.t. to make less heavy; to jettison, to enliven; —n.i. to become less heavy or gloomy. —light, light'y adv. —light'er n. a barge used in loading and unloading ships anchored out from the quay. —light'erage n. the price paid for loading and unloading ships. —light'erman n. —light'fing'ered, a. dexterous. —light-fingered gentry, thieves. —light'foot'ed a. agile. —light'hand'ed a. delicate of touch; empty-handed. —light'head'ed a. delirious; inclined to faint. —light'heart'ed a. carefree; gay. —light'ln'fantry n. a body of armed men trained for rapid movements. —light'mind'ed a. frivolous. —lights n.pl. the lungs of a slaughtered animal. —light'some a. lively; cheerful. —light-weight a. (of a boxer) weighing less than 9 st. 9 lbs. —light'ness n. quality of being light (O.E. leohd, light).

light (lit) n. that form of radiant energy which stimulates visual perception, anything which has luminosity. day, the illuminated part of a scene or picture, point of view; aspect, spiritual enlightenment, key-word of an acoustic, any glazed opening admitting light into a building. —a. bright, not dark; whitish; pale (of colour). —v.t. to give light or fire to, —v.i. to begin to burn, (fig.) to express joy (as in the face). —pr.p. light'ing —pa.t. and pa.p. light'ed or lit. —light'en v.t. to illuminate. —light'er n. a mechanical device for producing a flame, as a cigarette-lighter; one who lights street lamps, etc. —light'house n. a tower-like structure built at danger points on sea-coast and provided with very powerful light to serve as warning to ships. —light'ing n. illumination, the arrangement of lights in a private or public building to procure artistic effect. —light'ish a. rather light or pale in colour. —light'ness n. —light'ship n. a floating lighthouse. —light-year n. (Astron.) the distance in a year (calculated at 6 million million miles) light travels. —to see the light, to be born; to comprehend. —foot'lights, n.pl. the row of electric lamps along the edge of the stage in a theatre. —Northern Lights, aurora borealis. —lit (U.S. slang) drunk (O.E. leohd, light).

lightning (lit'ning) n. a flash produced by an electrical discharge between two clouds, or between cloud and ground. —light'ning-rod n. a rod serving, by a connected wire called a light'ning-conduct'or n., to carry electric current into the earth or water, thereby preventing building from being struck by lightning (M.E. lihten, to flash).

lignaceous (lig'ne-us) a. woody; resembling wood. —lig'nify v.t. to convert into wood. —lig'nin, lig'nine n. an organic substance formed in the woody tissues of plants. —lig'nite n. coal of recent origin still showing lignaceous texture, brown coal. —lig'num-vit'ae n. an evergreen tree of tropical America and Australia with wood of extreme hardness (L. lignum, wood).

ligule (lik'ul) n. (Bot.) a strap-shaped petal at base of a composite flower; the membrane at the top of the sheath beneath a blade of grass. Also lig'ula. —lig'ular a. —lig'ulate a. strap-shaped (L. ligula, a little tongue).

ligure (lik'ur) n. a precious stone (fr. Liguria, a district of Italy).

like (lik) a. equal; similar; —n. an equal; a person or thing resembling another; an exact resemblance; —adv. (Archae) in the same manner; to an equal degree; —conj. (Vulgar) as; as if. —like'lihood n. probability. —like'y a. probable; credible; of excellent qualities; —adv. probably. —lik'en v.t. to represent as similar; to compare. —like'ness n. resemblance; an image, picture, or statue. —like'wise adv. in like manner; also moreover (O.E. gelic, similar).

like (lik) v.t. to be pleased with or attracted by; to enjoy; to approve; —v.i. to be pleased; —n. a liking, as in phrase, 'likes and dislikes'. —lik(e)'able a. pleasant; congenial; attractive. —lik(e)'ableness n. —like'y a. pleasing. —lik'ing n. predilection; fondness; taste (O.E. lician, to please).

ilic (il'jak) n. a shrub, with delicately perfumed flower-clusters, purple, pale mauve, or white in colour; a pale mauve colour; —a. of iliac colour (Pers. ilak, the indigo flower).

Lilliputian (lil-i-pit'chan) n. an inhabitant of Lilliput described by Dean Swift in his Gulliver's Travels; a person of diminutive size; —a. diminutive; dwarfed.

lilt (lilt) n. a light or lively tune; —v.t. and v.i. to sing (etym. doubtful).

lily (lil'i) n. a bulbous plant, with fragrant and sometimes showy flowers; —a. resembling lily. —lily'aceous a. pert. to lilies; lily-like. —lily'ed a. adorned with lilies. —lily'y-lily'ed a. cowardly. —lily'y-white a. pure white; unsullied. —lily'y-of-the-valley n. a plant of the genus Convallaria, having broad leaves and sprays of strongly perfumed bell-shaped white flowers (O.E. lilic, a lily).

limb (lim) n. an extremity of the human body, as an arm or leg, a branch of a tree, —v.t. to give limbs to; to dismember (O.E. lim, a limb).

limb (lim) n. an edge or border; (Astron.) the rim of a heavenly body; (Bot.) the expanded part of a petal (L. limbus, a hem).

limbec (lim'bek) n. Var. of alemble.

limber (lim'ber) n. the detachable front part of a gun-carriage. —v.t. to attach to a gun-carriage (fr. limonière, a cart with shafts).

limber (lim'ber) a. easily bent; pliant, supple. —to limber up, to perform a few gymnastic exercises (etym. doubtful).

limbo (lim'bô) n. a region intermediate between heaven and hell in which the souls of unbaptised children etc., are confined after death, a region of forgotten things, neglect; oblivion; (Slang) a gaol. Also lim'bus (L. limbus, the edge).

lime (lim) n. the Linden-tree which furnishes a white wood used for kitchen furniture, etc.; —a. pert. to the Linden-tree (corrupt. of O.E. lind, the Linden-tree).

lime (lim) n. a tree which produces a small sour kind of lemon; the fruit of the tree. —lime'juice n. the juice of the lime, used at sea as a specific against scurvy (fr. fr. Span. lima).

lime (lim) n. viscous substance; bird-lime; oxide of calcium; white, caustic substance from limestone, shells, marble, etc., by heat; —v.t. to smear with lime; to ensnare; to cement; to manure with lime. —lime-kiln n. a furnace in which limestone is heated to produce lime. —lime'light n. a powerful light, as on a stage, produced by projecting an oxy-hydrogen flame on a ball of lime. —lime'stone n. a rock consisting chiefly of carbonate of lime. —lim'ous a. slimy. —lim'y a. covered with or impregnated with lime; sticky; resembling lime (O.E. lim, cement).

limen (li'men) n. the threshold of consciousness. —li'minal a. (L. limen, threshold).

limerick (lim'er-ik) n. a five-lined nonsense verse (said to be from a song introducing the place-name 'merick).

limy, limy (li'mi) n. (U.S. slang) a British person, esp. a sailor.

limit (lim'it) n. boundary; edge; utmost extent; (Slang) an outrageous or intolerable person or thing; —v.t. to confine within certain bounds; to curb; to restrict the signification of. —lim'itable a. that may be bounded or restricted. —lim'itary a. placed at the boundary, as a guard; restricted. —limita'tion n. the act of restricting; the state of being limited or confined; qualification. — limitative, lim'ited a. circumscribed; narrow. — lim'itedly adv. — lim'itedness n. — lim'itless a. boundless; immeasurable; infinite. — limited liability, said of a joint stock company in which liability of the shareholder is in proportion to the amount of his stock [L. limes, a boundary].

limn (lim) v.t. to draw or paint; to illuminate a manuscript. — lim'ner n. painter: one who decorates books with pictures [M.E. limnen, to decorate].

limousine (lim'ôô-zèn) a. pert. to a type of closed motor-car with roof over the driver's head; — n. a closed car [fr. Limousin, a French province].

limp (limp) v.t. to walk lamely; to halt; — n. lameness (O.E. lemp-heall, lame).

limp (limp) a. wanting in stiffness, as covers of a book; flaccid; flexible; (Fig.) lethargic; exhausted [Scand. limpa, weakness].

limpet (lim-pet) n. a small, univalve conical shaped shell-fish which clings firmly to rocks. — lim'pet-mine n. (World War 2) a small suction mine attached by hand to the hull of a ship (O.E. lempedu, a lamprey).

limpid (lim-pid) a. clear; translucent; crystal. — limp'id'ity, limp'idness n. — limp'idly adv. [L. limpidus, clear].

lin, linn (lin) n. a waterfall; a pool [Gael.]. — linament (lin'a-ment) n. lute; a tent for a wound (L. linamentum).

linchpin (linsh-pin) n. a pin used to prevent a carriage-wheel from sliding off the axle-tree (O.E. lynis, axle-tree; and pin).

lincoln green (linlk'un-grèn) n. bright green fabric made at Lincoln [fr. Lincoln].

linctus (lingk'tus) n. a soothing, syrupy cough mixture; a medicine to be sucked up. — Also lin'cture [L. lingere, linctum, to lick].

linden (lin'den) n. the lime-tree (O.E. lind, the lime-tree).

line (lin) n. a linen thread or string; a slender cord; a thread-like mark; an extended stroke; (Math.) that which has one dimension, length, but no breadth or thickness, a curve connecting points which have a common significance (as the Equator, isotherms, isobars, contours, etc.); a boundary; a row or continued series; progeny; a verse; (Collog.) a short letter; a course of conduct, thought, or policy; a trend; a department; a trade, business or profession; a system of buses, trains, or passenger aircraft under one management; a railway track; a formation of naval vessels; the regular infantry of an army; a unit of measurement, $\frac{1}{64}$ of an inch; harmony; graceful cut (as of a costume, dress); (U.S.) advice or guidance; — pl. a certificate of Church membership, marriage, etc.; a punishment exercise; parts of a play memorised by an actor or actress; military fieldworks; — v.t. to mark out with lines; to form in a line; to border. — lin'age n. amount of lines on a page; payment according to the number of lines. — lin'age n. descendants in a line from common progenitor; pedigree. — lin'eal a. composed of lines; pert. to, or in the direction of, a line; directly descended from a common ancestor. — lineal'ity n. — lin'eally adv. — lin'eament n. feature; form; characteristic; outline of a body or figure. — lin'ear a. pert. to, or consisting of, a line; drawn in lines. — lin'early adv. — lin'ested a. marked by lines. — linea'tion n. the act of marking with lines; the lines marked or engraved. — lined a. marked with lines; ruled. — line-engrav'ing n. the process of engraving lines on a copper-plate. — line-fish n. fish caught by line, not by nets. — lin'er n. a steamship or passenger aircraft belonging to a regular transport line. — line-man n. an infantryman; a railway employee who examines and repairs railway lines; an official (at football or tennis match) who determines whether ball has crossed the outside line or not. — line-up n. a marshalling of forces, or resources. — the line, the Equator. — to shoot a line (World War 2 slang) to boast, usually of one's personal exploits [L. linea, a string of flax].

line (lin) v.t. to cover on the inside, as a garment, pan, etc. — lin'ing n. the material used to line a garment, etc.; contents [M.E. linen, to cover].

linen (lin'en) n. thread or cloth made from flax; underclothing; napery; — a. made of flax or linen (O.E. lin, flax).

ling (ling) n. a soft-finned elongated fish of the cod family (O.E. lang, long).

ling (ling) n. the common heather. — ling'y a. [Scand. lyng, heather].

linger (ling-g'r) v.t. to delay; to dally; to loiter. — ling'er'er n. — ling'er'ing a. protracted [O.E. lengan, to protract].

lingerie (lang'zhè-rè) n. orig. linen goods; women's underclothing [Fr. linge, linen].

lingo (ling-g'ô) n. language; (Collog.) jargon [corrupt. of L. lingua, language].

lingual (ling-g'wâl) a. pert. to the tongue; — n. a sound or letter made by the tongue, as d, l, n. — ling'ually adv. — ling'uiform a. shaped like a tongue. — ling'uist n. fluent speaker of several languages. — linguist'ic a. — linguist'ically adv. — linguist'ics n. comparative philology. — ling'ulate, ling'ular a. (Bot.) shaped like a tongue [L. lingua, a tongue].

liniment (lin'i-ment) n. a lotion or soft ointment [L. linere, to besmear].

link (link) n. a single ring of a chain; anything doubled and closed like a link; a connection, the 3d part of a chain (7.92 inches). — v.t. to connect by a link; (Fig.) to combine for a common purpose; — v.i. to be coupled. — link'age n. a system of connections. — missing link, a connection without which a chain of argument is incomplete, (Zool.) that form of animal life the scientific knowledge of which is required to complete the chain of evolution of man from the ape (O.E. hlence, a ring).

link (link) n. a torch of tar and tow. — link'boy or -man n. one who carried a link and guided people (etym. unknown).

link (link) n. a bend of a river. — links n.pl. flat ground near the sea, often laid out as a golf-course (O.E. hlinc, a ridge).

linn See lin.

Linnaean, Linnaean (lin-nè-ân) a. pert. to Linnaeus or Linne, the Swedish botanist (1707-1778). — Linnaean system (Bot.) an artificial or sexual system of botanical classification, formulated by Linnaeus.

linnet (lin-et) n. a small British song bird of the finch family, so called from its feeding on flax-seed (O.Fr. linette, fr. L. linum, flax).

linocut (lin'ô-kut) n. design cut in relief on linoleum; print from it [L. linum, flax].

linoleum (lin-ôle-um) n. floorcloth of hessian impregnated with a cement of linseed oil, cork, etc. [L. linum, flax; oleum, oil].

linotype (lin'ô-tipe) n. a typesetting machine in which the matter is cast in solid lines of type [L. linea, line, and type].

linseed (lin'sèd) n. flax-seed. — linseed cake, compressed mass of husks of linseed, after oil has been pressed out, much used for cattle feeding. — linseed oil, the oil pressed out of linseed (O.E. linsæd, flax-seed).

linsey (lin'sè) n. a dress material of wool and linen. — lin'sey-wool'sey a. made of wool and linen mixed; (Fig.) mean; shoddy; vile; — n. inferior stuff (O.Fr. linsel, and wool).

lint (lint) n. a linen material with one side teased or scraped to a soft, woolly surface, used for dressing wounds [L. linteum, a linen cloth].

lintel (lint-el) n. a horizontal beam or stone over a doorway [L.L. lintellus, fr. L. limes, a border].

lion (li-n) n. (fem. li'ness) the largest of the cat tribe, tawny-coloured, with powerful, tufted tail, the male having a shaggy mane; (Fig.) a person of fierce courage; a celebrity; (Astron.) a sign of the Zodiac (Leo). — li'on'heart a. courageous. Also li'on'heart'ed a.

—lip' onise v.t. to treat as an object of curiosity or as a celebrity. —the lion's share, the biggest portion. — to twist the lion's tail, to say something derogatory of Great Britain [L. leo, a lion].

lip (lip) n. one of the two fleshy, outer edges of the mouth; the edge of anything; brim; (Slang) impertinent talk; — pl. the organs of speech as represented by the lips; — v.t. to touch with the lips; to speak. — n. hypocritical praise. — lip'ped a. having a brim. — lip' read'ing n. the art of 'hearing' by reading the motions of a speaker's lips; this system as taught to the deaf. — lip' ser'vice n. superficial devotion to a person or cause. — lip'stick, a rouge-salve, in the form of a small stick, used by women to redden the lips [O.E. lippa, a lip].

liqueate (lik'wāt) v.t. to melt; to separate or purify solids or gases by liquefying. — lique'ation n. [L. liqueo, to be fluid].

liquefy (lik'we-fī) v.t. to transform to a liquid; to melt. — v.i. to become liquid. — pa.t. and pa.p. liquefied. — liquefa'cent a. — liquefac'tion n. the act of liquefying; the state of being liquefied. — liquef'able a. — liquef'ier n. — liquef'ecency n. — liquef'cent a. melting [L. liquefacere, to melt].

liqueur (li- or lō-ker') n. a preparation of distilled spirits, flavoured with fruits or aromatic substances [Fr.].

liquid (lik'wid) a. fluid; in a state intermediate between a solid and a gas, flowing smoothly, (of sounds) pleasing to the ear; — n. a substance interme'iate between a solid and a gas which assumes the shape of the vessel which contains it; the name popularly applied to a consonant which has a smooth flowing sound (l, m, n, r). — liqui'date v.t. to make clear; to settle a debt; to wind up the affairs of a bankrupt company; to adjust, to destroy. — v.s. (of business) to be wound up. — liquida'tion n. — liquida'tor n. [L. liquides, fluid].

liquor (lik'ur) n. any liquid or fluid, esp. alcoholic or spirituous fluid, a decoction [Fr. fr. L. liquere, to be fluid].

liquorice (lik'sō-ris) See licorice.

lira (lē'ra) n. an Italian silver coin, originally worth about tenpence [It. l.].

lise (li) n. a fine hard twisted cotton thread (formerly made at Lille, France).

lip (disp) v.i. to speak imperfectly, esp. to substitute the sound th for s. — v.t. to pronounce with a lip. — n. the habit of liping. — lip'ing n. [O.E. lūsp, stammering].

lissom (lis'm) a. supple; flexible, litho. — liss'omness n. [fr. lithosomē].

list (list) n. the outer edge or selvage of woven cloth, a row or stripe; a roll; a catalogue, an inventory, a register, a boundary line enclosing a field of combat, esp. in pl. lists: the field thus enclosed, — v.t. to sew together strips of cloth, to enter in a catalogue or inventory; — v.i. to enlist, to engage in a public service by enrolling one's name [O.E. list, a border].

list (list) v.t. to lean or incline, to please, to desire; (Naut.) to heel over; — v.i. to cause to heel over; — n. an inclination to one side [O.E. lystan, to desire].

listen (lis'en) v.t. to attend closely, to yield to advice. — list v.t. and v.i. to listen (poetical). — list'ener n. one who listens; (Radio) one who uses receiver to hear broadcasts. — to listen in, to hear broadcasts [O.E. hlust, hearing].

listless (list'less) a. indifferent; languid; apathetic. — list'lessly adv. — list'lessness n. [O.E. list, pleasure].

lit (lit) pa.t. and pa.p. of verb light.

litany (lit'an-i) n. an earnest prayer of supplication used in public worship [Gk. litaneia, supplication].

literal (lit'el) a. according to the letter; real, not figurative; word for word, as a translation. — lit'eralness n. — lit'erally adv. [L. litera, a letter].

literary (lit'ur-ar-i) a. pert. to letters or literature; versed in literature. — lit'eracy n. state of being literate, opp. of illiteracy. — lit'erate a. versed in learning and science; educated; — n. one who is able to read and write. — litera'ti n.pl. men of letters; educated people. — litera'tim adv. letter by letter [L. litera, a letter].

litharge (lit'hār-j) n. monoxide of lead [Gk. lithos, a stone; arguros, silver].

lithe (lith) a. capable of being easily bent; supple; pliant. — lithe'ly adv. — lithe'ness n. — lithe'some a. [O.E. lithe, gentle].

lithia (lit'hī-a) n. oxide of lithium. — lith'ium n. one of the alkaline metals, silvery white in colour, symbol Li, found in a few rare minerals [Gk. lithos, a stone].

lithogenous (li-thōj'ē-nus) a. rock-producing, as certain corals [Gk. lithos, a stone, γενεσθαι, to be born].

lithoglyph (lit'hō-glif) n. an engraving on a precious stone [Gk. lithos, a stone; gluphein, to carve].

lithograph (lit'hō-graf) v.t. to trace on stone, zinc, or aluminum, and transfer to paper by special printing process; — n. a print from stone, etc. — lithog'raphe n. — lithog'raph'ic, -al a. — lithog'raph'ically adv. — lithog'raphy n. the art of tracing designs on stone or other medium, and taking impressions of these designs [Gk. lithos, a stone; graphein, to write].

lithoid, -al (lit'hōid, -əl) a. resembling a stone [Gk. lithos, a stone].

lithology (lit'hō-lō-jī) n. the science which treats of the characteristics and classification of rocks. — litholog'ic, litholog'ical a. — lithol'ogist n. [Gk. lithos, a stone, logos, a discourse].

lithotint (lit'hō-tint) n. the lithographic production of a tinted picture, the picture itself [Gk. lithos, a stone, and tintē].

lithotome (lit'hō-tōm) n. a stone resembling an artificially cut gem (Surg.) an instrument for performing a lithotomy. — lithotom'ic a. — lithot'omist n. — lithot'omy n. (Surg.) the operation by which stones are removed from the bladder [Gk. lithos, a stone, tomē, a cutting].

lithotype (lit'hō-tip) n. a stereotype plate; a print from this plate. — lith'otypy n. [Gk. lithos, a stone, typos, type].

Lithuanian (lit'hū-ān-i-an) n. a native of Lithuania; the language.

litigate (lit'i-gāt) v.t. to contest in law; — v.i. to carry on a lawsuit. — lit'igable a. — lit'igant n. a person engaged in a lawsuit. — lit'igant in a lawsuit — lit'igation n. additional proceedings — lit'igator n. one who litigates. — lit'igious'ly n. — lit'igious a. given to engaging in lawsuits, disputatious [L. litigare, to dispute].

litmus (lit'mus) n. a bluish purple vegetable dye (obtained from lichens) which turns red with an acid, and blue with an alkali. — litmus paper, absorbent paper impregnated with litmus, used to test solutions [prob. fr. Dut. lakmoes, a blue dye].

litotes (lit'ō-tēz) n. a figure of speech which expresses a strong affirmative by using the negative of its contrary, as in phrase, no mean city [Gk. litos, simple].

litre (lē-tr) n. a unit of volume in the metric system, equal to 61.027 cubic inches, or 1.76 English pints [Gk. litra, a pound].

litter (lit'er) n. a heap of straw as bedding for animals; a vehicle containing beds carried on men's shoulders; a stretcher; odds and ends left lying about, state of disorder; a family of young pigs, puppies, etc., brought forth at the one birth; — v.t. to bring forth young, to scatter indiscriminately about; to make untidy with odds and ends [Fr. literer, a bed].

little (lit'l) a. small in size, extent, or quantity; brief, slight; mean; — n. a small quantity or space. — adv. in a small quantity or degree (comp. less, superl. least). — Lit'tle-Eng leader n. at end of 19th cent., one opposed to Imperialism [O.E. lytel, small].

littoral

littoral (lit'or-al) a. pert. to the sea-shore, esp. to that part between high and low water marks [L. litoralis, pertaining to the sea-shore].

liturgy (lit'ur-jī) n. the established ritual for public worship in a church, esp. the Mass. — litur'gic n. a leader in public worship. — litur'gic-al a. — litur'gically adv. — litur'gics n. the study of church worship and its ritual [Gk. leitourgia, a public service].

live (liv) v.i. to have life; to subsist; to be conscious; to dwell; to enjoy life; to keep oneself (as on one's income); — v.t. to spend; to pass. — pr.p. liv'ing. — pa.p. lived. — liv'able a. habitable. — liv'er n. — to live in, to reside at one's place of business [O.E. lifan, to live].

live (liv) a. having life; quick; active; vital; unexploded, as a mine; burning, as coal; full of zeal; dynamic. — lived (livd) a. used in compounds as long-lived, short-lived. — live'ele'cult n. a circuit through which an electric current is passing. — live-fence n. a hedge. — liv'en v.t. to enliven. — live-rail n. a conductor-rail in an electrified railway or underground system. — live-stock n. the general term for horses, cattle, pigs, etc., on a farm. — live-wire n. a wire carrying an electric current; (Fig.) an able, energetic and go-ahead person [O.E. lif, life].

livelihood (liv'li-hôd) n. a means of living; sustenance [O.E. lif, life; lad, a way].

livelong (liv'long) a. lasting throughout the whole day (orig. fr. O.E. leof, dear).

lively (liv'li) a. animated; active; gay; exciting; light; — adv. briskly; — live'lyly adv. — live'liness n. [O.E. liflic, life-like].

liver (liv'er) n. (Anat.) glandular organ in body secreting bile; the flesh of this organ in animals or fowls used as food. — liv'er-fluke n. a trematoid worm. — liv'erish a. off-colour because of a disordered liver. — liv'erwort n. a moss-like plant with liver-shaped leaves. — liv'y-liv'ered a. cowardly [O.E. lifer, liver].

livery (liv'er-i) n. orig. the special dress or food delivered by a lord to his household retinue; a dress peculiar to a certain group, as members of a medieval guild or trade; any characteristic uniform of an employee, as of a chauffeur; a supply of food given out at stated intervals to horses, etc.; the body of liverymen in London; garb or general appearance. — liv'eried a. clothed in a livery. — liv'ery-com'pany n. one of London's city companies, orig. a trade guild. — liv'eryman n. one who wears a livery; a freeman of the city of London. — liv'ery-sta'ble n. a stable where horses and vehicles are kept for hire [O.Fr. livrée, an allowance].

livid (liv'id) a. black and blue; discoloured, as flesh, by bruising. — liv'id'ity, liv'idness n. [L. lividus, bluish].

living (liv'ing) a. having life; active; flowing (of water); resembling closely; contemporary; — n. livelihood; maintenance; mode of life; ecclesiastical benefice. — living language, a language still in use. — living rock, rock in its natural place and state. — liv'ing-room n. a sitting-room [O.E. lif, life].

live (liv'er) n. an old French silver coin equivalent to 20 sous or 9d. [Fr. fr. L. libra, a pound].

lizard (liz'ard) n. an order of four-footed, scale-clad reptiles [L. lacerta].

llama (lá'ma) n. a S. American two-toed ruminant, allied to the camel (Peruv.).

llano (lá'nô or lyá'nô) n. one of the vast grassy plains of the Orinoco valley in S. America, and of Texas, in U. S. A. — pl. llanos (Sp. llano, a plain).

lo (lô) interj. look! behold! (O.E. la, (limit.)).

loach (lôch) a small river-fish [Fr. loche].

load (lôd) n. a burden; the amount normally carried at one time; any heavy weight; a cargo; 40 cubic feet of unawn timber; (Elect.) amount of electrical energy drawn from a source; (Fig.) burden of anxiety; — pl. (Collog.) plenty; heaps; — v.t. to burden; to put on, for conveyance; to freight; to overweight; to local

overwhelm (with gifts, adulation, etc.); to charge (a gun); to adulterate (as wine); to weight with load (as a cane); to insert a spool into (as a camera); — v.t. to take on a load or cargo; to charge a firearm; to become loaded. — load'ed a. weighted; (Slang) drunk. — load'ing n. the act of loading; a freight; any substance, as size, which gives body to a fabric. — load'line n. a line painted on the side of a vessel to indicate maximum immersion when loaded (Pilmoll mark). — load'shed'ding n. (Electricity) discarding part of the load. — load'stone n. See lod'stone [O.E. lad].

loaf (lôf) n. shaped portion of dough baked in the oven; a lump of sugar shaped like a cube, or a conical mass of sugar; — pl. loaves. — meat-loaf n. meat shape cooked in a loaf-tin [O.E. hlaf, a loaf].

loaf (lôf) v.t. to spend (time) idly; to lounge. — loaf'er n. (etym. uncertain).

loam (lôm) n. a rich, fertile soil of clay, sand, oxide of iron, and carbonate of lime; a mixture of clay, sand, and chopped straw used in brick-making [O.E. lam, clay].

loan (lôn) n. the act of lending; that which is lent, esp. money for interest; — v.t. (chiefly U. S. usage) to lend. — loan'ee, loan'er n. — loan'off'ice n. a pawnbroker's office; a money-lender's premises [O.N. lan, loan].

loath, loth (lôth) a. unwilling; reluctant; disinclined. — loath'ness n. [O.E. lath, hateful].

loathe (lôth) v.t. to detest; to abominate; to be nauseated by. — loath'ing n. disgust; repulsion. — loath'ly adv. — loath'some a. detestable, repugnant. — loath'somely, loath'someness n. [O.E. lath, hateful].

lob (lob) n. a dull, clumsy fellow; anything thick and heavy; (Cricket) a slow underhand ball; (Tennis) a ball rising high in air over opponent's head; — v.t. to let fall heavily; to bowl underhand; to hit (tennis ball, shuttlecock) high into the air; — v.i. to deliver a lob; to walk clumsily. — pr.p. lob'bing. — pa.p. lob'bed. — lob's pound n. a prison. — lob'worm n. a large earthworm used as bait [Scand. lobb, a lump of fat].

lobby (lob'i) n. a narrow passage, or hall, forming the entrance to a public building or private dwelling; a waiting-room; hall of House of Commons where M.P.'s may meet their constituents. — division lobby, corridor in House of Commons to which members retire to vote on a division. — lobb'ing n. the frequenting of the lobby to collect Parliamentary news, or to influence voting [L.L. lobna, a portico].

lobe (lôb) n. a rounded division of an organ; the lower, fleshy, rounded part of human ear; a division of the lung; (Bot.) rounded division of a leaf. — lob'ar a. — lob'state, lobed, lob'ose a. consisting of lobes. — pl. lob'uli [Gk. lobos, the lobe of the ear].

Lobelia (lob'é-li-a) n. a genus of herbaceous plants (including the blue dwarf variety) [fr. Lobel botanist to James I.].

lobster (lob'ster) n. an edible, marine, long-tailed crustacean, with pincer-claws. — lobster pot, wicker basket in which lobsters are trapped (corrupt. of L. locusta, a lobster).

local (lô'kal) a. pert. to a particular place; confined to a definite spot, district, or part of the body; circumscribed; — n. some person or thing belonging to a district; a suburban train. — lo'cal, lo'cale n. the scene of an occurrence; the scene of a film-shot. — local'isation n. the act of localising. — lo'calise v.t. to assign to a definite place; to decentralise; to cordon off. — local'ity n. position of a thing; site; neighbourhood. — lo'cally adv. — locate v.t. to set in a particular place; to find the exact position of. — locat'ion n. act of locating; situation; geographical position; the out-of-doors site of a film production. — locat'ive a. pert. to a location. — n. (Gram.) the case form denoting the 'place where.' — local anæsthetic, an anæsthetic injected to produce insensibility in one part of the body only.—local government, administration by local bodies of county or town affairs.—local time, time calculated from the sun.—the local (Colloq.) a public-house; the village inn [L. locus, a place].

loch (loH) n. a lake, esp. in Scotland; an arm of the sea (as Loch Fyne).—loch'an n. a small loch [Gael.].

lock (lok) n. a strand or tress of hair;—pl. hair of the head [O.E. locc, a tress].

lock (lok) n. a device for fastening a door, box, case, etc.; a mechanism on a gun released by trigger; an appliance to check the revolution of a wheel; an accidental stoppage of any mechanism; an enclosure in a canal with gate at each end for allowing vessels to pass from one level to another; the grappling hold, in wrestling; a traffic jam;—v.t. to fasten with a lock and key; to furnish with locks, as a canal; to hold tightly;—v.i. to become fast, to jam.—lock'er n. a drawer or small cupboard where valuables may be kept.—lock'et n. a small case, containing portrait, lock of hair, and worn on a chain.—lock'fast a. securely fastened.—lock'gate n. a sluice-gate on a canal.—lock'jaw n. a spasmodic contraction of the muscles of the jaw; tetanus.—lock'nut n. a second nut screwed on top of the first nut to prevent loosening.—lock-out n. a refusal by an employer to admit employees into his works, until a trade dispute has been amicably settled.—lock'sm'h n. one who makes and repairs locks.—lock'stitch n. a stitch by which two threads are locked together.—lock-up n. a prison [O.E. loc, a fastening].

locomotion (lō-kō-mō'shun) n. the act or process of moving from place to place.—locomotive a. capable of moving from one place to another.—n. an engine which moves by its own power, as a railway engine.—locomotive'ity n.—locomoto'r n. a person or thing with power to move.—a. pert to locomotion.—locomoto'ry a. [L. locus, a place; movere, to move].

locus (lō'kus) n. the exact position of anything. (Math.) the path traced out by a point moving in accordance with some mathematical law.—pl. loci (lō'si).—locus classicus, the most authoritative passage illustrating a certain subject [L. locus, a place].

locust (lō'kust) n. a winged insect, allied to the grasshopper and found in N. Africa and Asia.—locust-tree, n. the false acacia; the carob [L. locusta].

locution (lō-kū'shun) n. speech, mode or style of speaking [L. loqui, to speak].

lode (lōd) n. a metallic vein, a water-course; an open drain.—lode'star, load'star n. a star by which one steers, esp. the Pole-star.—lode'stone, load'stone n. a metal which attracts other metals [O.E. lād, a counsel].

lodge (lodj) n. a small country-house; a cottage at the entrance to an estate; a porter's room in a college, a branch of a society, as of Freemasons, or the building where such a society meets.—v.t. to dwell temporarily; to reside, to become embedded in;—v.i. to deposit for preservation, to tuck; to lay flat; to harbour; to put (as money) in a bank; v. allege, as an accusation.—pr.p. lodg'ing.—pa.p. lodged.—lodg'e'ment n. lodgings; accumulation of something deposited; (Mil.) occupation of a position by a besieging party.—lodg'er n. one who occupies rooms at weekly rent.—lodg'ing(s) n. room(s) let temporarily at weekly rent [O.Fr. loge, an apartment].

loft (loft) n. an upper room; an attic in space between top story and roof; the gallery in a church as the organ-loft;—v.t. (Golf) to strike a ball high.—loft'ly adv.—loft'iness n.—loft'y a. elevated; towering; haughtily [Scand. lopt, air].

log (log) n. a roughly hewn piece of timber; an apparatus to measure the speed of a ship; the tabulated record of a ship's speed; a log-book;—a. made of logs;—v.t. to fell and trim trees; to clear woodland; to keep a record of; to fine.—pr.p. log'ging.—pa.p. logged.—log'book n. a daily record of events on a ship's voyage.—log'cab'in n. a hut made of lopped tree trunks.—log'ger n. a lumberjack.—log'ging n. lumbering.—log'line n. a line marked off in knots and fastened to a log for estimating ship's speed.—log'roll'ing n. the act of clearing logs, esp. from a neighbour's land, hence mutual help esp. in politics.—to heave the log, to keep a record of a ship's course by means of a log [M.E. logge, a log].

loganberry (lō'gan-ber-i) n. a shrub, a cross between raspberry and blackberry (hybridised by Judge Logan, 1881).

logarithm (log'a-rithm) n. the index of the power to which a fixed number or base must be raised to produce the number; a method of reducing arithmetical calculations to a minimum by substituting addition and subtraction for multiplication and division.—logarith'metic(al), logarith'mic(al) a.—logarith'mically adv. [Gk. logos, ratio; arithmos, a number].

loggerhead (log'er-hed) n. a blockhead; a dunce; a kind of turtle.—at loggerheads, quarrelling, at cross-purposes [fr. log and head].

loggia (lō'gā or lō'gā) n. a kind of open, elevated gallery with pillars, common in Italian buildings.—pl. loggie (lō'gā).—loggias (lō'gās) [It. loggia].

logic (lō'jiki) n. the science of reasoning; the science of pure and formal thought; (Colloq.) commonsense.—log'ical a. pert to formal thought, skilled in logic, deducible.—logical'ity, log'icalness n.—log'ically adv.—logician n. one skilled in logic.—to chop logic, to argue pedantically [Gk. logos, speech].

logistic, -al (lōj-ist'ik, -al) a. expert in calculating.—logistics n., pl. (used as sing.) the art of calculating. (Mil.) branch of military science which deals with the moving of and providing for troops [Gk. logizesthai, to compute].

logogram (lōg'ō-gram) n. a symbol representing a whole word or phrase, as \mathbf{z} = pound; a puzzle based on an anagram [Gk. logos, a word; gramma, a letter].

logographer (lō-gō'grā-fer) n. a speech-writer in ancient Greek times—logog'raphy n. a method of printing in which words cast in a single type are used instead of single letters [Gk. logos, a word, graphein, to write].

loin (loin) n. part of animal or man above hips and on either side of spinal column, ribs of a sheep;—pl. lower part of back.—loin-cloth n. a strip of cloth worn round the loins [L. lumbus, loin].

loiter (lō'iter) v.t. to linger; to be slow in moving, to spend time idly.—loiter'er n.—loiter'ingly adv. [Dut. leuteren, to delay].

loll (lōl'r) v.t. to lounge about lazily; to hang out, as the tongue.—v.i. to thrust out, as the tongue [Scand. lolla, to be lazy].

Lollard (lōl'ard) n. one of the followers of John Wycliffe in England in 14th and 15th cents.—Loll'ardism n. the doctrines preached by John Wycliffe. Also Loll'ardry [Dut. lollen, to mumble].

lolly (lōl'y) n. a lump.—lolly'pop, loll'ipop n. a sweetmeat; a lump of fruit-flavoured toffee on a stick (etym. doubtful).

Londoner (lun'dunn-er) n. a native or citizen of London.—Lon'don-clay n. a blue clay found in London and Hampshire basins.—London pride (Bot.) a kind of saxifrage; (sl.) None-sop'retty].

lone (lōn) a. solitary; standing by itself.—lone'liness, lone'ness n.—lone'ly a. alone; unrequented.—lone'some a. solitary.—lone'somely adv.—lone'someness n. [abbrev. fr. alone].

long (long) a. extended in distance or time; drawn out in a line; protracted; slow in coming; continued at great length;—adv. to a great extent; at a point of duration far distant.—v.t. to be filled with a yearning; to desire.—long'ago' adv. in the remote past.

long-boat n. the largest boat carried by a sailing ship. — long-bow n. a bow drawn by hand — so called to distinguish it from the Cross-bow. — long-drawn a. protracted. — longeron (lon-jer-on) n. (Aero.) a main longitudinal strength member of a fuselage or nacelle. — longevity (long-jev-i-ti) n. uncommonly prolonged duration of life. — long-val, long-vow a. long-lived. — long-hand n. ordinary handwriting (opp. shorthand). — long-head a. far-seeing; prudent. — long-hund n. a hundred and twenty. — long-ing n. a yearning; a craving. — long-ly adv. — long-lah a. rather long. — longitude (lon-i-tud) n. angular distance east or west of a given meridian, measured in degrees. (Astron.) angular distance from vernal equinox on the ecliptic. — longitudinal a. pert. to length or longitude; lengthwise; — n. a girder running lengthwise in a ship or airship. — longitudinally adv. — long-measure n. linear measure. — long-range a. having the power to fire a great distance, as a gun; able to fly or sail great distances without refuelling, as aircraft, submarine, etc. — long-shanks n. a long-legged plover. — long-shore a. existing or employed on the shore. — long-shoreman n. a dock-labourer; one employed along the shore. — long-sight n. (Med.) hypermetropia, an abnormal eye condition whereby the rays of light are focused beyond and not on the retina. — long-some a. wearisome. — long-spun a. tedious. — long-standing a. having existed for some time. — long-suffering a. patiently enduring. — long-weir n. tediousness. — long-wind a. able to run a great distance without becoming short of breath; tedious; loquacious. — long-wise, long-ways a. lengthwise. — before long, soon [O.E. lang, long].

loo (loo) n. a card-game; — v.i. to win in a game of loo [abbrev. fr. lanterloo].

loofa, loofah (loo-fa) n. the fibrous interior of a plant of the gourd type, used as a flesh-brush [Ar. lu-fah].

look (look) v.i. to turn one's eyes upon; to seem to be; to consider; to suggest; to face, as a dwelling; — v.t. to express by a look; — n. the act of directing one's gaze upon; facial expression generally; aspect; view; — look'er n. one who looks. — look'er-on n. a spectator. — look-ing n. a search. — look-ing-glass n. a mirror. — look-out n. vigilance; a place from which a careful watch is kept; person stationed to keep watch. — to look after, to tend. — look up, to admire. — to have a look-in, to be successful. — to look in, in television, to receive pictures by television. [O.E. looran, to look].

loom (loom) n. a machine for weaving cloth from thread by interlacing threads called the woof through threads called the warp; part of the shaft of an oar inside the rowlock [O.E. geloma, a tool].

loom (loom) v.i. to emerge indistinctly and larger than the real dimensions; to appear over the horizon; to menace; (Fig.) to assume great importance [etym. doubtful].

loom (loom) n. a kind of gullemet; a puffin; the ember-geese. Also loos [Scand. lomr, a sea-bird].

loon (loon) n. a rogue; a rascal; (Scot.) a lad [Dut. loen, a stupid fellow].

loony (loon-i) a. (Colloq.) a crazy person [fr. lunatic].

loop (loop) n. a doubling of string or rope, through which another string may run; ornamental fastening; (Aero.) an aerial manoeuvre in which plane describes a complete circle; — v.t. to fasten by a loop. — looped a. coiled, as a rope; folded double; knotted. — loop-line n. a branch railway which leaves and later rejoins main-line [prob. fr. hub, a bend].

loop (loop) n. a narrow slit or opening in the walls of a fortification; (Fig.) a way out of a difficult situation. Also loop-hole, loop-holed a. [prob. cogn. M. Dut. lupen, to peer].

loose (loos) v.t. to free from constraint; to untie; to disconnect; to relax; to discharge; to abolve; — v.i. to set sail; — a. free; slack; unsewed; unbound; flowing; diffuse; incoherent; careless; inaccurate; lax; inclined to diarrhoea. — loose-box n. a stable where horse is free to move about. — loose-coup-ling n. (Elect.) inductive coupling in which the mutual inductance is small compared with the self inductance. — loose-ly adv. — loose-en v.t. to make loose; to unscrew, as a lid; — v.i. to become loose; to become relaxed. — loose-ener n. (Med.) a medicine which loosens the bowels. — loose-ness n. — loose-tongued a. prating; indiscreet. — to be at a loose end, to have nothing particular to do. — to break loose, to escape from confinement [O.E. leas, loose].***

loosestrife (loo-s-trif) n. kinds of herbaceous plants with purple or yellow flowers (Gk. lusmacheia, fr. proper name Lusmachos, fr. luen, loose; march, battle).

loot (loot) n. plunder; the act of plundering; — v.t. and v.i. to plunder; to appropriate illegally as contents of a bombed house [rans. lut, booty].

lop (lop) v.t. to cut off, esp. top of anything; to cut away superfluous parts. — n. twigs cut off from tree; act of lopping. — lop-per n. — lop-ping n. [Dut. luppen, to cut].

lop (lop) v.t. to hang down loosely. — lop-eared a. having drooping ears. — lop-sid a. heavier on one side than the other; askew [prob. imit.].

lope (lope) v.t. to run with a long, leisurely gait (as a mule). — n. an easy gait, like a canter [O.N. hlaupa, to leap].

loquacious (lo-kwá-shus) a. talkative; babbling; garrulous. — loquaciously adv. — loquaciousness, loquac-ity n. talkativeness [L. loquax, talkative].

loquat (lokwat) n. a low-growing Japanese plum-tree; the fruit itself [Chinese].

loran (loran) n. (Flying) a navigational device which locates the position of an aeroplane [A corruption of long + range + navigation].

lorcha (lorcha) n. a light, Chinese sailing-vessel, of European build, rigged as a junk [prob. Malay].

lord (lord) n. a master; a ruler; a king; a husband, a proprietor of a manor; any peer of the realm; courtesy title of the son of a duke or marquis, and the eldest son of an earl, the holder of certain high government offices, as Chancellor, or of judicial importance, as Chief Justice, and of municipal offices as Mayor, Provost, etc.; a form of address accorded to bishops, esp. if members of the House of Lords; the Supreme Being; Jehovah; God, Christ. — v.t. to play the lord; to domineer. — lord-liness n. — lord-ling n. a petty or unimportant lord. — lord-ly a. pert. to, or like, a lord, imperious; proud; magnificent. — lord-ship n. the state of being a lord; authority; estate owned by a lord; (with his, your) a formal mode of address in speaking to a lord, bishop, provost, etc. — lords and ladies, a popular name for the wild arum lily. — Lord's Day, Sunday. — Lord's Supper, the sacrament of communion. — Lord Chancellor, the president of the House of Lords, and Keeper of the Great Seal. — Lord-Lieutenant, the head of the magistracy of a county. — House of Lords, the upper house in the two-house British Parliament [O.E. hlaford, the keeper of the bread].

lore (lor) n. learning; erudition; traditional knowledge [O.E. lar, lore].

lorgnette (lor-net) n. a pair of eye-glasses attached to a long handle; an opera-glass [Fr. lorgner, to stare at].

lorica (lo-rí-ka) n. a cuirass; (Zool.) a protective covering of bony plates, scales, etc., like a cuirass. — lor-iate v.t. to clothe in mail; to cover with a coating or crust, as a chemical vessel for roasting fire; — a. (Zool.) having protective covering of bony plates, as crocodiles [L. lorica, a breastplate].

loriner (lor-i-ner) n. a maker of bridles, bits and stirrups. Also lor'imer [O.Fr. lorain, a harness strap].

lorn (lorn) a. lost; forsaken; desolate [O.E. lorn, pa.p. of leosan, to lose].

lorry (lori) n. a wagon for transporting heavy loads [etym. doubtful].

lose (lóz) v.t. to be deprived of; to mislay; to forfeit; to fail to win; to miss; to waste, as time; to destroy; —v.i. to fail; to suffer loss; to become bewildered. —pr.p. los'ing. —pa.t. and pa.p. lost. —los'able a. —los'er n. one who or that which loses. —los'ing a. producing loss.

—loss n. the act of losing, defeat; diminution; bereavement, harm, waste by escape or leakage; number of casualties suffered in war. —lost a. mislaid, bewildered; bereft; squandered; damned. —at a loss, uncertain [O.E. loman, to lose].

lot (lot) n. what happens by chance; destiny; object used to determine something by chance, the choice thus determined, a separate part, a large number, esp. of articles at an auction sale; (Guenna) the area covered by film studio and its subsidiary buildings. —v.t. to allot, to separate into lots —lot'tery n. a scheme by which prizes are given to people, not on merit, but by drawing lots —a job-lot, a miscellaneous collection of articles, sold as one item, as at an auction sale [O.E. hlót, a share].

loth (lôth) a. Same as loath.

Lothario (lô-thar-i-ô) n. libertine, rake [fr. Lothario, in Rowe's The Fair Penitent].

lotion (lô-shun) n. a fluid with healing, antiseptic properties esp. for skin affections (L. lavare, lotum, to wash).

lotto (lô-tô) n. a game of chance [fr. lot].

lotus (lô-tus) n. the Egyptian water-lily; a genus of plants including the British bird's-foot trefoil, a N. African shrub, the fruit of which was reputed, in Greek legend, to induce in those who consumed it an overpowering lethargy. Also lote, lo'tos. —Lotopha g. Lo tus-sa'ers n. pl. (Fig.) one who gives up an active life for one of slothful ease (Grk. lotos).

loud (loud) a. making a great sound, noisy; flashy, obtrusive, vulgar. —loud, loud'ly adv. —loud'ness n. —loud-speak'er n. (Radio) kind of telephone receiver rendering received signals audible at a distance [O.E. hlud, loud].

lough (lôl) n. a lake or arm of the sea — the Irish form of loch [Anglo-Gr.].

louis (lô-i) n. an obsolete French gold coin worth 20 francs. Also louis d'or. — louisquorze, quinze, seize, applied to architecture, furniture, style of interior decoration characteristic of the reigns of the French kings Louis XIV, XV, XVI [Fr.].

lounge (lounj) v.t. to recline at ease; to loiter, to spend time idly. —n. the act of lounging, a room in which people may relax, a kind of sofa — lounj'er n. — lounge-suit n. a man's jacket suit for day-time wear [etym. doubtful].

lour, lower (lour) v.t. to frown, to look gloomy, or threatening, as the sky; —n. a scowl, sullenness. —low'ring a. —low'eringly adv. [M.E. louru, to frown].

louse (lous) n. a small wingless parasitic insect infesting hair and skin of human beings, a sucking parasite found on mammals. —pl. lice. —lous'ly adv. —lous'iness n. —lous'y a. infested with lice; (Slang) mean; despicable [O.E. lus, a louse].

lout (lout) n. a clumsy fellow; a bumpkin. —v.t. to bend. —lout'ish a. awkward, clownish. —lout'ishly adv. [etym. uncertain].

louvre (lô-lv'r) n. an opening in the roof of ancient buildings for the escape of smoke or for ventilation; a slot for ventilation in a motor-car. — louvre-win'dow n. a window partially closed by outward sloping boards [O.Fr. louver for l'ouvert, the open space].

love (luv) n. affection; strong liking; goodwill; benevolence; charity; devoted attachment to one of the opposite sex; passion; the object of affection; the personification of love, Cupid; (Tennis) no score; —v.t. to show affection for; to be delighted with; to admire passionately; —v.i. to be in love; to delight. —lov'able a. worthy of affection; engaging. —lov'ableness n. —love-affair n. passionate attachment between two members of the opposite sex. —love-ap'ple n. the tomato. —love-bird n. a small parrot with bright-coloured plumage. —love-charm n. a philtre. —love-child n. an illegitimate child. —love-feast n. a religious festival among the early Christians during which collections were made for the poor. —love-in-a-mist n. fennel. —love-in-idleness n. the pansy. —love-knot n. a bow of ribbon tied in a special way, as a token of love. —love-less a. lacking love, not founded on love. —love-lett'er n. a letter written to a sweetheart. —love-lies-bleed'ing n. a garden-flower with reddish-purple spike-flowers. —love-lily adv. —love-liness n. —love-lock n. a curl worn on the forehead or over the temple. —love-lorn a. forsaken. —love'ly a. very beautiful; —love-mak'ing n. courtship. —love-match n. a marriage founded on true love. —love-philt're or -pot'ion n. a drink supposed to induce the emotion of love towards a chosen person. —lover n. one who loves, esp. one of the opposite sex; an admirer, as of the arts. —love-like a. —love'ly adv. like a lover. —love-sick a. pining because of love. —love'some a. lovely. —love-song n. lyric inspired by love. —love-sto'ry n. a novel or short story with love as its theme. —love-tok'en n. an object, as a ring, given as a symbol of love. —lov'ing a. affectionate, loyal. —lov'ing-cup n. a large drinking-vessel with two handles, passed round at a banquet. —lov'ingly adv. —lov'ingness n. [O.E. lufu, love].

low (lô) a. not high; lying near the ground; depressed below the adjacent surface, near the horizon; shallow, not loud, as a voice; moderate, as prices, detected, lewd, weak; cold, as a temperature, humble; (of dress) décolleté. —adv. not high; in a low voice; cheaply. —low-brow n. non-intellectual person. — Low Church, the evangelical sect of the English Church as opp. to High Church. — Low Countries, the Netherlands. —low-down a. mean, underhand; —n. (U.S.) full information. —low'er v.t. to cause to descend, to take down, to humble, to diminish resistance, to make cheap, to reduce pitch. —a. (compar. of low) less exalted. —low-ermos' n. lowest. — Low German, the language of the inhabitants of N. Germany. —low-land n. count, which is relatively flat in comparison with surrounding hilly district. —low-lander n. an inhabitant of flat land, esp. in Scotland. —low-life n. life of peasant or humble class. —low-liness n. —low'ly a. humble; meek. —low-pres'sure, having only a small expansive force (less than 50 lbs. to the square inch) said of steam and steam engines. —low-relief, bas-relief, a form of architectural decoration. —low-spir'ed a. dejected [O.N. lagr, low].

low (lô) v.t. to bellow as an ox or cow; —n. the noise made [O.E. hlacan, to low].

loyal (lô-ai) a. faithful to the lawful government, the sovereign, a cause, or a friend. —loy'alist n. a faithful follower of a cause. —loy'alty adv. —loy'alty n. fidelity [Fr. fr. L. lex, a law].

lozenge (lô-zenj) n. a figure with two acute and two obtuse angles; small (diamond-shaped) sweetmeat. —x. lozenge-shaped [etym. doubtful].

lubber (lubb'r) n. a heavy, clumsy fellow. Also, lubb'ard. —lubb'arly a. —lubb'erness n.

lubricate (lô-lub'r-i-kât) v.t. to make smooth or slippery to smear with oil, grease, etc., to reduce friction; (Fig.) to bribe. —lub'ric, -al a. —lub'ricant n. any oily substance used to reduce friction; —a. having the property of reducing friction. —lubric'ation n. —lub'ricative a. —lub'ricator n. —lubric'ity n. slipperiness; lewdness [L. lubricare, to make slippery].

- luce (lôôs) n. a fresh-water fish, the pike when full grown [O.Fr. lus, a pike].
- lucet (lôô'sent) a. shining; bright. —lu'cency n. —lu'cer'nal a. pert. to a lamp [L. lucere, to shine].
- lucerne (lôô'sern) n. alfalfa; a plant much used for animal fodder [etym. doubtful].
- lucid (lôô'sid) a. shining; clear; easily understood, as of style; normally sane. —luc'id'ity, lu'cidness n. the state of being clear or intelligible. —lu'sidly adv. [L. lucis, light].
- Lucifer (lôô'si-fer) n. the planet Venus, when appearing as the morning star; Satan. —lu'ifer n. a match easily ignited by friction [L. lucifer, light-bearing].
- luck (luk) n. accidental fortune, good or bad; fate; chance. —luck'ily adv. —luck'iness n. —luck'less n. unfortunate. —luck'lessly adv. —luck'lessness n. —luck'y a. fortunate; fortuitous. —luck'y-bag n. a receptacle containing assorted articles which one chooses from, by dipping into the bag. Also lucky dip [Dut. luk, fate].
- lucre (lôô'ker) n. material gain; profit, esp. ill-gotten; advantage. —lu'crative a. profitable. —lu'cratively adv. —filthy lucre (Slang) money [L. lucrum, gain].
- lucubrate (lôô'kü-brät) v.t. to study by lamp or candlelight, or at night. —lucubra'tion n. nocturnal study; the product of such study. —lu'cubrate n. —lu'cubratory a. [L. lucubrare, to work by candlelight].
- luculent (lôô'kü-lent) a. clear; self-evident. —lu'culently adv. [L. luz, light].
- Luddite (lud'it) n. one of the secret organisations of rioters in England (1811-16). From Ned Ludd, who smashed two stocking-frames in a house in Nottingham.
- ludicrous (lôô'di-krus) a. provoking laughter; ridiculous; droll. —lu'dicrously adv. —lu'dicrousness n. [L. ludus, sport].
- ludo (lôô'dô) n. children's game played with counters and dice [L. ludere, to play].
- luff (luf) v.t. to turn the head of a ship towards the wind; to sail near the wind; —n. the windward side of a ship [M.E. lof, a paddle].
- luffa (luff'a) n. See loofa.
- Luftlag (lôô'ti-lag) n. prisoner-of-war camp in Germany for R.A.F. personnel [Ger. Luft, air; Lager, camp].
- Luftwaffe (lôô'ti-vä-fə) n. the German Air Force [Ger. Luft, the air; Waffe, a weapon].
- lug (lug) v.t. to pull with force; to tug; to haul; to drag. —pr.-p. lug'ging. —pat. and pa.p. lug'ged. —lug'gage n. a traveller's trunks, baggage, etc. —lug'ger n. a small vessel with lug-sails. —lug'sail n. a square sail bent upon a yard which hangs obliquely to the mast. [Scand. lugga, to pull the hair].
- lug (lug) n. (Scot.) the ear; anything resembling an ear [Scand. lugga, a forelock].
- lugubrious (lôô'kü'bri-us) a. mournful; woeful; dismal. —lugu'briously adv. —lugu'briousness n. [L. lugere, to mourn].
- lukewarm (lôô'kü-warm) a. moderately warm; tepid. Also luke. —luke'warmly adv. —luke'warmness n. [M.E. leuk, tepid; warm].
- lull (lul) v.t. to soothe to sleep; to quieten; —v.i. to become quiet gradually. —n. a period of quiet in storm or noise. —lull'aby n. a song sung to a child to soothe it to sleep [Scand. lulla, to sing to sleep].
- lum (lum) n. a ventilating chimney in a mine; (Scot.) a chimney [Scot.].
- lumbago (lum-bä'gô) n. a painful rheumatic affection of the lumbar muscles. —lumbag'inous, lum'bar, lum'bal a. pert. to the lower part of the back [L. lumbus, the loin].
- lumber (lum'ber) n. anything useless and cumbersome; odds and ends hoarded; timber cut and split for market. —v.t. to heap in disorder. —lum'berer n. feller of timber. Also lum'berjack, lum'berman. —lum'bering n. [fr. Lombard, a pawnbroker's shop].
- lumber (lum'ber) v.t. to move heavily. —
- lum'berer n. —lum'bering a. [Scand. lomra, to resound].
- luminary (lôôm'in-ar-i) n. any body which gives light, esp. one of the heavenly bodies; (Fig.) a person of outstanding qualities. —lu'minant a. giving out light. —lu'mina'tion n. —lu'mines'cence n. the quality of being luminescent; phosphorescence. —lu'mines'cent a. —lu'menif'erous a. yielding light. —lu'minous a. shining; brilliant; glowing; (Fig.) lucid; comprehensible. —lu'minously adv. —lu'minousness, lu'minos'ity n. [L. lumen, a light].
- lump (lump) n. a small mass of matter of indefinite shape; a swelling; the gross; (Colloq.) a stupid, clumsy person; —v.t. to throw into a mass; to take in the gross. —lump'y a. full of lumps; uneven. —in the lump, taken as an aggregate [Scand. lump, a block].
- lunar (lôô'nar) a. pert. to the moon; measured by revolutions of the moon. Also lu'nary. —lu'nacy n. madness, formerly supposed to be influenced by changes of moon. —lu'natic a. insane; —n. a mad person. —lu'na'tion n. the period from one new moon to the next. —lu'nar month, period of the moon's revolution, about 29½ days. —lu'nar year, period of twelve synodic lunar months (354½ days) [L. luna, the moon].
- lunch (lunsh) n. a light meal taken between breakfast and dinner. Also lunch'oon. —v.t. to take lunch. —lunch'er n. [dial. lunsh, a lump].
- lune (lôôn) n. anything in the shape of a half-moon. —lu'nette n. a crescent-shaped opening in a vault to let in light; a watch-glass with flattened centre; a detached bastion [L. luna, the moon].
- lung (lung) n. one of the two main organs of respiration in a breathing animal. —lunged a. [O.E. lungen, lungs].
- lunge (lung) n. in fencing, a sudden thrust; —v.t. to thrust [Fr. allonger, to stretch].
- lupin, lupine (lôô'pin) n. a genus of leguminous plants, some cultivated for their spikes of flowers, others for cattle-fodder and manure [L. lupinus, pert. to a wolf].
- lupine (lôô'pin) a. like a wolf, ravenous [L. lupinus, pert. to a wolf].
- lupus (lôô'pus) n. a spreading tubercular condition affecting the skin [L. lupus, a wolf].
- lurch (lurch) n. a sudden roll of a ship to one side, a staggering movement. —v.t. to stagger. —lurch'er n. a kind of hunting-dog; a sneak-thief [etym. doubtful].
- lurch (lurch) n. a critical move in the game of cribbage. —to leave in the lurch, to desert in a moment of need [Fr. lourche, a game].
- lure (lör) n. a decoy used by the fisherman to recall the hawk; an artificial bait. —v.t. to entice; to decoy [Fr. lurrer, a bait].
- lurid (lô'rid) a. ghastly pale; extravagantly coloured; (Fig.) startling. —lu'ridly adv. [L. luridus, pale yellow].
- lurk (lurk) v.t. to lie hid; to lie in wait. —lurk'er n. [Scand. lurka, to go slowly].
- luscious (lush'us) a. excessively sweet; cloying. —luso'iously adv. —luso'iousness n. [etym. doubtful].
- lush (lush) a. fresh; juicy [luscious].
- lust (lust) n. longing desire; sexual appetite; craving; —v.t. to desire passionately, to have sexual appetites. —lust'ful a. having inordinate carnal desires, sensual. —lust'fully adv. —lust'fulness n. —lust'iness n. —lust'ily adv. —lust'y a. vigorous; robust [O.E. lust, pleasure].
- lustre, lustrum (lus'ter, lus'trum) n. a period of five years. —lus'tral a. pert. to, or used in, purification. —lus'tra'tion n. the act of purifying; the sacrifice or ceremony by which cities, fields, armies, or people were purified [L. lustrare, to purify].
- lustre (lus'ter) n. clearness; glitter; gloss; (Fig.) renown; chandelier with drops or pendants of cut glass; a cotton dress fabric with glossy, silky surface; a pottery glaze. — lus'trous a. gleaming; bright. — lus'trously adv. [L. lustrare, to make bright].

lustrine (lus'trin) n. a glossy silk fabric. Also lus'tring, lute'string [Fr. lustrine].

lute (loo't) n. a stringed instrument like a guitar. — lut'anist, lut'er, lut'ist n. a lute-player. — lute'string n. [O.Fr. lut].

lute (loo't) n. a cement-like composition for making joints air-tight; a rubber ring for sealing glass jars; a bricklayer's tool for levelling and scraping off surplus mortar; — v.t. to seal or coat with lute. — lute'tion n. [L. lutum, mud].

lutecium (loo'te-shi-um) n. a metallic element (symbol Lu), one of the rare earths group [fr. Lutetia, the Roman name of Paris].

lutein (loo'te-in) n. the yellow colouring matter found in egg-yolk [L. luteus, yellow].

Lutheran (loo'ther-an) a. pert. to Luther, the German reformer, or to his doctrines; — n. a follower of Martin Luther. — Lu'theranism, Lu'therism, Lu'therist n.

luthern (loo'thern) n. a dormer-window [etym. uncertain].

luxate (luks-āt) v.t. to put out of joint; to dislocate. — luxa'tion n. [L. luxare, to dislocate].

luxury (luk-sū-ri) n. indulgence in the pleasures which wealth can procure; that which is not a necessity of life. — luxu'riance, luxu'riancy, luxuri'ety n. — luxu'riant a. in great abundance, dense or prolific, as vegetation. — luxu'riantly adv. — luxu'riate v.i. to grow luxuriantly; to live luxuriously. — luxu'rious a. self-indulgent in appetite, etc.; sumptuous; enervating by indulgence. — luxu'riously adv. — luxu'riousness n. [L. luxus, excess].

lycanthrope (li-kan-thrōp) n. a werewolf. Also lycan'thropist. — lycan'thropy n. mania, in which a person imagines himself to be a wolf. — lycan'throp'ic, lycan'thropy a. [Gk. lykos, a wolf, anthrōpos, a man].

Lyceum (li-sē-um) n. orig. a gymnasium in Athens where Aristotle taught his pupils; a lecture-hall, a meeting-place for literary societies [Gk. Lykeion].

lych-gate See heh-gate.

lyddite (lid-it) n. a perle acid, a powerful explosive used in shells [fr. Lydd in Kent, where it was first made].

Lydian (hū'di-an) a. pert. to Lydia in Asia Minor, or to its inhabitants; voluptuous or sensuous.

lye (li) n. alkaline solution of wood ashes and water, used in soap-making [O.E. leah].

lying (li-ing) a. recumbent. — lying-in n. the confinement of a pregnant woman [fr. lie].

lying (li-ing) a. untruthful, — n. habit of being untruthful. — lyingly adv. [fr. lie].

lyme (lim) n. a dog's leash. — lyme-hound n. a bloodhound [L. lupare, to blind].

lymph (limf) n. an alkaline fluid, watery in appearance, contained in the tissues and organs of the body, a vaccine. — lymphat'ic a. pert. to lymph; sluggish. — lymphat'ics n. pl. small vessels in the body containing lymph. — lymphoid a. like, composed of, lymph [L. lymphā, water].

lynch (linsh) v.t. to inflict, esp. capital punishment without recourse to customary forms of law [fr. Charles Lynch, a Virginian planter (18th cent.)].

lynx (lingks) n. an animal of the cat tribe with abnormally keen sight. — lynx-eyed a. keen-sighted; vigilant [Gk. lynx].

lyre (lir) n. a stringed, musical instrument in use among ancient Greeks, esp. to accompany minstrels. — ly're a. shaped like a lyre. — lyre-bird n. an Australian bird with tail feathers which curve upward in the shape of a lyre. — lyr'ic n. orig. a poem sung to music; a short, subjective poem expressing emotions of poet. — lyr'ic, — al a. pert. to the lyre; suitable to be sung to a musical accompaniment; used of poetry expressing emotion. — lyr'icism n. lyrical quality of a poem; emotional expression. — lyr'ist n. [Gk. lyra, a lyre].

M

ma'am (mām) n. contr. of madam.

macabre (ma-kā-br) a. gruesome; ghastly; grim, like the Dance of Death. Also macaberesque [O.Fr. macabre].

macaco (ma-ka-kō) n. a species of ring-tailed lemur of Madagascar; a Brazilian monkey [Port. macaco, a monkey].

macadam (ma kad'am) n. a road-surface material of crushed stones. — macad'amise v.t. [fr. J. L. MacAdam, the inventor (d. 1836)].

macaque (ma-kak') n. a genus of monkeys, belonging to S. Asia [Port. macaco, a monkey].

macaroni (mak-a-rō-ni) n. a paste of wheat flour made in long slender tubes; a young fop of the 18th cent. — macaron'ic n. a medley; — a. affected; esp. applied to burlesque verse in modern words with Latinised endings [It.].

macaroon (mak-ē-rōon) n. a small cake made of white of egg, ground almonds, sugar and flavouring [fr. macaron].

Macassar-oil (ma-kas-sar-oil) n. a perfumed hair oil from Macassar in Celebes.

macaw (ma-kaw') n. a long-tailed S. American parrot [Brazil. macao].

mace (mās) n. a heavy club of metal; a staff carried as an emblem of authority; a billiard cue. — mace-bear'er n. an official who carries the mace. Also mace'er [O.Fr. mace, a mallet].

mace (mās) n. a spice made from nutmeg [etym. unknown].

macerate (ma-sē-grāt) v.t. to soften by soaking; (Fig.) to mortify the flesh. — macera'tion n. [L. macerare, to steep].

Mach (number) (māh) n. ratio of the air speed of an aircraft to the velocity of sound [named after Ernst Mach, Austrian physicist and philosopher, 1838-1916].

machete (mā-shā-tā) n. a heavy knife or cleaver used to cut down sugar-canes, and as a weapon, esp. in Cuba [Sp. L.].

Machiavellian (mak-i-a-vē-li-an) a. pert. to Machiavelli, unscrupulous, crafty; — n. one who practises the perfidious political doctrine of Machiavelli, an unprincipled ruthless ruler. — Machiavell'ianism n. [fr. Machiavelli, the Florentine statesman (1469-1527)].

machicolous (mā-shē-koō-lē) n. in fortification, a loop-holed, projecting; arapet, etc. — machic'olous a. to form with machicolations. — machicolous n. an opening for pouring molten lead or hurling missile on assailants, the act of hurling down missiles [Fr. mache, mash, colis, a flowing].

machinate (mak-in-āt) v.t. contrive, usually with evil or ulterior motive; — v.i. to conspire. — machina'tion n. the act of contriving or plotting, esp. with evil intent; an intrigue. — machina'tor n. one who plots [L. machinari, to plot].

machine (ma-shēn') n. any contrivance for the conversion and direction of motion; an engine; a vehicle; a person who acts like an automaton; a political organisation controlled for a specific purpose; a contrivance in the ancient Greek theatre to indicate to the audience a change of scene, hence the phrase deus ex machina; — v.t. to apply machinery to, esp. to sew with a machine or to print with a printing-machine. — machine-gun n. an automatic arm'd-arms weapon capable of continuous fire. — machin'ery n. machines collectively, the parts of a machine; any combination of means to an end. — machine-room n. the room where printing by machine is done. — machine-tool n. a tool for cutting, shaping and turning operated by machinery. — machin'ist n. one who makes machinery; one who works at a machine [L. machina, a machine].

mackerel (mak-ē-rel) n. an edible sea-fish with blue and black stripes above and silver colour below [O.Fr. mackerell].

mackintosh (mak-'in-toosh) n. a waterproof coat (fr. Charles MacIntosh, the inventor).

macramé (ma-kra-má) n. fringe made of knotted thread [etym. doubtful].

macrobiotic (mak-rō-bi-ō'tik) a. long-lived.

—macrobiotic n. long life. —macrobiote n. long-lived person. —macrobiotic n. study of longevity [Gk. makros, long; bios, life].

macrocosm (mak-rō-kōz-m) n. the great universe; (Occult.) God manifesting through the solar system. —macrocosmic a. [Gk. makros, long; cosmos, the world].

macron (mak-'ron) n. short line put over vowel to show it is long in quantity or quality, ē - opp. of breve, which marks short vowel, è [Gk. makros, long].

macroscopic (mak-rō-skop-'ik) a. visible to the naked eye; opp. of microscopic. —macroscopically adv. [Gk. makros, long, skopin, to see].

mactation (mak-tā-'hun) n. the act of killing a victim to offer as a sacrifice [L. mactare, to sacrifice].

macula (mak-'ū-lā) n. a spot. —pl. mac'ulae. —maculate v.t. to spot. —maculation n. the act of spotting; a spot. —macula solaris, a freckle. —maculose a. spotted [L. macula].

mad (mad) a. (comp. mad'der; superl. mad'dest) deranged in mind; insane; crazy; frenzied; angry; infuriated; irrational, as a scheme. —mad'cap n. a rash person; a tomboy; —a. uncontrolled. —mad'den v.t. to enrage, to drive mad; to annoy; —v.i. to behave as a madman. —mad'ding a. distracted. —mad'dingly, mad'dly adv. —mad'house n. an asylum; a home for patients suffering from mental disorders. —mad'man n. a lunatic. —mad'ness n. insanity [O.E. gemaed, foolish].

madam (mad-'am) n. a formal mode of address in speaking to a married or elderly woman; (Collog.) an arrogant woman. —pl. mad'ams. —madame (ma-'dam) n. French form of Mrs. or Madam. —pl. mesdames (ma-'dam) [O.Fr. ma dame, my lady].

madder (mad-'er) n. a climbing plant yielding a natural red dye. —mad'der-lake n. red pigment [O.E. maedere, madder].

made (mād) pa.t. and pa.p. of make.

Madeira (ma-'de-ira) n. a rich amber-coloured wine from Madeira. —Madeira cake, a kind of sponge cake, plain, without fruit [Port. fr. L. materia, timber].

Mademoiselle (mad-mwa-'zel) n. French mode of addressing unmarried lady; governess. —pl. Mesdemoiselles [Fr.].

Madonna (ma-'don-na) n. the Virgin Mary; a statue of the Virgin [It. mia, my; donna, a lady].

madrepore (mad're-'pōr) n. white perforate coral [It. madre, a mother; L. porus, a pore].

madrigal (mad-'ri-gal) n. a short, love poem; an unaccompanied part-song, usually syncopated in rhythm, popular in 16th and 17th cents. [etym. doubtful].

maelstrom (mā-'strōm) n. a famous whirlpool near the Lofoten Islands off the coast of Norway; any whirlpool; (Fig.) menacing state of affairs [Dut. — a whirlpool].

maenad (mé-'nad) n. a priestess of Dionysus (Bacchus); a frenzied woman [Gk. maenae].

maestoso (mā-'es-tō-sō) a. and adv. (Mus.) with dignity; majestic or majestically [It.].

maestro (mā-'es-trō) n. a master, esp. an eminent composer, conductor, or teacher of music. —pl. mas'tri [It.].

Mac West (mā-'west) n. (R.A.F. slang) an inflated life-jacket [fr. Mac West, film star].

maffick (maf-'ik) v.t. to exult riotously, as on the occasion of a victory [fr. Ma'feking, the relief of which was widely celebrated in London in 1900].

mafi (mā-'fi) n. a Sicilian secret society; (Fig.) a predilection for having recourse to private justice. Also maf'ia [Sicilian].

magazine (mag-'a-zēn) n. a military storehouse; part of a ship where ammunition is stored; compartment in a rifle holding the cartridges; a periodical containing miscellaneous articles [Fr. magasin, a warehouse].

magdalene (mag-'da-lēn) n. a reformed prostitute; a home for such women. Also mag'dalen [fr. Mary Magdalene].

mage (māj) n. a magician; a wizard [Gk. magos, a magician].

magenta (ma-'jen-tā) n. a purplish dye-stuff from coal-tar [discovery, in year of battle of Magenta, 1859].

maggot (mag-'ot) n. a grub; larva of a housefly; (Fig.) a whim. —magg'oty a. full of maggots [M.E. maddok, a flesh worm].

Magi (māj'ī) n.pl. a class of priests among the ancient Persians; in the N.T. the Wise Men who came to visit the infant Jesus. — Mag'ian a. pert. to the Magi; —n. one of the Magi. [Gk. magos, a magician].

magic (māj-'ik) n. the feigned art of influencing nature or future events by occult means; sorcery; charm. —mag'ic(al) a. —mag'ically adv. —mag'ician n. one skilled in magic; a sorcerer; a conjurer. —magic lantern, early form of projector using slides. —black magic, magic by aid of evil spirits [Gk. magikos].

maglip (ma-'kīp) n. a mixture of mastic varnish and linseed oil, used with oil-paints. —Also maglipb', maglip' [prob. fr. a proper name].

magisterial (maj-'is-tē-ri-āl) a. pert. to or conducted by a magistrate; authoritative, judicial; overbearing. —magiste'rially adv. [L. magister, a master].

magistrate (maj-'is-trāt) n. a person vested with public judicial authority; a justice of the peace. —mag'istracy n. the official position of a magistrate; the body of magistrates [L. magistratus, a high official].

Magna Carta (mag-'na kār'ta) n. Great Charter of English public and private liberties signed by King John 1215 [L.].

magnum (mag-'nā-um) n. a light, easily worked alloy of aluminum and magnesium [fr. magnum and aluminum].

magnanimity (mag-'na-nim'i-ti) n. greatness of mind; generosity of heart which exalts men above all that is base or mean. —magnan'itous a. —magnan'itously adv. [L. magnus, great; animus, the mind].

magnate (mag-'nāt) n. an eminent person, esp. a wealthy business man [L. magnus, great].

magnesium (mag-'nē-shi-um) n. the silvery-white metallic base of magnesia, burning with an intensely brilliant white light and used for fireworks, flash-light photography, etc. —magne'sia n. magnesium oxide, a white, alkaline substance. —magnesium sulphate, Epsom salts [Gk. Magnesia (Ithos), magneesian stone].

magnet (mag-'net) n. the lodestone, a bar of iron having property of attracting iron, etc., and, when suspended, of pointing N. and S. (Fig.) a person or thing with powers of attraction. —magnet'ic, -ala, pert. to a magnet; attractive. —magnet'ically adv. —magnetician, magnetist n. an expert in magnetism.

magnetis'able a. —magnetisa'tion n. —mag'netise v.t. to give magnetic properties to, to attract. —v.i. to become magnetic. —mag'netism n. the natural cause of magnetic force; the science of the phenomena of magnetic force; attraction. —animal magnetism, mesmerism. —mag-ne'to n. a magneto-electric machine, esp. used to generate ignition spark in internal combustion engine. —magnetic field, the sphere of influence of magnetic forces. —magnetic mine, a submarine mine detonated by the displacement of a magnetic needle, caused by approach of a ship (its effect counteracted in World War 2 by degaussing). —magnetic needle, a small magnetised pivoted steel bar of a mariner's compass which always points North. —magnetic north, the north as indicated by the pivoted bar of the mariner's compass. —magnetic poles, two nearly opposite points on the earth's surface where the dip of the needle is 90° (Gk. magnētis (lithos), a magnet).

magnify (mag'nī fī) v.t. to make greater; to cause to appear greater; to extol, to exaggerate. — pa.p. mag'nified. — magnif'io. — al. a. grand; splendid magnifically adv. — Magnif'icat n. the song of the Virgin Mary (Luke 1.) beginning 'My soul doth magnify the Lord.' — magnificat'ion n. the act of magnifying. — magnif'icative, magnif'icentia. splendid, brilliant; ostentatious. — magnif'icence n. — magnif'icently adv. — magnif'ileo n. a Venetian grandee. — magn'ifier n. one who or the instrument which magnifies (L. magnus, great; ferre, to make). — magniloquent (mag-nīlō-kwent) a. speaking pompously; bombastic. — magnif'icquence n. — magnif'icquently adv. (L. magnus, great, loqui, to speak).

magnitude (mag'nī-tūd) n. greatness; size; importance (L. magnitudo, greatness).

magnolia (mag-nō-lī a) n. a species of N. American and Asiatic tree bearing large perfumed flowers (fr. Magnol, a French botanist, 1638-1715).

magnum (mag'nūm) n. a wine-bottle holding two quarts (L. magnus, great).

magpie (mag'pī) n. a bird of the crow family, with a harsh chattering cry, an idle chatterer; (a bit on) the outermost ring but one, of a target (contr. of Margaret and pie fr. L. pica, a magpie).

Magyar (mag'yār) n. dominant people of Hungary, descended from nomadic Turkish stock, the native language of Hungary.

Maharajah (ma-hā-rā-jā) n. dem. Maharan'ī or Maharan'ee the title of an Indian prince (Sans. maha, great; raja, a prince).

Mahatma (ma-hat'mā) n. a man of saintly life with supernatural powers derived from purity of soul (Sans. mahatma, high souled).

Mahdi (mā-dē) n. the leader and prophet of the Mohammedans whose coming is expected just prior to the end of the world, the name adopted by several Mohammedan leaders of the past (Ar. mahdi, the guided one).

mah-jong (mā-jōng) n. old Chinese game for four played with small blocks (Chin.).

mahogany (mā-hō-gā-nī) n. a tree of tropical America, the hard, reddish wood of which is used for furniture, the red brown colour of mahogany (W. Ind.). [median.]

Mahomedan, Mahometan See Mohammad (mā-mō-hō-d) n. an elephant-driver or keeper (Hind.).

Mahratta (ma-rat'a) n. one of a warlike race of Hindus in W. and C. India.

maid (māid) n. an unmarried woman; a virgin; a female domestic servant. — maid of all work, a general domestic servant. — old maid, an elderly spinster. — a game of cards. — maid'en, n. a maid. — adv. pert. to a maid; unmarried, fresh, pure; unused; first. — maid'enhair n. a kind of fern with very delicate fronds. — maid'enhood, maid'enhead n. virginity; purity, the hymen. — maid'enliness n. — maid'only a maiden-like. — maiden name, surname of a woman before marriage. — maiden over (Cricket) one in which no runs are scored. — maiden speech, a member's first speech esp. in Parliament. — maiden voyage, first ocean voyage of new ship (O.E. maeyden, a maid).

mail (māil) n. defensive armour composed of steel rings or plates, armour in general; — v.t. to clothe in armour. — mailed hat, physical force (O.Fr. maille, mail).

mail (māil) n. a bag for carrying letters, etc., or its contents; the post, the person or means of conveyance for transit of letters, parcels, etc.; — v.t. to post; to send by mail. — mail-bag n. the sack in which letters are put for transit. — mail-boat, -cart, -coach, -plane, -train n. means of conveyance of letters, etc., by sea, air and land (O.Fr. male, a trunk or mail).

maim (māin) v.t. to deprive of the use of a limb; to disable; to disfigure. — n. an injury. — maimed'ness n. (O.Fr. mahain, a bruise).

main (mān) a. principal; first in size, importance, etc.; essential; sheer. — n. the chief part; strength, as in might and main; a wide expanse of land or ocean; the principal pipe in water, gas, or electricity system. — main'-brace n. the brace of the main-yard. — to splice the main-brace, to hand out a double ration of rum. — main'-chance n. self-interest. — main'-door n. a front door giving access to ground-floor house. — main'-land n. a continent as distinct from islands. — main'-ly adv. — main'-mast n. the principal mast of a ship. — main'-road n. a highway, esp. between two towns. — main'-sail n. the principal sail on the main-mast. — main'-stay n. the rope from the main-top to the deck; (Fig.) the chief support (O.E. mægen, main).

main (mān) n. a hand in gambling-games; a cock-fight (Fr. main, the hand).

maintain (mān-tān) v.t. and v.i. to hold or keep in any state; to sustain, to preserve; to defend, as an argument, to affirm. — main'-tain'able a. — main'tain'er n. — main'tenance n. the act of maintaining, means of support (Fr. maintenir to hold).

maisonnette (mā-zōn-et') n. a small compact house (Fr.).

maize (māz) n. Indian corn, a cereal next in importance to rice (W. Ind.).

majesty (maj'es-tī) n. grandeur; exalted dignity; royal state; the title of a sovereign; the symbolic representation of the Deity enthroned. — majest'ic, -al a. possessing majesty; splendid (L. majestas, dignity).

maiolica (ma-jō-lī-kā) n. a decorative, enamelled pottery (fr. Maïorca).

major (maj'or) a. greater in number, quality, quantity, or extent. (Mus.) greater by a semitone; — n. a person who has reached the age of 21; an officer in the army ranking below a lieutenant-colonel. — majorat (ma-jō-ra't) n. primogeniture. — major-dom'o n. a steward. (Collog.) an organiser. — major-general n. an army officer in rank below a lieutenant-general. — major'ity n. the greater number; full legal age (21) (L. major, greater).

make (māk) v.t. to cause to be or do; to create; to constitute; to compel, to appoint; to secure, to arrive at, to reckon; to perform; — v.i. to tend, to contribute. — pa.d. and pa.p. mads. — n. structure, texture, form, style; brand. — make-believe' n. pretence; — v.t. to pretend. — mak'er n. one who makes, a poet. — Mak'er n. — god — make'shift n. a temporary expedient. — make-up n. ar. ornament or lay-out of a printed page, make-up, etc.; facial cosmetics; general characteristics. — make'-weight n. something added to scale to make up weight. — to make bold, to dare to. — to make good, to justify one's efforts. — to make headway, to progress. — to make up to, to make friendly advances. — on the make, striving for pecuniary gain (O.E. macian, to make).

Malacca (ma-lak'ā) n. a district in Malaya. — Malacca cane, light walking-stick made of a kind of Malayan palm-cane.

malachite (mal'a-kīt) n. a green carbonate of copper, used for ink and work (Gk. malakē, mallow).

maladjustment (mal-ad-just'ment) n. faulty adjustment; inability to adjust oneself to one's environment.

maladministration (mal-ad-min-is-trā'shun) n. faulty administration, esp. of public affairs.

maladroït (mal'a-droït) a. clumsy, awkward.

maladroit adv. — maladroït'ness n.

malady (mal'a-dī) n. a disease; ailment. — mal de mer, sea-sickness (Fr. malade, sick).

Malaga (ma-lā-gā) n. a white wine from Malaga, in Spain; a sweet green grape.

Malagasy (mal'a-gā-sī) n. a native of, or the language of, Madagascar; — n. pert. to Madagascar, its inhabitants, or language.

malaise (mal'āz) n. a feeling of bodily discomfort; squeamishness (Fr.).

malapert (mal'a-pert) a. saucy; forward.

- malapert'ly adv.—malapert'ness n. [O.Fr. mal apert, impudent].
- malaprop(ism) (mal'ə-prop-(iz)m) n. the ludicrous misuse of a word, so called from Mrs. Malaprop, a character in Sheridan's play, The Rivals.—malaprop'ian a.—malaprops (mal-ap-rō-pō) adv. unseasonably; unsuitably; out of place [Fr. mal à propos, ill-suited].
- malaria (mə-lā'ri-ə) n. fever caused by the bite of mosquito, the unhealthy air arising from swamps, orig. regarded as the source of fevers.—mala'rian, mala'rial, mala'rious a. [It. mal'aria, bad air].
- Malay (mə-lā') n. a native of the Malay Peninsula.—a. pert. to Malaya. Also Malay'an.
- malcontent (mal'kon-tent) a. discontented; rebellious.—malcontent'ed a.—malcontent'edly adv.—malcontent'edness n.—malcontent'ly adv.
- male (māl) a. pert. to the sex which begets young; masculine; (Bot.) having stamens;—n. a male animal [L. masculus, male].
- malediction (mal-e-dik-shun) n. evil-speaking; a curse; an imprecation.—maledic'tory a. reviling; expressing a curse [L. male, badly; dicere, to speak].
- malefactor (mal'e-fak-tor) n. an evil-doer; a criminal [L. male, badly; facere, to do].
- malevolent (mal-ev'o-lent) a. evilly-disposed; vindictive. Also malev'olous.—malev'olence n. ill-will; malignity.—malev'olently adv. [L. male, badly; velle, to wish].
- malformation (mal-for-mā'shun) n. irregular formation.—malformed a. deformed; abnormally shaped
- malgre Same as maugre.
- malic (mā'lik) a. derived from the apple [L. malum, apple].
- malice (mal'is) n. ill-will; spite; disposition to injure others; (Law) criminal intention.—malic'ious a. spiteful; showing malice.—malic'iously adv.—malic'iousness n.—with malice aforethought (Law) with deliberate criminal intention [L. malitia, ill-will].
- malign (mə-lin) a. having an evil disposition towards others; spiteful; pernicious; sinister;—v.t. to traduce; to vilify.—malign'ancy n. (of disease) virulence. Also malign'ance.—malign'ant a. being evilly disposed; unpropitious; (of disease) virulent; likely to prove fatal.—malign'antly adv.—maligner (mə-lin'jer) n.—malign'ity n. extreme malevolence; spite.—malign'ly adv. [L. malignus, ill-disposed].
- malingering (mə-lin'jer) v.t. to feign illness in order to avoid duty.—maling'erer n. a shirker [Fr. malingre, ailing].
- mall (mel or mal) n. a level, shaded walk, esp. the Mall in St. James's Park in London—orig. an alley for the game of pall-mall, this game; the mallet used in playing it (var. of maul) [L. malleus, a hammer].
- mallard (mal'ard) n. a wild drake or duck [etym. doubtful].
- malleable (mal'e-ə-bl) a. capable of being hammered or extended by beating; (Fig.) amenable; tractable.—malleableness, malleab'il'ity n.—malle'ate v.t. to hammer; to draw into a plate or leaf by beating.—mallea'tion n. [L. malleus, a hammer].
- malleamuck (mal'e-muk) n. the fulmar or petrel [Dut. mal, foolish; mok, a gull].
- mallet (mal-et) n. a small wooden hammer; a long-handled wooden hammer used in the game of croquet, polo, etc. [Fr. maillet, a small hammer].
- mallow (mal'ō) n. any plant of the genus Malva, with downy leaves, and having emollient properties [L. malva, mallow].
- Malmsey (mām'ze) n. a sweet wine [fr. Malvasia, in Greece].
- malnutrition (mal-nū-tri'shun) n. the state of being undernourished; semi-starvation.
- malodorous (mal-ō-dor-us) a. having an offensive odour.—mal-od'or n.
- malpractice (mal-prak'tis) n. evil practice; professional impropriety or negligence.
- malt (mawit) n. barley or other grain steeped in water till it germinates, then dried in a kiln for use in brewing;—v.t. to make into malt;—v.t. to become malt.—malt'er' tract n. a medicinal body-building food made from malt.—malt'ing n.—malt liquor, a liquor made from malt by fermentation and not by distillation, as beer, stout, ale, or porter.—malt'ose n. a sugar produced by the action of malt on starch.—malt'ster, malt'man n. one employed in a malt-house [O.E. mealt, malt].
- Maltese (maw'tēz) n. a native of Malta; the dialect of Malta;—a. pert. to Malta or to its people.—Maltese cross, a cross, with the four arms equal in length and forked at the ends.
- Malthusian (mal-thūz'i-an) a. pert. to the theories of Thomas Malthus;—n. one who advocates deliberate limitation of population when it threatens to outgrow the food supplies available to maintain it [fr. Malthus, an English economist (1768-1834)].
- maltrait (mal-trēt') v.t. to ill-treat; to abuse; to handle roughly.—maltrait'ment n.
- malversation (mal-ver-sā'shun) n. corruption in office; fraudulent handling of public funds [L. male, ill; versari, to be engaged in].
- Malvoisie (mal-vwā-zē) Same as Malmsey.
- mamba (mām'ba) n. a poisonous black snake, found in S. Africa [Kaffir].
- mamma (mām'ā) n. milk-secreting gland in females.—pl. mam'mae.—mam'mary a. [L. mamma, the breast].
- Mammalia (mām-ā'li-ā) n.pl. (Zool.) the class of mammals or animals which suckle their young.—mam'mal n. one of the Mammalia.—mammalian a.—mammal'ogy n. the scientific study of mammals [L. mamma, the breast].
- mammon (mam'mon) n. the god of riches; wealth personified and worshipped.—mam'monism n. devotion to wealth [Syrian mamon, wealth].
- mammoth (mam'uth) n. an extinct species of elephant of huge size;—a. colossal [Russ. mamman'tu].
- man (man) n. a human being; an adult male; a (many) person; a male servant, a husband; the human race; in feudal times, a vassal; a piece used in such games as chess, draughts, etc.—pl. men.—v.t. to furnish with men; to fortify.—pr.p. man'ning.—pa.t. and pa.p. manned.—man-at-arms n. soldier; a feudal knight.—man-eater, a cannibal, a tiger.—man'ful a. vigorous; sturdy.—man'fully adv.—man'fulness n.—man'hand'le v.t. (Naut.) to handle a boat without mechanical aid; to treat roughly.—man'hole n. an opening large enough to admit a man leading to a drain, sewer, etc.—man'hood n. the state of being a man; courage.—man'hour n. work performed by one man in one hour.—man'kind n. human beings; male sex.—man'liness n.—man'ly a. bold, resolute; dignified, not effeminate.—man'made a. fashioned by man.—man'nish a. like a man; masculine.—man'nishly adv.—man'nishness n.—man-of-war, a naval vessel; orig. a soldier.—man-of-war bird, a frigate bird.—man-power n. a unit of power equal to one-eighth of a horse-power; the total number of people in industry, the armed forces, etc.—man'servant n. a male servant, as a butler, etc.—man'slaughter n. culpable homicide without malice aforethought.—man in the street, average man [O.E. mann].*
- manacle (man'a-kl) n. a handcuff;—v.t. to fetter with handcuffs [O.Fr. manacle].
- manage (man'ā) v.t. to direct; to control by hand; to carry on; to cope with;—v.t. to direct affairs; to succeed.—manageab'il'ity n. quality of being manageable.—man'ageable a. capable of being managed.—man'ageableness n.—man'agement n. the art of managing, administration; body of directors controlling a business.—man'ager n. (fem. man'agress) one who manages; one in charge of a business, etc.—manage'rial a.—man'aging a. interfering; meddling [L. manus, the hand].
- manatee (man'a-tē) n. a grotesque land-mammal living in the sea, and found off the coast of W. Africa; a sea-cow [Sp.].

Manchester (man'ches-ter) a. pert to town of Manchester, in Lancashire. — Manchester School, political economists headed by Cobden and Bright who advocated free-trade and laissez-faire. — Manchesterism n.

Manchu, Manchoo (man'chóo) n. one of the original inhabitants of Manchuria, who invaded China in the 17th cent. and ruled China till the establishment of the Chinese Republic in 1911. — a. pert. to Manchuria, or to its inhabitants [Chin.].

manciple (man'si-pl) n. a steward; a caterer, esp. for a college or the Inns of Court [L. manceps, a purchaser].

mandarin (man'da-rin) n. a European name for a Chinese provincial governor; (Fig.) any high government official; the language used in Chinese official circles; a small orange. Also mandarine [Port. mandarin].

mandate (man'dāt) n. an official order; a precept; a rescript of the Pope; a commission to act as representative of a body of people, esp. one granted by the United Nations to a State to administer another not sufficiently advanced for self-government. — mandatary, mandator n. one to whom a mandate is given by a mandator. — mandated a. committed to a mandate, as mandated territories. — mandatory a. containing a mandate; directory [L. mandatum, an order].

mandible (man'di-bl) n. a jaw; in vertebrates, the lower jaw; in n. the upper or lower beak. mandibular a. pert. to the jaw [L. mandibula].

mandolin, mandoline (man'dō-lin) n. a musical instrument like a guitar [dim. of It. mandola, a lute].

mandrake (man'drāk) n. a narcotic plant the root of which was once thought to resemble the human form and to shriek when pulled. — mandragore n. mandrake [M.E. mandragore].

mandrel (man'drel) n. a shaft on which objects may be fixed for turning, milling, etc.; the spindle of a lathe. Also mandril [etym. doubtful].

mandrill (man'dril) n. a large W. African mane (mān) n. long hair on the neck of an animal [O.E. mann, neck].

manège (man-eh) n. the art of horsemanship, a riding-school [Fr.].

manes (mā-néz) n. the shades of the dead; the deities of the underworld [L.].

manganese (mang-ga-néz) n. a greyish, hard, brittle metal which oxidises rapidly in humid atmosphere, symbol Mn. — manganesian, manganeseic, manganic, manganeous a. [O.Fr. manganese, fr. magnesium].

mange (mānj) n. a parasitic disease affecting the skin of animals, and causing hair to fall out. — man'giness n. — man'gy a. infected with mange [O.Fr. manie, itch].

mangel-wurzel (mang-gl-wur-zl) n. a large kind of beet grown for cattle-fodder [Ger. Mangold, a beet; Wurzel, a root].

manger (mānj-er) n. a trough for holding fodder for cattle [Fr. manger, to eat].

mangle (mang-gl) n. a rolling press for smoothing linen; — v.t. to smooth with a mangle. — man'gler n. [Dut. mangel].

mangle (mang-gl) v.t. to hack; to mutilate; (Fig.) to spoil the beauty of, as a passage of poetry by faulty reading. — man'gler n. [prob. O.Fr. mahaigner, to maim].

mango (mang-gō) n. an E. Indian evergreen tree, the unripe fruit of which is used in making chutney; — pl. mang'o(e)s [Malay, mangga, fruit of the mango-tree].

mandgold See mangel-wurzel.

man'grove (man-grōv) n. a tree of the E. and W. Indies, the bark of which is used in tanning [Malay, manggi-manggi].

Manhattan (man-hat'n) n. a cocktail, orig. American, containing whiskey, vermouth, gin, bitters [Amer.].

mania (mā-ni-ə) n. madness, esp. of a violently excited type; extravagant enthusiasm amounting to an obsession. — ma'nias n. a madman; — a. raving; frenzied. — man'iacal a. [Gk. mania, madness].

manicure (man'i-kür) n. the care of the hands and nails; one who gives this treatment; — v.t. to file, and polish the nails. — man'icurist n. [L. manus, the hand; cura, care].

manifest (man'i-fest) a. clearly visible; apparent to the mind or senses; — v.t. to make clear; to reveal. — n. a detailed list of a ship's cargo for the scrutiny of the Customs-officers. — manifest'able, manifest'ible a. capable of being clearly revealed. — manifest'ation n. the act of revealing; the state of being revealed; display; disclosure. — man'ifestly adv. obviously. — man'ifestness n. — manifest'o n. a public declaration of the principles or policy of a leader or party; — pl. manifest'oes [L. manifestus, clear].

manifold (man'i-fold) a. various in kind or quality; multifarious; numerous; — v.t. to take many copies of, as letters, documents, etc., by a machine, such as a duplicator; — n. a sheet of thin paper used in duplicating; (Mech.) a pipe fitted with several lateral outlets, as in internal combustion engine. — man'ifoldly adv. [fr. many and fold].

man'ikin (man'i-kin) n. a little man; a dwarf, a model of the human body for use of anatomy students. Also man'akin [Dut. mannekin, a double dim. of man].

manilla (ma-nill-ə) n. a cheroot made in Manila, capital of the Philippine Islands. Also manil'a. — manil(l)a hemp, a fibre used for making ropes, twine, sails, etc. — manil(l)a paper, a stout buff-coloured wrapping paper. — maniple (man'i-pl) n. part of a Roman legion containing 60-120 men, a scarf worn on the left arm by celebrant at mass. — manip'ular a. [L. manipulus, a handful].

manipulate (mā-nip'ū-lāt) v.t. to operate with the hands; to manage (a person) in a skilful, esp. unscrupulous way; to falsify; — v.i. to use the hands. — manipulation n. — manip'ular, manip'ulative, manip'ulatory a. pert. to manipulation — manip'ulator n. [L. manipulus, a handful].

Manito (man'i-tō) n. spirit or god, among Amer. Indians. Also Man'hou [Algonquian].

man'na (man'ə) n. the food supplied miraculously to the Israelites in the wilderness; a sweetish juice of the ash, used as a laxative. (Fig.) spiritual nourishment. — sb. man, a gift.

mannequin (man'i-kin) n. employed to parade new fashions in clothes; a clay figure for a similar purpose. Also man'equin [Fr. mannequin, a puppet].

manner (man'er) n. way of doing anything; custom; style; a person's habitual bearing; — pl. social behaviour; customs. — mann'ered a. having manners, esp. in compounds well-mannered, ill-mannered; affected. — mann'erism n. a personal peculiarity of bearing, speech or style of artistic expression; affectation. — mann'erliness n. politeness; decorum. — mann'erly a. having good manners, courteous; civil; respectful. — adv. civilly; respectfully. — to the manner born, having natural talent for special work or position [Fr. manière, manner].

manoeuvre (ma-nōv'er, or mā-nūf'er) n. the strategic movement of armed forces; (Fig.) skilful management; — pl. peace-time exercises of army, navy, or airforce; — v.t. to direct skilfully; — i. to perform, manoeuvres. — manoeuv're n. [Fr.].

manor (man'or) n. the land belonging to a lord; a unit of land in feudal times over which the owner had full jurisdiction. — man-or-house n. the mansion on such an estate. — man'or'ial a. pert. to a manor [O.Fr. manoir, a dwelling]. — mansard-roof (man'sard-roof) n. a roof in which lower slope is nearly vertical and upper much inclined [fr. François Mansard, a French architect (d. 1666)].

(mans) n. Scottish Presbyterian

minister's residence [L.L. mones, a dwelling]. mansion (man-'shun) n. a large house; a manor-house.—man'sion-house n. a large residence.—Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London [L. manere, to remain].

mantel (man'tl) n. the shelf above a fireplace.—mantelpiece n. the framework round a fireplace [form of mantle].

mantilla (man-ti'la) n. a veil covering head and shoulders, worn by Spanish women; a short cape [dim. of Sp. manile, a cloak].

mantis (man-tis) n. a genus of insects including stick-insects, and leaf-insects.—known in South Africa as the Hottentot God. [Gk. mantis, a prophet].

mantissa (man-tis'sa) n. the decimal part of a logarithm [L. mantissa, a makeweight].

mantle (man'tl) n. a loose outer garment; a cloak, (Fig.) covering the finely-meshed fixture on a gas-jet, producing incandescent light;—v.t. to cover; to hide.—v.i. to rise and spread; to suffuse; to flush.—mant'let n. a small cloak. Also mant'let [L. mantellum, a cloak].

mantua (man'tu-a) n. a woman's gown.—mantua-maker n. a dressmaker, esp. in 18th cent. [Fr. manter, a cloak—prob. popularly associated with Mantua in Italy].

manual (man'u-al) a. pert to or made by the hand;—n. a handbook or small text-book, a service-book of R.C. Church, a key-board of a pipe-organ; (Colloq.) woodwork.—man'ually adv.—manual alphabet, finger-alphabet used by deaf and dumb.—manual exercise, drilling of soldiers in hand-operated weapons [L. manus, the hand].

manufacture (man-u-fakt'ūr) n. making goods either by hand or by machine (esp. mass-production of goods); anything produced from raw materials;—v.t. to make from raw materials, to fabricate;—v.i. to be engaged in manufacture.—manu'factory n. a place where goods are made from raw materials; a factory.—manu'fact'ural a.—manu'fact'urer n. [L. manus, the hand, facere, to make].

manumit (man-u-mit') v.t. to give freedom to a slave; to emancipate.—manumission n. [L. manumittere, to send from one's hand].

manumotive (man'u-mō-tiv) a. propelled by hand.—man'umotor n. a vehicle propelled by hand [L. manus, the hand, and motus].

manure (ma-nūr') v.t. to enrich soil with fertilizer;—n. any fertilising substance applied to soil to enrich it.—manur'er n. [contr. of Fr. manœuvreur, to work with the hands].

manuscript (man'u-skript) a. written by hand;—n. a book, etc., written by hand, an author's script for perusal by publisher (abbr. MS. pl. MSS) [L. manus, hand, scribere, scriptum, to write].

Manx (mangks) a. pert. to the Isle of Man or its inhabitants.—n. the Gadhelic language of the Isle of Man.—Manx cat, a tailless breed of cat [O.N. manakr].

many (men-i) a. comprising a great number (comp. more; superl. most);—n. a number of people or things.—man'y-sided a. (of persons) all-round; talented [O.E. manig, many].

Maori (mou'ri) n. an aborigine of New Zealand; the language of the aborigines, —a. pert. to the Maori [Native].

map (map) n. a representation, esp. on a plane surface, of the features of the earth, or of part of it; a chart of the heavens; a plan or delineation;—v.t. to draw a map of; to fill in details in a blank map;—pr.p. map'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. mapped.—v. to map out, to plan in detail, as an itinerary [L. mappa, a napkin].

maple (mā'pl) n. a deciduous tree of the sycamore kind, valuable for its timber and the sap from which sugar is extracted [O.E. mapulfræow, the maple tree].

maquis (mā'kē) n. fr. Corica, bushwood-covered heath, scrub; bush.—the Maquis n.pl. (World War 2) members of French Resistance mar (mār) v.t. to injure; to impair; to disfigure.—pr.p. mar'ring.—pa.p. marred [O.E. merran, to hinder].

marabout (mar-ā-bōō) n. a kind of stork; the feathers of this bird used as trimming for hats, etc.; a feather boa or necklet; a kind of silk [prob. Ar.].

marabout (mar-ā-bōōt) n. a Mohammedan hermit, a shrine [Ar.].

maraschino (mar-as-kō'nō) n. a sweet liqueur distilled from cherries grown in Dalmatia [It. amarasca, a sour cherry].

Marathi (ma-rā'thi) n. the language of the Mahrattas [Native].

marathon (mar-ā-thon) n. a long-distance race (approx. 26 miles); so called from the distance run by the messenger who brought to Athens the news of the Greek victory over the Persians (at Marathon) in 490 B.C.

maraud (ma-raud') v.i. to rove in quest of plunder, to foray, to loot [O.Fr. marauder, to play the rogue].

marble (mār'b'l) n. hard limestone which takes on a brilliant polish and is used for ornaments, statuary, etc., a little ball of marble, glass, etc., used in games.—a. made of marble; cold; insensible.—v.t. to colour like streaked marble.—mar'bled a. veined like marble, as paper, pottery, etc.—mar'ibly a. like marble.—the Elgin Marbles, the sculptured marble portions of the Parthenon brought to London by Lord Elgin in 1811, now in the British Museum [Gk. marmarēin, to sparkle].

marcasite (mār'ka-sit) n. white iron pyrite (used now in jewellery because of its brilliance).—marcas'ite a. [Fr.].

marcel (mār-sel') n. an artificial hair wave.—marcelled a. [fr. Marcel, the inventor].

March (mārch) n. third month of year, named after Mars, Roman god of war.

march (mārch) n. a border, a frontier of a territory, esp. of Scotland and Wales—used esp. in pl. marches.—v.i. to border [O.E. meare, mark].

march (mārch) v.i. to move in order, as soldiers, to proceed at a steady pace; to go to war.—v.t. to cause to move in military array.—n. distance marched, a minded composition to accompany a march, (Fig.) a steady advance, as the march of time.—march'er n. one who marches.—dead-march n. a funeral march [Fr. marcher, to walk].

marchioness (mār-shon-ess) n. the wife of a marquis, lady, holding in her own right, the rank of marquis [L.L. marchionissa, fem. of marchio, ruler of the march].

marchpane (mār-chān) n. a paste made of ground almonds, sugar, white of egg, etc., and used for small cakes, etc. Also marzipan [etym. doubtful].

marconigram (mār-kōn'gram) n. a message by wireless telegraphy [fr. Marconi, the inventor].

mare (mār) n. the female of the horse.—mare's nest, a discovery of exaggerated importance, a hoax.—mare's tail, a marsh plant of the genus Hippuris.—shanks's mare, one's own legs, as a means of locomotion [O.E. mere, fem. of meath, a horse].

margarin (mār-gar-in) n. a pearly wax-like substance obtained from animal fat; a fatty extract of certain vegetable oils.—margarine (mār-gar-ēn, mār-gjer-ēn) n. a butter substitute made principally from vegetable oils.—(Colloq. abbrev.) marg. (mārj) [Gk. margaron, a pearl].

marge (mārj) n. a margin; a shore.—mar'gin n. a border; a blank space at top, bottom and sides, of a written or printed page; allowance made for contingencies.—mar'ginal a. pert to a margin; entered in the margin.—margin'alia n.pl. notes jotted in the margin.—mar'ginally adv.—mar'ginate, —a. having a margin or margins [L. margo the edge].

margrave (mār-grāv) n. (fem.) margravine (mār-grā-vēn) n. orig. a lord of the marches a German title of nobility (Ger. Markgraf, a border-count).

marguerite (mār'ge-rēt) n. a large ox-eye daisy (L. margarita, a pearl).

Marian, Marist (mār'i-an, mār'ist) a. pert. to the Virgin Mary.

marigold (mār'i-gōld) n. name applied to a plant bearing yellow or orange flowers (prob. fr. Virgin Mary and gold).

marijuana (mār-i hwan'sa) n. a type of hemp dried and used as tobacco, having a strong narcotic effect (Sp.).

marimba (mār-rim'ba) n. a jazz-band instrument resembling the xylophone (Afr.).

marine (mār-rēn') a. pert. to the sea, found in, or near, the sea; pert. to shipping or overseas trade. — n. a soldier serving on board a warship, the naval force of a country. — mar'iner n. a sailor or seaman (L. mare, the sea).

Mariolatry (mār-i-ōl'a-tri) n. the worship of the Virgin Mary. — Mariol'ater n. (L. Maria, Mary, latria worship).

marionette (mār-i-on'e-tē') n. a puppet worked by strings (Fr. dim. of Marion).

marsh (mār'sh) a. marshy; — n. a marsh (O. Fr. marais a marsh).

Marist (mār'ist) n. a member of a R.C. teaching fraternity, the Society of Mary.

marital (mār'i-tal) a. pert. to a husband or to marriage (L. maritus, a husband).

maritime (mār'i-tim) a. pert. to the sea, bordering on the sea, living near the sea, having overseas trade or naval power (L. maritimus, fr. mare, the sea).

maroram (mār-i-ō-ran) n. aromatic plant of the mint family used in cookery (etym. doubtful).

mark (mār'k) n. a visible sign, a cross, a character made by one who cannot write; a stamp, a proof, a target, a point; an attainable standard, a numerical assessment of proficiency as in an examination, a flaw or blemish, a peculiarity or distinguishing feature. (Marking) starting point indication of position, depth, etc., as Pinnoll mark, (formerly) a district. — v.t. to make a sign upon, to stamp or engrave; to notice; to assess, as an examination paper. — v.i. to observe particularly. — marked a. outstanding, notorious. — mark edly adv. noticeably. — mark'ed n. one who marks the score at billiards, bridge, etc., a bridge scoring-card; a counter; an ornamental strip of leather, ribbon, paper, etc., used to mark a place in a book. — mark'ing-ink n. indelible ink for marking initials on linen, etc. — marks'man n. one who is expert at hitting a target. — marks'manship n. shooting skill. — to mark time, to move the feet up and down without moving forward. (Fig.) to remain at a standstill as in one's work. — a soft mark (Colloq.) a credulous person, a dupe. — beside the mark, irrelevant. — trade mark, a special symbol marked on commodities to indicate the maker (O.E. mearc, a boundary).

mark (mār'k) n. a former unit of weight (8 oz.) for silver and gold, a medieval English coin worth 13s. 4d., a Finnish markka, a silver German coin worth a shilling, paper-money of this value in modern Germany. — mark (mār'k) an old Scots silver coin worth 13s. 4d. (O.E. mearc).

market (mār'ket) n. a public meeting place for the purchase and sale of commodities, a trading centre; demand, country or geographical area regarded as a buyer of goods; price or value at a stated time. — v.t. to buy or sell. — v.i. to produce for sale in a market. — mar'ketable a. suitable for selling. — mar'ket-ably adv. — mark'et-gar'den n. a fruit and vegetable garden the produce of which is sold in the market. — mark'et-place n. the open space in which markets are held. — mark'et-price n. the current price of a commodity (L. mercatus, trade).

marl (mār'l) n. a fine-grain clay, often used as manure; a soil containing carbonate of lime, used in brick-making; — v.t. to manure with marl. — mar'ly a. (O. Fr. marle, marl).

Marlag (mār'lag) n. (World War 2) a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany for naval personnel (Ger. contr. of Marine, the navy; Lager, a camp).

marline (mār'lin) n. a small rope used to secure a splicing. — mar'line-spike n. a pointed tool used to separate strands of a rope in splicing (Naut. marline to bind; h/m, a line).

marmalade (mār'mā-lād) n. a preserve made of the pulp and peel of oranges, lemons, grapefruit, etc. (orig. made from quinces) (Port. marmelo, a quince).

marmoraceous (mār-mō-rā'sh-us) a. pert. to or resembling marble. — mar'morate (d) a. coloured like marble, encased in marble. — marmora'tion n. — marmor'eal, marmo're n. a. pert. to or like marble (L. marmor, marble). — marmoset (mār'mō-zet) n. a small, monkey of S. America (Fr. marmoset, a small grotesque figure (on mountains)).

marmot (mār'mot) n. a rabbit-like rodent inhabiting esp. upper slopes of Alps and Pyrenees (Fr. marmot, a mountain-rat).

marocain (mār'ō-kān) n. a dress material of silk, rayon, etc., with surface resembling morocco leather (fr. Morocco).

maroon (mār-roon') n. orig. a fugitive negro slave hiding in the mountainous regions of the W. Indies; a marooned person; — v.t. to put ashore on a desolate island; to isolate, cut off, by any means in any place; — v.i. to seclude (esp. etym. a runaway slave).

maroon (mār-roon') a. brownish-russet; — n. a kind of firework with a loud report (Fr. marron, a chestnut).

marque (mār'k) n. a licence granted to a private vessel to plunder enemy shipping and to use captured vessels against enemy. — usually letters of marque (Fr. fr. Prov. marrar, to seize as a pledge).

marquee (mār-ké') n. a large field-tent; an awning outside a public building (orig. marquees, for Fr. marquise, the tent of a marquess).

marquetry (mār'ket-ri) n. decorative, inlaid wood the process of inlaying wood with designs of coloured wood, etc. Also mar'queterie (Fr. marqueterie, to variegate).

marquis (mār'kwis) n. in Britain, a noble ranking next below a duke. Also mar'quess (dem. mar'chioness). — mar'quise, n. a. the rank or dignity of a mar'quis. — mar'quise (mār'kwis') n. in France, the wife of a marquis; a type of gemmed ring (O. Fr. marquis, ruler of the marches).

marriage See marry.

marrow (mār'ō) n. the soft substance in the cavities of bones; (Fig.) the essence or pith of anything. — marr'ow-bone n. a bone containing marrow. — pl. the knees. — marr'owfat n. a rich variety of green pea. — marr'ow a. — vegetable marrow, a kind of edible gourd (O.E. mearp, marrow).

marry (mār'i) v.t. to unite, take, or give in wedlock. — v.i. to enter into matrimony. — pr. p. mar'rying. — pa.t. and pa.p. mar'ried. — marriage (mār'i-j) n. the legal union of husband and wife, the ceremony civil or religious, by which two people of opposite sex become husband and wife. — marr'ageable a. of an age to be married. — marr'ageableness n. — marriage lines, official certificate of marriage (L. nuptiale, to marry).

Mars (mār's) n. the Roman god of war; the planet second nearest Earth. — Mar'sian n. an inhabitant of the planet Mars (L.).

Marsala (mār'sā-lā) n. a sweet, light wine from Marsala, in Sicily.

Marseillaise (mār-sā-vez' or mār-sē-lāz') n. the French national anthem.

marsh (mār'sh) n. a tract of low, swampy land; a bog; a fen; — a. pert. to swampy areas. — marsh'fe-ver n. malaria. — marsh'gas n. fire damp. — marsh-mall'ow n. a red flowered plant growing in marshes; a sweetmeat made from the root of this, or from gelatine. —marsh'y a. boggy; swampy [O.E. meris, full of meres].

marshal (már-shál) n. orig. a master of the horse; a master of ceremonies; a herald; the highest military rank, as in French army, in British army (Field-Marshal), in R.A.F. (Air-Marshal); (U.S.) a civil officer of a district with powers of a sheriff; —v.t. to dispose in order, as troops; (Fig.) to arrange, as ideas. —pr.p. marshalling. —pa.t. and pa.p. marshalled. —marshalling yard, a railway depot for goods-trains [O.Fr. mareschal, a horse servant].

Marshall Aid (már-shál-áid) n. economic assistance given to Europe by the U.S.A. in accordance with the plan put forward by Gen. G. Marshall in 1947.

marsupial (már-sú-pi-ál) a. having an external pouch, to carry the young; —n. a marsupial or pouched animal, such as the kangaroo [L. mar. opum, a pouch].

mart (márt) n. a market [contr. of market].

martello (már-tel-é-ó) n. a small fortified tower erected during the period of threatened invasion by Napoleon's army (1804) [fr. Cape Martello, in Corsica].

marten (már-ten) n. a kind of weasel, valued for its fur [O.Fr. martre].

martial (már-shál) a. pert. to war or to the Services; warlike, military. —Mar'tial a. pert. to Mars, the god or planet. —Mart'ialism n. —mar'tially adv. —martial law, law enforced by military authorities in times of danger and superseding the civil law during such an emergency [L. Mars, the god of war].

martin (már-tín) n. a kind of swallow. Also martinet [fr. Martin].

martinet (már-ti-net) n. a strict disciplinarian [fr. Fr. officer, Martinet, in army of Louis XIV].

martingale (már-tín-gál) n. a strap fastened to a horse's girth to keep its head down. (Naut.) a stay for a jib-boom. Also mar'tingal [etym. doubtful].

martini (már-té-ni) n. a cocktail of vermouth, gin and bitters [etym. doubtful].

Martinmas (már-tín-mas) n. the feast of St. Martin, Nov. 11.

martyr (már-tyér) n. one who suffers punishment or the sacrifice of his life for adherence to principles or beliefs; —v.t. to put to death for refusal to abandon principles; (Fig.) a constant sufferer. —mar'tyrdom n. the suffering and sacrifice of a martyr. —mar'tyrol'ogy n. a history of martyrs [L. Gk. martus, a witness].

marvel (már-vel) n. anything wonderful. —v.i. to wonder exceedingly. —pr.p. mar'velling. —pa.t. and pa.p. mar'velled. —mar'vel'lous a. wonderful; astonishing. —mar'vel'lously adv. —mar'vel'lousness n. [O.Fr. merveille, a wonder].

Marxism (márks-izm) n. the doctrine expounded by Karl Marx (1818-83), which had a profound influence on Socialists and Communists of Europe in later part of 19th cent. —Marx'ian, Marx'ist a. —Marx'ist n.

marybud (má-ri-búd) n. the flower of a mari-gold [fr. Mary and bud]. [pane.]

marzipan (már-zi-pan) n. Same as mar'ché mascara (mas-ka-rá) n. a cosmetic preparation for darkening eyebrows and lashes. —Also masc'ro [fr. masc].

mascot (mas-kót) n. a person or thing reputed to bring good luck [etym. doubtful].

masculine (mas-kó-lín) a. male; strong; virile; (of a woman) mannish, (Gram.) of male gender. —mas'culine'ness, masculin'ity n. [L. masculus, male].

mas'ch (mas) v.t. to beat to a pulp or soft mass; to mix malt with hot water; —n. a thick mixture of malt and hot water for brewing; a mixture of bran meal, boiled turnips, etc. given to horses and cattle; (Colloq.) mashed potatoes [O.E. mas, mash].

mas'ch (mas) v.t. (Slang) to pay court to; to flirt. —mas'cher n. a fop; a lady-killer [etym. doubtful].

mas'bie (mas'hí) n. a golf-club with short iron head used for lofting ball. Also mas'h'y [prob. corrupt. of Fr. masse, a club].

mask (mask) n. a covering for the face; a plastic impression of a human face, as a death-mask; a respirator of rubber, mica, etc., to be worn as protection against poison-gas; a false face, as worn by children at Hallowe'en; a disguise; a fox's head; a masque or allegorical play incorporating dances popular in the 17th cent.; a masquerade; (Fig.) a pretext; —v.t. to hide, as with a mask; —v.i. to assume a disguise. —masked ball, a ball at which dancers wear masks [prob. Sp. mascara, a mask].

masochism (mas'ó-kizm) n. a form of sex gratification by endurance of physical or mental pain. —mas'ochist n. [fr. von Sascher-Masoch, an Austrian novelist].

mason (má-sén) n. a builder in stone; a free-mason. —mason'ic a. pert. to freemasonry. —ma'sonry n. the work of a mason; stonework; freemasonry [Fr. maçon, a mason].

mas'que See mask.

masquerade (mask-er-ád') n. an assembly of masked persons; disguise. —v.t. to take part in a masquerade, to disguise oneself as [Fr. masquerade].

mass (mas) n. the quantity of matter in a body, a shapeless lump, magnitude, crowd, chief portion. —v.t. to collect in a mass. —v.i. to assemble in large numbers. —mass'ive a. forming a mass, bulky, grandly moulded; weighty. —mass'ively adv. —mass'iveness, mass'iness n. —mass'meet'ing n. a large public meeting or demonstration. —mass'production n. cheap production in great quantities of commodity. —mass'y a. massive. —the masses, the common people [L. massa, a lump].

mass (mas) n. the communion service in the R.C. Church, the music to accompany high mass. —high mass, mass celebrated with music, incense, and elaborate ritual. —low mass, a simple celebration of mass without music [O.E. maesse, fr. L. massa, mass].

massacre (mas'a-kr) n. general, ruthless slaughter, carnage; —v.t. to slaughter indiscriminately [O.Fr. massacre, slaughter].

massage (ma-sáz'h) n. a curative treatment of physical disorders by kneading, rubbing, etc., carried out by specialists. —v.t. to treat by massage. —mass'agist, masseur' n. (fr. masseuse) a male specialist in massage [fr. fr. (Gk. massáo, to knead)].

massif (ma-sé') n. a distinctive, compact group of mountains [Fr.].

mast (mást) n. upright pole supporting rigging, sails, etc., of a ship; upright post supporting wireless-aerial, etc. —v.t. to furnish with mast or masts. —mast'ed a. —mast-head n. top portion of a ship's mast. —v.t. to sail or serve before the mast, to sail as an ordinary seaman [O.E. maest, the stem of a tree].

mast (mást) n. fruit of oak, beech, esp. as food for swine [O.E. maest, fodder].

master (má-s'tér) n. one who directs and controls, an employer of labour; a proprietor, a ship-captain, a teacher, a graduate in Arts, or Science, of a University (abbrev. M.A., M.Sc.), courtesy title given the sons of a family, esp. by servants, an expert; a famous artist, esp. an old master, one who organizes and leads a fox-hunt, as master of foxhounds. —a. chief, dominant, pre-eminent. —v.t. to become the master of; to become expert at, to overcome. —mas'ter-at-arms n. a police officer on board a warship. —mas'terful a. compelling; domineering. —mas'terfully adv. —mas'terfulness n. —mas'terhand n. an expert. —mas'ter-key n. a key which opens several locks. —mas'terly a. highly competent; supremely proficient. —ade with the skill of an expert. —mas'ter-mar'iner n. the captain of a merchant or fishing vessel. —mas'ter-mind n. a first-class mind; chief controlling power behind a scheme. —mas'terpiece n. a brilliantly executed work of art. —mas'ter-stroke n. a masterly action, esp. in diplomatic service, war-strategy, etc.—mas'ter-switch n. an electric switch which must be turned on before other switches will function.—mas'tery n. supremacy; superiority; consummate skill; victory.—to be one's own mas'ter, to be independent [L. magister, a master].

mastic (mas'tik) n. a tree, native to S. Europe, yielding a valuable pale-yellow resin used in the manufacture of fine quality varnish; the resin from this tree [Gk. mastichē, mastic].

masticate (mas'ti-kāt) v.t. to chew; to break up food with the teeth.—mas'ticable a. capable of being chewed.—mas'tica'tion n. the process of chewing.—mas'tica'tor n. a mincing machine.—mas'ticatory a. [L. masticare, to chew].

mastiff (mas'tif) n. a powerful breed of dog (O.F. maslin confused with mas'tif, mongrel).

mastitis (mas'ti-tis) n. (Med.) inflammation of the breast [Gk. mastos, the breast].

mastodon (mas'to-don) n. an extinct mammal resembling an elephant with nipple-shaped prominences on the molar teeth.—masto-don is a [Gk. mastos, the breast; odon, the tooth].

mastoid (mas'toid) a. pert. to or like the female breast; nipple-shaped.—n. the prominence on the temporal bone behind the human ear [Gk. mastos, the breast].

masturbate (mas'tur-bat) v.t. to practise sexual self-abuse.—mas'turba'tion n.—mas'turbator n. [L. masturbari].

mat (mat) n. a coarse fabric of twine, rope, rushes, or coconut fibre for wrapping the feet on, a rug, a heat-resisting covering of cork, plastic, etc., for protecting surface of a table, a tangled mass of hair.—v.t. to lay or cover with mats.—v.i. to become a tangled mass.—pr.p. mat'ting.—pa.t. and pa.p. mat'ted [L. matia, a mat] [shun] [Fr. matel].

mat, matt (mat) a. having a dull finish, not matador, matadore (ma'ta-dor) n. the man who kills the bull in a Spanish bullfight [Sp. fr. L. mactare, to kill].

match (mach) n. a splint of wood or taper tipped with some substance capable of ignition by friction with a rough surface; a piece of rope for firing a gun, a fuse.—match-lock n. a musket fired by a match.—match-wood n. small wood splinters used for making matches [Fr. meche, a wick].

match (mach) n. a person or thing equal to or resembling another, a sporting contest, a marriage; a mate.—v.t. to correspond in quality, quantity, colour, etc.—v.t. to compete with; to unite in marriage, to be the same as, in colour, size, etc.—match-less a. having no match, peerless, unique.—match-maker n. one who schemes to bring about a marriage (O.E. gamenwea, a mate).

mate (māt) n. a companion, a fellow worker, a spouse, one of a pair (of animals, etc.), second-in command on a merchant ship, an assistant.—v.t. to match, to marry.—v.t. to pair.—mat'y a (Slang) friendly (O.Fr. mat, a companion).

mate (māt) v.t. to checkmate (chess);—n. checkmate (abbrev. of checkmate).

mate, maté (ma'tā) n. an evergreen tree of Brazil and Paraguay, the leaves of which are dried and used as tea (Native mati, the vessel for infusing tea).

mater (mas'ter) n. a mother, one of the two membranes covering the brain and spinal cord, and distinguished as the dura mater, and the pia mater [L. mater, a mother].

material (ma'tē-ri-ā) a. consisting of matter; corporeal, (of persons) not spiritually minded; essential, appreciable, worthy of consideration.—n. the substance out of which something is fashioned, fabric, the accumulated data out of which a writer creates a work of literary, historical, or scientific value; materials collectively.—materialisation n.—materialise v.t. to render material; to give bodily form to;—v.i. to become fact.—materialism n. the theory that matter, and matter only, exists in the universe; an attitude to life which ignores all spiritual values.—materialist le, -al a. pert. to materialism.—materialist'ically adv.—materially adv. appreciably [L. materia, matter].

materia medica (ma'tē-ri-ā med'i-kā) n. (Med.) the substances used in the making of medicines, drugs, etc.; the science relating to medicines and their curative properties [L. = medical materials].

maternal (ma'tēr-nāl) a. pert. to a mother; motherly; related on the mother's side.—maternally adv.—maternity n. motherhood; childbirth [L. mater, a mother].

mathematics (math-e-mat'iks) n. the science of quantity and space, including arithmetic, algebra, trigonometry, geometry.—mathem'ic, -al a. pert. to mathematics; accurate.—mathematically adv.—mathemati'cian n. [Gk. mathēma, learning].

matin (ma'tin) n. a morning song;—pl. morning service in Anglican church; one of the canonical hours sung at midnight or day-break. Also ma'tins.—ma'tinal a.—matinée (ma'tē-nā) n. an afternoon performance in theatre or cinema [Fr. matin, morning].

matriarch (ma'tri-ārk) n. a woman in a position analogous to that of a patriarch.—matriar'chal a.—matriar'chism n.—ma'triarchy n. government exercised by a mother [L. mater, a mother; ark, archon, to rule].

matrices (ma'tri-sēz) n.pl. of matrix.

matricide (ma'tri-sid) n. the murder of a mother, one who kills his own mother [L. mater, a mother; cadere, to kill].

matriculate (ma'trikū-lāt) v.t. to admit to membership, esp. of a college.—v.i. to enter, by matriculation.—matricula'tion n. [L. matricula, a register].

matrimony (ma'tri-mō-ni) n. marriage; wedlock.—matrimo'nial a.—matrimo'nially adv. [L. matrimonium].

matrix (ma'triks or ma'triks) n. the womb; the cavity where anything is formed; a mould, esp. for casting printer's type; rock where minerals are embedded.—pl. matrices, mat'rices [L. matrix, the womb].

matron (ma'tron) n. a married woman; a woman in charge of the nursing and domestic staff of a hospital, etc.—ma'tron-like, ma'tronly adv. like a matron; mature, stately [L. matrona, a married lady].

mat (mat) a. same as mat.

matter (ma'tēr) n. that which occupies space and is the object of the senses; substance; cause of a difficulty, subject of a book, speech, sermon, etc. (occasion, moment); an indefinite amount. (Med.) pus.—v.t. to be of importance; to signify. (Med.) to discharge pus.—pr.p. mat'tering.—pa.p. mat'tered.—mat'ter-of-fact a. prosaic, unimaginative [L. materia, matter].

matting (ma'ting) n. mat-work; coarse material of straw, rushes, coconut fibre, etc., used as floor-covering [fr. mat].

matins Same as matins (pl. of matin).

mattock (ma'tok) n. a kind of pick-axe with only one end pointed, used for loosening soil (O.E. matoc).

matress (ma'tres) n. a case of canvas ticking, etc., quilted and stuffed with hair, wool, kapok, or feathers, for a bed (O.E. fr. Ar. ma'trah, a place where anything is put down).

maturate (ma'tū-rāt) v.t. to mature. (Med.) to promote ripuration in.—v.t. to ripen.—matura'tion n. [L. maturus, ripe].

mature (ma'tūr) a. ripe, fully developed; (Med.) come to suppuration; resulting from adult experience; due for payment, as a bill;—v.t. to ripen; to perfect.—v.i. to become ripe; to become due, as a bill.—matur'able a.—matur'ly adv.—mature'ness n. ripeness; the state or quality of being fully developed.—matur'y n. ripeness, complete development [L. maturus, ripe].

matutinal (mat-ū-ti-nal) a. morning; early. Also mat'utine [L. matutinus, of the early morning].

maudlin (mawd'lin) a. over-sentimental; tearful; fuddled (cont. of O.Fr. Maudeleine, Mary Magdalen, painted as weeping).

maugre (maw'-grē) prep. in spite of [Fr. maugre, in spite of].

maul (mawl) n. a heavy wooden hammer; — v.t. to beat; to maltreat; to mishandle [L. malleus, a hammer].

Mau Mau (mou-mou') n. a secret, terrorist society of the Kikuyu tribe in Kenya.

maunder (mawu'der) v.i. to mutter, to drivel; to talk or to wander aimlessly [O.Fr. mendier, to beg].

maundy (mawu'di) n. religious ceremony of washing feet of poor and distributing alms, in commemoration of Christ's washing of disciples' feet [L. mandare, to command].

Mausier (mou'zier) n. a type of repeating magazine rifle [fr. name of inventor].

mausoleum (maw-sō-lē-um) n. a magnificent tomb. — mausole'an a. [orig. the tomb of Mausolus, King of Caria, 350 B.C.].

mauve (mawv or mōv) n. a reddish-purple aniline dye; — a. having this soft, purple colour [Fr. fr. L. malva, the mallow].

mavis (mā'vis) n. the song-thrush; the thrush [etym. doubtful].

maw (maw) n. the stomach of the lower animals; in birds, the crop [O.E. maga, maw].

mawkish (mawk'ish) a. loathsome; sickly sweet, maudlin. — mawk n. maggot. — mawk'ishly adv. [M.E. malhek, a maggot].

maxillar, maxillary (mak-sil'ar, -i) a. pert. to the upper jaw-bone or jaw; — n. the jaw-bone. — maxill'a n. the upper jaw; — pl. maxill'ae [L. maxilla, a jaw-bone].

maxim (mak-sim) n. an accepted principle; an axiom; a proverb or precept [L. maximus, superl. of magnus, great].

Maxim gun (mak-sim-gun) n. a machine-gun invented 1884 (fr. Sir Hiram Maxim).

maximum (mak-si-mum) a. greatest; — n. the greatest number, quantity or degree; the highest point; peak. — pl. max'ima — opp. minimum. — max'im'al a. of the greatest value [L. superl. of magnus, great].

may (ma) v.i. expressing possibility, permission, uncertainty, hope. — pat. might (ult.). — may-be adv. perhaps; possibly [O.E. maeg, may].

May (mä) n. the fifth month of the year; (Fig.) youthful prime; hawthorn (which blossoms in May). — v.t. to celebrate May Day; to gather hawthorn blossom. — May-beet'le n. the cockchafer. — May-bloom a. hawthorn blossom. — May-day n. the first day in May. — May'fair n. a fashionable district in London. — May-fly n. an ephemeral insect; an artificial fly for fishing. — May'ing n. the observance of May-day festival. — May'il'y n. the lily of the valley. — may'pole n. a pole with streamers, around which people danced at the May-day sports [L. Ma'ius, the month of May].

mayhem (mā'hēm) n. (Law) the offence of maiming by violence [O.Fr. ma'haigne, injury].

mayonnaise (mā-on-'zē) n. a sauce or dressing of egg-yolk, vinegar, oil, pepper, salt, mustard, for salads, etc.; dish, e.g. lobster, salmon, dressed with this [Fr.].

mayor (mā'or) n. (Jem. may'orss) the chief magistrate of a city or borough. — may'oral a. — may'orality, may'orship n. the office of a mayor [Fr. maire, mayor].

maze (māz) n. a network of intricate paths; a labyrinth; (Fig.) confused condition; mental perplexity. — v.t. to bewilder. — ma'zy a. — ma'zily adv. — ma'ziness n. [M.E. maesen, to confuse].

mazurka, mazurka (mā-zōor'ka) n. a Polish dance; the music for this [Pol.].

me (mē) pron. the objective case of first pers. pronoun, 'I.'

me (mē) n. the third note in tonic sol-fa.

mead (mēd) n. a fermented drink made of honey, yeast and water [O.E. meodu].

mead (mēd) n. a meadow [O.E. mea'd].

meadow (med'ed) n. a low, level tract of grass-land pasture ground. — meadow-sweet, or — wort, fragrant plant with creamy, feathery flowers. — mead'owy a. [O.E. marcan, to mow].

meagre (mē-grē) a. having little flesh; gaunt; scanty; barren. — mea'gely adv. — mea'giness n. [Fr. maigre, thin].

meal (mēl) n. the food taken at one time; a repast [O.E. maet, time].

meal (mēl) n. pulse or grain ground less finely than flour. — meal'iness n. — meal'worm n. an insect found in meal stores. — meal'y a. like meal; hoary; powdery. — meal'y-mouthed a. honey-tongued; apt to mince words [O.E. mele, meal].

mealie (mē'li) n. (S. Afr.) an ear of maize; — in pl. maize [S. Afr. milye, millet].

mean (mēn) a. humble in rank or birth; ignoble; sordid; lacking dignity; stingy; (Colloq.) dissembling; selfish. — mean'y adv. — mean'ness n. small-mindedness; sordidness; want of dignity [O.E. gemacne, common].

mean (mēn) a. in a middle position; average; intervening; — n. the middlepoint of quantity, rate, position, or degree; — pl. resources; revenue; wealth; agency — mean time, the interval between two given times. — mean'time, mean'while adv. in the intervening time. — means test, an inquiry into means to determine claim to pension or benefit. — golden mean, course midway between two extremes; happy medium [L. medius, the middle].

mean (mēn) v.t. to have in view, to intend; to signify; — v.i. to form in the mind; to be disposed, to have a meaning. — pr.p. mean'ing. — pat. and pa.p. meant (ment). — mean'ing n. that which is meant, sense, signification, — a. expressive [O.E. macnan, to signify].

meander (mē-an'der) v.i. to flow with a winding course; to saunter aimlessly; — n. a circuitous path; the winding course of a river (usually used in pl.). — mean'dering a. winding (Gk. Meandros, a winding river of Asia Minor).

measles (mē-zl) n. (Med.) a highly contagious disease, characterised by rash of bright red spots all over body, a disease affecting cattle and pigs and caused by bladderworms.

meas'led, meas'ly a. having measles, (Fig.) wretched; shoddy, skimpy. — German measles, a disease resembling measles but less severe [Dut. maelen, measles].

measure (mez'chūr) n. dimension reckoned by some standard; an instrument for measuring; a vessel of predetermined capacity, a stately dance, metre; division of the time in music; a course of action; an act of Parliament; means to an end; (Mus.) tempo; the notes between two bars in staff notation; — pl. (Arch.) layers of rock; strata. — v.t. to ascertain the quantity or dimensions of; to assess, to distribute by measure; — v.i. to have an ascertained value or extent; to compare favourably with. — meas'urable a. capable of being measured; moderate. — meas'urableness n. — meas'urably adv. — meas'ured a. of specified measure; uniform; (of words) calculated. — meas'ureless a. boundless; infinite. — meas'urement n. dimension, quantity, etc., ascertained by measuring with fixed unit. — meas'urer n. [L. mensura, a measure].

meat (mēt) n. flesh used as food; food of any kind. — meat'iness a. — meat'y a. full of meat; (Fig.) plithy; compact with ideas [O.E. mete, food].

Mecca (mek'ka) n. the reputed birthplace of Mahomet, visited annually by thousands of pilgrims. — mecca n. (Fig.) the focal point for people drawn together by some common interest.

mechanic, -al (me-kan'ik, -al) a. pert. to machines, mechanism, or mechanics; produced by machinery; automatic; acting with out thought or design; base. —mech'an'ic n. one who works with machines or instruments; skilled workman. —mech'an'ically adv. —mech'an'ic'lan n. a machine-maker or repairer. —mech'an'ies n. that branch of applied mathematics which deals with force and motion; the science of machines. —mech'anis'a'tion n. (Mil.) the change from animal to mechanical power in transport. —mech'anise v.t. to make mechanical. —mech'anised a. —mech'anism n. the construction of a machine; machinery, esp. its parts collectively; (Fig.) technique; the philosophical doctrine, dominant in the 19th cent. that all phenomena of life admit of physico-chemical proof. —mech'anist n. —mech'anit'ic a. [Gk. mēchanē, a contrivance].

Mechlin (mē'lin) n. and a. a kind of lace, made in Mechlin (Malines) in Belgium.

medal (mē'dəl) n. a piece of metal, struck like a coin, as a memento or reward. —v.t. to decorate with a medal. —medall'ion a. pert. to medals. —medall'ion n. a large medal; a metal disc, usually round, with portrait in bas-relief, an ornament containing miniature or hair. —med'allist, med'alist n. a maker or student of medals, one who has been awarded a medal [Fr. medaille, a metal disc].

meddle (mē'dl) v.i. to interfere officiously; to tinker with. —medd'ler n. —medd'lesome a. interfering. —medd'lesomeness n. [L. misceri, to mix].

Medes (mēdz) n.pl. the inhabitants of Media on S.W. of Caspian Sea, the country annexed to Persia by Cyrus about 550 B.C. — the laws of the Medes and Persians, that which cannot be changed [fr. Media].

media See medium

mediaeval See mediaeval

medial (mē'di-əl) a. in, or passing through, the middle, pert. to a mean or average. —me'di'an a. situated in the middle. —n. (Geom.) a line drawn from vertex of a triangle to the middle point of the opposite side [L. medius, the middle].

mediate (mē'di-āt) a. being between two extremes; intervening, depending on an intermediary, not direct. —v.i. to interpose between contending parties to effect a reconciliation. —v.t. to effect by mediation. —me'di'acy n. —me'di'ately adv. —me'di'ateness n. —me'di'ation n. the act of mediating, the steps taken to effect a reconciliation. —me'di'atise v.t. to annex a principality or small state, still leaving to the ruler his title. —me'di'ator n. (pol.) me'di'atress, me'diatrix n. one who mediates. —me'di'atorial a. —me'di'atory a. [L. medius, the middle].

medic (mē'dik) n. a leguminous plant with leaves like clover, used as fodder. Also medick [Gk. medike (poa), Medick's grass].

medical (mē'di-kəl) a. pert. to medicine or the art of healing. —medicinal —medic'able a. capable of being cured. —medic'ally adv. —med'icament n. any healing remedy. —med'icate v.t. to treat with medicine. —med'icated a. —medica'tion n. —med'icative a. tending to heal [L. medicus, a physician].

medicine (mē'di-sin or mē'di-sin) n. any substance used in the treatment of disease, the science of healing and prevention of disease; magic; (Fig.) salutary lesson. —v.t. to administer medicine to. —medic'inal a. pert. to medicine; remedial. —medic'inally adv. —medic'ine man, a magician with supposed powers of healing; a witch doctor. —med'ico n. (colloq.) a doctor or medical student [L. medicus, a physician].

medieval, mediaeval (mē'di-ēvəl) a. pert. to or characteristic of the Middle Ages. —medic'ale'valist n. one who makes a special study of the Middle Ages [L. medius, middle; ævum, an age].

medicore (mē'di-ō-ker) a. middling; neither good nor bad; second-rate. —medic'ority n. a middle state [L. mediocris].

meditate (med'i-tāt) v.i. to consider thoughtfully; to intend; —v.t. to ponder, esp. on religious matters. —med'itated a. planned. —medita'tion n. the act of meditating; deep thought. —med'itativ a. given to reflection. —med'itatively adv. —med'itativness n. [L. meditari, to consider].

Mediterranean (mē-dī-ter-rā-ne-an) a. (of land) fur from the sea; (of water) encircled by land. —Mediterra'nean a. pert. to the almost land-locked water between S. Europe and N. Africa, so called because it was regarded as being in the middle of the Old World. —Mediterranean climate, a climate of warm, wet winters, and hot dry summers [L. medius, the middle; terra, the earth].

medium (mē'di-um) n. that which is in the middle, a mean; an agency; in spiritualism, an intermediary professing to give messages from the spirit world (pl. me'diums), in bacteriology, a substance used for cultivation of bacteria; —pl. me'dia, me'diums. —a. middle, average; middling [L. medius, the middle].

medlar (mē'dl-ār) n. a tree with fruit like a small apple (O. Fr. mesler, a medlar tree).

medley (mē'dl) n. a miscellaneous collection of things, a miscellany (O. Fr. medler, to mix).

Médoc (mā-dōk') n. a red wine from Médoc, Gironde, France.

medulla (mē-dul'-ā) n. marrow in a bone; inner tissue of a gland, pith of hair or plants. —medull'ar, —y a. comprising or resembling marrow, pith etc. —med'ullate(d) a. having pith. —med'ullose a. like pith [L. medulla, marrow].

Medusa (mē-dū'-zā) n. (Myth.) one of the three Gorgons, whose viper-wreathed head, cut off by Perseus, had the power to turn the beholder into stone. —medu'sa n. a kind of jellyfish, with tentacles like Medusa's hair. —pl. medu'sae [Gk. Medousa].

meed (mēd) n. reward; recompense (O.E. med, a reward).

meek (mēk) a. submissive, humble, gentle. —meek'ly adv. —meek'ness n. humility, the quality of being meek (O.E. meo, meek).

meerschaum (mērs-shawm) n. a fine, white clay of silicate of magnesium used for the bowl of tobacco-pipes, a pipe of this (Ger. Meer, the sea, Schaum, foam).

meet (mēt) a. fit, suitable. —meet'ly adv. —meet'ness n. [O.E. gemæte, suitable].

meet (mēt) v.t. to encounter; to join; to find; to satisfy, to pay, as a debt; to await arrival, as of a train. —v.i. to converge at a specified point; to combine, to assemble in company. —part. and part. met. —n. an assembly of people as at a fox-hunt. —meet'ing n. a coming together, as of roads, rivers; encounter; people gathered together for worship, entertainment, discussion, sport, etc. —Meeting House, the Quakers' place of worship (O.E. metan, to meet).

megacycle (meg'a-sī-kŭl) n. (Elect.) one million cycles. —pl. megas, great, kilogas, a circle.

megalth (meg'a-lth) n. a huge stone. —megalth'ic a. pert. to huge ancient stone monuments or stone-circles [Gk. megas, great; lithos, a stone].

megalomania (meg-a-lō-mā-ni-ā) n. a form of insanity in which the patient has grandiose ideas of his own importance, lust for power. —megaloma'niac n. [Gk. megas, great; mania, madness].

megaphone (meg'a-fōn) n. a large speaking-trumpet used as an amplifier to make human voice audible at a great distance [Gk. megas, great; phōnē, a sound].

megap See megap.

megohm (meg-ōm) n. (Elect.) one million ohms (Gk. megas, great; and ohm).

megrim (mē-grim) n. a pain affecting one side of the head; migraine. —pl. depression [Gk. hemi-, half, kranon, the skull].

meiosis (mē-iō-sis) n. (Biol.) litotes, understatement; (Biol.) the reduction of chromosomes in a reproductive cell. [Gk. meiosis, lessening].

mekometer (mek-om'-c-ter) n. a range-finder. (Mil.) melancholy (mel'an-kol-i) n. depression of spirits; morbidity; —a. gloomy; depressed; grievous. —melanchol'ia n. morbid state of depression; abnormal introspectiveness bordering on insanity. —melanchol'ic, melanchol'ous a. depressed; caused by melancholy [Gk. melas, black; cholé, bile].

Melanesian (mel-an-éz'-i-an) a. pert. to Melanesia, an island-group, 1000 miles N.E. of Australia; dark-skinned; —n. a native or the language of Melanesia [Gk. melas, black; nēsos, island].

mélange (mā-longzh') n. a mixture; a medley [Fr. mêler, to mix].

melanin (mel'an-in) n. a black pigment found in the eye, hair and skin. —melan'ic a. black. —mel'anism n. an excess of colouring matter in the skin [Gk. melas, black].

Melba toast (mel'ba tōst') n. a very thin slice of toasted bread.

mélée (mē'ā) n. a confused, hand-to-hand fight [Fr. mêler, to mix].

melliorate (mē-lyo-rāt) v.t. to improve; —v.i. to become better. —melliora'tion n. —melliora'tor n. —mell'iorism n. the doctrine that the world is capable of improvement [L. mellior, better].

melliferous (mel-if'er-us) a. producing honey. —mellif'ic a. honey-making. —mellif'luence n. a flowing sweetly or smoothly. —mellif'luent, mellif'luous a. —mellif'luently, mellif'luously adv. —mellif'uous a. producing honey [L. mel, honey; ferre, to bear].

mellow (mel'ō) a. soft and ripe; well-matured; genial; jovial; resonant, as a voice; (Slang) somewhat intoxicated; —v.i. to soften; to ripen; —v.t. to become soft or ripe; to become maturely wise. —mell'owly adv. —mell'owness n. [O.E. mearu, soft].

melodeon (mel-ō'di-un) n. a small hand reed organ or harmonium; a kind of accordion [Gk. melodia, a song].

melodrama (mel-o-drām'a) n. a dramatic entertainment, sensational and crudely emotional; a play of romantic sentiment and situation. —melodramat'ic a. [Gk. melos, a song; drama, a play].

melody (mel'ō-dī) n. a rhythmical succession of single sounds forming an agreeable musical air; a tune. —melod'ic a. pert. to a form of minor scale. —melod'iously adv. —melod'iousness n. —mel'odist n. a musical composer or singer [Gk. melodia, a song].

melon (mel'on) n. a kind of gourd with a sweet, juicy pulp, and a centre full of seeds [Gk. mēlon, an apple].

melt (melt) v.t. to reduce to a liquid state; to dissolve; to soften; (Fig.) to make tender; —v.i. to become liquid or molten; to blend; to vanish; (Fig.) to become tender. —pa.p. melt'ed or melt'ed. —melt'ing n. the act of making liquid or molten; —a. softening; languishing, as looks; tender. —melt'ingly adv. [O.E. melan, to melt].

member (mem'ber) n. a limb, esp. of an animal body; a constituent part of a complex whole; one of a society, group, parliament, etc. —mem'bered a. having limbs. —mem'bership n. the state of being a member, or one of a society; members collectively [L. membrum, a limb].

membrane (mem'brān) n. (Anat.) a thin, flexible tissue forming or lining an organ of the body; a sheet of parchment. —membran'ous, mem'branous, membrana'ceous a. pert. to, or resembling, a membrane [L. membrana, parchment].

memento (mem-en'tō) n. anything which serves as a reminder of a person or event; a souvenir; —pl. memen'tos or memento's [L. imper. of mementisce, to remember].

memoir (mem'wār or mem'oir) n. a short, biographical sketch; a scientific record of personal investigations on a set subject; —pl. reminiscences. —mem'oirist n. [L. memoria, memory].

memory (mem'ō-ri) n. the faculty of retaining and recalling knowledge; recollection; remembrance. —memorabil'is n. pl. things worthy of note. —mem'orable a. noteworthy; remarkable. —mem'orably adv. —memoran'dum n. a note or reminder; (Law) a summary of a transaction; in diplomacy, an outline of the state of a question; —pl. memoran'dums, or memoran'da. —memo'rial a. serving as a reminder; contained in the memory; —n. anything intended to commemorate a person or an event; a written statement of facts in the form of a petition presented to an official governing body; a record of historical events. —memo'rialist n. —mem'orise v.t. to commit to memory [L. memoria, memory].

memsahib (mem'sā-hib) n. mode of address used by Indians to a European married woman [ma'am; Hind. sahib].

men (men) n. pl. of man.

menace (men'as) n. a threat or threatening; potential danger; —v.t. to threaten. —men'acing a. impending; threatening. —men'aciously adv. [L. minari, to threaten].

ménage (mā-nāzh') n. a household; housewifery; a club through which purchases can be made on the instalment system [Fr. fr. L. mansio a dwelling].

menagerie (men-a-jér-i) n. a collection of caged wild animals for exhibition [Fr. menagerie a household].

mend (mend) v.t. to repair; to set right; to improve; —v.i. to improve; to convalesce; to quicken, as one's steps; —n. a mended place. —mend'er n. —mend'ing n. the act of repairing [Fr. amend].

mendacious (men-dā'sh-us) a. given to telling lies; untruthful. —menda'ciously adv. —menda'city n. prevarication; a tendency to lying [L. mendare, lying].

Mendelism (men'del-izm) n. the theory of heredity formulated by Gregor Johann Mendel (1822-84). —Mendel'ian a.

mendicant (men'di-kant) a. beggar; living as a beggar; —n. a beggar. —mend'icancy, mendic'ity n. begging; poverty; the practice of living by alms [L. mendicare, to beg].

menhir (men'hēr) n. a tall, massive monumental stone, erected in prehistoric times; a monolith [Breton, men, stone; hir, high].

menial (mē'n-ī-əl) a. pert. to a domestic servant or service; servile; mean; —n. a servant; a person of mean character. —men'ially adv. [O.Fr. menier, a household].

meninx (mē-nīngks) n. one of the three membranes enveloping the brain; —pl. meninges (men-in'jēz). —menin'itis n. (Med.) inflammation of the membranes of the brain [Gk. meninx, a membrane].

meniscus (mē-nus'kus) n. a lens convex on one side and concave on the other; the curved surface of a liquid in a vessel; (Math.) a crescent. —menis'cal, menis'cate a. —menis'iform a. crescent-shaped [Gk. mēnskōs, a crescent].

menopause (men'ō-pawz) n. the change of life in a woman [Gk. mēn, a month; pausis, cessation].

menial (men'ē-əl) a. monthly [L. mensis].

meneses (men'ē-z) n. pl. the monthly discharge from the uterus of the female. —men'strua n. pl. the menses. —men'strual a. monthly; pert. to the menses. —men'strate v.t. to discharge the menses. —menstrua'tion n. the act or process of menstruating. —men'struous a. [pl. of L. mensis, a month].

Menshevik (men'she-vik) n. a member of the Russian moderate Socialist party overthrown by Bolsheviks under Lenin [Russ. menshevik, belonging to a minority].

menstruum (men'strō-um) n. a solvent.

pl. men'strua, men'struums [L. menstrua, the menses].

mensurable (men's-ə-ſə-bl) a. capable of being measured. — mensurability n. — mensural a. pert. to measure. — mensuration n. the act, process, or art of measuring. — mensurative [L. mensura, measure].

mental (men'tal) a. pert. to, or of, the mind; performed in the mind; (Colloq.) mentally defective. — mentality n. intellectual power; mental attitude. — mentally adv. — mental deficiency, subnormal intelligence [L. mens, the mind].

menthol (men'thol) n. a camphor obtained from oil of peppermint and used to alleviate neuralgia. — mentholated a. sprinkled or flavoured with menthol [L. mentha, mint].

mention (men'shun) n. a brief notice, a casual comment; — v.t. to notice; to name. — mentionable a. fit to be remarked on [L. mentio].

mentor (men'tor) n. an experienced and prudent adviser. — mentorial a. [Gk. Mentor, the adviser of Telemachus].

menu (men'ü) n. a bill of fare; the food served [Fr. menu, a list].

Mephistopheles (mef-ist-ə-fel-ēz) n. (Myth.) the devil. — Mephistophelean, Mephistophelian a. sinister, cynical (etym. doubtful).

mephitic (me-fis'tik) n. noxious exhalation, esp. from the ground or from decaying matter. — mephitic a. [L.].

mercantile (mer'kan-til) a. pert. to commerce. — mercantile n. the mercantile system. — mercantile n. — mercantile marine, ships and men engaged in commerce. — mercantile system, the economic theory that money alone is wealth and that a nation's exports should far exceed its imports [L. mercari, to traffic].

mercenary (mer'se-nar-i) a. working merely for money gain, hired; soldier; — n. a hired soldier. — mercenarily adv. — mercenariness n. [L. merces, wages].

mercer (mer'ser) n. a dealer in textiles or small wares. — mercery n. [L. merx, goods].

mercerise (mer'ser-iz) v.t. to treat cotton fabrics with caustic lye to impart a silky finish. — mercerised a. [fr. John Mercer, who discovered the process 1850].

merchant (mer'chant) n. one who engages in trade, wholesaler; a. pert. to trade or merchandise. — merchandise n. commodities bought and sold in home or foreign markets. — merchantman n. a ship carrying goods. — merchant navy, the ships and men of the mercantile marine [L. mercari, to traffic].

Mercian (mer'sh-i-an) a. pert. to the old Anglian kingdom of Mercia.

Mercury (mer'kū-ri) n. the Roman equivalent of the Greek god, Hermes, the messenger of the gods, and patron of merchants and travellers; the planet of the solar system nearest to the sun. — mercury n. a metallic chemical element, silvery white in colour, with very low melting point (also called quicksilver) and used in barometers, thermometers, etc.; a. messenger. — mercurial a. pert. to, or consisting of, mercury, sprightly; agile, erratic. — mercurialise v.t. (Med.) to affect with mercury, to expose to the vapour of mercury. — mercurially adv. — mercurie a. (Chem.) pert. to compounds of bivalent mercury. — mercurous a. (Chem.) pert. to compounds of univalent mercury [L. Mercurius, prob. fr. merx, goods].

mercy (mer'si) n. forbearance; clemency; leniency shown to one guilty of a crime or misdemeanour; compassion. — merciful a. full of mercy; compassionate. — mercifully adv. — mercifulness n. — merciless a. void of pity; callous, cruel. — mercilessly adv. — mercilessness n. callousness. — Sisters of Mercy, nuns who attend the sick and needy [L. merces, reward].

mere (mēr) n. a pool or lake. Also meer [O.E. mere, a stretch of water].

mere (mēr) a. nothing but; simple; orig. pure, as in mere English. — merely adv. purely; simply; solely [L. merus, undiluted].

mere (mēr) n. a boundary; a boundary stone [O.E. gemære, a boundary].

meretricious (mer-e-trish-i-us) a. pert. to a harlot; (Fig.) tawdry; specious; cheap (as of style). — meretriciously adv. — meretriciousness n. [L. meretrix, a harlot].

merganser (mer-gan'ser) n. a diving fish-eating bird like a duck [L. mergus, a diving-bird; anser, a goose].

merge (mɜrʒ) v.t. to cause to be swallowed up; to plunge or sink, — v.i. to lose identity by being absorbed in something else; to be swallowed up or lost. — merger n. a combine of commercial or industrial firms [L. mergere, to dip].

meridian (me-rid-i-an) n. an imaginary great circle passing through the poles at right angles to the equator, (Astron.) a circle passing through the poles of the heavens and the zenith of the observer; the highest altitude of sun or star; midday; — a. pert. to midday; supreme. — meridional a. pert. to the meridian; southerly. — meridional n. — meridionally adv. — meridian sun, the sun at its highest [L. meridianus, pert. to noon].

meringue (me-rang') n. a mixture of sugar and white of egg, whipped till stiff, and baked in a cool oven, a small cake of this, filled with whipped cream [Fr.].

merino (me-rī-no) n. a breed of sheep with very fine, thick fleece, orig. from Spain, a dress fabric of this wool, — a. pert. to the merino sheep or its wool [Esp. merino, an inspector of sheep-walks].

merit (mer'it) n. quality of deserving reward, excellence; worth; — pl. the rights and wrongs, as of a law case, — v.t. to earn, to deserve. — meritorious a. deserving reward. — meritoriously adv. — meritoriousness n. — Order of Merit (abbrev. O.M.) awarded for outstanding achievement [L. meritum, desert]. [13-4d mark] merk (mer'k) n. an old Scots silver coin worth merle (mer'l) n. a blackbird [L. merula].

merlin (mer'lin) n. a species of falcon [O.Fr. esmerillon, a falcon].

merlon (mer'shon) n. part of a parapet which lies between two embrasures [Fr. fr. L. murus, a wall].

mermaid (mer'mād) n. an imaginary sea-creature with the upper body and head of a woman, and the tail of a fish. — merman n. the male equivalent of a mermaid [O.E. mere, a lake; and maid].

merry (mer'si) a. gay, hilariously lively; (Colloq.) slightly intoxicated. — merrily adv. — merriment, merriness n. gaiety with noise and laughter; hilarity. — merry-go-round n. a revolving machine with horses, cars, etc. — merry-making n. festivity. — merry-thought n. the forked bone of a fowl's breast, the wish-bone [O.E. myrric, pleasant].

merseion (mer'shun) n. immersion.

mesentery (mes-en-ter-i) n. a fold of abdominal tissue keeping the intestines in place. — mesenteric a. [Gk. mesos, middle, enteron, intestine].

mesh (mesh) n. the space between the threads of a net; — pl. network, (Fig.) toils, — v.t. to net; to ensnare; — v.i. to become interlocked, as gears of a machine [O.E. mas, net].

mesmerism (mez-mēr-izm) n. exercising an influence over will and actions of another; animal magnetism, hypnotism. — mesmeric a. of or pert. to mesmerism. — mesmerisation n. — mesmerise v.t. to hypnotise. — mesmeriser, mesmerist n. [fr. Anton Mesmer, a German physician, 1733-1815].

mesne (mēn) a. middle, (Law) intermediate. — mesne lord, a feudal lord who had granted a third person part of land held from a superior [O.Fr. mesme, middle].

mesolithic (mes-ō-lith-ic) a. of period between Palaeolithic and Neolithic ages [Gk. mesos, middle; lithos, a stone].

meson (méz'ón, mes'ón) n. a particle equal in charge to, but having greater mass than, an electron or positron, and less mass than a neutron or proton [Gk. meson, noun. of mesos, middle].

Mesopotamia (mes-ô-pô-tâ-mí-á) n. the land between Euphrates and Tigris; now Iraq; (Colloq. abbrev. Mes'pot) [Gk. mesos, middle; potamos, a river].

Mesozoic (mes-ô-zô-ík) a. pert. to the second geological period, including the Triassic, Jurassic, and Cretaceous systems (Gk. mesos, middle; zôê, life).

mess (mes) n. unpleasant mixture; disorder; a muddle; —v.t. to dirty; to muddle. —mess'y a. dirty; untidy; chaotic [form of marsh].

mess (mes) n. a dish of food served at one time; soft, pulpy food; a number of people who eat together, esp. in army, navy, etc., as officers' mess; —v.t. to supply with a mess; —v.i. to eat in company —mess'tin n. a soldier's cooking-vessel [O.Fr. mes, a dish].

message (mes-ij) n. a communication, verbal or written, sent by one person to another; an errand; an inspired utterance; —v.t. to transmit by signalling. —mess'enger n. one who delivers a verbal or written communication; one employed to deliver goods from a shop [L. mittere, to send].

Messiah (me-sí-á) n. the promised Saviour of the Jews, the Christ. Also Messí'as. — Messí'ah'ship n. — Messí'ah'ic a. [Heb. masiah, anointed].

message (mes-ij) n. (Law) a dwelling-house with lands and outbuildings attached [O.Fr. mesuage, a holding of land].

mestizo (mes-tí-zô) n. a half-caste, esp. the offspring of a Spaniard and an American Indian [Sp. fr. L. miscere, to mix].

met (met) part. and p.p. of the verb meet.

metabolism (me-tab-ô-lizm) n. the name given to the chemical changes continually going on in the cells of living matter — metabol'ic a. — metab'olise v.t. [Gk. metabolê, change].

metacarpus (met-a-kâr-pus) n. the hand between the wrist and the fingers; the bones of this part of the hand. — metacar'pal a. [Gk. meta, after; karpô, the wrist].

metage (mêt-ij) n. official weighing of coal; the price paid for this [fr. mete].

metal (met'al) n. a mineral substance, opaque, fusible and malleable, capable of conducting heat and electricity, molten glass; stones used in macadamising roads; (Fig.) courage; mettle. —pl. railroad track; —v.t. to cover with metal; to lay or repair roads with metal. — met'alled a. covered with metal, as a road. — met'al'ic a. pert. to, like, or consisting of, metal. — met'al'ically adv. — met'allise v.t. to make metallic; to vulcanise, as rubber. — met'allist n. a metal-worker; one who advocates metal and not paper currency. — met'alloid n. an element which has both metallic and non-metallic properties, as arsenic; —a. pert. to, or having the property of, metal. Also metalloid'al.

metallic oxide, a compound of metal and oxygen. — base metals, copper, lead, zinc, tin as distinct from precious metals, gold and silver [Gk. metallon, a mine].

metallurgy (met'al-ur-jí) n. the art of working metals or of obtaining metals from ores. — metallur'gic a. — met'allurgist n. [Gk. metallon, a metal; ergon, a work].

metamorphosis (met-a-mor'fô-sis) n. a change of form or structure; evolution; —pl. metamor'phoses. — metamor'phis a. subject to change of form, as rocks by heat or pressure. — metamor'phism n. the state of being metamorphic. — metamor'phose v.t. to transform in form or nature [Gk. meta, over; morphê, shape].

metaphor (met'â-for) n. a figure of speech which makes an implied comparison between things which are not literally alike, e.g. 'Much have I travelled in the realms of gold.' — metaphor'ic a. — metaphor'ically adv. — metaphor'icalness n. — met'aphorist n. — mixed metaphor, a combination of metaphors drawn from different sources, e.g. 'he drew off the mask and showed the cloven hoof' [Gk. metapherein, to transfer].

metaphrase (met'â-fráz) n. literal, word for word translation from foreign language (opp. of paraphrase); a repartee; —v.t. to translate literally. — met'aphrast n. one who makes a literal translation. — metaphras'tic a. literal [Gk. meta, over; phrasis, a saying].

metaphysics (met-â-fiz'iks) n. sing. the science which investigates first causes of all existence and knowledge; ontology. — metaphys'ical a. — metaphys'ically adv. — metaphysic'ian n. [Gk. meta, after; phusis, nature].

metatarsus (met-a-târ-sus) n. the front part of the foot. — metatar'sal a. [Gk. meta, beyond; tarsos, the flat of the foot].

metathesis (me-tath'e-sis) n. the transposition of a letter or letters in a word, as in curl, orig. cril. — metathet'ic a. [Gk. meta, over; thesis, a placing].

metatome (met'â-tôm) n. (Archit.) the space between two dentils [Gk. meta, among; tomê, a cutting].

metazoon (met-a-zô-on) n. a multi-cellular animal. — pl. metazo'a, metazo'an. — metazo'ic a. [Gk. meta, after; zôon, an animal].

mete (mêt) v.t. to measure. — mete out, to distribute, to allot, as punishment. — mete'wand, mete'yard n. a measuring stick; (Fig.) criterion [O.E. metan, to measure].

metempsychosis (me-tem-sí-kô-sis) n. the transmigration of the soul, after death, into another body. — pl. metempsychô'ses [Gk. meta, expressing 'change'; en, in; psychê, the soul].

meteor (mê-te-or) n. any rapidly passing, luminous body seen in the atmosphere, a shooting star; (Fig.) a dazzling but transiently famous person. — meteor'ic a. pert. to a meteor; influenced by atmospheric conditions. (Fig.) dazzling, flashing. — me'teorite n. a meteoric stone. — me'teograph n. an instrument by which variations in several meteorological elements are recorded in combination. — meteorog'raphy n. — me'teoroid n. a body in space which becomes a meteor on passing through the atmosphere of the earth. — me'teorolite n. a meteorite. — meteorolog'ical a. — meteorol'ogist n. — meteorol'ogy n. the science which treats of atmospheric phenomena, esp. in relation to weather forecasts [Gk. metêros, lofty].

meter (mê-tér) n. var. spelling of metre.

meter (mê-tér) n. one who, or that which, measures; an instrument for recording the consumption of gas, electricity, water, etc. [Gk. metron, a measure].

methane (meth'ân) n. an inflammable, hydrocarbon gas. — meth'anol n. methyl or wood alcohol [fr. methy].

method (meth'ôd) n. manner of proceeding esp. in scientific research; orderliness; classification system; technique. — method'ic a. arranged systematically; orderly. — method'ically adv. [Gk. meta, after; hodos, a way].

Methodism (meth'ôd-izm) n. the doctrines and teaching of the Methodists. — Method'ist n. a member of nonconformist sect founded in 18th cent. by Charles and John Wesley [fr. method].

methyl (meth'il) n. the chemical basis of wood-spirit. — meth'ylate v.t. to mix alcohol with methyl to make it undrinkable and exempt from duty. — methyiated spirits, alcohol mixed with 10 per cent wood spirit and coloured with violet dye, used for industrial purposes, esp. as a liquid fuel for spirit lamps, etc. [Gk. methu, wine; hulê, wood].

meticulous (me-tík'ô-lus) a. orig. afraid to make a mistake; hence, over-scrupulous as to detail; over-exact. — metic'ulously adv. — metic'ulousness n. [L. metus, fear].

métier (mêt-yâ) n. one's profession or vocation; the occupation for which one has a special aptitude [Fr.].

Metonic (me-ton'ik) a. (Astron.) pert. to Meton, an Athenian astronomer.—Metonic cycle, a period of 19 years at the end of which the phases of the moon appear on the same days as at the beginning of the cycle [fr. Meton, c. 430].

metonymy (me-ton'ij-mi) n. (Rhet.) a figure of speech in which the name of one thing is put for another associated with it, as 'the pen is mightier than the sword'.—metonymy'le, -al a.—metonymy'leally adv. [Gk. meta, expressing change, onoma, a name].

metre (mê'tr) n. unit of length in the metric system, 39.37 Eng. inches.—met'ric a.—metric system, a decimal system based on the French metre [Gk. metron, a measure].

metre, meter (mê'tr) n. in poetry, the rhythmical group arrangement of syllables (long and short, accented and unaccented), these groups in English prosody being termed feet, verse; stanza-form.—met'ric'al a. pert. to metre or to measurement.—met'ric'ally adv.—metrology n. the science of weights and measures.—met'ron'ome n. (Mus.) an instrument like an inverted pendulum for beating out the time in music [Gk. metron, a measure].

metropolis (me-trop'o-lis) n. the capital town of a country; the principal ecclesiastical city.—pl. metrop'o-lises—metrop'o-litan a. pert. to a metropolis; pert. to the see of a metropolitan bishop.—n. a bishop with jurisdiction over other bishops of the see [Gk. mêtêr, a mother; polis, a city].

mettle (mê'tl) n. sp. courage.—mett'lesome a. high-spirited; ardent.—v. to be on one's mettle, to be roused to do one's best [fr. metel].

mew (mû) n. a sea-gull [O.E. mearc, a gull].

mew (mû) v. to shed or cast, to confine, as in a cage.—v.i. to moult.—n. a cage for hawks, esp. at moulting season.—pl. stables, orig. the place where the king's falcons were kept [O.Fr. muer, to moult].

mew (mû) n. the cry of a cat, sea-gull, etc.;—v.i. to cry as a cat [imit.].

Mexican (mek'si-kan) n. a native or inhabitant of Mexico.—a. pert. to Mexico or to the people of Mexico.

mezzanine (mez'zi-nin) n. (Archit.) a low storey between two higher ones, a window in such, in a theatre, the floor below the stage [It. mezza, middle].

mezzo (med'zô) a. middle.—mez'zo-sopran'o n. a type of voice between soprano and contralto.—mez'zotint n. a method of copper-plate engraving in which a roughened surface is scraped heavily or lightly according to degrees of light and shade required. Also mezzotint'o [It. mezzo, half].

miaow (mi-ou') n. the cry of a cat;—v.i. to mew [imit.].

miasma (mi-az'ma) n. infectious or noxious exhalations from decomposing matter. Also mi'as'm.—pl. mi'as'mata, mi'as'ma.—mi'as'mal, mi'as'mat'le, mi'as'matous a. [Gk. miasma, a stain].

mica (mi'ka) n. a group of mineral silicates of aluminium and potassium, sodium, etc., capable of cleavage into very thin, flexible, and often transparent laminae.—mic'eous a. [L. mica, a crumb].

mice (mik) pl. of mouse.

Michael (mi'kel) n. an archangel and leader of the heavenly host.—Michaelmas (mi'kel mas) n. the feast of St. Michael, Sept. 29th.—Michaelmas daisy, a common garden flower of the aster family.

microbe (mi'krôb) n. a minute organism; a bacterium, or disease-germ.—micro'bial, micro'bian, micro'bie a.—micro'biide n. any substance which kills microbes.—microbiolog'y n. the science of microbes.—microbiolog'ic'le a. [Gk. mikros, small; bios, life].

microcephalous (mi'krô-sef'a-lus) a. (Med.) having a very small head [Gk. mikros, small; kêphala, the head].

micrococci (mi'krô-kok'us) n. a spherical shaped organism or bacterium [Gk. mikros, small; kokkos, a berry].

microcosm (mi'krô-kôzm) n. man, regarded as the epitome of the universe or macrocosm; a community symbolical of humanity as a whole, miniature representation.—microcos'mic, -al a. [Gk. mikros, small; kosmos, the universe].

microfilm (mi'krô-flm) n. standard film used in micro-copying of books, etc. [Gk. mikros, small; and film].

micrograph (mi'krô-graf) n. an instrument for producing microscopic engraving; a microphotograph.—microg'raper n.—micrograph'ic a.—microg'rphy n. the study of microscopic objects, the art of writing or engraving on a minute scale [Gk. mikros, small; graphein, to write].

micrology (mi'krô-lô-jî) n. the science which deals with microscopic objects, (Fig.) over-scrupulous attention to small details [Gk. mikros, small, logos, a discourse].

micrometer (mi'krômê'tr) n. an instrument for measuring very small distances or angles.—micromet'ric, -al a. [Gk. mikros, small; metron, a measure].

micron (mi'kron) n. the millionth part of a metre.—micronise (mi'krô-niz) v. to pulverise into very small particles [Gk. mikros, small].

micro-organism (mi'krô-ôrgan-izm) n. a microscopic organism, a microbe, a germ [Gk. mikros, small, organon, an instrument].

microphone (mi'krô-fôn) n. an instrument for turning sound waves into electrical waves so enabling them to be transmitted as wireless waves, mouthpiece for broadcasting (Colloq. abbrev. mike); an instrument for making faint sounds louder.—microphon'ic a. [Gk. mikros, small, phônê, a sound].

microphotography (mi'krô-fô-tog'ra-fi) n. the art of producing minute photographs which can be examined only by means of a microscope.—microphotog'rph n. [Gk. mikros, small, phos, light; graphein, to write].

microscope (mi'krô-skôp) n. an optical instrument for magnifying minute objects.—microscop'ic, -al a. pert. to a microscope; visible only by the aid of a microscope, very minute.—microscop'ically adv.—microscop'y n. [Gk. mikros, small, skopein, to see].

microzoa (mi'krô-zô-a) n. pl. microscopic animals.—microzo'an a. [Gk. mikros, small; zôon, an animal, zûmê, to leave].

micturition (mik'ti-rish'un) n. (Med.) the passing of urine; the morbid desire to pass urine frequently.—mic'turate v. [L. micturare, to pass urine].

mid (mid) a. situated between extremes; middle, as in mid-air, mid-Atlantic—mid day n. and a. noon; pert. to noon.—mid'land a. in the middle of a land area;—n. the central part of a country.—Mid'lands n. pl. the central counties of England.—mid'nost a. middle.—mid'night n. twelve o'clock at night.—mid-off, mid-on n. (Cricket) the fielder standing on the off (or on) side of the batsman, not far from the bowler.—mid'ship a. in the middle part of a ship.—mid'shipman n. a junior naval officer below a sub-lieutenant (orig. quartered amidships).—mid'shipmite n. (Colloq.) midshipman.—mid'ships adv. amidships.—mid'summer n. the middle of summer, the period of the summer solstice, June 21.—mid'way adv. half-way.—mid'winter n. middle of the winter, period of the winter solstice, 22nd Dec. [O.E. mid, middle].

mid (mid) prep. amidst (in poetry).

mid den (mid'n) n. a heap of ashes, dung, or refuse (Scand. midning, a dung-heap).

middle (mid'l) a. equidistant from the extremes; intermediate;—n. a middle point.—mid'dle-aged a. pert. to the period of life between 40 and 60.—mid'dleman n. an agent acting between producer and consumer (or retailer).—mid'dlemost a. nearest the middle.—mid'dle-watch n. (Naut.) the period between midnight and 4 a.m.—mid-dle-weight n. (Boxing) a boxer of a weight between 10 st. 7 lbs. and 11 st. 6 lbs.—mid-dling a. of medium size, quality;—adv. moderately.—Middle Ages, the period of European history from the Fall of the Roman Empire (about A.D. 476) to the Fall of Constantinople (1453).—middle class, that section of the community between the aristocracy and the working classes; the bourgeoisie.—Middle East, that part of the world between the Near East and the Far East, including Egypt, Syria, Palestine, Arabia, Iraq and Iran.—Middle English, the English language as written and spoken between 1150-1500 (approx.) [O.E. middel, middle].

mid-dy (mid'di) n. (Colloq.) a midshipman.

mid-ge (mi) n. a gnat; a very small person.—mid-ge't n. a dwarf; a miniature photograph.—mid-ge't submarine (Wid War 2) a very small-sized submarine, manned by one or two men [O.E. mycge, a gnat].

mid-nette (mé-dé-net') n. a Parisian shop-girl [Fr. mid, noon; hence name for those girls who throng the street at lunch hour].

mid-riif (mid'rif) n. the diaphragm [O.E. mid, middle; hrif, the belly].

mid-st (midst) n. the middle;—prep. amidst [M.E.].

mid-wif (mid'wif) n. a woman who assists another at childbirth.—pl. mid'wives.—mid-wif-ery (mid'wif-ri) n. the practice of obstetrics [O.E. mid, with; wif, a woman].

mien (mēn) n. demeanour; bearing; general appearance [etym. doubtful].

might (mit) pa.t. of verb may.

might (mit) n. power; strength; energy.—might-ness n. the state of being powerful; greatness.—might'y a. having great strength or power; exalted [O.E. meah, might].

mignonette (min'yō-net) n. a sweet-scented, greenish-gray flowered plant [dim. of Fr. mignon, a darling].

migraine (mē-grān') n. Same as megrim.

migrate (mi-grāt') v.i. to remove one's residence from one place to another; (of birds) to fly to another place or country in search of warmer climate or better feeding grounds.—mi-grant n. a migratory bird;—a. accustomed to migrate.—mi-gra-tion n. the act of migrating; a mass removal.—mi-gratory a. [L. migrare, to go].

Mikado (mi-ká-dō) n. the Emperor of Japan [Jap. mi, august; kado, the door].

mi-ke (mi) n. (Colloq. abbrev.) a microphone.

mi-ke (mik) v.i. (Slang) to shirk hard work; to malingering [O.Fr. michier, to skulk].

mil (mil) n. $\frac{1}{1000}$ in.; $\frac{1}{64}$ in.; unit of measurement in calculating the diameter of wire [L. mille, a thousand].

milch (milch) a. giving milk [M.E. milch, milk].
mild (mild) a. gentle; kind; placid; calm, or temperate, as weather.—mild'y adv.—mild-ness [O.E. milde, gentle].

mil-dew (mil-dō) n. whitish coating of minute fungi on plants; a mould on paper, cloth, leather caused by dampness;—v.t. and v.i. to taint or be tainted with mildew.—mil-dewy a. [O.E. mele, honey; deaw, dew].

mil-le (mil) n. a measure of length equal to 1760 yds. (orig. a Roman measure of 1000 paces, about 1620 yds.).—geographical or nautical mile, one minute of a great circle of the earth equal to 6080 ft.—mil-le-age n. distance in miles; rate of travel calculated in miles; (U. S.) travelling expenses calculated on the number of miles travelled.—mil'er n. a man or horse trained to run a mile-race.—mil-stone n. a stone on the roadside marking distance in miles; (Fig.) a stage or crisis in one's life [O.E. mil, fr. L. mille passus, a 1000 paces].

mil-lary (mil'yar-i) a. like millet-seeds.—mil-lary fever (Med.) a fever, accompanied by a rash resembling millet-seeds [L. milium, millet].

mil-lit (mil-lit) a. fighting; serving as a soldier.—mil-litancy n. the state of being warlike; fighting spirit.—mil-litantly adv.—mil-litarism n. excessive emphasis on the military power of a country—opp. of pacifism.—mil-litariat n. one who upholds the doctrine of militarism; a student of military science and strategy.—mil-litary a. pert. to soldiers, arms, or war; warlike;—n. the army; a body of soldiers.—military police, soldiers performing duties of police in the army.—mil-litate v.t. to stand opposed to; to have an adverse effect on (followed by against) [L. miles, a soldier].

mil-litia (mil-lish-a) n. a citizen army, liable to be called out in an emergency; branch of British military forces known as Territorial Force after 1907;—mil-lit'aman n. [L. miles, a soldier].

mil-k (milk) n. a white fluid secreted by female mammals for nourishment of their young; the juice of certain plants;—v.t. to draw milk from; (Colloq.) to fleece or exploit a person;—v.i. to give milk.—milk and water a. insipid.

—milk-bar n. a counter where milk drinks, milk shakes, etc., are sold.—milk-en a. like milk.—milk'er n. one who milks a cow; a milking-machine; a cow which yields milk.

—milk fever, a fever sometimes contracted after childbirth.—milk'ly adv.—milk'iness n.

—milk'ing n. the quality of milk yielded at one time; the drawing of milk from a cow.—milk'like a.—milk'maid n. a dairymaid or woman who milks cows.—milk'man n. a man who milks cows; a man who distributes milk, esp. from house to house.—milk shake, a drink made of fruit juices and milk mixed in special shaker.—milk'sop n. a weak, effeminate man.

—milk'tooth n. one of the first, temporary teeth lost in childhood.—milk-weed n. kinds of wild plants with milky sap.—milk-wood n. kind of tropical trees yielding latex.—milk'y a. like, full of, or yielding milk.—Milky Way, the Galaxy, an irregular, luminous belt in the heavens, proceeding from the light of innumerable stars.—condensed milk, milk with sugar added and evaporated to the consistency of syrup.—evaporated milk, unsweetened condensed milk [O.E. meole, milk].

mill (mil) n. a building equipped with machinery to grind corn, etc.; an apparatus worked by hand, electricity, etc., for grinding, as coffee-mill; a factory or the machinery used in manufacture, as cotton-mill, paper-mill; (Slang) a boxing match.—v.t. to grind, to cut fine grooves on the edges of, as of coins, to full (cloth); to dress or purify (ore); (Slang) to beat with the fists;—v.i. to go round in circles, as cattle, or crowds of people.—mill'board n. stout pasteboard used in book-binding.

—mill-dam n. a dam built to conserve water supply for turning a mill-wheel.—milled a. having the edges raised and grooved, as coins; full; as cloth; rolled into sheets, as metal.—mill'ing n. grinding in a mill; fulling cloth, or grooving the raised edges of a coin, or pressing crude rubber under heavy rollers.—a. (Slang) confused; without direction, as milking crowds on cup-tie day.—mill'pond n. pond supplying water for mill-wheel.—mill-race n. the swiftly moving current of water which turns mill-wheel.—mill'stone n. one of the pair of round, flat stones used in grinding grain.—millstone grit, a coarse grained sandstone used in cutlery industry for sharpening knives, etc.—mill-wheel n. a water wheel for driving a mill.—mill'wright n. one who sets up machinery in a mill [O.E. myln, to grind].

mil-lennium (mil-en-ū-um) n. a thousand years; esp. the period of a thousand years when Christ will reign on earth (Rev. 20); a future time or perfect peace on earth.—mil-lennia-rian a. lasting a thousand years; pert. to the millennium;—n. one who believes in the millennium.—mil-lennary a. comprising a thousand;—n. a period of a thousand years.—mil-len-nial a. pert. to the millennium [L. mille, a thousand; annus, a year].

milleped, millipede (mil'le-ped, -i-péd) n. an insect with many legs, as a wood-louse [L. mille, thousand; pes, a foot].

mill (mil'gr) n. one who grinds corn.—mill's thumb, a small river-fish; the bull-head [O.E. myln, to grind].

millesimal (mil-es-i-mal) a. thousandth; consisting of a thousand parts;—n. a thousandth part [L. mille, a thousand].

millet (mil'et) n. a cereal grass bearing seeds of great nutritive value [Fr.].

milli- (mil'i) prefix one thousandth of.—milli'gram, milli'gramme n. one thousandth of a gram, 1/1000 of a grain.—milli'litre n. one thousandth of a litre, .001 cub. in.—milli'metre, milli'meter n. one thousandth of a metre, .00094 in. [L. mille, a thousand].

milliard (mil'yard) n. a thousand millions; [L. S.] a billion [Fr.].

milliner (mil'in-gr) n. orig. a seller of Milan wares; one who makes or sells ladies' hats.—millinery n. [Fr. Milan].

million (mil'yun) n. a thousand thousands (1,000,000); a very large number.—millionaire n. (fm. millionaire) one whose wealth amounts to a million (or more) pounds, francs, dollars.—millionary a.—millionfold a.—millionth n. one of a million parts;—a. being one of a million parts.—the millions, the masses [Fr.].

Mills bomb (mil'z-bom) n. a hand-grenade shaped like an egg [Fr. Mills, the inventor].

mill (mil't) n. the spleen; the glands or soft roe of the male fish;—v. to impregnate the female roe.—mil't'er n. a male fish in the breeding season [O.E. mille].

min (min) a. (Pron.) denature; over-precise.

mime (mim) n. a farce in which scenes of real life are expressed by gesture only; an actor in such a farce;—v. to act in a mime; to express by gesture only.—mime'tic(al) a. imitative.—mime'tic v. to imitate; to burlesque; to ridicule by imitating another's mannerisms.—pr.p. mim'ing.—pa.p. mim'icked.—n. one who mimes or caricatures;—a. mock, as in mimic battle; feigned.—mim'icry n. the art or act of mimicking [Gk. mimos, an actor].

mimeograph (mim-é-ô-graf, mim'ô-ô-graf) n. a form of duplicating-machine [Gk. mimeisithai, to imitate; graphein, to write].

Mimosa (mi-mô-zä) n. a genus of leguminous plants, with small, fluffy yellow flowers [Gk. mimos, an imitator].

mina, myna, mynah (mī'na) n. an Indian bird allied to the starling [Hind. mainai].

minacious (min-â-shus) a. threatening.—minac'ity n. [L. minax, threatening].

minar (mī'nar) n. a lighthouse; a tower.—min'aret n. a turret on a Mohammedan mosque [Ar. minaret a lighthouse].

minatory (min-i-tor-i) a. threatening; menacing; minacious [L. minari, to threaten].

mince (mīns) v. to cut or chop into very small pieces, (Fig.) to tone down; to extenuate;—v. to clip one's words; to speak or walk with affected elegance.—pr.p. minc'ing.—pa.p. minced (mīnst).—n. meat chopped small or put through a mincer.—minc'er n. a machine, with revolving blades, for chopping meat, nuts, etc.—mince-meat n. currants, raisins, spices, apple, suet and sugar, chopped and mixed together, used as a filling for Christmas pies.—mince-pie n. a small round pie filled with this.—minc'ing a. speaking or walking with affected elegance.—minc'ingly adv. [O.E. mincian, to make small].

mind (mīnd) n. the intellectual faculty; the understanding; memory; opinion; inclination; purpose; a person regarded as an intellectual influence;—v. to attend to; to heed; to object to; to take care of;—v. to be careful; to intend.—mind'ed a. disposed; inclined.—mind'edness n.—mind'er n. one who looks after anything.—mind'ful a. attentive; observant.—mind'fully adv.—mind'fulness n.—mind'less a. stupid; regardless.—mind'less'er n. one who can sense another's thoughts.—absence of mind, forgetfulness [O.E. gemynd, the mind].

mine (mīn) poss. pron. belonging to me; [O.E. min].

mine (mīn) n. a pit in the earth from which minerals are excavated; a hidden deposit of explosives to blow up a wall, vessel, etc., in war; (Fig.) a profitable source;—pl. the mining industry;—v. and v.t. to lay a mine under; to dig a mine or in a mine; to burrow; (Fig.) to undermine; to sap.—mine'field n. an area of land or stretch of the sea where mines have been laid down.—mine'lay'er n. a vessel which lays down submarine or floating mines.—min'er n. one who works in a mine.—minc'sweep'er n. a vessel fitted with nets for clearing a minefield [Fr. miner, to mine].

mineral (mīn'gr-al) n. any substance, generally inorganic, taken from the earth by mining;—pl. mineral waters;—a. pert. to minerals; containing minerals; (Chem.) inorganic.—mineralis'ation n.—min'er'alise v.t. to convert into minerals; to impregnate with minerals.—min'er'alist n. an expert in minerals.—mineralog'ical a.—mineralog'ically adv.—mineral'ogy n. the science of minerals and their classification.—mineral waters, waters, naturally impregnated with mineral substance, and used medicinally; effervescent imitation of this, such as soda-water, lemonade, etc. [Fr. miner, to mine].

ming (mīng-gl) v.t. to mix; to blend; to join in;—v.t. to become mixed;—n. a jumble.—ming'ler n.—ming'ling n. blend.—ming'lingly adv. [O.E. mengian, to mix].

mingy (mīn'jī) a. (Slang) parsimonious; stingy [man and shingy].

miniature (mīn-i-a-tūr) n. a small-sized painting done on ivory, vellum, etc.; anything on a small scale;—a. on a small scale; minute;—v.t. to depict on a small scale [L. miniare, to paint in red lead].

minify (mīn-i-fī) v.t. to lessen; to minimise [L. minor, less; facere, to make].

minikin (mīn-i-kīn) n. a pet; the smallest kind of pin;—a. diminutive; delicate [Dut. dim. of minne, love].

minim (mīn'im) n. anything very minute; (Med.) $\frac{1}{60}$ of a fluid drachm; a drop; (Mus.) a note equal to two crotchets.—min'im'al a.—min'imise v.t. to reduce to the smallest proportions; to depreciate; to undervalue.—minimi'sation n.—min'imum n. the least to which anything may be reduced.—pl. min'im'a [L. minimus, the smallest].

minion (mīn'yun) n. a favourite; a servile flatterer; (Fr.âd.) a small type, now 7 point. [Fr. minion, a darling].

minister (mīn'is-tər) n. a servant; an agent or instrument; a clergyman; one entrusted with a State department; an ambassador;—v.t. to act as a servant; to supply things needful.—pr.p. min'istering.—pa.p. min'istered.—minis'terial a. executive; pert. to the work of a minister or State department.—minis'terially adv.—min'istering a. serving.—min'istrant n. one who ministers; a helper;—a. serving as a minister.—minis'tration n. the act of performing a service, esp. a religious service.—minis'trative a.—min'istry n. the act of ministering; the office or functions of a minister; the clergy or the office of a clergyman; a government department, as Ministry of Pensions; the Cabinet [L. minister, a servant].

miniver (mīn-i-ver) n. the fur of the Siberian (winter) ermine; the fur on judge's robes, etc. Also min'ever, men'ever [O.Fr. menu, small; voir, fur].

minke (mīngk) n. a semi-aquatic animal of the weasel tribe; its very valuable brown fur [Scand.]. fish [O.E. myne, a small fish].

minnow (mīn'ô) n. a very small freshwater minor (mīn'or) a. lesser; inferior in bulk, degree, importance, etc.; subordinate; (Mus.) lower by a semi-tone;—n. a person under 21.—minor'ity n. the state of being under age, the lesser number, oppos. of majority.—minor key (Min.) a key characterised by a minor third, sixth, or seventh.—Minor Prophets, the twelve O.T. books from Hosea to Malachi [L. minor, less].

Minorca (min-ör-kä) n. a breed of fowl [fr. Minorca, a Spanish island].

Minoan (mī-nōs) n. a legendary king of Crete.—Minoan a. pert. to Crete.—Minoan period, the 'bronze age' of the ancient Cretan civilisation [2500-1500 B.C.].

Minotaur (min-ō-tawr) n. in Greek mythology a monster, half-man, half-bull [Gk. Minos, King of Crete; tauros, a bull].

minster (min-ster) n. the church of a monastery; a cathedral [O.E. mynster, a monastery].

minstrel (min-sterl) n. a medieval bard or wandering singer who sang songs usually of his own composing, to the accompaniment of the harp; a seaside entertainer.—min-strelly n. the art or profession of a minstrel; a group of minstrels; a collection of ballads [O.Fr. menestrel, a jester].

mint (mint) n. the place where money is coined; (Fig.) a source of invention or supply;—v.t. to make by stamping, as coins; to invent.—mint'age n. minting coins; coinage; the duty paid for minting.—mint'er n. [O.E. mynel, money].

mint (mint) n. an aromatic plant of various kinds used for medicinal and culinary purposes.—mint julep, an iced drink of spirits and sugar flavoured with mint [O.E. mynte, mint].

minuend (min-ū-end) n. the number from which another is to be subtracted [L. minuendus, to be made less].

minuet (min-ū-et') n. a slow, stately dance; music, to which the minuet is danced. Also minuette [Fr. menuet, fr. menu, small].

minus (mī-nus) a. less; deducted from; deficient:—n. the sign (—) of subtraction; an amount less than nothing.—minus'cule a. small;—n. a concise monastic script in use from 8th-10th cents.; a small or lower-case letter, oppos. of mayuscula [L. minor, less].

minute (min-ūt') a. very small; slight; particular; exact.—minute'ly adv.—minute'ness n.—minutiae (min-ū-ē-ē) n. pl. minute details [L. minuere, minutum, to lessen].

minute (min-ūt) n. the 60th part of an hour or degree; a short draft.—pl. the official record of affairs transacted at a meeting.—v.t. to make a note of.—min-ute-book n. book containing minutes of meeting.—min-ute-glass n. a sand glass which, in running out, indicates a minute of time.—min-ute-gun n. a gun discharged every minute as a signal of distress or mourning.—min-ute-hand n. longer of two hands on clock or watch indicating minutes.—min-utely adv. occurring every minute [L. minuere, minutum, to lessen].

mix (mings) n. a pert, saucy girl [etym. doubtful].

Miocene (mī-ō-sēn) a. (Geol.) belonging to the Middle Tertiary period; less recent [Gk. miōn, less; kainos, new].

moses (mī-ō-sis) See myosis, meiosis.
miracle (mī-rā-kul) n. a wonder; a supernatural happening; a prodigy.—Miracle Play, a popular medieval form of drama based on the lives of the Saints, or on Biblical history.—mirac'ulous a. supernatural; extraordinary.—mirac'ulously adv.—mirac'ulousness n. [L. mirari, to wonder].

mirage (mī-rāzh') n. an optical illusion caused by an image of an object below the horizon being reflected back from an upper layer of the atmosphere; (Fig.) a delusion [L. mirari, to wonder at].

mire (mīr) n. slimy soil; mud; (Fig.) defilement;—v.t. to plunge into or cover with mud;—v.t. to sink in mud.—mir'less a.—mir'y a. [O.N. myrr, marsh].

mirror (mīr-or) n. a looking-glass; a brilliantly polished reflecting surface; (Fig.) a pattern;

a reflection, as a mirror of the times.—v.t. to reflect.—pr.p. mir'oring.—pa.p. mir'ored [L. mirare, to look at].

mirth (merth) n. gaiety; merriment; joyousness.—mirth'ful a. full of mirth; jovial; festive.—mirth'fully adv.—mirth'fulness n.—mirth'less a. without mirth; grim.—mirth'lessly adv. [O.E. myrth, merry].

mis- (mīs) pref. wrong; ill.—prefixed to words of O.E. or O.Fr. origin.

misadventure (mis-ad-ven-tūr) n. an unlucky adventure; a mishap.

misadvise (mis-ad-vīz') v.t. to advise wrongly.—misadvised' a. ill-advised.

misalliance (mis-a-lī-āns) n. an unfortunate alliance, esp. in marriage.

misanthrope (mis-an-thrōp) n. a hater of mankind; one who has no faith in his fellow men.—misanthrop'ically adv.—misanthropy n. hatred of mankind [Gk. misogun, to hate; anthrōpos, a man].

misapply (mis-a-plī') v.t. to apply wrongly or dishonestly.—misapplicat'ion n.

misapprehend (mis-a-prō-hend') v.t. to apprehend wrongly; to misconceive.—misapprehen'sion n.—misapprehen'sive a.

misappropriate (mis-a-prō-pri-āt) v.t. to use wrongly, esp. to embezzle money.—misappropriat'ion n.

misbecome (mis-be-kūm') v.t. to suit ill.—misbecom'ing a. unseemly; indecorous.

misbegotten (mis-be-got'en) a. unlawfully conceived; illegitimate.

misbehave (mis-be-hāv') v.t. to behave badly, improperly or dishonestly.—misbehav'our n.

misbelieve (mis-be-lēv') v.t. to believe wrongly.—misbelief' n. belief in false ideas.

miscalculate (mis-kal-kū-lāt) v.t. to calculate wrongly.—miscalculat'ion n.

miscall (mis-kaw'l') v.t. to call by a wrong name, to abuse.

miscarriage (mis-kar'ij) n. failure; premature birth.—miscar'ry v.t. to fail to fulfil the intended effect, to give birth prematurely.

miscast (mis-kast') v.t. and v.i. to reckon wrongly; to allot unsuitably, as parts in a play;—a. wrongly allotted.

miscegenation (mis-i-jen-ā-shun) n. a mixture of races, esp. whites and negroes [L. miscere, to mix; genus, a race].

miscellaneous (mis-el-ā-nē-us) a. mixed; heterogeneous.—miscellan'iously adv.—miscellan'eousness n.—miscellan'ist n. a writer of miscellanies.—miscellan'y n. a medley, esp. a collection of writings on various subjects.—miscellan'ea n. pl. odds and ends [L. miscellaneus, fr. miscere, to mix].

mischance (mis-chāns') n. a mishap; ill-luck; disaster.—v.i. to happen disastrously.

mischief (mīsh'chif) n. ill; damage; the cause of injustice, trouble.—mis'chief mak'er n. one who stirs up trouble.—mis'chievous a. tending to stir up trouble; hurtful, thoughtful.—mis'chievously adv.—mis'chievousness n. [O.Fr. meschever, to come to grief].

miscible (mīsh-ē-bil) a. capable of being mixed to form a homogeneous substance.—miscibil'ity n. [L. miscere, to mix].

misconceive (mis-kon-sēv') v.t. to misapprehend; to mistake.—misconcep'tion n.

misconduct (mis-kon-dūkt) n. bad management; dishonest conduct; adultery.—misconduct' v.t. to mismanage.

misconstrue (mis-kon-strōō') v.t. to interpret wrongly; to mistranslate, as a passage of Latin.—misconstrue'tion n.

miscount (mis-kount') v.t. to count wrongly; to miscalculate;—n. a wrong counting.

miscreant (mīsh'kre-ant) n. an infidel; a vile, unprincipled wretch [O.Fr. mescreant, unbeliever].

miscue (mīs-kū) n. (Billiards) a stroke spoiled by the cue slipping.—v.t. to make a miscue.—pr.p. miscu'ing.—pa.p. miscued.

misdate (mis-dāt') v.t. to put a wrong date on;—n. a wrong date.

misdeed (mis-déd') n. an evil deed, a crime.
misdeemeanour (mis-de-mén-ur) n. dishonest conduct; (Law) a crime less than felony.
misdeemean' v.t. to misbehave.
misdirect (mis-di-rekt') v.t. to direct or advise wrongly. — misdirect' n.
miser (mí-zér) n. one who hoards money and lives in wretched surroundings. — miserly a. avaricious; niggardly. — miserliness n. [L. = wretched].
miserable (mí-zér-a-bl) a. unhappy; causing misery; worthless, shoddy. — miserableness n. — miserably adv. [L. miser, wretched].
misère (mí-zér) n. (Cards) one of the calls in solo whist by which the player must take no tricks [Fr.].
miserere (mí-zér-er-é) n. Psalm 51, which in the Vulgate, begins "Miserere mei, Domine"; a musical setting for this psalm; a cry for mercy [L. = take pity]. misericorde (mí-zér-i-kord') n. mercy; a small dagger used by medieval knights for giving the final, fatal blow to a wounded foe [L. misericordia, compassion]. misery (mí-zér-i) n. great unhappiness; extreme pain of body or mind, calamity [L. miser, wretched].
mistakeance (mis-fét-zans) n. (Law) a wrong done; a misuse of lawful authority [OFr. mistake, to do wrong].
misfire (mis-fí) n. (of internal combustion engine, gun, etc.) failure to start or go off. — v.t. to fail to start or fire.
misht (mis-ft) n. a fall; — v.t. to make of the wrong size; — v.i. to fall badly.
misfortune (mis-fortún) n. ill-luck; calamity.
misgive (mis-gív) v.t. to fill with doubt, to cause to hesitate; — v.i. to fail. — misgiving n. distrust; suspicion.
misgovern (mis-gúv-ern) v.t. to govern badly. — misgovern n. misguide (mis-gú) v.t. to lead astray; to advise wrongly. — misguidance n. — misguide n.
mishandle (mis-hándl) v.t. to maltreat, to mishap (mis-hap) n. ill-luck; accident.
misht (mis-lit) n. a faulty stroke, as at tennis, etc. — v.t. to hit wrongly, as a ball.
misinform (mis-in-furm) v.t. to give wrong information to. — misinform' ant. misinform'er n. — misinformation n. wrong information.
misinterpret (mis-in-ter-prét) v.t. to interpret or explain wrongly. — misinterpretation n. misinterpret' ant. misinterpret'er n. — misinterpretation n. wrong interpretation.
misjudge (mis-jú) v.t. to judge wrongly; to miscalculate. — misjudgment n.
mislay (mis-lá) v.t. to lay down something in a place which cannot later be recovered.
mislead (mis-léd) v.t. to lead astray; to deceive. — misled pp. misleading a. mismanage (mis-maníj) v.t. to manage incompetently. — mismanagement n.
misname (mis-náim) v.t. to call by the wrong name. misnomer (mis-nóm-er) n. a wrong name; incorrect designation [OFr. mesnommer, to name wrongly].
misogamy (mis-og-á-mi) n. hatred of marriage. — misogamist n. [Gk. misos, to hate, gamos, marriage].
misogyny (mis-og-í-ni or mis-og-é-ni) n. hatred of women. — misogynist n. a woman hater. — misogynist'ical, misogynous a. [Gk. misos, to hate, gyné, a woman].
misplace (mis-plás) v.t. to place wrongly; to mislay, to bestow, as one's trust, on an unworthy person or object.
misprint (mis-prínt) v.t. to make an error in printing. — n. an error in printing.
mispronounce (mis-pró-nouns) v.t. to pronounce wrongly. — mispronunciation n.
misquote (mis-kwót) v.t. to quote wrongly. — misquotation n. an inaccurate quotation.
misreckon (mis-rek-kn) v.t. to estimate or reckon wrongly. — misreckoning n. misrelate (mis-re-lát) v.t. to relate incorrectly. — misrelation n.

misrepresent (mis-rep-re-zent') v.t. to represent falsely; to report facts inaccurately. — misrepresentation n. misrule (mis-rú) n. disorder; misgovernment. — Lord or Abbot of Misrule, one who formerly presided over the revels.
Miss (mis) n. title of unmarried women; girl. — pl. Misses [from mademoiselle].
miss (mis) v.t. to fail to hit, reach, find, catch, notice; to be without; to feel the want of; to omit. — v.i. to fail to hit; to fall short of one's objective; (Motoring) to misfire; — n. failure to hit, reach, find, etc.; escape, as in a lucky miss. — missing a. lost; absent; wanting. — to miss the boat (Slang) to fail to seize an opportunity [OE. missan, to fail].
missal (mis-sál) n. a book containing the R.C. service of the mass for a year [L. missa, mass].
missel (mis-sel) n. the largest of the Linnæa thrushes, supposed to be partial to red berries. Also missile, missel-bird, missel-thrush [OE. misel, mistletoe].
misshape (mis-sháp) v.t. to shape badly, to deform. — n. deformity. — misshap'en a. misshap (mis-sháp) n. that which is thrown or shot with intent to damage. — a. capable of being thrown or shot [L. mittere, missum, to send].
mission (mis-shun) n. the act of sending, the duty on which one is sent, a group of people sent to a foreign country to preach religion; a special kind of missionary enterprise at home or abroad; a delegation sent to a foreign country to advise matters of politics, or economic importance, aviation. — missionary a. pert to missions of missionaries. — n. one sent to preach religion, esp. in a foreign country; one who does benevolent service abroad; — missioner n. one who conducts a distant evangelist campaign [L. mittere, missum, to send].
missive (mis-sív) n. that which is sent, as a letter. — a. intended to be sent, or thrown [L. mittere, missum, to send].
misspell (mis-shép) v.t. to spell wrongly. — misspelling n. a fault in spelling.
mispend (mis-spend) v.t. to spend foolishly; to squander. — pp. mispend, misspent.
mist (mist) n. a visible vapour in the lower atmosphere, droplets of rain, (fig.) anything which makes comprehension difficult. — v.t. or v.i. to dim or be dimmed, as by a mist. — misty a. dim, obscured by a mist. — mistily adv. mistiness n. [L. mist, mist, mist].
mistake (mis-ták) v.t. to misunderstand; to take one person for another. — v.i. to err. — n. an error in opinion, judgment, conduct, etc. — pp. mistook, pp. mistaken. — mistakable a. — mistaken a. guilty of error, misconceived, erroneous. — mistakenly adv. [ME. mistaken, to take wrongly].
mister (mis-tér) n. sir; title of courtesy to a man (abbr. Mr. = form of master).
mistern (mis-tér-n) v.t. to name wrongly.
mistime (mis-tím) v.t. to tune wrongly. — mistimed a. inopportune.
mistle same as missel.
mistletoe (mis-lí-tó, or mis-lí-tó) n. a parasitic, evergreen plant with white berries growing in the forks of the stems [OE. mistel, mistletoe; tan, a twig].
mistral (mis-trál) n. a cold, often violent, N.W. wind which blows over S. France (fr. mistral, a master (wind)).
mistress (mis-tres) n. (form. of maister) a woman in authority — as employer, teacher; a woman expert; a kept woman; a courtesy title given to married women (abbr. Mrs. = domina) [OE. mistress, form. of maister, maister].
mistrial (mis-trí-ál) n. a trial made invalid by an error in the legal proceedings.
mistrust (mis-trúst) n. want of confidence; — v.t. to suspect, to lack faith in. — mistrustful a. suspicious. — mistrustfulness n.
misunderstand (mis-un-der-stand') v.t. to interpret wrongly; to form a wrong judgement.—misunderstand'ing n. a misconception; a slight quarrel.

misuse (mis-'üz') v.t. to use improperly; to maltreat.—misuse (mis-'üz') n. improper use.—misusage n. abuse.

mite (mit) n. a very small coin, as the widow's mite; a half-farthing; any very small thing or person; a kind of arachnid, as cheese-mite (O. Dut. mit, a small coin).

mitigate (miti-gät') v.t. to assuage; to relieve; to alleviate; to temper.—mitigable a. capable of being lessened.—mitigation n. alleviation; abatement.—mitigative, mitigatory a.—mitigator n. [L. mitigare, to lessen].

mitrailleuse (mö-tra-yüz') n. breech-loading machine-gun with as many as 25 barrels.—mitrailleuse n. [Fr. mitraille, grape-shot].

mitre (mit'er) n. a bishop's headdress, a tall cap rising to a peak back and front, and elaborately embroidered; in carpentry, a joint made by two pieces of wood fitting in to each other at an angle of 45°; in sewing, a gusset;—v.t. to confer a mitre on; to join at an angle of 45°.—mit'ral, mit'riform a. shaped like a mitre; (Bot.) conical.—mit're-block, -board, or -box n. a piece of wood acting as a guide in sawing a mitre-joint.—mit'red a. wearing a mitre; cut like a mitre; joined with a gusset [Gk. mitra, a belt].

mitten (mit'n) n. a kind of glove with thumb, but palm and fingers all in one, a knitted covering for wrist and hand, but leaving fingers and thumb exposed. Also mit [etym. unknown].

mix (miks) v.t. to unite into a mass; to blend; to cause people to be sociable;—v.i. to become mingled; to associate;—n. a mess; confusion.—mix'able, mix'ible a.—mixed a. mingled; blended; chaotic; of both sexes, as mixed bathing.—mix'edly adv.—mix'er n. one who or that which mixes; (Colloq.) one who is sociable, as a good mixer.—mix'ture n. the act of mixing; that which is mixed, esp. a liquid compound of drugs; (Chem.) a combination of substances which retain their individual properties, as contrasted with a compound.—mix'up n. (Colloq.) confusion.—mixed marriage, a marriage between two people of different religions [L. miscere, to mix].

mizzen, mizen (miz'n) n. the aftermost of the fore-and-aft sails of a vessel.—mizzen-mast n. the mast bearing the mizzen [Fr. mizaine, a fore-sail].—v. to drizzle [Fr. mizly].

mizzle (miz'l) v. impers. to rain in small drops; mnemonic, -al (ne-mon'ik, -al) a. assisting the memory.—mnemon'ics n.pl. the art of assisting the memory; artificial aids to memory [Gk. mnēmōn, mindful].

moa (mö'a) n. an extinct New Zealand flightless bird of very large size [Maori].

moan (mōn) n. a low cry of grief or pain;—v.i. to utter a low, wailing cry;—v.t. to lament [O.E. maenan, to lament].

moat (mōt) n. a deep trench round a castle, etc., usually filled with water (orig. a rampart of earth) [O.E. mote, a trench].

mob (mob) n. a disorderly crowd of people; a rabble; the populace; (Slang) a gang of pick-pockets;—v.t. to attack in a disorderly crowd; to jostle.—pr.p. mob'bing.—pa.p. mobbed.—mob-law n. lynch law.—mobocracy n. the rule of the mob.—mobocrat n. a dictator.—mobocratic a. [L. mobile vulgus, the flecked masses].

mob (mob) n. a mob-cap; a frilled cap, tied under the chin, worn by women in the 18th cent. [Dut. mop, a coil].

mobile (mö'hil) a. easily moved; changing; vacillating; (of troops) mechanized; capable of moving rapidly from one place to another;—n. an artistic arrangement of wires, etc., easily set in motion.—mobili'sation n. the wartime act of calling up men and women for active service.—mob'ilise v.t. to prepare for active service; to gather together available resources.—mob'il'ity n. the state of being mobile [L. mobilis, movable].

moccasin (mok'a-sin) a. shoe of deerskin or other soft leather worn by N. American Indians, trappers, etc.; a bedroom slipper of similar shape. Also moocassin [N. Amer. Ind. name].

Mocha (mö'ka) n. a fine quality of coffee orig. from Mocha in Yemen.

mock (mok) v.t. to laugh at; to ridicule; to make a fool of; to defy; to taunt; to feign;—n. ridicule; derision; jibe;—a. counterfeit; substitute.—mock'er n.—mock'ery, mock'ing n. the act of mocking; derision, travesty; false show.—mock-hero'ic a. burlesquing the serious or heroic style.—mock'ing n. mockery.—a. scornful; derisive.—mocking bird, a N. American bird which imitates the songs of other birds.—mock orange, the syringa.—mock turtle, a soup made of calf's head, flavoured with curry powder, to imitate turtle soup [Fr. moquer, to mock].

mod (mod) n. a musical festival to encourage the study and practice of national songs, poetry, etc., esp. Gaelic songs, etc. [Gael.].

mode (mōd) n. manner, form, or method; custom; prevailing fashion; (Mus.) one of the two classes of keys (major or minor), also, one of the forms of scale or octave in ancient and medieval music, as Lydian, Dorian, etc.; (Gram.) the mood of the verb.—mod'al a. relating to mode or form.—mod'al'ity n.—mod'ish a. fashionable.—mod'ishly adv.—mod'ishness n.—modiste (mōd'ist') n. a dress-maker or milliner selling the latest models [L. modus, manner].

model (mod'el) n. an exact, three-dimensional representation of an object, in miniature, a pattern or standard to copy; one who poses for an artist; a mannequin;—a. serving as a model or criterion;—v.t. to make in model; to copy from a pattern or standard of conduct, to shape, as clay, wax, etc.;—v.i. to practise modelling.—pr.p. mod'elling.—pa.p. mod'elled.—mod'eller n. one who makes models.—mod'elling n. the art of working in plastic materials or of making models; shaping [O.E. modelle, a pattern].

moderate (mod'er-ät) a. restrained, temperate, average; not extreme.—v.t. to restrain, to control; to decrease the intensity or pressure of;—v.i. to become less violent or intense, to act as moderator;—n. a person of moderate opinions in politics, religion, etc.—mod'erately adv.—mod'erateness n.—modera'tion n. the act of moderating, freedom from excess.—Modera'tions n.pl. (Univ. Mod.) at Oxford University, the first public examination for the B.A. degree.—mod'eratism n. non-extremist views in politics, religion, etc.—mod'erator n. (fem. mod'eratrix) one who acts as arbitrator; the president of an assembly, as the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland [L. moderari, to limit].

modern (mod'ern) a. pert. to present or recent time; up-to-date; new fangled;—n. a person living in modern times, one who is up-to-date in outlook and ideas.—modernisa'tion n.—mod'er'nise v.t. to bring up-to-date.—modernis'er n.—mod'er'nist n. one who upholds modern ideas.—mod'er'nly adv.—mod'er'ness, mod'ern'ity n. the state or quality of being modern [L. modernus, fr. molo, just now].

modest (mod'est) a. unassuming; restrained; decent; retiring in manner; not excessive, as modest means.—mod'estly adv.—mod'esty n. the quality of being modest; absence of arrogance [L. modestus, moderate].

modicum (mod'ik-kum) n. a small quantity [L. modicus, moderate].

modify (mod'i-fy) v.t. to moderate; to alter the form or intensity of; (Philol.) to change the sound of a vowel by the influence of a following vowel, as by mutation; (Gram.) to qualify the meaning of, as of a verb by an adverb.—modifi'able a.—modifica'tion n. the act of modifying; the state of being modified; a change of form, manner, or intensity; (Philol.) change due to mutation or umant, the symbol of this change, as in A. O. — mod'ificative, mod'ificatory a. qualifying. — mod'ifier n. [L. modificare, to moderate].

modulate (mod'ú-lát) v.t. to regulate, esp. the pitch of the voice; to adapt; (Mus.) to change the key of; — v.i. (Mus.) to pass from one key to another. — mod'ular a. pert. to mode, modulation, or module. — modulation n. the act of modulating; the changing of the pitch of the voice; (Mus.) transposition into a new key; (Elect.) the variation of the amplitude or frequency of continuous waves, usually by a lower frequency. — mod'ulator n. one who, or that which modulates; (Mus.) a chart of the modulation in the tonic sol-fa system. — mod'ule n. a unit of measurement; (Archit.) the radius of a shaft at its base, for standardising other proportions of a building. — mod'ulus n. (Math.) a constant number, coefficient, or quantity which measures a force, function, or effect. — pl. moduli (mod'ú-lí) [L. modulari, to measure].

Mogul (mó-gú-l) n. a Mongol, esp. one of the followers of Baber, the conqueror of India in the 15th cent.; — a. pert. to the Mogul Empire.

mohair (mó-húr) n. the silky hair of the Angora goat, fabric made from this or similar hair [Ar. makhayyar, hair-cloth].

Mohammedan (mo-hám-méd-an) a. pert. to Mohammed or to Mohammedanism; — n. a follower of Mohammed, a Muslim. Also Mahom'etan, Mahom'edan. — Moham'medanism n. the religion of Mo'ham'med and his followers, Islam [fr. Mohammed, Arabian prophet].

Mohave (mó-há-vá) n. a tribe of American Indians. Also Moja've [Native].

Mohawk (mó-há-wk) n. the name of a N. American Indian tribe [Native].

Mohican (mo-hí-kan) n. a N. American Indian tribe of Algonkin stock [Native].

moire (moi-dor) n. an obsolete Portuguese coin worth about 27s. [Port. moeda d'ouro, coin of gold].

moiety (moi-é-tí) n. half, a small share [Fr. moitié, half].

moil (moi) v.t. to moisten; to dirty. — a. t. to dudge [M.E. modlen, to wet].

moire (mwaí) n. watered silk fabric. — moiré (mwaí-rá) a. watered; cloudy in appearance [var. of mohair].

moist (moist) a. damp, humid, rather wet. — moist'en v.t. to make moist to damp slightly. — moist'ness, moist'ure n. that which causes dampness, condensed vapour. — moist'ureless a. dry [O.Fr. moiste, fresh].

molar (mó-lar) a. grinding or able to grind, as back teeth; — n. a back double tooth for grinding [L. molare, to grind].

molasses (mo-lá-séz) n. sing. a dark-coloured syrup obtained from sugar in the process of manufacture, treacle [L. mellacius, honey-like].

mold Same as mould.

mole (mól) n. a slightly raised, dark brown spot on the skin [O.E. mal, a spot].

mole (mól) n. a small burrowing insectivorous animal, with velvety, bluish-grey fur, very small eyes, and paws like miniature hands. — v.t. to burrow. — mole'hill n. a little mound of earth thrown up by a mole when burrowing. — mole'skin n. the fur of a mole, a kind of fustian, with soft surface like the skin of a mole [M.E. molle, a mole].*

mole (mól) n. a breakwater; a pier built to form a harbour [L. molex, a mass].

molecule (moí-le-kú-l) n. the smallest portion of a substance which can retain independently the characteristics of that substance. — molec'ular a. — molecul'ar weight, the weight of a molecule of a substance in relation to the weight of a hydrogen atom [dim. fr. L. molex, a mass].

molest (mó-lést') v.t. to trouble; to molest with sinister intention. — molesta'tion n. [L. molestus, troublesome].

mollify (mól-i-fí) v.t. to appease; to placate; to soften. — pr.p. moll'ifying. — pa.p. moll'ified. — moll'ifiable a. — mollification n. the act of mollifying. — moll'ifier n. [L. mollificare, to make soft].*

mollusc, mollusk (mól-usk) n. an invertebrate animal with soft, pulpy body and usually a hard outer shell, as the oyster, snail, etc. — pl. moll'uses or mollus'ca. — mollus'can a. pert. to molluscs; — n. a mollusc. — mollus'cold, — cous a. like a mollusc [L. mollusca, a soft nut].

molly (mól-i) n. an effeminate person — moll'yoddle n. a milksop. — r.t. or r.i. to doddle or be coddled [dim. of Mary].

molted (mól-tén) a. melted, of metals, liquefied by intense heat. — molt'only adv. [old pa.p. of melt].

molybdenum (mól-ib-dé-num) n. a rare metal, used for alloying special steels. Also molyb'dena [Gk. molybdes, lead].

moment (mó-mént) n. a minute space of time; interval; importance; the measure of a force by its effect in causing rotation. — mo'mentarily adv. — mo'mentariness n. — mo'mentary a. very brief. — mo'mently adv. — moment'ous a. of great importance. — moment'ously adv. — moment'ousness n. — moment'um n. the impetus in a body, the product of the mass of a body multiplied by its velocity; (Fig.) increasing force; impetus. — pl. momen'ta [L. momentum, movement].

monachism (mon'ak-izm) n. monasticism. — mon'achial, a. pert. to monks or a monastery; hermit like [L. monachus, a monk].

Monad (monád) n. the one Self that gives life and consciousness to the form, ray from one universal Absolute Principle; the ultimate atom. — a. pert. to monads. — monad'ic, — monad'ic, — monad'ism, — monad'ology n. the theory of monads [Gk. monos, alone].

monarch (mon'ark) n. the supreme ruler of a state. (Fig.) a superior. — a. supreme. — monarch'al, a. pert. to monarch; sovereign. — monarch'ial, monarch'ic, — al a. pert. to a monarch or a monarchy. — monarch'ically adv. — mon'archise v.t. to govern, as a king, to convert to monarchial government. — mon'archism n. the principles of monarchy, devotion to a royalist cause. — mon'archist n. advocate of monarchy, a royalist. — mon'archy, a. pert. to monarchy, a kingdom or empire [Gk. monos, alone, archein, to rule].

monastery (monás'té-ri) n. a settlement of monks. — monaste'rial, monas'tic, — al a. pert. to monasteries, monks or nuns. — monas'tic n. a monk. — monas'tically adv. — monasticism (monás'tis-izm) n. the monastic way of life [Gk. monasterion, a monastery].

Monday (muní-dá) n. the second day of the week [O.E. mona, the moon].

monetary (muné-tá-ri) a. concerning money or the coinage, consisting of money [L. moneta, a mint].

money (muní) n. any form of token, as coin, banknote, used as medium of exchange, and stamped by state authority; paper currency. — wealth — pl. (lang.) mon'ey — mon'ey-bill n. a bill brought before Parliament concerning the national exchequer. — mon'ey a. wealthy. — mon'ey-grub'ber n. a parser. — mon'ey-lend'er n. one who lends out money and charges interest on the sum lent. — mon'ey-mak'ing a. profitable. — money order, an order for money, issued at one post-office and payable at another. — mon'ey-spin'ner or spid'er n. a small red spider supposed to bring good luck [L. moneta, a mint].

monger (mun's-ger) n. a trader; a dealer, usually in compound words, as fishmonger, ironmonger [O.E. maunger, a merchant].

Mongol (mong'gól) n. a native of Mongolia. — a. pert. to Mongolia, or its inhabitants. Also Mongol'ian. — mong'loid a. resembling the Mongols.

mongoose (mon-'gōōs) n. a small animal like a weasel, the ichneumon of India, notable as a snake-killer. —pl. mong'oooses. Also mong'oose [Tamil].

mongrel (mung-'grel) n. an animal, usually a dog, of mixed breed. —a. impure; hybrid [O.E. mang, a mixture].

monism (mon-'izim) n. the philosophical doctrine which seeks to explain varied phenomena by a single principle. —mon'ist n. —monis'tic, —al a. [Gk. monos, single].

monition (mon-'ish'un) n. cautionary advice; admonition; notice; (Law) a summons. —mon'itive a. expressing caution or warning. —mon'itor n. (fem. mon'itress, mon'itrix) one who cautions; an instructor, a school prefect; (Naut.) a shallow draught, heavily armed warship for coastal service, (World War 2) a B.R.C. official who heard and noted foreign broadcasts, esp. from Axis countries. —mon'itor v. to listen-in to foreign broadcasts to spot deviations from correct wave-lengths; to hear and note details of foreign broadcasts. —monito'rial a. —monito'rially adv. —mon'itory a. warning [L. monere, monitum, to warn].

monk (munk) n. orig. a hermit; a member of a religious community living in monasteries. —monk hood n. the state of being a monk. —monk'ish a. pert to a monk; monastic. —monks'hood n. a herbaceous poisonous plant, the acote [Gk. monachos, a monk].

monkey (munk-'ēki) n. a long-tailed mammal of the order of primates, exclusive of man and the lemurs, but resembling man in organisation and behaviour; a hind; the weighted head of a pile driver; a hammer for driving home bolts; (Slang) £500 —pl. monk'ēys. —v. to imitate a monkey; to meddle with, as to monkey around with machine parts. —monk'ey-jack n. a short, tight jacket worn by sailors. —monk'ey-nut n. a pea nut. —monk'ey-puzz'le n. the Chile pine. —monk'ey-rail n. (Naut.) a smaller rail above quarter-rail. —monk'ey-trick n. prank. —monk'ey-wrench n. wrench with movable jaw [Jetyim, uncertain].

mono- (mon-'ō) pref. meaning sole, single. [Gk. monos, alone, single].

monobloc (mon-'ō-blok) n. the cylinders of the internal combustion engine in one casting [Gk. monos, single, and blosk].

monocarpous (mon-'ō-kārp-us) a. bearing fruit only on one, and dying after fructification, as wheat. —mon'ocarp n. —monocarp'ic a. [Gk. monos, single, karpus, fruit].

monochord (mon-'ō-kord) n. a one-stringed instrument, a one-stringed device for measuring musical intervals.

monochrome (mon-'ō-krom) n. a painting in different tones of the same colour — monochromat'ic, monochro'mic a. of one colour only. — monochrome matism n. colour-blindness [Gk. monos single; chrōma, colour].

monocle (mon-'ō-kl) n. a single eye-glass [Gk. monos, single; L. oculus, the eye].

monocotyledon (mon-'ō-kot-i-lē-don) n. a plant with only one cotyledon or seed lobe. — monocotyle'donous a. [Gk. monos, single; kotylē, a cup].

monocracy (mon-'ō-kra-si) n. government by a single person. —mon'ocrat n. [Gk. monos, single, kratein, to rule].

monody (mon-'ō-di) n. an elegy expressive of the mourning of a single person — a song for one person. —monod'ic, —al a. —mon'odist n. one who writes monodies [Gk. monos, single; ode, song].

monogamy (mon-'ō-gā-mi) n. the state of being married to one person at a time. —monog'amist n. —monog'amous a. [Gk. monos, single; gamos, marriage].

monogenesis (mon-'ō-jenē-sis) n. the descent of an organism from a single cell. —monogenet'ic a. —monog'enism n. the theory of the descent of all human beings from an original single pair. Also monog'eny [Gk. monos, single; gignesthai, to be born].

monogram (mon-'ō-gram) n. two or more letters, as initials of a person's name, interwoven. —monogrammat'ic a. [Gk. monos, alone; gramma, a letter].

monograph (mon-'ō-graf) n. a specialised treatise on a single subject or branch of a subject. —v. to write a monograph on. —monog'raper, monog'rapist n. —monograph'ic, —al, a. pert. to a monograph [Gk. monos, single; graphein, to write].

monogynous (mon-'ō-jin-us) a. (Bot.) having single pistil; (Zool.) mating with a single female. Also monogyn'ian. —monog'yny n. the custom of having only one female mate [Gk. monos, single; gynē, a female].

monolith (mon-'ō-lith) n. a monument or column fashioned from a single block of stone. —monolith'al, monolith'ic a. [Gk. monos, alone, lithos, a stone].

monologue (mon-'ō-log) n. a dramatic scene in which an actor soliloquises; a dramatic poem for a solo performer [Gk. monos, single, logos, a speech].

monomania (mon-'ō-mā-ni-g) n. a form of mental derangement in which sufferer is irrational on one subject only, or is obsessed by one idea. —monoma'nias a. —monoma'niasal a. [Gk. monos, single; mania, madness].

Monomark (mon-'ō-mark) n. a registered combination of letters and (or) numbers serving to identify the property or products of the allottee [Protected Trade Mark].

monomial (mon-'ō-mi-al) a. (Math.) comprising a single term or expression. —n. an algebraic expression containing a single term [Gk. monos, single, nomia, a name].

mononym (mon-'ō-mim) n. a name comprising a single term. —mononym'ic a. [Gk. monos, single, onoma, a name].

monophobia (mon-'ō-fō-bi-g) n. (Path.) a morbid fear of being alone [Gk. monos, single; phobos, fear].

monoplane (mon-'ō-plan) n. an aircraft with only one set of planes.

monopoly (mon-'ō-pō-li) n. the sole right to trade in certain commodities; exclusive possession or control, Protected Trade Name for game played with dice and counters. —monopolise v. to have a monopoly, to take the lead, to exclusion of others. —monop'oliser, monopol'ist n. one who has a monopoly. —monopolis'tic a. [Gk. monos, single, pōlein, to sell].

monosyllable (mon-'ō-sil-lā-bl) n. a word of one syllable. —monosyllab'ic a. having one syllable. —speaking in words of one syllable. —monosyl'labilism n.

monotheism (mon-'ō-thē-izm) n. the doctrine which admits of one God only. —mon'othest n. —monothest'ic a.

monotint (mon-'ō-tint) n. a sketch or painting in one tone. —monotone (mon-'ō-tōn) n. a single, unvaried tone or sound, a series of sounds of uniform pitch, sameness of any kind; —v. and v. to intone, to chant. —monoton'ic, monot'onous a. uttered or recited in one tone, dull, unvaried. —monot'onously adv. —monot'ony n. the same uniformity of tone, lack of variety or variation, sameness [Gk. monos, single, tonos, a tone].

Monotype (mon-'ō-tip) n. (Print.) a single example of a species. (Print.) a two-part machine for setting and casting type in individual letters, as distinct from linotype. —monotyp'ic a. [Gk. monos, single; and type] [Protected Trade Mark].

monovalent (mon-'ō-val-ent) a. (Chem.) having a valency of one; univalent. —mon'ovalence, mon'ovalency n.

monoxide (mon-'ō-nok-sid) n. oxide containing one oxygen atom in a molecule.

Monroelism (mon-'ō-rō-lizm) n. the doctrine of the non intervention by European Powers in the political affairs of the American continents, as enunciated by President Monroe of U.S.A. in 1823. Also called, The Monroe Doctrine.

Monseigneur (mōng-sen-'ygr) n. my lord; a title (abbrev. Mgr.) given in France to princes, bishops, etc. — pl. Messigneurs (mā-sōn vēr') — Monsignor (mon-sīn vōr') (abbrev. Mgr. or Monsig.) an Italian title given to prelates — Also monsignore, — pl. monsignori [L. mons, mv; senior, older].

monsoon (mon-sōn') n. a seasonal wind of S. Asia which blows on-shore from the S.W. in summer, and off-shore from the N.E. in winter, the very heavy rainfall season as in summer, esp. in India. — monsoon'al a. [prob. Ar. mausim, a season].

monster (mōn'stēr) n. a creature of unnatural shape, a prodigy, a freak; a person of abnormal callousness, cruelty, or wickedness; — a. huge. — monstrosity n. an unnatural production, an abnormal creature; a freak. — monstrous a. abnormal, enormous, horrible; shocking — monstrously adv. [L. monstrum, a marvel].

monstrance (mōn'strāns) n. a shrine in which the consecrated host is shown in R.C. services [L. monstrare, to show].

montage (mōn'tāj), (lāzh) n. (Cinema) the final assembling together of various shots of a film into one well-arranged series of consecutive pictures [Fr. monter, to mount].

montane (mōn'tān) a. pert. to or inhabiting mountainous country. Also montain [L. montanus, mountainous].

monthbretia (mōnt brē-shi-ā) n. a bush plant with brilliant orange flowers [fr. de Monthet, French botanist].

Montessori System (mōn-te-sōr-rī-sis-tēm) n. educational system, used by Dr. Maria Montessori (1870-1936) its purpose being to give free scope to child's individuality and creative powers — Montessori'an n.

month (mōnth) n. one of the twelve divisions of the year — a. calendar month of 31, 30 or 28 (29) days, the period of the complete revolution of the moon — a. lunar month, about 29 days, a period of 28 days or four complete weeks — monthly a. lasting, performed in, a month; — a. a publication as a magazine, published once each month — pl. the months — adv. once a month, O.E. monað, a month.

monument (mōn'ūmēt) n. any structure, as a tombstone, building, tablet, erected to the memory of person, or event, an ancient record, any achievement of lasting value — monument'al a. like, or worthy of a monument; massive, colossal — monumentally adv. [L. monumentum, it. moner, to remind].

moo (mōo) v. to make the noise of a cow; to low; — n. the lowing of a cow, neat.

mooch, mouch (mōoch) v. and n. (Slang) to loiter, to loach, to sponge from another [O.E. moocher, to hang about].

mood (mōod) n. mood; (Gram.) the inflection of a verb expressing its function, as indicative, imperative, subjunctive, infinitive. (Logic) a form of syllogism; (Mus.) a mode; the arrangement of intervals in the scale, as major, minor [var. of mode].

mood (mōod) n. disposition, frame of mind, temper — moodily adv. — moodiness n. the state of being moody, temporary depression of spirits, capriciousness — mood'y a. peevish, sulky, depressed, angry [O.E. mōd, mind].

moon (mōon) n. the satellite which revolves round the earth in the period of a lunar month; any secondary planet, a month, anything crescent shaped or shining like the moon; — v. to gaze or wander about aimlessly — moon beam n. a ray of moonlight — moon-calf n. a monster, a dolt. — moon-faced a. having a round, expressionless face. — moonlight n. light of the moon. — a. lit by the moon, occurring during moonlight — moonlit a. illumined by moon. — moonraker n. a crazy person. — moonshine n. light of the moon, empty show, smuggled liquor. — moonstone n. an almost pellucid form of felspar — moonstruck a. lunatic — moon'y a. silvery — to shoot the moon, to disappear over night [O.E. mona, the moon].

Moor (mōór) n. a native of the Barbary States; one of the Moslem conquerors of Southern Spain in the 8th cent. — Moorish a. [L. Maurus, an inhabitant of Mauritania].

moor (mōór) n. stretch of heath with peaty soil. — moor-cock, moor-fowl n. red grouse. — moor-hen n. female moor-cock; water-hen. — moorish, moor'y a. — moorland n. a heath [O.E. mor, marshland].

moor (mōór) v. to secure by cables and anchors, as a vessel. — moorage n. place where vessel or ship is moored; charge for mooring. — mooring n. the act of securing a ship, etc., by cables and anchors; the place where a ship is moored [prob. Dut. marren, to tie].

moose (mōos) n. largest species of deer; N. American elk [Native].

moot (mōót) v. to suggest for debate; to discuss, — a. debatable; — n. in olden times, a council — mootable a. capable of being debated. — moot-case, moot-point n. a debatable case, or point [O.E. gemot, an assembly].

mop (mōp) n. a bunch of soft cotton yarn or rags attached to handle for washing or polishing, a bushy head of hair; — v. to wipe or polish with a mop, to wipe perspiration from — pr.p. mop'ping. — pa.p. mopped [L. mappa, a napkin].

mope (mōp) v. to be dull or depressed to sink. — moping a. listless — mopishly adv. dispiritedly — mopish a. dull — mopishly adv. — mopishness n. [Dut. moppen, to sink].

moppet (mōp'ēt) n. a cloth-doll, a child. — mop'sy n. untidy woman [fr. mop].

moped (mōp'ēt) n. a pedal cycle fitted with an auxiliary motor (fr. motor and pedal).

moquette (mō-kēt) n. a carpet material of velvety pile. — unrot moquette, a wall surface fabric used for upholstery. Fr.

moraine (mō-rān) n. rock debris which accumulates at the sides of or at the end of a glacier [Fr.].

moral (mō-rāl) pert. to the conduct, attitudes of man, of deed, virtuous, eloquent, discerning, lying between right and wrong, adorning, vented by reason or probability; — n. the teaching in a thing implied in a fable, allegory, etc. — pl. ethics, conduct, esp. concerning sexual relations, habits. — moralise n. — moralise v. to explain in a moral sense, to draw a moral from, — n. to reflect on ethical values of — moraliser n. — moralist n. one who moralises; one who studies — teaches ethics, one who accepts ethics instead of religion as an independent code to good life. — moralistic a. — morality n. the practice of moral duties, virtue, ethics, the right or wrong of a thing, in early form of pre-Shakespearean drama, in which the characters were the virtues and vices of men personified — morally adv. in a moral manner, practically — moral philosophy, the science of right living and the just conduct of affairs, ethics. — moral victory, a defeat, which in a deeper sense, is a victory [L. mor, mores, a custom].

morale (mō-rāl) n. the disposition or mental state which causes a man or body of people to face an emergency with spirit, fortitude and unflinching zeal [Fr.].

morass (mō-rās) n. a bog, marshy ground; a bog — morass'y a. [Dut. moeras, a marsh].

moratorium (mō-rā-tōr-i-um) n. an act authorizing the suspension of payments or repayments by a bank or debtor state, for a given period of time, the period of suspension of payment [L. mora, delay].

moray (mō-rā) n. a sharp-toothed marine eel. Also ma ray, mu'ray, mu'ry [Gk. murina].

morbid (mōr-bid) a. diseased, unhealthy; (of the mind) excessively retrospective. — morbidly a. the state of being morbid. — morbidity, n.

— morbidity n. — morbif a. causing unhealthiness of body or mind [L. morbus, disease].

mordant (mōr'dant) n. any substance, metallic or vegetable, which fixes dyes; a corrosive

- acid used in copper-plate engraving;—a. biting; corrosive; (Fig.) scathing; sarcastic.—morda'cious a. acrid; (Fig.) sarcastic.—morda'ciously adv.—morda'city n. the quality of being mordacious.—mordantly adv. [L. mordere, to bite].
- more (môr) a. greater in amount, degree, quality, etc.; in greater number; additional—adv. in a greater quantity, extent, etc.; besides;—n. something additional.—superl. most [O.E. mara, greater].
- morel, moril (mo-rel', -ril') n. an edible mushroom [Fr. morille].
- morel (mo-rel') n. the common and deadly nightshade [O.Fr. morel, black].
- morello (mo-rel'ô) n. a variety of dark red cherry used esp. in manufacture of cherry-brandy. Also morel', mor'el [It. morello, dark-skinned].
- moreover (môr-ô-vôr) adv. besides; also; further [fr. more].
- Moresque (mô-resk') a. Moorish; Arabesque—n. Moorish decoration [Fr. fr. Moor].
- morganatic (mor-gan-at'ik) a. applied to a marriage between a man of high, esp. royal rank, and a woman of lower station, the issue having no claim to his rank or property.—*morganat'*ically adv. [Ger. Morgengabe, a morning-gift].
- orgue (morg) n. a mortuary where bodies of people killed in street accidents, etc., are taken to await identification [Fr.].
- moribund (môr-i-bund) a. at the point of death [L. moribundus, dying].
- morian, morion (môr-ri-on) n. a light helmet without visor or beaver [Fr.].
- Morisco (mô-ris-kô) n. the Moorish language; one of the Moors who remained in S. Spain after 1492, and became Christian; a Moorish dance;—a. Moorish [Sp.].
- Mormon (môr-mon) n. a member of 'The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints' founded by Joseph Smith in 1830 in Utah, U.S.A. and professing theocracy and, formerly, polygamy; (Fig.) a polygamist;—a. pert. to this sect.—*Mor'*monism n. [fr. the fictitious Book of Mormon].
- morn (morn) n. the early part of the day [O.E. morgen, morning].
- morning (môr-nîng) n. the first part of the day between dawn and midday; (Fig.) the first part of any thing;—a. pert. to or happening in the early part of the day.—môr'ning-seat n. a tail-coat with outwavy front.—môr'ning-room n. a room used esp. in the morning, for breakfast, etc.—môr'ning watch (Naut.) 4-8 a.m. [M.E. moruening, the coming of the day].
- moreocco (mô-rok'ô) n. orig. a fine goat-skin leather; any skin grained in imitation of goat-skin [fr. Morocco].
- moron (môr-on) n. an adult with the mental development of a 7 yr. old child [Gk. moros, stupid].
- morose (mô-rôs') a. sullen; gloomy; soured in nature.—morosely adv.—moroseness n. [L. morosus, fretful].
- Morpheus (môr-fî-us) n. in Greek mythology, the god of dreams, the son of Night and Sleep.—Môr'phean, Môr'pheus a.
- morphia (môr-fî-a) n. an alkaloid of opium; a drug used to induce sleep and to deaden pain. Also môr'phine [fr. Morpheus].
- morphic (môr-fîk) a. pert. to shape or form.—môr'phogen'es n. the production of an organ or organism; evolution of form.—môr'phog'eny n. morphology.—môr'phog'raphy n. the description of the structure of an organism.—môr'pholog'ic, -al a.—môr'pholog'ist n.—môr'pholog'y n. the science of the structure and shape of organisms.—môr'phon'omy n. the laws governing the science of morphology [Gk. morphê, a shape].
- morris, morrice (môr'is) n. a dance popular in medieval England, representing characters such as Robin Hood, Maid Marian, etc.; orig. an imitation of a Moorish dance [var. of Moorish].
- morris (môr'is) n. a popular medieval outdoor game of draughts.—nine men's morris, this game played with nine stones. Also mer'is [etym. uncertain].
- morrow (môr'ô) n. next day; (Poet.) morning [O.E. morgen, the morning].
- Morse (môr-s) n. a system of telegraphic signalling in which the alphabet is represented by various combinations of dots and dashes, as devised by the American inventor S. F. B. Morse (1791-1872).
- morsel (môr-sel) n. a mouthful; a small piece [O.Fr. dim fr. L. morsus, a bite].
- mort (môr't) n. a note sounded on a hunting horn denoting death of the animal pursued [Fr. mori, death].
- mortal (môr'tal) a. subject to death; fatal; meriting damnation, as sin; implacable, as a foe;—n. a human being;—adv. (Colloq.) very.—môr'tal'ity n. death; death-rate; the human race.—môr'tally adv. fatally; sorely [L. mortalis, fr. mors, death].
- mortar (môr-tar) n. a thick bowl of porcelain, glass, etc., in which substances are pounded with a pestle; a mill for pulverising ores; (Mil.) a wide-mouthed piece of ordnance for short-distance firing of heavy shells, a cement made of lime, sand and water, used in building;—v.t. to pound in a mortar; to cement, as bricks, with mortar.—môr'tar-board n. a square board used when mixing mortar; an academic cap [L. mortarium, a mortar].
- mortgage (môr-gâj) n. (Law) a conveyance of property in security of a loan, the deed effecting this;—v.t. to pledge as security.—môr'tgagee n. one who gives a mortgage.—môr'tgagor, môr'tgagor n. one who receives a mortgage from a mortgagee [O.Fr. mort, dead; gage, a pledge].
- mortician (môr-tish'an) n. (U.S.) an undertaker [L. mors, death].
- mortify (môr-tî-fî) v.t. to discipline the flesh; to humiliate; to vex;—v.i. (Med.) to become gangrenous.—pat. and pas. môr'tified.—môr'tifica'tion n. the act of mortifying or the state of being mortified; the death of one part of a living body; humiliation; (Scots law) a charitable bequest, (Med.) gangrene [L. mors, death; facere, to make].
- mortise (môr-tis) n. a hole in a piece of wood to receive the projection or tenon of another piece, made to fit it. Also môr'tice.—v.t. to cut or make a mortise in; to join with a mortice.—pr.p. môr'tising.—pas. môr'tised [etym. unknown].
- mortmain (môr'tmân) n. an inalienable bequest; the holding of land by a corporation or, as formerly, by a monastery, which cannot be transferred to new ownership [O.Fr. mortmain, dead hand].
- mortuary (môr'tû-grî) n. a place for the temporary reception of dead bodies, —a. pert. to burial [L. mortus, dead].
- mosaic (mô-zâ'ik) a. pert. to or made of mosaic;—n. inlaid work of coloured glass or marble; the flooring or pattern made of this; (Fig.) a patchwork.—môs'a'ically adv. [Gk. mosaic, a mosaic].
- Mosaic (mô-zâ'ik) a. (Hib.) pert. to Moses, or to the laws and writings attributed to him.
- moschatel (mô-skâ-tel) n. a plant with light green flowers and a musk-perfume [L. muscus, musk]. [Moselle district [Fr.].
- Moselle (mô-zel') n. a light wine from the Moslem (môz'lem) n. a Mohammedan;—a. pert. to the Mohammedans or their religion. Also Mus'lim.—Môs'lemism n. [Ar. salama, submit to God].
- mosque (môsk) n. a Mohammedan temple [Ar. masjid, temple].
- mosquito (mô-kô-tô) n. gnat-like insect.—pl. mosquit'oes.—mosquito curtain, net, a net-covering to ward off mosquitoes [L. musca, a fly].

moss (mos) n. a small, thickly growing, cryptogamous plant which thrives on moist surfaces; lichen; a bog; a peat moor. — moss-ag ate n. an agate with moss-like markings. — moss-grown a. closely covered with moss. — moss-iness n. — moss-land n. peat bog. — moss-rose n. a species of rose with moss-like growth on the calyx. — moss-troop'er n. a marauder of the Scottish Borders in the 16th and 17th cents. — moss'y a. covered with moss [O.E. mos, bog-land].

most (mōst) a. (superl. of more) the greatest number or quantity; greater-l., -adv. In the greatest degree. — most'y adv. for the most part [O.E. maest, most].

mot (mō) n. pithy, witty, saying [Fr. = word].

mote (mōt) n. a small particle, a speck of dust; (Fig.) a very small defect. — mot'ed, mot'ey a. [O.E. mot, a particle].

motet (mō-tet') n. a musical composition for (unaccompanied) voices, to words from Scripture [Fr. dim. of mot, a word].

moth (moth) n. a nocturnal winged insect, larva of this insect which feeds on cloth, esp. woollens. — moth-balls n.pl. camphor balls to ward off moths from clothes. — moth-eat'en a. eaten into holes by moth larva; (Fig.) decrepit [O.E. molthe, a moth].

mother (mūth'er) n. a female parent, mode of address to elderly woman; the head of a convent; the origin of anything; — a. natural, native, original, — v.t. to adopt as a son or daughter, to cherish, as a mother her child. — mother-coun'try n. native land. — mother-erect n. the art of being a good mother; training in the duties and tasks of a mother. — motherhood n. the state of being a mother. — mother'ing n. motherly care; the old custom of visiting one's parents on the fourth Sunday in Lent (Mothering Sunday). — mother-in-law n. the mother of one's wife or husband. — mother'liness n. — mother'ly a. pert, to a mother; kindly. — mother-of-pearl n. the iridescent lining of several kinds of shells. — Mother Superior, the head of a convent. — mother-tongue n. one's native language. — Queen Mother, the mother of the reigning sovereign [O.E. modor, a mother].

motif (mō-tēf') n. the dominant theme in a literary or musical composition [L.].

motile (mōt'il) a. (Zool., Bot.) capable of movement [L. movere, motum, to move].

motion (mō-shun) n. the act of moving, movement, impulse; a proposal made in an assembly. (Med.) an evacuation of the bowels; — v.t. to guide by gesture, — v.t. to make a significant movement. — motionless a. still; immobile. — motion-picture n. a cinema film [L. motus, motum, to move].

motive (mō-tiv) n. that which impels to action, inner impulse, dominant theme, motif; — a. causing movement or motion, — v.t. to impel, to motivate. — motivate v.t. to motivate. — motivation n. — mot'iveless a. without purpose or direction. — mot'ivity n. capacity to produce motion [L. movere, motum, to move].

motley (mōt'li) a. parti-coloured; diversified, — n. a jester's dress [etym. uncertain].

motor (mō-tor) n. that which imparts motion; a machine which imparts motive power, esp. the internal combustion engine, a motor-car; — a. causing motion. (Ind.) producing muscular activity, as motor-nerve; — v.t. and v.i. to travel by, or convey in, a motor-driven vehicle. — mo'tor-bicycle, mo'tor-cycle n. a cycle driven by a motor. — mo'tor-boat n. a boat with petrol-driven engine. — mo'tor-bus n. a public transport vehicle with internal combustion engine. — mo'torise v.t. to mechanise (the transport of) the army. — mo'torist n. one who drives or travels in a motor car. — motor spirit, petrol, etc., used to drive motor-engine [L. motor, a mover].

mottle (mōt'l) v.t. to mark with spots of different colours; to dapple. — mottled a. variegated, as mottled soap [prob. fr. motley].

motto (mōt'ō) n. a short appropriate sentence or phrase added to armorial bearings; a maxim or aphorism; quotation prefixed to a book, or chapter of a book. — pl. mot'toes. — mot'toed a. [L. multum, a murmur].

mouch Same as mooch.

mouse (mōs) n. a pout [Fr.].

moujik (mōd'zhik) n. a Russian peasant [Russ. muzhik].

mould (mōld) n. the hollow shape in which anything is cast or set; a template; (Fig.) character; — v.t. to shape in a mould; to fashion; (Fig.) to influence. — mould'er n. one who moulds or makes moulds, as ironmoulder. — mould'ing n. anything moulded, esp. relief ornamentation on cornices, etc.; art or process of making moulds [L. modulus, a small measure].

mould (mōld) n. fine, soft soil; the upper layer of the earth; the grave; — v.t. to cover with mould. — mould'er v.t. to decay, to crumble away; to turn to dust. — mould'warp n. the mole which throws up little heaps of earth [O.E. molde, the earth].

mould (mōld) n. a minute bluish-coloured fungus which grows on such things as leather, cheese, bread, esp. if exposed to damp, mildew. — mould'iness n. — mould'y a. covered with or affected by mould; musty, (Fig.) antiquated [etym. uncertain].

moult (mōlt) v.t. and v.i. to cast or shed feathers, as of birds, — n. the act of casting feathers [L. mutare, to change].

mound (maund) n. an artificial elevation of the earth; a knoll, an earthwork for defensive purposes; — v.t. to fortify with a mound [O.E. mund, a defence].

mount (maunt) n. a mountain or hill. (abbr. Mt.); that on which anything is mounted for exhibition; a horse for riding, — v.t. to raise up, to ascend; to get on a horse, to frame a picture; to set (gem. stones) to put on a slide for microscope examination, to stage a play with appropriate costumes, scenery, etc., to raise guns into position, — v.t. to rise up, to get up, to increase. — mount ed a. raised, of a picture having a card or card ending or backing. — mount'ing-block n. block used to facilitate mounting of a horse. — to mount guard, to be on sentry-duty, to keep watch over [L. mons, a mountain].

mountain (maunt'ēn or -m) n. a high hill; — a. pert to a mountain, growing or living on a mountain. — mountain-ash n. the rowan tree. — mountain-ash-dew n. Scotch whisky. — mountaineer n. one who lives on a mountain, one who climbs high mountains. — mountaineer'ing n. the practice or sport of climbing mountains. — mountain-lime stone n. limestone layers between Old Red Sandstone and coal seams. — mountainous a. very steep, full of mountains; colossal. — mountain-rail way n. a railway operating on cogged central rail for ascent of very steep gradients [L. mons, a mountain].

mountebank (maunt'e-banck) n. a quack doctor, a charlatan [It. montanaro, mount on bench or platform].

mounty (maunt'i) n. a member of the Canadian N.W. Mounted Police.

mourn (maurn) v.t. to grieve over, to lament; — v.t. to express grief, to wear mourning. — mourn'er n. one who mourns; one who attends a funeral. — mourn'ful a. sad, dismal. — mourn'fully adv. — mourn'fulness n. — mourn'ing n. the act of grieving, lamentation; wearing of black as a sign of grief; the period during which such clothes are worn. — mourn'ingly adv. [O.E. murran, to grieve].

mouse (maus) n. a small rodent found in fields, or in houses; a lead weight on the cords of sash-windows. — pl. mice. — mouse (mauz) v.t. and v.i. to catch mice; to search for patiently or slyly; to prowl. — mouse-colour a. dark greyish-brown. — mouse'er n. a cat which catches mice. — mouse-trap n. a small trap with wire-spring for catching mice. — mouse'y a. resembling a mouse, esp. in colour; smelling of mice; (Fig.) timid; nondescript [O.E. mus, a mouse].

mousse (mòds) n. a dessert of frozen whipped cream, eggs, sugar and flavouring [Fr. mousse, froth].

moustache (mus-tash') n. hair on upper lip. — moustache-cup n. cup partly covered on top, to keep moustache dry. — moustached, moustachied a. [Fr. fr. Gk. mustax, upper lip].

mouth (mouth) n. an opening between lips of men and animals through which food is taken; lips, as a feature; the cavity behind the lips containing teeth, tongue, palate, and vocal organs; an opening as of a bottle, cave, etc.; the estuary of a river; a wry face. — pl. mouths (mouTHz). — mouth'ful n. as much as the mouth conveniently holds; a small amount. — pl. mouth'fuls. — mouth'organ n. harmonica; Jew's harp; pan-pipes. — mouth'piece n. the part of a musical instrument, tobacco-pipe, cigarette-holder, etc., held in mouth; (Fig.) a spokesman; a newspaper (as expressing public opinion) [O.E. muðh, the mouth].

mouth (mouTH) v.t. to utter with overloud voice; to speak with exaggerated movement of lips and jaws; to rant. — mouthed a. having a mouth [O.E. muðh, the mouth].

move (móov) v.t. to set in motion; to stir emotions of; to prevail on; to incite; to propose for consideration; — v.i. to change one's position, posture, residence, etc.; to march; to make a proposal or recommendation; — n. the act of moving; a change of residence; a movement, as in game of draughts. — mov'able, move'able n. an article of furniture; — pl. (Law) the furnishings of a house which are not permanent fixtures; — a. able to be moved, or changed in time; shifting. — movable feast, a church festival, the date of which varies annually. — mov'ableness n. — mov'ably adv. — move'ment n. the act of moving; deportment; the part of a machine which moves; organised activity of a society; a division of a complex musical composition. — mov'er n. one who moves; one who takes a motion; an originator. — mov'ies n.pl. (Colloq.) cinema films or cinema theatre. — mov'ing a. causing to change place; in motion; affecting the emotions; pathetic. — moving picture (abbr. movie) the cinematograph. — moving staircase, an escalator [L. movere, to move].

mow (mò) v.t. to cut with a scythe; to cut down in great numbers, as enemy. — pr.p. mow'ing. — pa.t. mowed. — pa.p. mown. — mow'er n. one who mows; a machine for cutting crops [O.E. maean, to mow].

mow (mò) n. a heap of hay or corn, esp. in a barn; — v.t. to put in a mow. — pr.p. mow'ing. — pa.t. and pa.p. mowed [O.E. muga, a heap].

mow (mò, mou) n. a grimace; a moue; — v.t. to make a wry face. — mops and mows, gestures and grimaces [Fr. moue, a grimace].

much (much) a. (comp. more; superl. most) great in quantity or amount; abundant; — a. a great quantity; — adv. to a great degree or extent; almost. — much'ness n. the state of being much. — much'ly adv. (Colloq.) much. — much of a muchness, more or less the same [M.E. muchel, much].

mucic (mù'sik) a. pert. to, or derived from, gums; viscous [L. mucus, slime from the nose].

mucid (mù'sid) a. mouldy; musty. Also mu'cidous. — mu'cidness, mu'por n. [L. mucidus, mouldy].

mucilage (mù'si-lâj) n. a gummy substance extracted from plants and animals; a solution of gum in water. — mucilag'inous a. port. to mucilage; slimy; viscous [L. mucre, to be musty].

muck (muk) n. moist dung; anything vile or filthy; — v.t. to manure; to make filthy; (Slang) to make untidy. — muck'iness n. — muck'y a. filthy [O.N. myki, dung].

mucus (mù'kus) n. a viscid fluid secreted by the mucous glands. — mu'cid a. like mucus — mu'ceous a. like, secreting mucus. — mucous membrane, membrane which secretes mucus [L. mucus, slime from nose].

mud (mud) n. soft, moist earth; (Fig.) aspersions, as in to throw mud at a person's memory; — v.t. to bury in mud; to foul; to stir up the dregs in a liquid; — v.i. to be submerged in mud. — mud'bat n. a bath of mud impregnated with mineral salts in treatment of rheumatism. — mud'dily adv. — mud'diness n. — mud'dy a. consisting of mire or mud; miry; cloudy, as liquid; (Fig.) stupid; — v.t. to soil with mud. — pr.p. mud'dying. — pa.t. and pa.p. mud'died. — mud'dy-head'ed a. stupid. — mud'flat n. a stretch of mud below high-water mark. — mud'guard n. a screen to protect from mud-splashes, as on wheels of a motor-vehicle, bicycle, etc. — mud'lark n. one who cleans out sewers; one who fishes up odds and ends from mud of tidal rivers; a street urchin. — mud'pack n. a treatment with impregnated mud which has a beneficial effect on the skin [O.L. Ger. mudde, mud].

muddle (mud'dl) v.t. to make muddy; to confuse; to bewilder; to deal incompetently with. — v.i. to be confused; — n. confusion; jumble; — mudd'lehead n. one who is confused in mind. — mudd'leheaded a. [fr. mud].

muezzin (mò-èz-in) n. an official in a Mohammedan mosque who from a minaret summons worshippers to prayer. Also mued'din [Ar.].

muff (muf) n. a warm covering for both hands, usually made of fur, shaped like a cylinder open at both ends (prob. fr. Dut. mof, mitten).

muff (muf) n. an awkward person, esp. at sports; — v.t. to bungle, esp. at cricket, golf etc. [etym. uncertain].

muffin (muf-in) n. a round, flat cake or cake of yeast dough, eaten toasted and buttered [etym. uncertain].

muffle (muf-ſl) v.t. to wrap up for warmth or to hide something; to deaden (sound of); — n. something used to deaden sound; a boxing-glove. — muff'led a. smothered (of sound); wrapped up. — muff'ler n. a scarf; a silencer, as in a motor-car (O.Fr. moufle, a thick glove).

mufti (muf-ti) n. a Mohammedan priest; civilian dress worn by soldiers, etc., when off duty [Ar.].

mug (mug) n. a straight sided earthenware or metal cup without a handle; a tankard; the contents of this; (Slang) the face [etym. unknown].

mug (mug) n. (Slang) a dupe; a greenhorn [etym. unknown].

mug (mug) v.t. (Slang) to study very hard [etym. unknown].

muggins (mug-inz) n. a simoleon; a game of dominoes or cards [etym. uncertain].

muggy (mug-i) a. warm and humid, as weather; close; enervating. Also mug'gish [O.N. mugga, a mist].

mugwump (mug-wump) n. Indian chief; (U.S.) one who holds non-party political views; a self-important person [N. Amer. Ind. mugwump, big chief].

Muhammedan See Mohammedan.

mulatto (mù-lat'ô) n. (fern. mulatt'ress) offspring of white person and negro. — pl. mulatt'ees [Port. mulato, of mixed breed].

mulberry (mul-bë-r-i) n. a deciduous tree on the leaves of which the silkworm feeds, the fruit of this tree; a purplish-brown colour [L. morum, a mulberry].

Mulberry harbour (mul'bë-r-i-hâr'bur) n. (World War 2) portable prefabricated harbour, by means of which invasion of Europe was made possible on D-day.

mulch (mulsh) n. a protective covering of straw, manure, etc., for roots of young plants; — v.t. to treat with mulch. Also mulsh [M.E. molsh, soft].

mulct (mulk't) n. a fine imposed as a penalty; — v.t. to impose a fine on; to deprive of [L. mulcta, a fine].

mule (mûl) n. the hybrid offspring of a male ass and a mare; any hybrid animal; machine used in cotton-spinning; a heelless bedroom-slipper; (Fig.) an obstinate person.—muleteer n. a mule-driver.—mull'ah a. obstinate; pig-headed.—mull'ishly adv.—mull'ishness n. [O.E. mul, a he-ass].

mull (mul) v.t. to heat, sweeten and spice (wine, ale, etc.).—mulled a.—mull'er n. (etym. unknown).

mull (mul) n. a muddle;—v.t. to bungle; to mismanage (etym. unknown).

mull (mul) n. (Scot.) a headland or promontory [O.N. mull, a snout].

mull (mul) v.t. and v.i. (U.S.) to muse upon; to cogitate (etym. uncertain).

mullet (mullet) n. an edible sea-fish [L. mulus, the red mullet]. mulligatawny (mul-ti-ga-taw'ni) n. a rich soup flavoured with curry, and thickened with rice [Tamil].

mullion (mul'ti-yn) n. a dividing upright between the lights of windows, panels, etc.—mull'ion, munn'ion v.t. to divide by mullions.—mull'ioned a. [L. mancus, maimed].

multi- (mul'ti) prefix, fr. L. multus, many. Also mult-, before a vowel as in multangular.

multicolour (mul'ti-kul-ur) a. having many colours. Also multi-coloured.

multifarious (mul-ti-fā'ri-us) a. manifold; made up of many parts.—multifariously adv.—multifariousness n. diversity [L. multus, many; fari, to speak].

multiform (mul'ti-form) a. having many forms.—multifor'm n.—multifor'mous a.

multilateral (mul-ti-lā'ter-al) a. having many sides.—multilateral school, an omnibus school having a diversity of courses, as academic, commercial, technical, etc. [L. multus, many; latus, a side].

multiliteral (mul-ti-lit'ē-al) a. having many lines. Also multilin'ear.

multi-millionaire (mul'ti-mil'yun-ār) n. a person who is worth several million pounds.

multinomial (mul-ti-nō-mi-al) a. (Math.) expressed by more than two terms; polynomial.—n. a quantity of three or more terms connected by the sign plus or minus.

multipartite (mul-ti-part'it) a. having many parts.

multiplied (mul'ti-ped) n. and a. (animal) with many feet. Also multi'pede.

multiple (mul'ti-pl) a. manifold; of many parts; repeated many times.—n. (Math.) a quantity containing another an exact number of times.—multi'ple-fac'tion n. repeated division.—multiple shop, or store, a retail business with branches in different parts of town or country [L. multiplex, manifold].

multiply (mul'ti-pliē) v.t. to increase in number; to add a number to itself a given number of times.—v.t. to increase, to grow in number.—pr.p. multi'ply'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. multi'plied.—multi'plex a. multiple; (of telegraph) capable of transmitting numerous messages over the same wire.—multi'pliable, multi'pliable a. capable of being multiplied.—multi'pliable' n. the number to be multiplied.—multi'plication n. the act of multiplying; a rule or operation by which any given number may be added to itself any specified number of times (the symbol used = ×).—multi'pliative a.—multi'plicator n. a multiplier.—multi'plicity n. the state of being multiplied; great number.—multi'plier n. a number by which another, the multi'plicand, is multiplied [L. multus, many; plicare, to fold].

multi-ply (mul'ti-pli) n. plywood of more than three layers.

multisyllable (mul-ti-sil'ə-bl) n. a word of many syllables.

multitude (mul'ti-tūd) n. a great number; numerousness; a crowd; an assemblage.—multitud'inous a. made up of a very great number [L. multitudo].

multivalent (mul-ti-vā-lent) a. (Chem.) having more than one valency.—multi'valence, multi'valency n.

multivalve (mul'ti-valv) a. having many valves; (Radio) consisting of many thermionic valves;—n. a mollusc with a shell of many valves.—multi'valvular a.

mul'ture (mul'tūr) n. a grinding of corn; a toll paid in kind to a miller for corn ground [L. molere, to grind].

mum (mum) a. silent;—n. silence;—interj. be quiet.—mum's the word, keep it a secret [imit.].

mumble (mumbl) v.t. to utter indistinctly; to chew, as with toothless gums;—v.t. to speak indistinctly;—n. an indistinct utterance.—mum'bler n. [fr. mum].

Mumbo-jumbo (mum-bō jum'bō) n. an idol worshipped by certain African negroes; anything credulously or superstitiously worshipped (etym. unknown).

mumm, mum (mum) v.t. to perform in dumb show; to act in a mask.—mumm'er n. one who acts in dumb show, esp. in ceremonies connected with Christmas; a buffoon.—mumm'ery n. performance in dumb show; exaggerated ceremony.—mumm'ing n. [Dut. mommen, to mask].

mummy [mum'i] n. a dead body preserved by embalming.—pa.p. mumm'ified.—mummifica'tion n.—mumm'ify v.t. to embalm and dry as a mummy;—v.t. to become dried up like a mummy.—mumm'y-wheat n. a species of Egyptian wheat [Pers. mum, wax].

mump (mump) v.t. and v.t. to mumble; to be sullen; to play the hypocrite.—mump'er n. one who mumps; a whining beggar.—mump'ing, mump'ish a. sulky; dour, begging.—mump'ingly, mump'ishly adv.—mump'ishness n.—mumps n. a highly infectious disease causing painful swelling of the face and neck-glands (form of mum).

munch (munsh) v.t. and v.t. to chew noisily.—munch'er n. [M.E. munt].

mundane (mun'dān) a. pert. to this world.—mun'danely adv.—mundan'ity n. [L. mundus, the world].

munerary (mū'ng-rā-ri) a. of the nature of a gift [L. munus, a gift].

mungoose Same as mongoose.

municipal (mū-ni-si-pal) a. pert. to a corporation or city.—municipal'ity n. a town or district with its own corporation or council administering local self-government; in France, a division of the country.—munic'ipally adv. [L. municipium, a free town].

munificence (mū-ni-fi-sens) n. liberality; generosity.—munif'icent a. very generous.—munif'icently adv. [L. munus, a gift, facere, to make].

munition (mū-ni-ment) n. a stronghold.—pl. titles; charter.—mun'im'ent-room n. a fire-proof room for the storing of valuable charters, legal documents, etc. [L. munire, to fortify].

munition (mū-ni-sh'un) v.t. to equip with the weapons of war;—n. (usually pl.) military stores; weapons of war, as guns, tanks, shells, etc. [L. munus, fortified].

munition Same as mullion.

murder (mur'der) n. homicide with pre-meditated and malicious intent;—v.t. to commit a murder; to kill; to mar by incompetence.—mur'derer n. (fr. mur'dress) one guilty of murder.—mur'derous a. pert. to murder; bloody; homicidal.—mur'derously adv. [O.E. moorthor, murder].

muriate (mā-ri-āt) n. commercial name for chloride;—v.t. to put into brine.—mur'iate of soda, common salt.—mur'iate a. pert. to or obtained from sea-salt.—mur'iate acid, hydrochloric acid [L. muria, brine].

murk (murk) a. dark;—n. misty darkness; gloom.—murk'y a. dark; misty.—murk'ily adv.—murk'iness n. [O.E. micre, dark].

murmur (mur-mur) n. a low, unbroken sound, as of wind, water, etc.; a complaint expressed in subdued tones; softly uttered speech;—v.t. to make a low sound; to speak in subdued tones; to complain; to grumble.—pr.p. mur'ing.—pa.p. mur'mured.—mur'murer n.—mur'murous a. pert. to a murmur; making subdued sounds; grumbling [L. murmur, a low sound].

murrain (mur'in) n. a disease affecting cattle, esp. foot-and-mouth disease [O.Fr. morine, a carcase].

murder, murderer. Same as murder, murderer.

muscadel (mus'ka-dol) n. a musk-flavoured grape; a wine made from this grape; a raisin; a fragrant pear. Also mus'cat, mus'catel, mus'cadine [It. moscato, musk-flavoured].

muscle (mus'cl) n. a band of contractile fibrous tissue which produces movement in an animal body; strength.—mus'cle a. having muscle; muscular.—mus'cular a. pert. to muscle; brawny; strong.—muscular'ity n.—mus'cularly adv.—to muscle in (Amer. slang) to break in by force [L. musculus, a muscle].

muscoid (mus'koid) a. (Bot.) like moss;—n. a moss-like plant.—musc'o'gy n. the study of mosses [L. muscus, moss].

Muscovite (mus'kō-vit) n. a native or inhabitant of Moscow or of Russia.—mus'covite n. white mica. (Also muscovy glass.)—a. pert. to Moscow or to Russia.

Muscovy duck (mus'ko-vi duk) n. a musk-duck of C. and S. America, so called because it has a faint musky smell.

Muse (müz) n. in Greek mythology, one of the nine daughters of Zeus and Mnemosyne, who each presided over one of the liberal arts.—muse n. inspiration.—the muse, poetry [Gk. Mousa].

use (müz) v.i. to think over dreamily; to ponder; to consider meditatively;—n. reverie; contemplation.—use'ful a.—use'er n.—use'ingly adv. reflectively [O.Fr. muser, to loiter].

musette (mü-zet') n. a small bagpipe; a melody for this instrument; a reed stop on an organ; a country dance [O.Fr. musette, a small bagpipe].

museum (mü-zé-um) n. a permanent collection of works of art, antiques, objects of natural history, the sciences, etc., and all material expressions of the history of man; the building housing such a collection [Gk. Mouseion, a temple of the Muses].

mush (mush) n. a pulp; (Amer.) porridge of maize meal; (Slang) sentimentality.—mush'y a. (form of mash).

mush (mush) v.i. (Amer. slang) to journey on foot with dogs over snowy wastes.

mushroom (mush-rōom) n. an edible fungus of very quick growth; (Fig.) an upstart;—a. of rapid growth, as mushroom town; shaped like a mushroom [prob. fr. Fr. mousse, moss].

music (mü-zik) n. the art of combining sounds or sequences of notes into harmonious patterns pleasing to the ear and satisfying to the emotions; melody; musical composition or score.—mus'ical a. pert. to music; set to music; appreciative of music; trained or skilled in the art of music.—mus'ically adv.—mus'icalness n.—mus'ical-box n. a clockwork box which when wound up plays a tune.

musical comedy, a form of light entertainment in which songs, dialogue, dancing, humour are combined with a not too serious plot.—mus'icless n. (Amer.) a private party with music.—mus'ic-ess, -fol'io, -hold'er n. a case, etc., for carrying sheet music.—mus'ic-hall n. a theatre where light variety programmes are performed.—mus'ician n. a composer or skilled performer of musical compositions.

musico'gy n. the scientific study of music [Gk. mousikos, pert. to the Muses].

musk (musk) n. a fragrant substance obtained from a gland of the musk-deer; the perfume of this; any plant with a musky perfume.—musk'cat n. civet.—musk'deer n. a small, hornless deer of C. Asia with gland secreting commercial musk. Also Mus'covy-deer.—musk'ily adv.—musk'iness n.—musk'mallow n.

a variety of the mallow plant with faint musky smell.—musk'mel'on n. common melon.—musk'or'chis n. the orchid.—musk'ox n. a sheep-like ox with brown, long-haired shaggy coat, inhabiting Canadian Arctic.—musk'rat n. a large N. American water-rat with musk-gland, valued for its fur; the musquash.—musk'rose n. a climbing rose with white blossoms faintly perfumed with musk.—musk'tree, -wood n. trees with musky smell, growing mainly in W. Indies and Australia.—musk'y a. having the smell of musk [L. muscas, musk].

musket (mus'ket) n. (formerly) a hand gun or matchlock.—musk'eteer n. a soldier armed with a musket, esp. a member of the French king's bodyguard during 17th cent.—musk'etry n. muskets collectively; troops armed with muskets; musket-practice [O.Fr. mousquet, a sparrow-hawk].

Muslim (mus'lim) n. Same as Moslem.

muslin (mus'lin) n. a thin cotton cloth of open weave, white or coloured;—a. made of muslin [fr. Mosul, in Iraq].

musquash (mus'kwosh) n. the musk-rat, or its fur [Amer. Ind.].

muss (mus) v.t. to disorganise; to make chaotic.—muss'y a. [etym. uncertain].

mussel (mus'cl) n. a class of marine bi-valve shell-fish. Also muss'le.—muss'oult n. a fossilised mussel [L. musculus, mussel].

Mussulman (mus'ul-man) n. a Mohammedan; a Moslem.—pl. Muss'ulmans [Ar.].

must (must) v.i. to be obliged, by physical or moral necessity [O.E. mōste, pret. of verb, mot, may].

must (must) n. wine newly pressed from grapes but not fermented [L. mustus, new].

must (must) n. mouldiness (prob. fr. musty).

moustache Same as moustache.

mustang (mus'tang) n. a wild horse of the American prairies; a bronco [Sp. mestengo, belonging to graziers].

mustard (must'ard) n. a plant with yellow flowers and pungent seeds; a yellow powder, made from the seeds, used as a condiment.—

mustard gas, dichlorodithyl sulphide, an oily liquid, irritant war-gas causing blistering.—must'ard-plas'ter n. a poultice made with mustard.—wild mustard, charlock.—to be as keen as mustard, to be full of zest [O.Fr. moustarde, mustard].

muster (muster) v.t. to assemble, as troops for a parade; to gather together, as one's resources.—v.i. to be assembled together.—n. an assembling of troops, etc.—to pass muster, to be up to standard [O.Fr. mostre, show].

musty (mus'ti) a. mouldy; stale; sour.—must'ily adv.—must'iness n. mustiness; mouldiness [L. mustum, new wine].

mutable (müt'tā-bl) a. subject to change; inconstant.—muta'bly, mut'ableness n. the state or quality of being mutable.—mut'ably adv.—mutate v.t. to change, as a vowel by the influence of another in a subsequent syllable.—muta'tion n. change; in phonology, the process of 'umlaut' or vowel change; (Bot.) a complete divergence from racial type which may ultimately give rise to a new species.—mut'ative, mut'atory a. [L. mutare, to change].

mute (müt) a. dumb; silent; unexpressed in words; not sounded, as 'l' of calm;—n. a person who is dumb; a professional mourner at a funeral; a 'stopped' consonant, such as b, d, p, t;—v.t. to muffle the sound of.—mutely adv.—muteness n. [L. mutus, dumb].

mutate (müt'til-āt) v.t. to maim; to cut off; to impair by removing an essential part.

mutilation n.—mut'ilator n. [L. mutilus, maimed].

mutiny (müt'ti-ni) n. insurrection against lawful authority, esp. military or naval;—v.i. to rise in mutiny.—pr.p. mut'inying.—pa.p. mut'ined.—mut'ineer n.—mut'inous a. rebellious; seditious [Fr. mutin, mutinous].

mutt (mut) n. (Amer. slang) a fool.

mutter (mut'ər) v.t. to speak indistinctly or in a low voice; to grumble. — mutterer n. — muttering n. [prob. imitative].

mutton (mut'n) n. the flesh of sheep; a sheep. — mutton-chop n. rib of mutton for boiling or grilling. — mutton-chop whiskers, side-whiskers shaped like a mutton-chop. — mutton-head, a stupid person. — to return to our muttons, to return to subject under discussion [Fr. mouton, a sheep].

mutual (mūt'ū-əl) a. reciprocally acting or related; interchanged; done by each to the other; (incorrectly) common to several, as in Dickens's Our Mutual Friend. — mutual'ity n. the quality of being reciprocal. — mut'ually adv. [L. mutuus, borrowed].

muzhik (mōō-zhik') n. a Russian peasant; a fur cape. Also mujik' [Rus.].

muzzle (muz'l) v.t. the snout; the mouth and nose of an animal; a cage-like fastening for the mouth to prevent biting; the open end of a gun; — v.t. to put a muzzle on; to gag; to enforce silence. — muzzle-loader n. a gun loaded at the muzzle, opp. of breech-loader [L. musus, a snout].

muzzy (muz'zī) a. dazed; bewildered; tipsy. — muzziness n. [etym. uncertain].

my (mi) poss. a. belonging to me (contr. of mine; O.E. mīn, of me).

mycetes (mī-sē-tēz) n.pl. fungi. — myceto'logy n. Same as mycol'ogy. — mycol'ogist n. — mycology (mī-kol'ō-jī) n. the science of fungi. — mycoph'agy n. the eating of fungi [Gk. mukēs, a mushroom].

myelin (mī'e-līn) n. (Zool.) the fatty substance forming the sheath of nerve fibres. — myel'itis n. inflammation of the spinal cord — myelo-mening'itis n. spinal meningitis [Gk. muelos, marrow].

myna(h) (mī'nə) n. an Indian starling. Also mī'na [Hind.].

myr'heer (mīn-hār') n. (S. Afr.) a term of respect used to a superior or to a clergyman; a gentleman [Dut.].

myoid (mī'oid) a. pert. to muscles. — myo-card'itis n. (Med.) inflammation of the heart muscle [Gk. mys, a muscle].

myopia (mī-ō'pi-ə) n. short sightedness. — my'ope n. a short-sighted person. — myop'ic a. [Gk. myein, to close; ōps, the eye].

myositis (mī-ō-sī'tis) n. inflammation of a muscle [Gk. mys, a muscle].

myosotis (mī-ō-sō'tis) n. a genus of herbs of the boraginæ family, including the forget-me-not [Gk. = mouse-ear].

myriad (mī'rī-ad) n. an immense number; — a. countless [Gk. myrias, ten thousand].

myriadopod (mī'rī-a-pōd) n. (Zool.) an animal with great number of legs, as centipedes, millipedes [Gk. myrias, ten thousand; pous, a foot].

myrmecology (mīr mē kol'ō-jī) n. the scientific study of ants and ant-life [Gk. myrmex, an ant].

Myrmidon (mīr'mī-don) n. In Greek mythology one of the 'ant-men' supposed to have been created from ants; follower of Achilles in Trojan war noted for cruelty. — myr'midon n. a brutal fighter, one who carries out orders with ruthlessness [Gk. Myrmidones, the ant-men].

myrrh (mēr) n. a transparent yellow-brown aromatic gum resin used formerly as incense, now used in antiseptics. — myr'rhie, myr'rhie a. [Gk. myrrha, myrrh].

myrtle (mēr'tl) n. an evergreen plant with fragrant white flowers and glossy leaves [O.E. myrtile, the myrtle-berry].

myself (mī-sēlf') pron. I or me, used emphatically, or reflexively.

mystery (mīst'ēr-ī) n. anything strange and inexplicable; a puzzle; a religious truth beyond human understanding; secrecy; a medieval drama based on Scripture. — pl. rites known to and practised by initiated only. — mys'ter'ious a. strange; occult; incomprehensible.

— mys'ter'iously adv. — mys'ter'iousness n. [Gk. mustéria, secret religious rites].

mystic (mīst'ik) a. pert. to a mystery or to secret religious rites; symbolical of spiritual truth; strange; — n. one who believes in mysticism; one who seeks to have direct contact with the Divine by way of spiritual ecstasy and contemplation. — mys'tical a. — mys'tically adv. — mys'ticism n. the doctrine of the mystics; study of spiritual experience; obscurity of doctrine. — mys'tification n. — mys'tify v.t. to perplex; to puzzle. — pr.p. mys'tifying. — pa.p. mys'tified [Gk. mustikos, pert. to one initiated in the mysteries].

myth (mith) n. a fable; a legend embodying primitive faith in the supernatural; an invented story; an imaginary person or thing. — myth'ic, -al a. pert. to myths; fabulous; non-existent. — myth'ically adv. — mytholog'ic, -al a. pert. to mythology, legendary. — mytholog'ically adv. — mythol'ogist n. — mythol'ogist n. one who has studied myths of various countries; a writer of fables. — mythol'ogy n. a collection of myths; the science of myths; a treatise on myths [Gk. mythos, a story].

myxoedema (mīk-se-dē'mə) n. (Med.) a disease caused by deficiency of secretion from thyroid gland [Gk. myxa, mucus; oedema, swelling].

myxomatosis (mīk-sō-ma-tō-sis) n. a contagious and deadly disease affecting rabbits [Gk. myxa, mucus].

N

Naafi (naf'i) n. the official organization which provides canteens and shopping facilities for men and women in the services [Navy, Army, and Air Force Institutes].

nab (nab) v.t. (Slang) to catch hold of; to seize suddenly [Dan. nappe, to catch].

nabob (nā'bōb) n. a Mohammedan chief in India; an Anglo-Indian who had returned home after acquiring great wealth in India; any man of great wealth. Also na'wab, the more correct form [Hind. nawab].

nacelle (na-sel') n. a small boat; the part fixed to the wing of an aeroplane serving to enclose engine, crew, passengers, and goods [Fr. fr. L. navicella, a little ship].

nacre (nā'ker) n. mother-of-pearl. — na'creous a. like mother-of-pearl [Fr. fr. Sp. nacur].

nadir (nā'dīr) n. point of the heavens directly opposite the zenith; the lowest or most depressed stage [Ar. nazir, opposite].

naevus (nē-vus) n. a congenital birth-mark formed by a cluster of small dilated blood-vessels. Also naevus [L.].

nag (nag) n. a small horse; any horse [etym. uncertain].

nag (nag) v.t. and v.i. to worry by constant fault-finding; to scold pertinaciously. — pr.p. nag'ging. — pa.t. and pa.p. nagged. — nag'ger n. [Sw. nagga, to peck].

naiad (nā'id, or nīad) n. In Greek mythology, a nymph of the fresh water fountain and streams. — pl. na'ides [Gk. naias].

naif See naïve.

nail (nāl) n. the horny shield covering the ends of the fingers or toes. — a. claw, a strip of pointed metal provided with a head, for fastening wood, etc.; a British cloth measure, 2 inches; — v.t. to fasten with a nail, to fix or secure; to confirm or pin down; to catch out or expose; to seize hold of. — nail-brush n. a small brush for cleaning the finger-nails.

— nail'er n. one who makes nails. — nail'ery n. a factory where nails are made. — nail'rod n. a long strip of sheet-iron from which nails are furnished; a coarse dark tobacco, made up in thin rolls or plugs. — on the nail, immediately, esp. of payment [O.E. naepl].

naïve (nā-ēv', nāv) a. having native or unaffected simplicity; childishly frank; artless. Also naïf. — naïve'y adv. — naïveté (nā-ēv-tē)

n. childlike ingenuousness; simple unaffectedness. Also naiv'ety [Fr.].

naked (nák'ed) a. having no clothes; exposed; bare; nude; uncovered; unarmed; unprovided for; manifest; evident; undisguised; simple; sheer.—na'kedly adv.—na'kedness n.—naked eye, the eye, unassisted by glasses [O.E. naecod].

namby-pamby (nam'bi-pam'bi) a. insipid; lacking strength of character; weakly sentimental [from Ambrose Philips, a poet who wrote childishly affected verse].

name (nām) n. the term by which any person or thing is known; appellation; designation; title; fame; reputation; credit; repute; family;—v.t. to give a name to; to call or mention by name; to nominate; to specify; to christen; to proceed to suspend a recalcitrant member of parliament in the House of Commons by first formally mentioning him by name.—name'less a. without a name; dishonoured; obscure; unspeakable.—name'lessly adv.—name'ly adv. by name; that is to say.—name'sake n. a person who bears the same name as another [O.E. nama].

nancy (nan'si) n. an effeminate youth; a homosexual.—nan'cy-pet'ry n. (Bot.) a corruption of none-so-pretty, the saxifrage also known as London Pride.

nankeen (nan-kēn') n. a calico fabric dyed buff by a tanning solution [Nanking, in China, where first woven]. [n. a she-goat.

nanny (nan'ti) n. a child's nurse.—nan'ny-goat nap (nap) n. a short sleep; a doze;—v.t. to indulge in a short sleep; to be unprepared [O.E. knappian].

nap (nap) n. fine hairy surface of cloth; the pile of velvet; the fine natural fur of a silk hat, etc.;—v.t. to raise a nap on cloth by teasing [Dut. nap].

nap (nap) n. a card game [invented in the time of Napoleon III].

nap (nap) v.t. of racing tipsters, to advise a client to bet on a certain horse as a sure winner of a race.

napalm (nā-pām) n. jellied petrol, used in air-raids and having a devastating burning effect.

nape (nāp) n. the back part of the neck [O.E. hnaep, bowil].

napery (nā-per-i) n. household linen, esp. for the table [O.Fr. naperie].

naphtha (nāf'tha, nāp'tha) n. a clear, volatile, inflammable liquid distilled from petroleum, wood, etc.; a thin, pure rock oil.—naph'thalene n. a white, solid crystalline hydrocarbon distilled from coal-tar and familiar in the form of moth-balls.—naphthal'ic a. [Gk.].

napkin (nap'kin) n. a cloth used for wiping the hands or lips at table; a serviette to protect the clothes at table [Fr. nappe, cloth].

napoleon (na-pō'li-on) n. a French gold coin of the First and Second French empires, then worth 20 francs (15/10); the game of nap.—Napoleon'ic, a. pert. to Napoleon I or II.

napoo (na-poo') a. (Slang) no good; no more; finished; gone; dead [fr. Fr. il n'y en a plus, there is no more].

nappy (nap'i) n. a baby's napkin [dim.].

Narcissus (nar-sis'us) n. a numerous genus of bulbous plants belonging to the order Amaryllidaceae, including the daffodil, the jonquil and the narcissus [Gk. Narkissos].

Narcissus (nar-sis'us) n. in Greek mythology, a youth doomed to fall in love with his own image until he pined away and died, his corpse being changed into the flower which bears his name.—narcis'sm n. In psycho-analysis, an abnormal love and admiration for oneself.—narcis'st n. [Gk.].

narcotic (nar-kot'ik) a. producing stupor or inducing sleep;—n. a substance which induces sleep, and in large doses, insensibility and stupor.—narcosis n. a state of unconsciousness or stupor with complete deadening of sensibility to pain, produced by the use of narcotics [Gk. narkōtikos, benumbed].

nard (nārd) n. the spikenard, a plant which yields an odorous unguent; an aromatic ointment.—nard'ine a. [Pers.].

narghile (nār-ge'le) n. a hookah or tobacco-pipe in which the smoke is drawn through perfumed water [Pers. nargileh].

mark (mark) n. (Slang) a police decoy or spy; an informer [Romany, nak, nose].

narrate (nā-rīt', nar'it) v.t. to relate; to tell (story) in detail; to give an account of; to describe.—narra'tion n. act of relating; an account.—narr'ative n. a tale; a detailed account of events;—a. pert. to, containing, narration.—narr'atively adv.—narra'tor n. one who narrates; on radio, one who supplies the connecting links between the various episodes of a dramatic broadcast [L. narrare].

narrow (nar'ō) a. of little breadth; not wide or broad; limited; niggardly; bigoted; illiberal; accurate;—v.t. to make narrow;—v.i. to become narrow;—n.pl. straits.—narrow gauge, of railway lines less than 4 ft. 8½ in. apart.—narr'owly adv.—narr'ow-min'ded a. bigoted; illiberal; prejudiced [O.E. nearu].

narwhal (nār'whal) n. a cetaceous mammal, closely related to the white whale, with one large protruding tusk. Also nar'wal [Dan. narhval].

nasal (nā'zəl) a. pert. to the nose; modified by the n so, as the sound of ni;—n. a nasal sound or utter, such as m or n.—na'salise v.t. to render (a sound) nasally.—nasal'ity n. the quality of being nasal.—na'sally adv. through the nose.—nasal organ, the nose [L. nasus, the nose].

nascent (nas'ent) a. at the moment of being born; just beginning to exist [L. nasci, to be born].

nasturtium (nas-tur'shi-um) n. (Bot.) a genus of plants of the Cruciferae family including water-cress, a common trailing garden plant of the genus Tropaeolum [L. = twisting the nose].

nasty (nās'ti) a. very dirty; filthy; foul; impure, disgusting; offensive, repulsive; unpropitious (of the weather, etc.); ill-natured; indecent.—nas'tily adv.—nas'tiness n. [etym. uncertain].

natal (nā'təl) a. pert. to one's place of birth or date of birth; native.—natāl'ial a. pert. to a birthday.—natāl'ity n. birth-rate.—natāl day, birthday [L. natus, born].

natant (nāt'ant) a. (Bot.) floating on the surface.—natation n. swimming.—natato'ries n.pl. aquatic birds with webbed feet adapted for swimming.—natato'rial a. natatory.—natato'rium n. a swimming-pool, or school.—na'tatory a. used or adapted for swimming [L. natare, to swim].

nevertheless (nā-the-les) adv. nevertheless [= not by that less].

nation (nā'shun) n. a people inhabiting a country under the same government; an aggregation of persons of the same origin and language; a race of people.—pl. the Gentiles [L. natio, a tribe].

national (nash'un-əl) a. belonging to or pertaining to a nation; public; general;—n. member of a nation.—nationalisa'tion n.—nationalise v.t. to make national, to acquire and manage by the State; to make a nation of.—nationalism n.—nat'ionalist n. one who advocates a policy of national independence.—national'ity n. the quality of being a nation or belonging to a nation; one's nation; patriotism.—nat'ionally adv.—national anthem, a hymn or song expressive of patriotism, praise, or thanksgiving, commonly sung by people of a nation at public gatherings.—national debt, the debt due from a nation to individual creditors.—national health insurance, compulsory insurance against illness.—national registration, a system adopted during the First and Second World Wars under which all inhabitants of Britain had to register for various purposes.—National Socialist Party, the German [Fascist Party (Nazis) under Adolf Hitler (1922-1945).—National Trust, a society founded in 1895 for preserving places of historic interest, or natural beauty [fr. nation].

native (nā'tiv) a. pert. to one's birth; belonging by birth; innate; indigenous; natural; of metals, occurring in a natural state;—n. a person born in a place;—pl. oysters reared in an artificial bed.—nat'ively adv.—nativ'ity n. the time or circumstances of birth; in astrology, the position of the stars at a person's birth.—The Nativity, the birth of Christ [L. nativitas, inborn].

natron (nā'trūn) n. a naturally-occurring mineral form of sodium-carbonate [Gk. natron].

natter (nāt'ter) v.t. and v.i. (Prov.) to nag; to find fault [O.N. knatta, to grumble].

natterjack (nāt'ter jak) n. a British species of toad which walks and runs instead of leaping [O.E. attor, poison].

natty (nat'ti) a. neat; trim; tidy; spruce; delf.—nat'tily adv. [etym. unknown].

natural (nat'ū-ral) a. in accordance with, belonging to, or derived from, nature, inborn; unconstrained; normal; in a state of nature, unaffected; unassuming; true to life, illegitimate (Mus.) not modified by a flat or sharp;—n. an idiot; (Mus.) a character (2) to remove the effect of an accidental sharp or flat which has preceded it.—naturalisation n.—nat'uralise v.t. to give to an alien the rights of a native subject, to adopt a foreign word etc., as native; to acclimatise, as to climate.—

naturalism, n. natural condition or quality; the system of those who deny supernatural agency, divine revelation, miracles, prophecies, etc.; theory of acting which holds that sincere acting must be a reproduction of emotion actually experienced.—nat'uralist n. one versed or interested in natural history.—naturalistic a. in accordance with nature.—naturalistically adv.—nat'urally adv.—naturalness n.—natural gas, an inflammable product, usually methane, occurring in association with mineral oil deposits.—natural history, the science which deals with the earth's crust and its productions, but applied more especially to biology or zoology.—natural philosophy, the science of nature and of the physical properties of bodies; physics.—natural religion, religion which is derived from nature and reason without recourse to supernatural revelation.—natural science, the science of nature as distinguished from mental and moral science and mathematics.—natural selection, the survival of individuals, in the wild state, which possess advantageous variations (nature).

nature (nā'tūr) n. the world, the universe, known and unknown; the power underlying all phenomena in the material world; the innate or essential qualities of a thing; the environment of man; the sum total of inheritance; natural disposition; innate character; of a material, the average excellence of its qualities when unaffected by deteriorating influences; sort; kind; vital functions of organs of the body; state of nakedness.—nat'ured a. In compounds, good.—bad-na'tured a. showing one's innate disposition.—nature knowledge, nature study, a school subject to increase the powers of observation by examining natural objects [L. natura].

naught (nawt) n. nothing; no-whit; figure 0; zero;—adv. in no degree;—a. worthless.—naught'y a. wayward; not behaving well; mischievous; bad.—naught'ily adv.—naught'iness n. [O.E. nawht, no whit].

nausea (naw'el-a, naw's(h)u-a) n. any sickness of the stomach, accompanied with a propensity to vomit; a feeling of sickness or disgust; sea-sickness.—nau'seate v.t. to feel nausea; to become squeamish;—v.t. to loathe; to fill with loathing or disgust.—nau'seous a. loathsome; disgusting; producing nausea.—

nau'seously adv.—nau'seously n. [Gk. = sea-sickness, fr. navis, a ship].

nautch (nawch) n. a dance of India, performed by nautch girls [Hind. nach, a dance].

nautil (naw'ti-kal) a. pert. to ships, seamen, or to navigation.—nau'tically adv.—nautical m., 6,046 to 6,108 ft. (Admiralty measured mile is 6,080 ft.) [Gk. nautilos, a sailor].

nautilus (naw'ti-lus) n. a genus of cephalopod molluscs with many-chambered spiral shells.—pl. nautilus or nautilus.—nautilus a. [Gk. nautilus, a sailor].

naval (nāv'al) a. pert. to ships, esp. warships, belonging to or serving with the navy; nautical; marine; maritime [L. navis, a ship].

nave (nāv) n. the central piece or hub from which the spokes of a wheel radiate, the boss of a wheel [O.E. nafu].

nave (nāv) n. the middle or body, of a church, extending from the choir or chancel to the main entrance, so called because of its resemblance in shape to an inverted ship [L. navis, a ship].

navel (nāv'el) n. the umbilicus, place of attachment of the umbilical cord to the body of the embryo, marked by a rounded depression in the centre of the lower part of the abdomen [O.E. nafela].

navicert (nāv'i-sert) n. during the Second World War, a certificate granted by a British Consul abroad to the effect that no contraband was included in a ship's cargo [coined from navigation certificate].

navicular (navi-kū-lar) a. shaped like a boat or canoe, relating to small ships or boats [L. navicularis, fr. navis, a ship].

navigate (navi-gāt) v.t. to steer or manage a ship when sailing, to sail upon or through;—v.t. to sail.—nav'igable a. may be sailed over or upon, sea-worthy; steerable (of balloons).

—nav'igability, nav'igableness n.—nav'igably adv.—navigation n. the science of directing course of seagoing vessel and of ascertaining its position at any given time, the control and direction of aircraft in flight; shipping, voyage, artificial water-way or canal.

—nav'igator n. [L. navigari, to sail].

navvy (nav'i) n. a labourer on the construction of roads, railways, canals, etc.—steam-nav'vy n. a mechanical excavator [fr. navigator].

navy (nav'i) n. a fleet, the warships of a country with their crews and organisation.—nav'y-blue n. and a. dark-blue, the colour of the naval uniform worn by British navymen [L. navis, a ship].

nawab See nabob.

nay (nā) adv. no; not only this, but, —n. denial refusal [O.N. nei, never].

naye paise (nāy pāsā) n. a unit of Indian currency, adopted in 1957 on the introduction of decimal coinage.

Nazarene (naz-a-rēn) n. a native of Nazareth, term used by Jews and Mohammedans for a Christian, name given to Jesus Christ;—pl. as early Christian sect.

Nazarite (naz-a-rit) n. a person among the ancient Jews who vowed to abstain from wine and from cutting the hair [Heb. nazar, to abstain].

—doublet of 'ness' [O.E. naes].

naze (nāz) n. a promontory; a headland; a Nazi (nāt'zī) n. and a. a member of the National Socialist Party of Germany (1922-1945).—Naz'ism, Naz'ism n. [Ger. nazional, national].

Neanderthal (né-an'der-tāl) a. denoting a man of the earliest long-headed race in Europe which became extinct at least 50,000 years ago.—nean'derthaloid a. resembling the prehistoric skull found in 1857 in a cave in the Neanderthal, a valley between Düsseldorf and Elberfeld.

neap (nēp) a. low;—n. neap-tide.—neaped a. of a ship aground until the first spring tide.

—neap-tide n. the tide whose rise and fall is least marked, occurring 7½ days after the time of new moon and full moon [O.E. nep].

Neapolitan (né-a-pol-i-tan) a. and n. pert. to Naples or its inhabitants [Gk. Neapolis, fr. neos, new; polis, a city].

near (nēr) adv. at or to a short distance; —prep. close to; —a. close; closely related; stingy; —v.i. and v.t. to approach. —nearby a. in close proximity; adjacent. —Near East, part of Asia nearest Europe, from Asia Minor to Persia. —near-hand a. close at hand; —adv. nearly. —nearly adv. closely; intimately; almost. —nearness *n. —near-side n. of horses, vehicles, etc., the left side; the side nearest the pavement. —near-sight'ed a. myopic; short-sighted. —near-sight'edness n. [O.E. near, nigher].*

neat (nēt) n. the ox or cow, as distinguished from other domestic animals; cattle. —neat' herd n. [O.E. neat, cattle].

neat (nēt) a. clean; unsolled; pure; spruce; trim; well-fitting; undiluted; clever; in good taste; handy; dexterous; precise; exact; net. —neatly adv. —neat'ness n. [Fr. net, clean, pure].

neb (neb) n. the bill or beak of a bird; the nose [O.E. nebb, the face].

nebula (neb'ū-lā) n. a little cloud; a slight greyish speck on the cornea of the eye; a celestial phenomenon consisting of vastly diffused gas or of tenuous material throughout which fine dust in an incandescent state is distributed. —pl. neb'ulae. —neb'ular a. —neb'ulous n. cloudiness; vagueness. —neb'ulous a. cloudy, hazy, indistinct; vague; formless; pert. to nebula. —neb'ulosity n. [L. = mist].

necessary (nee'e-sar-i) a. needful; requisite; indispensable; that must be done; —n. a needful thing; essential need. —nee'essarily adv. —nee'essaryness n. —nee'essarian a. a determinist [L. necessarius].

necessity (ne-see'i-ti) n. pressing need; indispensability; compulsion; needfulness; urgency; poverty; a requisite; an essential. —nee'essitarian n. one who holds that the will is not free but determined by inherited tendency and environment. —nee'essitarianism n. —nee'essitate v.t. to make necessary or indispensable; to force; to oblige. —nee'essitous a. poor; needy; destitute [L. necessitas].

neck (nek) n. the part of the body joining the head to the trunk; the narrower part of a bottle, etc.; a narrow piece of anything between wider parts; —v.t. (Slang) to hug; to cuddle. —neck'chief n. a band of cloth or kerchief worn round the neck and folded, tuform, in front. —neck'lace n. a string of beads or precious stones worn round neck. —neck'let n. neck ornament; small collar, usually of fur. —neck'tie n. a tie for the neck. —neck and crop, completely [O.E. hnecca, nape of neck].

neco- (nek-ro) prefix, fr. Gk. nekros, a dead body, used in the construction of compound terms, signifying death in some form. —necolo'gy n. a register of deaths; a collection of obituary notices. —nee'romancy n. the art of predicting future events by conjuring up the spirits of the dead; black magic; enchantment. —nee'romancer n. a sorcerer; a wizard. —nee'romantic a. pert. to magic. —nee'rop'olis n. a cemetery. —nee'ropsy, neecro'scopy n. a post-mortem; autopsy. —neecro'sis n. gangrene, mortification; canker. —neecro'tic a.

nectar (nek'tar) n. the fabled drink of the gods, with the power of conferring immortality; any delicious beverage; honey-like secretion of the nectary gland of flowers. —necta'real, necta'rean, necta'reous, nee'tarous a. sweet as nectar; resembling nectar; delicious. —nee'tared a. flavoured with nectar; very sweet. —nee'tarine a. sweet as nectar; —n. a smooth-skinned variety of peach. —nee'tary n. the honey-gland at the base of petals and usually between the stamens to further cross-fertilisation by insects [Gk. nektar].

need (nēd) n. a constitutional or acquired craving or want, appeased by recurrent satisfactions; want; necessity; requirement; poverty; destitution; extremity; urgency; —

v.i. to be in want of; to require; —v.t. to be under a necessity. —need'ful a. needy; necessary; requisite. —the needful, amount of ready-cash required for some specific object. —need'fully adv. —need'fulness n. —need'ly adv. —need'iness n. temporary lack of money. —need'less a. unnecessary; not needed. —need'lessly adv. —need'lessness n. —need'y a. in need; indigent [O.E. need].

needle (neē'dl) n. a short pointed instrument with an eye, for passing thread through cloth, etc.; a knitting-pin; anything like a needle, as the magnet of a compass, a hypodermic syringe, an etcher's burin, an obelisk, a sharp-pointed rock, leaf of the pine, etc.; the reproducing needle of a gramophone; —a. to denote a keenly contested and evenly-matched game, boxing-match, etc. —need'le-case n. a case for holding needles and sewing accessories. —needle machine, an embroidery machine. —need'lepoint n. a hand-made lace, made with a needle and a single thread. —need'lewoman n. a sempstress. —need'lework n. sewing; embroidery. —need'ly a. thorny [O.E. naedl].

ne'er (nār) adv. poetical form of never. —ne'er do-well a. and n. good-for-nothing; worthless; scapegrace.

nefarious (ne-fā'ri-us) a. wicked in the extreme; iniquitous; monstrous. —nefa'riously adv. —nefa'riousness n. [L. nefarius].

negate (ne-gat') v.t. to deny; to prove the contrary. —nega'tion n. the act of denying; negative statement; disavowal; contradiction [L. negare, to deny].

negative (neg-a-tiv) a. expressing denial, prohibition, or refusal; lacking positive qualities; not positive; stopping or withholding; (Elect.) at a lower electric potential; (Algebra) minus; —n. a proposition in which something is denied; a negative word; a photographic plate in which lights and shades are reversed. —v.t. to refuse to sanction; to reject. —neg'atively adv. —neg'ativeness n. —negative electricity, developed in resinous bodies, such as amber, by rubbing with flannel. —negative pole, a pole which is at a lower potential relatively to the other, the positive pole; that by which electricity enters a cell or generator, but leaves a battery (denoted by the minus sign); of a magnet, that which points to the south. —negative quantity (Math.) quantity preceded by the minus sign [L. negare, to deny].

negatron (neg-a-tron) n. the negative electron; (Radio) a type of thermionic valve for obtaining negative resistance (negative). (electron).

neglect (ne-ekt'et') v.t. to disregard; to take no care of; to fail to do; to omit through carelessness; to slight; —n. omission; disregard; careless treatment; slight. —neglect'edness n. —neglect'er n. —neglect'ful a. careless; inclined to be heedless. —neglect'fully adv. [L. negligere, to neglect].

négligé (nā-gli-zhā) n. an easy-fitting unceremonious attire; —a. carelessly or untidily dressed. —neg'ligee n. a loose gown; morning wear; a long coral necklace [Fr.].

negligence (neg-li-jens) n. want of due care; carelessness; habitual neglect. —neg'ligent a. to neglect; careless; inattentive; untidy. —neg'ligently adv. —neg'ligible a. hardly worth noticing; may be neglected [L. negligere, to neglect].

negotiate (ne-gō-shi-at) v.t. to settle by bargaining; to arrange; to transfer (a bill, etc.); to surmount; —v.i. to discuss with a view to finding terms of agreement; to bargain. —nego'tiable a. capable of being negotiated; transferable; able to be surmounted. —negotiab'ility n. —negotia'tion n. —nego'tiant, nego'tiator n. (Jern. nego'tiator) one who negotiates. —negotia'tory a. [L. negotiari, fr. negotium, business].

Negrito (ne-grī-tō) n. a dwarfish Negro-like race of the Philippines; any Negro tribe of small stature. Also Negrillo [Sp.].

Negro (né-grō) n. member of one main ethnological groups of human race, with dark skin, fuzzy hair, broad nose and protruding lips; — a. pert. to Negroes. — Ne'gess n. Negro woman. — ne'grohead n. tobacco soaked in molasses, made in the form of a twist and put up in rolls. — Ne'groid a. resembling the Negroes; of a Negro type. [Sp. fr. L. niger, black].

Negus (nég'us) n. the sovereign or ruler of Abyssinia (= king).

negus (nég'us) n. a drink compounded of (port)wine, hot-water, spice and sugar [after inventor, Col. Negus, 18th cent.].

neigh (nā) v.i. to whinny, like horse; — n. cry of horse [O.E. hnægan].

neighbour (nā'bour) n. a person who lives, works, near another; — a. neighbouring; — r.f. to adjoin; to be near — neigh'bourhood n. state of being near to each other; adjoining district and its people; proximity; vicinity. — neigh'bouring a. close by. — neigh'bourly a. becoming a neighbour; friendly; sociable; genial; helpful. — neigh'bourliness n. [O.E. neahber].

neither (nē'ther, nē'ther) a. and pron. not the one or the other; — adv. not on the one hand; not either; — conj. nor yet [O.E. nah-weather, not whether].

nematode, nematoid (nem'a-tōd, -toid) a. thread-like. — Nematodea n.pl. round-worms, thread-worms [Gk. nēma, thread; eidōs, form].

nemesia (nem-ē'si-a) n. a hardy garden plant, belonging to the order Scrophulariaceae [L. nemus, a grove].

Nemesis (nem-ē'sis) (Myth.) the Greek goddess of vengeance; inevitable retributive justice [Gk. nemesis, to distribute, deal out].

nenuphar (nen'ū-far) n. the great white water-lily [Pers.].

neo- (nē'ō) prefix used in the construction of compound terms, signifying new, recent [Gk. neos].

neodymium (nē'ō-dīm-i-um) n. a metallic element belonging to the group of rare earth metals [Gk. neos, new; and didymium (a once supposed element)].

neolite (nē'ō-lit) n. a dark-green mineral, silicate of aluminium and magnesium, found in basalt [Gk. neos, new; lithos, a stone].

neolithic (nē'ō-lith-ik) a. (Geol.) pert. to the New Stone Age.

neology (nē'ō-lō-jī) n. the introduction of new words into a language; new doctrines, esp. rationalistic, in theology. — neolo'gian, neol'ogist n. one who coins new words or holds novel doctrines in religion. — neolog'ic, neolog'ical a. — neol'ogise r.f. to coin new words. — neol'ogism n. a newly-coined word or phrase [Gk. neos, new; logos, word].

neon (nē'on) n. a non-metallic chemical element belonging to the group of the rare gases, occurring in minute traces in the air. — neon-lamp, -sign, or -tube, one containing neon gas and glowing with a characteristic reddish-orange light [Gk. neos, new].

neophobia (nē'ō-fō-bi-a) n. a dread of the unknown [Gk. neos, new; phobos, fear].

neophyte (nē'ō-fīt) n. one newly admitted to a religious order or initiated into the practice of secret rites; a novice or tyro; a proselyte or convert to the It.C. Church [Gk. neos, new; phutos, grown].

neoytterbium (nē'ō-tēr-bi-um) n. a rare-earth metal [Gk. neos, new; and ytterbium].

neozoic (nē'ō-zō-ik) a. (Geol.) denoting rock-formations of recent period, succeeding the mesozoic [Gk. neos, new; zōē, life].

nepenthe, nepenthes (nē-pen-thē, -thēs) n. in Greek mythology, a drug mentioned in the Odyssey with power of banishing grief; any narcotic drug to relieve pain; genus of Asiatic plants, including pitcher plant [Gk. nē-, not; penthos, grief].

nephew (nev'ū, nef'ū) n. a brother's or sister's son; originally, a grandson, e.g. in Judges 12 [Fr. neveu, fr. L. nepos, a nephew or grand-child].

nephoscope (nēf'ō-skōp) n. a meteorological instrument used to determine the wind velocity and direction immediately overhead by observing cloud movements [Gk. nephos, cloud; skopein, to view].

nephro-, nephro- (nēf'rō) prefix used in the construction of compound terms, from Greek nephros, a kidney. — nephral'gia, nephral'gy n. pain in the kidney. — neph'ria a. pert. to the kidneys. — nephrit'ic(al) a. pert. to (diseases of) the kidneys. — nephrit'is n. Bright's disease, non-infective inflammation of the kidney.

nepotism (nep'ō-tizm) n. undue favoritism in awarding public appointments to one's relations [L. nepos, a nephew].

Neptune (nēp'tūn) n. (Myth.) the Roman god of the sea; second most remote planet of solar system [L.].

neptunium (nep-tūn-i-um) n. a radio-active element found when uranium is bombarded with neutrons and used in the atom bomb [fr. Neptune].

neriid (nē-rīd) n. in Greek mythology, a nymph of the sea, one of the daughters of Nereus; (Zool.) a sea-centipede; a sea-worm.

nerve (nerv) n. one of the bundles of fibres which convey impulses either from brain (motor nerves) to muscles, etc., producing motion, or to brain (sensory nerves) from skin, eyes, nose, etc., producing sensation; mid-rib or vein of a leaf; sinew; tendon; fortitude; courage; cool assurance; impudence. — pl. irritability; unusual sensitiveness to fear, annoyance, etc. — r.f. to give courage or strength to. — nerved a. nerveless a. lacking in strength or will; incapable of effort. — nervelessness n. — ner'vine a. acting on the nerves; — n. a nerve-tonic. — ner'vy a. nervous; timid; skidgy [L. neurus, sinew].

nervous (nerv'us) a. of the nerves; vigorous; easily stimulated; timid. — nerv'ously adv. — nerv'ousness n. — nervous debility, a lowering of activity and force of nervous system [L. neurus, a sinew].

nescience (nēsh'ens, nesh'ens) n. the condition of complete ignorance; want of knowledge; agnosticism; the theory that certain forms of reality, as the soul, are beyond our knowledge. — nesc'ient a. ignorant; agnostic [L. nescire, not to know].

ness (nēs) n. a promontory; a headland; a cape [O.E. naess].

nest (nēst) n. the place in which a bird lays and hatches its eggs; an egg-laying animal's breeding-place; any snug retreat; a set of boxes, tables, etc., which fit into one another; — r.f. to form a nest for; — r.f. to occupy or build a nest. — nest'ling n. a bird too young to leave the nest. — nest-egg n. an egg left in a nest to induce a bird to lay; a small sum of money put aside for some later, useful purpose [O.E.]. nestle (nēs'l) r.f. to settle comfortably and close to one another; to be snugly, as in a nest, (of a house) to be situated in a sheltered spot [O.E. nesthan].

net (net) n. an open-work fabric of meshes of cord, etc.; sections of this used to catch fish, protect fruit, etc.; lace formed by netting; a snare. — a. made of netting; reticulate; caught in a net; — r.f. to cover with, or catch in, a net; to veil; — r.f. to make net or network. — pr.p. net'ting. — pa.t. and pa.p. net'ted. — net'ted a. — net'ting n. the act or process of forming network; net-like fabric; snaring by means of a net. — net-ball n. a game, the object of which is to propel a football with the hand into a netted ring. — net-fish n. any fish caught in a net. — net-work n. anything made like, or resembling, a net; (Broadcasting) a centralised service organisation producing programmes carried by long-distance telephone wires to affiliated stations for broadcasting [O.E. netf.].

net, net (net) a. left after all deductions; free from deduction; — v.f. to gain or produce as clear profit; — pr.p. net'ting. — pa.p. net'ted.

net price, cash price without discount [Fr. = clean].

nether (neTH'er) a. lower; low-lying; lying below; belonging to the lower regions. — nethermost a. lowest. — netherward(s) adv. in a downward direction [O.E. neothera].

Netherlands (neTH'er-landz) n.pl. the Kingdom of the Netherlands, Holland. — Netherlander n. a Dutchman; an inhabitant of Holland [E. = lower lands].

nettle (netl) n. a common weed covered with fine stinging hairs which contain an acrid and caustic fluid; — v.t. to irritate; to provoke; to make angry; to rouse to action. — nettle-rash n. an irritating eruption in the skin causing a sensation like the stinging of nettles. — nettlewort n. any kind of nettle [O.E. netele].

neur-, neuro- (nūr-, nūrō-) prefx. used in the formation of compound terms, from Greek, neuron, a nerve.

neural (nūr'al) a. pert. to the nerves or nervous system [Gk. neuron, a nerve].

neuralgia (nūr-ral-jī-a) n. a spasmodic or continuous pain occurring along the course of one or more distinct nerves. — neuralgic a. [Gk. neuron, a nerve; algos, pain].

neurasthenia (nūr-ras-thē-nī-a) n. a condition of nervous debility characterised by lack of energy, restlessness, headache and insomnia. — neurasthenic a. [Gk. neuron, a nerve; asthenia, weakness].

neuration (nūr-rā-shun) n. See nervation.

neuraxis (nūr-ak'sis) n. the cerebro-spinal axis, or central nervous system, including the brain and spinal cord.

neuritis (nūr-rīt'is) n. an inflammatory condition of a nerve [Gk. neuron, a nerve].

neurology (nūr-rō-lō-jī) n. the study of the structure, function and diseases of the nervous system. — neurolog'ical a. — neurologist n. [Gk. neuron, a nerve; logos, discourse].

neuron (nūr'on) n. a nerve cell and all its processes [Gk. = nerve].

neuropath (nūrō-path) n. a person suffering from a nervous disorder; a neuropathist. — neuropath'ic, neuropath'ical a. pert. to nervous diseases. — neuropath'ically adv. — neuropathist n. a nerve specialist. — neuropathology n. the pathology of the nervous system. — neurop'athy n. an abnormal or diseased condition of the nervous system [Gk. neuron, nerve; pathos, suffering].

Neuroptera (nūr-ōp'ter-a) n. an order of nerve-winged insects (including dragonflies, May-flies) with four similar reticulated wings. — neuropt'eral, neuropt'erous a. [Gk. neuron, nerve; pteron, a wing].

neurosis (nūr-rō'sis) n. a class of functional disorders of the nervous system, not attributable to organic disease. — neurot'ic a. pert. to the nerves; — n. a highly-strung person of morbid mentality [Gk. neuron, a nerve].

neuter (nūt'er) a. neither masculine nor feminine; (Bot.) possessing neither stamens nor carpels; — n. the neuter gender; an imperfectly developed female, as the worker-bee; one who is neutral [L. = neither].

neutral (nūt'al) a. taking neither side in a war, dispute, etc.; indifferent; without bias; grey; intermediate (shade of colour); neither acid nor alkaline; asexual; — n. nation, person, not taking sides in a dispute; the position in a gear-mechanism when no power is transmitted. — neutralise v.t. to render neutral; to make ineffective; to counter-balance. — neutraliser n. — neutral'ity n. non-intervention by a state or third-party in a dispute; the state of being neutral. — neutral'ly adv. [L. neuter, neither].

neutrodyne (nūt'rō-dīn) a. (Radio) a form of valve-control to prevent interference and to gain clearness of sound [L. neuter, neither; Gk. dynamis, power].

neutron (nūt'tron) n. one of the minute particles composing the nucleus of an atom, and having approx. the same mass as a proton (q.v.) but being electrically neutral [L. neuter, neither]. — never (nev'er) adv. at no time; not ever; in no degree; (Colloq.) surely not. — nevermore adv. at no future time. — nevertheless conj. none the less; for all that; in spite of that; notwithstanding [O.E. naefre].

new (nū) a. not existing before; lately discovered or invented; not ancient; — adv. (usually new-), recently; fresh. — newly adv. — new'ish a. somewhat new. — new'ness n. — new-born a. recently born; born anew. — new-com'er n. one who has just settled down in a strange place or taken up a new post. — new'fangled a. lately devised; novel (in a depreciatory sense). — new'fash'ioned a. just come into fashion; the latest in style. — new'style n. a chronological term to denote dates reckoned by the Gregorian calendar. — New Deal, a campaign initiated in 1933 by President Franklin Roosevelt in U.S.A. involving a complete overhaul of American economic life, the development of the national resources, and the safeguarding of living conditions for labour. — New Englander, a native or resident of any of the six N.E. states of the U.S.A. — New Learning, the Renaissance. — new moon, the period when the first faint crescent of the moon becomes visible. — New Red Sandstone (Geol.) lower division of Triassic series of rocks. — New Testament, later of the two main divisions of Bible. — New World, N. and S. America [O.E. nīwe].

newel (nū'el) n. the post supporting the balustrade to a flight of stairs; the central, upright post to which the inner ends of the steps of a circular or spiral staircase are attached [L. nodus, a knot].

Newfoundland (nū'fund-land) a. a large, handsome dog with thick curly hair.

news (nūz) n.sing. report of recent happenings; fresh information; tidings; intelligence. — news'agent n. a shop-keeper who sells and distributes newspapers. — news'bulletin n. the latest news, esp. as disseminated by wireless-broadcasters. — news letter, a small printed sheet issued at irregular intervals during the 17th cent. giving the news and gossip of the coffee-houses; a modern revival claiming to give exclusive news. — news'monger n. busy-body; gossip. — news'paper n. a journal, daily or weekly, giving latest news. — news'print n. cheap paper for newspapers. — news-reef n. a cinematograph film depicting items of news and topical features. — news'ven'der, news'ven'der n. one who sells newspapers, esp. on the streets. — new'sy a. gossipy; full of news.

newt (nūt) n. a long-tailed amphibian animal; the water-lizard, an oft [a newt for an eel, fr. O.E. nefta, an oft].

Newtonian (nū-tō-ni-an) a. pert. to Sir Isaac Newton (d. 1727).

next (nekst) a. nearest; immediately following in place or time; — adv. nearest or immediately after; on the first future occasion; — prep. nearest to. — next'ly adv. in the next place. — next-of-kin, n. nearest blood-relative [O.E. neahst, superl. of neah, nigh].

nexus (nek'sus) n. a link, connection, or bond [L. nectere, to bind].

nib (nīb) n. something small and pointed; beak of a bird; point of a pen; — pl. crushed cocoa-beans. — nibbed a. having a nib [form of nib]. — nibble (nīb'l) v.t. to bite a little at a time; to gnaw; — v.i. to catch at (as a fish); to dally with; to find fault; — n. a tiny bite [frequent. of nip].

niblick (nīb'llik) n. a golf-club with an iron-head, well laid back, designed for lofting [etym. doubtful].

nice (nis) a. hard to please; exact; difficult to decide; discriminating; delicate; dainty; (Colloq.) agreeable; attractive; handsome; kind. — nice'ly adv. — nice'ness n. — nice'ty n. precision; minute distinction or detail; delicacy; exactness [O.Fr. nice, foolish].

Nicene (nī'sēn) a. pert. to town of Nicene Asia Minor, at which was drawn up Nicene Creed, a statement of Christian belief as opposed to Arianism (A.D. 325).

niche (nich) n. a recess in a wall for a statue, bust, etc.; one's ordained position in life or public estimation; —v.t. to place in a niche; —niched a. [Fr. fr. It. nicchia].

Nichrome (nik'krōm) n. a nickel-chromium alloy with a high ohmic resistance value, used in the manufacture of resistance wire, etc. [Protected Trade Name].

Nick (nik) n. the devil; as in the phrase Old Nick [perhaps fr. Nicholas].

nick (nik) v.t. to make a notch in; to indent; to catch in time; —n. a notch, a slit, a score; the opportune moment as in the nick of time [etym. uncertain].

nickel (nik'el) n. a silver white metallic element, malleable and ductile, and much used in alloys and plating; in U.S.A. a five cent piece of nickel; —v.t. to plate with nickel; —pr.p. nick'elling, —pa.p. nick'elled, —nick'el-plating n. plating of metals with nickel to provide a bright surface and to keep down rust; —nick-el-silver n. an alloy of copper, nickel and zinc; German silver [Sw. abbrev. fr. Ger. Kupfernickel, copper nickel (ore)].

nickler (nik'ler) v.t. to nudge; to snigger; —n. a nudge; a giggle [corrupt, of sugger].

nicknack See knick-knack.

nickname (nik'nam) n. a name given in contempt, derision, or familiarity to some person, nation, or object [orig. an eke name, an added name, fr. eke, to increase].

nicotine (nikō'tēn) n. an alkaloid present in the tobacco plant; colourless and highly poisonous when pure, it is used in the manufacture of insecticides for fruit trees (Jean Nicot (1530-1600), who introduced the plant into Europe).

nictate (nik'tāt) v.t. to wink. Also nic'titate, —nictat'ion n. rapid and involuntary blinking of eyelids [L. nictare, to wink].

nidification (nid-i-fikā'shun) n. the act of building a nest; —nid'ify v.t. to build a nest; —nid'us n. a nest; (Nid) a. a nucleus of infection [L. nidus, a nest; nicere, to make].

nidor (ni'dor) n. the pungent odour of cooked food; —nid'orous a. [L. nidor, smell].

nidus See nidification.

niece (nēs) n. the daughter of a brother or sister [Fr. nièce, fr. L. neptis].

nifty (nifti) n. (Collage) neat; tidy; smart.

niggard (ni'gard) n. a very miserly person; —a. stingy. Also nigg'ardly — nigg'ardliness n. meanness [etym. uncertain].

nigger (ni'ger) n. a Negro — in derision or contempt; a person of black colour; —nigg'er-brown a. dark-brown [Fr. negre].

niggle (ni'gl) v.t. to trifle away one's time; to be too particular about details; to complain about trivial matters; —nigg'ler n. —nigg'ling, nigg'ly a. and n. [etym. uncertain].

nigh (ni) a. near; closely applied; —adv. almost; near; —pr.p. near to [O.E. neah].

night (nit) n. the time of darkness from sunset to sunrise; end of daylight, intellectual or spiritual darkness; ignorance, death; —night'ly a. happening or done every night; of the night; —adv. every night, by night; —night'bird n. a nocturnal bird such as the owl; a bad character who prowls about by night; one who habitually keeps late hours; —night'cap n. a cap worn in bed; a glass of spirits taken at bed-time; —night'churr n. the night-jar, so called from its sound; —night'club n. an establishment for dancing and entertainment remaining open until early morning; —night'dress, night'gown n. a loose gown worn in bed; —night'fall n. the close of day; —night'fire n. the will of the wisp; —night'hawk n. the British night-jar; —night'jar n. the goat-sucker, a nocturnal migrant bird found in S. England; —night'light n. a small stubby candle or electric bulb of low wattage kept burning all night; —night'long a. persisting all night.

night'mare n. a terrifying feeling of oppression or suffocation arising during sleep; an incubus.

—night'school n. a school for the continuation of studies after working hours. —night'shade n. plants of potato family, some with very poisonous berries. —night'shirt n. employees who work regularly during night; duration of this work. —night'shirt n. a loose shirt used for sleeping in. —night'time n. period of night; first hours of darkness. —night'ward a. towards night-time. —night-watch n. a guard or watch at night; duty of night-watching. —night-watch'man n. [O.E. nah].*******

nightingale (ni'ting-gāl) n. a bird of the thrush family, the male being renowned for its beautiful song at night [O.E. nah, night; galar, to sing].

nihil, nil (ni'hil, nil) n. nothing; zero; —nihilism n. the rejection of all religious and moral principles as the only means of obtaining social progress, the denial of all reality in phenomena; in 19th cent. the opposition in Russia to all constituted authority or government —nihilist n. —nihilist's a. [L.].

nimble (nim'bl) a. light and quick in motion. —nim'ble'f'ered a. dexterous, given to pilfering. —nim'bleness n. —nim'ble-witted a. quick-witted —nim'blly adv. [O.E. numan, to take].

nimbus (nim'bus) n. a rain-cloud; in representation of saints, angels, etc., the circle of light surrounding the head; a halo; an aureole. —pl. nimb'i [L. = cloud].

niminy-piminy (nim'i-nim'i-ni) a. prim; precise; priggish, affectedly nice in manners and speech [hum.].

nincompoop (ni'm-kom-pōop) n. a feeble character, a foolish-minded person; a simpleton; a ninny [orig. uncertain].

nine (ni) a. and n. one more than eight. —nine-fold a. nine times repeated. —nine'teen a. and n. nine and ten. —nine'teenth a. and n. —nine'teth a. the tenth after the eightieth. —ninety a. and n. —ninth a. the first after the eighth. —ninth'ly adv. —nine-pins n. a game in which nine erect wooden pegs are to be knocked down by a ball; skittles. —the Nine, the Muses [O.E. nigon].

ninny (ni'ni) n. a fool, a dolt, a simpleton [It. innoc, a child].

ninon (ni'm-on) n. a glossy light-weight dress fabric of silk [Fr. proper name].

nip (nip) v.t. to pinch sharply; to detach by pinching; to check growth (as by frost); to smart. —pr.p. nip'ping. —pa.t. and pa.p. nipped.

—n. a pinch; sharp touch of frost; a nip, a small measure of spirits. —nip'cheese n. a skin-flint. —nip'per n. a fore-tooth of a horse; a satirist, a young boy, a thief; the great claw or chela (as of a crab); —pl. small pinners. —nip'piness n. acidity, touch of frost. —nip'pingly adv. —nip'py a. acid; numble; sharp in taste; parsimonious; curt; snatching [etym. uncertain, cf. Dut. nippen].

nipple (ni'pl) n. the protuberance in the centre of a woman's breast by which milk is obtained during breast-feeding, the outlet of the mammary glands; a teat; a small metal projection pierced so that oil or grease may be forced into a bearing surface by means of a grease-gun [etym. uncertain. Cf. nib].

Nippon (ni'pon) n. the Empire of Japan [Jap. = rising of the sun].

Nirvana (ni-vā'na) n. in Buddhism, that state of blissful repose or absolute existence reached by one in whom all craving for existence is extinguished [Sans.].

nisi (ni'si) con. unless; —decree nisi (Law) a decree to take effect after a certain period of time has elapsed unless some valid objection arises [L.].

Nissen hut (nis'en hut) n. a trade-name for a semi-circular portable hut, readily bolted together from sections of corrugated iron, for temporary use (Nissen Buildings, Ltd.).

nit (nit) n. the egg of an insect-parasite, esp. of a head-louse [O.E. hnut].

nitid (nit'id) a. shining; lustrous; gay [L. nitidus].

nitre (nit'ter) n. potassium nitrate; saltpetre, a white crystalline solid used in the manufacture of gun-powder, acids, etc.—nitrate n. a salt of nitric acid.—nitrated a. combined with nitric acid.—nitration n. the conversion of nitrites into nitrates by the action of bacteria; the introduction of a nitro-group (NO₂) into an organic substance.—nitric a. pert. to nitre.—nitric acid, a powerful, corrosive acid, prepared from nitre and sulphuric acid; aqua fortis.—nitride n. a compound of a metal with nitrogen.—nitrify v.t. to treat a metal with nitric acid.—nitrite n. a salt of nitrous acid.—nitrous oxide, laughing gas, used as an anaesthetic in dentistry [Gk. nitron].

nitro- (nit'rō) prefix used in the formation of compound terms, signifying formed by, or containing, nitre.—nitro-glyc-erine n. a powerful oily liquid explosive.

nitrogen (nit'rō-jen) n. a non-metallic gaseous chemical element, colourless, odourless and tasteless, forming nearly four-fifths of the atmosphere.—nitrogenous a.

nitwit (nit'wit) n. (Colloq.) a blockhead; a fool.—nitwit ed a. stupid; irresponsible [Dut. nits, nothing; O.E. witian, to know].

nival (ni'val) a. covered with snow; snowy [L. nix, nixus, snow].

nix (niks) n. a water-sprite or elf which lures men to their death; a kelpie.—pl. nix'ies. Also nix'ie [Ger.].

nix (niks) n. (Slang) nothing [Dut. niet].

Nizam (ni-zam') n. the ruler of Hyderabad, India, a viceroy or administrator of justice in the Mogul Empire of India; a soldier in the Turkish army [Hind.].

no (nō) a. not any;—adv. expresses a negative reply to a question or request; not at all.—n. a refusal; a denial; a negative vote.—noes n.pl. term used in parliamentary proceedings, the noes have it.—no-ball n. in cricket, a ball not properly bowled.—no man's land, waste land; the terrain between the trenches of opposing forces [O.E. na].

nob (nob) n. (Colloq.) one of high social standing [contr. of nobleman].

nob (nob) n. (Slang) the head [fr. knob].

nobble (nob'l) v.t. to grab; to steal; to larcin deliberately a horse entered for a race; to stum [frequentative of nab].

Nobel Prize (nō-bel' priz) n. one of a series of five prizes awarded annually to persons who have distinguished themselves in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature, or the promotion of peace [Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor (1833-96)].

nobelium (no-bēl'i-um) n. the elemental 102, synthesised in 1957 at the Nobel Institute of Physics, Stockholm, by the fusion of the heavy isotope of carbon (carbon 103) with an atom of curium.

nobility (nō-bil'i-ti) n. the class holding special rank, usually hereditary, in a state; the quality of being noble; grandeur; loftiness and sincerity of mind or character [L. nobilis, noble].

noble (nō-bl) a. distinguished by deeds, character, rank, or birth; of lofty character; titled;—n. a nobleman; a peer; an old English gold coin, worth 6s. 8d. nominally.—nobleman n. (fem. noblewoman).—nobleman n.—nobly adv.—noble art, boxing [L. nobilis].

nobody (nō'bod-i) n. no one; a person of no importance.—pl. nobodies.

nocent (nō-sent) a. injurious; hurtful; mischievous [L. nocere, to hurt].

nock (nok) n. notch, esp. of bow or arrow; upper end of fore-and-aft sail [nock].

nocturn (nok'turn) n. a service held during the night.—nocturn n. a night-piece, a painting of a night-scene; a musical composition of a gentle and simple character.—nocturnal a. pertaining to night; happening or active by night;—n. a primitive instrument for determining latitude at night.—nocturnally adv. [L. nocturnus, of the night].

noxious (nok's-us) a. hurtful; noxious.—noctuously adv. [L. nocere, to hurt].

nod (nod) v.t. and v.i. to incline the head forward by a quick motion, signifying assent or from drowsiness; to droop the head; to be sleepy; to sway; to bow by way of recognition.—pr.p. nod'ding.—pa.t. and pa.p. nod'ded.—n. an act of nodding.—nod'der n. [etym. uncertain].

nodal See node.

noddle (nod'l) n. a jocular expression for the head;—v.i. to nod repeatedly.

noddy (nod'di) n. a simpleton; a fool; a seabird, one of the terns, said to be particularly stupid [fr. nod].

node (nōd) n. a knot or knob; (Geom.) a point at which a curve crosses itself to form a loop; (Elect.) a point in a circuit carrying alternating currents at which the amplitude of current or voltage is a minimum; (Astron.) one of two points at which the orbit of a planet intersects the plane of the ecliptic; (Phys.) a point of permanent rest in a vibrating body; (Med.) a small protuberance or hard swelling; a constriction; (Bot.) the part of a stem to which a leaf is attached; an articulation.—nod'al, nod'al a. pert. to nodes.—nodat'ed a. knotted.—nodat'ion n. the act of making knots.—nodif'erous a. (Bot.) having nodes.—nod'ose a. full of knots.—nod'ular a. like a nodule.—nod'ulated a. having nodules.—nod'ule n. a small node or swelling [L. nodus, a knot].

Noel (nō-el) n. Christmas; 'a carol. Also Now'el [Fr. fr. L. natalis, birthday].

nog (nog) n. a wooden peg; a cog [Scand.].

nog (nog) n. a small pot or mug; a kind of strong ale.—nog'gin n. a mug; a small mug [fr. nougin].

nohow (nō'hau) adv. In no way; not at all; by no means; out of sorts.

noise (noiz) n. sudden or harsh sound; glamour, din; loud outcry; gossip or talk.—v.t. to spread by rumour.—v.i. to sound loud.

noiseless a. making no noise; silent.—noiselessly adv.—noiselessness n.—nois'y a. making much noise; clamorous; turbulent.

noisily adv.—nois'iness n. [Fr.].

noisome (nois'm) a. injurious to health; noxious; unwholesome; offensive; disgusting; evil-smelling.—nois'omely adv.—nois'omeness n. [obs. noy, for annoy].

noll (nol) n. the crown of the head [O.E. knoll].

nomad (nō-mad) a. roaming from pasture to pasture;—n. a wanderer, a member of a wandering tribe.—nomad'ic a. pert. to nomads, pastoral; having no fixed dwelling place.—nomad'ically adv.—nom'adism n. [Gk. nomas, pasturing].

nomenclator (nō-men-kla'tor) n. one who gives names to things.—no'menolatory, no'menclat'ory a.—no'menclature n. a system of naming; the vocabulary of a science, etc. [L. nomen, a name; calare, to call].

nomial (nō'mi-əl) n. (Alg.) a single term [L. nomen, a name].

nominal (nom'i-nəl) a. pert. to a name; existing only in name; ostensible, titular; formal.—nom'inallism n. the doctrine that the universal, or general, has no objective existence or validity, being merely a name expressing the qualities of various objects resembling one another in certain respects.—nom'inallist n. one who holds these views, the opposite of a realist.—nominalist'ic a.—nom'inally adv. In name only; not really [L. nominalis, fr. nomen, a name].

nominate (nom'i-nāt) v.t. to name; to put forward the name of, as a candidate; to propose; to designate.—nomina'tion n. act of naming or nominating; power or privilege of nominating.—nom'inative a. (Gram.) denoting the subject;—n. a noun or pronoun which is the subject of a verb.—nom'inator n. one who nominates.—nominee n. one named or proposed for office; a person on whose life an annuity or lease depends [L. nominare, to name].

nom(o)- prefix from Greek nomos, a law, used in the formation of compound words.—nomi'st a. pert. to laws founded on the teachings of sacred writings.—nomol'o n. the science which investigates the laws of legislation and government; the science of the conformity of human actions to rules of conduct prescribed by law [Gk. nomos, law].

non- (non) prefix from L. non = not, used in the formation of compound terms signifying absence or omission.—non-com'batant n. a member of the armed forces whose duties do not entail an active part in military operations, e.g. chaplain, surgeon, etc.; an unarmed civilian.—non-commis'sioned a. of ranks between a private and second-lieutenant, not being appointed by royal warrant. — (abbrev.) non-com. — non-commi'tal a. deliberately avoiding any direct statement as to one's opinions or course of future action.—non-commu'niant n. one who is not a member of a church or is lax in attendance at holy communion.—non-conduc'tor n. a substance which will not conduct electricity, heat, or sound; insulator, dielectric.—non-conten't n. a peer in the House of Lords who votes for the negative.—non-ferr'ous a. of an alloy or metal containing no, or only the merest trace of, iron.—non-interven'tion n. not intervening or interfering in the affairs or policies of another, esp. in international affairs.—non-stop a. not stopping at intermediate stations, etc., continuous.

nonage (non'aj) n. legal infancy; minority (under 21 years of age); a period of immaturity [L. non, not; and age].

nonagenarian (non-a-je-nā'ri-an) n. one who is ninety years old or upwards;—a. relating to ninety [L. nonaginta, ninety].

nonagon (non'a-gon) n. a nine-sided plane figure [L. nonus, ninth; Gk. gōnia, an angle].

nonce (nons) n. for the nonces, for the occasion only; for the present [earlier the(n)-ances, the once].

nonchalance (non'cha-lans) n. unconcern; coolness, indifference; carelessness.—nonchalant a.—non'chalantly adv. [Fr. non, not; chaleur, heat].

nonconformist (non-kon-for'mist) n. a dissenter; a protestant who refuses to comply with the usages and rites of the Church of England.—nonconform'ing a.—nonconform'ity n. [L. non, not].

non-descript (non-de-skript) a. not hitherto described; novel; odd; indeterminate; abnormal;—n. [L. non, not; descriptus, described].

none (nun) a. and pron. no one; not anything.—none'such, non'such n. a person or thing without a rival or equal; a variety of apple, greenish-brown in colour; a species of trefal or lucerne.—none-so-pret'ty n. a common English garden-plant, Saxifraga umbrosa, also known as London Pride or Nancy Pretty.—none the less, nevertheless; all the same [O.E. nan].

none (nōn) n. one of the canonical hours of the R.C. Breviary, the ninth hour after sunrise at the equinox, viz. 3 p.m., or the appropriate mass celebrated at this time [L. nonus, ninth].

nonentity (non-en-ti-ti) n. negation of being; a thing not existing; non-existence; a person of no importance; a mere nobody [L. non, not; ens, entia, a being].

Nones (nōnz) n.pl. In the Roman calendar, the ninth day before the Ides, falling in March, May, July and October on the 7th of the month, in other months on the 5th [L. nonus, ninth].

nonjuror (non-jōr'or) n. one who refused to swear allegiance to William and Mary, 1688; a Jacobite.—nonjur'ing a.

nonpareil (non-pa-rel') n. a person or thing without an equal; a noneuch; a pattern of book edge marbling; a printing type, between ruby and emerald, counting 6 points;—a. unrivalled; peerless; matchless [Fr. non, not; pareil, equal].

nonplus (non'plus) n. perplexity; puzzle; embarrassment; inability to say or do more; quandary;—v.t. to confound or bewilder completely; to bring to a standstill [L. non, not; plus, more].

nonsense (non'sens) n. lack of sense; language without meaning; absurdity; trifling, silly conduct.—nonsen'sical a.—nonsen'sically adv. [L. non, not].

nonsuch See none.

noodle (nōō'dl) n. a simpleton; a blockhead [conn. with noddy].

noodle (nōō'dl) n. a strip of dough, made of flour and eggs, baked and served in soups [etym. uncertain].

nook (nook) n. a corner; a recess; a secluded retreat [etym. uncertain].

noon (noon) n. midday; twelve o'clock by day; the exact instant when, at any given place, the sun crosses the meridian.—noon'day, noon'tide n. and a. midday [L. nona (hora), ninth hour, hour of mass, later changed from 3 p.m. to midday].

noose (noos) n. a running loop with a slip knot which binds the closer the more it is drawn, snare; tight knot;—v.t. to tie, catch in noose [L. nodus, knot].

nor (nor) a particle introducing the second clause of a negative proposition, and not [M.E. nother].

Nordic (nor'dik) a. of or pert. to peoples of Germanic stock; long-headed, very tall, blue-eyed and blond [Ger. nord, north].

norm (norm) n. a rule or authoritative standard, a unit for comparison; a standard type or pattern; a model; a class-average test score.—norm'a n. a rule, pattern, or standard, a pattern or template; a mason's square for testing.—nor'mal a. conforming to type or natural law, perpendicular;—n. a perpendicular to a line, surface, or tangent at point of contact.—normalcy (nor'mal-si) n. (esp. U.S.) normality, an ill-formed word.—normalisa'tion, normal'ity n.—nor'mally adv.—nor'mative a. setting up a norm, regulative.—normal school, formerly, a training-college for teachers [L. norma, a rule].

Norman (nor'man) n. a native of Normandy;—a. pert. to Normandy or the Normans.—Norman architecture, a style of mediæval architecture characterised by rounded arch and massive simplicity.—Norman French, language spoken by Normans at time of Conquest [O Fr. Normant, fr. Scand. = Northmen].

Norse (nors) a. pert. to Scandinavia, its language, or its people;—n. the old Scandinavian language [Scand. norsk, north].

north (north) n. the region or cardinal point opposite to the midday sun, the part of the world, of a country, etc., towards the front;—adv. towards or in the north;—a. to, from, or in the north.—nor'therly a. towards the north; of winds, coming from the north.—nor'thern a. pert. to the north; in or of the north.—nor'therner n. an inhabitant of the northern parts of a country.—nor'thernly adv. in a northern direction.—nor'thermost a. situated at the most northerly point.—north ward, north'wardly a. situated towards the north.—adv. in a northerly direction.—north'wards adv.—north-east (-west) n. the point between the north and the east (west);—a. pert. to, or from, the north-east (-west).—north-east'ly (-west'ly) n. a wind from the north-east (-west).—north-east'ly (-west'ly) a. towards or coming from the north-east (-west).—north-east'ern (-west'ern) a. belonging to the north-east (-west).—north-east'ward (-west'ward) a. towards the north-east (-west).—northern lights, aurora borealis.—nor'thing n. motion or distance northward; difference of latitude as a ship sails in a northerly direction; in surveying, a north latitude.—North Pole, northern extremity of earth's axis.—north^{star} n. polar star, the only star which does not change its apparent position [O.E.].

Norwegian (nor-wē-jī-an) a. pert. to Norway; —n. a native or language of Norway.

nose (nōz) n. the organ for breathing and smelling; power of smelling; any projection resembling a nose, as prow of a ship; (Slang) an informer;—v.i. to detect by smell; to oppose to the face; to speak through nose;—v.i. to smell; to pry officiously.—nose-bag n. a bag containing provender fastened to a horse's head.—nose-dive n. in aviation, a sudden steep plunge directly towards an objective, usually from a great height;—v.i. to perform this evolution.—nose-gay n. a bunch of sweet-smelling flowers; a bouquet.—nose-ing n. the moulded projecting edge of the tread of a step; beading round the edge of a board [O.E. nosu].

nosé- (nos-ē) prefix fr. Greek, nosos, disease, used in formation of compound words.—nosology n. branch of medicine treating generally of diseases; systematic classification of phases of disease.—nosological a.—nosologist n.

nostalgia (nos-tal-jī-a) n. home-sickness; a phase of melancholia due to the unsatisfied desire to return home.—nostalgic a. [Gk. nostos, return; algos, pain].

nostril (nos-tril) n. one of the external openings of the nose;—pl. the anterior nares [O.E. nosu, nose; thryel, opening].

nostrum (nos-trum) n. a quack, secret remedy; a patent medicine of doubtful efficacy; a pet scheme, pushed by some political visionary [L. = our (unfailing) remedy, etc.].

not (not) adv. a word expressing denial, negation, or refusal (nought).

notable (nō-tā-bl) a. worthy of notice; remarkable;—n. a person of distinction.—notabilis n.pl. things worth noting; famous remarks.—notability n. an eminent person.—notableness n.—notably adv. [L. nota, note].

notary (nō-tā-ri) n. a notary-public, a person, usually a solicitor, authorised to record statements, to certify deeds, to take affidavits, etc., on oath [L. notarius, a secretary].

notation (nō-tā-shun) n. the art of representing the pitch and time of musical sounds by signs; any system of figures, signs and symbols which conveys information [L. nota, a mark].

notch (noch) n. a V-shaped cut or indentation; nick; a groove formed in a piece of timber to receive another piece; a run scored at cricket; v.i. to make notches in; to indent; to secure by a notch; to score (a run) [etym. uncertain].

note (nōt) n. a mark; a brief comment; a memorandum; a short letter; a diplomatic paper; a written or printed promise of payment; a character to indicate a musical tone; notice; distinction; fame; regard;—v.i. to observe; to set down in writing; to attend to; to heed.—note-book n. a book for jotting down notes, memoranda, etc.—noted a. well-known by reputation or report; eminent; celebrated; distinguished; notorious.—notedly adv.—notedness n.—note-paper n. a small size of writing paper.—note-worthy a. worthy of notice; remarkable.—note of hand, a promissory note, a written promise to pay a sum by a stipulated time [L. notare, to mark].

nothing (nuth-ing) n. not anything of account, value, note, or the like; non-existence; nonentity; nought; zero; trifle; bagatelle;—adv. in no degree; not at all.—nothingness n. [fr. no thing].

notice (nō-tis) n. act of noting; remarking, or observing; observation; cognisance; regard; note; heed; consideration; respect; news; a review; formal intimation;—v.i. to observe; to remark upon; to treat with regard.—noticeable a. capable or worthy of observation; conspicuous; attracting attention; appre-clable.—noticeably adv.—to give notice, to warn beforehand.—to receive one's notice, to be informed that one's services are about to be terminated [L. notus, known].

notify (nō-tī-fi) v.i. to make known; to report; to give notice of or to; to announce; to inform; to apprise.—pa.p. notified.—notifiable a. must, by law, be reported to the appropriate authorities.—notification n. official notice or announcement [L. notus, known; facere, to make].

notion (nō-shun) n. mental apprehension of whatever may be known or imagined; idea; conception; opinion; belief; sentiment; fancy; inclination [L. notio].

notoriety (nō-tō-ri-ē-ti) n. the state of being generally known, esp. in a disreputable way; public exposure; discreditable publicity.—notorious a. known by all and sundry (usually in a bad sense); infamous.—notoriously adv.—notoriously n. a notoriety [L. notus, known].

notwithstanding (not-with-stand-ing) adv. nevertheless; however; yet;—prep. in spite of; despite;—conj. although.

nougat (nōō-gā) n. a sweetmeat of almonds, pistachio-nuts, or other nuts, in a sugar and honey paste [Fr.].

nought (nawt) n. nothing; zero;—adv. in no degree; not at all. Also naught.

noumenon (nou-me-non) n. a term used by Kant for the object of pure thought free from all elements of sense—the opposite to phenomenon.—pl. noumena.—noumenal a. [Gk. = a thing perceived].

noun (noun) n. (Gram.) a word used as a name of a person, quality, or thing, a substantive [L. nomen, a name].

nourish (nur-ish) v.i. to supply with food; to feed and cause to grow; to nurture, to cherish; to tend; to encourage; to educate.—nourishable a.—nourishing a. nutritious.—nourishment n. food; nutriment; the act or state of nourishing [Fr. nourrir, fr. L. nutrire, to feed].

nous (nous, or nōos) n. mind, reason; common-sense; gumption; intelligence [Gk.].

nova (nō-vā) n. a new star, one which appears suddenly with a brightness which soon declines until no longer visible.—pl. novae [L. = new].

novel (nov-el) a. of recent origin or introduction, new; recent; unusual;—n. a fictitious prose tale dealing with the adventures or feelings of imaginary persons so as to portray, by the description of action and thought, the varieties of human life and character.—novellette n. a shorter form of novel, usually with a strong love-interest.—novelist n. a writer of novels.—novelty n. newness; something new or unusual [L. novus, new].

November (nō-ven-bēr) n. the eleventh month of the year [L. novem, nine, as the old Roman year began in March].

novenary (nov-en-ā-ri) a. pertaining to the number nine.—novennial a. happening every ninth day.—novennial n. happening every ninth year [L. novem, nine].

novice (nō-vīs) n. a candidate for admission to a religious order; one new to anything; an inexperienced person; a beginner or tyro (esp. at games).—noviciate, novitiate n. the state or time of being a novice; a novice [L. novus, new].

Novocaine (nō-vō-kān) n. a proprietary non-irritant drug which has replaced cocaine as a local anæsthetic [L. novus, new; and cocaine].

now (nou) adv. at the present time;—conj. this being the case;—n. the present time.—nowadays adv. in these days.—now! now! a form of admonition.—now and then, occasionally [O.E. nu].

Nowel See Noël.

nowhere (nō-hwā) adv. not in any place; (Colloq.) not in the reckoning; far behind.—nowise adv. not in any manner or degree.

noxa (nok-sā) n.pl. (Zool.) stimuli which warn the organism of danger, by causing pain.—

noxious a. —nox'ious a. hurtful; pernicious; unwholesome. —nox'iously adv. —nox'iousness n. [L. noxia, injury].

nozzle (noz'el) n. the nose; the snout; a projecting spout or vent; the outlet end of a pipe, hose, etc. [dim. of nose].

nuance (nôo-ans') n. a shade or subtle variation in colour, tone of voice, etc.; (Mus.) a delicate gradation of tone and expression in performance on an instrument [Fr. = a shade].

nub (nub) n. a knob; lump; protuberance; point, gist.

nubile (nû-bil) a. of marriageable age. —nubil'ity n. [L. nubere, to marry].

nuciform (nûs-i-form) a. nut-shaped. —nucif'erous a. bearing nuts. —nuciv'orous a. port. to a nut-eating animal [L. nux, a nut].

nucleus (nû-kle-us) n. a central mass which increases by successive accretions; the starting point of some project or idea, (Astron.) the dark centre of a sun-spot; the denser core or head of a comet; (Biol.) the inner essential part of a living cell; (Physics) the core of the atom, where nearly all the mass is concentrated, composed of protons and neutrons — pl. nuclei. —nuclear a. —nuclear energy, a more exact term for atomic energy, energy freed or absorbed during reactions taking place in atomic nuclei. —nuclear fission, a process of disintegration which breaks up into chemically different atoms. —nucleate v.t. to gather into or round a nucleus. —nucleated a. possessing a nucleus. —nucleol'us n. a minute body of condensed chromatin inside a nucleus which divides during mitosis [L. = kernel].

nude (nûd) a. bare; naked; undraped, uncovered; —n. a picture or piece of sculpture in the nude. —nude'ly adv. —nud'ity, nude'ness n. nakedness. —nud'ism n. cult. emphasizing practice of nudity for health. —nud'ist n. [L. nudus, naked].

nudge (nûd) v.t. to touch slightly with the elbow in order to attract attention; — n. a gentle push [etym. uncertain].

nu'gae (nû-gê) n.pl. trifles; things of little value. —nu'gatory a. trifling; futile; vain, ineffectual, of no force [L. n.].

nugget (nû-gê-t) n. rough lump or mass, esp. of native gold [etym. uncertain].

nuisance (nu-sans) n. something harmful, offensive, or annoying, a troublesome person; a pest; an inconvenience [Fr. nuisant, harming; fr. L. nuocere, to harm].

null (nul) a. of no legal validity; void; invalid; non-existent; of no importance; — n. something of no force, or value; —v.t. to annul; to render void. —null'ify v.t. to make null; to render useless; to invalidate; —pa.p. null'ified. —nullification n. act of nullifying; —null'ifier n. —null'ity n. state of being null and void; suit to contest validity of marriage [L. nullus, none].

nullah (nul-a) n. a water-course liable to dry up; the dry bed of a torrent [Ind. n.].

numb (num) a. devoid or deprived of sensation or motion; torpid; insensible; insensitive; chilled; benumbed; —v.t. to benumb; to deaden; to paralyse. —numb'ness n. [O.E. numen, taken].

number (num-ber) n. a word used to indicate how great any quantity is when compared with the unit quantity, one; a sum or aggregate of quantities; a collection of things; an assembly; a single issue of a publication; a song; a piece of music; (Gram.) classification of words as to singular or plural; —pl. metrical feet or verses; poetry; rhythm; —v.t. to give a number to; to count; to reckon; to estimate; to tell; —v.i. to amount to. —Num'bers n.pl. (Hib.) fourth book of Pentateuch. —num'berer n. —num'berless a. innumerable. —num'erabil'ity, num'erableness n. —num'erable a. may be numbered or counted [Fr. nombre, fr. L. numerus].

numeral (nû-mêr-al) a. designating a number; — n. a sign or word denoting a number. —num'erable a. able to be counted. —num'erably adv. —num'erally adv. according to number. —num'erary a. belonging to, or an integral part of, a certain number, as opposed to super-numerary. —num'erate v.t. to count; to read figures according to their notation. —numera'tion n. —num'erator n. top part of a fraction, figure showing how many of the fractional units are taken. —num'er'ic(al) a. of, or in respect of, numbers. —num'er'ically adv. —num'erous a. many. —num'erously adv. —num'erousness n. [L. numerus, a number].

numismatic (nû-mis-mat'ik) a. pert. to coins or medals; — n.pl. scientific study of coins and medals, esp. as an aid to study of archaeology. —numis'matist n. —numismatog'raphy, numis'matol'ogy n. science of coins and medals in relation to archaeology and history. —numis'matol'ogist n. [L. numisma, current coin].

numskull (num-skul) n. dolt; dunce; a stupid person, a blockhead [numb, skull].

nun (nun) n. a female member of a religious order, vowed to celibacy, and dedicated to active or contemplative life; white-hooded, fancy pigeon. —nun'ary n. convent of nuns [L. L. nonna].

nuncio (nun'shi-ô) n. messenger; ambassador representing Pope at foreign court. —nun'cia-ture n. office of nuncio [It fr. L. nuntius, a messenger].

nuncupate (nung'kû-pât) v.t. and v.i. to vow publicly, to dedicate; to declare orally, as a will. —nuncupa'tion n. —nun'cupative a. pert. to vowing, dedicating; nominal. —nun'cupator n. —nun'cupatory a. oral; verbal [L. nuncupare, to name].

nuptial (nûp-shal) a. pert. to or constituting ceremony of marriage; —pl. wedding ceremony, marriage [L. nuptiae, wedding].

nurl, knurl (nurh) v.t. to roughen edge of a circular object; to mill; to indent. —nur'ling n. indentations on edge of coin or of some type of set screws [etym. uncertain].

nurse (nurs) n. a person trained for the care of the sick or injured; a woman tending another's child; —v.t. to tend, as a nurse, to suckle, to foster; to husband; to harbour (a grievance); to keep in touch with (a parliamentary constituency); to manage skillfully (the early stages of some project). —nurs'e-maid, nurs'ery-maid n. a girl in charge of young children. —nurs'er n. —nurs'ery n. a room set aside for children; a place for the rearing of plants. —nurs'eryman n. one who raises plants for sale. —nursery rhymes, jingling rhymes written to amuse young children. —nursery school, a kindergarten, for children of 2-5 years of age. —nurs'ling n. an infant; anything which is carefully tended at inception. —wet-nurse n. woman who suckles infant of another [Fr. nourrice, fr. L. nutrix, a nurse].

nurture (nur-tûr) n. nurturing; education; rearing; breeding; nourishment; (Biol.) the various environmental forces, which combined, act on an organism and further its existence; —v.t. to nourish; to cherish; to tend; to train; to rear; to bring up. —nur'turer n. [Fr. nourriture, nourishment].

nut (nut) n. a fruit consisting of a hard shell enclosing a kernel; a hollow metal collar, the internal surface of which carries a groove or thread into which the thread of a screw fits; (Slang) the head; (U.S.) blockhead; —n.pl. a form of kitchen-coal, in small lumps free from coal-dust; —v.t. to gather nuts; —pr.p. nut'ting. —pa.t. and pa.p. nut'ted. —nut-brown a. of the colour of a nut. —nut butter, a butter substitute made from nut-oil. —nut-cracker n. an instrument for cracking nuts; bird of crow family. —nut-hack, nut'lobber, nut'pecker n. a climbing bird, allied to titmouse. —nut'shell n. the hard shell enclosing the kernel of a nut. —nut'ter n. one who gathers nuts. —nut'tiness n. taste of nuts. —nut'ting n. —nut'ty a. abounding in nut; having a nut-flavour; (Slang) silly; imbecile.—nut-wrench n. an instrument for screwing or unscrewing nuts.—a hard nut to crack, a difficult problem to solve; a person difficult to deal with [O.E. nutu].

nutant (nū'tant) a. (Bot.) hanging with the apex of the flower downwards; nodding.—nut-ation n. nodding; (Astron.) slight periodic wobbling of direction of Earth's axis [L. nutare, to nod].

nutmeg (nut'meg) n. an aromatic flavouring spice obtained from the fruit of a tree of the E. and W. Indies [E. nut; O.Fr. mugue, musk].
nutrient (nū'tri-ent) a. nourishing;—n. something nutritious.—nu'triment n. that which nourishes; food; sustenance.—nu'tri-tion n. the act of nourishing.—nu'tri'tional, nu'tri'tious, nu'tritive, nu'tritory a. nourishing; promoting growth [L. nutrire, to nourish].

nut vomica (nuks v. mīk-ə) n. the dried ripe seed of an E. Indian plant, from which strychnine and brucine are obtained [L. nut, not; vomere, to vomit].

nuzzle (nuzl) v.t. and v.i. to rub with the nose; to nuzzle; to cherish; to burrow or press with the nose [nose].

nyctalopia (nik-tə-lō'pi-ə) n. recurrent night-blindness [Gk. nyx, night; alops, blind; ēps, eye].

nylon (nī'lon) n. an artificial silk fabric the yarn of which is produced synthetically [Fr. N(ew) F(ork), L(ondon)].

nymph (nimf) n. a tutelary goddess inhabiting a mountain, grove, fountain, river, etc.; a girl distinguished by her grace and charm.—nymph'al, nymph'e-an, nymph'ic, nymph'ical a.—nymph'-like a.—nymphoma'nia n. a morbid and uncontrollable sexual desire in women.—nymphoma'nia n. [Gk. nymphē, a bride].

nymph, nymphe (nimf, -ə) n. the pupa or chrysalis of an insect [Gk. nymphē, a nymph].

nyctagmus (nis-tag-mus) n. eye-disease with involuntary twitching oscillation of eyes [Gk. nyctazein, to nod].

O

O, oh (ō) interj. an exclamation of address, surprise, sorrow, wonder, entreaty [O.E. eal].

oaf (ōf) n. a changeling; dolt; lout; awkward fellow.—pl. oafs or oaves.—oaf'ish a. loutish; awkward [O.N. alfr, an elf].

oak (ōk) n. a familiar forest-tree yielding a hard, durable timber.—oak'an a. made of oak.—oak'ling n. a young oak.—oak'apple n. a gall or swelling on oak-leaves caused by the gall-fly [O.E. acē].

oakum (ōk-um) n. loose fibre got by untwisting and picking old tarry ropes, etc., used for caulking seams of ships [O.E. acumba, tow].

oar (ōr) n. a wooden lever with a broad blade worked by the hands to propel a boat; an oarsman;—v.t. and v.i. to row.—oared a. having oars.—oars'man n. a rower.—oars'manship n. the art of rowing.—to put in one's oar (Slang) to meddle; to interfere [O.E. ar].

oasis (ō-ā'sis) n. a fertile spot in the desert.—pl. oases (ō-ā'sēz) [Gk.].

oast (ōet) n. a kiln for drying hops or malt.—oast-house n. [O.E. ast].

oat (ōt) n. but usually in pl. oats, the grain of a common cereal plant, used as food; the plant; (Poet.) a shepherd's musical pipe; a pastoral song.—oat'm a. made of oat-straw or oatmeal.—oat'cake n. a thin cake of oatmeal.—oat'meal n. meal made from oats.—to sow one's wild oats, to indulge in youthful follies before settling down [O.E. ael].

oath (ōth) n. confirmation of the truth by naming something sacred, esp. God; a blasphemous use of the name of God; any imprecation.—pl. oaths (ōTHz) [O.E. ath].

oblique ob-il-gē-tō) n. (Mus.) a part in a musical composition for a particular instrument, of such importance that it is indispensable to the proper rendering of the piece;—also a. Also obliqua to [It.].

obdurate (ob-dū-rāt) a. hard-hearted; stubborn; unyielding.—ob'durately adv.—ob'duracy n. hard-heartedness; stubbornness [L. obduratus, hardened].

obedient (ō-bēd-ent) a. subject to authority; willing to obey.—ob'e-diently adv.—ob'e-dience n. submission to authority; doing what one is told [L. obedire].

obeisance (ō-bā'sans) n. a bow, curtsy or gesture of deference [Fr. obéissance, obedience].

obelisk (ob-ē-lisk) n. a tall, four-sided, tapering pillar, ending in a small pyramid; in printing, a reference mark (†) also called dagger; a sign (— or ÷). Also called obelus, pl. ob'eli [Gk. obeliskos].

obese (ō-bēs) a. fat; fleshy.—obese'ness, obesity n. excessive fatness [L. obesus].

obey (ō-bā) v.t. to do as ordered; to be obedient; to submit to authority;—v.i. to comply with the orders of; to yield submission to; to be ruled by [L. obedire].

obfuscate (ob-fus-kāt) v.t. to darken; to confuse or bewilder.—obfusca'tion n. obscurity; confusion [L. obfuscare, to darken].

obit (ō-bit) n. (Slang) abbrev. of obituary; résumé of life of public figure at his death.—obit'uary a. pert. or relating to death of person;—n. an account or biographical sketch of a deceased person [L. obitus, approach, fr. obire, to go to meet].

object (ob-jekt) n. anything presented to the mind or the senses; a material thing; an end or aim; (Gram.) a noun, pronoun, or clause governed by, and dependent on, a transitive verb or a preposition.—ob'jectless a. having no aim or purpose.—ob'ject-glass n. a lens in a telescope, etc., nearest to the object viewed [L. objectus, thrown in the way].

object (ob-jekt) v.t. to offer in opposition; to put forward as reason against;—v.i. to make verbal opposition; to protest against; to feel dislike or reluctance.—ob'jection (ob-jek-shun) n. act of objecting; adverse reason; difficulty or drawback; argument against.—ob'ject-ion-able a. justly liable to objection; disagreeable.—ob'ject-ionably adv.—ob'ject'or n. [L. ob, in the way of; jacere, to throw].

objective (ob-jek-tiv) a. pert. to the object; relating to that which is external to the mind; opp. of 'subjective'; (Gram.) denoting the case of the object;—n. the point aimed at in a military attack; (Gram.) the case of the object.—ob'jectively adv.—ob'jectiv'ity n. the quality of being objective [Fr. objectif].

objugate (ob-jur-gāt, ob-jur-gāt) v.t. to reproach; to blame; to chide.—objugat'ion n.—objugatory a. [L. objugare, to blame].

oblate (ob-lāt) a. (Geom.) flattened at the poles (said of a spheroid, like the earth); orange-shaped.—oblate'ness n. [L. oblatus, brought forward].

oblate (ob-lāt) n. a person dedicated to religious work, esp. the monastic service.—oblat'ion n. something offered to God, or a god; a gift to the church for pious uses [L. oblatus, brought forward, offered].

obligate (ob-lig-gāt) v.t. to bind, esp. by legal contract; to put under obligation.—obligat'ion n. the binding power of a promise or contract; indebtedness for a favour of kindness; a favour; a duty; a legal bond.—obligat'ory a. binding legally or morally; compulsory.—obligat'oryly adv. [L. obligare, fr. ligare, to bind].

oblige (ō-bli) v.t. to constrain by physical, moral, or legal force; to lay under an obligation; to do a favour to; to compel;—v.i. to contribute to the entertainment.—oblig'd a. grateful; indebted.—oblig'ment n. a favour.—oblig'ing a. helpful; courteous.—oblig'ingly adv.—oblig'ingness n. [L. obligare, fr. ligare, to bind].
oblique (ob-līk) a. slanting; inclined; indirect; obscure; not straightforward; underhand.—obliquely adv.—oblique n., obliquity (ob-lik-wi-ti) n. slant or inclination; deviation from moral uprightness; dishonesty.—oblique angle, an acute or obtuse angle, as opposed to a right angle [L. obliquus].

obliterate (ob-ilit-er-āt) v.t. to blot out; to efface or destroy.—obliteration n. the act of blotting out; destruction; extinction.—obliterative a. [L. obliterare, fr. littera, a letter].

oblivion (ob-iv-ē-un) n. a forgetting, or being forgotten; forgetfulness; a general amnesty.—oblivious a. forgetful; causing to forget; heedless.—obliviously adv.—obliviousness n. [L. obliviare, to forget].

oblong (ob-lōng) a. longer than broad;—n. (Geom.) a rectangular figure with adjacent sides unequal [L. oblongus].

obloquy (ob-lō-kwi) n. abusive speech; disgrace [L. obloquium, a speaking against].

obnoxious (ob-nok-shus) a. offensive; objectionable.—obnoxiously adv.—obnoxiousness n. [L. obnoxius, exposed to harm].

oboe (ō-boi, ō-bō) n. (Mus.) a wood-wind instrument like the clarinet, but of thinner tone; a hautboy; an organ reed-stop.—oboiist n. [Fr. hautbois].

obscene (ob-sēn) a. offensive to modesty; indecent; filthy; disgusting.—obscene ly adv.—obscene n.—obscenity (ob-sēn-i-ti) n. lewdness; indecency [L. obscenus].

obscure (ob-skūr) a. dark; hidden; unknown; humble; abstruse, i.e. to dim; to conceal; to make less intelligible; to make doubtful.

obscurely adv.—obscure n. the quality of being obscure.—obscurant, obscurantist n. one who opposes the spread of enlightenment amongst the people.—obscurantism n.—obscuration n. the act of obscuring; the state of being obscured.—obscurement n. obscuration.—obscurity n. absence of light; a state of retirement, or of being unknown; indistinctness; lack of clear expression; dubiety of meaning; humility [L. obscurus].

obsecrate (ob-se-kra-tē) v.t. to beseech; to entreat [L. obsecrare, fr. sacer, sacred].

obsequies (ob-se-kwi-z) n.pl. funeral rites; a funeral.—obsequial a. [L. obsequialis].

obsequious (ob-se-kwi-us) a. servile; fawning.—obsequiously adv.—obsequiousness n. [L. obsequi, to gratify].

observe (ob-zerv) v.t. to watch; to note systematically; to perform or keep religiously; to remark;—v.i. to take notice; to make a remark; to comment.—observable a.—observably adv.—observableness n.—observance n. the act of observing; a paying attention; the keeping of a law, custom, religious rite; a religious rite; a rule or practice.—observant a. quick to notice; alert; carefully attentive; obedient to.—observantly adv.—observation n. the action or habit of observing; the result of watching, examining, and noting; attentive watchfulness; a comment; remark.—observational a.—observationally adv.—observatory n. a building for the observation and study of astronomical, meteorological, etc., phenomena.—observer n. one who observes; an attentive spectator; member of crew of aircraft who makes aerial observations [L. observare, fr. servare, to guard].

obscure (ob-sew) v.t. to haunt; to fill the mind completely; to preoccupy.—obsession (ob-sesh-un) n. complete domination of the mind by one idea; a fixed idea [L. obsidere, obsessum, to besiege].

obsidian (ob-sid-i-an) n. vitreous lava or glassy volcanic rock [after Obsidius, or Obsius, the discoverer].

obsolete (ob-sol-ēt) a. no longer in use; out of date.—obsoletely adv.—obsolescence n.—obsolescent a. becoming obsolete; going out of use.—obsolescence n. [L. obsolescere, to grow out of use].

obstacle (ob-stē-kl) n. anything that stands in the way; an obstruction; a hindrance [L. ob, in the way of; stare, to stand].

obstetrics (ob-stet-riks) n. (Med.) the science dealing with the care of pregnant women; midwifery.—obstetric, obstetrical a.—obstetrician n. a specialist in midwifery [L. obstetriz, a midwife].

obstinate (ob-sti-nāt) a. stubborn; not easily moved by argument; unyielding.—obstinately adv.—obstinateness n.—obstinacy n. unreasonable firmness; stubbornness; resolution; persistence [L. obstinatus].

obstreperous (ob-strep-ē-rus) a. noisy; clamorous; vociferous; turbulent.—obstreperously adv.—obstreperousness n. [L. ob, against; strepere, to make a noise].

obstruct (ob-strukt) v.t. to block up; to impede; to hinder the passage of; to retard; to oppose; to block out.—obstructer, obstructor n.—obstruction n. the act of obstructing; that which obstructs or hinders.—obstructive a. hindering; tending to put obstacles in the way of.—obstructively adv. [L. ob, against; struere, to build up].

obtain (ob-tān) v.t. to gain; to acquire; to secure; to procure by effort;—v.i. to be customary or prevalent; to hold good.—obtainable a. procurable.—obtainment n. acquirement. Also obtention [L. obtinere].

obtrude (ob-trūd) v.t. to thrust forward unsolicited; to urge unduly;—v.i. to intrude.—obtruder n.—obtrusion n. the act of obtruding.

obtrusive a. tending to thrust itself upon the attention unduly.—obtrusively adv. [L. ob; trudere, to thrust].

obtuse (ob-tūa) a. blunt; dull of perception; stupid; (Geom.) greater than a right angle, but less than 180°.—obtusely adv.—obtuseness n. [L. obtundere, obtusum, to blunt].

obverse (ob-vers) a. having the base narrower than the apex; having a counterpart; facing the observer; of a coin, bearing the head;—n. face of a coin, medal, etc. (opp. of 'reverse'); the front or principal aspect; a counterpart.—obversely adv. [L. ob, toward; vertere, versum, to turn].

obviate (ob-vi-āt) v.t. to intercept and remove (as difficulties); to make unnecessary; to avoid [L. ob; viare, to go].

obvious (ob-vi-us) a. what meets us on the way; hence, easily seen or understood; evident; apparent.—obviously adv.—obviousness n. [L. obvius, in the way].

ocarina (ok-a-rē-na) n. a small musical wind-instrument made of terra cotta [It. oca, a goose, from its shape].

occasion (ok-kā-zhun) n. opportunity; a juncture favourable for some thing; reason or justification; a time of important occurrence;—pl. affairs or business; also formerly, needs;—v.t. to cause; to bring about.—occasional a. occurring now and then; incidental; meant for a special occasion.—occasionally adv. from time to time [L. occasio, fr. cadere, to fall].

occident (ok-si-dent) n. part of the horizon where the sun sets; the west.—occidental a. western;—n. native of western country [L. occidere, to go down].

occiput (ok-si-put) n. the back part of the head.—occipital a. pert. to the occiput [L. ob, over against; caput, the head].

occlude (ok-klood) v.t. to shut in or out; (Chem.) to absorb gas.—occlusion n.—occlusive a. serving to shut in or out [L. ob; cludere, clausum, to shut].

occult (ok-ult) a. hidden from view; secret; mysterious; magical; supernatural;—v.t. to conceal; to hide from view; to eclipse.—occultly adv.—occultation n. the eclipse of a heavenly body by another.—occultism n. the doctrine or study of the supernatural, magical, etc.—occultness n. mystery; secretness [L. occultare, to hide].

occupy (ok-ū-pi) v.t. to take possession of; to inhabit; to fill; to employ;—pa.p. and pa.i. occupied.—occupancy n. the act of having or holding possession; the period during which one is an occupant; tenure.—occu'pant n. one who occupies or is in possession.—occupa'tion n. occupancy; possession; temporary possession of enemy country by the victor; employment; trade; calling; business; profession.—occupa'tional a.—occu'pler n. the person in possession; an occupant; a tenant [L. occupare, to take possession of].

occur (o-kur') v.i. to come to the mind; to happen; to be met with.—pr.p. occur'ring.—pa.p. and pa.t. occurred.—occur'rence n. a happening; an event; an incident [L. occurrere, to run against].

ocean (ô-shan) n. great body of water surrounding land of globe; one of the large divisions of this (Arctic, Antarctic, Atlantic, Indian, Pacific); the sea;—a. pert. to the great sea.—oceanic (ô-shan-ik, ô-si-an-ik) a. pert. to, found, or formed in the ocean.—oceanog'raphy n. the scientific description of ocean phenomena.—oceanog'raper n.—oceanog'raph'ic, oceanog'raph'ical a.—oceanog'ogy n. branch of science which relates to the ocean [Gk. ôkeanos, a stream encircling the world].

ocelot (ô-se-lot) n. a S. Amer. quadruped of the leopard family [Mex. ocelotl].

ochre (ô-ker) n. various natural earths used as yellow, brown, or red pigments.—ô'chre (e)-ô'chry a. [Gk. ôchra, yellow ochre].

oct-, octa-, octo- (okt, ok'ta, ok'to) prefix fr. Gk. okto, eight, combining to form derivatives.—oct'agon n. a plane figure with 8 sides and 8 angles.—octag'on'al a.—octa'h'dron n. a solid figure with 8 plane faces.—octa'h'dral a.—oc'tane n. (Chem.) a hydrocarbon of the paraffin series, obtained from petroleum and used as a motor-spirit, esp. for aeroplanes.—octang'ular a. having 8 angles.—oc'tant n. the eighth part of a circle; an instrument for measuring angles, having an arc of 45° [Gk. gônia, an angle; hedra, a base; stulos, a pillar].

octave (ok'täv) n. the week following the celebration of a principal Church festival; the day falling a week after a festival; a stanza of 8 lines; (Mus.) an interval of 8 diatonic notes comprising a complete scale; a note 8 tones above or below another note; a group of 8 [L. octavus, eighth].

octavo (ok-tävö) n. the size of a sheet of paper that has been folded three times, thus making 8 leaves (average size = 6" x 9 1/4"); hence, a book having 8 leaves to the sheet—(abbrev.) 8vo [L. octavus, eighth].

octennial (ok-ten-î-äl) a. happening every eighth year; lasting for 8 years [L. octo, eight; annus, a year].

octet (ok-tet') n. (Mus.) a group of 8 musicians or singers; a composition for such a group; a group of 8 lines, esp. the first 8 lines of a sonnet [L. octo, eight].

October (ok-tô-ber) n. tenth month (eighth month of ancient Roman year).

octogenarian (ok-tô-jë-nä-ri-an) a. and n. (one) between 80 and 90 years of age [L. octogenarius, of eighty].

octopus (ok-tô-pus) n. a mollusc with 8 arms or tentacles, covered with suckers [Gk. okto, eight; pous, a foot].

ocular (ok-tô-lär) a. pert. to the eye, or to sight; visual;—n. the eye-piece of an optical instrument.—oc'u'list n. a specialist in the defects and diseases of the eye; an eye-surgeon [L. oculus, the eye].

od (ôd, ôd) n. formerly, mysterious natural force which manifested itself in phenomena of mesmerism, magnetism, etc.—ô'die a.—ô'dism n. belief in this force (coined word).

odalisque (ô-dä-lisk) n. a female slave or concubine in a Turkish harem. Also ô'dalisk [Fr. Turk.].

odd (ôd) a. not even; not divisible by two; left over after a round number has been taken; extra; surplus; casual or outside the reckoning; occasional; out-of-the-way; queer or eccentric; strange.—odd'ity n. quality of being odd; peculiarity; queer person or thing.—odd'ly adv. in an odd manner.—odd'ment n. something left over; part of a broken set; a remnant; a trifle.—odd'ness n. the state of being odd.—odds n.pl. the difference in favour of one as against another; inequality; advantage or superiority; the ratio by which one person's bet exceeds another's; likelihood or probability.—Oddfellow, a member of a friendly society resembling freemasons [O.N. odda (tal), odd- (number)].

ode (ôd) n. orig. a poem intended to be sung; now, a lyric poem of exalted tone [Gk. ôde, a song].

odium (ô-dî-nm) n. hatred; the state of being hated; general abhorrence incurred by a person or action; stigma.—ô'dious a. hateful; offensive; exciting repugnance.—ô'diously adv.—ô'diousness n. [L. = hatred].

odont- (ô-dont) prefix from the Gk. odous, odontos, a tooth.—odontalgia (ô-dont-al-jî-a) n. toothache.—odontol'ogy n. the science of the teeth [Gk. alpos, pain; logos, discourse].

odour (ô-dur) n. smell; fragrance; perfume; repute or estimation.—odoriferous (ô-dô-rif-ê-rus) a. sweet-scented; (Colloq.) having a strong or unpleasant smell.—odorif'erously adv.—odorif'erousness n.—ô'dourless a.—ô'dorous a. fragrant; scented.—ô'dorously adv.—ô'dorousness n. [L. odor].

Odysseus (ô-dis-ê-us, ô-dis-ê-us) n. (Myth.) (L. Ulysses) hero of Homer's Odyssey (ô-dî-si) n. a Greek epic poem glorifying the adventures and wanderings of Odysseus; hence, any long, adventurous journey.

oecumenic, oecumenical (ek ô-mên-ê-k, ê-kal) a. relating to the whole Christian world or church; universal; world-wide [Gk. gê oikoumenê, the inhabited earth].

oedema (ô-dê-mä) n. dropsical swelling—oedematous a. [Gk.].

Oedipus (ô-di-pus) n. (Myth.) a king of Thebes who unwittingly slew his father and married Jocasta his mother.—Oedipus complex, in psycho-analysis, a complex involving a preponderating love by a person for the parent of opposite sex.

Oerlikon (êr-lî-kon) n. rapid-firing, anti-aircraft gun of Swiss origin [Oerliken, near Zurich].

oesophagus (ô-sof-ê-gus) n. (Anal.) the canal by which food passes to stomach, the gullet.—oesoph'al a. [Gk. oisophagos].

of (ov, uv) prep. belonging to; from; proceeding from; relating to, concerning [O.E.].

off (of) adv. away; in general, denotes removal or separation, also completion, as in to finish off;—prep. not on; away from;—a. distant; on the further side; in traffic directions, farthest from the pavement; discontinued; free;—interj. beyond! depart!—off'ing n. the more distant part of the sea visible to an observer.—off'chance n. a slight chance.—off'colour, out of condition; indisposed.—off'hand a. without preparation; free and easy; curt;—adv. without hesitation, impromptu.—off'licence n. permission to sell alcoholic liquors for consumption off the premises only.—off'set n. a shoot or side-branch; a sum set off against another as an equivalent; compensation; (Print.) the smudging of a clean sheet; a process in lithography;—v.t. to counterbalance or compensate.—off'shoot n. that which shoots off or separates from a main branch or channel; a descendant.—off'side a. (Football, etc.) of a player, being in such a position that he may not, under penalty, touch the ball himself nor interfere with an opponent or with play.—off'spring n. children; progeny; issue.—off and on, intermittently (form of of).

offal (ôf-äl) n. waste meat; entrails of animals; anything thrown away as worthless; refuse [fr. off and fall].

offence (ô-fens') n. transgression; sin; crime; insult; wrong; resentment; displeasure; a cause of displeasure. — offens'ive a. causing or giving offence; used in attack; insulting; unpleasant; — n. attack; onset; aggressive action. — offens'ively adv. — offens'iveness n. [L. offendere, to strike against].

offend (o-fend') v.t. to displease; to make angry; to wound the feelings of; — v.i. to do wrong; to sin or transgress. — offend'er n. [L. offendere, to strike against].

offer (offer) v.t. to present for acceptance or refusal; to tender; to bid, as a price; to propose; to attempt; to express readiness to do; — v.i. to present itself or to occur; — n. a presentation; a price bid; to tender; a proposal, esp. of marriage. — offer'ing n. that which is offered. — offer'er n. [L. offerre].

offertory (offer-tor-i) n. a part of the mass during which the elements are offered up; the collection of money during the church service [L. offertorium].

office (off-is) n. a duty; a service; a function; an official position; a form of worship; a religious service; a place for doing business. — offices n.pl. parts of, or attached to, a house in which domestic work is done, e.g. kitchens, stables, etc.; outhouses; an act of kindness; help. — off'icer n. a person who holds an official position; one who holds commissioned rank in the navy, army, air force, etc. — off'ice-bear'er n. one who holds office, esp. in a society, club, etc. [L. officium, duty].

official (o-fish-ee) a. pert. to an office; vouchd for by one holding office; authorised. — n. one holding an office. — off'icially adv. — off'icialism n. officials collectively; their work, usually in contemptuous sense [L. officium, a duty].

officiate (o-fish-ee-ate) v.t. to perform the duties of an officer; to perform a divine service [L. officium, duty].

officious (o-fish-ee-us) a. given to exaggerate the duties of an office, importunate in offering service, meddlesome. — off'iciously adv. — off'iousness n. [L. officium, a duty].

often (off-n) adv. frequently, many times. — oft, oftentimes, oft'times, adv. archaic forms of 'often' [O.E. oft].

ogee (ô-jee) n. (Archi) a moulding forming an S-shape, — also a ogee'd (ô-jee'd) a. [Fr. ogee, ogive].

ogive (ô-jiv) n. (Archi) a pointed arch or ogle (ô-gle) v.t. to make eyes, — v.t. to make eyes at, to cast amorous glances at, — n. an amorous glance. — o'gler n. [L. Gier, ogeln, fr. ogon, to eye].

Ogpu (og-poo) n. secret police of Soviet-Russia [fr. initials of Obedinennoe Gosudarstvennoe Politicheskoe Upravleniye, U.S.S.R. Political State Administration].

ogre (ô-gre) n. (Gem, o'gress) a fabulous man-eating giant. — o'greish, o'grish a. [Fr.].

oh (ô) interj. an exclamation of surprise, sorrow, pain, etc. — Also oh-o!

ohm (ôm) n. the standard unit of electrical resistance. — ohm'meter n. an instrument for measuring electrical current and resistance [fr. Georg S. Ohm (1787-1854)].

oil (oil) n. one of several kinds of light viscous liquids, obtained from various plants, animal substances, and minerals, used as lubricants, illuminants, fuel, medicines, etc.; — v.t. to apply oil to; — v.i. to take oil about as fuel. — oil'er n. one who, or that which, oils; an oil-can. — oil'y a. consisting of, or resembling, oil; greasy; fawning; subservient. — oil'ily adv. — oil'iness n. — oils n.pl. (Paint.) short for 'oil-colours'. — oil'cake n. a cake of compressed lincseed, used as cattle-food. — oil-can n. a can, fitted with a protruding tube, for oiling machinery. — oil-cloth n. coarse canvas cloth coated with oil, to make a kind of linoleum. — oil'col'ours n.pl. (Paint.) colours made by grinding pigments in oil. — oil'en'gine n. an internal-combustion engine using vaporised oil as an explosive mixture. — oil'field n. a region rich in mineral oil. — oil'palm n. one done in oil colours. — oil'skin n. cloth made waterproof with oil; — pl. overcoat of this material. — oil'well n. boring made in district yielding petroleum [L. oleum].

ointment (oint'ment) n. that which anoints; an unguent; a soft, fatty substance, as a preparation for healing or beautifying the skin [O.Fr. ongiment].

okapi (o-kâ-pé) n. an African animal of the giraffe family [Native].

okay (ô-kâ) a. and adv. abbrev. to O.K., an expression signifying approval.

old (ôld) a. advanced in age, having lived or existed long, belonging to an earlier period; not new or fresh; stale, out of date. — old'en a. old; ancient; pert. to the past — old'ish a. somewhat old. — old'ness n. — old'fash'ioned a. out of date; not modern — old gold, a. dull, lustreless, gold colour — Old Harry, the devil; Satan. — old maid, an elderly spinster; (Cards) a round game. — old man's beard, a kind of moss; wild clematis. — old master, an old painting by a famous artist, esp. of 15th and 16th cents. — Old Nick, the devil. — old school, the school at which one was educated; — a. old-fashioned. — old style, the Julian calendar method (before 1752) of reckoning time, the year consisting of 365 days, 6 hours. — Old Testament, the first division of Bible. — Old World, the Eastern hemisphere [O.E. eald].

oleaginous (ô-lé-aj-ee-us) a. oily; greasy; (Fig.) flowing, unctuous [L. oleum, oil].

oleander (ô-lé-an-der) n. a beautiful, ever green shrub with red and white flowers, the evergreen rose bay [Fr.].

oleaster (ô-lé-an-ster) n. the wild olive [L. fr. ola, an olive].

olefine (ô-lif-ee) n. any hydrocarbon of the ethylene series [L. oleum, oil].

oleo- (ô-lé-ô) prefix fr. L. oleum, oil — o'leo-graph n. a lithograph in oil colours [Gk. graphein, to write].

olfaction (ol-fak-shun) n. a smelling; sense of smell. — olfac'tory a. pert. to smelling [L. olere, to smell, ferre, to make].

oligarchy (ol-i-gar-kee) n. a government in which supreme power rests with a few; those who constitute the ruling few. — olig'arch n. a member of an oligarchy. — olig'archal (ol-i-gar'kal) a. Also olig'archic, al [Gk. oligos, few; archon, to rule].

oligocene (ol-i-gâ-sen) a. (Geol.) pert. to a geological period between the eocene and miocene [Gk. oligos, little, kaînos, recent].

olio (ô-lé-ô) n. a highly spiced sort of meat and vegetables, (Fig.) a medley [i.p. olla, fr. L. olla, a pot].

olive (ôliv) n. an evergreen tree, long cultivated in the Mediterranean countries for its fruit; its oval, oil-yielding fruit, a colour, of a greyish, ashy green, — a. of the colour of an unripe olive, or of the foliage. — olivaceous (ol-i-vâ-shus) a. olive green. — ol-iv-branch n. an emblem or offer of peace. — ol-iv-e-oil n. oil expressed from olives [L. olivâ].

oil'vil (ô-liv-vil) n. a starch-like substance obtained from the gum of the olive-tree.

Olympia (ô-lim-pi-â) (Class. Hist.) a plain in ancient Greece, the scene of the Olympic Games. — Olymp'iad n. the name given to period of four years between each celebration of Olympic Games. — Olymp'ic a. pert. to Olympia, or to the games. — Olym'p'ios n.pl. the Olympic Games.

Olympian (ô-lim-pi-ân) a. (Myth.) pert. to Mount Oly'pus in Thessaly, the abode of the twelve principal Greek gods; hence, heavenly, noble, majestic, — n. a dweller in Olympus.

ombre (om-bré) n. an old card game for three players [Sp. lombret].

omega (ô-mé-gâ) n. the last letter of the Greek alphabet, hence, the end. — the alpha and omega, the beginning and the end [Gk.].

omelette, omelet (om-é-let) n. (Cookery) a dish of eggs beaten up with water or milk and seasonings and cooked in a frying-pan [Fr.].

omen (ô'men) n. a sign of some future event; a foreboding; —v.i. to fore-shadow by means of signs; to augur; to predict [L.].

ominous (om'i-nus) a. foreboding evil; threatening; inauspicious. —om'iously adv. —om'ineous n. [L. ominosus, fr. omen].

omit (ô-mit') v.i. to leave out; to neglect; to fail to perform. —pr.p. omit'ting. —pa.p. and pa.t. omit'ted. —omission (ô-mish'un) n. the act of omitting; neglect; failure to do; that which is omitted or left undone. —omiss'ible a. that may be omitted. —omiss'ive a. omitting to send [L. omittere].

omni- (om'ni) prefix fr. L. omnis, all, used in derivatives.

omnibus (om'ni-bus) n. a large, four-wheeled, horse-drawn, public vehicle; later, a motor-bus. —(abbrev.) bus; —a. used in the sense of 'several in one,' e.g. omnibus volume, a book containing reprints of several works originally published separately; an anthology [L. omnibus = for all].

omnifarious (om'ni-fâ-ri-us) a. consisting of all varieties [L.].

omnipotent (om-nip'o-tent) a. all-powerful, esp. of God; almighty. —omnip'otently adv. —omnip'otence n. unlimited power.

omnipresent (om-ni-prez-ent) a. present in all places at the same time. —omnipres'ence n. [L. omnis, all; and present].

omniscience (om-nish'i-ens) n. infinite knowledge. —omnis'scent a. all-knowing.

omnium (om'ni-um) n. on the Stock Exchange, the value of the aggregate stocks in a funded loan.

omnivorous (om-niv'ô-rus) a. all-devouring; eating every kind of food. —omniv'orously adv. [L. omnis, all; vorare, to devour].

on (on) prep. above and touching; in addition to; following from; referring to; at; near; towards, etc.; —adv. so as to be on; forwards; continuously [O.E.].

once (wun) adv. at one time; on one occasion; formerly; ever; —n. one time. —at once, immediately [fr. one].

oncoming (on'kum-ing) a. approaching; —n. approach [fr. on and coming].

oncost (on'kost) n. the total charges borne by any commercial or industrial concern, exclusive of salaries and wages [fr. on and cost].

one (wun) a. the lowest cardinal number; single; undivided; only; without others; identical; —n. the number or figure 1; unity; a single specimen; —pron. a particular but not stated person; any person. —one'ness n. unity; uniformity; singleness. —one'self pron. one's own self or person. —one'shorse a. drawn by one horse; (Colloq.) of no importance; insignificant; paltry. —one'side a. esp. of a contest, game, etc., limited to one side; considering one side only; partial; unfair. —one'sway a. denoting a system of traffic circulation in one direction only [O.E. an].

onerous (on'er-us) a. burdensome; oppressive. —on'erously adv. —on'erousness n. [L. onus, oneris, a burden].

ongoing (on'gô-ing) n. a going on; advance; procedure. —on'goings n.pl. behaviour.

onion (un'yun) n. an edible, bulbous plant with pungent odour. —on'iony a. —flaming onions (World War 2) an anti-aircraft rocket shell [L. unio].

onlooker (on'lôoker) n. a spectator; an observer [fr. on and look].

only (ôn'li) a. being the one specimen; single; sole; —adv. solely; singly; merely; exclusively; —conj. but then; except that; with this reservation [O.E. anlic, one like].

onomatopoeia (on-ô-mat-ô-pé-ya) n. the formation of a word by using sounds that resemble or suggest the object or action to be named, e.g. hiss, ping-pong. —onomatopoe'ic a. [Gk. onoma, a name; poieîn, to make].

onset (on'set) n. a violent attack; an assault [fr. on and set].

onshore (on'shôr) a. towards the land, esp. of a wind [fr. on and shore].

onslaught (on'slawt) n. an attack; an onset; an assault [Dut. aanslag].

onto (on'tô) prep. upon; on the top; to; on to.

ontology n. the science that treats of reality of being; metaphysics. —ontolog'ical a. —ontol'ogist n. [Gk. ôn, ontos, being; logos, discourse].

onus (ô-nus) n. burden; responsibility [L.].

onward (on'ward) a. and adv. advancing; going on; forward. —on'wards adv. in a forward direction; ahead [E. on; O.E. weard, in the direction of].

onyx (on'iks) n. a variety of quartz, in variously coloured layers, used for making cameos [Gk. onux, a finger-nail].

oodles (ôô'dlz) n.pl. (Slang) superabundance, esp. of money [etym. uncertain].

oolite (ôô-lit) n. granular limestone, its grains resembling eggs of roe of fish. —oolit'ic a. [Gk. ôion, egg; lithos, stone].

oology (ôô-lô-jî) n. the study of birds' eggs [Gk. ôion, an egg; logos, discourse].

ooze (ôôz) n. soft mud or slime; a gentle flow; a kind of deposit on the bottom of the sea; —v.i. to flow gently; to leak or percolate; —v.t. to exude or give out slowly. —ooz'y a. slimy; muddy; miry [M.E. woose, fr. O.E. wase, mud].

opacity (ôô-pas'i-tî) n. See opaque.

opal (ô'pal) n. a mineral much used as a gem owing to its beautiful and varying hues of green, yellow and red. —opal'escent (ô-pal-es-ent) a. of changing iridescent colour, like an opal. —opal'es'ence n. —opaline (ô'pal-in) a. like opal; —n. semi-transparent white glass [L. opalus].

opaque (ô-pâk') a. not transparent; impenetrable to sight; not lucid; dull-witted. —opaqu'ely adv. —opaqu'eness n. —opa'city n. opaqueness; the quality of not transmitting light; obscurity [L. opacus].

ope (ôp) v.t. and t. (Poet.) to open.

open (ô-pn) a. not shut or blocked up; allowing passage in or out; not covered (with trees); not fenced; without restrictions; available; exposed; frank and sincere; —n. clear, unobstructed space; —v.t. to set open; to uncover; to give access to; to begin; to cut or break into; —v.i. to become open; to begin; (Theatre) to have a first performance. —o'pener n. one who or that which opens. —o'pening a. first in order; initial; —n. a hole or gap; an open or cleared space; an opportunity; a beginning. —o'penly adv. publicly; frankly. —o'pennes n. —o'pencast a. (Mining) excavated from the surface, instead of from underground. —o'pen-hand'ed a. generous; liberal. —o'pen-heart'ed a. frank. —o'pen-mind'ed a. free from prejudices [O.E.].

opera (op'e-ra) n. a musical drama; the theatre where opera is performed. —operat'io a. pert. to opera. —operett'a n. a short light opera. —grand opera, opera in which no spoken dialogue is permitted. —opera bouffe (boôf) a farcical play set to music. —op'era-glass (or glass'es) n. a small binocular used in theatres. —op'era-hat n. a man's collapsible tall hat [It. fr. L. opera, work].

operate (op'e-rât) v.t. to cause to function; to effect; —v.i. to work; to produce an effect; to exert power; to perform an act of surgery; to deal in stocks and shares, esp. speculatively.

—opera'tion n. the act of operating; a method or mode of action; treatment involving surgical skill; movement of an army or fleet (usu. in pl.). —opera'tional a. pertaining to operations.

—opera'tive a. having the power of acting; exerting force; producing the desired effect; efficacious; —n. artisan or workman; factory-hand. —op'erator n. [L. operari, to work].

operculum (ô-per'kû-lum) n. a lid or cover, in plants; a lid-like structure in molluscs; the gill-cover of fish. —oper'cular, oper'culate a. [L. fr. operire, to cover].

opereuse (op'ê-rôse) a. laborious; tedious. —op'erosely adv. —op'eroseness n. [L. opus, work].

ophi(o)- (of-i(o)) prefix fr. Gk. ophis, a snake. — ophid'ian (ô-fid-i-an) n. a snake; — a. pert. to the ophidia or snakes; snake-like. — ophthalmia (of-thal-mi-a) n. (Med.) inflammation of the eye. — ophthal'mic a. of the eye. — ophthal'mist, ophthalmo'logist n. one skilled in the study of the eye. — ophthal'moscope n. an instrument for viewing the interior of the eye [Gk. ophthalmos, the eye; logos, discourse; skopein, to view]. — opiate (ô-pl-ât) n. any preparation of opium; a. narcotic; — a. containing opium; inducing sleep. — opiat'ic a. [fr. opium]. — opine (ô-pin') v.t. and i. to think or suppose; to hold or express an opinion [L. opinari]. — opinion (ô-pin'yun) n. judgment or belief; estimation; formal statement by an expert. — opin'lonated a. dogmatic. — opin'lonative a. stubborn. — opin'lonatively adv. — opin'lonativeness n. [L. opinio]. — opium (ô-pi-um) n. the narcotic juice of a kind of poppy used to induce sleep or allay pain [Gk. opon, poppy-juice]. — opopanax n. a gum-resin used in perfume-making, and formerly in medicine [Gk. opos, juice]. — opossum (ô-pos'um) n. a small American marsupial animal. Also pos'um [N. Amer. Ind.]. — oppidan (op-i-dan) n. a town-dweller; at Eton, a scholar who lodges in town [L. oppidum, a town]. — opponent (ô-pô-nen-t) n. opposite; opposing; antagonistic; — n. one who opposes [L. opponeere, to place against]. — opportune (ôp-or-tûn) a. well-timed; convenient. — opportun'ly adv. — opportune'ness n. — opportun'ism n. the policy of doing what is expedient at the time regardless of principle. — opportun'ist n. — opportun'ity n. a fit or convenient time; a good chance [L. opportunitas]. — oppose (ô-pôz') v.t. to set against; to resist; to compete with. — oppos'able a. — oppos'er n. [L. opponeere, to place against]. — opposite (ôp-ô-zit) a. contrary facing; situated in front; adverse, contrary; diametrically different; — n. the contrary; — prep. and adv. in front of; on the other side. — oppositely adv. facing each other. — oppositeness n. — opposition (ôp-ô-zish-un) n. the state of being opposite; resistance; contradiction; an obstacle; a party opposed to that in power [L. opponeere, oppositum, to place against]. — oppress (ô-pres') v.t. to govern with tyranny; to treat severely; to be heavy on. — oppression (ô-pres'h-un) n. harshness; severity; tyranny; dejection. — oppress'ive a. unreasonably burdensome; hard to bear. — oppress'ively adv. — oppress'iveness n. — oppress'or n. [L. opprimere, oppressum, to press down]. — opprobrium (ô-prô-bri-um) n. reproach; disgrace; infamy. — opprobrious a. reproachful and contemptuous; shameful. — opprobriously adv. — opprobriousness n. [L.]. — oppugn (ô-pûn) v.t. to fight against; to oppose. — oppugn'er n. — oppug'nant (ô-pug'nant) a. opposing. — oppug'nancy n. opposition [L. oppugnare, to fight against]. — opt (opt) v.t. to make a choice; to exercise an option; to choose. — optative (ôp-tâ-tiv, ôp-tâ-tiv) a. expressing wish or desire; — n. (Gram.) a mood of the verb expressing wish. — opt'atively adv. [L. optare, to wish]. — optic (ôp'tic) a. pert. to the eye or to sight; pert. to optics; — n. (Colloq.) the eye. — optics n. the science which deals with light and its relation to sight. — opt'ical a. pert. to vision; visual. — opt'ically adv. — optician (ôp-tish-i-an) n. one skilled in optics; a maker of, or dealer in, optical instruments, esp. spectacles [Gk. optikos]. — optimism (ôp-ti-miz-m) n. belief that everything is ordered for the best; disposition to look on bright side. — optimist n. believer in optimism; one who takes hopeful view. — optimis'tical a. — optimis'tically adv. [L. optimus, best]. — option (ôp'shun) n. the power or right of choosing; choice. — opt'ional a. left to one's free choice. — opt'ionally adv. [L. optare, to choose]. — opulent (ôp-û-lent) a. wealthy; abundantly rich. — op'ulently adv. — op'ulences, op'ulency n. wealth; riches [L. opulentus]. — opus (ô-pus) n. a work; a musical composition; — pl. opera (ô-p-ê-râ). — magnum opus, a writer's most important work [L. opusculum dim. of opus, work]. — or (or) conj. introducing an alternative; if not; (Arch.) before [M.E. other]. — oracle (ô-râ-kl) n. medium by which divine utterances were transmitted, often a priest or priestess; shrine where ancient Greeks consulted deity; response given, often obscure; a person of outstanding wisdom. — orac'ular a. of nature of oracle; authoritative; ambiguous; forecasting the future. — orac'ularly adv. [L. oraculum]. — oral (ô-râ-l) a. spoken; not written; using speech; pert. to the mouth. — or'ally adv. [L. os, oris, the mouth]. — orange (ô-ran) n. a juicy, gold-coloured fruit; tree bearing it; reddish yellow colour like an orange; — a. reddish yellow in colour. — orange-ade (ô-ran-j-âd') n. drink of orange juice, sugar, and water. — or'angery n. a plantation or nursery of orange-trees [Arab. naranj]. — orang-outang, orang-utan (ô-rang-ôô-tang', ô-rang-ôô-tan) n. a large man-like ape [Malayan = man of the woods]. — orate (ô-râ-t') v.t. to talk loftily; to harangue. — oration (ô-râ-shun) n. a formal and dignified public discourse. — orator n. one who delivers an oration; one distinguished for gift of public speaking. — orator'ical a. pert. to oratory(y); rhetorical. — orator'ically adv. — oratorio (ô-râ-tô-ri-ô) n. a sort of sacred musical drama. — or'atory n. the art or exercise of speaking in public; rhetorical skill; eloquence; a chapel or small room for private devotions [L. orare, to speak]. — orb (orb) n. a circle; a sphere or globe; a heavenly body; the globe surmounted by a cross, which forms part of the regalia; (Poet.) the eye. — or'bit n. (Astron.) path traced by one heavenly body in its revolution round another; (Fig.) range of influence or action; the eye-socket. — or'bital a. [L. orbis, a circle]. — Orcadian (ôr-kâ-di-an) a. of, or pert. to, the Orkney Islands; — n. a native of those islands [L. Orcaades]. — orchard (ôr-chârd) n. a garden or enclosure containing fruit-trees (O.E. origeard). — orchestra (ôr-kes-tra) n. the space in a theatre occupied by a band of musicians; a band of performers on various musical instruments. — orchest'ral a. — orchestrate v.t. to arrange music for performance on an orchestra. — orchestra'tion n. [Gk. orchestrai, to dance]. — orchid, orchis (ôr-kid, ôr-kis) n. a genus of plants with fantastically-shaped flowers of varied and brilliant colours. — orchidaceous (ôr-ki-dâ-shus) a. pert. to the orchid [Gk. orchis, a testicle]. — ordain (ôr-dân') v.t. to decree; to enact; to destine; to appoint; to admit to the Christian ministry; to confer holy orders upon. — ordain'ment n. (rare). — ordain'tion n. the act of ordaining or decreeing; admission to the Christian ministry [L. ordo, order]. — ordel (ôr-dê-ol, ôr-dê-ol) n. an ancient method of trial by requiring the accused to undergo a dangerous physical test; a trying experience; a test of endurance (O.E. ordal, a judicial test). — order (ôr-dêr) n. rank; class; group; regular arrangement; sequence; succession; method; regulation; a command or direction; mode of proceeding; an instruction; a monastic society; one of the five styles of architecture (Doric, Ionic, Corinthian, Tuscan, and Composite); a sub-division of a class of plants or animals, made up of genera; an honour conferred for distinguished civil or military services; in trade, detailed instructions, by a customer, of goods to be supplied;—v.t. to arrange; to command; to require; to regulate; to systematise; to give an order for.—or'derly a. methodical; tidy; well-regulated; peaceable; (Mil.) esp. of a junior officer, on duty to supervise daily routine;—n. a soldier following an officer to carry orders; in a military hospital, a soldier-attendant.—adv. in right order.—or'derliness n.—holy orders, generally, ordination to the Christian ministry.—to take orders, to accept instructions; (Church) to be ordained.—by order, by command.—in order to, for the purpose of (L. ordo, order).

ordinal (or-di-nal) a. and n. showing order or position in a series, e.g. first, second, etc.; a church service-book for use at ordinations [L. ordo, order].

ordinance (or-din-ans) n. an established rule, religious rite, or ceremony; a decree [O. Fr. ordenance].

ordinary (or-di-na-ri) a. usual; regular; habitual; normal, commonplace; plain;—n. ecclesiastical judge; a bishop in his diocese; a church-service book; meal supplied at a fixed time and place.—or'dinarily adv. [L. ordo, order].

ordination See ordain.

ordnance (ord-nans) n. collective term for heavy mounted guns; military stores.—ordnance survey, the Government department which prepares official maps of the British Isles [var. of ordinance].

ordure (or-dür) n. dung; filth; (Fig.) obscenity [O. Fr. ord, vile]. [is extracted (O.E. ora).

ore (ör) n. a native mineral from which metal organ (or-gan) n. a musical instrument of pipes worked by bellows and played by keys; a member of an animal or plant exercising a special function; a medium of information.—organ'ic a. pert. to or affecting bodily organs; having either animal or vegetable life; derived from living organisms; systematic; organised.—organ'ically adv.—organ'ism n. an organised body or system; a living body.—organ'ist n. a player on the organ.—organ-grinder n. a player on a barrel-organ.—organ-loft n. gallery for an organ.—organ-screen n. a decorated screen on which organ is placed.—organ-stop n. a series of pipes of uniform tone or quality; one of a series of knobs for manipulating and controlling them.—organic chemistry, the branch of chemistry dealing with the compounds of carbon [Gk. organon, an instrument].

organdie (or-gan-di) n. a muslin of great transparency and lightness [Fr. organdi].

organise (or-ga-niz) v.t. to furnish with organs; to give a definite structure; to prepare for transaction of business; to get up, arrange, or put into working order; to unite in a society.—organ'is'able a.—organisa'tion n. act of organising; the manner in which the branches of a service, etc., are arranged; individuals systematically united for some work; a society.—organ'iser n. [Gk. organon, an instrument].

organism (or-gazm) n. immoderate action or excitement, esp. sexual.—organ'ic a. [Gk. organon, to be lustful].

orgy (or-gi) n. a drunken or licentious revel; a debauch.—pl. orgies (or-giz),—orgias'tic a. of the nature of orgies [Gk. orgia (pl.) Bacchic rites].

oriel (ö-ri-el) n. a projecting window; the recess in a room formed by such a window [O. Fr. oriol, a porch].

orient (ö-ri-ent) a. rising, as the sun; eastern; lustrous (applied to pearls);—n. the east; Eastern countries;—v.t. to place so as to face the east; to determine the position of, with respect to the east; to take one's bearings.—orien'tal a. eastern; pert. to, coming from, of, the east;—n. an Asiatic.—orien'tate v.t. and i.

to orient; to bring into clearly understood relations.—orien'ta'tion n. the act of turning to, or determining, the east; sense of direction; determining one's position [L. oriens, rising, fr. oriri, to rise].

orifice (or-i-fis) n. a mouth or opening; perforation; vent [L. orificium, fr. os, the mouth; facere, to make].

origin (or-i-jin) n. beginning; starting-point; a source; parentage; birth; nationality.—original (or-i-jin-al) a. earliest; first; primitive; new, not copied or derived; thinking or acting for oneself;—n. origin; model; a pattern.—orig'inally adv.—original'ity n. the quality of being original; initiative.—orig'inat' v.t. to bring into being; to initiate;—v.t. to begin; to arise.—orig'inat'ive a.—origina'tion n.—orig'inat'or n. [L. origo, fr. oriri, to rise].

oriole (ö-ri-öl) n. a brightly-coloured bird of the thrush family, esp. the 'golden oriole' [O. Fr. oriol, fr. L. aurum, gold].

orison (or-i-zon) n. a prayer or supplication [O. Fr. fr. L. orare, to pray].

orlop (or-löp) n. the lowest deck in a ship [Dut. overloop].

ormolu (or-mo-löö) n. an alloy of copper, zinc and tin, resembling gold; gilded bronze; a preparation of gold-leaf used for gilding furniture; an article made of, or decorated with, this substance [Fr. or, gold; moudre, ground, fr. moudre, to grind].

ornament (or-na-ment) n. decoration; any object to adorn or decorate;—v.t. to adorn; to beautify; to embellish.—ornament'al a. serving to decorate.—ornament'ally adv.—ornamenta'tion n. decoration.—ornate a. richly decorated.—ornate'ly adv.—ornate'ness n. [L. ornamentum].

ornitho- (or-ni-tho) prefix fr. Gk. ornis, ornithos, a bird, used in derivatives.—ornithol'ogy n. the scientific study of birds.—ornitholog'ical a.—ornithol'ogist n.—ornithorhynchus (or-ni-tho-rin-gus) n. the Australian duck-billed platypus, an aquatic, furred mammal whose young are hatched from eggs [Gk. logos, discourse; rhynchus, the beak].

orography, orology (or-or-g-ra-fi, or-olö-n-i) n. the branch of physical geography dealing with mountains, their description, etc.—orograph'ical, orolog'ical a. [Gk. oros, a mountain; graphen, to write; logos, discourse].

orotund (ö-rö-tund) a. of voice or speech, full, clear, and musical; of style, pompous [L. os, oris, the mouth; rotundus, round].

orphan (or-fan) n. and a. a child bereft of one or both parents;—v.t. to make an orphan.—orphanage n. a home or institution for orphans.—orphanhood, orphanism n. [Gk. orphanos, bereaved].

orpiment (or-pi-ment) n. a yellow mineral of the arsenic group, used as a dye [L. aurum, gold; pigmentum, a pigment].

orrery (or-ri) n. a mechanical model of the solar system, showing the revolutions of the planets, etc. [fr. the Earl of Orrery, for whom one was made in 1715].

orris (or-is) n. a kind of iris.—orr'is-root n. the dried root, used as a powder in perfumery and medicine [form of iris].

orthodox (or-tho-doks) a. having the correct faith; sound in opinions or doctrine; conventional.—or'thodoxly adv.—or'thodoxy n. soundness of faith, esp. in religion. Also or'thodoxy [Gk. orthos, right; doxa, opinion].

orthography (or-thog-ra-fi) n. correct spelling.—orthog'raper n.—orthograph'ic, orthograph'ical a.—orthograph'ically adv. [Gk. orthos, correct; graphein, to write].

orthopaedia (or-thö-pé-di-a) n. treatment and cure of bodily deformities, esp. in children. Also orthopae'dy.—orthopae'dic a.—orthopae'dics n. surgery dealing with correction and cure of deformities.—orthopae'dist n. [Gk. orthos, straight; pais, paidos, a child].

ortolan (or-tol-an) n. a small bird, the garden-bunting [L. hortus, a garden].

Oscar (os'kar) n. In the U.S. a gold-plated statuette, awarded by Motion Picture Academy to the director, actor, script-writer, etc. for the year's best performance.

oscillate (os'i-lät) v.i. to swing to and fro; to vibrate; to vary between extremes; (Wireless) to set up wave motion in a receiving set.—oscillation n. a pendulum-like motion; variation between extremes; (Wireless) a form of interference.—oscillator n.—oscillatory a. swinging to and fro; vibrating [L. oscillare, to swing].

osculate (os'kü-lät) v.i. and t. to kiss; (Math.) to touch, as curves; of species, having characteristics in common.—osculant a.—osculat'ion n. kissing; contact.—osculatory a. pert. to kissing, or to the touching of curves [L. osculum, a kiss].

osier (ö-zl-er) n. a species of willow, used in basket-making; a willow-branch;—a. made of, or like, osiers [Fr.].

osmium (os'mi-um) n. (Chem.) a hard, bluish-white metal, of the rare earth group [fr. (Gk. osmë, a smell (osmium oxide has a disagreeable smell))].

osmosis (os-mö'sis) n. (Chem.) the tendency of fluid substances, if separated by a porous membrane, to filter through it and become equally diffused. Also os'mose.—osmo'tic a. [Gk. ösmos, fr. öchein, to push].

osprey (os'prä) n. the fish-hawk or sea-eagle; erroneously applied to an egret-plume used in millinery [corrupt. of ossifrage, the sea-eagle].

oss- (os) prefix fr. L. os = bone, bone, used in many derivatives.—osseous (os'e-us) a. pert. to or resembling bone; bony.—os'sicle n. a small bone, esp. of the middle ear.—ossif'erous a. containing, or yielding, bones.—ossifica'tion n. hardening into bone.—oss'ify v.t. to harden into bone.—v.i. to become bone, of cartilage, etc.—ossuary (os'u-grä) n. a memorial place, esp. near a battlefield, for holding the bones of the dead; a charnel-house.

ossifrage (os'i-frä) n. the sea-eagle [L. ossifraga, the bone-breaker].

osteal (os'te-äl) a. (Med.) pert. to, or like, bone.—osteitis n. inflammation of the bone [Gk. osteon, bone].

ostensible (os-ten'si-bl) a. professed; used as a blind, plausible; apparent.—osten'sibly adv.—osten'sibility n. [L. ostendere, to show].

ostentation (os-ten-tä'shun) n. vainglorious display; showing off.—ostenta'tious a. fond of display, characterised by display.—ostenta'tiously adv.—ostenta'tiousness n. [L. ostendere, to show].

osteo- (os'te-o) prefix fr. Gk. osteon, bone, used in derivatives mainly medical.—os'teo-arthritis (ar-thri'tis) n. chronic inflammation of a joint.—os'teoid a. resembling bone.—osteol'ogy n. that branch of anatomy dealing with bones, their structure, etc.—osteol'ogist n. [Gk. arthron, a joint].

osteopathy (os'te-o-path-i) n. a system of healing, based on the belief that the human body can effect its own cure with the aid of manipulative treatment of the spinal column, joints, etc.; manipulative surgery.—os'teopath n. a practitioner of this system.—osteopath'ic a. [Gk. osteon, bone; pathos, feeling].

ostler (os'ler) n. a stableman at an inn; a groom. Same as hostler [E. hostler].

ostracise (os'trā-siz) v.t. to exclude from society; to exile; to boycott.—os'tracism n. exclusion from society; social boycotting [Gk. ostrakon, a potsherd used in voting].

ostrich (os'trich) n. a large flightless bird, native of Africa [Gk. ostruthos].

other (u'th-er) a. and pron. not this; not the same; different; opposite; additional;—adv. otherwise.—oth'erwise adv. differently; in another way;—conj. else; if not.—otherwise adv. elsewhere.—every other, every second (one); each alternate.—oth'er-world'y a. thinking of the future life; spiritual [O.E. oðer].

otitis (ö-ti'tis) n. (Med.) inflammation of the ear [Gk. otis, otos, the ear].

otiose (ö-shi-ös) a. at ease; at leisure; not required; superfluous; futile [L. otium, ease].

ottava rima (o-tä-vä-rä-ma) n. a stanza of eight lines, the first six rhyming alternately, the last two forming a couplet, thus a b a b a b c c [It. ottava, octave].

otter (öt'er) n. an aquatic, fish-eating animal of the weasel family; a kind of fishing tackle; (War) an apparatus attached to the bow of a ship to clear away mines; a paravane [O.E. otor].

otto (öt'ö) n. See attar.

Ottoman (öt'o-man) a. pert. to the Turks;—n. a Turk; a kind of cushioned settee or divan without back or arms [fr. Turkish Sultan Öthman, or Osman].

oubliette (öö-blé-et') n. an underground dungeon, esp. one entered only through a trapdoor [Fr. oublier, to forget].

ouch (ouch) n. a setting for a precious stone; an ornament [O.Fr. nouché].

ought (awt) auxil. v. to be bound by moral obligation or duty [O.E. ahte, owed].

ought (awt) n. a form of 'nought'; nothing.

ouija (wé-ja, -ya) n. board with letters, used at seances to answer questions [coined fr. Fr. oui, yes, Ger. ja, yes].

ounce (ouns) n. a unit of weight, abbrev. oz.; in avoirdupois weight = $\frac{1}{16}$ of a pound; in troy weight = $\frac{1}{48}$ of a pound [L. uncia, a twelfth part].

ounce (ouns) n. a carnivorous animal resembling the leopard [O.Fr. once].

our (our) a. belonging to us.—ours poss. pron. used in place of our with a noun.—oursel' pron. myself (in regal or formal style).—ourselves' pron. pl. we, i.e. not others [O.E. ure].

ousel (öü-zl) n. See ousel.

oust (oust) v.t. to put out; to expel; to dispossess, esp. by unfair means [O.Fr. oster; Fr. ôter, to remove].

out (out) adv. on, at, or to, the outside; from within; from among; away; not in the usual or right place; not at home; in bloom; disclosed; exhausted; destitute; in error; at a loss; on strike; unemployed;—a. outlying; remote;—prep. outside; out of;—interj. away! begone!—v.t. to put out; to knock out;—out'er a. being on the outside; away from the inside;—n. on a target, ring farthest from the centre; a shot recorded there.—out'ermost, out'most a. on extreme outside [O.E. utl].

outbalance (out-bal'ans) v.t. to exceed in weight, to be heavier than.

outbid (out-bid') v.t. to bid more than; to offer a higher price.—pr.p. outbid'ding.—pa.p. outbid'den.—pa.t. outbade'.

outboard (out'börd) a. projecting beyond and outside the hull of a ship, e.g. of a ladder; also, of a detachable motor-engine fixed to the stern of a small boat.

outbreak (out'brik) n. a sudden breaking out; a burst, esp. of anger; the beginning, esp. of an epidemic of disease, of war, etc.

outbuilding (out'bild-ing) n. an outhouse; a building detached from the main building.

outburst (out'burst) n. a bursting out, esp. of anger, laughter, cheering, etc.

outcast (out'cast) a. cast out as useless;—n. one rejected by society.—out'caste n. in India, one not belonging to one of the four hereditary classes of society.

outclass (out-klas') v.t. to exceed in skill or quality; to surpass.

outcome (out'kum) n. issue; result.

outcrop (out'krop) n. the coming out of a stratum of rock, coal, etc., to the surface of the ground.—outcrop coal, surface-coal.

outcry (out'kri) n. a loud cry; a cry of distress, complaint, disapproval, etc.

outdistance (out-dis'tans) v.t. to surpass in speed; to get ahead of.

outdo (out-döö') v.t. to excel; surpass.

outdoor (out-dör) a. out of doors; in the open air.—out-doors adv. outside.

outfield (out-fēld) n. the field or fields farthest from the farm-buildings; (Cricket) the outer part of a cricket-ground.

outfit (out-fīt) n. a supply of things, esp. clothes, tools, etc., required for any purpose; equipment; kit; (Slang) a company of people; a crowd;—v.t. to supply with equipment, etc.—out-fitter n. one who supplies clothes, equipment, etc.

outflank (out-flang'k) v.t. (Mil.) to succeed in getting beyond the flank of the enemy.

outgo (out-gō) v.t. to go beyond;—n. (out-gō) expenditure; outlay.—out-going n. going out; expenditure;—a. departing.

outgrow (out-grō') v.t. to surpass in growth; to become too large or old for; to grow out of.—out-growth n. what grows out of anything; an offshoot.

outhouse (out-hous) n. a building, esp. a small erection, outside a main house.

outing (out-ing) n. a going out, an excursion; a trip; an airing.

outlandish (out-land'ish) a. remote; isolated; foreign; barbarous; not according to custom; queer; fantastic.

outlaw (out-law) n. one placed beyond the protection of the law; a bandit;—v.t. to declare to be an outlaw.—out-lawry n. the legal process of putting a person beyond the protection of the law.

outlay (out-lā) n. expenditure, expenses.

outlet (out-let) n. a passage or way out; an exit; a vent; an opening.

outline (out-līn) n. the lines that bound a figure; a boundary; a sketch without details; a rough draft; a general plan;—v.t. to draw in outline; to sketch; to give a general plan of; to summarise.

outlive (out-liv') v.t. to live longer than.

outlook (out-look) n. a looking out; a prospect; a person's point of view; prospects.

outlying (out-lī-ing) a. lying at a distance; remote; isolated; detached.

outmoded (out-mō-dēd) a. driven out of fashion; out of fashion. [number.]

outnumber (out-num-bēr) v.t. to exceed in number.—out-patient n. a patient who comes to a hospital, infirmary, etc., for treatment but is non-resident.

outpost (out-pōst) n. (Mil.) a small detachment posted on guard some distance from the main body; a picket.

outpour (out-pōr') v.t. to pour out; to flow over.—out-pour, out-pouring n. an overflow; (Fig.) an abundance of emotion.

output (out-pōūt) n. production; the amount of goods produced in a given time.

outrage (out-rāj) n. excessive violence; violation of others' rights; gross insult or indignity;—v.t. to do grievous wrong or violence to; to insult grossly; to shock.—outrageous (out-rā-jūs) a. violent; atrocious.—outra'geously adv.—outra'geousness n.

outrance (ōō-trang's) n. the farthest limit; excess.—a. outrances, to the bitter end; (the incorrect form a outrance used in English).—outré (ōō-trā) a. beyond customary limits; exaggerated; extravagantly odd [Fr. outré, beyond].

outride (out-rid') v.t. to ride faster than; to ride farther than; (Naut.) of a ship, to live through a storm.—pa.p. outrid'den.—pa.t. outrode.—out-rider n. a servant on horseback who rides beside a carriage.

outtrigger (out-trig-er) n. (Naut.) a projecting spar for extending sails, ropes, etc.; a frame on the side of a rowing-boat with a rowlock at the outer edge; projecting framework, with a float attached to it, to prevent a canoe from upsetting [earlier outligger; Dut. uitlegger, out-lyer].

outrun (out-run') v.t. to exceed in speed; to run farther than; to run faster than; to leave behind.

outset (out-sēt) n. a setting out; commencement; beginning; start.

outside (out-sīd') n. the outer surface; the exterior; the farthest limit;—a. pert. to the outer part; exterior; external; outdoor;—adv. not inside; out of doors; in the open air;—prep. on the outer part of; beyond.—out-sider n. one not belonging to a particular party, set, circle, etc.; a horse considered to have no chance of winning a particular race.

outside (out-sīz) a. and n. larger than the normal size, esp. of garments.

outskirt (out-skert) n. generally in pl. outskirts, the outer skirt; the border; the suburbs of a town. [harnees.]

outspan (out-span') v.t. to unyoke; to unspoke (out-spō'kn) a. not afraid to speak aloud one's opinions; bold of speech.

outstanding (out-standing) a. standing out; prominent; conspicuous; of debts, unpaid; of work, etc., still to be done.

outstrip (out-strip') v.t. to surpass in speed; to outrun; to leave behind.

outvote (out-vōt') v.t. to defeat by a greater number of votes.

outward (out-ward) a. pert. to the outside; external; exterior;—adv. towards the outside.—out-wards adv. outward; towards the outside.—out-wardly adv. externally.

outweigh (out-wā') v.t. to exceed in weight, value, influence, etc.

outwit (out-wīt') v.t. to defeat by cunning, stratagem, etc.; to get the better of.

outwork (out-wurk) n. part of fortress outside principal wall or main line of defence.

ouzel (ōō-zēl) n. a bird of the thrush family. Also ou'zel [O.E. osle].

ova (ō-va) n.pl. eggs; the female germ-cells.—o'vary n. one of two reproductive organs in female animal in which the ova are formed and developed; (Bot.) the part of the pistil containing the seed.—pl. o'varies, -ovarial, ova'rian (ō-vā'rī-əl, -ən) a. pert. to the ovary [L. ovum, an egg].

oval (ō-vāl) a. egg-shaped; elliptical;—n. an oval figure or thing.—o'vally adv. [L. ovum, an egg].

ovation (ō-vā'shun) n. an enthusiastic burst of applause; a triumphant reception [L. ovatio, a lesser form of triumph].

oven (uv'n) n. an iron box or enclosed chamber in a stove, range, etc., for baking or heating [O.E. ofn].

over (ō-ver) prep. above; on; upon; more than; in excess of; across; from side to side of; throughout; etc.;—adv. above; above and beyond; going beyond; in excess; too much; past; finished; across;—a. upper; outer; covering;—n. (Cricket) the number of balls delivered from each wicket alternately.—o'verall a. inclusive [O.E. ofer].

overact (ō-ver-akt') v.t. and i. to play a part (in a play) in an exaggerated manner.

overall (ō-ver-awl) n. a loose garment worn over the ordinary clothing as a protection against dirt, etc. Also n.pl.

overarm (ō-ver-ārm) a. and adv. in swimming, cricket, etc., with the hand and arm raised above the shoulder.

overawe (ō-ver-aw') v.t. to restrain by fear.

overbalance (ō-ver-bal'āns) v.t. to exceed in weight, value, etc.;—v.t. to lose one's balance; to fall over.

overbear (ō-ver-bār') v.t. to bear down; to repress; to overpower.—overbearing a. domineering; imperious; dogmatical.

overboard (ō-ver-bōrd) adv. over the side of a ship; out of a ship into the water.

overcast (ō-ver-kaast') v.t. to cast over; to cloud; to darken; to stitch over roughly.—o'vercast a. cloudy; dull.

overcharge (ō-ver-chāj') v.t. and i. to load too heavily; to charge at too high a price.

overcoat (ō-ver-kōt) n. an outdoor garment for men worn over ordinary dress; a great-coat; a top-coat.

overcome (ô-ver-kum') v.t. and i. to conquer; to overpower; to get the better of.
overdo (ô-ver-dôo') v.t. to do too much; to fatigue; to exaggerate; to cook too much.—overdone a. exaggerated; over-acted; fatigued; overcooked.—pa.t. overdid.
overdose (ô-ver-dôz') v.t. to give an excessive dose.—n. too great a dose.
overdraw (ô-ver-draw') v.t. and i. to exaggerate; to draw money in excess of one's credit.—overdraft n. act of overdrawing; amount drawn from bank in excess of credit.
overdress (ô-ver-dres') v.t. and i. to dress too showily for good taste.
overdue (ô-ver-dû') a. unpaid at right time; not having arrived at right time.
overestimate (ô-ver-es-tî-mât') v.t. to estimate too highly.
overflow (ô-ver-flô') v.t. to flow over; to flood; to fill too full;—v.i. to flow over the edge, bank, etc.; to abound.—overflow n. what flows over; flood; excess; superabundance; surplus; pipe for surplus water.
overgrow (ô-ver-grô') v.t. to grow beyond; to cover with growth;—v.i. to grow beyond normal size.—overgrown (ô-ver-grôn') a. covered with grass, weeds, etc.—overgrowth n.
overhand (ô-ver-hand') a. and adv. (Cricket, Swimming, etc.) with the hand raised above the level of the shoulder.
overhang (ô-ver-hang') v.t. and i. to hang over, to jut over; (Fig.) to threaten.
overhaul (ô-ver-hawl') v.t. to examine thoroughly and set — to; to overtake in pursuit.—overhaul n. a thorough examination, esp. for repairs; repair.
overhead (ô-ver-hed') a. and adv. over the head, above; aloft; in the sky.—overhead charges, costs, the permanent expenses of running a business, over and above cost of manufacturing and of raw materials.
overhear (ô-ver-her') v.t. to hear by accident.—pa.p. and pa.t. overheard.
overjoy (ô-ver-joi') v.t. to fill with great joy; to make excessively glad.
overland (ô-ver-land') a. and adv. wholly by land, esp. of a journey.
overlap (ô-ver-lap') v.t. and i. to lap over; to rest upon and extend beyond.
overlay (ô-ver-lâ') v.t. to spread over; to cover completely; to span.
overleaf (ô-ver-lef') adv. on the other side of a leaf of a book, on the next page.
overlie (ô-ver-lî') v.t. to lie on the top of; to smother a baby by lying on it in bed.
overload (ô-ver-lôd') v.t. to place too heavy a load on.—overload n. an excessive load.
overlook (ô-ver-look') v.t. to look over; to inspect, to superintend; to fail to notice by carelessness; to excuse; to pardon.
overlord (ô-ver-lord') n. one who is lord over another, a feudal superior.
overmantel (ô-ver-man-tl') n. a piece of furniture, with mirror and shelves, fixed over the mantelpiece.
overmuch (ô-ver-much') a. and adv. too overnight (ô-ver-nî't') adv. through and during the night; on the previous evening.
overpower (ô-ver-pou-er') v.t. to conquer by superior strength; to subdue; to crush.
overrate (ô-ver-rât') v.t. to put too high a value on; to assess too highly.
overreach (ô-ver-rîch') v.t. to reach beyond; to cheat.
override (ô-ver-rîd') v.t. to ride over; to ride too much; to set aside; to cancel.—pa.p. overrode.—pa.t. overrode.
overrule (ô-ver-rôol') v.t. to rule against or over, to set aside by superior authority.
overrun (ô-ver-run') v.t. to run over; to grow over, e.g. as weeds; to take possession by spreading over, e.g. as an invading army.
oversea, overseas (ô-ver-sê, -sêz) a. and adv. from or to a country or place over the sea; foreign; abroad.
oversee (ô-ver-sê') v.t. to inspect; to superintend; to supervise.—overseer (sê-er) n. an inspector; a superintendent; a supervisor; a manager.

overshadow (ô-ver-shad'ô) v.t. to cast a shadow over; (Fig.) to overshadow (a person).

overshoe (ô-ver-shôo') n. a shoe made of india-rubber, felt, etc., worn over the ordinary shoe; a galosh.

overshoot (ô-ver-shôot') v.t. to shoot beyond or over; to send too far; to go too far; to exceed.—pa.p. and pa.t. overshot.

oversight (ô-ver-sî't') n. failure to notice; unintentional neglect; management.

overstate (ô-ver-stât') v.t. to exaggerate.—overstatement n. exaggeration.

overstrain (ô-ver-strân') v.t. and i. to strain too much; to stretch too far; (Fig.) to work too hard;—n. overwork.—overstrained a. strained too far; (Fig.) exaggerated.

overstrung (ô-ver-strung') a. too highly strung; in a state of nervous tension; of a piano, having some of the longer strings crossing others obliquely, in order to save space.

overt (ô-ver't') a. open to view; public.—overtly adv. [Fr. ouvert, open].

overtake (ô-ver-tâk') v.t. to come up with; to catch; to take by surprise.

overthrow (ô-ver-thrô') v.t. to throw over or down; to upset; to defeat.—overthrow n. the act of throwing over; defeat; ruin; fall; (Cricket) a ball which has been returned to, but not stopped by, a fielder near the wicket.

overtime (ô-ver-tîm') n. time at work beyond the regular hours; the extra wages paid for such work.

overture (ô-ver-tûr') n. an opening of negotiations; a proposal; an offer; (Mus.) an orchestral introduction to an opera, etc. [Fr. ouvert, to open].

overturn (ô-ver-tern') v.t. and i. to throw down or over; to upset; to turn over; to capsize, to subvert.—overturn n.

overweening (ô-ver-wê-nîng') a. thinking too much of oneself; vain; arrogant [O.E. over-wenan, to become insolent].

overweight (ô-ver-wât') n. excess weight; extra weight beyond the just weight.

overwhelm (ô-ver-hwel'm') v.t. to crush; to submerge; to overpower.—overwhelming a. decisive; irresistible.—overwhelmingly adv. [M.E. whelmen, to overturn].

overwork (ô-ver-wurk') v.t. and i. to work too hard.—overwork n.—overwrought (ô-ver-raw't') a. tired out; highly excited.

ovi- (ô-vî) prefr. fr. L. ovum, an egg, used in derivatives.—oviduct n. a passage for the egg, from the ovary.—oviferous a. egg-bearing.—oviform a. egg-shaped.—oviparous a. producing eggs.

ovine (ô-vîn') a. pert. to sheep; like a sheep [L. ovis, a sheep].

ovo- (ô-vo) prefr. fr. L. ovum, an egg, used in derivatives.—ovoid a. egg-shaped; oval.

ovum (ô-vum') n. the female egg-cell; also, the embryo after fertilisation by the male sperm; an egg.—pl. ova [L. ovum, an egg].

owe (ô) v.t. to be bound to repay; to be indebted for.—owing (ô-ing') a. requiring to be paid [O.E. agan].

owl (oul') n. a night bird of prey; (Fig.) a dull, stupid-looking person.—owl'st n. a young owl; a small owl.—owl'sh a. owl-like in appearance [O.E. ule].

own (ôn') a. used to emphasise possession, e.g. my own money;—v.t. to possess; to acknowledge; to admit;—v.t. to confess.—own'er n. the rightful possessor.—ownership n. right of possession [O.E. agen (a.;) agian (v.;)].

ox (oks) n. a large cloven-footed and usually horned farm animal; a male cow.—pl. ox'en.—ox-eye n. one of several kinds of flowering plants [O.E. aza].

oxalic acid n. a poisonous acid found as an acid salt in wood-sorrel.—ox'ale n. a salt of oxalic acid [Gk. oxus, sharp, bitter].

oxide (ok'sid) n. a compound of oxygen and one other element. —ox'idise v.t. and i. to combine with oxygen to form an oxide; of metals, to rust, to become rusty. —oxidisa'tion n. [Gk. oxus, acid].

oxlip (oks'lip) n. species of primrose; greater cowslip [O.E. oxra, an ox; slippe, dung].

oxy- (oks'i) prefix fr. Gk. oxus sharp, used in derivatives. —oxy-acetylene (a-set'i-lén) a. denoting a very hot blowpipe flame, produced by a mixture of oxygen and acetylene, and used in welding steel and other metallurgical processes.

oxygen (oks'i-jen) n. a colourless, odourless, and tasteless gas, forming about $\frac{1}{5}$ by volume of the atmosphere, and essential to life, combustion, etc. —oxy'genate, oxy'genise v.t. to combine or treat with oxygen. —oxygena'tion n. —oxygenous (ok-sijé-nus) a. pert. to, or obtained from, oxygen [Gk. oxus, acid; gignesthai, to be born].

oxymoron (ok-si-mó-rón) n. a figure of speech in which two words or phrases of opposite meaning are set together for emphasis or effect, e.g. 'falsely true' [Gk. oxus, sharp; mórus, dull, stupid].

oyster (ois'ter) n. an edible, bivalve shellfish. —oys'ter-catch'er n. a wading-bird of the plover family; the sea-pe [Gk. ostréon].

ozone (ô-zôn) n. a condensed and very active form of oxygen with a peculiar, pungent odour; popularly, invigorating sea-side air. —ozon'ic a. [Gk. ozein, to smell.]

P

pabulum (pab'û-lum) n. food; nourishment (for body and mind). —pab'ular a. [L.].

pace (päs) n. a step; the length of a step in walking (about 30 inches); gait; rate of movement; —v.t. to measure by steps; to set the speed for; —v.i. to walk in a slow, measured fashion. —paced a. having a certain gait. —pac'er n. one who sets the pace for another [L. passus, a step].

pacha (pa-shaw') n. See pasha.

pachy- (pak'i) prefix from Gk. pachus, thick. —pachy'derm n. a thick-skinned, non-ruminant quadruped, e.g. the elephant. —pachyder'matous a. thick-skinned; insensitive. —pacify (pas'i-fi) v.t. to appease; to tranquillise. —pacif'ism, pacif'ism n. a doctrine which advocates abolition of war; anti-militarism. —pacif'ist, pacif'ist n. —pacif'ic a. peace-loving; calm or tranquil; peaceable, not warlike. —pacifica'tion n. —pacif'icatory a. tending to make peace; conciliatory. —pacif'ifier n. [L. pacificus, peace-making, fr. pac, peace].

pack (pak) n. bundle for carrying, esp. on back; a lot or set; a band (of animals); a set of playing-cards; (Rugby) the forwards; mass of floating ice; treatment of a fevered patient by enveloping in moist wrapping, army-rucksack. —v.t. to arrange closely in a bundle, box or bag; to stow away within; to fill, press together; to carry; to load; (with off) to dismiss summarily; —v.i. to collect in packs, heaps, or bundles. —pack'age n. a bundle or parcel, a charge for packing goods. —pack'er n. one who packs. —pack'et n. a small package; a packet-boat or mail-boat; (Slang) a large sum of money. —pack'et-boat n. a ship that sails regularly for the conveyance of mail and passengers. —pack'horse n. a horse for carrying burdens, in panniers or in packs. —pack'ing n. any material used to pack, fill up, or make close. —pack'ing-case n. a box in which to pack goods. —pack-man n. a pedlar. —pack-sadd'le n. a saddle for supporting loads on animal's back [Fr. paquet].

pact (pakt) n. an agreement; a compact [L. pactum, a thing covenanted].

pad (pad) n. anything stuffed with soft material, to fill out or protect; a cushion, a shin-guard (in games); sheets of paper fastened together in a book; the foot or sole of certain animals; —v.t. to furnish with a pad; to stuff; to expand. —pr.p. padding. —pa.p. and pa.t. padding. —padding n. the material used in stuffing; unnecessary matter inserted in a book or speech, etc., to expand it [etym. uncertain].

pad (pad) n. an easy-paced horse, or padnag; a path or road; a footpad or highway-robber; —v.i. to trudge along; to travel on foot [Dut. pad, a path].

paddle (pad'dl) n. a short oar with a broad blade at one or each end; a blade or float of a paddle-wheel; a flipper; —v.t. and i. to propel by paddles [etym. uncertain].

paddle (pad'dl) v.t. to walk with bare feet in shallow water; to dabble [etym. uncertain].

paddock (pad'dok) n. a small grass field or enclosure; on a race-course, the enclosure where horses are saddled before race [earlier parrock, fr. O.E. pearroc, a park].

padlock (pad'dok) n. a lock, a frog [O.E. pade, a load].

paddy (pad'dl) n. rice in the husk; rice in general [Malay padi].

padlock (pad'dok) n. a detachable lock with a hinged hoop to go through a staple or ring; —v.t. to fasten with a padlock [etym. uncertain].

padnag (padding) n. an easy-paced horse [pad and nag].

padre (pá'drá) n. title given to priest; chaplain with H.M. Forces [It. and Sp. = father, fr. L. pater].

paean (pé'an) n. orig. a joy-fest song in honour of Apollo; hence, any shout, song, or hymn of triumph [Gk. Paian, the physician of the Gods, epithet of Apollo].

paediatrics (pè-d-i-á'triks) n. (Med.) the branch dealing with the diseases and disorders of children. Also pediat'ries. —paediatrician n. [Gk. pais, paios, a child; iatros, healing].

pagan (pá'gan) n. a heathen; one who worships false gods; an idolater, —a. heathenish; idolatrous. —pa'ganish a. —pa'ganise v.t. to render pagan. —pa'ganism n. [L. paganus, a peasant].

page (páj) n. one side of a leaf of a book or manuscript; —v.t. to number the pages of. —paginal (pá'jin-al) a. —paginate (pá'jin-át) v.t. to page a book, to number the pages consecutively. —pagina'tion n. [Fr. page, fr. L. pagina, a leaf].

page (páj) n. formerly, a boy in service of a person of rank; a uniformed boy attendant esp. in a hotel; —v.t. to summon by sending a page to call [Fr. pager].

pageant (pá'j-ent, pá'j-ent) n. a show of persons in costume in procession, dramatic scenes, etc. usually illustrating history; a spectacle. —page'antry n. a brilliant display; pomp [L.L. pagina, a stage].

pagoda (pa-gó'dá) n. a temple or sacred tower in India, Burma, etc. [Port. pagode].

paid (páid) pa.p. and pa.t. of the v.b. pay.

pail (páil) n. a round, open vessel of wood, tin, etc., for carrying liquids; a bucket [etym. uncertain].

paillasse (pal'i-as, pal-yas'). 'See pal'lasso.

pain (pán) n. bodily or mental suffering; distress; ache; penalty or punishment; —pl. trouble; exertion; —v.t. to inflict bodily or mental suffering upon. —pain'ful a. full of pain; causing pain; difficult; distressing. —pain'fully adv. —pain'fulness n. —pain'less a. —pain'lessly adv. —pain'lessness n. —pains'taking a. carefully laborious [L. poena, punishment].

paint (pánt) n. colouring matter for putting on surface with brush, etc.; —v.t. to cover or besmear with paint; to make a picture of with paint; to adorn with, or as with, paint; —v.i. to practise the art of painting. —paint'er n. one who paints. —paint'ing n. laying on colours; the art of representing natural objects in colours; a picture in paint. —Painted Lady, an orange-red butterfly with black and white spots (L. pingere, to paint).

painter (pân'ter) n. a rope at the bow of a boat, used to fasten it to any other object [L. panthera, a fowler's net].

pair (pâr) n. two things of a kind; a single article composed of two similar pieces, e.g. a pair of scissors; a courting, engaged, or married couple; a mated couple of animals or birds;—v.t. to unite in couples;—v.i. to be joined in couples; to mate [L. par, equal].

pal (pal) n. (Collog.) a mate or partner; a close friend; an accomplice [Gipsy].

palace (pal'is) n. the house in which an emperor, king, bishop, or other great personage, resides; any magnificent house.—palatial (pâ-lî-shal) a. [L. palatium].

paladin (pal'a-din) n. a knight-errant; one of the twelve peers of Charlemagne [L. palatinus, an officer of the palace].

paleæ-, pale-, palæo-, paleo- (pal'ê-(o)) prefix from (Gk. palaios, ancient).—paleæography (pal'ê-ôg'ra-fî) n. ancient writings; art of deciphering ancient writings.—paleæograph'ic a.—paleæog'rapher n.—paleæolith (pal'ê-ô-lith) n. an unpolished stone implement of the earlier stone age.—paleæolith'ic a.—paleæology (pal'ê-ô-lô-jî) n. study of antiquities; archaeology.—paleo'ogist n.—paleæontology (pal'ê-on-tô-lô-jî) n. the study of fossils.—paleæontol'ogist n.—paleæontol'ogical a.—paleæozoic (pal'ê-ô-zô-ik) a. denoting the lowest fossiliferous strata and the earliest forms of life.

palanquin (pal'ân) n. a light, covered litter suspended from poles and borne on the shoulders of men—used in India and the East. Also palankeen' [Hind. = a bed].

palate (pal'at) n. the roof of the mouth; sense of taste; relish.—palatable a. agreeable to the taste; savoury.—pal'atably adv.—pal'atal a. pert. to palate; of a sound, produced by placing tongue against palate [L. palatum].

palatine (pal'a-tin) a. pert. to a palace; having royal privileges;—n. one who possesses royal privileges; a count palatine.—palat'inate n. the office or dignity of a palatine; the territory under his jurisdiction [L. Mons Palatinus, the Palatine hill].

palaver (pâ-lâ-ver) n. idle talk; empty conversation [Port. palavra, a word].

pale (pâl) a. faint in colour; not ruddy or fresh; whitish; dim; wan;—v.t. to make pale;—v.i. to grow white; to become pale.—pale'y adv.—pale'ness n. lack of colour; wanness.—pal'ish a. somewhat pale.—pale ale, a light-coloured beer.—pale-face n. name given to a white person by Red Indians [Fr. pâle, fr. L. pallidus, pale].

pale (pâl) n. a pointed wooden stake; a narrow board used for making a fence; a boundary;—v.t. to enclose with stakes; to encumber.—pal'ing n. a fence formed of wooden stakes; fencing [L. palus, a stake].

palette (pal'et) n. a thin oval board; board on which a painter mixes his colours.—pal'ette-knife n. a thin-bladed knife for mixing colours [L. pala, a spade].

palFREY (paw'fry, pal'fri) n. a small saddle-horse, esp. for a lady [O. Fr. palfrei, fr. L. paracerdus, an extra post-horse].

Pali (pâ-lî) n. the sacred language of the Buddhists [Sans. pali, cet].

palimpsest (pal'imp-sët) n. a parchment-manuscript that has been written upon twice, the first writing having been erased [Gk. pala, again; psêstos, rubbed].

palindrome (pâ-lîn-drôm) n. a word or sentence that is the same when read backward or forward, e.g. level [Gk. pala, back; dromos, running].

palisade (pal-is-âd') n. fence of pales or stakes driven into ground;—v.t. to enclose with such fence [L. palus, stake].

pall (paw) n. a large, usually black cloth laid over the coffin at a funeral; an ecclesiastical mantle; (Fig.) a covering [L. pallium, a cloak].

H.O.D.

pall (paw) v.t. to make tedious or insipid;—v.i. to become tedious or insipid [prob. shortened fr. appal].

palladian (pâ-lî-di-an) a. denoting a classical style of architecture [fr. Andria Palladio, a 16th cent. Italian architect].

palladium (pâ-lî-di-um) n. a rare metal of the platinum group [fr. Gk. Pallās].

pallet (pal'et) n. a small, rude bed; a straw mattress [Fr. paille, straw].

pallet (pal'et) n. a palette; a tool with a flat wooden blade used by potters and other workers [form of palette].

palliasse (pal'i-as, pal-yas') n. hard under-mattress of straw. Also palliasse [Fr. paille, straw, fr. L. palea, chaff].

palliate (pal'i-ât) v.t. to lessen or abate without curing; to excuse or extenuate.—pallia'tion n.—palliative (pal'i-ât-iv) a. serving to extenuate, to mitigate.—n. that which excuses, mitigates, alleviates [L. palliatūs, dressed in a cloak].

pallid (pal'id) a. deficient in colour; pale; wan.—pal'l'idly adv.—pal'l'idness n.—pall'or n. paleness [L. pallidus, pale].

pall-mail (pal-mel') n. an old game in which a wooden ball was driven with a mallet through an iron arch; the alley in which the game was played [It. palla, a ball; maglio, a mallet].

palm (pâm) n. the inner, slightly concave surface of hand, between wrist and fingers; linear measure, reckoned as 3 or 4 inches; flat, expanding end of any arm-like projection, esp. blade of ear; that part of skin on which it runs;—v.t. to cover in the palm; to impose by fraud (with 'off').—palmar (pâl-mar) a. pert. to the palm.—pal'mate a. having shape of hand;—pal'm-footed a.—pal'mist (pâl' or pal'mist) n. one who claims to tell fortunes by the palm of the hand.—pal'mistry (pâl' or pal'mis-try) n. telling fortunes by the lines on the hand [L. palmā, the palm].

palm (pâm) n. a branchless, tropical tree having at its summit a tuft of large leaves shaped like the palm of the hand; a branch or leaf of this tree used as a symbol of victory; prize of honour.—palmer (pâl-mar) n. in the Middle Ages, one who visited the Holy Land, and bore a branch of palm in token thereof; an itinerant monk.—palmet'o n. a species of palm tree.—pal'mif'erous a. producing palm trees.—pal'm'y a. bearing palms; (Fig.) prosperous, flourishing.—pal'm-but'ter n. palm-oil.—palm-oil n. an oil or fat obtained from fruit of species of palms, and used to make soap, candles, etc.; (Slang) bribe or tip.—Palm Sunday, Sunday before Easter [L. palmā, a palm].

palmyra (pal-mî-fra) n. a tall E. Indian palm [Port. palmeira].

palomino (pal'o-minô) n. a cream-coloured horse of Arabian stock. Its mane and tail are usually lighter coloured. [Sp.]

palpable (pal'pa-bl) a. that may be touched or felt; certain; obvious.—pal'pably adv.—pal'pableness n.—pal'pate v.t. to examine with the hand.—palpa'tion n. examination by touch [L. palpare, to feel].

palpitate (pal'pî-tî-tî) v.t. to beat rapidly, as heart; to throb; to pulsate.—palpita'tion n. [L. palpitare, fr. palpare, to feel].

palsy (paw'zi) n. paralysis; a loss of power of movement or of feeling;—v.t. to paralyse.—pal'sied a. [fr. paralysis].

palter (paw'ter) v.t. to trifle with; to deal evasively; to use trickery; to dodge.—pal'ter'at'ion n.—pal'try a. mean; worthless.—pal'triness n. [etym. uncertain].

paludal (pal'û-dal, pâ-lû-dal) a. pert. to a marsh; malarial [L. palus, paludis, a marsh].

pampas (pâm'paz) n.pl. vast grassy, treeless plains in S. America [Sp. pampa, fr. Peruv. bamba, a plain].

pamper (pam'per) v.t. to gratify unduly; to over-indulge; to coddle.—pan'perer n. [perh. Low Ger. pampen, to cram].

pamphlet (pam'flet) n. a thin, paper-covered, unbound book; a short treatise or essay on a current topic.—pamphleteer (pam'fle-tēr') n. a writer of pamphlets [O.Fr. Pamphlet, the title of a medieval poem (taken as the type of a small book)].

pan (pan) n. a broad, shallow metal vessel for household use; anything resembling this; of an old type of gun, part of the flint-lock that held the priming; abbrev. of brain-pan, the upper part of the skull.—v.t. and i. to wash gold-bearing soil in a pan in order to separate earth and gold; to move a cinema-camera, while it is taking a picture horizontally (fr. panorama) [O.E. panne].

pan- (pan) prefix fr. Gk. pas, *pan*tos, all, used in such words as—pan-American a. pert. to movement of the 21 American republics to foster collaboration between N. and S. America.

panacea (pan-a-sē'a) n. a cure for all diseases; a universal remedy [Gk. panakeia, a universal remedy].

panache (pan-ash') n. plume of feathers used as head-dress; a swaggering manner [Fr. L.].

panama (pan-a-mā') n. a hat made of fine, pliant strawlike material [made in S. America, but not in Panama].

pancake (pan'kāk) n. a thin cake of batter fried in a pan;—v.t. to land an aeroplane almost vertically and in a level position.

panchromatic (pan-kro-mat'ik) a. (Phot.) pert. to plates or films which, although reproduction is in monochrome, give to all colours their proper values [Gk. pan, all; chrōma, colour].

pancreas (pan'krē-as) n. (Anat.) digestive gland behind stomach; in animals, the sweetbread.—pancreat'ic a. [Gk. pan, all; kreus, flesh].

panda (pan-da) n. a raccoon-like animal found in S. and E. borders of Tibet; the bear-cat [Native word].

pandeckt (pan'dekt) n. usually a treatise that contains the whole of any science;—pl. any code of laws [Gk. pandektēs, all receiving, comprehensive].

pandemic (pan-dem'ik) a. of a disease, universal; widely distributed; affecting a nation [Gk. pan, all; dēmos, people].

pandemonium (pan-de-mō-ni-um) n. the abode of evil spirits; any disorderly, noisy place or gathering; a riotous uproar [Gk. pan, all; daimōn, a demon].

pander (pan'der) n. (fem. pan'deress) a go-between in base love intrigues; one who ministers to the evil desires and passions of others;—v.t. to act as a pander; to help to satisfy any unworthy desires [fr. Pandarus in the story of Troilus and Cressida].

pane (pān) n. a sheet of glass in a window; a square in a pattern.—paned (pānd) a. [fr. pan, a flat section].

panegyric (pan-e-jir'ik) n. a speech of praise; a eulogium.—panegyric'al a.—pan'egyrst n. one who writes or pronounces a eulogy.—panegyrise v.t. to praise highly [Gk. pan, all; agora, an assembly].

panel (pan'el) n. a rectangular piece of cloth, parchment, or wood; a sunk portion of a door, a list of jurors; a jury; list of medical practitioners registered to serve patients insured under National Health Service Act.—v.t. to divide into, or decorate with, panels.—pan'elling n. panelled work [O.Fr. = a small panel].

panic (pang) n. a sudden pain, physical or mental; a throes [etym. doubtful].

panic (pan'ik) n. sudden terror, often unreasoning; infectious fear;—a. extreme and illogical (of fear);—v.t. to be seized with sudden, uncontrollable fright.—pan'ic pan'icked.—pan'icky a. affected by panic.—pan'ic-mong'er n. one who tries to create panic.—

pan'ic-strick'en a. seized with paralysing fear [Gk. = fear excited by Pan].

panjandrum (pan-jan'drum) n. a burlesque title for an imaginary potentate; a pompous person [invented word].

pannier (pan'yer) n. one of a pair of baskets carried on each side of a pack-animal; a puffing-out round hips of a lady's skirt; framework to achieve this [L. panarium, a bread-basket].

pannikin (pan'ik-kin) n. a small tin mug [fr. pan].

panoply (pan'lo-pil) n. a complete suit of armour; anything that covers or envelops completely.—pan'oplied a. fully armed [Gk. pan, all; hopla, arms].

panorama (pan-o-rā'ma) n. a complete view in every direction; a picture exhibited by being unrolled and made to pass continuously before the spectator.—panoram'ic a. [Gk. pan, all; hōrama, a view].

pansy (pan'si) n. a cultivated species of violet. Also called Heart's-ease or Love-in-Idleness. (Slang) an effeminate man [Fr. pensee, thought].

pant (pant) v.t. to breathe quickly and in a laboured manner; to gasp for breath; to yearn (with 'for' or 'after');—v.i. to utter gaspingly;—n. a gasp [O.Fr.].

pantaloon (pan-tā-lōon') n. an elderly, ridiculous character in Italian comedy of former times;—pl. tight trousers [It. pantalone, buffoon, who was always represented with long tight trousers].

pantheicon (pan-tek'n-i-kon) n. storage place for furniture; large van for transporting furniture [Gk. pan, all; technē, art].

pantheism (pan'thē-izm) n. the doctrine that identifies God with the universe, everything being considered as part of or a manifestation of Him.—pan'theist n.—panthēst'ic(al) a.—panthēol'ogy n. a system which embraces all religions and all gods [Gk. pan, all; theos, god].

Pantheon (pan'thē-on) n. a circular temple in Rome; a building in Paris, where the illustrious dead of France are buried; a temple dedicated to all the gods [Gk. pan, all; theos, a god].

panther (pan'ther) n. (fem. pan'theress) a variety of leopard [Gk. panthēr].

pan tile (pan'til) n. a roofing tile curved like the letter S [pan and tile].

panto- (pan'tō) prefix fr. Gk. pas, *pan*tos, all, used in derivatives.—pan'tograph n. an instrument for copying drawings, maps, etc., on an enlarged, a reduced, or the same scale [Gk. graphein, to write].

pantomime (pan'tō-mim) n. a dramatic entertainment in dumb show; a Christmas-time dramatic and spectacular entertainment usually founded on a fairy tale;—v.t. and i. to act or express by gestures only.—pan'tomim'ic a.—pan'tomimist n. [Gk. pas, *pan*tos, all; mimos, mimic].

pantry (pan'tri) n. a small room for storing food or kitchen utensils [L. panis, bread].

pants (pantz) n.pl. (Colloq.) trousers; short trousers of a light fabric, men's long light drawers [abbrev. of pantaloon].

panzer (pan'tser) a. (World War 2) armoured, esp. in panzer division, a mechanised division of the German army [Ger. Panzer, armoured].

pap (pap) n. soft food for infants, etc., e.g. bread soaked in milk [fr. baby language].

pap (pap) n. a nipple; a teat, a woman's breast; a small round hill resembling a nipple in shape [M.E. pappe].

papacy (pā-pā-si) n. the office and dignity of the Pope; Popes collectively.—papal (pā'pā) a. [It. papa, father].

papaverous (pā-pū-er-us) a. pert. to or resembling the poppy. Also papavereous a. [L. papaver, the poppy].

pawpaw (pā-paw') n. a palm-like S. American tree.

paper (pā'per) n. a material made by pressing pulp of rag, straw, wood, etc., into thin flat sheets; a sheet of paper written or printed on; a newspaper; an article or essay; a document; paper-hangings for covering walls; a set of examination questions; —n.pl. document(s) establishing one's identity; ship's official documents; —a. consisting of paper; —v.t. to cover with paper. —pa'pery a. resembling paper. —pa'per-shase n. a cross-country race in which runners going ahead lay a trail of torn-up pieces of paper. —pa'per-slip n. an appliance for holding together sheets of paper, etc. —pa'per-hang'er n. a tradesman, usually a painter, who hangs paper on walls. —pa'per-knife n. a knife with a blunt blade for opening envelopes, etc. —pa'per-mon'ey n. official pieces of paper issued by a government or bank for circulation instead of gold, silver, etc.; coins; bank-notes. —pa'per-weight n. small, heavy object to prevent loose sheets of paper from being displaced [Gk. papuros, a Nile rush fr. which paper was made].

papier-mâché (pa-pi-ya-mâ-shâ) n. paper pulp, mixed with glue, etc., shaped or moulded into articles, e.g. trays, fancy boxes, etc. [Fr. papier, paper; mâché, chewed].

papilionaceous (pa-pi-yo-nâ-shus) a. like a butterfly [L. papilio, a butterfly].

papilla (pa-pil-la) n. a small nipple-shaped protuberance in a part of the body, e.g. on surface of tongue [L. papilla, the nipple].

papist (pâ-pist) n. a supporter of the papal system; a Roman Catholic. —papist'ical a. pert. to the doctrines, etc., of the Church of Rome; Popish. —pa'pistrv n. Popery [Fr. papiste, fr. pape, the Pope].

papoose (pa-pôos') n. a N. American Indian baby.

pappus (pap'us) n. down, as on the seeds of the thistle, dandelion, etc. —pappose (pap'ôs') a. downy [Gk. pappos, down].

papula, papule (pap'u-la, -ûl) n. a pimple on the skin [L.].

papyrus (pa-pi-rus) n. a species of reed, the pith of which was used by the ancients for making paper; a manuscript on papyrus. —pl. papyri [Gk. papyrus, an Egyptian rush].

par (pâr) n. equality of value or circumstances; face value (of stocks and shares), (stolt) the number of strokes for hole or course in perfect play [L. par, equal].

parable (par'a-bl) n. fable or allegory with a moral. —parabol'ical a. —parabol'ically adv. [Gk. parabolê, a comparison].

parabola (pa-ra-bo-la) n. (Geom.) a conic section made by a plane parallel to side of cone. —parabol'ical a. —paraboloid n. solid formed when parabola is revolved round its axis [Gk. para, beside; bolê, a throw].

parachute (par'a-shût) n. a collapsible umbrella-like device used to retard the descent of a falling body. —par'achutist n. —par'achute-troops n.pl. See paratroops [Fr. parer, to make ready; chute, a fall].

paraclete (par'a-klêt) n. (Bib.) the name given to the Holy Ghost; one called to aid or support; an advocate [Gk. paraklêtos, called to help].

parade (pa-râd') n. display; show; a public walk or procession; a muster of troops for drill or inspection, the ground on which such a muster takes place; —v.t. to make a display or spectacle of; to marshal in military order; —v.i. to march in military array; to march in procession with display [L. parare, to prepare].

paradigm (par'a-dim) n. an example; a model; (Gram.) a word, esp. a noun, verb, etc., given as an example of grammatical inflections. —paradigmat'ic a. —paradigmat'ically adv. [Gk. paradigma, a model].

paradise (par'a-dis) n. the garden of Eden; heaven; a state of bliss. —paradisal (par-a-dis'âk) a. —paradis'ial a. pert. to or like paradise [Gk. paradisos, a pleasure-ground].

paradox (par'a-doks) n. a statement seemingly absurd or self-contradictory, but really founded on truth. —paradox'ical a. —paradox' ically adv. [Gk. para, against; doxa, an opinion].

paraffin (par'a-fin) n. a white wax-like substance obtained from shale, coal-tar, wood, etc.; oil from the same source used as an illuminant or lubricant [L. parum, little; affinis, related].

paragon (par'a-gon) n. a pattern of excellence; a person or thing of the highest excellence [It. paragone].

paragraph (par'a-graf) n. a distinct part of a writing; a section or sub-division of a passage, indicated by the sign ¶, or begun on a new line; —v.t. to arrange in paragraphs. —para-graph'ic a. [Gk. paragrapbos, a marginal stroke].

parakeet (par'a-kê't) n. a small long-tailed parrot. Also par'akeet, par'oquet [Fr. perroquet, a parrot].

paraldehyde (par-al'dê-hid) n. a powerful narcotic [Gk. para and aldehyde].

parallel (par'a-lêl) a. continuously at equal distance; precisely corresponding; similar; —n. a line equidistant from another at all points; a thing exactly like another; a comparison; a line of latitude; —v.t. to make parallel; to represent as similar; to compare. —pr.p. par'alleling or par'alleling. —pa.p. and pa.t. par'alleled or par'alleled. —par'allelism n. the state of being parallel; comparison, resemblance. —parallel bars, horizontal bars for gymnastic exercises [Gk. parallêlos, beside one another].

parallelogram (par-a-lêlô-g'ram) n. a four-sided plane figure with both pairs of opposite sides parallel [Gk. parallêlos, beside one another; gramma, a line].

paralysis (pa-râ-lî-sis) n. (Med.) loss of power of movement or sensation. —paralyse (par'a-lîz) v.t. to affect with paralysis; to make useless; to cripple. —paralyt'ic a. pert. to, affected with, paralysis; —n. one affected with paralysis. —infantile paralysis, inflammation of grey matter in spinal cord, usually in children; poliomyelitis [Gk. para, beside; lucn, to loosen; doublet of palsy].

paramount (par'a-mount) a. superior; of highest importance; chief. —par'amountcy n. the quality of being paramount. —par'amountly adv. [Fr. par amont, upwards].

paramour (par'a-môor) n. a partner in an illicit love intrigue; a mistress [Fr. par amour, through love].

paranoia, paranoes (par-a-nâ-ô, -nê-ô) n. (Med.) a form of chronic insanity, often characterised by delusions of grandeur, persecution, etc. —paranoi'ac a. and n. [Gk. para, beside; noein, to think].

parapet (par'a-pet) n. a low wall or railing at the edge of a bridge, quay, balcony, etc.; a breastwork to protect soldiers, esp. a mound along the front of a trench [It. parare, to ward off; petto, the breast].

paraphernalia (par-a-(r-nâ-ô)-li-ô) n.pl. personal belongings; furnishings or accessories; (Law) goods of wife beyond dowry [Gk. para, beyond; phernê, a dowry].

paraphrase (par'a-frâz) n. a re-statement of a passage; a free translation into the same or another language; an interpretation; a versified passage of Scripture; —v.t. to express in other words; to interpret freely. —par'aphrast n. one who paraphrases. —paraphras'tic a. —paraphras'tically adv. [Gk. para; phrasisin, to speak].

parasite (pa a-sit) n. formerly, one who habitually ate at the table of another, repaying with flattery; a hanger-on; a toady; a plant or animal that lives on another. —parasit'ic a. —parasit'ically adv. —parasit'ology n. the study of parasites, esp. as causes of disease. —parasitolog'ical a. —parasitolog'ist n. [Gk. parasitos, fr. para, beside; stios, food].

parasol (par'a-sol) n. a small, light umbrella used to protect from the sun's rays [It. parare, to ward off; solo, the sun].

paratroops (par'-trôops) n.pl. (World War 2) troops organized to descend by parachute with their equipment from aeroplanes and gliders. — paratrooper n.

paravane (par'-vân) n. (Naval War) a contrivance like an under-water kite towed from a ship's bows, used to sweep aside and out the moorings of submerged mines [Gk. para, beside; and vane].

parboil (pâr'bôil) v.t. to boil partially; (Fig.) to overheat [L. per, thoroughly, confused with 'part'; boil].

parcel (pâr-sel) n. (Arch.) a part or portion; a bundle or package (wrapped in paper); a number of things forming a group or lot; a piece of land; — v.t. to divide into portions; to distribute; to wrap up. — pr.p. par'celling. — pa.p. and p.t. par'celled [Fr. parcelle, a little part].

parch (pârch) v.t. to scorch; to shrivel with heat; to dry to an extreme degree; — v.i. to be scorched [M.E. parchen].

parchment (pârçh'ment) n. the skin of a sheep or goat etc., prepared for writing on; a document written on this [fr. Pergamum in Asia Minor, where first used].

pard (pârd) n. the leopard or panther; (Poet.) any spotted animal [Gk. pardos].

pardon (pâr'don) v.t. to forgive; to free from punishment; to excuse; — n. forgiveness; remission of a penalty. — par'donable a. excusable. — par'donably adv. — par'donableness n. — par'doner n. one who pardons; formerly, one who sold pardons or papal indulgences [Fr. pardonner].

pare (pâr) v.t. to cut or shave off; to remove the outer skin; to peel. — par'er n. — par'ing n. the action of paring; that which is pared off [Fr. parer, to make ready].

paregoric (par-e-gôr'ik) a. soothing; assuaging pain; — n. a soothing medicine [Gk. parëgorikos, comforting].

parent (pâr-ent) n. a father or mother; one who, or that which, brings forth or produces. — par'entage n. descent from parents; birth; extraction. — parental (pâr-ent'al) a. pert. to, or becoming, parents; tender; affectionate. — parentally adv. [L. parere, to bring forth].

parenthesis (pâr-enth'-sis) n. a word or sentence inserted in a passage independently of the grammatical sequence and usually marked off by brackets, dashes, or commas; — paren'theses (-sêz) n.pl. round brackets (), used for this. — parenthet'ic, parenthet'ical a. expressed as a parenthesis; interposed. — parenthet'ically adv. [Gk. para, beside; en, in; thesis, a placing].

parhelion (pâr-hêl'-ion) n. a mock sun. — pl. par'hê'lia [Gk. para, beside; hêlios, the sun].

pariah (pâr', pâr'-i-g) n. in S. India, one deprived of all religious or social rights; a member of the lowest or no caste; an outcast from society; a yellow, ownerless dog in India [Tamil, paraiyar, a drummer].

parietal (pâr-î-ê-tal) a. pert. to a wall; pert. to the wall of the body or its cavities [L. paries a wall].

parish (pâr'-ish) n. a sub-division of a county; orig. an ecclesiastical district; a district under a priest or clergyman; — a. pert. to a parish. — parishioner (pâr'-ish-on-er) n. an inhabitant of a parish; a member of a parish church [Gk. para, beside; oikos, a dwelling].

parity (pâr'-ti) n. equality; analogy; close correspondence [L. par, paris, equal].

park (pârk) n. a large enclosed piece of ground, usually with grass and trees, attached to a country house; similar ground in towns, for public use and recreation; a sports' ground; a place set aside for storing motor-cars, etc.; — v.t. to enclose in a park; to leave in a park, e.g. a motor-car [O.E. pearroc; Fr. parc].

parka (pâr'-ka) n. an Eskimo outer garment of undressed skin [Aleutian].

parlance (pâr-lans) n. a way of speaking; a form of speech. — parley (pâr'll) n. a meeting between leaders of opposing forces to discuss terms; — v.t. to hold a discussion about terms [Fr. parler, to speak].

parliament (pâr-lament) n. the supreme legislature of the United Kingdom, composed of the House of Lords and House of Commons; any similar foreign assembly. — parliament'ary a. pert. to, enacted by, or according to, the established rules of parliament; of language, admissible in parliamentary debate, hence, decorous and non-abusive. — parliament'arian n. a skilled debater in parliament [Fr. parlement, fr. parler, to speak].

parlour (pâr'lur) n. a family sitting-room; a private room in an inn; orig. a room for private conversation [Fr. parloir, fr. parler, to speak].

parlous (pâr'lus) a. hard to escape from; perilous; critical [fr. perilous].

Parnassus (pâr-nas'-us) n. a mountain in ancient Greece, sacred to Apollo and the Muses; (Fig.) poetry; an anthology of poetry. — Parnas'sian a. pert. to, or inhabiting, Parnassus; — n. one of a school of later 19th cent. French poets, who were reactionaries to the Romantic school.

parochial (pâr-ô-ki-âl) a. pert. to a parish; provincial; narrow-minded; petty. — parô-ehially adv. — parô'ehialism n. [L. parochia, a parish, fr. Gk. paroikia, to dwell near].

parody (pâr-ô-di) n. an imitation of a poem, song, etc., where the style is the same but the theme ludicrously different; a feeble imitation; — v.t. to write a parody of; to burlesque in verse. — parô'dist n. [Gk. para, beside (i.e. imitating); ôdê, a song].

parole (pâr-ôl') n. word of honour, esp. a promise given by a prisoner of war not to attempt to escape [Fr. parole, a word].

paronomasia (pâr-ô-nô-mâ-zî-a) n. a play on words; a pun. — par-onym n. a word similar in sound to another but different in spelling and meaning, e.g. fair and fare. — par-onymous a. [Gk. para, beside; onoma, a name].

parotid (pâr-ô-tid) a. near the ear; — n. a large salivary gland, in front of and below the ear [Gk. para, beside; ous, ôtos, the ear].

paroxysm (pâr-ok-sizm) n. sudden, violent attack of pain, rage, laughter; fit; convulsion [Gk. para, beyond; oxus, sharp].

parquet (pâr-ket) n. flooring of wooden blocks instead of boards; — v.t. to lay such a floor. — parquetry (pâr-ke-tri) n. [Fr. parquet, flooring].

parr (pâr) n. a young salmon [etym. uncertain].

parrakeet (pâr-a-kêt) n. Same as parakeet.

parricide (pâr-i-sid) n. one who murders his father, a parent, a near relative, or a person who is venerated; the crime itself [L. pater, a father; caedere, to kill].

parrot (pâr-ot) n. tropical bird with bright plumage and short hooked beak; one who repeats words, actions, ideas, etc. of another [Fr. perroquet, a parrot].

parry (pâr'-i) v.t. to ward off; to turn aside; to avoid; to evade [L. parare, to prepare].

parse (pâr-z) v.t. to classify word or analyse a sentence in terms of grammar. — par'sing n. [fr. school question in L. quæ pars orationis? What part of speech?].

Parsee, Farai (pâr-sê) n. a follower of the disciples of Zoroaster, or their descendants in Persia and India; a fire-worshipper. — Par'seen n. [Pers. Parseh, a Persian].

parsimony (pâr-môn-i) n. stinginess; undue economy; excessive thrift. — par'sim'ni-ous (pâr-so-mô-ni-us) a. stingy; excessively frugal; niggardly. — par'sim'ni-ously adv. — par'sim'ni-ousness n. [L. parcere, to spare].

parsley (pâr'll) n. a garden herb, used as a flavouring or garnish in cookery. — bow parsley, wild chervil [Gk. petroselinon, rock parsley].

parsnip (pâr-nip) n. a root-vegetable, carrot-like in shape [L. fr. pastinaca, to dig up].

parson (pâr-sen) n. a clergyman; the incumbent of a parish. — par'sonage n. the residence of a n.—parson's nose, the rump of a fowl [person].

part (párt) n. a portion, fragment, or section of a whole; a share or lot; a division; an actor's role; duty; interest; a melody in a harmonic piece;—pl. accomplishments or talents; region;—v.t. to divide; to separate; to share;—v.i. to separate; to take leave; to part with or give up; (Slang) to pay out money.—part'ing n. the act of separating; leave-taking; division; dividing-line;—a. given on taking leave.—part'ly adv. in part; in some measure or degree.—part'ible a. divisible.—partibility n. susceptibility of division or partition [L. pars, a part].

partake (pár-ták') v.t. and i. to have or take a share in; to take food or drink.—pa.p. partak'en.—pa.t. partook'.—parta'ker n. [fr. part and take].

parterre (pár-ter') n. an ornamental arrangement of flower-beds, the pit of a theatre [Fr. par terre, on the earth].

parthenogenesis (pár-the-nó-jen-é-sis) n. reproduction without sexual union [Gk. parthenos, virgin, genesis, birth].

Parthia (pár-thi-a) n. (Geog.) an ancient country corresponding to N. Iran.—a Parthian shot, originally, a deadly arrow shot while the Parthian soldier was pretending to retreat; a parting shot.

partial (pár-shal) a. affecting only a part; not total; inclined to favour unreasonably.—partial'ly adv.—partial'ity n. quality of being partial; favouritism, fondness for [L. pars, part].

participate (pár-tis-i-pát) v.t. and i. to share in; to partake (foll. by 'in')—partic'ipant n. a partaker;—a. sharing.—partic'ipator n.—participation (pár-tis-i-pá-shun) n. [L. pars, part; capere, to take].

participle (pár-ti-s-i-pl) n. (Gram.) an adjective formed by inflection from a verb.—partic'ipial a. [L. particeps, sharing].

particle (pár-ti-k'l) n. a minute portion of matter; the least possible amount; an atom, (Gram.) a part of speech which is uninflected and of subordinate importance [L. particula, a little part].

parti-coloured (pár-ti-kul-urd) a. partly of one colour, partly of another; variegated. Also par'ty-col'oured.

particular (pár-tik'ú-lar) a. relating to a single person or thing, not general; considered apart from others; minute in details, nice or fastidious in taste;—n. a single point or circumstance; a detail or item.—partic'ularly adv. especially; in a high degree; with great attention.—partic'ular'ity n. quality or state of being particular; individual characteristic.—partic'ularise v.t. and i. to mention one by one; to give in detail; to specify.—partic'ularisa'tion n. [L. particulus].

partisan (pár-ti-zan) n. adherent, often prejudiced, of a party or cause; a member of irregular troops engaged in risky enterprises;—a. adhering to a faction.—par'tisan'ship n. adherence to a party [Fr.].

partisan, partizan (pár-ti-zan) n. a long-handled pike [O.Fr. pertuisance].

partition (pár-tish-un) n. division or separation; any of the parts into which a thing is divided; that which divides or separates, as a wall, etc.;—v.t. to divide into shares; to divide by walls.—part'itive n. a word expressing partition; a distributive;—a. denoting a part.—part'itively adv. [L. partitio].

partner (párt'ner) n. a partaker; a sharer; an associate, esp. in business; a husband or wife; one who dances with another; in golf, tennis, etc., one who plays with another;—v.t. in games, to play with another against opponents.—part'nership n. the state of being a partner; the association of two or more persons for business [L. pars, a part].

partridge (pár-tri) n. a small game-bird of the grouse family [Gk. perdix].

parturient (pár-tú-ri-ént) a. bringing forth or about to bring forth young; prolific.—parturi'tion n. the act of bringing forth young [L. parturire, to be in labour].

party (párt'ti) n. a number of persons united in opinion; a political group; a social assembly; a participator; an accessory; a litigant;—a. pert. to a party or faction.—par'ty-col'oured a. parti-coloured [O.Fr. partir, to divide].

parvenu (pár-ve-nú) n. an upstart; a self-made person; one who has risen socially, esp. by the influence of money [Fr. fr. parvenir, to arrive at].

Pasch (pask) n. the Jewish festival of the Passover; Easter.—Pas'chal a. [Heb. pasach, to pass over]. (of high rank [Turk.]).

pasha (pá'sha, pa-sha') n. a Turkish official pasquin (pá'skwín) n. a writer of lampoons or satires; a lampoon or satire;—v.t. and i. to lampoon.—pas'qunade n. a lampoon [fr. It. Pasquino, a cobbler in whose yard a mutilated Roman statue was dug up, on which political lampoons were afterwards written or posted].

pass (pás) v.t. to go by, beyond, through etc.; to spend, to exceed; to approve; to disregard; to circulate; to send through; to move;—v.i. to go; to elapse; to undergo examination successfully; to happen; to die; to circulate.—pa.p. passed, past.—pa.t. passed.—n. a passage or way, esp. a narrow and difficult one; a pass-port; a permit; condition; success in an examination, test, etc.; in football, hockey, etc., the passing of the ball from one player to another.—pass'able a. that may be passed or crossed; fairly good; admissible; current.—pass'ably adv.—pass'book n. a small book issued by a bank in which are entered a customer's deposits and withdrawals.—pass'key n. a latch-key; a master-key.—pass'port n. an official document, issued by a State Department, granting permission to travel abroad.—pass'word n. (Mil.) a selected word given to sentries, soldiers, etc. used to distinguish friend from enemy.—to pass the buck (Slang) to shift responsibility to another [L. passus, a step].

passage (pas'-áj) n. the act, time, or right of passing; movement from one place to another; a journey; a voyage; fare for a voyage; entrance or exit; a corridor; part of a book, etc.; the passing of a law; an encounter; an incident.—passage of arms, a feat of arms.—bird of passage, a migratory bird [Fr. fr. L. passus, a step, a pace].

passé (pá-sá') a. past one's best; faded; rather out of date; antiquated [Fr.].

passenger (pas-en-jér) n. a traveller, esp. by some conveyance; (Colloq.) one of a team who does not pull his full weight;—a. adapted for carrying passengers [O.Fr. passager].

passé-partout (pás-pár-tú') n. something that enables one to pass anywhere, e.g. a master-key; a method of framing photographs or small pictures with the use of gummed tape [Fr.].

Passeriformes (pas'-r-i-for-méz) n. the largest order of birds, including all perching and song birds.—passerine (pas'-r-in) a. pert. to this order;—n. a bird of this order [L. passer, a sparrow].

passion (pas'hun) n. the story of Christ's suffering and last agony; intense emotion, as of grief, rage, love; eager desire.—pas'sionate a. easily moved to anger; moved by strong emotions; vehement.—pas'sionately adv.—pas'sionateness n.—pas'sionless a.—pas'sion-flow'r n. a plant of the genus Passiflora, with large purple flowers and edible fruit.—pas'sion-play n. a theatrical representation of Christ's passion.—pas'sion-week n. the week immediately preceding Easter [L. passio, fr. pati, to suffer].

passive (pas'iv) a. suffering; submissive; acted upon, not acting;—n. (Gram.) (or passive voice) the form of the verb which expresses that the subject is acted upon.—pass'ively adv.

—pass'iveness n.—pass'ivity n. state of being passive; inertia [L. pati, passus, to suffer].

Passover (pas'-ô-ver) n. a feast of the Jews to commemorate the time when God, smiting the first-born of the Egyptians, passed over the houses of the Israelites [pass and over].

past (past) a. pert. to former time; gone by; elapsed; ended;—n. former state; bygone times; one's earlier life;—prep. beyond; after; exceeding; beyond the scope of;—adv. by; beyond.—past master, a former master of a guild, freemasons, etc.; one adept or proficient [fr. pass].

paste (pâst) n. a soft composition, as of flour and water; dough prepared for pies, etc.; any soft plastic mixture or adhesive; pounded meat or fish; a fine glass for making artificial gems;—v.t. to fasten with paste; (Slang) to thrash.—pasty (pâs'ti, pas'ti) n. a pie enclosed in paste and baked without a dish;—a. (pâs'ti) like paste.—pas'try (pâs'tri) n. the crust of pies and tarts; articles of food made of paste or dough.—pas'try-cook n. one who makes and sells pastry.—pasteboard (pâst'hôrd) n. a stiff, thick paper;—a. made of pasteboard; flimsy or unsubstantial [O.Fr.].

pastel (pas'tel) n. a coloured crayon; a drawing made with such crayons.—pastel shades, delicate and subdued colours, esp. in fabrics [Fr. fr. L. pastillus, a little loaf].

pastern (pas'tern) n. part of horse's leg between fetlock and hoof [O.Fr. pasturon, shackle of horse at pasture].

Pasture (pas-ter') n. a French chemist, famous for his researches in hydrophobia, and suggestion of inoculation as a cure for many diseases.—pasturisa'tion n. the sterilisation of milk, etc. by heating to 140° F. or over and then cooling.—*pas'turise v.t.

pastiche, pasticcio (pas-têsh', pas-têch'ô) n. a medley made up from various sources; a picture or literary composition in the style of a recognised author or artist [It.].

pastille, pastil (pas-têl', pas'til) n. an aromatic substance burned for cleansing or scenting a room; a small lozenge, aromatic or medicated [Fr. fr. L. pastillus, a little loaf].

pastime (pas'tim) n. that which amuses and makes time pass agreeably; recreation; diversion [fr. pass and time].

pastor (pas'tôr) n. a minister of the gospel.—pas'toral a. pert. to shepherds or rural life; relating to the cure of souls, or the office of a pastor;—n. a poem describing rural life; an idyll.—pas'torally adv.—pas'torate n. the office or jurisdiction of a spiritual pastor.—pas'torship n. the office or rank of a pastor [L. pastor, a herdsman].*

pasture (pas'tôr) n. grass for food of cattle; ground on which cattle graze;—v.t. to feed on grass;—v.i. to graze.—pas'turable a.—pas'turage n. pasture-land; the business of grazing cattle [L. pascer, to feed].

paste (pâs'ti, pas'ti) n. See paste.
pat (pat) n. a light, quick blow, esp. with hand or fingers; a small lump, esp. of butter;—v.t. to strike gently.—pr.p. pat'ting.—pa.p. and pa.t. pat'ted [limit. origin].

pat (pat) a. ready; apt; at right moment;—adv. opportunely; without hesitation.—pat'ness n. [fr. pat, a light blow].

patch (pach) n. a piece of material used to mend a hole, rent, etc.; spot on surface of anything; small spot of black silk formerly worn on cheek by ladies;—v.t. to mend with a patch; to repair clumsily.—patch'y a. full of patches; unequal.—patch'work n. work made by sewing together pieces of cloth of different material and colour [O.Fr. pieche, a piece].

pate (pât) n. the top of the head; the head [etym. uncertain].

pâté (pâ-tê) n. paste; patty; pie.—pâté de foie gras (pâté' d'ô fwâ-grâ) a kind of meat paste made of fat goose-liver [Fr. pâté, pâte, pie; foie, liver; gras, fat].

patella (pa-tel'â) n. the knee-cap [L. = small pan].

paten (pat'en) n. a thin metal plate; the plate on which the consecrated bread in the eucharist is placed [L. patina, a plate].

patent (pâ'tent, pat'ent) a. open; evident; open to public perusal, as letters patent; protected by a patent;—n. short for letters patent, an official document granting a right, privilege, or title of nobility; such a document securing the exclusive right to invention; invention itself.—patent (pâ'tent) v.t. to secure or protect by a patent.—pat'ently adv. openly; evidently.—patentee (pâ'ten-tê', pat-en-tê') n. one who has secured a patent.—patent leather, leather with a varnished or lacquered surface [L. patens, open].

pater (pâ'ter) n. (Colloq.) father.—paterfamilias (pâ'ter- or pat'ér-fâ-mil'î-as) n. the head of a family [L. pater, a father; familia, a household].

paternal (pa-ter'nal) a. pert. to a father; fatherly; hereditary.—pat'ernally adv.—pat'ernity n. the relation of a father to his offspring; authorship [L. pater, a father].

paternoster (pat-er-nos'ter) n. the Lord's Prayer [L. pater, father; nos'ter, our].

path (path) n. a way, course, or track; course of action, conduct, or procedure.—path'finder n. a pioneer; (World War 2) an R.A.F. pilot selected to find the best direction from which to approach enemy target.—path'way n. a narrow footway [O.E. paeth].*

pathetic (pa-thet'ik) a. affecting or moving the tender emotions; causing pity; touching. Also pathet'ical.—pathet'ically adv.

patho- (pa-tho) prefix fr. Gk. pathos, suffering, feeling, used in derivatives.—pathogen'esis, pathog'eny n. the origin and development of disease.—pathogenet'ic, pathogen'ic a. causing disease.—patholog'ic n. the science and study of diseases, their causes, nature, cures, etc.—patholog'ic, patholog'ical a.—patholog'ically adv.—pathologist n. [Gk. genesis, birth; logos, discourse].*****

pathos (pâ'thos) n. the power of exciting tender emotions; deep feeling [Gk. fr. paschein, to suffer].

patient (pâ'shent) a. bearing trials without murmuring; not easily made angry; calm; not hasty;—n. a person under medical treatment.—pa'tiently adv.—pa'tience n. the quality of enduring with calmness; a card-game for one player [L. pati, to suffer].

patina (pa-tê'ng, pat'î-na) n. a film formed on antique bronze from exposure; the gloss on antique, well cared-for furniture; (Colloq.) surface [L. patina, a dish].

patio (pât'î-ô) n. the inner court of a Spanish house, open to the sky [Sp.].

patois (pat'wâ) n. a dialect; illiterate or provincial form of speech; jargon [Fr.].

patriarch (pâ'tri-ârk) n. the father and ruler of a family, esp. in Biblical history; the highest dignitary in the Eastern church; a venerable old man.—patriarch'al a.—patriarch'ate n. dignity or jurisdiction of a patriarch.—patriarchy n. government by the head or father of a tribe [Gk. pater, father; archin, to rule].*

patriolan (pa-trish'ân) a. pert. to the senators of ancient Rome and their descendants; of high birth; noble or aristocratic;—n. a person of high birth [L. patricius, fr. pater, father, senator].

patricide (pat'ri-sid) n. See paricide.

patrimony (pat'ri-mo-ni) n. a right or estate inherited from one's father or ancestors; heritage; a church estate or revenue.—patrimo'nial a.—patrimo'nially adv. [L. patrimonium fr. pater, father].

patriot (pâ'tri-ot, pat'ri-ot) n. one who loves his country and upholds its interests.—patriot'ic a. filled with patriotism.—patriot'ically adv.—patriotism n. love for, and loyalty to, one's country [L. patria, fatherland].*

patristic (pa-tris'tik) a. pert. to the fathers of the Christian church [L. pater, patris, father].

patrol (pa-tröl') v.t. and i. to go or walk round a camp, garrison, etc. in order to protect it.—pr.p. patrol'ing.—pa.p. and pa.t. patrolled'.—n. a going of the rounds by a guard; the man or men who go the rounds [O.Fr. patrouiller].

patron (pá'trun) n. (fem. patroness) a man under whose protection another has placed himself; a guardian saint; one who has the right of appointment to a church living or benefice; a regular customer.—patronage n. countenance, support, or encouragement given to a person or cause; condescending manner; in trade, regular custom.—patronise (pat-ro-níz) v.t. to act as a patron to; to assume the air of a superior towards; to frequent, as a customer.—patronisingly adv.—patron saint, a saint who is regarded as the special protector of a person, country, city, trade, etc. [L. patronus, fr. pater, father].

patronymic (pat-ro-ním'ik) n. a name derived from parent or ancestor; a surname [Gk. patér, father; onoma, a name].

patten (pat'ten) n. a wooden sole with an iron ring, for raising the feet above mud; a clog; (Archit.) the base of a column [Fr. patin].

patter (pat'ter) v.t. to make a quick succession of small taps or sounds, like those of rain falling [frequentative of put].

patter (pat'ter) v.t. to speak rapidly and indistinctly; to mutter.—v.i. to talk glibly or mechanically; to say prayers, n. chatter; prattle; lingo of a profession or class, jargon [fr. paternoster].

pattern (pat'tern) n. a model, example, or guide that is to be copied, or is worthy of imitation.—a. model; ideal;—v.t. to design from a pattern; to imitate.—patternmaker n. a worker in a foundry employed to make patterns for moulds [M.E. patron, a model].

patty (pat'ti) n. a little pie [Fr. paté].

paucity (pau'si-ti) n. fewness; scarcity; smallness of quantity [L. paucus, few].

paunch (paw'nsh, pá'nsh) n. the belly [L. pantex].

pauper (pau'per) n. (fem. pau'peress) a very poor person, esp. one supported by the public.—pau'perise v.t. to reduce to pauperism [L. = poor].

pause (pauz) n. a temporary stop or rest; cessation; hesitation; a break in speaking, reading, or writing; in music, a sign (|) or (⌣) to indicate the prolongation of a note or rest;—v.i. to make a short stop; to cease for a time [Gk. pausis].

pavan, pavane (pa-van') n. old-time stately dance, or its music [Fr. pavane].

pave (páv) v.t. to form a level surface with stone, brick, etc.; to make smooth and even; (Fig.) to prepare.—pave'ment n. a paved floor; a paved road or footpath; in towns, a sidewalk for pedestrians; (U.S.) the traffic way [L. pavire, to ram down].

pavid (pav'id) a. timid; shy [L. pavidus].

pavilion (pa-vil'yun) n. orig. a tent; hence, anything like a tent, e.g. a garden summer-house; a club-house on a playing-field, etc. [Fr. fr. L. papilio, a butterfly, a tent].

paw (paw) n. the foot of an animal having claws; (Slang) the hand;—v.t. and i. to scrape with the forefoot; (Colloq.) to stroke or fondle with hands [O.Fr. poer].

pawky (pawk'k) a. (Scol.) sly; artful; cunning; ironical [etym. uncertain].

pawn (paw'n) n. something deposited as security for money borrowed; a pledge; the state of being pledged;—v.t. to deposit as security for a loan; to pledge.—pawn'broker n. one who lends money on something deposited with him.—pawn'shop n. the place of business of a pawnbroker [O.Fr. pan, fr. L. pannus, cloth].

pawn (paw'n) n. a piece of the lowest rank in the game of chess; (Fig.) a person who is a mere tool in the hands of another [L.L. pedo, a foot-soldier].

pax (paks) n. the kiss of peace;—interj. (Colloq.) a truce! leave me alone! [L. pax, peace].

pay (pá) v.t. to discharge one's obligations to; to give money, etc., for goods received or services rendered;—v.t. to recompense; to be remunerative; to be worth the trouble.—pa.p. and pa.t. paid (pád).—n. reward; compensation; wages; salary.—pay'able a. justly due; profitable.—payee (pá-ó') n. one to whom money is paid.—pay'er n. one who pays.—pay'ment n. the act of paying; discharge of a debt; recompense; punishment.—paying guest, boarder or lodger [L. parare, to appease].

pay (pá) v.t. (Naut.) to cover with pitch; to caulk the seams of a ship [L. parare, to pitch].

pea (pé) n. the fruit, growing in pods, of a leguminous plant; the plant itself.—pl. peas. Also pease (péz) peas collectively.—pea'nut n. the earth-nut; the monkey-nut.—pea'soup n. soup made of dried peas, esp. yellow split peas.—pea'soup'er n. (Colloq.) a thick yellow fog, esp. in London.—sweet pea, a climbing garden annual, bearing sweet-scented flowers [Gk. pisos].

peace (pés) n. calm; repose; freedom from disturbance, war, or hostilities.—peace'able a. in a state of peace; disposed to peace; not quarrelsome.—peace'ably adv.—peace'ableness n.—peace'ful a. free from war, tumult, or commotion; mild; undisturbed.—peace'fully adv.—peace'fulness n.—peace'maker n. one who makes peace [L. pax, pacis].

peach (péch) n. a juicy stone-fruit with whitish flesh, and a velvety skin; the tree which bears this fruit; a soft pale orange-pink colour.—peach'y a. like, or characteristic of, a peach.—peach Melba, ice-cream with peaches [Fr. pêche].

peach (péch) v.t. (Slang) to inform against; to tell tales [abbrev. fr. impeach].

peacock (pé'kok) n. (fem. pea'henn) a bird remarkable for the beauty of its plumage, and for its large tail; a person vain of his appearance.—pea'fowl n. the peacock or peahen.—peacock blue, lustrous greenish-blue [L. paros, a peacock; and coek].

pea-jacket (pé-jak-et) n. a thick woollen jacket worn by seamen [Dut. pij, a coat of course, woollen material; and jacket].

peak (pék) v.t. to waste or pine away.—peak'y a. thin, sickly [etym. unknown].

peak (pék) n. the sharp top of a hill; the pointed end of anything; the projecting part of a cap-brim; the maximum point of a curve or record.—peaked a. pointed; projecting [Fr. pic; conn. with pique].

peal (pél) n. a loud sound, or succession of loud sounds, as of thunder, bells, laughter, etc.; a set of bells attuned to each other;—v.t. and i. to sound loudly; to celebrate [abbrev. fr. appeal].

pear (pär) n. a sweet, juicy fruit of oval shape; tree on which it grows [L. prum].

pearl (perl) n. a hard, smooth, lustrous substance, found in several molluscs, particularly pearl oyster, and used as a gem, something very precious; a small size of printing type, between ruby and diamond; colour of a pearl, a creamy grey;—a. made of pearls; pert. to pearls;—v.t. to adorn with pearls; to take a round form like pearls.—pear'ly a. of the colour of pearls; like pearls; abounding in pearls; clear, pure.—pear'liness n.—moth'er-of-pearl n. the inside surface or lining of pearl-oyster and other shells.—pear'lies n.pl. costermongers' dresses covered with pearl buttons [Fr. perle].

peasant (pez'ant) n. a rural labourer; a rustic;—a. rural.—peas'antry n. peasants collectively [Fr. peysan].

pease (pés) n.pl. peas collectively [Gk. pisos].

peat (pét) n. a brown, fibrous turf, formed of decayed vegetable matter, which is used as fuel.—peat'y a. like peat, in texture or colour.

—peat'-bog, peat'-moss n. marshland of which the foundation is peat.—peat'-hag n. a pool in peaty ground [etym. uncertain].

peavey (pé-vi) n. a lumberman's cant-hook [fr. Peavey, the inventor].

pebble (péb-^l) n. a small, roundish stone; transparent and colourless rock-crystal used for spectacle lenses.—pebb'led, pebb'ly a. full of pebbles [O.E. papoli].

peccable (pek-^a-bl) a. liable to sin.—peccabil'ity n. liability to sin.—pecc'ant a. sinful; offensive; causing trouble; (Med.) morbid.—pecc'aney n. [L. peccare, to sin].

peccadillo (pek-^a-dill-^o) n. a trifling offence; a slight mistake; an indiscreet action.—peccadil'los, or peccadil'loes [Sp. pecadillo, fr. pecado, a sin; L. peccare, to sin].

peck (pek) n. a measure of capacity for dry goods = 2 gallons, or the fourth part of a bushel; a great deal [O.Fr. pek].

peck (pek) v.i. and i. to strike with the beak; to pick up with the beak; to dab; to eat little quantities at a time;—n. (Colloq.) a kiss.—peck'er n. that which pecks; (Slang) sprits; courage.—peck'ish a. (Colloq.) somewhat hungry [form of pick].

pectoral (pek-tor-^{al}) a. pert. to the breast or chest [L. pectus, the breast].

peculate (pek-^u-lát) v.i. and i. to embezzle; to steal.—pecula'tion n. embezzlement.—pec'ulator n. [L. peculāri].

peculiar (pe-kūl'y-^{er}) a. one's own; belonging solely to; appropriate; particular; singular; strange.—pecu'liarly adv.—pecu'liarity (pe-kūl-^{ar}-i-ti) n. something that belongs to only one person, thing, class, people; a distinguishing feature; characteristic [L. peculium, private property, fr. pecus, cattle].

pecuniary (pe-kūn-ⁱ-^{ar}-i) a. pert. to, or consisting of, money.—pecu'niarily adv. [L. pecunia, money, fr. pecus, cattle].

pedagogue (ped-^a-gog) n. a schoolmaster; a pedantic teacher.—pedagogle (ped-^a-gog-^l-ik), pedagog'ical a.—pedagogy (ped-^a-gog-ⁱ-l), pedag'og'ies n. science of teaching [Gk. país, a boy; agogos, leading].

pedal (ped-^{al}) a. pert. to the foot;—n. a mechanical contrivance to transmit power by using foot as a lever, e.g. on bicycle, sewing-machine.—v.t. and i. to use the pedals of an organ, piano, etc.; to propel a bicycle by pedalling.—pr.-n. ped'al(l)ing.—v.p.p. and pa.t. ped'al(l)ed [L. pes, pedis, the foot].

pedant (ped-^{ant}) n. one who insists unnecessarily on petty details of book-learning, grammatical rules, etc.; one who shows off his learning.—pedant'is(al) a.—pedant'ically adv.—ped'antry n. [perh. conn. with pedagogue].

peddle (ped-^d) v.i. to travel from place to place selling small articles;—v.t. to sell or hawk goods thus.—ped'lar n. one who peddles goods; a door-to-door hawker. Also ped'(d)ler [O.E. ped, a basket].

pedestal (ped-^{es}-tal) n. anything that serves as a support or foundation; the base of a column, statue, etc. [Fr. piédestal].

pedestrian (pe-des-^{tr}-i-an) a. going on, performed on, foot; of walking; commonplace;—n. a walker; one who journeys on foot [L. pedester, fr. pes, a foot].

pediatrics (ped-ⁱ-at-riks) n. See paediatrics.

pedicel (ped-ⁱ-sel) n. a small, short footstalk of a leaf, flower, or fruit; (Anat. and Zool.) a narrow stalk-like part by which a larger part is attached [L. pediculus, dim. of pes, pedis, the foot].

pediculus (pe-dik-^u-lus) n. the body louse.—pedic'ular, pedic'ulous a. lousy [L. pediculus, a louse].

pedicure (ped-ⁱ-kūr) n. treatment of the foot; a chiropodist [L. pes, pedis, the foot; cura, care].

pedigree (ped-ⁱ-grē) n. a line of ancestors; genealogy;—a. having a line of ancestors pediment (ped-ⁱ-ment) n. (Archit.) the triangular ornamental facing of a portico, door, or window, etc.—pedimen'tal a. [earlier periment, perh. fr. pyramid].

[M.E. pedegru fr. Fr. piéd de grue, crane's-foot, (the shape of a genealogical tree)].

pedlar (ped-^{lar}) n. See peddle.

pedometer (pe-dom-^e-ter) n. an instrument which measures the distance walked by recording the number of steps [L. pes, pedis, the foot; Gk. metron, a measure].

peduncle (pe-dung-^{kl}) n. a flower-stalk; (Zool.) a stalk or stalk-like process in an animal body.—pedun'cular a. (dim. of L. pes, pedis, a foot).

peek (pèk) v.i. to peep; to peer; to look slyly through half-closed eyes;—n. a sly glance [etym. uncertain].

peel (pèl) v.t. to strip off the skin, bark, or rind; to free from a covering;—v.i. to come off, as the skin or rind;—n. the outside skin of a fruit; rind or bark [L. pilare, to deprive of hair].

peel (pèl) n. an old square fortified tower [L. palius, a stake].

peel (pèl) n. wooden shovel used by bakers; the blade of an oar [L. pala, a spade].

peeler (pèl-^{er}) n. a policeman.—Peel'ite n. a free-trader and adherent of Sir Robert Peel (1788-1850), a British statesman.

peep (pèp) v.i. to look through a crevice; to look furtively or slyly; to emerge slowly;—n. a furtive or sly glance.—peep'-show n. a small exhibit, viewed through an aperture containing a magnifying glass [etym. uncertain].

peep (pèp) v.i. to cry, as a chick [unt.].

peer (pèr) n. (fem. peer'ess) an equal in any respect; a nobleman, a member of the House of Lords; an associate.—peer'age n. the rank of a peer; the body of peers.—peer'less a. having no equal.—peer'lessly adv.—peer'lessness n. [L. par, equal].

peer (pèr) v.t. to look closely and intently; to peep; to appear [etym. doubtful].

peevisish (pèv-ish) a. fretful; irritable; hard to please; childish.—peev'ishly adv.—peev'ishness n.—peeve v.t. to annoy; to irritate [etym. uncertain].

peewit (pè-wit) n. See pewit.

peg (peg) n. a wooden nail or pin; an excuse; a drink, esp. brandy or whisky, with soda; a step or degree;—v.t. to fix or mark with a peg;—v.i. to persevere [etym. uncertain].

Pekin, Peking (pè-kin'(-gē)) n. (Geog.) capital of China; a kind of silk stuff.—Peking'esse n. a native of Pekin; a breed of Chinese lap-dog.—abbrev. peke.

pekoe (pè-kō, pek-^o-ō) n. a black tea of superior quality [Chin. pek, white; ho, down (i.e. with 'down' on the leaves)].

pelagian (pe-lā-jī-an) a. pert. to the deep sea;—n. an animal living in the deep sea.—pelagic (pe-lā-jīk) a. pert. to, or done on, the open sea [Gk. pelagos, the sea].

pelargonium (pel-^{ar}-gō-^u-m) n. the flowering plant popularly called the geranium [Gk. pelargos, a stork].

pèle-mèle (pel-mel') adv. See pell-mell.

pell (pel) n. (Slang) money [O.Fr. pel/re, stolen property].

pelican (pel-ⁱ-kan) n. a large water-fowl, remarkable for its enormous pouch beneath its bill [Gk. pelekan].

pelisse (pe-lès') n. formerly, a robe of silk or other material, worn by ladies; a fur-lined coat; a Hussar's jacket [L. pellis, skin].

pellet (pel-et) n. a little ball; a pill; small shot [Fr. pelote, a ball].

pell-mell (pel-mel') adv. in utter confusion; helter-skelter. Also pèle-mèle [Fr. mèler, to mix; pèle, being a rhyme with mèle].

pellucid (pe-lū-sid) a. perfectly clear; translucent.—pellu'idly adv.—pellu'idness n. [L. per, very; lucidus, clear].

pelmet (pel-met) n. a canopy, or valance, at the top of a window, esp. to conceal curtain rods [etym. uncertain].

pelt (pelt) n. raw hide; undressed skin of fur-bearing animal [L. pellis, skin].

pelt (pelt) v.t. to strike with missiles;—v.t. of rain, etc. to fall heavily; to throw missiles; to run fast [etym. uncertain].

pelvis (pel'vis) n. (Anat.) the bony basin-shaped cavity at the base of the human trunk.—pel'vic a. [L. = a basin].

peemican (pem'ik-an) n. beef or venison, dried, pounded, and compressed into cakes, formerly eaten by N. American Indians [Amer.-Ind., pimekan].

pen (pen) n. an instrument for writing with ink; a large wing-feather (a quill) used for writing;—v.t. to write; to compose and set down.—pr.p. pen'ning.—pa.p. and pa.t. penned.

—penknife (pen'kif) n. a pocket-knife, formerly used for splitting and preparing a quill for writing.—pen'man n. one who writes a good hand; an author.—pen'manship n.—pen'name n. an assumed name of author.—pen'push'er n. (Colloq.) a clerk [L. penna, a feather].—['cob'] (etym. uncertain).

pen (pen) n. a female swan, the male being the pen (pen) n. a small enclosure, as for sheep; a coop.—v.t. to confine in a pen; to shut in. [O.E. penni].

penal (pē-nal) a. pert. to, prescribing, incurring, inflicting, punishment.—pe'nalise v.t. to make penal; to impose a penalty upon; to handicap.—pe'nally adv.—penalty (pen'al-ti) n. punishment for a crime or offence; in games, a handicap imposed for infringement of rule, etc. [L. poena, punishment].

penance (pen'ans) n. suffering submitted to in penitence; act of atonement [L. penitentia].

Penates (pen-ā'tēz) n.pl. the household gods of ancient Rome [L.].

pence (pens) n.pl. See penny penchant (pong'shong) n. a strong mental inclination [Fr. pencher, to lean].

pencil (pen'sil) n. an artist's fine brush; a crayon or stick of black lead enclosed in wood, used for writing or drawing; (Math.) a system of rays which converge to, or diverge from, a point.—v.t. to draw, write with pencil.—pen'cilled a. marked, as with pencil; having pencils of rays.—pen'cilling n. the work of a pencil or a fine brush; fine markings [L. penicillum, a little tail].

pendant (pen'dant) n. a hanging ornament, esp. a locket or earring; a lamp or chandelier hanging from the ceiling; an addition or appendix; a complement or parallel.—pen'dent a. suspended; hanging; projecting.—pen'dently adv.—pen'ding a. awaiting settlement; in suspense; undecided;—prep. during; until [L. pendere, to hang].

pendulous (pen'dū-lus) a. hanging loosely; swinging.—pen'dulously adv.—pen'dulousness n.—pen'dulum n. a body suspended from a fixed point, and swinging freely; the swinging rod with weighted end which regulates movements of a clock, etc. [L. pendulus, hanging].

penetrate (pen'e-trait) v.t. to enter into; to pierce; to pervade or spread through; to touch with feeling; to arrive at the meaning of;—v.t. to make a way to, or through.—pen'e'trating a.—pen'etrable a. capable of being entered or pierced; susceptible.—pen'etrably adv.—penetrability n.—penetra'tion n. act or power of penetrating; insight; acuteness.—pen'etrative a. piercing; discerning [L. penetrare].

penguin (pen'gwin) n. a flightless sea-bird inhabiting the S. temperate and Antarctic regions (W. pen, head; gwyn, white).

penicillin (pen-i-sil'in) n. the extract from the fungus penicillium, used to prevent the growth of certain disease bacteria [L. penicillium, a painter's brush].

peninsula (pe-nin'sū-lā) n. a portion of land nearly surrounded by water, and connected with the mainland by an isthmus [L. paene, almost; insula, an island].

penis (pē-nis) n. the male organ of generation.—pe'nial a. [L.].

penitent (pen'ti-tent) a. deeply affected by sense of guilt; contrite; repentant;—n. one who repents of sin.—pen'titently adv.—pen'itence n. sorrow for having sinned; repentance.—penitential (pen-i-ten'shal) a. pert. to or expressing penitence;—n. among R.C.s, a book containing rules of penance.—peniten'tially adv.—penitentiary (pen-i-ten'shā-ri) a. relating to penance;—n. an office, or officer, of papal court, who prescribes penance; house of correction; (U.S.) gaol [L. paenitere, to repent].

pennant (pen'ant) n. a very long, narrow flag tapering to a point. Also penn'on [Fr. pennon, fr. L. penna, a feather].

pennate (pen'at) a. winged; feathered. Also penn'ated.—penn'iform a. feather-shaped [L. penna, a feather].

pennon (pen'on) n. a narrow piece of bunting, esp. on a lance, etc.; a streamer; a pinion or wing of a bird.—penn'oned a. [Fr. pennon, fr. L. penna, a feather].

penny (pen'i) n. originally a silver coin, then a copper one; now made of bronze and value the twelfth part of a shilling; a small sum.—pl. pennies (pen'iz) denoting the number of coins, and pence (pens) the amount of pennies in value.—penn'less a. without money; poor.—pennyweight (pen'i-wät) n. a troy weight of 24 grains (abbrev. dwt.).—penn'worth n. as much as is given for a penny; a small quantity (Colloq. penn'orth).—penny farthing (Colloq.) an early form of bicycle with one very large wheel and one small one [O.E. penig].

pennyroyal (pen'i-roi-al) n. a perennial aromatic herb of the mint family [corrupt. of O.Fr. puliol, thyme; and royal].

penile (pen'sil) a. hanging; suspended; pendulous [L. pensilis].

pension (pen'shun) n. an annual grant of money for past services; an annuity paid to retired officers, soldiers, etc.;—v.t. to grant a pension to.—pen'sionable a. entitled, or entitling, to a pension.—pen'sioner n. one who receives a pension [L. pensio, payment].

pension (pong'sé-ōng) n. a boarding-house.—en pension terms, inclusive charges for board and lodging [Fr. = a boarding-house].

pensive (pen'siv) a. thoughtful; deep in thought; musing; reflecting, somewhat melancholy.—pen'sively adv.—pen'siveness n. [Fr. pensif, fr. penser, to think].

pent (pent) a. closely confined; shut up [fr. pen = an enclosure].

pentagon (pen'tā) pr. fr. Gk. pen-tē, five, used in derivatives.—pen'tagon n. (Geom.) a plane figure having five angles and five sides.—pentagonal a.—pen'tagram n. a five-pointed star, formerly a magic symbol.—pentam'eter n. verse of five feet.

pentane (pen'tān) n. a paraffin hydrocarbon, a very inflammable liquid (Gk. pentē, five).

Pentateuch (pen'tā-tūk) n. the first five books of the Old Testament (Gk. pentē, five; teuchos, a book).

Pentecost (pen'te-kost) n. a Jewish festival, celebrated on the 50th day after the Passover; a Christian festival (Whitsunday) commemorating the descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles.—Pentecost'al a. [Gk. pentē-kostos, fiftieth].

penhouse (pen'thouse) n. an outhouse attached to a main building, its roof sloping down from the wall.—pen't roof n. roof with a slope on one side only [Fr. appentis, fr. L. pendere, to hang].

Pentothal (pen'tō-thal) n. a drug which when injected acts on the brain, resulting in a free confession by the patient of his true feelings and desires; sometimes called the "truth" drug [Registered Trade Name].

penult (pē-nult', pe-nult') n. the last syllable but one of a word.—penultimate (pē-nult'im-āt) a. next before the last;—n. the last syllable but one; the last member but one of a series [L. paene, almost; ultimus, last].

penumbra (pen-um'brā) n. in an eclipse, the partially shadowed region which surrounds

- the perfect or full shadow; half-shadow [L. paene, almost; umbra, shade].
- penury (pen-ū-ri) n. extreme poverty; want or indigence; scarcity. — penurious (pe-nū-ri-us) a. miserly; poor; scanty. — penuriously adv. — penuriousness n. [L. penuria].
- peon (pé-on) n. In Mexico, a day-labourer or serf; in India, a native constable, foot-soldier, or messenger [Sp.].
- peony (pé-o-ni) n. plant having beautiful, showy flowers [Gk. paionia, healing, fr. Paion, the physician of the gods].
- people (pé-pl) n. the body of persons that compose a community, tribe, nation, or race; the populace as distinct from rulers; pl. inhabitants; — vt. to populate [L. populus].
- pep (pép) n. (Slang) vigour; energy; go.
- pepper (pép-ter) n. a pungent, spicy condiment obtained from an E. Indian plant; — vt. to sprinkle with pepper; to pelt with missiles. — pepp'ry a. having the qualities of pepper; pungent; (Fig.) irritable. — pepp'eriness n. — pepp'ercorn n. the berry or fruit of the pepper-plant; something of insignificant value. — pepp'ermint n. a pungent plant which yields a volatile oil; the essence got from this oil; a lozenge flavoured with this essence [Gk. peperi].
- pepsin, pepsine (pép-sin) n. a ferment formed in gastric juice of man and animals, and serving as an aid to digestion. — pep'tic a. pert. to pepsin and to digestion; — n. pl. medicines that promote digestion. — peptone (pép-tón) n. one of the soluble compounds due to the action of pepsin, etc. on proteins. — pep'tonise vt. to convert food into peptones [Gk. pepsis, digestion].
- peradventure (per-ad-ven-tūr) adv. by chance; perhaps; possibly; — n. doubt; question [O. Fr. par aventure].
- perambulate (per-am-bū-lāt) v.t. to walk through or over; formerly to survey the boundaries of; — v.i. to walk about; to stroll. — perambula'tion n. — perambulator n. one who perambulates; a small carriage for a child. — perambulatory a. [L. per; ambulare, to walk].
- perceive (per-adv) v.t. to obtain knowledge of through the senses; to see, hear, or feel; to understand; to discern. — perceiv'able a. — perceiv'ably adv. — perceiv'er n. — perceptible (per-sep-ti-bl) a. capable of being perceived; discernible. — percep'tibly adv. — percep'tibility n. — perception (per-sep-shun) n. the faculty of perceiving; intuitive judgment. — percep'tive a. having perception; used in perception. — percep'tiv'ity n. power of perception. — percep'tual a. involving perception [L. perceptus].
- percentage (per-sen-tāj) n. proportion or rate per hundred. — per centum (abbrev. per cent) by, in, or for, each hundred [L. per, through; centum, a hundred].
- perch (perch) n. an edible fresh-water fish [Gk. perke].
- perch (perch) n. roosting bar for birds; high place; lineal measure (also 'pole' or 'rod') = 6½ yards; a measure of area = 30½ square yards; — v.t. to place on a perch; — v.i. to alight or settle on a perch; to roost [L. perchica, a pole].
- perchance (per-chāns) adv. perhaps; by chance [L. per, through; and chance].
- perceptive (per-sip'i-ent) a. having the faculty of perception; perceiving; — n. one who has the power of perceiving. — percep'tence, per-sip'ency n. [L. percipere, to perceive].
- percolate (per-kō-lāt) v.t. and i. to pass slowly through small openings, as a liquid; to filter. — percola'tion n. — percolator n. a filtering machine; a coffee-pot fitted with a filter [L. per, through; colare, to strain].
- percuss (per-kus) v.t. to strike sharply. — percus'sion n. collision; an impact; a vibratory shock; (Med.) tapping the body to determine condition of internal organ. — percus'sive a. [L. percutere, percuterem, to strike].
- perdition (per-dish'un) n. utter loss; ruin; damnation [L. perdere, to lose].
- peregrinate (per-e-gri-nāt) v.t. to travel from place to place; to journey. — peregrina'tion n. a wandering about. — peregrin'ator n. — per'egrine n. a kind of hawk or falcon [L. peregrinus, foreign].
- peremptory (per-emp-tō-ri) a. authoritative; dictatorial; non-debatable; decisive; absolute. — per'emptorily adv. — per'emptoriness n. [L. perimere, perempum, to destroy].
- perennial (pe-reni-āl) a. lasting through the year; lasting; everlasting; lasting more than two years; — n. a plant lasting for such a time. — perenn'ially adv. [L. per, through; annus, a year].
- perfect (per-fékt) a. complete; finished; faultless; correct; excellent; of the highest quality; (Gram.) a tense denoting completed action; — perfect' or per'fect v.t. to finish or complete; to make perfect; to improve; to make skilful. — per'fectly adv. — per'fectible a. capable of becoming perfect. — per'fectibility n. — per'fection n. state of being perfect. — per'fectionist n. one who believes that moral perfection is attainable, or that he has attained it. [L. perfectus, done thoroughly].
- perfervid (per-fer-vid) a. very fervid; very eager [L. perfervidus].
- perfidy (per-fi-di) n. treachery; breach of faith; violation of trust. — perfid'ious a. treacherous. — perfid'iously adv. — perfid'iousness n. [L. perfidia, faithlessness].
- perforate (per-fō-rāt) v.t. to bore through; to pierce; to make a series of holes in. — perfora'tion n. act of perforating; a hole. — series of holes [L. per, through; forare, to bore].
- perforce (per-fōrs) adv. by force; of necessity [L. per; and force].
- perform (per-form) v.t. to bring to completion; to accomplish; to fulfil; to represent on the stage; — v.i. to do; to play, as on a musical instrument. — perform'ing a. trained to act a part or do tricks. — perform'er n. — perform'ance n. act of performing; execution or carrying out; the thing done [L. per, thoroughly; Fr. fournir, to furnish or complete].
- perfume (per-fūm) n. a sweet scent or fragrance; a substance which emits an agreeable scent. — perfumes v.t. to fill or imbue with an agreeable odour; to scent. — perfum'er n. a maker or seller of perfumes. — perfum'ery n. perfumes in general; the art of making perfumes [L. per, through; fumare, to smoke].
- perfunctory (per-fung-tō-ri) a. done as a duty, carelessly and without interest; indifferent; superficial. — perfun'ctorily adv. — perfun'ctoriness n. [L. perfunctus, to perform].
- pergola (per-gō-lā) n. an arbour or covered walk formed of growing plants trained over trellis-work; an elevated balcony [It.].
- perhaps (per-haps) adv. it may be; possibly; perchance [L. per, through; E. hap, chance].
- pericardium (per-i-kar-di-um) n. (Anat.) the double membranous sac which encloses the heart. — pericard'ial a. [Gk. peri, round; kardia, the heart].
- pericarp (per-i-kārp) n. (Bot.) that which encloses the seed of a plant. — pericar'pial a. [Gk. peri, round; karpos, fruit].
- perigee (per-i-jē) n. that point in the moon's orbit nearest to the earth. — opp. to apogee [Gk. peri, round; gē, the earth].
- perihelion (per-i-hē-li-on) n. that point in the orbit of a planet or comet nearest to the sun [Gk. peri, round; hēlios, the sun].
- peril (per-i) n. danger; hazard; exposure to injury or loss; — v.t. to expose to danger; to risk. — per'ilius a. full of peril. — per'iliously adv. — per'ilioussness n. [L. periculum, danger].
- perimeter (per-imē-ter) n. (Geom.) the outer boundary of a plane figure; the sum of all its sides; circumference. — perimet'rical a. [Gk. peri, around; metron, a measure].
- period (pē-ri-od) n. a particular portion of time; the time in which a heavenly body makes a revolution; a series of years; a cycle; conclusion; a punctuation mark (.), at the end of a sentence;—pl. menstruation;—a. of furniture, dress, a play, etc., belonging to a particular period in history. —period'ic a. recurring at regular intervals. —period'ical a. periodic; pert. to a periodical;—n. a publication, esp. a magazine issued at regular intervals. —period'ically adv. —periodicity (pê-ri-o-dis'it-i) n. the tendency to recur at regular intervals [Gk. peri, around; hodos, a way].

peripatetic (per-i-pa-tet'ik) a. walking about; pert. to the philosophy of Aristotle, from his habit of teaching his disciples while walking about;—n. a disciple of the philosophy of Aristotle; one whose business, etc. obliges him to do a lot of walking about. —peripatet'icism n. [Gk. peri, around, about; patein, to walk].

periphery (pê-rif'ê-ri) n. the length round a circular surface; circumference; perimeter; the outside. —periph'eral a. [Gk. peri, around, pherein, to bear].

periphrasis (pê-rif'ra-sis) n. a roundabout way of speaking or writing; circumlocution. —pl. periph'rases. —periphras'tica, circumlocutory. —periphras'tically adv. [Gk. peri, around; phrasis, speaking].

periscope (pê-rî-skôp) n. an optical instrument (used in trench warfare, submarines, etc.) which enables an observer to view surrounding objects from a lower level [Gk. peri, around; skopein, to see].

perish (pê-rish) v.t. and i. to die; to waste away; to decay; to be destroyed. —per'ishable a. liable to perish, decay, etc., e.g. fish, fruit, etc. [L. perire; per, completely; ire, to go].

peristyle (pê-rî-stil) n. a row of columns round courts, or square; court or square itself [Gk. peri, around; stulos, a pillar].

peritoneum (pê-rî-to-nê-um) n. membrane which lines abdominal cavity, and surrounds intestines, etc. —periton'itis n. inflammation of peritoneum [Gk. peritonion, fr. peri, around; teinein, to stretch].

periwig (pê-rî-wîg) n. a wig; a peruke. —per'iwigged a. [Fr. perruque, a wig].

periwinkle (pê-rî-wing-kl) n. an edible shellfish known as a 'winkle' [O.E. pinewincle, a whelk].

periwinkle (pê-rî-wing-kl) n. a trailing shrub with blue flowers [L. periwincal].

perjure (pêr-jur) v.t. to violate one's oath (used reflex.); to forswear oneself. —per'jured a. guilty of perjury. —per'jury n. false testimony; the crime of violating one's oath. —per'jurer n. —per'jurious, per'jurous a. guilty of perjury [L. per; jurare to swear].

perk (pêrk) a. pert; smart;—v.t. to make spruce or trim;—v.i. to become brisk and lively again (with 'up'). —perk'y a. jaunty; pert; trim [Celt].

permanent (pêr-mâ-nent) a. remaining unaltered; lasting. —per'manently adv. —per'manence, per'manency n. quality of being permanent; continuance in the same state; one who, that which, is permanent. —permanent way, railway lines [L. per, through; manere, to remain].

permanganate (pêr-mang-gan-ât) n. a salt of an acid of manganese, esp. the potash salt, which, dissolved in water, forms a useful disinfectant and antiseptic.

permeate (pêr-mê-ât) v.t. to penetrate and pass through the texture of; to diffuse itself through; to saturate. —per'meable a. admitting of passage of fluids. —per'meably adv. —per'meability (pêr-mê-a-bil'i-ti) n. —per'meation n. —per'meative (pêr-mê-â-tiv) a. capable of permeating [L. per, through; manere, to pass].

permit (pêr-mit') v.t. to allow; to give leave or liberty to;—v.i. to give leave. —permit (pêr-mit) n. written permission. —pr.p. permit'ting, pa.p. and pa.f. permit'ted, per'mission n. authorisation; leave or licence granted. —per- miss'ible a. which may be permitted; allowable. —permiss'ibly adv. —permiss'ive a. granting liberty; allowing. —permiss'ively adv. [L. permittere].

permute (pêr-mût') v.t. to change the order of. —permut'able a. capable of being permuted or exchanged. —permut'ably adv. —permut'ableness, permutabil'ity n. —permuta'tion n. (Math.) the arrangement of a number of quantities in every possible order [L. per, thoroughly; mutare, to change].

pernicious (pêr-nish'us) a. having the quality of destroying or injuring; wicked or mischievous. —perni'ciously adv. —perni'ciousness n. [L. per, thoroughly; nox, death by violence].

pernickety (pêr-nik'ê-ti) a. (Colloq.) unduly fastidious about trifles [Scot.].

peroration (pêr-o-râ-shun) n. the concluding part of an oration. —per'orate v.t. to make a peroration; (Colloq.) to deliver a speech [L. perorare, to speak to the end].

peroxide (pêr-ok'sid) n. (Chem.) oxide containing more oxygen than the normal oxide of an element;—v.t. (Colloq.) to bleach the hair with peroxide of hydrogen. —peroxide of hydrogen, a thick, syrupy liquid used in solution as a bleach and as an antiseptic.

perpend (pêr-pend') v.t. and i. (Arch.) to weigh in the mind; to ponder [L. per, thoroughly; pendere, to weigh].

perpendicular (pêr-pen-dik'û-lar) a. exactly upright or vertical; at right angles to the plane of the horizon; at right angles to a given line or surface;—n. a line at right angles to the plane of the horizon; a line at right angles to any line or plane; the latest of the styles of English Gothic architecture, marked by stiff, straight lines. —perpendicu'larly adv. [L. perpendicularum, a plumb-line].

perpetrate (pêr-pê-trât) v.t. to commit (something bad, esp. a crime); to be guilty of. —perpetra'tion n. —per'petrator n. [L. perpetrare, to accomplish].

perpetual (pêr-pet'û-al) a. continuing indefinitely; everlasting. —perpet'ually adv. —perpet'uate v.t. to make perpetual; not to allow to be forgotten. —perpetua'tion n. —perpetuity (pêr-pu-tû-i-ti) n. the state or quality of being perpetual [L. perpetualis].

perplex (pêr-pleks') v.t. to make intricate, or difficult; to puzzle; to bewilder. —perplex'ed a. puzzled; bewildered. —perplex'ing a. puzzling. —perplex'ity n. bewilderment; embarrassment; a confused state of mind [L. p, thoroughly; plectere, to weave].

perquisite (pêr-kwiz-it) n. a or usual payment in addition to salary, etc.; a gratuity; a tip; a thing that after serving its purpose is customarily taken possession of by a servant, etc. —perquisi'tion n. a careful search; close investigation [L. perquisitum, a thing eagerly sought].

perry (pêr-i) n. a fermented drink made from the juice of pears [L. pyrum, a pear].

persecute (pêr-sê-kût) v.t. to oppress unjustly for the holding of an opinion; to subject to persistent ill-treatment; to harass; to worry. —persecu'tion n. —per'secutor n. [L. persequi, to pursue].

persevere (pêr-se-vêr') v.i. to persist; to maintain an effort; not to give in. —perse'vering a. —perse'veringly adv. —perse'verance n. persistence [L. per, thoroughly, severus, strict].

Persian (pêr-z'ân) a. pert. to Persia (now Iran) its people, or the language;—n. a native, or the language, of Persia. —Persian cat, a breed of cat with long, silky fur.

persiflage (pêr-sî-flazh) n. idle banter, frivolous talk; light mockery [Fr. fr. L. per, through; sibilare, to hiss].

persimmon (pêr-sim-on) n. an American tree, the date-plum [Amer.-Ind.].

persist (pêr-sist') v.i. to continue firmly in a state or action in spite of obstacles or objections. —persist'ent a. persisting; steady; persevering; lasting. —persist'ently adv. —per- ab'stence, persis'tency a. perseverance; continuous effort; obstinacy; tenacity [L. persistere, fr. sistere, to stand].

person (pér'sun) n. a human being; an individual; the body of a human being; a character in a play; (Gram.) one of the three classes of personal pronouns (first, second, or third) showing the relation of the subject to a verb, as speaking, spoken to, or spoken of. — per'sonable a. attractive in appearance. — per'sonage n. a person, esp. of rank or social position. — per'sonal a. pert. to, peculiar to, or done by, a person; pert. to bodily appearance; directed against a person; (Gram.) denoting the pronouns, I, thou, he, she, it, we, you, and they. — per'sonally adv. in person; individually. — personal'ity n. individuality; distinctive personal qualities. — personal'ities n. pl. offensive remarks made to, or about, a person. — personality (pér'sun-al-ti) n. (Law) personal effects; movable possessions. — per'sonate v. t. to assume character of; to pretend to be. — per'sonator n. — in person, by one's self [L. personal].

personnel (pér'sun-el') n. the persons employed in a public service, business, office, etc.; staff [Fr. fr. L. persona, a person].

personify (pér'son-i-fi) v. t. to endow inanimate objects or abstract ideas with human attributes; to be an outstanding example of. — pr.-p. person'ifying — pa. p. and pa. t. person'ified. — personification n. [L. persona, a person; facere, to make].

perspective (pér'spek-tiv) n. the art of drawing objects on a plane surface to give impression of looking at the objects themselves; the relative distance of objects to the eye, indicated by the convergence of their receding lines; (Fig.) a right proportion [L. per, through; specere, to look].

Perspex (pér'speks) n. a thermo-plastic, transparent substance used as a substitute for glass [Protected TradeName].

perspicacious (pér-spi-ká'shus) a. quick-sighted; of acute discernment; of keen understanding. — perspicaciously adv. — perspicacity (pér-spi-kas-i-ti) n. quick mental insight or discernment. — perspicuous (pér-spi-kú-ús) a. clear to the understanding; lucid; plain; obvious. — perspicuously adv. — perspicuousness n. — perspicuity (pér-spi-kú-i-ti) n. clearness [L. perspicax, keen of sight].

perspire (pér-spir') v. t. to emit through the pores of the skin; — v. i. to evacuate the moisture of the body through the pores of the skin; to sweat. — perspiration n. the process of perspiring; the moisture emitted [L. per, through; spirare, to breathe].

persuade (pér-swád') v. t. to influence by argument, entreaty, etc.; to induce; to win over. — persuasive (pér-swá'siv) a. having the power of persuading; winning. — persuasively adv. — persuasiveness n. — persuasion (pér-swá'shun) n. the act of persuading; the quality of persuading; settled opinion or conviction; belief; sect. — persuasible a. open to persuasion [L. per, thoroughly; suadere, to advise].

pert (pért) a. lively; bold; forward; saucy. — pertly adv. — pertness n. [O. Fr. aperit].

pertain (pér-tán') v. t. to belong; to concern [L. pertinere, to belong].

pertinacious (pér-ti-ná'shus) a. adhering to an opinion, etc. with obstinacy; persevering; resolute; unyielding. — pertinaciously adv. — pertinaciousness n. — pertinacity (pér-ti-nas-i-ti) n. [L. pertinax, tenacious].

pertinent (pér-ti-nent) a. related to the subject or matter in hand; to the point. — pertinently adv. — pertinence, pertinency n. [L. pertinere, to belong].

perturb (pér-tarb') v. t. to disturb; to trouble greatly. — perturbation (pér-tur-bá'shun) n. mental uneasiness or disquiet; disorder or confusion [L. per, thoroughly; turbare, to disturb].

Peru (pér-dó') n. (Geog.) a republic in the west coast of S. America. — Peru'vian n. a native of Peru; — a. pert. to Peru.

peruke (pé-róók', per-úk', per-úk) n. a wig; a perwig [Fr. perrique].

peruse (pér-róóz', per-úz') v. t. to read through; to examine minutely. — perusal n. the act of perusing [per, thoroughly; and use].

pervade (pér-vád') v. t. to spread through the whole of; to be diffused through all parts of. — pervasion (pér-vá'shun) n. — pervasive (pér-vá'siv) a. having power to pervade [L. per, through; vadere, to go].

perverse (pér-vers') a. obstinately or unreasonably wrong; refusing to do the right, or to admit error; self-willed. — perverse'ness, perver'sity n. [L. per, thoroughly; vertere, to turn].

perversion (pér-ver'shun) n. a turning from the true purpose, use, or meaning; corruption; unnatural manifestation of sexual desire. — perversion a. tending to pervert [L. per, thoroughly; vertere, to turn].

pervert (pér-vert') v. t. to turn from its proper purpose; to misinterpret; to lead astray; to corrupt. — pervert (pér-vert) n. one who has deviated from the normal, esp. from right to wrong [L. per, thoroughly; vertere, to turn].

pervious (pér-vi-ús) a. giving passage to; penetrable; permeable. — perviousness n. [L. per, through; via, a way].

pessimism (pes-i-miz-in) n. the doctrine that the world is fundamentally evil; the tendency to look on the dark side of things (opp. of optimism); melancholy. — pessimist n. — pessimistic a. — pessimistically adv. [L. pessimus, worst].

pest (pest) n. (Arch.) a plague or pestilence; a troublesome or harmful thing or person; (Colloq.) nuisance. — pest'house n. formerly, a hospital for cases of plague, etc. — pestif'erous a. pestilential; carrying disease [L. pestis, a plague].

pester (pest-ter) v. t. to trouble or vex persistently; to annoy [O. Fr. empester, fr. L. L. pastorium, a foot-shackle].

pesticide (pest-i-sid) n. a pest killer.

pestilence (pest-i-lens) n. any infectious or contagious, deadly disease. — pestil'ent a. producing disease; noxious; harmful to morals. — pestilential (pest-i-len'shal) a. pert. to, or producing, pestilence; destructive; wicked [L. pestis, plague].

pestle (pestl, pes-l) n. an instrument for pounding substances in a mortar [L. pistillum, fr. pinere, to pound].

pet (pet) n. an animal or person kept or regarded with affection; a favourite; a darling; — a. favourite; — v. t. to make a pet of; to treat with indulgence. — pr.-p. pet'ing. — pa. p. and pa. t. pet'ted (etym. uncertain).

pet (pet) n. a sudden fit of ill-temper; peevishness (etym. uncertain).

petal (pet-ál) n. a coloured flower-leaf. — pet'aled, pet'alied a. having petals. — pet'aline a. pert. to, resembling, attached to, a petal [Gk. petalon, a thin plate].

petard (pet-árd') n. formerly, a kind of small bomb; a kind of firework; a paper rucker. — hoist with his own petard, beaten with his own weapons [Fr. pétard, fr. pétar, to explode].

peter out (pét-ér-out) v. t. (Mining) of a vein, seam, etc., to become exhausted; to give out, e.g. of engine (etym. uncertain).

Petersham (pét-ér-sham) n. heavy overcoat, also breeches, formerly fashionable; cloth used to make such garments; thick corded-silk ribbon [fr. Viscount Petersham].

petiole (pet-i-ól) n. (Bot.) the leaf-stalk of a plant [L. petiolus, a little foot].

petit (pé-té) French adjective meaning small; little. — petite (pé-tét') of a woman, small, dainty, and trim of figure. — petit point (pwang) a small, slanting stitch used in embroidery and tapestry; a tont stitch.

petition (pé-tish'un) n. an earnest request or prayer, esp. one presented to a sovereign or parliament; — v. t. and i. to present a petition to; to entreat.—petit'ionary a.—petit'ioner n. [L. petere, to ask].

petrel (pet'ri-el) n. a small, long-winged seabird [fr. St. Peter, who walked on the waters].

petrify (pet'ri-fī) v.t. to turn into stone; to make hard like stone; (Fig.) to make motionless with fear;—v.i. to become like stone.—pr.p. petrifying.—pa.p. and pa.t. petrified.—petrification a. [L. and Gk. petra, rock, stone; facere, to make].

petro- (pet'ro) prefix fr. L. and Gk. petra, rock, stone, used in derivatives.—petrogeny (pet-roj'ē-nī) n. the science of the origin of rocks.—petrography n. the science of describing and classifying rocks.—petrograph'ic(al) a.—petrology n. a branch of geology dealing with the composition, structure, and classification of rocks, their origin and sequence of formation.—petrolog'ic(al) a.—petrous (pet'rū-s) a. pert. to, or like, rock; rocky; hard [Gk. genesis, origin; graphein, to write; logos, discourse].

petroleum (pe-trō'le-ūm) n. rock-oil, a mineral oil drawn from the earth by means of wells.—petrol n. refined petroleum; motor-spirit; (U.S.) gasoline.—petrol'ic a. [L. petra, rock; oleum, oil].

petticoat (pet'ti-kōt) n. a woman's underskirt; (Colloq.) a woman;—a. feminine [orig. petty coat, a small coat].

pettifogger (pet'ti-fog-er) n. a low class lawyer; one given to mean dealing in small matters.—pett'ify v.t.—pett'ifoggery n. low trickery; wrangling over trifles.—pett'ifogging a. underhand; paltzy [etym. uncertain].

pettish (pet'tish, u. cres; petulant; easily annoyed.—pett'ishly adv.—pett'ishness n. petulance; sulkiness [fr. pet, a fit of temper].

petty (pet'ti) a. small; unimportant; trivial; small-minded; of lower rank.—pett'ily adv.—pett'iness n.—petty cash, small items of expenditure, esp. in an office.—petty officer, a non-commissioned officer in the Navy [fr. petit, small].

petulant (pet'ū-lant) a. given to small fits of temper; inclined to complain; irritable.—pet'ulantly adv.—pet'ulance, pet'ulancy n. peevishness; crossness; fretfulness [L. petulans, wanton].

petunia (pē-tū'ni-ə) n. a common garden plant with showy flowers, white, purple, or violet; purplish red [Braz. petun, tobacco].

pew (pū) n. a long, fixed bench in a church [O.Fr. pulc, a platform].

peewee (pē-wē) n. a small American bird, the flycatcher [imit. of its note].

pewit (pē-wit) n. the lapwing. Also pes'wit [imit. of its cry].

pewter (pū-ter) n. an alloy of tin and lead or some other metal, esp. copper; ware made of this;—a. made of pewter [O.Fr. peutre].

Phaethon (fā-eth'ūn) n. (Myth.) the son of Helios, god of the Sun, who received permission to drive the chariot of the sun for one day.—phaeton (fā'ton) n. a light, four-wheeled, open carriage.

phalange (fal'an) n. (Anat.) a small bone of a toe or finger.—Also phal'anx [fr. phalanx].

phalanger (fa-lan'jer) n. genus of furry marsupial, some winged; flying squirrel [Gk. phalangion, a spider's web].

phalanx (fal'angks, fā'langks) n. in ancient Greece, a company of soldiers in close array; hence, any compact body of people.—pl. phalanxes [Gk.].

phallus (fal'us) n. the penis.—pl. phall'i.—phall'ic a. [Gk. phallos].

phantasm (fan'tazm) n. an imaginary vision; a phantom; a spectre; an illusion.—phantas'mal, phantas'mic a.—phantasmagoria (fan-taz-ma-gō'ri-ə) n. an exhibition of optical illusions; hence, a crowd of dim or unreal figures.—phantasmagor'ic a.—phan'tasy n. See fantasy.—phan'tom (fan'tom) n. an apparition; a spectre; a ghost;—a. spectral [Gk. phainain, to show].

Pharaoh (fā'rō) n. 'The Great House,' a title of the kings of ancient Egypt.

Pharisee (far'i-sē) n. (Bib.) one of a Jewish sect noted for their strict observance of the forms of the Law.—Pharisaic (far-i-sā'ik), Pharisa'ic a.—Pharisa'ically adv.—Pharisa'ism, Pharise'ism n. [Heb. parash, to separate].

pharmaceutical (far-ma-sū'tik-al) a. pert. to pharmacy.—pharmaceu'tics n.pl. the science of pharmacy.—pharmaceu'tist n. [Gk. pharmakon, a drug].

pharmacy (far'ma-si) n. the science of preparing, compounding, and dispensing drugs and medicines; a chemist's shop; a drug-store.—phar'macist n. one skilled in pharmacy.—pharmacol'ogy n. the study of drugs and their action.—pharmacol'ogist n. one skilled in pharmacy.—pharmaco'poeia (far-ma-kō-pō-yā) n. a standard and authoritative book containing a list of medicinal drugs with information on their preparation and dosage [Gk. pharmakon, a drug].

Pharos (fā'ros) n. island of ancient Egypt with the first lighthouse.—phare, pha'ros n. a lighthouse; a beacon.

pharynx (far'ingks) n. the cone-shaped cavity at back of mouth, opening into the gullet.—pl. phar'ynxes.—pharyngeal (far-in-jē-al, far-in-jē'al) a. Also phary'gal.—pharyngitis (far-in-jit'is) n. (Med.) inflammation of pharynx.—pharyngoscope n. instrument for examining throat [Gk. pharynx, the pharynx].

phase (fāz) n. (Astron.) an aspect of moon or a planet; a stage in development; an aspect of a subject or question.—pha'sic a. [Gk. phasis, an appearance].

pheasant (fē-zant) n. a game-bird with brilliant plumage [Gk. Phasis, a river in Colchis, whence the bird first came].

phenacetin (fe-nas'e-tin) n. a carbolic derivative of coal tar used as a drug to relieve pain and reduce temperatures [Gk. phainein, to shine; aceticum, vinegar].

phenomenon (fe-nom'e-non) n. anything appearing or observed, esp. if having scientific interest; a remarkable person or thing; (Philos.) sense appearance as opposed to real existence.—pl. phenom'ena.—phenom'enal a. pert. to a phenomenon; remarkable; extraordinary.—phenom'enally adv. [Gk. phainomenon, a thing appearing].

phew (fū) interj. expressing disgust, impatience, relief, etc.

phial (fi'al) n. a small glass bottle; a vial [Gk. phialē, a flat vessel].

philabeg, philbeg (fil'a(l)-g) n. kilt worn by Highlanders of Scotland. Also fil(h)beg [Gael. fìleadh, a kilt; beag, small].

philander (fi-lan'der) v.t. to flirt; to amuse oneself with love-making.—philan'derer n. [Gk. philos, loving; aner, man].

philanthropy (fi-lan'thro-pi) n. love of mankind; benevolence towards one's fellow-men.—philanthropic (fil-an'throp'ik), philanthrop'ic a.—philanthrop'ically adv.—philanthrop'ist n. one who loves and seeks to do good to his fellow-men. Also phil'anthrop [Gk. philos, loving; anthropos, man].

philately (fi-lat'e-lī) n. stamp-collecting.—philat'elic a.—philat'elist n. [Gk. philos, loving; atēlē, franked].

philharmonic (fi-har-mon'ik) a. loving harmony or music; musical [Gk. philos, loving; harmonia, harmony].

Philippic (fi-lip'ik) n. orig. one of Demosthenes's three great orations against Philip of Macedon; now, any violent invective, spoken or written.

Philistine (fi-lis'tin, -tin) n. (Bib.) one of the ancient inhabitants of the coastal plains of Palestine, continually at war with the Israelites; a person with no love of music, painting, etc.; an uncultured person.

philology (fi-lol'o-jī) n. scientific study of origin, development, etc. of languages.—philolog'ical a.—philologist (fi-lol-ō-jist) n.

ogist n. student of philology [Gk. philos, loving; logos, word, speech].

Philomel (fil'ô-mel) (Poet.) a nightingale.

philosophy (fi-loso'f-i) n. lit. 'love of wisdom'; originally, any branch of investigation of natural phenomena; now, the study of beliefs regarding God, existence, conduct, etc. and of man's relation with the universe; a calmness of mind; resignation. —philos'ophar n. a student of philosophy. —philosophie (fi-o-sof'ik) philosoph'leal a. pert. to philosophy; wise; calm. —philosoph'leally adv. —philos'ophise v.t. to reason like a philosopher; to theorise; to moralise. —philos'ophism n. a pretended system of philosophy; sophism. —moral philosophy, the study of ethics. —natural philosophy, a branch of scientific study. —physice. —philosopher's stone, a substance sought for by alchemists of old, supposed to transform base metals into gold [Gk. philos, loving; sophia, wisdom].

philter, philter (fil'ter) n. a love potion; a drink supposed to excite love [Gk. philtion, fr. philos, loving].

phlebitis (fle-bit'is) n. (Med.) inflammation of a vein. —phlebit'ic a. —phlebot'omy n. (Surg.) blood-letting [Gk. phleps, a vein].

phlegm (flem) n. a secretion of thick, slimy mucous substance discharged from throat by expectoration; calmness; sang-froid; sluggishness. —phlegmatic (fleg-mat'ik) a. cool and collected; unemotional. —phlegmat'ically adv. [Gk. phlegma].

phlogiston (flo-jis'ton) n. an element, the 'principle of fire,' once supposed to exist in all combustible bodies, and to be the cause of inflammability. —phlogis'tic a. [Gk. phlogistos, inflammable].

Phlox (flok) a. a genus of garden plants [Gk. = a flame].

phobia (fô-bi-a) n. a morbid dread of anything; used esp. as a suffix, e.g. claustrophobia, hydrophobia, etc. [Gk. phobos, fear].

Phoenix, Phœnix (fô-niks) n. (Myth.) a fabulous Arabian bird, said to have lived for 500 years; it then burned itself but rose again from its ashes; hence, symbol of immortality; a paragon [Gk. phoinix].

phone (fôn) n. v.t. and i. (Colloq.) abbrev. of telephone [Gk. phônê, sound].

phone (fôn) n. a sound made in speaking. —phon'ic a. pert. to sound, esp. to speech sounds; phonetic. —phon'ics n.pl. used as sing. phonetics; acoustics [Gk. phônê].

phonetic (fô-net'ik) a. pert. to the voice; pert. to, or representing, vocal sounds. Also phonet'leal a. —phonet'leally adv. —phonet'ics n. the branch of the study of language which deals with speech sounds, and their symbols. —phonet'ician n. a student of phonetics. —phonet'icise v.t. to represent phonetically. —phonetic spelling, a simplified system of spelling in which same letter or symbol is always used for same sound, e.g. cat = kat [Gk. phônê, sound].

phony, phony (fô-ni) a. (Slang.) sham; counterfeit [U.S. slang; origin uncertain].

phono- (fô-nô) prefix fr. Gk. phônê, sound, used in many derivatives. —phonogram n. a character or symbol, esp. in shorthand, used to represent a speech sound; a phonograph record. —phonograph n. an early type of gramophone. —phonography n. the recording or reproducing of sound with a phonograph; a system of shorthand. —phonol'ogy n. study of speech sounds; phonetics. —phonolog'ic(al) a. —phonol'ogist n.

phosgene (fos'jên) n. carbon oxychloride, a poison-gas [Gk. phôs, light; genesis, origin].

phosphate (fos'fat) n. a salt of phosphoric acid. —phosphat'ic a. —phosphate of lime, commercially, bone-ash. —phosphide n. a compound of phosphorus with another element, e.g. copper. —phosphite n. a salt of phosphorous acid [fr. phosphorus].

phosphorus (fos-for-us) n. a non-metallic element, a yellowish wax-like substance giving out a pale light in the dark. —phos'phorous a. pert. to phosphorus. —phosphorescence (fos-for-esens) n. the giving out of light without heat, as phosphorus, the glow-worm, decaying fish, etc. —phosphorescent a. —phosphor'ic a. pert. to, or obtained from, phosphorus; phosphorous. —phos'phurated a. combined with phosphorus [Gk. phôs, light; phoros, bearing].

photo (fô-tô) n. (Colloq.) abbrev. of photograph; —v.t. to photograph.

photo- (fô-tô) prefix fr. Gk. phôs, phôtos, light, used in derivatives. —photo-chemistry (fô-tô-kem'is-tri) n. the branch of chemistry which treats of the chemical action of light. —pho'to-electric'ity n. electricity produced by the action of light on a metallic surface. —pho'to-electron n. an electron liberated from a metallic surface by the action of a beam of light. —photofinish, in racing, a photo taken at the finish to show correct placing of contestants. —photogen'ic a. producing light; photographic; of a person, having features, etc. that photograph well.

photography (fô-top'ra-fi) n. the art of producing pictures by the chemical action of light on a sensitive plate or film. —pho'tograph n. a picture so made; —v.t. to take a photograph of. —photog'rapher n. —photograph'ic, photograph'leal a. pert. to, resembling, or produced by, photography. —photograph'ically adv. —photogravure (fô-tô-gra-vûr) n. a method of producing prints from a photograph etched on a metal plate; —v.t. to reproduce thus; —n. a print so made. —photolithography (fô-tô-lithog-ra-fi) n. a method of preparing a photograph for transfer to stone from which prints can be produced [Gk. phôs, light; graphein, to write; Fr. gravure, an engraving; Gk. lithos, a stone].

photology (fô-to-lô-jî) n. the science of light. —photom'eter n. an instrument for measuring the intensity of light [Gk. phôs, light; logos, discourse; metron, a measure].

photon (fô-ton) n. the unit of measurement of light-intensity [Gk. phôs, phôtos, light].

Photostat (fô-tô-stat) n. a photographic apparatus for making copies of documents, etc. direct on paper; —v.t. to copy thus. —photostat'ic a. [Protected Trade Name].

photosynthesis (fô-tô-sin'the-sis) n. the process by which a plant, under the influence of sunlight, can build up, in its chlorophyll-containing cells, carbohydrates from the carbon dioxide of the atmosphere and from the hydrogen of the water in the soil [Gk. phôs, phôtos, light; sun, together; thesis, a placing].

phototelegraphy (fô-tô-tel-eg-ra-fi) n. the transmission by telegraph of photographs, illustrations, etc. [photo and telegraphy].

phrase (frâz) n. a small group of words forming part of a sentence; a short pithy expression; a characteristic mode of expression; (Mus.) a short, distinct part of a longer passage; —v.t. to express suitably in words. —phraseogram (frâz-ô-gram) n. in shorthand, a symbol used to represent a phrase. —phraseol'ogy n. a mode of expression; the choice of words used in speaking or writing [Gk. phrazin, to speak].

phren (fren) n. the mind; (Med.) the diaphragm. —phrenes'is (fren-ê-sis) n. delirium. —phrenet'ic a. having the mind disordered; frenzied; frantic [Gk. phrên, the diaphragm, the mind].

phrenology (fre-nolô-jî) n. character reading from the shape of the head. —phrenolog'ic(al) a. —phrenolog'ically adv. —phrenol'ogist n. [Gk. phrên, mind; logos, discourse].

phthisis (thi'sis) n. (Med.) a wasting away of the lungs; consumption. —phthisic (thi'z'ik), phthisical (thiz'ik-al) a. [Gk. fr. phthînai, to waste away].

phut (fut) n. the sound of a bladder collapsing. —to go phut (Colloq.) to collapse; to break down [Hind. phaina, to burst].

phylactery (fil-ak'te-ri) n. a charm or amulet; strips of vellum, inscribed with certain verses of the Law, enclosed in a small leather case and worn on the forehead or left arm by male Jews during morning prayer [Gk. phylassein, to guard].

phylogeny (fi-loj'e-ni) n. (Bot.) the evolution of an animal or plant type. — phylum (fi'lum) n. (Bot.) one of the primary divisions of the animal or plant kingdoms. — pl. phy'la [Gk. phulon, a race; genesis, origin].

physic (fiz'ik) n. (Arch.) the art of healing; a drug; medicine in general; — v.t. to give a dose of physio to. — pr.p. phys'icking. — pa.p. and pa.t. phys'icked. — physician (fi-zish'ian) n. one skilled in the art of healing; a medical doctor [Gk. phusis, nature].

physical (fiz'ik-al) a. pert. to physics; pert. to nature, bodily, as opposed to mental or moral; material. — phys'ically adv. [Gk. phusis, nature].

physics (fiz'iks) n. sciences (excluding chemistry and biology) which deal with natural phenomena, e.g. motion, force, light, sound, electricity, etc. Also called 'Natural Philosophy.' — physicist (fiz'is-sist) n. [Gk. phusis, nature].

physiognomy (fiz-i-og'no-mi, fiz-i-on'to-mi) n. art of judging character from contours of face; face itself; expression of the face. — physiognom'ic, physiognom'ical a. — physiognomist n. [Gk. phusis, nature; gnōmōn, a judge].

physiography (fiz-i-og'ra-fi) n. the study and description of natural phenomena; physical geography. — physiog'rapher n. [Gk. phusis, nature, graphein, to write].

physiology (fiz-i-ol'o-j-i) n. science which deals with functions and life processes of plants, animals, and human beings. — physiolog'ical a. — physiol'ogist n. [Gk. phusis, nature; logos, discourse].

physiotherapy (fiz-i-ō-ther'a-pi) n. the application of massage, manipulation, light, heat, electricity, etc., for treatment of certain disabilities [Gk. phusis, nature; therapeuein, to cure].

physique (fi-zēk') n. bodily structure and development [Fr. fr. Gk. phusis, nature].

phyto- (fi'tō) prefix fr. Gk. phulon, a plant. — phylogenesis (fi-to-jen'e-sis), phyto'geny (fi-toj'e-ni) n. the evolution of plants.

pi (pi) n. the Greek letter π, esp. as a mathematical symbol for the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter, approx. 3.14159. [same adv. very softly [It.]].

piano (pē-ā-nō) adv. (Mus.) softly. — planist' piano (pē-ā-nō) n. abbrev. of planoforte (pē-ā-nō-for'tā) n. a musical instrument having wires by graduated tension, struck by hammers moved by notes on a keyboard. — Piano'la n. (Protected Trade Name) a mechanically played piano. — pianist (pē-ā-nist, pē-an'ist) n. one who plays the piano [It. piano e forte = soft and strong].

piastre (pi-as'te(r)) n. a monetary unit of several Eastern countries, including Turkey, Egypt (approx. value = 2½d.). Also pias'ter [It. piastra].

piazza (pē-ni'sa, pē-az'a) n. a large open square, surrounded by buildings or colonnades; a public square [It.].

pipe'broch (pē-broil) n. a selection of music for the Scottish bagpipes [Gael. piob, a pipe].

pica (pi-kə) n. (Zool.) a size of type, having 6 lines to the inch [L. pica, a magpie, fr. the contrast between the black print and white paper].

picador (pik-a-dor') n. a mounted bullfighter armed with a lance to prod the bull [Sp. pica, a pike].

picaroon (pik'a-rōon) n. an adventurer; a pirate. — picarousque (pik-a-resk') a. of a novel, dealing with the lives and adventures of rogues [Sp. picaro, a rogue].

piccalilli (pik-a-lil'i) n. a pickle of vegetables [etym. uncertain].

piccaninny (pik'q-nin-l) n. a small child; a Negro baby [Sp. pequeño, small].

piccolo (pik'ō-lō) n. (Mus.) a small flute, sounding an octave higher than the ordinary flute [It.].

pick (pik) v.t. to peck at, like birds with their bills; to pierce with a pointed instrument; to open with a pointed instrument, as a lock; to pluck, or cull, as flowers, etc.; to raise or lift (with 'up'); to choose or select; to rob; to pluck the strings of a musical instrument; (Colloq.) to eat; — v.i. to eat daintily or without appetite; (Colloq.) to nag; to find fault with (with 'on'); — n. a sharp-pointed tool, used for breaking up earth, etc.; the act of choosing; choice; the right of selection; the choicest or best of anything. — pick'axe n. an instrument for digging, with a straight or curved metal head having a point at one end and a transverse blade at the other. — pick'ing n. the act of one who picks; stealing; — pl. gleanings; perquisites, often obtained by slightly underhand methods. — pick'pocket n. one who steals from pockets. — pick'me-up n. a drink that acts as a stimulant or restorative [Scand.].*****

pick-a-back (pik'a-bak) adv. on the shoulders or back [etym. uncertain].

pickarel (pik'q-rel) n. a young pike; a kind of pike [dim. fr. pike].

picket (pik'et) n. a sharpened stake (used in fortifications, etc.); a peg or pale; a guard posted in front of an army; a party sent out by trade unions to dissuade men from working during a strike; — v.t. to fence with pickets; to post, as a guard; to beset with pickets [Fr. piquet, fr. pic, a pike].

pickle (pik'l) n. brine or vinegar in which fish, meat, or vegetables are preserved; any food preserved in brine or vinegar; a difficult situation; — v.t. to preserve with salt or vinegar. — pick'leg a. (Slang) drunk. — pick'les n.pl. vegetables in vinegar and spices [etym. uncertain].

picnic (pik'nik) n. pleasure excursion with meal out of doors; agreeable situation; — v.i. to go on a picnic. — pr.p. pic'niking. — pa.p. and pa.t. pic'icked [Fr. pique-nique, etym. uncertain].

picot (pēkō) n. a small projecting loop of thread forming part of an ornamental edging to ribbon, lace, etc. [Fr.].

picotee (pik-o-lē') n. a variety of carnation [Fr. picoté, marked with points].

picric (pik'rik) a. pert. to picric acid, a poisonous, crystalline substance used in solution as a dressing for ulcers, etc. [Gk. πικρός, bitter].

Pict (pikt) n. one of an ancient race, formerly inhabiting E. Scotland. — Pic'tish a. [Perth. fr. L. pictus, painted].

pictograph (pik'to-graf) n. a picture representing an idea; writing in pictorial symbols [L. pingere, pictum, to paint; Gk. graphein, to write].

pictorial (pik-tō-ri-al) a. pert. to pictures; expressed by pictures; illustrated. — pictor'ially adv. [L. pictor, a painter, fr. pingere, to paint].

picture (pik'tūr) n. a representation of objects or scenes on paper, canvas, etc., by drawing, painting, photography, etc.; a mental image; a likeness or copy; an illustration; picturesque object; a graphic or vivid description in words; — v.t. to draw or paint an image or representation of; to describe graphically; to recall vividly. — picture'sque (pik-tū-resk') a. making pleasing picture; vivid in description. — picture'sque adv. — picture'sque n.m. — pic'ture-gall'ery n. a hall containing a collection of pictures for exhibition. — pic'ture-house, pic'ture-pal'ace, n. a cinema [L. pingere, pictum, to paint]. [trifling [etym. uncertain].]

piddle (pid'l) v.t. (Arch.) to trifle; — pidd'ling a. pidgin (pi'djin) n. Chinese corruption of English word business. — pidgin or piseon English, a jargon used in China between foreigners and natives.

- pie (pi) n. (Cookery) a dish of meat or fruit covered with paste and baked; (Print.) a confused mass of type [etym. uncertain].
- pie (pi) n. a magpie; a kind of woodpecker. — piebald (pi²-bawld) a. irregularly marked; streaked with any two colours. — pie-d a. piebald; variegated [L. pica, a magpie; bald = balled, streaked].
- piece (pés) n. a part of anything; a bit; a portion; a single object; a separate example; a coin; a counter in chess, draughts, etc.; a literary work; a musical composition; a gun; a plot of land; — v.t. to mend; to put together. — piece-goods n.pl. textile fabrics, e.g. shirtings, long-cloths, etc. sold by recognised lengths of the material. — piece-meal adv. little by little; gradually. — piece-work n. work paid for by the amount done, and not by the hour, day, etc. — piece of eight, an old Spanish dollar = eight reals [Fr. pièce].
- pier (pér) n. a piece of solid, upright masonry, as a support or pillar for an arch, bridge, or beam; a structure built out over the water as a landing-stage. — pier-glass n. a tall mirror, esp. a wall-mirror between two windows [Fr. pierre, stone, fr. L. petra].
- piece (pés) v.t. to thrust into, esp. with a pointed instrument; to make a hole in; to penetrate; — v.i. to enter; to penetrate. — piece-ing a. penetrating; sharp; keen. — piece'ingly adv. [Fr. percer].
- pierrôt (péer-ô) n. (fem. pierrette) a French pantomime character; a member of a troupe of seaside entertainers [Fr. dim. of Pierre, Peter].
- piety (pié-ti) n. the quality of being pious; devotion to religion; affectionate respect for one's parents. — pi-etist n. an ultra-pious person; a sanctimonious person. — pi-etist'ic a. — pi-etism n. [L. pietas, fr. pius, pious].
- pile (pil) n. (Colloq.) rubbish; tawdler. — pil'ing a. worthless [etym. uncertain].
- pig (pig) n. a hoofed domestic animal, reared for its flesh; oblong mass of smelted metal, as pig-iron; — v.t. to bring forth pigs. — pig'ish a. pert, or, like, pigs; dirty; greedy; stubborn. — pig'ery n. a place where swine are kept. — pig'tail n. the tail of a pig; a queue or plait of hair hanging from the back of the head; a roll of twisted tobacco. — pig-eyed a. having small, sly eyes. — pig-head'ed a. obstinate; stupidly perverse. — pig-iron, — lead, iron, lead, cast in rough oblong bars. — pig-nut n. the earth-nut. — pig'skin n. strong leather made from the pig's skin, and used for saddles, etc. — pig'sticking n. hunting wild boar with a spear, popular in India. — pig'sty n. a covered enclosure for keeping pigs in; a dirty house or room [M.E. pigge].
- pigeon (pij-un) n. any bird of the dove family, both wild and domesticated; a simpleton or dupe. — pig'son-Eng'lish n. See pidgin-English. — pig'son-heart'ed a. timid. — pig'son-hole n. a little division in a desk or case, for holding papers, etc.; — v.t. to place in the pigeon-hole of a desk, etc.; to shelve for future reference; to classify. — pig'son-liv'ared a. meek; cowardly. — pig'son-toed a. having turned-in toes [Fr. fr. L. pipio, pipiō, a young piping bird].
- pigment (pig'ment) n. paint; colouring matter; colouring matter in animal tissues and cells. — pigment'ion n. (Med.) the deposit of colouring matter, esp. when excessive [L. pigmentum].
- pigmy (pig'mi) n. See pygmy.
- pike (pik) n. a sharp point; an old weapon consisting of a long, wooden shaft with a flat-pointed steel head; a voracious freshwater fish; a turnpike or toll-bar. — pike'staff n. a staff with a sharp metal spike [O.E. pic, a point].
- pilastr (pi-las'ter) n. a square column, usually set in a wall [It. pilastr, fr. L. pila, a pillar].
- pilchard (pil'chard) n. a sea-fish resembling the herring, but smaller [etym. uncertain].
- pile (pil) n. a mass or collection of things; a heap; a large building or mass of buildings; an electric battery, consisting of superimposed metal plates; (Colloq.) a large fortune; — v.t. to throw into a pile or heap; to accumulate (up) [L. pila, a pillar].
- pile (pil) n. in atomic energy research, the nuclear energy furnace, made by accumulation of uranium and graphite. When the pile becomes greater than a certain critical size, it becomes intensely radio-active, radiating neutrons and gamma rays.
- pile (pil) n. a beam driven vertically into the ground to support a building, a bridge, etc.; — v.t. to drive piles into; to support with piles. — pile-dri'ver n. an engine for driving in piles [O.E. pil, a dart].
- pile (pil) n. fur or hair; nap of a fabric, esp. if thick and close-set, as in velvet [L. pilus, a hair].
- piles (pilz) n.pl. a disease of the rectum; haemorrhoids [L. pila, a ball].
- pilfer (pil'fer) v.t. and i. to steal in small quantities [O.Fr. pel'fer].
- pilgrim (pil'grim) n. a traveller, esp. one who journeys to visit a holy place. — pil'grimage n. journey to a holy place; the journey of life [O.Fr. pèlerin, fr. L. peregrinus, a stranger].
- pill (pil) n. a small ball of medicine, to be swallowed whole; anything disagreeable that has to be endured; (Slang) any ball. — pill-box n. (Mil.) a small, concrete fort [L. pulula, dim. fr. pila, a ball].
- pillage (pil'āj) n. the act of plundering; plunder or spoil, esp. in war; — v.t. to plunder [Fr. piller, fr. L. pilare, to plunder].
- pillar (pil'ar) n. a slender upright structure of stone, iron, etc.; a column; a support. — pill'ared a. — pill'ar-box n. a hollow iron pillar in which letters can be posted [L. pila, a column].
- pillion (pil'yun) n. a cushioned-pad put behind the saddle on a horse or motor-cycle as a seat for a second person [Gael. pilean, a pack-saddle].
- pillory (pil'o-ri) n. an old instrument used to punish offenders, consisting of a frame with holes for head and hands in which the person was confined and exposed to pelting and ridicule; — v.t. to punish by putting into a pillory; to expose to ridicule and abuse. — pr.p. pill'orying. — pa.p. and pa.t. pill'oried [Fr. pilori].
- pillow (pil'ô) n. a cushion for the head, esp. for a person in bed; — v.t. to place on a pillow. — pill'ow-case, pill'ow-slip n. a removable covering for a pillow [O.E. pylle].
- pilose (pil'ôs) a. hairy; covered with hair. Also pi'ous. — pi'osity n. [L. pilus, hair].
- pilot (pi'lot) n. a person qualified to take charge of a ship entering or leaving a harbour, or where knowledge of local waters is needed; one qualified to operate an aircraft; a steersman; a guide; — v.t. to direct the course of; to guide through dangers or difficulties. — pi'lot-cloth n. a heavy, blue, woollen cloth for overcoats. — pi'lot-engine n. a locomotive sent on ahead to clear the way for a train. — pi'lot-fish n. a tropical fish, said to guide sharks to their prey. — pi'lot light, a small jet of gas kept burning in order to light a cooker, geyser, etc. — pi'lot officer (R.I.F.) an officer of equivalent rank to a second lieutenant in the Army or act. sub-lieut. R.N. [Fr. pilote].
- Pilsener (pil'se-nér) n. a kind of lager beer [fr. Pilsen, Czechoslovakia].
- pimento (pi-men'tô) n. allspice, a spice prepared from the Jamaica pepper-tree [Sp. fr. L. pimentum, spice].
- pimp (pimp) n. a procurer; a pander; — v.t. to pander [Fr. pimper, to dress up].
- pimpernel (pim-pér-nel) n. an annual plant of the primrose family [Fr. fr. L. bipennis, two-winged].
- pimple (pim'pl) n. a small, red, pustular spot on the skin.—pim'pled, pim'ply a. having pimples [etym. uncertain].

pin (pin) n. a short, thin piece of stiff wire with a point and head for fastening soft materials together; a wooden or metal peg or rivet; (Golf) a thin metal or wooden stick (with a flag) to mark the position of the hole; a trifle; —pl. (Slang) the low; —v.t. to fasten with pins; to seize and hold fast. —pr.p. pin'ning. —pa.p. and pa.t. pin'ned. —pin'oushion n. a small pad in which pins are stuck. —pin'mon'ey n. originally, a sum of money settled on a wife for her private expenses; hence, a wife's dress allowance. —pin'point v.t. (R.A.F.) to locate (a target) with great accuracy. —pin'-prick n. a prick with a pin; (Fig.) a petty annoyance or irritation. —pin'ta'ble n. a game in which balls are to be shot into various holes round obstacles originally formed by pins. —pin-up girl (Colloq.) one whose photograph is pinned up on the wall; hence, any good-looking girl [O.E. pinna, a peg].

pinafore (pin'fōr) n. an apron for a child or young girl [E. pin and afore].

pince-nez (pang'snā) n. a pair of eyeglasses fixed to the nose by a spring-clip [Fr. pincer, to pinch; nez, the nose].

pincers (pin'serz) n.pl. a tool for gripping, composed of two limbs crossed and pivoted, nippers; pliers; the claw of a lobster, crab, etc. —pincer-movement (Mil.) a two-fold attack converging on the enemy's position [Fr. pincer, to pinch].

pinch (pinsh) v.t. to nip or squeeze, e.g. between the thumb and a finger; to stint, to make thin, e.g. by hunger; (Slang) to steal; (Slang) to arrest; —v.i. to press hard; to be miserly; —n. as much as can be taken up between the thumb and finger; a nip; an emergency. —pinched a. (Fig.) thin and hungry-looking [Fr. pincer].

pinchbeck (pinsh'bek) n. a zinc and copper alloy; cheap jewellery; —a. counterfeit; sham; flashy; tawdry (invented by C. Pinchbeck, a London watchmaker).

Pindar (pin'dar) n. great lyric poet of ancient Greece (522-442 B.C.). —Pindar'ic a. poet to the poet or his poetry; —n. an imitation of one of his odes.

pine (pin) n. a coniferous tree with evergreen, needle-like leaves; wood of this tree, a pine-apple. —pin'ey, pin'y a. abounding with pines. —pine-apple n. tropical plant and its fruit resembling a pine-cone; the ananas. —pine-cone n. fruit of the pine. —pine-need'le n. the leaf of the pine-tree [L. pinus].

pine (pin) v.i. to waste away from grief, anxiety, want, etc.; to languish; to wither; to desire eagerly [O.E. pinian, fr. pin, pain].

pinfold (pin'fold) n. an enclosure in which stray cattle are confined; a pound [for pin'd-fold = pound-fold].

ping (ping) n. the sound that a bullet makes going through the air. —ping-pong n. table-tennis [imit.].

pinion (pin'yun) n. the outermost joint of a bird's wing; (Avet.) wing; feather; a small wheel with teeth working into the teeth of a larger wheel; —v.t. to cut off the pinion; to restrain by binding arms to body; to shackle [O.Fr. pinion].

pink (pink) n. a clove-scented garden-flower of various colours; a light crimson colour; that which is supremely excellent; the scarlet colour of a fox-hunter's coat; —a. of a pale crimson colour [etym. uncertain].

pink (pink) v.t. to pierce with small holes; to pierce with a sword, etc.; to ornament the edge with scallops, etc. [M.E. pinken, to prick].

pink (pink) n. a boat with a very narrow stern. —pink-sterned a. [Dut.].

pink (pink) v.t. of a motor-engine, to make a metallic, knocking sound [imit.].

pinna (pin'a) n. a feather; the fin of a fish. —pin'nate, pin'ated a. feather-shaped; having wings or fins [L. pinna, for penna, a feather]. pin'ace (pin'as) n. a warship's boat, usually with eight oars; a light sailing-vessel [Fr. pinasse, prob. fr. L. pinus, pine].

pin'acle (pin'a-k'l) n. a slender turret elevated above the main building; a rocky mountain peak; a summit; (Fig.) the climax [L. pinna, a feather, a battlement].

pint (pint) n. a liquid measure equal to 4 gills or 1 quart [Fr. pinte].

pintle (pint'l) n. pivot-pin; bolt on which rudder turns [dim. of pin].

pinto (pin'tō) n. a piebald horse [Sp.].

pioneer (pi-o-nēr') n. (Mil.) one of an advance body clearing or repairing a road for troops; an explorer; one who originates anything or prepares the way for others; —v.i. to open a way or originate [Fr. pionnier, fr. pion, a foot-soldier].

pious (pi'us) a. having reverence and love for God; marked by pretended or mistaken devotion; (Arch.) showing respect towards parents, etc. —pi'ously adv. [L. pius].

pip (pip) n. the seed of an apple, orange, etc.

—pip'less a. [abbrev. fr. pippin].

pip (pip) n. a disease in the mouth of fowls. —to have the pip, to be depressed, or irritable [L.L. pipita, fr. piluita, phlegm, rheum].

pip (pip) n. the star on an officer's shoulder; each spot on a domino, playing-card, dice, etc.; (Radio) each of the six shrill notes broadcast as a time signal.

pip (pip) v.t. (Colloq.) to wound; to fail, esp. in an examination.

pipe (ptp) n. a tubular instrument of music; any long tube; a tube of clay, wood, etc. with a bowl for smoking; a bird's note; a wine-measure, usually containing 126 gallons; a pipeful of tobacco; a funnel; a pipe-like vein of ore; —pl. bagpipes; —v.t. to perform on a pipe; to utter in a shrill tone; to convey by means of pipes, to ornament with a piping or fancy edging; —v.i. to play on a pipe, esp. the bagpipes, to whistle. —pip'ed (pipt) a. furnished with a pipe; tubular; conveyed by pipes. —pi'ping a. giving forth a shrill sound; —n. the act of playing on a pipe; a system of pipes (for gas, water, etc.); a kind of cord trimming for ladies' dresses; ornamentation made on cakes by forcing icing through a small nozzle. —pi'per n. —pipe-clay n. a fine, whitish clay used in the manufacture of tobacco-pipes; —v.t. to whiten with pipe-clay. —pi'pe'line n. a long line of piping for conv. g water from reservoir to towns, oil from wells to sea-ports, etc. —pi'pe'ma'jor n. (Mil.) a non-commissioned officer in command of a pipe-band [O.E. pipe, fr. L. pipa].

pipette (pi-pet') n. a thin glass tube used for withdrawing small quantities of a liquid from a vessel [Fr. dim. of pipel].

pipit (pip'it) n. a small bird, resembling the lark [imit.].

pipkin (pip'kin) n. a small earthenware jar or pan [etym. uncertain].

pippin (pip'in) n. one of several kinds of apple [O.Fr. pepin, a seed].

piquant (pi'k'ant) a. agreeable; pungent to the taste; (Fig.) arousing curiosity. —pi'quantly adv. —piquancy (pi'kan-si) n. pungency [Fr. piquer, to prick].

pique (pēk) v.t. to irritate; to hurt the pride of; to displease; to stimulate; to pride oneself. —pr.p. piqu'ing. —pa.p. and pa.t. piqued (pēkt); —n. annoyance from a slight vexation [Fr. piquer, to prick].

piquet (pēk) n. (Cards) in the game of piquet, the scoring of 30 points before opponents have scored at all; —v.t. and t. to make this score [Fr.].

piquē (pē'kē) n. a stiff, ribbed cotton fabric [Fr.].

piquet (pi-ke't) n. a card game for 2, 3, or 4 players, with 32 cards [Fr.].

pirate (pi'rāt) n. a sea-robber; a vessel manned by sea-robbers; a publisher, etc. who infringes copyright;—v.i. and t. to act as a pirate; to plunder; to publish or reproduce regardless of copyright.—pirat'ly adv.—pirat'ly adv.—pir'ray n. [Gk. peirates, fr. peiraîn, to attempt].

pirouette (pir-ôô-et') n. a spinning round on one toe;—v.i. to do this [Fr.].

piscatology (pis-ka-tôl-ô-jî) n. the study of fishes.—piscator (pis-kă-tôr) n. an angler; a fisherman.—piscato'rial, piscatory a. pert. to fishes or fishing.—pis'ciform a. fish-shaped.—pisciv'orous a. fish-eating [L. piscis, a fish].

Pisces (pi-sêz) n.pl. (Astron.) the Fishes, the twelfth sign of the zodiac, which the sun enters on Feb. 20 [L. piscis, a fish].

piscina (pis-tî-na) n. a stone basin near the altar; a tank for fish.—piscin'al a. [L. piscis, a fish]. [pool [L. piscis, a fish].

piscine (pis-tî-n) a. pert. to fishes;—n. a bathing-piss (pis) v.f. to make water;—n. urine [Fr. pisser].

pistachio (pis-ta' (tâ'-) shi-ô) n. the nut of an Asiatic tree, whose kernel is used for flavouring [Sp. fr. Gk. pistakion].

pistil (pis-tîl) n. the seed-bearing organ of a flower, consisting of the stigma, style, and ovary.—pistillate a. having a pistil but no stamen [L. pistillum, a pestle].

pistol (pis-tîl) n. a small hand-gun;—v.f. to shoot with a pistol [Fr. pistolet, fr. Pistoia Italy].

pistole (pis-tôl') n. an obsolete gold coin, originally Spanish, worth 16s. to 18s. [Fr.].

piston (pis-tun) n. a closely fitting metal disc moving to and fro in a hollow cylinder, e.g. as in a steam-engine, motor-car, etc.—pis-ton-rod n. a rod which connects the piston with another part of the machinery [It. pistone, fr. L. punsere, pistum, to pound].

pit (pit) n. a deep hole in the ground, esp. one from which coal etc. is dug or quarried; the abyss of hell; an area for cock-fighting, etc.; in the theatre, the cheaper priced seats behind the orchestra stalls; in motor-racing, the base where cars are re-filled, etc.; a small indentation in the skin left by the pustule of certain diseases, e.g. smallpox;—v.f. to mark with little hollows as by pustules; to place in a pit; to put forward as an antagonist in a contest.—pit'ted a. marked with small hollows.—pit'tal n. a pit lightly covered, intended to entrap animals; (Fig.) any hidden danger [O.E. pytt, fr. L. puleus, a well].

pitapat (pit-a-pat) adv. in a flutter; with palpitation;—n. a light, quick step [reduplication of pat].

pitch (pich) n. a thick, black, sticky substance obtained by boiling down tar;—v.f. to cover over, smear with pitch.—pitch'iness n.—pitch'black, pitch-dark a. very dark.—pitch-blende n. natural ore consisting mainly of uranium oxide, a source of radium.—pitch-pine n. a pine abounding in resinous matter [L. pitx].

pitch (pich) v.f. to throw, toss, fling; to set up (a tent, camp, wickets, etc.); to set the keynote of;—v.f. to alight; to fix one's choice on (with 'on'); to plunge or fall forward; to slope down; of a ship, to plunge.—n. the act of tossing or casting or, in golf, lofting the ball; a throw or cast; degree of elevation or depth; the highest point; the plunging motion of a vessel lengthwise; degree of acuteness of musical note; (Cricket) the ground between wickets; station for a street vendor or beggar; the distance between consecutive threads of a screw, or between successive teeth of a gear.—pitched (picht) a. sloping; fully arranged for and deliberately entered upon, as a pitched battle.—pitch'er n.—pitch'fork n. a fork for tossing hay, etc.; a tuning-fork;—v.f. to lift with a pitchfork; (Fig.) to thrust suddenly into.—pitch and toss, a gambling game, played by tossing coins [form of pitch]. pitcher (pich'er) n. a jug; a vessel usually with a handle and a lip or spout [L.L. picterium, a goblet].

pith (pith) n. the soft, spongy substance in the centre of plant stems; the essential substance; force or vigour; importance.—pith'y a. consisting of pith; terse and forceful; energetic.—pith'ly adv.—pith'iness n.—pith'less a. [O.E. pytha].

pittance (pit'tans) n. orig. an allowance of food or drink; a very small or insufficient portion or allowance [Fr. pittance, allowance of food in a monastery].

pituitary (pi-tû-tî-târ) a. secreting mucus.—pituitary gland, a ductless gland at base of the brain, secreting an endocrine influencing growth [L. pituita, mucus].

pity (pit-i) n. sympathy or sorrow for others' suffering; a cause of grief or regret;—v.f. to feel grief or sympathy for.—pa.t. and pa.p. pit'ted.—pit'ty'ing a. expressing pity.—pit'ty'ingly adv.—pit'table a. deserving pity.—pit'tably adv.—pit'tiful a. full of pity; tender; woeful; exciting pity.—pit'tfully adv.—pit'tifulness n.—pit'tless a. feeling no pity; hard-hearted.—pit'tlessly adv.—pit'tlessness n.—pit'teous (pit'te-us) a. fitted to excite pity; sad or sorrowful; wretched.—pit'teously adv.—pit'teousness n. [L. pietās, piety].

pivot (pit-vut) n. a pin or shaft on which a wheel or other body turns; that on which important results depend;—v.f. to turn as on a pivot [Fr.].

pixy, pixie (pik'sid) n. a fairy or elf.—pix'y-hood n. a woman's peaked bonnet.—pix'lated a. amusingly eccentric [Scand.].

pizzicato (pit-si-kă-tô) a. (Mus.) a direction for stringed instruments denoting that the strings be plucked with the fingers [It.].

placable (plak'ă-bl, plă-kă-bl) a. readily appeased or pacified; willing to forgive.—placabil'ity, plac'ableness n.—placate (plă-kăt') v.f. to appease, conciliate.—plac'atory a. conciliatory [L. placare, to appease].

placard (plak'ard) n. a written or printed paper posted in a public place.—placard (plă-kărd') v.f. to post placards [Fr.].

place (plă) n. orig. an open space in a town; a particular part of space; a spot; a locality; a building; rank; position; priority of position; stead; duty; office or employment; (Sport) a position among the first three competitors to finish;—v.f. to put in a particular spot; to find a position for; to appoint; to fix; to put; to identify.—placed pa.p. of the verb;—a. in a race, etc., to be first, second, or third at the finish.—place'kick n. (Hugby) one made by kicking the ball after it has been placed on the ground for the purpose.—to give place, to make room for [L. placare, a broad street; fr. Gk. platus, broad].

placenta (plă-sen'ta) n. (Med.) the soft, spongy substance expelled from the womb after birth) through which the mother's blood nourishes the foetus; the after-birth; (Bot.) the part of the plant to which the seeds are attached.—placen'tal a. [L. = a flat cake].

placid (plă-sid) a. calm; peaceful.—plac'idly adv.—plac'id'ity n. mildness; sweetness of disposition; serenity [L. placidus, fr. placere, to please]. [woman's skirt [Fr. plaque].

placket (plak'et) n. a slit at the top of a plagiarise (plă'ji-ar-iz) v.f. to steal the words, ideas, etc. of another and use them as one's own.—plag'iarism n. the act of plagiarising; literary theft.—plag'iarist n.—plag'iarly n. plagiarism; plagiarist [L. plagiarius, a kidnapper].

plague (plăg) n. a deadly, epidemic, and infectious disease; a pestilence; (Colloq.) a nuisance;—v.f. to vex; to trouble or annoy.—pr.p. plag'uing.—pa.p. and pa.t. plagued.—plaguey (plăgti) a. [L. plaga, a blow].

plaice (plă) n. a flat-fish allied to the flounder [Gk. platys, flat].

plaid (plăd, plad) n. a long, woollen garment, usually with a tartan pattern, worn as a wrap by Scottish Highlanders;—a. marked with chequered stripes [Gael. plaid].

plain (plān) a. level; flat; even; evident; clear; unobstructed; not intricate; simple; ordinary; without decoration; not beautiful;—adv. clearly;—n. a tract of level country.—plainly adv.—plainness n.—plain-sail'ing n. an unobstructed course of action.—plain-song n. the traditional recitative-like music of the chants of the R.C. church, sung in unison [L. planus, smooth].

plaint (plānt) n. (Poet.) a mournful song; a lamentation; (Law) a statement in writing of the complaint, accusation, etc.—plain'tiff n. the one who sues in a court of law; the prosecutor.—plain'tive a. expressing grief; sad; mournful.—plain'tively adv. [L. plangere, planctum, to lament].

plait (plat, plāt) n. a fold; a braid of hair, straw, etc.;—v.t. to interweave strands of hair, straw, etc. Also pleat [L. plicatus, folded].

plan (plan) n. a drawing representing a thing's horizontal section; a diagram; a map; a project; a design; a scheme;—v.t. to make a plan of; to arrange beforehand.—pr. p. planning,—pa. p. and pt. t. planned [L. planus, flat].

planchette (plan-shet') n. a board, mounted on castors and a pencil point, believed to transmit spiritualistic messages under light finger-pressure [Fr.].

plane (plān) n. a carpenter's tool for smoothing wood;—v.t. to make smooth with a plane.—plan'er n. [L. planus, level].

plane (plān) n. one of several kinds of trees, e.g. the sycamore [Gk. platanos, fr. platus, broad].

plane (plān) n. a flat, even surface; (Geom.) a surface such that, if any two points on it be joined by a straight line, that line will lie wholly on the surface;—a. perfectly level; pert. to, or lying in, a plane.—plane geometry, branch of geometry which deals with plane, not solid, figures [L. planus, level].

plane (plān) n. abbrev. of 'aeroplane'; the wing of an aeroplane or glider;—v.t. to glide in an aeroplane [Fr. planer, to hover].

planet (plan-et) n. a celestial body revolving round the sun (e.g. Venus, Mars, etc.) as distinct from the fixed stars.—planetarium (plan-e-tā-ri-um) n. a working model of the planetary system.—plan'e'tary a. pert. to planets; of the nature of a planet; erratic; wandering; (Astrol.) under the influence of a planet.—plan'e'toid n. a minor planet [Gk. planetes, wanderer].

plangent (plan-jent) a. of sound, vibrating; thrilling; resounding.—plang'en'cy (plan-jen-si) n. [L. plangere, to beat the breast].

plانش (plan-ish) v.t. to make smooth or flat by light hammering; to flatten between rollers.—plانش'er n. [L. planus, level].

plank (plangk) n. a thick, heavy board; an article of policy in a political programme;—v.t. to lay with planks.—plank'ing n. planks collectively [L. plankus].

plankton (plangk'tun) n. the minute animal and vegetable organisms floating in the ocean [Gk. planktos, wandering].

plant (plant) n. a living organism belonging to the vegetable kingdom, generally excluding trees and shrubs; a slip or cutting; machinery, tools, etc., used in an industrial undertaking; (Slang) a swindle, hoax, trick;—v.t. to set in ground for growth;—v.t. to sow seeds, or set shoots, in the ground.—plantation (plan-tā-shun) n. area planted with trees; (U.S.) large estate; a colony.—plan'ter n. one who plants; the owner of a plantation [O.E.].

plantain (plantān) n. a common roadside weed with broad leaves and a spike of close-set, greenish flowers [L. plantago].

platan (plantān) n. a tropical tree of the same genus as the banana; the fruit of the tree [Sp. platanillo].

plaque (plak) n. a thin, flat, ornamental tablet hung on a wall or inserted into a wall or furniture [Fr.].

plash (plash) n. a puddle; a splashing sound;—v.t. to dabble in water.—plash'y a. [Dut. plassen, to splash].

plasma (plazm) n. (Biol.) the living matter of a cell; protoplasm.—plasma (plaz'ma) n. (Med.) protoplasm; the fluid part of the blood, as opposed to the corpuscles.—plasmat'ic, plasmic a. [Gk. plasma, fr. plassein, to form or mould].

plaster (plās'ter) n. a composition of lime, water, and sand, for coating walls; gypsum, for making ornaments, mouldings, etc.; (Med.) an adhesive, curative application; (Surg.) a composition used to hold a limb, etc. rigid;—v.t. to cover with a plaster, as a wound; to smooth over or conceal.—plās'terer n. [Gk. plassein, to mould].

plastic (plās'tik) a. capable of moulding or of being moulded; pliable; capable of change;—n. a substance capable of being moulded.—plās'tics n. pl. the art of moulding; a group of synthetic products derived from casein, cellulose, etc. moulded into any form.—plasticity (plās-tis'i-ti) n. quality of being plastic.—plastic art, the art of representing figures in sculpture or by modelling in clay.—plastic surgery, the art of restoring lost or damaged parts of the body by grafting on sound tissue [Gk. plassein, to mould].

Plasticine (plās'ti-sēn) n. a modelling material easy to manipulate, used for teaching children [Protected Trade Name].

plastron (plās'tron) n. a breast-plate; part of a garment covering the breast [Fr.].

plat (plat) Same as plat.

plate (plāt) n. a shallow, round dish from which food is eaten; a plateful; a flat, thin sheet of metal, glass, etc.; utensils of gold or silver; short for 'dental plate,' a thin sheet of vulcanite, or metal, to hold artificial teeth; (Photog.) short for 'photographic plate';—v.t. to cover with a thin coating of gold, silver, or other metal; to protect with steel plates, e.g. as a ship.—plā'ter n. a shipyard worker who fixes steel plates on a ship.—plate-arm'our n. very heavy, protective armour for warships.—plate-glass n. thick glass, rolled in sheets and used for windows, mirrors, etc.—plate-lay'ar n. a railroad worker who lays down or repairs rails.—photographic plate or film, a thin sheet of glass or celluloid coated with sensitive emulsion [Gk. platus, broad].

plateau (plā-tō') n. a tract of level, high ground.—pl. plateaus, plateaux (plā-tōz') [Fr. fr. Gk. plateus, broad, flat].

platen, (plat-on) n. (Print.) the plate which presses the paper against the type; the roller of a typewriter [O. Fr. platine, a flat piece].

platform (plat'form) n. a wooden structure raised above the level of the floor, as a stand for speakers, a landing-stage at a railway-station; (Mil.) a stage on which a gun is mounted; (Fig.) policy of a political party [Fr. plate-forme = flat form].

platinum (plat'in-um) n. a hard, silvery-white, malleable metal.—platin'ic, platinous a.—plat'inoid n. a metal found associated with platinum, e.g. iridium; an alloy of copper, zinc, nickel, and tungsten [Sp. platina, fr. plata, silver].

platitude (plat'i-tūd) n. a commonplace remark; dullness of writing or speaking.—platin'uous a. [Fr. fr. Gk. platius, flat].

Plato (plātō) n. a famous Greek philosopher (427-347 B.C.).—Platon'ic (plā-ton'ik), Platon'ical a. pert. to Plato or to his philosophy.—Platonism n. the doctrines of Plato.—Platonist n.—Platon'ic love, spiritual affection between man and woman without sexual desire.

platoon (plā-tōon') n. (Mil.) a small body of soldiers employed as a unit [Fr. peloton, a knot, a ball]. [dish [Fr. plat, a dish].

platter (plat'er) n. a large, shallow plate or platypus (plat'i-pus) n. a small, aquatic, furred animal of Australia, which has a bill like a duck, burrows, lays eggs, but suckles its young; the duckbill [Gk. platys, flat; pous, a foot].

plaudit (plaw'dit) n. enthusiastic applause.—plaud'itory a. applauding; commending [L. plaudere, to clap the hands].

plausible (plaw'zi-bl) a. having the appearance of being true; apparently right; fair-spoken.—plaus'ibly adv.—plausibil'ity [L. plaudere, to praise].

play (plā) v.t. and i. to move with light or irregular motion; to frolic; to flutter; to amuse oneself; to take part in a game; to gamble; to act a part on the stage; to perform on a musical instrument; to operate; to trifle with; to delude;—n. a brisk or free movement; activity; action; amusement; fun; frolic; sport; gambling; a dramatic piece or performance.—play'er n. one who plays; an actor; a performer on a musical instrument; a gambler.—play'able a. able to be played.—play'ful a. fond of play or fun; lively.—play'fully adv.—play'bill n. a bill or poster to advertise a play.—play'boy n. an habitual pleasure-seeker.—play'fellow n. a companion in play; a chum.—play'ground n. an open space or courtyard for recreation.—play'house n. a theatre.—play'mate n. playfellow.—play'pen n. a portable wooden enclosure for small children to play in.—play'thing n. a toy.—playwright (plā'rit) n. a writer of plays; a dramatist.—play'ing-card n. one of a set of cards, usually 52 in number, used in card-games [O.E. plegan, to play].

plea (plē) n. (Law) the defendant's answer to the plaintiff's declaration; an excuse; entreaty [Fr. plaider, to plead].

pleach (plēch) v.t. to bend and intertwine the branches of [L. plectere, to weave].

plead (plēd) v.t. to allege in proof or vindication; to offer in excuse; (Law) to argue at the bar;—v.i. to carry on a lawsuit; to present an answer to the declaration of a plaintiff; to urge reasons in support of or against; to beg or implore.—pa.p. and pa.t. plead'ed. Also (Colloq.) pled.—plead'er n.—plead'ing a. entreating;—n. the art of conducting a cause as an advocate; entreaty; supplication;—n.pl. written statements of plaintiff and defendant in support of their claims.—plead'ingly adv. [Fr. plaider].

pleasance (plez'ans) n. a pleasure-garden [L. placere, to please].

please (plēz) v.t. to excite agreeable sensations or emotions in; to gratify; to delight; to satisfy;—v.i. to like or think fit; to choose; to give pleasure; used as abbrev. of 'if you please,' in a polite request.—pleas'ant (plez'ant) a. fitted to please; cheerful; lively; merry; agreeable.—pleas'antly adv.—pleas'antness n.—pleasantry (plez'ant-ri) n. playfulness in conversation; a joke;—a. humorous act;—pl. pleas'antries.—pleas'ing (plēz'ing) a. agreeable; gratifying.—pleas'ingly adv.—pleas'ingness n.—pleasure (plez'h-ur) n. agreeable sensation or emotion; gratification of the senses or mind; amusement, diversion, or self-indulgence; choice; a source of gratification.—pleas'urably adv. [L. placere, to please].

pleat (plēt) n. a fattened fold; a crease;—v.t. to crease [var. of plait].

plebs (plebz) n. in ancient Rome the common people.—plebeian (ple-bē-ian) a. pert. or belonging to the common people; vulgar; popular; uncultured;—n. a member of the lower classes [L. plebs].

plebiscite (pleb'i-sit, pleb'i-sit) n. a vote of the whole community or nation [L. plebiscitum, a decree of the plebs].

plectrum (plek'trum) n. a small instrument used for plucking the strings of a lyre or other like instruments of music [Gk. plektron, fr. plekein, to strike].

pledge (plēj) n. something deposited as a security; a sign or token of anything; a drinking to the health of; a solemn promise;—v.t.

to deposit in pawn; to leave as security; to engage for, by promise or declaration; to drink the health of [O.Fr. piege].

Pleistocene (plis'tō-sēn) n. (Geol.) deposits of the last glacial period, following the Tertiary.—a. pert. to this period [Gk. pleistos, most; kainos, new].

plenary (plē'n-ri) a. full, entire, complete; unqualified; (of an assembly) fully attended.—plē'narily adv.—plē'nariness n.—plenipoten'tiary (plen-i-pō-ten'sh-ri) n. an ambassador with full powers;—a. possessing full powers.—plē'nish (plē'nish) v.t. to furnish; to provide with the necessary stock or implements.—plenitude (plē'nī-tūd) n. fulness; repletion; abundance [L. plenus, full; potens, potent].

plenty (plēn'ti) n. a full supply; abundance; quite enough; sufficiency.—plēnteous (plēn'tē-us) a. copious; abundant; ample; rich.—plēn'teously adv.—plēn'teousness n.—plēn'tiful a. abundant; ample.—plēn'tifully adv.—plēn'tiffulness n. [L. plenus, full].

plenum (plē-num) n. space as considered to be full of matter (opposed to vacuum); a condition of fulness [L. plenus, full].

plethora (plēth'o-ra) n. an excess of red corpuscles in the blood; superabundance.—plethor'ic a. [Gk. plethōra, fulness].

pleura (plēō'r-ri) n. (Med.) the membrane lining the chest and covering the lungs.—pl. pleu'rae.—pleu'ral a.—pleu'riat n. (Med.) inflammation of the pleura.—pleurit'ic a. pert. to, or causing, pleurisy [Gk. pleura, the side].

plexus (plek's-us) n. a network, esp. of nerves, blood-vessels, fibres, etc.—plex'al a. [L. = a twining].

pliable (plī-ā-bl) a. easily bent; easily influenced. Also pliant (plī-ant).—plī'ably, plī'antly adv.—plīabil'ity, plī'aney n. [L. pliacare, to fold].

plica (plī-ka) n. a fold.—plī'cate, plī'cated a. (Bot.) folded; pleated [L. plicare, to fold].

pliers (plī-erz) n.pl. small pincers with a flat grip.

plight (plīt) n. a state or condition of a distressing kind; predicament [L. placare, to fold; O.E. plīt, a fold or plait].

plight (plīt) n. solemn promise; pledge;—v.t. to pledge, as one's word of honour; to betroth [O.E. plīt, risk].

Plimsoll line (plim'sol-līn) n. a circle with a horizontal line through the centre as a mark on merchant-vessels to indicate the maximum draught permitted when loaded [Samuel Plimsoll, (1824-1898)].

plimsolls (plim'sols) n.pl. rubber-soled shoes with canvas uppers [etym. uncertain].

plinth (plinth) n. a square slab, forming the base of a column; the projecting band running along the foot of a wall [Gk. plinthos, a brick].

Pliocene (plī'o-sēn) n. (Geol.) the deposits belonging to the latest Tertiary period;—a. pert. to this period [Gk. plion, more; kainos, recent].

plod (plōd) v.t. to tread with a heavy step;—v.i. to walk or work laboriously; to toil or drudge.—plōd'er n.—plōd'ing a. [limit.].

plot (plōt) n. a small patch of ground; a plan of a field, farm, etc. drawn to scale;—v.t. to draw a graph of.—pr.p. plōt'ting.—pa.p. and pa.t. plōt'ted [O.E.].

plot (plōt) n. the plan of a play, romance, novel, etc.; a complicated scheme, plan, or stratagem; conspiracy;—v.t. to plan or devise;—v.i. to conspire [Fr. complot].

plough (plou) n. an implement with a heavy cutting blade for turning up the soil;—v.t. to turn up with the plough; to furrow; to advance laboriously; to reject a candidate in an examination;—v.t. to till the soil with a plough.—plough'share n. the heavy iron blade of a plough which cuts into the ground.—the Plough (Astron.) the seven stars constituting the Great Bear, so-called because of the shape [O.E. plōh].

plover (pluv'ər) n. one of various kinds of wading-birds [L. pluvius, rain].

ploy (plɔɪ) n. (Colloq.) occupation; prank.

pluck (plʌk) v.t. to pull off; to pick, as flowers; to strip off feathers, as a fowl; to snatch, or pull with sudden force; —n. a pull or twitch; the act of plucking; courage or spirit. —pluck'y a. brave; spirited. —pluck'ily adv. —pluck'iness n. [O.E. pluccian].

plug (plʌg) n. anything used to stop a hole; a bung or stopper; a cake of compressed tobacco; (Elect.) a device for easy connecting and disconnecting of a circuit; abbrev. for sparking-plug; —v.t. to stop with a plug; to insert a plug in; to shoot; (Slang) to advertise a song or tune by having it played constantly; —v.i. (Colloq.) to keep doggedly at work (with 'at'). —pr.p. plugg'ing. —pa.p. and pa.t. plugged [Dut.].

plum (plʌm) n. a round or oval stone-fruit; the tree that bears it; a particularly good appointment or position; a dark purplish colour. — plum-cake, plum-pudd'ing n. a cake or pudding containing raisins, currants, etc. — plum'duff n. (Colloq.) a suet pudding made of flour and raisins [O.E. plumc, fr. L. prunum].

plumage (plʊm'ɑːʒ) n. a bird's feathers, collectively [Fr. fr. L. pluma, a feather].

plumb (plʌm) n. a plummet; a weight of lead attached to a line, and used to determine perpendicularity; the perpendicular position; —adj. perpendicular. —adv. perpendicularly; (U.S., Colloq.) utterly, absolutely; —v.t. to adjust by a plumb-line; to sound or take the depth of water with a plummet. — plumber (plʌm'bər) n. artisan who attends to water and sewage system of building. — plumb'ble a. (Chem.) like lead. — plumbing (plʌm'ɪŋ) n. the art of working in lead; the trade of a plumber; the system of water and sewage pipes in a building. — plumb-line n. a weighted string for testing the perpendicular. — plumb-bob n. the weight at the end of this line [L. plumbum, lead].

plumbago (plʌm-bā'gō) n. black lead; graphite [L. plumbum, lead].

plume (plʊm) n. a feather or tuft of feathers; a crest on a helmet; a token of honour; —v.t. to furnish with plumes; to strip of feathers, to clean feathers of bird; (Fig.) to boast of [L. pluma, a feather].

plummet (plʌm'ɪt) n. a plumb-line; a sounding-line [L. plumbum, lead].

plump (plʌmp) a. of rounded form; moderately fat. — plump'ness n. [Dut. plomp, blunt].

plump (plʌmp) v.t. to fall or sit down heavily and suddenly; to vote for one candidate; —v.t. to drop or throw abruptly; —a. direct; abrupt; downright; —adv. heavily; abruptly; bluntly; —n. (Colloq.) a sudden fall, esp. of rain [perh. init. origin].

plumule (plʊm'ul) n. a small, downy feather; a first feather [L. pluma, a feather].

plunder (plʌn'dər) v.t. to rob systematically; to take by force; —n. the act of robbing by force; property so obtained. — plun'derer n. [Ger. plündern].

plunge (plʌŋ) v.t. to thrust forcibly into; to immerse suddenly in a liquid; —v.t. to throw oneself headlong into; (Colloq.) to gamble recklessly; —n. the act of plunging; a dive; a sudden rush. — plun'ger n. one who plunges; a solid, cylindrical rod used as a piston in pumps [Fr. plongeur, fr. L. plumbum, lead].

pluperfect (plʊp'ər-fekt) a. (Gram.) of a tense, expressing action completed before another action in the past [L. plus quam perfectum, more than perfect].

plural (plʊd'əl) a. more than one; (Gram.) denoting more than one person or thing; —n. (Gram.) a word in its plural form. — plu'rally adv. — plu'rality n. the holding of more than one appointment, benefice, etc. simultaneously; (Philos.) doctrine that existence has more than one ultimate principle. — plu'rality n. — plurality a. — plurality n. large number; holding of two or more offices, etc. simultaneously; a majority of votes [L. plus, more].

plus (plʌs) n. symbol of addition (+); positive quantity; extra quantity; —a. to be added; (Math., Elect., etc.) positive; —prep. with the addition of. — plus-fours' n.pl. wide knickerbockers worn by golfers [L. plus, more].

plush (plʌʃ) n. a fabric with a long, velvet-like nap [Fr. peluche, fr. L. pilus, hair].

Pluto (plʊ'to) n. (Myth.) god of the Lower World; (World War 2) code name (fr. the initial letters of Pipe Line under the Ocean) for the oil pipeline system from England to France. — Pluton'ian a. pert. to Pluto or infernal regions; subterranean; dark. — Pluton'ic a. Plutonian. — Plutonic rocks (Geol.) name given to igneous rocks formed by action of intense subterranean heat. — pluton'ium n. a metal of high atomic weight made by bombarding atoms of uranium with neutrons.

plutocracy (plʊ'tɒk'rə-si) n. government by the rich; the wealthy class. — plu'tocrat n. a wealthy person. — plu'tocrat'ic a. [Gk. ploutos, wealth; kratein, to rule].

pluvial (plʊ'vi-əl) a. pert. to rain; rainy; caused by the action of rain. — plu'vius a. pluvial [L. pluvius, rain].

ply (pli) v.t. to wield; to work at steadily; to use or practise with diligence; to urge; —v.t. to work steadily; of a boat, motor vehicle, etc. to run regularly for hire between fixed places. —pr.p. ply'ing. —pa.p. and pa.t. plied [fr. apply].

ply (pli) n. a fold; a plait; a bend; a twist; a strand of yarn; thickness. — ply'plies. — ply'wood n. board made of two or more thin layers of wood cemented together [Fr. plier, to fold, fr. L. plicare].

pneumatic (nʊ-mat'ik) a. pert. to air or gas; inflated with wind or air; operated by compressed air. — pneumat'ics n.pl. the branch of physics dealing with the mechanical properties of gases [Gk. pneuma, breath].

pneumatology (nʊ-mat-ol'j-i) n. the science of the functions of the mind; the doctrine of spiritual existence; pneumatics [Gk. pneuma, spirit; logos, a discourse].

pneumonia (nʊ-mō-ni-ə) n. acute inflammation of a lung. — pneumon'ic a. pert. to lungs [Gk. pneuma, breath].

poach (pōch) v.t. to cook eggs, by breaking them into a pan of boiling water [Fr. pocher].

poach (pōch) v.t. and i. to take game or fish from another's property without permission or by illegal methods. — poach'er n. — poach'ing n. [Fr. poche, a pocket].

pock (pɒk) n. pustule on skin, as in smallpox. — pock'mark n. pit left in skin by pock [O.E. poc, a pustule].

pocket (pɒk'et) n. a small pouch or bag inserted into a garment; a socket, cavity, or hollow; (Mil.) isolated area held by the enemy; —v.t. to put in the pocket; to take surreptitiously, esp. money; to accept without resentment, as an insult. — pock'et-batt'le n. a heavily armoured, high-powered, German battleship, of not more than 10,000 tons. — pock'et-book a. a small book or case for holding money or papers. — pock'et-mon'ey n. money for small, personal expenses, e.g. allowance to child. — in pocket, having funds [Fr. poche, dim. of poche, pouch].

pod (pɒd) n. a seed-vessel of a plant, esp. a legume, as peas, beans, etc.; —v.t. to produce pods; to remove the pods from peas or beans [etym. uncer'tain].

podge (pɒdʒ) n. a short, fat person. — podg'y a. short and fat; thick [etym. uncertain].

poem (pō-əm) n. a composition in verse; any composition written in elevated and imaginative language; opp. to 'prose.' — po'etry n. the art of composing poems; metrical composition. — po'et n. (sem. po'etess) the author of a poem; one skilled in making poetry. — poet'ic(al) a. pert. to poetry; expressed in poetry; possessing the imaginative beauties of poetry. —poet'ically adv. —poet'ics n. principles of art of poetry; criticism of poetry. —poetry (pō'et-ri) n. language of imagination expressed in verse; metrical composition. —poetaster (pō'et-as-ter) n. a would-be poet; a petty rhymester. —poet'esse v.f. and f. to treat poetically; to write poetry. —poetic justice, ideal justice, in which crime is punished and virtue rewarded. —poetic license, latitude in grammar or facts, allowed to poets. —poet laureate, official court poet [Gk. poiēma, fr. poiein, to make].

poignant (pol'nant) a. acutely painful; stinging; sharp; pungent. —poignantly adv. —poignancy n. [L. pungere, to prick].

poind (pind, poind) v.f. (Scots Law) to seize a debtor's goods [O.E. pund, an enclosure].

point (point) n. sharp or tapering end of anything; dot or mark; dot in decimal system; punctuation mark; full stop; (Geom.) that which has position but no magnitude; item or detail; gist of argument; striking or effective part of a speech, story, etc.; moment of time; purpose; physical quality in animals, esp. for judging purposes; (Geog.) headland; movable rail changing a train to other rails; one of the 32 direction marks of a compass; unit of scoring in certain games; (Print.) unit of measurement of size of type (72 points = 1 inch); a fine lace made with a needle; (Cricket) position of fieldman to the immediate right of batsman; —v.f. to sharpen; to give value, force, etc. to words, etc.; to aim or direct; to fill up joints with mortar; to punctuate; —v.f. to show direction or position by extending a finger, stick, etc.; of a dog, to indicate the position of game by standing facing it. —point'ed a. having a sharp point; sharp; direct; telling; of a remark, etc., aimed at a particular person; (Archit.) pert. to the style having pointed arches, i.e. Gothic. —point'edly adv. —point'edness n. —point'less a. having no point; unheeded; blunt; irrelevant; insipid. —point'er n. one who, or that which, points; an index; a rod, stick for pointing on blackboard; an indicator; a breed of dog trained to stop and point at game. —point'ing n. punctuation; filling the crevices of walls with mortar. —point-blank a. aimed horizontally; —adv. at short range; hence (Fig.) directly; plainly. —point-to-point' n. (Racing) steeplechase horse-race, esp. for hunters, for 3 or 4 miles (formerly from one point to another across country) [L. punctum, fr. pungere, to prick].

poise (poiz) v.f. to place or hold in a balanced or steady position; —v.f. to be so held; to hover; to balance; —n. equilibrium; carriage of the head, body, etc.; (Fig.) self-possession [L. pendere, to weigh].

poison (poi-zn) n. any substance which kills or injures when introduced into a living organism; that which has an evil influence on health or moral purity; —v.f. to give poison to; to infect; to corrupt. —poisoner n. —poisonous a. having a deadly or injurious quality; corrupting. —poisonously adv. —poison-ivy n. a N. American vine which, if touched, causes a skin rash. —poison-pen n. writer of malicious, anonymous letters [L. poisio, a draught].

poke (pōk) v.f. to push or thrust against with a pointed object, e.g. with a finger, stick, etc.; to stir; to thrust in; —v.f. to make thrusts; to pry; —n. the act of poking; a thrust or push; a woman's bonnet with a projecting brim (a poke-bonnet). —po'ker n. a metal rod for stirring the fire. —po'ker-work n. the art of burning designs on a wood-surface with a hot poker. —po'ky a. small; confined; shabby [M.E. poken]. [pocket].

poke (pōk) n. a sack; a small bag [Fr. poch, a poker (pō'kər) n. a card-game in which the players bet on the value of their hands. —po'ker-faced a. having a face which expresses no emotion [etym. uncertain].

Polack (pōl'ak) n. a Pole; —a. Polish.

polar (pō'lar) a. pert. to, or situated near, the North or South Poles; pert. to the magnetic poles (points on the earth's surface where a magnetic needle dips vertically); pert. to either pole of a magnet; magnetic; directly opposed; having polarity. —polar'ity n. the state of being polar; the condition of having opposite poles; the power of being attracted to one pole, and repelled from the other. —polar bear, a large, white bear, found in the Arctic regions. —polar circles, the parallels of latitude encircling the earth 23° 28' from the North and South Poles [Gk. polos, a pivot].

polarise (pō'la-riz) v.f. to give polarity to; (Elect.) to reduce the electromotive force (E.M.F.) of a primary cell by the accumulation of certain electrolytic products on the plates; (Chem.) to separate the positive and negative charges on a molecule; (Light) to confine the vibrations of light waves to certain directions, e.g. to a plane. —polarisation n. [fr. polar].

polder (pōl'dər) n. a bog; a morass; marshy land, esp. in the Netherlands, reclaimed from the sea and cultivated [Dut.].

pole (pōl) n. a long, rounded piece of wood or metal; a measure of length = 5½ yards; a measure of area = 30½ square yards; —v.f. to propel with a pole. —pole-jump n. in athletics, a jump over a high bar with the help of a long pole [L. pulus, a stake].

pole (pōl) n. either of the ends of the axis of a sphere, esp. of the earth (in the latter case called the North Pole and South Pole); either of the opposite ends or terminals of a magnet, electric battery, etc. —pole-star n. the North Star; (Fig.) a guide; an indicator; a lodestar [Gk. polos, a pivot].

Pole (pōl) n. a native of Poland. —Po'lish a. pert. to Poland or the Poles.

pole-axe (pōl'aks) n. a battle-axe with a long handle. Also pole'ax [E. poll, the head, and ax].

polecat (pōl'kat) n. a small, carnivorous animal, resembling the weasel [O.Fr. pole, a hen (fr. its preying on poultry)].

polemic (pō-le'm'ik) a. controversial; disputatious; —n. controversy; controversialist. —polem'ics n.pl. art of controversy; controversial writings or discussions, esp. religious. Also polem'ical a. —polem'ically adv. [Gk. polemos, war].

police (pō-lēs') n. the civil force which maintains public order; the internal government of a country or city; —v.f. to control with police; to keep in order. —police'constable, police'man, police'officer n. (fem. police'wo'man) member of a police force. —police'court n. a court for the trial of minor offences. —police'mag'istrate n. one who presides over a police-court. —police'off'ice, police'sta'tion n. the headquarters of the police, and temporary prison for petty offenders [Gk. polis, a city].

policy (pōl'i-si) n. a course of action adopted, esp. in state affairs; prudent procedure [Gk. polis, a city].

policy (pōl'i-si) n. a document containing a contract of insurance [Gk. apodexis, proof].

polity (pōl'i-ti) n. (Scot.) often in pl. pol'ities, the grounds of a gentleman's country-house [Gk. polis, a city, state].

poliomyelitis (pōl-i-ō-mi-e-lit'is) n. (Med.) inflammation of the grey matter of the spinal cord. —abbrev. polio [Gk. polios, grey; myelos, marrow].

polish (pōl'ish) v.f. to make smooth and glossy; to make polite and cultured; —v.f. to become polished; —n. the act of polishing; a smooth, glossy surface; a substance used in polishing; (Fig.) refinement; elegance of manners. —pol'isher n. (Fr. polir, fr. L. polire).

Polish (pōl'ish) n. See Pole.

polite (pō-lit') a. elegant in manners, well bred; courteous; obliging. —polite'ly adv. polite'ss n. [L. politus, polished].

politic (pol-i-tik) a. prudent; wise; shrewd; cunning; advisable.—pol'itics n. pl. the art of government; political affairs, life, or principles.—pol'itically adv.—pol'it'ical a. pert. to the state or its affairs; pert. to politics.—pol'it'ically adv.—politician (pol-i-tish-ən) n. one versed in the science of government; a member of a political party.—pol'ity n. civil government; the form or constitution of government.—political economy, the science dealing with the nature, production, distribution, and consumption of wealth [Fr. politique, fr. Gk. polis, a city].

polka (pōl'ka) n. a lively dance of Bohemian origin; music for it [fr. Polish].

poll (pōl) n. (top of) the head; a register of persons; a list of persons entitled to vote; (the place) of voting; number of votes recorded;—v.t. to cut off the top of, e.g. tree; to cut short horns of cattle; to canvass; to receive (votes); to cast a vote;—v.i. to vote.—poll-tax n. a tax on each person.—poll'ing-booth n. a voting-place at an election [Low Ger. poll, the head].

pollard (pōl'ard) n. a tree on which a close head of young branches has been made by polling; a hornless animal of a normally horned variety. See poll.

pollen (pōl'en) n. the fertilizing dust of a flower.—poll'inate v.t. to fertilize a flower by conveying pollen to the pistil [L. = fine flour].

pollute (pō-lūt') v.t. to make foul or unclean; to defile; to profane; to desecrate.—pollution n. defilement [L. polluere].

polo (pōlō) n. a game of hockey played on ponies; short for water-polo, a ball game played by swimmers.

polonaise (pōl-on-āz') n. a slow stately dance, of Polish origin; the music for it [Fr. = Polish].

polonium (pō-lō-ni-um) n. a metallic, chemical element, having radio-active properties [fr. Poland].

polony (pō-lō-ni) n. a kind of partly-cooked pork sausage [fr. Bologna, Italy, where first made].

poltergeist (pōl-ter-geist) n. a mysterious spirit believed to create noise and disturbance [Ger. Pöller, uproar; Geist, a ghost].

poltroon (pōl-trōon) n. a coward.—pol'troon'ery n. cowardice; lack of spirit [Fr. poltron, fr. It. poltro, lazy].

poly- (pōl'i) prefix fr. Gk. polus, many, much, used in derivatives.—polyan'dry n. a custom esp. in Tibet, by which a wife is shared between several husbands.—polyan'drous a. (Bot.) having more than 20 stamens.—polyan'thus n. (Bot.) a kind of garden primula.—poly'chrome n. a picture, statue, etc. in several colours.—polychromat'ic, polychro'mic, poly'chromous a. many-coloured.

polygamy (pōl-i-gə-mi) n. the practice of having more than one wife at the same time.—polyg'amous a.—polyg'amist n. [Gk. polus, many; gamos, marriage].

polyglot (pōl-i-glot) a. pert. to, or speaking, several languages;—n. a person who speaks several languages; a book, esp. the Bible, in which the text is printed side by side in different languages [Gk. polus, many; glōtta, the tongue].

polygon (pōl-i-gon) n. a plane figure with more than four sides or angles.—polyg'onal a. [Gk. polus, many; gōnia, an angle].

polygyny (pōl-i-jī-ni) n. practice of polygamy by a man [Gk. polus, many; gynē, a woman].

polyhedron (pōl-i-hēd'rōn) n. (Geom.) a solid figure with many faces, usually more than six [Gk. polus, many; hedra, a base].

polymorphous (pōl-i-morf-us) a. assuming many forms. Also polymor'phic.—polymor'phism n. [Gk. polus, many; morphē, form].

Polynesia (pōl-i-nē-si-ə) n. (Geog.) the group of islands in the S. Pacific, east of Australia.—Polyne'sian a. [Gk. polus, many; nēsos, an island].

polynomial (pōl-i-nō-mi-əl) n. (Alg.) a quantity having many terms [Gk. polus, many; L. nomen, a name].

polyp, polype (pōl'ip) n. a small, marine animal with tube-like tentacles, e.g. the sea-anemone; a polypus.—pol'y'pus, pol'yp n. (Med.) a small tumour in the mucous membrane of the nose, etc.—pol'y'pous a. [Gk. polus, many; pous, a foot].

polyphonic (pōl-i-fōn'ik) a. pert. to polyphony.—polyphony (pōl-i-fōn-i) n. (Mus.) a kind of composition in which melodic strains are simultaneously developed without being subordinate to each other [Gk. polus, many; phōnē, a voice].

polysyllable (pōl-i-sil'ə-bl) n. a word of three or more syllables.—polysyllab'ic a. [Gk. polus, many, and syllable].

polytechnic (pōl-i-tek'nik) a. pert. to many arts and sciences;—n. a school or college of applied arts and sciences [Gk. polus, many; technē, art].

polytheism (pōl-i-thē-izm) n. belief in the existence of many gods, or in more than one.—poly'theist n.—polytheist'ic a. [Gk. polus, many; theos, a god].

pom (pom) n. abbr. for pomeranian dog.

pomade (pō-mad') n. scented ointment for the hair. Also poma'tum [Fr. pommade].

pomander (pō-man'der) n. a perfumed ball, box, or bag [O.Fr. pomme d'ambre = apple of amber].

pome (pōm) n. any fruit having a fleshy body, core, etc. like the apple, pear, pomegranate, etc.—pomeci'ulture n. fruit-growing [L. pomum, an apple].

pomegranate (pōm'grā-nāt) n. a large fruit containing many seeds in a red pulp [L. pomum, an apple; granatum, having many seeds].

pomeranian (pōm-er-ā-ni-ən) n. a small breed of dog with bushy tail, sharp pointed muzzle, prick ears and long silky hair.—Abbrev. pom [fr. Pomerania, in Germany].

pommel (pum'el) n. the knob of a sword hilt; the front part of a saddle;—v.t. to strike repeatedly; to beat with the fist.—pr.p. pomm'elling.—pa.p. and pa.f. pomm'elled [O. Fr. pomel, a little apple].

pomp (pom) n. splendid display or ceremony; magnificence.—pomp'ous a. showy with grandeur; of a person, self-important; of language, inflated.—pomp'ously adv.—pomp'ousness n.—pompous'ly adv. in glory [Gk. pompē, a solemn procession].

pom-pom (pom'pom) n. (Mus.) a multi-barrelled automatic quick-firing gun [imit.].

pompon (pom'pon) n. the ball of coloured wool worn in front of the shako, etc.; small, compact chrysanthemum [Fr.].

pond (pond) n. a pool of standing water, either naturally or more often artificially enclosed [same as pound].

ponder (pon'der) v.t. to weigh in the mind; to consider attentively;—v.t. to meditate or muse; to deliberate (on).—pon'derer n.—pon'dering a. [L. pondus, weight].

ponderous (pon'der-us) a. very heavy; weighty; massive; unwieldy; dull or lacking in spirit.—pon'derously adv.—pon'derousness n.—ponderous'ity n.—pon'derable a. having appreciable weight.—pon'derableness n. [L. ponderosus].

pouliard (pon'yard) n. a slender dagger;—v.t. to pierce with a pouliard [Fr. poinçard, fr. poing, the fist].

pontif (pon-jif) n. the Pope; a bishop; a high priest.—pontif'ical a. belonging to a high priest; popish; pompous and dogmatic;—n. pl. the garb of a priest, bishop, or pope.—pontif'ically adv.—pontif'icate n. the state, dignity, or term of office of a priest, bishop, or pope.—pon'tify v.t. to act the pontif; to speak in a bombastic manner [L. pontifex, a high priest].

pontoon (pon-tōon') n. a low, flat-bottomed boat used as a support in building a temporary bridge; a bridge of boats [Fr. fr. L. pons, pontis, a bridge].

pontoon (pon-tóon') n. a gambling card-game, vintg et un [corrupt. of Fr. vintg et un, twenty-one].

pony (pō-ni) n. a small breed of horse; (Slang) 225 (O.Fr. poulenet, fr. poulain, a colt).

poodle (pōō-dl) n. one of a breed of dogs with thick, curly hair, often clipped into ornamental tufts [Ger. Pudel].

pooh (pōō) interj. an exclamation of scorn or contempt.—pooh-pooh v.t. (Colloq.) to express contempt for [imit.].

pool (pōōl) n. a small body of still water; a small pond; a deep place in a river (O.E. poll).

pool (pōōl) n. the collective stakes in various games; the place where the stakes are put; a variety of billiards; a combination of capitalists to fix prices and divide business; the common fund;—v.t. to put into a common fund;—v.i. to form a pool [Fr. poule, a hen].

poop (pōōp) n. the raised deck at the stern of a ship; the stern itself;—v.t. to break over the poop of [L. puppis, the stern].

poor (pōōr) a. having little or no money; without means; needy; miserable; wretched; unfortunate; feeble; deserving of pity; unproductive; of inferior quality.—poorly adv. in want; inadequately; with little or no success; without spirit;—a. somewhat ill; out of sorts.—poorness n.—poor-spirited a. cowardly; mean.—poor-house n. an institution for lodging the poor at public expense [L. pauper, poor].

pop (pop) n. an abrupt, small explosive sound; a shot; an effervescent drink, e.g. champagne, ginger-beer, etc.;—v.t. to make a sharp, quick sound; to go or come unexpectedly or suddenly; to dart;—v.t. to put or place suddenly; (Slang) to pawn.—adv. suddenly.—pr.p. popping.—pa.p. and pa.t. popped.—pop-corn n. Indian corn exposed to heat causing it to burst open.—pop-gun n. a child's toy gun for shooting pellets, etc. by the expansion of compressed air.—pop-shop n. (Colloq.) a pawnshop [imit. origin].

Pope (pōp) n. the Bishop of Rome and head of the R.C. Church.—popish (pō-pish) a. pert. to the Pope or the papacy.—pope's-dom n. the office, dignity, or jurisdiction of the Pope.—popery (pōp-er-i) n. the R.C. religion (a Protestant term, often used offensively).—pope's-eye n. the gland surrounded with fat in the thigh of an ox or sheep; a slice of meat from that part, esp. pope's-eye steak, noted for its delicacy.—pope's-nose n. the fleshy part of the tail of a cooked fowl; the parson's nose [L. papa, father].

popinjay (pop-in-jā) n. a parrot; the green woodpecker; formerly in archery, a mark like a parrot, to be shot at; a vain, conceited fellow (O.Fr. papegai, a parrot).

poplar (pop-lār) n. a tree noted for its slender tallness [L. populus].

poplin (pop-lin) n. a corded fabric of silk and worsted [etym. uncertain].

poppet (pop-et) n. timber to support a vessel while being launched; a darling (= puppet).

poppy (pop-i) n. a bright flowered plant one species of which yields opium [L. papaver, a poppy].

poppycock (pop-i-kok) n. (U.S. slang) non-populace (pop-i-lā) n. the common people; the masses.—pop-ulate v.t. to people.—population n. the total number of people in a country, town, etc.—pop-ulous a. thickly inhabited [L. populus, the people].

popular (pop-lār) a. pert. to the common people; liked by the people; finding general favour; easily understood.—popularly adv.—popularise v.t. to make popular; to make familiar, plain, easy, etc. to all.—popularisation n.—popularly n. the state or quality of being liked by the people; public favour [L. populus, the people].

porcelain (por-sē-lān, por-sē-lān) n. the finest kind of earthenware—white, glazed and semi-transparent; china-ware;—a. made of porcelain.—porcelain clay, kaolin [It. porcellana, a delicate shell-fish].

porch (pōrch) n. a covered entrance to a doorway; a portico [L. porticus, a colonnade].

porcine (por-sin) a. pert. to, or like, swine; swinish [L. porcus, a pig].

porcupine (por-kū-plin) n. a large quadruped of the rodent family, covered with spines [L. porcus, a pig; spina, a spine].

pore (pōr) n. a minute opening in the skin for the passage of perspiration.—por'ous a. full of pores.—por'ousness n.—porosity (pō-rōs-i-ti) n. [Gk. poros, a passage].

pore (pōr) v.t. to look at with steady attention, esp. in reading or studying (with 'over'); to ponder [M.E. pourer].

pork (pōrk) n. the flesh of swine used for food.—por'ky a. like pork; fat; greasy.—por'ker n. a hog, fattened for eating.—por'kling n. a young pig [L. porcus, a pig].

pornography (por-nog'grā-fi) n. obscene literature or pictures.—pornog'rapher n.—pornog'raphy a. [Gk. porne, a harlot; graphein, to write].

porphyry (por-fī-ri) n. a rock with a dark, reddish-purple ground-mass, enclosing crystals of felspar.—porphyrit'ic a. [Gk. porphyros, purple].

porpoise (por-pūs) n. a blunt-nosed cetacean mammal 5 to 8 feet long, frequenting the Northern Seas; a dolphin [L. porcus, a hog; piscis, a fish].

porridge (pōr-ij) n. a breakfast dish made by stirring oatmeal into boiling, salted, water [form of potage].

porringer (pōr-in-jer) n. a small bowl-shaped dish meant for holding porridge [Fr. potager, a soup-basin].

port (pōrt) n. a harbour; a town with a harbour; a haven; a refuge [L. portus].

port (pōrt) n. city gate; gateway.—port-hole n. window in side of ship [L. porta, gate].

port (pōrt) n. the way in which a person carries himself; demeanour;—v.t. (Milit.) to carry (a rifle) slanting upwards in front of the body.—port'ly a. dignified in appearance; corpulent [L. portare, to carry].

port (pōrt) n. a strong, sweet, dark-red wine [fr. Oporto, in Portugal].

port (pōrt) n. the left side of a ship, looking towards the bow (formerly larboard).—v.t. and i. to turn (helm) to left side [etym. uncertain].

portable (pōrt-ābl) a. capable of being easily carried [L. portare, to carry].

portage (pōrt-āj) n. the act of carrying or transporting goods; the charge for transport; in N. America, the carrying of goods, boats, etc. between two navigable bodies of water [L. portare, to carry].

portal (pōrt-ā) n. a gate or entrance; the smaller of two gateways side by side [Fr. portail, fr. porta, a gate].

portcullis (pōrt-kū-lis) n. a strong grating hung over the gateway of a castle, etc. to be lowered as an aid to defence [L. porta, gate; colare, to filter].

portend (pōr-tend') v.t. to foretell; to give warning in advance; to be an omen of.—por'ten n. an omen, esp. of evil.—portent'ous a. serving to portend; ominous [L. portendere, to foretell].

porter (pōr-tēr) n. (fem. por't(e)ress) a door- or gate-keeper; (U.S.) railway sleeping-car attendant [L. porta, gate].

porter (pōr-tēr) n. one employed to carry baggage, esp. at stations or hotels; a dark-brown, bitter beer.—por'terage n. fee for hire of a porter.—por'ter-house n. (U.S.) a restaurant.—porterhouse steak n. a choice cut of beef next to sirloin [L. portare, to carry].

portfolio (pōrt-fō-l-i-ō) n. a flatcase for holding loose documents, drawings, etc.; the papers themselves; office of a minister of state [L. portare, to carry; forum, a leaf].

portico (pôr-tî-kô) n. (Archit.) a row of columns in front of the entrance to a building; a colonnade; a porch with columns; a covered walk. —pl. por-ticoses, por-ticos [L. porticus].

portion (pôr-shun) n. a piece; a part; a share; a helping of food; destiny; lot; a dowry; —v.t. to divide into shares; to give a dowry to. —por-tionless a. [L. portio].

portmanteau (pôr-man-tô) n. a leather travelling-bag; a suitcase [Fr. porter, to carry; manteau, a cloak].

portray (pôr-trî) v.t. to represent by drawing, painting, acting, or imitating; to describe vividly in words. —portray'al n. the act of portraying; description. —portray'er n. —portrait (pôr-trât) n. picture of a person, esp. of the face; a graphic description of a person in words. —portraiture n. the art of portrait painting [L. protrahere, to draw forth].

Portuguese (pôr-tû-gêz, pôr-tû-gêz') a. pert. to Portugal, or its inhabitants.

pose (pôz) n. attitude or posture of a person, natural or assumed; a mental attitude or attitude; —v.t. to place in a position for the sake of effect; to lay down or assert; —v.i. to assume an attitude; to affect or pretend to be of a certain character. —posseur (pô-zêr') n. (fam.) posseuse (pô-zêz') an affected, attitude-dising person [Fr. poser, to place].

pose (pôz) v.t. to puzzle; to embarrass by questioning. —pos'er n. [short, fr. oppose].

posh (posh) a. (Slang) smart; spruce; stylish. posit (poz-it) v.t. to place or set in position; to lay down as a fact or principle [L. ponere, positum, to place].

position (pô-zî-shun) n. place or station; the manner in which anything is arranged; posture; social rank or standing; employment; state of affairs. —posit'ional a. [L. ponere, positum, to place].

positive (poz-î-tiv) a. formally laid down; clearly stated; absolute; dogmatic; of real value; confident; not negative; plus; (Math.) pert. to a quantity greater than zero; (Gram.) denoting the simplest value of an adjective or adverb; (Colloq.) utter; downright; —n. the positive degree of an adjective or adverb, i.e. without comparison; in photography, a print in which the lights and shadows are not reversed (as in the negative). —posit'ively adv. —positiveness n. —positivism n. the philosophical system which recognizes only matters of fact and experience. —positivist n. a believer in this doctrine. —positive pole, of a magnet, the north-seeking-pole. —positive sign, the sign (+ read plus) of addition [L. ponere, positum, to place].

positron (poz-î-tron) n. particle differing from an electron in that it has positive electrical charge; a positive electron.

posse (pos-ê) n. a company or force, usually with legal authority; in America, men, under orders of the sheriff, maintaining law and order [L. posse, to be able].

possess (pô-zes') v.t. to own or hold as property; to have as an attribute; to seize or obtain; to enter into and influence, as an evil spirit or passion. —possessed' a. influenced, as by an evil spirit; demented. —possession n. the act of possessing; ownership; actual occupancy; the state of being possessed; the thing possessed. —possess'ive a. denoting possession; —n. (Gram.) the possessive case or pronoun. —possess'ively adv. —possession n. [L. possidere, possiditum, to possess].

posset (pos-et) n. a remedy against colds, etc. made from hot milk curdled by adding wine, alo, etc. [O. Fr. possette].

possible (pôs-sî-bl) a. capable of being or of coming into being; liable to happen; worthy of consideration; —n. the highest attainable mark or score. —poss'ibly adv. —possibility n. quality of being possible; that which is possible [L. possibilis].

possum (pos-um) n. (Colloq.) in N. America, an opossum. —to play possum, to sham death; to feign illness; to pretend to be ignorant of; to deceive [fr. opossum].

post (pôst) n. a piece of timber or metal, set upright as a support; a prop or pillar; —v.t. to attach to a post or wall, as a notice or advertisement. —post'er n. one who posts bills; a large placard for posting up in a public place [L. postus].

post (pôst) n. a fixed place; a military station or the soldiers occupying it; an office or position of trust, service, or enrolment; a trading settlement; formerly, a stage on the road for riders carrying mail; a postman; an established conveyance of letters; the mail; a size of writing-paper; —v.t. to station or place; to send by post; to inform; to travel with speed. —post'age n. the cost of conveyance by post. —post'al a. pert. to the post-office or mail-service. —post'al-or'-der n. (abbr. P.O.) a money order issued by one post-office authorising payment at another. —post'man n. one who collects and delivers letters. —post'mark n. a post-office mark which cancels the postage-stamp and gives place and time of posting or arrival. —post'master n. the manager of a post-office. —post'master-gen'ral n. the chief of the post-office department of a government. —post'm-card n. a stamped card on which a message may be sent through the post. —post'-chaise, post'-coach n. a four-wheeled carriage hired by those who travelled with post-horses. —post'haste n. haste or speed in travelling; —a. expeditious; —adv. with speed. —post-horse n. one of a number kept at each stage on a travelling route, for hiring out to travellers by post-chaise. —post-off'ice n. an office where letters and parcels are received for distribution; the government postal department. —post'-age-stamp n. an adhesive stamp, affixed to postal packets to indicate payment [L. ponere, to place].

post- (pôst) adv. and prefix fr. L. post, after, behind, used in many compound words. —post-date' v.t. to put on a document, letter, etc., a date later than the actual one. —post-diluvian a. living or happening after the Flood. —post-grad'uate a. of academic study, research, etc., undertaken after taking a university degree. —post-impressionism n. a movement in painting, sculpture, etc. which aims at artistic self-expression, or subjective, as opposed to objective representation of things. —post-mortem a. after death; —n. a dissection of a body after death; an autopsy. —post-na'tal a. after birth. —post-ob'it n. a bond to secure to a lender money on the death of an individual from whom the borrower has expectations. —post-prim'ary a. of education, beyond the elementary school stage; secondary.

poste restante (pôst-res-tant, -tong) n. a department in a post-office, to which letters can be addressed to be kept till called for [Fr. poste, post-office; rester, to remain].

posterior (pos-tê-ri-or) a. coming after; situated behind; later; hinder; —n. the rump. —post'eriorly adv. —posterior'ity n. the state of being later or subsequent. —posterity (pos-tê-ri-ti) n. future generations; descendants [L. posterus, behind].

postern (pôst-ern) n. a back door or gate; —a. rear; private [L. posterus, behind].

posthumous (pos-tû-mus) a. born after the death of the father; published after the death of the author; occurring after death. —post-humous'ly adv. [L. postumus, last, but confused with L. humus, the ground].

postil (pos-tîl) n. a marginal note, esp. in the Bible; a sermon or homily. —pos'tillate v.t. and i. to explain by a postil [L. post illa (verba), after those (words)].

postillon, postillion (pôs-tîl-yun) n. the rider mounted on the near horse of a team drawing a carriage [Fr. postillon].

postpone (pôst-pôn') v.t. to put off till a - future time; to defer; to delay. —postpone ment n. the act of postponing. —postponer n. [L. post, after; ponere, to place].

- postprandial (pōst-pran-dī-əl) a. after dinner [L. post, after; prandium, repast].
- postscript (pōst-skript) n. something added to a letter after the signature; an addition to a book. —abbrev. PS. [L. post, after; scribere, scriptum, to write].
- postulate (pōst-tū-lāt) v.i. to assume without proof; to lay down as self-evident; to stipulate: —n. a proposition assumed without proof; (Geom.) a claim to assume the possibility of a simple operation. —pos'tulant n. one who makes a request or petition; a candidate, esp. for admission to a religious order. —postula'tion n. —postulatory (pōst-tū-lā-tor-i) a. [L. postulare, to demand].
- posture (pōst-tūr) n. the position of a body, figure, etc. or of its several members; attitude; —v.i. to assume an artificial or affected attitude. —pos'tural a. [L. ponere, positum, to place].
- posy (pō-d) n. a bouquet; a motto or verse sent with a bunch of flowers, or cut out on a ring [= poetry].
- pot (pēt) n. a rounded vessel of metal, earthenware, etc., used for cooking, holding fluids, plants, etc.; the contents of a pot; (Colloq.) a prize or trophy; a large sum of money; —v.i. to plant in pots; to preserve (as jam, chutney, etc.); to shoot at; in billiards, to pocket. —pr.p. pot'ting. —pa.p. and pa.t. pot'ted. —pot'shard (pōt'shərd) n. a piece of a broken pot. —pot'tell ad. a. corpulent. —pot'tell'er n. a literary or artistic work produced solely for the sake of money. —pot'boy n. a publican's assistant. —pot'hang'er, pot'hook n. a hook on which pots were hung over open fires; a letter shaped like a pot-hook, used in learning to write. —pot'hole n. a cavity formed in rock by action of stones in the eddy of a stream; a hole in the roadway. —pot'house n. a low ale-house. —pot'luck n. whatever may happen to have been provided for a meal. —pot'man n. a publican's assistant. —pot'shot n. a shot at random [O.E. potil].
- potable (pō-tā-bl) a. drinkable. —potation (pō-tā-shun) n. a drinking, or drinking-bout; a draught [L. potare, to drink].
- potash (pōt'ash) n. a powerful alkali obtained from wood-ashes. Also pot'ass. —potass'ium n. the metallic base of potash. —potash-water, aserrated water [pot and ash].
- potato (pō-tā-tō) n. an edible tuber widely grown for food. —pl. pot'toes [Sp. patata].
- potteen, potheen (pō-tēn) n. Irish whisky, esp. if illicitly distilled [Ir. potlin].
- potent (pō-tēnt) a. having great authority or influence; powerful; mighty; procreative. —potently adv. —pot'ency n. moral or physical power; influence; energy; efficacy. —pot'entiate n. one who possesses power; a prince. —potential (pō-tēn-shal) a. latent; existing in possibility but not in actuality; —n. inherent capability of doing anything; (Elect.) the level of electric pressure. —poten'tially adv. —potentiality (pō-tēn-shi-āl-i-ti) n. possibility, as distinct from actuality; power of capacity. —potential difference (Elect.) the difference of pressure between two points; voltage [L. potens, powerful, fr. posse, to be able].
- potter (pōt'tēr) n. disturbance; fuss; —v.i. to harass; to worry; to puzzle; —v.i. to fuss [etym. uncertain].
- potion (pō-shun) n. a dose, esp. of liquid, medicine, or poison; a draught [L. potio, fr. potare, to drink].
- pot-pourri (pō-pōo-rē) n. a mixture of dried rose-petals, spices, etc.; a musical or literary medley [Fr. pot, a pot; pourri, rotten].
- potage (pōt'āj) n. a soup or stew; (Bib.) a dish of lentils [Fr. potage, soup].
- potter (pōt'tēr) n. a maker of earthenware vessels. —pot'tery n. pots, vessels, etc., made of earthenware; the place where it is made; the art of making it [fr. pot].
- potter (pōt'tēr) v.i. to work or act in a feeble, unsystematic way; to loiter; to dawdle [O.E. potian, to poke].
- pottle (pōt'tl) n. an old liquid measure of 4 pints; a pot holding this quantity; a small fruit-basket [dim. fr. pot].
- potty (pōt'ti) a. (Slang) crazy; silly; trivial [etym. uncertain].
- pouch (pouch) n. a small bag or sack; a pocket; a bag-like receptacle in which certain animals, e.g. the kangaroo, carry their young; —v.i. to pocket; to cause to hang like a pouch [Fr. poche, a pocket].
- pouf, pouffe (pōff) n. a large drum-shaped cushion, used as a seat [Fr.].
- poult (pōlt) n. a young fowl. —poultry (pōlt'ri) n. domestic fowls. —poult'er n. a dealer in poultry [Fr. poule, a hen; poulet, a chicken].
- poultice (pōlt'is) n. a hot, moist mixture of bread, mustard, linseed, etc., applied to a sore, etc.; —v.i. to apply a poultice to [L. puls, porridge].
- pounce (pouns) v.i. to spring upon suddenly; to swoop; —n. a swoop or sudden descent [etym. uncertain].
- pounce (pouns) n. a fine powder used to prevent ink from spreading on unsized paper; a powder used for dusting over perforations in order to trace a pattern; —v.i. to sprinkle with pounce. —poun'est-box n. a small perfume-box with a perforated top [L. pumex, pumice].
- pound (pound) n. a measure of weight (abbrev. lb.), 16 ounces avoirdupois, or 12 ounces troy; a unit of British money (abbrev. £), 20 shillings. —pound sterling, the British standard pound of 20 shillings as a gold coin or paper note. —pound'age n. a commission, allowance, or charge of so much per pound. —pound'al n. a unit of force; the force which, acting on a mass of one pound, will impart to it an acceleration of one foot per second per second [L. pondus, weight].
- pound (pound) v.i. and t. to beat or strike; to crush to pieces or to powder; to walk, run, etc., heavily [O.E. punian].
- pound (pound) n. an enclosure for animals; —v.i. to shut up in one [O.E. pund, an enclosure].
- pour (pōr) v.i. to come out in a stream, crowd, etc.; to flow freely; to rain heavily; —v.i. to cause to flow, as a liquid from a vessel; to shed; to utter [etym. unknown].
- pourparler (pōr-par'āl) n. a preliminary and informal discussion [Fr. parler, to speak; pour = L. pro, before].
- poussette (pōo-sot') v.i. to swing round in couples, with hands joined, as in a country-dance; —n. the movement [Fr. pousser, to push].
- pout (pout) v.i. to thrust out the lips, as in displeasure, etc.; to look sullen or sulky; —n. the act of pouting; a protrusion of the lips. —pout'er n. one who pouts; a pigeon with the power of inflating its crop [etym. uncertain].
- poverty (pōv'ēr-ti) n. the state of being poor; poorness; lack of means [L. pauperias, fr. pauper, poor].
- powder (pōu'dēr) n. dust; a solid matter in fine dry particles; a medicine in this form; short for gunpowder, face-powder, etc.; —v.i. to reduce to powder; to pulverise; to sprinkle with powder; —v.i. to fall into powder; to crumble. —pow'dery a. like powder. —pow'dermag'azine n. a place where powder is stored. —pow'der-puff n. a pad of soft material used for applying face-powder to skin [Fr. poudre, fr. L. pulvis, dust].
- power (pōu'ēr) n. a capacity for action, physical, mental, or moral; energy; might; agency or motive force; authority; one in authority; influence or ascendancy; a nation; mechanical energy; (Math.) the product arising from the continued multiplication of a number by itself. —powerful a. having great power; intense; capable of producing great effect.

powerfully adv. — powerfulness n. — powerless a. — powerlessly adv. — powerlessness n. — power-house, power-station n. a building where electric power is generated [O. Fr. poer].

pow-wow (pou'wou) n. orig. a feast, dance, or conference among N. American Indians; hence, any conference [N. Amer. Ind.].

pox (poks) n. a disease attended with pustules on the skin, as small-pox, chicken-pox, etc.; syphilis (orig. pl. of pock).

practice (prak'tis) n. performance or execution, as opposed to theory; custom or habit; systematic exercise for instruction; training; exercise of a profession; in arithmetic, a method for abridging operations. — practise v.t. to put into action; to do frequently or habitually; to exercise a profession; to exercise oneself in; to train; — v.i. to perform certain acts customarily; to exercise a profession. — practicable a. capable of being accomplished or put into practice; capable of being used, e.g. a weapon, a road, etc. — practically adv. — practicableness n. — practicability n. — practical a. pert. to practice or action; capable of being turned to account; useful; virtual. — practically adv. — practicalness n. — practicality n. — practitioner (prak'tish-un-er) n. one engaged in a profession, esp. law or medicine. — general practitioner (abbrev. G.P.) one who practises in all branches of medicine and surgery [Gk. praktikos, concerned with action].

pragmatic, pragmatical (prag-mat'ik, -i-kal) a. pert. to state affairs; pert. to business; concerned with practical consequences; matter-of-fact; officious or meddlesome. — pragmatically adv. — pragmatism n. — pragmatism n. a philosophy based on the conception that the truth of a doctrine is to be judged by its practical consequences. — pragmatist n. [Gk. pragmatikos, pert. to business].

prairie (pri'ri) n. a large tract of grass-land, destitute of trees. — prairie-chicken n. American species of grouse. — prairie-dog n. a small American rodent. — prairie-hen n. a prairie-chicken. — prairie-oyster n. a cocktail, made by dropping a raw egg-yolk into a mixture of spirits. — prairie-schooner n. a large, covered wagon, formerly used by emigrants going from east to west America. — prairie-wolf n. the coyote [Fr. fr. L. pratum, a meadow].

praise (pri:s) v.t. to express approval or admiration; to glorify; — n. approval of merit; commendation. — praise-worthy a. deserving of praise. — praise-worthiness n. [O. Fr. preiser].

praline (pra'len) n. a sweetmeat made by roasting almonds in boiling sugar [Fr. fr. Duplessis-Fraslin, who first made it].

pram (pram) n. (Colloq.) abbrev. of perambulator, a baby-carriage.

pram (pram) n. a flat-bottomed lighter or barge [Dut. pram].

prance (prans) v.t. to spring or bound like a high-spirited horse; to swagger; to caper, esp. of children; — n. prancing movement. — prance n. — prancing n. the act of prancing [etym. uncertain].

prandial (pran'di-al) a. pert. to dinner [L. prandium, lunch].

prang (prang) n. (World War 2, R.A.F. slang) a crash-landing; — v.t. and i. to crash [etym. unknown].

prank (prangk) v.t. and i. to adorn or rig out showily; to show off [etym. uncertain].

prank (prangk) n. a mischievous trick; a practical joke [etym. uncertain].

prate (prat) v.t. and i. to talk idly; to utter foolishly; — n. chatter [M.E. praten].

prattle (prat'l) v.t. to utter childishly; to babble; — n. childish talk [fr. prate].

prawn (prawn) n. an edible crustacean of the shrimp family [etym. unknown].

praxis (prak'sis) n. practice; a set of examples for practice [Gk. fr. praxis, to do].

pray (pra) v.t. to ask earnestly; to entreat; to petition; — v.i. to make a request or confession, esp. to God; to pay one's devotions to God. — prayer n. one who prays; the act of praying; an earnest entreaty; the words used; the thing asked for; a petition, esp. to a public body. — n.pl. family worship; divine service. — prayerful a. devout [L. precari].

pre- (pre) prefix fr. L. prae, before, beforehand, used with many nouns and verbs.

preach (prech) v.t. and i. to deliver a sermon; to speak publicly on a religious subject, esp. as a clergyman; to advocate. — preacher n. — preachy v.t. to moralise. — preachment n. a sermon of exaggerated solemnity [L. praedicare, to proclaim].

preamble (pre-am-bl) n. the introductory part of a discourse, story, document, etc.; a preface [L. praambulus, walking before].

pre-arrange (pre-a-ranj) v.t. to arrange beforehand. — pre-arrangement n.

prebend (preb-nd) n. the stipend of a canon or member of a cathedral chapter. — prebendal a. — prebendary n. a clergyman in receipt of a prebend [L. praebere, to allow].

precarious (pre-kar-i-us) a. depending on the will or pleasure of another; depending on circumstances; uncertain; dangerous; perilous. — precariously adv. — precariousness n. [L. precarius, obtained by entreaty].

precatory (pre-kat-or-i) a. expressing entreaty; supplicatory [L. precari, to pray].

precaution (pre-kaw-shun) n. care taken beforehand. — v.t. to forewarn. — precautionary a. characterised by precaution.

precede (pre-sed) v.t. to go before in place, time, rank, or importance. — precedent a. preceding; going before in time; — precedent n. something done, or said, that may serve as an example in similar cases. — precedently adv. — precedence (pre-sed-ens) n. the act of preceding; priority in position, rank, or time. — preceding a. going before in time, place, or order; antecedent; previous [L. prae, before; cedere, to go].

precentor (pre-sen'tur) n. one who leads the choir in a cathedral [L. prae, before; cantor, a singer].

precept (pre-sept) n. an instruction intended as a rule of conduct, esp. moral conduct; a maxim; a commandment or exhortation; (Law) a written warrant or mandate given to an administrative officer. — preceptive a. using precepts. — preceptor n. (form. preceptor) a teacher; an instructor [L. praecipere, praecipuum, to order].

precession (pre-sesh-un) n. a going before. — precessional a. [L. praecedere, to go before].

precinct (pre-singt) n. the enclosure within the walls of sacred or official buildings; a boundary or limit; a minor territorial division. — pl. ground attached to an ecclesiastical building [L. prae, before; cingere, to gird].

precious (presh-us) a. of great value or price; costly; highly esteemed; over-refined; fastidious; (Colloq.) contemptible; — adv. extremely. — preciously adv. — preciousness n. — preciosity (pres(h)-i-ous-ti) n. affected refinement of language or manners [Fr. précieux, fr. L. pretium, price].

precipice (pre-sip-sis) n. a very steep or perpendicular place, as a cliff-face. — precipitous a. very steep. — precipitously adv. — precipitousness n. [L. praecipere, headlong, fr. prae, before; caput, the head].

precipitate (pre-sip-i-tat) v.t. to throw headlong; to urge on eagerly; to hasten the occurrence of; (Chem.) to cause to separate and fall to the bottom, as a substance in solution; of vapour, to condense; — v.i. (Chem.) to fall to the bottom of a vessel, as a sediment; — n. (Chem.) that which is precipitated in a liquid; sediment; — a. headlong; rash or over-hasty. — precipitately adv. — precipitable a. (Chem.) that may be precipitated. — precipitability n. — precipitance, precipitancy n. headlong hurry; rash haste. — precip'itant a. falling headlong; too hasty; unexpectedly hastened; — n. (Chem.) a substance which, added to a liquid, decomposes it and precipitates a sediment. — precip'itantly adv. — precipitation (pre-sip-i-tā'shun) n. the act of precipitating; rash haste; a falling headlong; condensation of vapour. — precip'itative a. tending to precipitate. — precip'itator n. (L. praecipitor, headlong). — précis (prā-sé') n. a concise statement; an abstract or summary [Fr.]. — precise (pre-sis') a. exact; definite; formal; prim. — precise'y adv. — precise'ness n. — precision (pre-sizh'un) n. accuracy; definiteness; — a. done with, or capable of, great accuracy [Fr. précis, exact]. — preclude (pre-klūd') v.t. to shut out; to hinder; to prevent from happening. — preclusion (pre-klūd-zhun) n. — preclu'sive a. shutting out; hindering beforehand [L. prae, before; cludere, to shut]. — precocious (pre-kō'shus) a. ripe or developed too soon; having the mental powers or bodily growth developed at an early age; premature; forward. — precociously adv. — precoc'iousness, precoc'ity (pre-kōs'i-ti) n. (L. praecox, early ripe). — preco'gnition (pre-kog-nish'un) n. previous knowledge; (Scots Law) examination of witnesses before a trial. — preconceive (pre-kon-sēv') v.t. to form an opinion or idea of beforehand. — preconcep'tion n. a prejudice. — preconcert (pre-kon-sert') v.t. to settle beforehand. — precursor (pre-kur'sor) n. a person or thing going before, to indicate the approach of someone or something; a forerunner; a harbinger. — precur'sive, precur'sory a. [L. prae, before; currere, to run]. — predacious (pre-dā'shus) a. living on prey; predatory. — predatory (pred'ā-tor-i) a. living by preying on others; plundering; pillaging [L. praeda, booty]. — predat' (pre-dāt') v.t. to date earlier than the true date; to antedate [pre and date]. — predecessor (pre-dē-ses'ur) n. one who has preceded another in an office, position, etc. [L. prae, before; decedere, to withdraw]. — predestine (pre-des'tin) v.t. to destine beforehand; to foreordain. — predes'tinate v.t. to determine beforehand; to foreordain. — predes'tination (Theol.) the doctrine that the salvation or damnation of individuals has been foreordained by God; the determination beforehand of future events; destiny; fate. — predes'tinarian n. a believer in this doctrine [pre and destine]. — predetermine (pre-dē-ter'min) v.t. to determine beforehand. — predeter'minate a. determined beforehand. — predetermina'tion n. — predicable (pred'ic-ka-bl) a. able to be predicated or affirmed; — n. anything that can be affirmed of something. — predicability n. [L. praedicare, to proclaim]. — predicament (pre-dik'a-ment) n. an awkward plight; a trying situation [L. praedicare, to proclaim]. — predicant (pred'ic-kant) a. pert. to preaching; preaching; — n. one who preaches; a preaching friar, esp. a Dominican [L. praedicare, to proclaim]. — predicate (pred'ic-kāt) v.t. to affirm; to assert; to declare; — n. that which is predicated; (Gram.) a statement made about the subject of the sentence. — predica'tion n. assertion; affirmation. — pred'icative a. expressing predication; affirming. — pred'icatively adv. [L. praedicare, to proclaim]. — predict (pre-dikt') v.t. to tell beforehand; to foretell; to prophesy. — predic'table a. — predic'tion n. the act of foretelling; prophecy; — pred'ictive a. foretelling; prophetic. — predic'tor n. [L. praedicare, to say before]. — predigest (pre-di-jest') v.t. to subject food to artificial digestion before eating. — predilection (pre-di-lek'shun) n. a pre-possession of mind in favour of something; partiality [L. prae, before; dilectus, chosen]. — predispose (pre-dis-pōz') v.t. to incline beforehand; to give a tendency or bias to; to render susceptible to. — predisposi'tion n. — predominate (pre-dom'i-nāt) v.t. to surpass in strength, influence, or authority; to rule; to have ascendancy; to prevail. — predom'inance, predom'inancy n. ascendancy; superiority. — predom'inant a. superior in influence, authority, etc.; having ascendancy; controlling. — predom'inantly adv. [pre and dominate]. — pre-eminent (pre-em'i-nent) a. distinguished above others; outstanding. — pre-em'inently adv. — pre-em'inence n. — pre-emption (pre-em'shun) n. the act or right of purchasing before others. — pre-empt (pre-empt') v.t. to appropriate beforehand. — pre-emptive a. [L. prae, before; emptio, a buying]. — preen (prēn) v.t. to trim or dress with the beak, as birds do their feathers; to plume or smarten oneself [form of prune]. — pre-exist (pre-eg-zist') v.t. to exist beforehand, or before something else. — pre-exis'tence n. — pre-exis'tent a. [house]. — prefab (pre-fab') n. (Colloq.) a prefabricated — prefabricate (pre-fab'ri-kāt) v.t. to build houses and ships in standardised units in factories for rapid assembly on sites or shipyards. — prefabrica'tion n. — preface (pre-fas) n. introductory remarks at beginning of book, or spoken before a discourse; foreword; — v.t. to furnish with a preface. — prefatory (pre-fā-to-ri) a. introductory [L. prae, before; facere, to speak]. — prefect (pre-fekt) n. an ancient Roman magistrate; the governor of a French civil department; a senior boy in a school, appointed to maintain discipline. — prefecto'rial a. — prefectship n. the office or jurisdiction of a prefect [L. praefectus, see before]. — prefer (pre-far') v.t. to like better; to choose rather; to promote to an office or dignity. — preferable a. worthy of preference; more desirable. — preferably adv. — preferableness n. — preference n. the act of preferring one thing before another; what is preferred; choice. — preferential (pre-fere-n'shal) a. giving or receiving a preference. — preferen'tially adv. — prefer'ment n. advancement or promotion; a position of honour, esp. in Church [L. prae, before; ferre, to bear]. — prefix (pre-fiks) n. a letter, syllable, or word put at the beginning of another word to modify its meaning, e.g. predigest, underground. — prefix (pre-fiks') v.t. to place at the beginning. — pregnable (preg-na-bl) a. able to be taken by assault or force [L. prehendere, to take]. — pregnant (preg-nant) a. being with child; fruitful; full of meaning. — preg'nantly adv. — preg'nancy n. [L. praegnans]. — prehensile (pre-hen'sil) a. (Zool.) capable of grasping [L. prehendere, to seize]. — prehistory (pre-hist'or-i) n. the period before written records were kept; the study of this period. — prehistor'ic a. — prejudice (pre-jū-dis) n. an opinion, favourable or unfavourable (more often the latter), formed without fair examination of facts; harm; bias; — v.t. to bias; to influence; to injure. — prejudicial (pre-jū-dis'ial) a. injurious. — prejudi'cially adv. [L. prae, before; iudicium, judgment]. — prelate (pre-lat) n. a bishop, or other Church dignity of equal or higher rank. — prelat'ic, prelat'ial a. — prelat'y n. the office or dignity of a prelate; government by prelates; episcopacy; bishops collectively. — prelat'ist n. an advocate of government by prelates [L. praelatus, put before]. — prelect (pre-lekt') v.t. to deliver a lecture or discourse in public. — preles'tion n. a lecture. — preles'tor n. a lecturer [L. prae, before; legere, lectum, to read]. — preliminary (pre-lim'i-nā-ri) a. introductory preparatory; —n. an introduction; a preparatory measure; (often used in pl.) [L. prae, before; tamen, a threshold].

prelude (prélūd) n. an introductory performance or event; a musical introduction; a preliminary; —v.t. to serve as a prelude or forerunner to. —prelusive, prelusive a. introductory [L. prae, before; ludere, to play].

premature (prēmī, prēmī-tūr) a. ripe before the natural or proper time; untimely; overhasty. —prematurely adv. —prematurity, prematurity n. early flowering or maturity.

premeditate (prē-medī-tāt) v.t. to think, consider, or revolve in the mind beforehand.

premier (prēmī-er, prēmī-er) a. first; chief or principal, most ancient; —n. the prime minister. —premiership n. [Fr. fr. L. primarius, of the first rank].

premiere (prēmī-er) n. a first public performance of a play [Fr. = first].

premise (prēmīz) v.t. to set forth beforehand, or as introductory to the main subject; to lay down general propositions on which the subsequent reasonings rest. —premise (prēmīs) n. Also premiss, a proposition previously supposed or proved, a proposition from which an inference or conclusion is drawn; (Logic) either of the two propositions of a syllogism from which the conclusion is drawn. —premises n. pl. a building with its adjuncts [L. prae, before; mittere, to send].

premium (prēmī-um) n. a recompense; a prize; a fee paid to learn a trade or profession; money paid for insurance; the amount exceeding the par value of shares or stock. —at a premium, above par; in great demand [L. praemium, reward].

premonition (prē-mō-nish-ūn) n. previous warning or information; an instinctive foreboding; presentiment. —premonitor n. a forewarner. —premonitory a. giving previous warning or notice. —premonitorily adv. [L. prae, before; monere, to warn].

pre-natal (prē-nāt-ā) a. previous to birth.

prentice (prēntīs) n. an apprentice [fr. apprentice].

preoccupy (prē-ok-ū-pī) v.t. to take possession of before another, to engage the attention of. —preoccupied a. occupied previously; engrossed in thought, absorbed in meditation. —preoccupancy n. the act of taking possession of before others. —preoccupation n.

preordain (prē-or-dān) v.t. to ordain beforehand, to foreordain. —preordination (prē-or-dīn-ān) n. a previous decree.

prep (prep) n. (School Slang) preparation; preparatory class.

prepaid (prē-pāid) a. paid in advance.

prepare (prē-pār) v.t. to make ready for use; to fit for a particular purpose; to provide; to fit out; —v.i. to make things ready; to make oneself ready. —preparation (prē-pār-ā-shūn) n. the act of making ready for use; readiness; a substance, esp. medicine or food, specially made up for use; the act of, or time for, learning home lessons (abbr. prep.). —preparative a. tending to prepare for; —n. anything which serves to prepare. —preparatively adv. —preparatory a. preparing the way; preliminary; introductory. —preparedness (prē-pār-ēd-nēs) n. [L. prae, before; parare, to make ready].

prepay (prē-pā) v.t. to pay beforehand [pre and pay].

prepenze (prē-pens) a. premeditated; deliberate [L. prae, before; pensare, to weigh].

preponderate (prē-pōn-dēr-āt) v.t. to exceed in power, influence, numbers, etc.; to outweigh. —preponderance n. superiority of power, numbers, etc. —preponderant a. —preponderantly adv. [L. prae, before; pondus, ponderis, a weight].

preposition (prē-pō-zish-ūn) n. (Gram.) a word, e.g. with, by, for, etc., used before a noun or pronoun to show the relation to some other word in the sentence. —prepositional a. [L. prae, before; ponere, posuim, to place].

prepossess (prē-po-zēs) v.t. to possess beforehand; to influence a person's mind, heart, etc. beforehand; to prejudice favourably. —prepossessing a. tending to win a favourable opinion; attractive. —prepossessingly adv. —prepossesssion n.

preposterous (prē-pōst-er-us) a. contrary to nature, truth, reason, or common sense; utterly absurd. —preposterously adv. —preposterousness n. [L. = before behind, fr. prae, before; posterus, after].

Pre-Raphaelitism (prē-raff-ā-el-it-izm) n. a revival, begun in 1848 by a group of English artists (Holman Hunt, Rossetti, Millais, etc.), of the style of Italian painting before Raphael (b. 1483) characterised by strict adherence to natural form and effect. —Pre-Raphaelite a.

prerogative (prē-ro-gā-tiv) n. an exclusive right or privilege by reason of rank, position, etc. —a. privileged [L. prae, before; rogare, to ask].

presage (prēsāj) n. an indication of what is going to happen; an omen. —presage (prēsāj) v.t. to foretell; to forebode; to have a presentiment of. —presageful a. warning [L. prae, before; agere, to perceive acutely].

presbyopia (prēz-bī-ō-pī-ā) n. long-sightedness (occurring in old age) [Gk. presbutēs, an old man; ops, an eye].

presbyter (prēz-bī-tēr) n. a priest or elder in the early Christian Church; in Episcopal churches, one ordained to the second order in the ministry; a member of a presbytery. —Presbyterian (prēz-bī-tēr-i-ān) n. one belonging to Presbyterian Church; —a. pert. or belonging to Presbyterian Church. —Presbyterianism n. —presbytery n. a body of elders in Christian Church; a court of all pastors within a certain district, and one ruling elder from each church; space in a cathedral between altar and choir [Gk. presbuteros, elder, fr. presbus, old].

prescience (prēs-ē-ēns) n. knowledge of events before they take place. —prescient a. having foreknowledge of events [O.Fr. fr. L. praescientia, foreknowledge].

prescribe (prē-skrib) v.t. to lay down authoritatively for direction; to set out rules for; (Med.) to order or advise the use of. —prescriber n. —prescript n. direction; ordinance. —prescription (prē-skrip-shūn) n. the act of prescribing or directing; a doctor's direction for use of medicine. —prescriptive a. acquired by immemorial use [L. prae-scribere, to write before].

pre-selective (prē-sē-lēktiv) a. in motoring, relating to a gearbox in which the change-speed lever can be moved before the change is actually desired, the change being completed by depressing the clutch pedal. —pre-selector n. the apparatus.

present (prēz-ent) a. being in a certain place; here or at hand; now existing; (Gram.) pert. to time that now is; —n. present time, (Gram.) the present tense. —presence n. the state of being present; nearness or proximity; the person of a superior; personality; mien or appearance; apparition. —presently adv. at once; soon; by and by [L. praesens, being present].

present (prē-zent) v.t. to introduce into the presence of; to exhibit or offer to the notice; to offer as a gift; to bestow; to aim, as a weapon; —n. a gift. —presentable a. fit to be presented. —presentation (prēz-en-tā-shūn) n. the act of presenting; the state of being presented; that which is presented. —presentment n. the act or state of presenting; representation; the laying of a formal statement before a court or authority [L. praesentare, to place before].

presentiment (prē-sen-ti-ment) n. a previous notion or opinion; anticipation of evil; foreboding.

preserve (prē-zerv) v.t. to keep from injury or destruction; to keep in a sound state; —n.

that which is preserved, as fruit, etc.; any medium used in preserving; a place for the preservation of game, fish, etc.—preserver n.—preserve v.a.—preservation (pres-er-vā-shun) n. the act of preserving or keeping safe; the state of being preserved; safety.—preservative n. that which preserves;—a. having the power of preserving.—preservatory a. tending to preserve;—n. that which preserves [L. prae, before; servare, to protect].

preside (prē-zīd) v.i. to be chairman of a meeting; to direct; to control; to superintend.—president (pres-i-dent) n. (fem. presidentress) the head of a society, company, association, etc.; the elected head of a republic.—presidency n. presidency.—presidential a. pert. to a president, his office, dignity, etc.—presidentialship n. the office, or term of office, of a president.—presiding officer, the official in charge of election arrangements at a polling-station [L. prae, before; sedere, to sit].

press (pres) v.i. to push or squeeze; to crush; to hug; to embrace closely; to drive with violence; to hurry; to urge steadily; to force; to solicit with importunity; to constrain; to smooth by pressure;—v.t. to exert pressure; to strive eagerly; to crowd; to throng; to hasten;—n. an instrument or machine for squeezing, compressing, etc.; a printing-machine; printing and publishing; newspapers collectively; a crowd; a throng; urgent demands; stress; a cupboard.—pressing a. urgent; persistent.—press-gang n. one employed to advertise and secure publicity for any person or organisation.—press-cutting n. an item cut out of a newspaper.—press-mark n. a mark on a book to show its place in library.—press-room n. the room in a publishing establishment where printing-presses are operated.—to go to press, of a newspaper, to start printing [L. pressare, fr. premere, to squeeze].

press (pres) v.t. to force to serve in the navy or army; to take for royal or public use; to requisition.—press-gang n. men formerly employed to obtain recruits for navy (or army), by force [L. praestare, to furnish].

pressure (presh-ūr) n. the act of pressing; state of being pressed; influence; authority.

pressurisation (presh-ū-rī-zā-shun) n. maintenance of same pressure inside aircraft at great altitudes as at a few thousand feet.—pressure (presh-ūr) v.i.

prestidigitation (pres-tī-dij-i-tā-shun) n. conjuring; sleight of hand.—prestidigitator n. a conjurer (conjurer); a juggler; a magician [L. praestitio, ready; digitus, a finger].

prestige (pres-tāzh, pres-tij) n. influence resulting from past achievement, character, reputation, etc. [Fr. = marvell].

presto (proestō) adv. (Mus.) quickly [It. fr. L. praesto, ready].

presume (prē-zūm) v.i. to take for granted; to suppose to be true without proof; to venture;—v.t. to act in a forward manner; to take liberties.—presumably a. probable.—presumably adv.—presumption (prē-zūm-shun) n. the act of, or grounds for, presuming; strong probability; that which is taken for granted; arrogance of opinion or conduct; boldness.—presumptive (prē-zūm-tiv) a. presuming; based on probability; that may be assumed as true or valid until the contrary is proved.—presumptively adv.—presumptuous a. forward; taking liberties.—presumptuously adv.—presumptuousness n. [L. prae, before; sumere, to take].

presuppose (prē-sū-pōz) v.i. to assume or take for granted beforehand.—presupposition n. [pre and suppose].

pretend (pro-tend) v.i. to assert falsely; to counterfeit; to make believe;—v.t. to lay claim (to); to make pretence; to sham.—pretender n. one who simulates or feigns; a claimant, esp. to the throne.—pretence n. simulation; the act of laying claim; assumption; pretext.—pretension n. the act of advancing a claim, esp. a false claim; a right alleged or assumed.—pretentious (pre-tēn-shus) a. given to outward show; presumptuous and arrogant.—pretentiously adv.—pretentiousness n. [L. prae, before; tendere, to stretch].

preter- (prē-ter) prefix fr. L. praeter, meaning beyond, above, more than, etc., used in combining forms.—preternatural a. beyond or different from what is natural; abnormal.

preterit, preterite (pre-ter-it) a. (Gram.) past (applied to the tense that expresses past action or state);—n. (Gram.) the preterite or past definite tense [L. praeter, beyond; ire, itum, to go].

pretermitt (prē-ter-mit) v.t. to pass by; to omit; to disregard.—pretermitt'ing—pa.p. and pa.t. pretermitt'ed.—pretermittion n. passing by; omission; neglect [L. praeter, beyond; mittere, to send].

pretext (prē-tēkst) n. ostensible reason or motive which cloaks the real reason; pretence [L. prae, before; texere, to weave].

pretty (prī-tī) a. of a beauty that is charming and attractive, but not striking or imposing; neat and tasteful; elegant; pleasing; fine or excellent in an ironical sense; (Arch.) brave;—adv. in some degree; moderately; fairly; rather.—prettily adv.—prettiness n. [O.E. praetia, crafty].

prevail (pre-vāil) v.t. to gain the upper hand or mastery; to succeed; to be current; to be in force; to persuade or induce (with 'on' or 'upon').—prevail'ing a.—prevailing (prev-ā-lent) a. gaining advantage or superiority; most generally received; extensively existing; rife.—prevailently adv.—prevailence n. the condition of being prevalent [L. prae, before; valere, to be strong].

prevaricate (pre-var-i-kāt) v.t. to evade the truth; to quibble.—prevarication n. deviation from the truth.—prevaricator n. [L. prae, before; varus, crooked].

prevent (pre-vent) v.t. to keep from happening; to stop.—prevent'able a.—prevention (pre-ven-shun) n. hindering; obstruction; hindrance; preventive.—preventive a. tending to prevent or ward off;—n. that which prevents; antidote to keep off disease [L. prae, before; venire, venium, to come].

pre-view (prē-viū) n. a private showing of works of art, films, etc. before being exhibited in public [pre and view].

previous (prē-vi-ūs) a. preceding; happening before; (Slang) hasty.—previously adv.—previousness n. [L. prae, before; via, a way].

previse (prē-vīz) v.t. to foresee; to forewarn.—prevision n. foresight; foreknowledge [L. prae, before; videre, visum, to see].

prey (prē) n. any animal hunted and killed for food by another animal; a victim; spoil; plunder;—v.t. (with 'on' or 'upon') to seize and devour; to treat as prey; to pillage; to weigh heavily [Fr. proie, fr. L. praeda].

price (prīs) n. the amount at which a thing is valued, bought, or sold; value; cost; reward;—v.t. to fix the price of; to ask the cost of.—priceless a. beyond any price.—pricelessness n. [L. pretium, price].

prick (prīk) n. a sharp-pointed instrument; a dot, mark, or puncture made by a sharp point; the act of pricking; a sharp, stinging pain; hence, (Fig.) remorse; a spur;—v.t. to pierce slightly with a sharp point; to incite; to affect with sharp pain; to sting; to erect (the ears); to deck out.—prick'er n. that which pricks; a sharp-pointed instrument.—prick'ed a. having pointed ears (prick = a goad for oxen) [O.E. pricea, a point].

prickle (prīk-l) n. a small sharp point; a thorn; a spike; a bristle;—v.t. to prick slightly; to cover with small points;—v.t. to feel a tingling sensation.—prick'ly a. full of prickles; stinging; tingling.—prickliness n.—prickly-pear n. a kind of cactus [O.E. pricea, a point].

pride (prīd) n. the state or quality of being proud; too high an opinion of oneself; worthy self-esteem.—pride'ful a. full of pride; arrogant; scornful.—pride'fully adv.—to pride oneself on (upon), to be proud of; to take credit for [O.E. prylt, fr. prul, proud].

priest (prést) n. (fem. priest'ess) a clergyman; in R.C. and Episcopal churches, one of the order between deacon and bishop; in pagan times, one who officiated at the altar, or performed the rites of sacrifice.—priest'like, priest'ly a.—priest'liness n.—priest'craft n. priestly policy; the stratagems practised by priests.—priest'hood n. the office or duty of a priest; priests collectively [O.E. preost, fr. Gk. presbuteros, elder].

prig (prig) n. a conceited person who professes superior culture, morality, manners, etc.—prig'ish a. [etym. uncertain].

prim (prim) a. formal and precise; affectedly nice, prudish;—v.t. to shape or arrange with precision or affectation.—prim'ly adv.—prim'ness n. [O.Fr. fr. L. primus, first].

prima (préma) a. first.—prima donna, the principal female singer in an opera.—prima facie (fá-shi-é) at first view.—prima facie case, a case based on sufficient evidence to go to a jury [It. prima, first; donna, a woman; L. facies, appearance].

primacy (prí-má-si) n. See primate.

primal (prí-mál) a. first; original; chief.—primary a. first in order of time, development, importance; preparatory; elementary;—n. that which stands highest in rank or importance, a large feather on the last joint of a bird's wing.—prim'ary adv. in the first place.—prim'aries n.—primary colours, red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet; also, (Physiol.) red, green, and a bluish violet, from a combination of which any colour may be obtained [L. primus, first].

primate (prí-mát) n. the chief dignitary in a church, an archbishop.—primacy (prí-má-si) n. the chief dignity in a national church; the office or dignity of an archbishop [L.L. primas, a chief, fr. primus, first].

Primates (prí-mát'íz) n.pl. the highest order of mammals [L. primus, first].

prime (prim) a. first in time, original; first in degree or importance, foremost; of highest quality; (Math.) that cannot be separated into factors;—n. the earliest stage or beginning; spring, youth, full health or strength; the best position;—v.t. to prepare a firearm by charging with powder; to prepare wood with a protective coating before painting it; to fill with water, etc., as a pump, to make it start working, to instruct beforehand.—prim'er n. one who, or that which, primes, esp. a percussion cap, etc. used to ignite the powder of cartridges, etc., a small, elementary book used in teaching.—prime'ly adv.—prime'ness n.—prim'ing n. the powder, etc. used to fire the charge in firearms.—prime minister, the first minister of state.—prime number, a number divisible without remainder only by itself or unity [L. primus, first].

primeval (prí-mé-vál) a. original; primitive; pert. to the first age of the world.—prime'vally adv. [L. primus, first, ævum, ago].

primitive (prí-mí-tív) a. pert. to the beginning or origin; being the earliest of its kind; old-fashioned; plain and rude; (Rhet.) rudimentary; undeveloped;—n. a primary word, not derived from another.—prim'itively adv.—prim'itiveness n. [L. primitivus, fr. primus, first].

primogeniture (prí-mó-jení-túr) n. the state of being the first-born child; the right of the eldest son to inherit his parents' property.—primogen'ital, primogen'itary a.—primogen'itor n. the earliest ancestor [L. primus, first; genitor, a father, fr. gignere, to beget].

primordial (prí-mór-di-ál) a. existing from the beginning; first in order; primeval [L. primus, first; ordiri, to begin].

primrose (prím'róz) n. a plant bearing pale-yellow flowers in spring; this colour;—a. pale-yellow; gay [M.E. primerole, fr. L. primus, first].

Primula (prím'ú-lá) n. a genus of plants including the primrose [L. primus, first].

primus (prí-mus, pré-mus) n. in the Scottish Episcopal Church, the presiding bishop;—a. first; elder or eldest [L. = first].

Primus (prí-mus, pré-mus) n. a kind of small cooking-stove burning vaporised oil [Protected Trade Name].

prince (prins) n. (fem. princess') a ruler or chief; the son of a king or emperor; in many foreign countries, a title of nobility.—prince'dom n. the jurisdiction, rank, or estate of a prince.—prince'let, prince'ling n. a young prince; a petty prince.—prince'ly a. pert. to, or worthy of, a prince; stately; august; dignified.—prince'liness n.—Prince Consort, the husband of a reigning queen [L. princeps, a prince].

principal (prín-si-pál) a. chief in importance; first in rank, character, etc.;—n. the chief person in authority; the most important thing; a leader; the head of certain institutes, esp. a university, college, or school; the chief actor in a crime; a chief debtor, a person for whom another is agent; a sum of money lent and yielding interest.—prin'cipally adv.—prin'cipalship n. the office or dignity of a principal.—prin'cipality n. the territory or dignity of a prince, sovereignty [L. principalis].

principia (prín-síp'i-á) n.pl. first principles; beginnings [L. principium, a beginning].

principle (prín-si-pl) n. a fundamental truth or law; a moral rule or settled reason of action; uprightness; honesty; an element.—prin'ciple'd a. guided by certain rules of conduct [L. principium, a beginning].

prink (prínk) v.t. and i. to dress up ostentatiously;—prink'er n. [fr. prank].

print (prínt) v.t. to impress; to reproduce words, pictures, etc. by pressing inked types on paper, etc.; to produce in this way; to write in imitation of this; to publish;—n. an impression or mark left on a surface by something pressed against it; printed cotton fabric; printed lettering; an engraving; a photograph.—print'er n. one engaged in the setting of type for, and the printing of books, newspapers, etc.—printing-press n. a machine for reproducing on paper, etc. impressions made by inked type.—printer's devil, the youngest apprentice in a printing-office; a compositor's errand-boy.—printer's pie, a mass of jumbled types [L. premere to press].

prior (prí-ór) a. previous; former; earlier; preceding in time;—n. (fem. priores') the superior of a priory; one next in dignity to an abbot.—priory (prí-ór'i-ti) n. the state of being antecedent in time; precedence; preference in regard to privilege.—pri'ory n. a religious house, the head of which was a prior or prioress [L. prior, former].

prise (príz) n. a lever;—v.t. to raise as if by means of a lever [O.Fr. prise, a hold].

prism (prízm) n. (Geom.) a solid whose bases or ends are any similar, equal, and parallel plane figures, and whose sides are parallelograms; (Optics) a transparent figure of this nature, usually with triangular ends.—prismat'ical a.—prismat'ically adv.—prismoid (príz-moid) n. a prism-like solid.—prismoid'ial a.—prismatic colours, the seven colours, red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet, into which a ray of light is separated by a prism [Gk. prisma; etlós, form].

prison (príz-n) n. building, for confinement of criminals; jail; any place of confinement or restraint;—v.t. to imprison.—prisoner (príz-ngr) n. one confined in prison; one captured in war [L. prænsio, fr. præhendere, to seize].

pristine (prístín) a. belonging to the earliest time; original; former [L. pristinus, fr. priscus, of old].

prithoe (príTH'ó) interf. (Arch.) corrupt of I pray thee.

private (prī'vāt) a. not public; belonging to or concerning an individual; peculiar to oneself; personal; secluded; secret; of a soldier, not holding any rank; — n. a common soldier. — privately adv. — privateness n. — privacy (prī'vā-si) n. the state of being in retirement from company; solitude; seclusion; secrecy [L. privatus, fr. privus, single].

privateer (prī'vā-tēr') n. an armed private vessel commissioned by a government to attack enemy ships.

privation (prī'vā-shun) n. the state of being deprived, esp. of something required; destitution; want. — privative (prī'vā-tiv) a. causing privation; consisting in the absence of something; denoting negation; — n. that which derives its character from the absence of something. — privatively adv.

privet (prī'vət) n. an evergreen European shrub [etym. uncertain].

privilege (prī'vī-lej) n. a special right or advantage; — v.t. to grant some special favour to. — priv'ileged a. enjoying a special right or immunity [L. privilegium, private law, fr. lex, a law].

privy (prī'vī) a. private; confidential; secret; admitted to knowledge of a secret; — n. a person having an interest in a law-suit; a latrine. — priv'ily adv. — priv'ity n. private knowledge; connivance. — privy to, secretly informed of. — Privy Council, the council which advises the sovereign on matters of government [Fr. privé, fr. L. privatus, private].

prize (prīz) n. a reward given for success in competition; a reward given for merit; a thing striven for; a thing won by chance, e.g. in a lottery. — v.t. to value highly; to esteem. — prize-fight n. a professional boxing-match. — prize-fighter n. [O.Fr. pris, fr. L. pretium, price].

prize (prīz) n. an enemy ship or property captured in naval warfare. — prize-court n. an Admiralty court to adjudicate on prizes captured in naval warfare [Fr. prise, a seizing, fr. L. prehendere, to seize].

prize (prīz) v.t. Same as prize.

pro- (prō) prefix fr. L. or Gk. meaning for; instead of; on behalf of; in front of; before; forward; according to.

proa (prō'a) n. a long, narrow canoe, noted for its speed [Malay].

probable (prō'bā-bl) a. likely; to be expected; having more evidence for than against. — probably adv. — probability n. likelihood; anything that has appearance of truth [L. probare, to prove].

probate (prō'bāt) n. the process by which a last will and testament is legally authenticated after the testator's death; an official copy of a will [L. probare, to prove].

probation (prō'bā-shun) n. proving; proof; a trial or test of a person's character, conduct, ability, etc.; the testing of a candidate before admission to full membership of a body, esp. a religious sect or order; a system of releasing offenders, esp. juveniles, and placing them under supervision of Probation Officers. — probational a. — probationer a. serving to test. — probationer n. a person undergoing probation. — probative (prō'bā-tiv) a. pert. to, serving for, or offering, trial or proof [L. probare, to prove].

probe (prōb) n. (Med.) instrument for examining a wound, ulcer, cavity, etc.; — v.t. to explore a wound, etc. with a probe; (Fig.) to examine thoroughly [L. probare, to prove].

probity (prō'bī-tī) n. tried integrity; rectitude; honesty [L. probus, good].

problem (prōblem) n. a matter proposed for solution; a question difficult of solution; a puzzle. — problematical a. questionable; uncertain; disputable; doubtful. — problematically adv. (Gk. problēma, a thing thrown before).

proboscis (prō'bō-sīs) n. an elephant's trunk; the snout of other animals [Gk. fr. prō, before; bōstēs, to feed].

proceed (prō-sēd') v.i. to move onward; to advance; to renew progress; to pass from one point or topic to another; to come forth, as from a source; to carry on a series of acts; to take legal proceedings. — proceeding n. going forward; movement or process; — pl. (Law) the several steps of prosecuting a charge, claim, etc.; a record of business done by a society. — proceeds (prō'sēd-s) n.pl. produce; yield; sum realised by a sale. — proceedure (prō'sēd-tūr) n. act, method of proceeding [L. procedere, to go forward].

process (prō'ses) n. continued forward movement; lapse (of time); a series of actions or measures; a method of operation; (Anat.) a projecting part or growth; (Law) procedure; — v.t. to subject to some process, as food or material. — process (prō'ses') v.i. (Colloq.) to walk in a procession. — procession (prō'sesh-un) n. marching forward; regular progress. — processional a. pert. to a procession; — n. a hymn sung during a church procession. — process-server n. a sheriff's officer; a bailiff [L. processus, fr. procedere, to go forward].

proclaim (prō'klām') v.t. to make known by public announcement; to publish. — proclaimant, proclaimer n. one who proclaims. — proclamation (prō'klam-shun) n. the act of announcing publicly; an official public announcement [L. pro, before; clamare, to cry out].

proclivity (prō'klīvī-tī) n. inclination; propensity; proneness; aptitude [L. pro, forward; clivus, a slope].

proconsul (prō-kon'sul) n. a Roman official who discharged the duties of a consul, esp. as governor of a colony or province. — proconsular a. — proconsulate, proconsulship n. [L.].

procrastinate (prō-kras'tī-nāt) v.t. to put off till some future time. — procrastination n. a putting off till a future time; dilatoriness. — procrastinator n. [L. procrastinare, fr. cras, tomorrow].

procreate (prō'krē-āt) v.t. to bring into being; to beget; to generate. — procreation n. the reproduction of the species; generation. — procreative a. having the power to beget; productive. — procreancy n. — procreator n. [L. pro, forth; creare, to produce].

Procrustes (prō'krus-tōz) n. (Myth.) an ancient Greek legendary brigand who placed his captives on a bed, stretched their legs if too short for it, and amputated them if too long. — Procrustean a. descriptive of extreme measures to make anything conform to a standard.

proctor (prōk'tor) n. one who manages the affairs of another; a procurator; a university official in charge of discipline; an attorney in an ecclesiastical court. — proctorial a. — proctorship n. — King's Proctor, the Crown solicitor in divorce suits, who may intervene when collusion is alleged to have occurred [abbrev. of procurator].

procumbent (prō-kum'bent) a. lying face down; (Bot.) growing along the ground [L. pro, forward; cumbere, to lie down].

procurator (prō'kū-rā-shun) n. management of another's affairs; the instrument empowering a person to transact the affairs of another; money paid to a bishop or archdeacon by incumbents, as an equivalent to that formerly due for visitations. — procurator n. the office of a procurator; the management of another's affairs. — procurator n. one who acts for another, esp. in legal affairs. — procuratorial n. in Scotland, a public prosecutor [L. pro, for; curare, to see to].

procure (prō-kūr') v.t. to acquire; to obtain; to get; to bring about; — v.i. to act as a procurer. — procurable a. obtainable. — procurement n. the act of procuring or obtaining; management. — procurer n. (sem. procurator) one who procures; one who supplies women for immoral purposes [L. pro, for; curare, to see to].

prod (prod) v.i. to poke with something pointed; to goad; —n. a pointed instrument for prodding. —pr.p. prod'ing. —pa.p. and pa.t. prod'ed [etym. uncertain].

prodigal (prod'i-gal) a. wasteful; spending recklessly; —n. one who spends recklessly; a spendthrift. —prod'igally adv. —prod'igality n. reckless extravagance [L. prodigere, to squander].

prodigy (prod'i-jī) n. a portent; anything unusual and unnatural; a person or thing causing wonder; a marvel; a very gifted child; a monster. —prodigious (prod'i-jū-s) a. like a prodigy; marvellous; enormous; extraordinary. —prodig'iously adv. —prodig'iousness n. [L. prodigium, a portent or sign].

produce (prō-dūs) v.t. to bring forth; to exhibit; to give birth to; to yield; to make; to cause; of a play, to present it on the stage; (Geom.) of a line, to extend in length. —produce (prod'ūs) n. that which is produced; product; agricultural products; crops. —produc'er n. —produc'ible a. [L. pro, forward; ducere, to lead].

product (prod'ukt) n. that which is produced; (Arith.) a number resulting from the multiplying of two or more numbers. —produc'tion n. the act of producing; the things produced. —produc'tive a. having the power to produce; creative; fertile; efficient. —produc'tively adv. —produc'tiveness, produc'tivity n. [L. pro, forward; ducere, to lead].

proem (prō-em) n. a preface; an introduction; a prelude. —proem' l.f. a. [Gr. pro, before; imos, a path].

profane (pro-fān) a. not sacred; irreverent; blasphemous; given to swearing; —v.t. to treat with irreverence; to put to a wrong or unworthy use; to desecrate; to pollute or defile. —profane'ly adv. —profane'ness n. —profan'er n. —profanation (prof-a-nā-shun) n. the act of violating sacred things. —profan'ity (pro-fau-ti-ti) n. profaneness; irreverence; the use of oaths and bad language [L. pro, before; fanum, a temple].

profess (pro-fes) v.t. to make open declaration of; to confess publicly; to affirm belief in; to pretend to knowledge or skill in. —professed a. openly acknowledged. —professedly adv. —profession (pro-fesh'yun) n. the act of professing; that which one professes; occupation or calling, esp. one requiring learning. —profes'sional a. pert. to a profession or calling; engaged in any game or sport for money, as opposed to amateur; —n. one who makes a livelihood in sport or games (abbrev. pro). —profes'sionally adv. [L. profiteri, professus, to acknowledge].

professor (pro-fes'er) n. one who makes profession; a teacher in a university. —professional (pro-fe-nsh'el) a. pert. to a professor. —profes'sorially adv. —professoriate (pro-fe-nsh'i-āt) n. the office of a professor; his period of office; body of professors. —profes'sorship n. [L. profiteri, professus, to acknowledge].

profess (prof'et) v.t. to offer for acceptance; —n. an offer made. —prof'esser n. [L. proficere, to bring forward].

proficient (pro-fish'ent) a. thoroughly versed or qualified in any art or occupation; skilled; adept; —n. an expert. —prof'iciently adv. —prof'iciency, prof'iciency n. expertness [L. proficere, to be useful].

profile (prō-fil, prō-fel) n. an outline or contour; a portrait in a side view; the side-face; short biographical sketch; —v.t. to draw the outline of [L. pro, before; filum, thread].

profit (prof'it) n. advantage or benefit; the excess of returns over expenditure; pecuniary gain in any transaction or occupation; —v.t. to be of service to; —v.i. to gain advantage; to grow richer. —prof'itable a. yielding profit or gain; advantageous; helpful. —prof'itably adv. —prof'itableness n. —prof'iteer (prof-i-tēr) n. one who makes excessive profits; —v.t. to make such profits [L. profectus, fr. proficere, to make progress].

H.O.D.

profligate (prof'il-gât) a. abandoned to vice; dissolute; —n. a depraved person. —prof'ligately adv. —prof'ligateness n. —profligacy (prof'il-gā-si) n. a vicious and dissolute manner of living [L. profligatus, ruined].

profound (prō-found) a. deep; intellectually deep; learned; deeply felt. —profund'ly adv. —profund'ness n. —profund'ity n. depth of place, knowledge, skill, feeling [L. profundus, deep].

profuse (prō-fūs) a. giving or given generously; lavish; extravagant. —profuse'ly adv. —profuse'ness, profusion (prō-fū-zhun) n. lavishness; prodigality; great abundance [L. pro, forth; fundere, fusus, to pour].

progeny (prō-jē-ni) n. descendants; offspring; children; race. —progen'itive a. pert. to the production of offspring. —progenitor (prō-jen'i-tor) n. (fem. progen'itress, progen'itrix) ancestor; forefather [L. pro, before; gnere, to beget].

prognosis (prok-nō-sis) n. a forecast; (Med.) foretelling the course of a disease. —pl. prognoses. —prognostic (prog-nōst'ik) a. foretelling; forecasting; predicting; —n. a forecast; a prediction. —prognos'ticate v.t. to foretell, to predict; to prophesy. —prognos'tication n. —prognos'ticator n. [Gk. pro, before; gnōsis, knowledge].

programme, program (prō-gram) n. a plan or detailed notice of intended proceedings at a public entertainment, ceremony, etc.; a party policy at election time [Gk. pro, before; gramma, a writing].

progress (prō-gres, prō-gres) n. a moving forward; advancement; development; a state journey. —progress (prō-gres') v.t. to move forward; to advance; to develop; to improve. —progression (prō-gresh'un) n. the act of moving forward, onward movement; progress. —progress'ional a. —progress'ive a. moving forward gradually; advancing; improving; favouring progress or reform. —progress'ively adv. —progress'iveness n. —progressive bridge (whist) (Cards) a form of bridge (whist) in which partners change after each game. —arithmetical progression, a series of numbers increasing or decreasing by the same amount, e.g. 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, etc. —geometrical progression, a series of numbers increasing or decreasing by a common ratio, e.g. 3, 9, 27, 81, etc. [L. progređi, progressus, to go forward].

prohibit (prō-hib'it) v.t. to forbid; to prevent; to hinder; to interdict by authority. —prohib'itor, prohib'itor n. —prohibition (prō-hib'ish'un) n. the act of forbidding; interdict; the forbidding by law of manufacture, importation, sale, or purchase of alcohol, liquors. —prohib'itionist n. one in favour of prohibition. —prohib'itive, prohib'itory a. tending to forbid, prevent, or exclude; exclusive. —prohib'itively adv. [L. prohibere].

project (prō-jekt' n.t. to throw or cast forward; to plan; to contrive; to scheme; to throw a photographic image on a screen; —v.i. to jut out; to protrude. —project (prō-jekt) n. a plan; a scheme; a design. —projectile (prō-jekt'il) a. capable of being thrown; —n. a heavy missile, esp. a shell, or cannon ball. —projec'tion n. the act of projecting, something that juts out; a plan; delineation; the representation on a plane of a curved surface or sphere; in psychology, mistaking for reality something which is only an image in the mind. —projec'tive a. —projec'tor n. an apparatus for throwing photographic images, esp. films, on a screen [L. proicere, projectum, to throw forward].

prolapse (prō-laps) n. (Med.) the falling down of a part of the body from its normal position, esp. womb or rectum. Also prolapsus. —prolapse (prō-laps') v.i. to fall down or protrude [L. prolapsus, fr. prolabi, to fall or slide forward].

prolate (prō-lāt) a. (Geom.) elongated towards the pole [L. proferre, prolatum, to bring forward].

N

prolegomena (prō-le-gom'e-nə) n.pl. introductory remarks prefixed to a book or treatise.—sing. prolegomenon [Gk. pro, before; legomenos, being said].

prolepsis (prō-lep'sis) n. a figure of speech by which objections are anticipated and answered; an error in chronology, consisting in antedating an event;—pl. prolepses.—prolep'tic, prolep'tical a.—prolep'tically adv. [Gk. pro, before; lēpsis, a taking].

proletarian (prō-le-tā'ri-ən) a. pert. to the proletariat; belonging to the commonalty;—n. one of the proletariat.—proletariat (e) (prō-le-tā'ri-at) n. propertyless wage-earners who live by sale of their labour [L. proles, offspring].

proliferous (prō-lif'ē-rus) a. (Biol.) reproducing freely by cell division; developing anthers.—prolif'erously adv.—prolif'erate v.t. to bear;—v.t. to reproduce by repeated cell division.—proliferat'ion n. increase [L. proles, offspring; ferre, to bear].

prolific (prō-lif'ik) a. bringing forth offspring; fruitful; abundantly productive; bringing about results.—prolif'ically adv. [L. proles, offspring; facere, to make].

prolix (prō'liks) a. long drawn out; diffuse; verbose; wordy.—prolix'ly adv.—prolix'ness n.—prolix'ity n. verbosity [L. proluzus, extended].

prolocutor (prō-lok'ū-tor) n. the speaker or chairman of a convocation [L. pro; loqui locutus, to speak].

prologue (prō'log) n. the preface or introduction to a discourse, poem, book, or performance, esp. the address spoken before a dramatic performance;—v.t. to preface [Gk. pro, before; logos, discourse].

prolong (prō-long') v.t. to lengthen out; to extend the duration of.—prolongat'ion n. the act of lengthening out; a part prolonged; extension [L. pro; longus, long].

prom (prom) n. (Colloq. abbrev.) a promenade concert; promenade at sea-side resort.

promenade (prom-e-nād', -nād') n. a leisurely walk, generally in a public place; a place adapted for such a walk;—v.t. to walk for pleasure, display, or exercise.—promenader n.—promenade concert, one at which the audience may walk about during the music; (Colloq. abbrev.) prom. [Fr.].

prominent (prom'i-nent) a. sticking out; projecting; conspicuous; distinguished.—prom'i-nently adv.—prom'inence, prom'inency n. the state of being prominent; projection; eminence [L. prominere, to jut out].

promiscuous (prō-mis-kū-us) a. mixed without order or distinction; confused; not limited to one particular individual or class.—promis'cuously adv.—promis'cuously, promiscuity (prom-is-kū'i-ti) n. [L. promiscuus, fr. miscere, to mix].

promise (prom'is) n. an undertaking to do or not to do something; cause or grounds for hope;—v.t. to give one's word to do or not to do something; to give cause for expectation; to undertake; to agree to give;—v.t. to assure by a promise; to give grounds for hope.—prom'iser n. one who promises.—prom'isor n. (Law) the person by whom a promise is made.—prom'ising a. likely to turn out well or to succeed; hopeful [L. promittere, promissum, to promise].

promissory (prom'i-sor-i) a. containing a promise.—promissory note, written agreement to pay sum to named person at specified date [L. promittere, to promise].

promontory (prom-on-tor-i) n. a point of high land jutting out into the sea [L. promontorium, fr. mons, a mountain].

promote (prō-mōt') v.t. to move forward; to move up to a higher rank or position; to encourage the growth or development of; to organise or float a new business venture or company.—promoter n. a supporter; an initiator, esp. of a new business venture, etc.

—promo'tion n. advancement; preferment; a higher rank, station, or position; encouragement.—promo'tive a. [L. promovere, promotum, to move forward].

prompt (prompt) a. ready and quick to act; done at once; punctual;—v.t. to excite to action; to suggest; to help out (actor or speaker) by reading, suggesting next words.—prompt'ly adv.—prompt'er n. one who reminds or helps out an actor, speaker, etc.—prompt'itude, prompt'ness n. readiness; quickness of decision and action.—prompt'side n. (abbrev. P.S.) right side of stage (facing audience) [L. promptus, fr. promere, to put forth].

promulgate (prom'ul-gāt) v.t. to proclaim; to publish; to make known officially.—promulga'tion n. [L. promulgare].

prone (prōn) a. lying face downwards; bending forward; sloping; steep; inclined; naturally disposed.—prone'ly adv.—prone'ness n. inclination; tendency [L. pronus].

prong (prong) n. one of the pointed ends of a fork; a spike [etym. uncertain].

pronoun (prō-noun) n. (Gram.) a word used instead of a noun.—pronom'inal a.—pronom'inally adv. [pro and noun].

pronounce (prō-nouns') v.t. to speak with the correct sound and accent; to speak distinctly; to utter formally or officially; to declare or affirm.—pronounced a. strongly marked; very definite or decided.—pronounce'able a.—pronounce'ment n. a formal declaration.—pronoun'cer n.—pronoun'eing a. teaching or indicating pronunciation.—pronunciation (prō-nun-si-ā'shun) n. the act of uttering with the proper sound and accent; the mode of uttering words [L. pronuntiare, to proclaim].*

pronto (pron-tō) a. and adv. (Colloq.) prompt; promptly; quick; quickly [Sp.].

proof (prōof) n. something which proves; a test or trial; any process to ascertain correctness, truth, or facts; demonstration; evidence that convinces the mind and produces belief; argument; (Arch.) proved trustworthiness; standard strength of alcoholic spirits; (Print.) a trial impression from type, on which corrections may be made;—a. firm in resisting; impenetrable; serving as proof or designating a certain standard or quality;—v.t. to render proof against.—proof'ing n. the act of rendering materials impenetrable to water; a substance used in effecting this.—proof'reader n. one who corrects printer's proofs.—proof'spir'it n. a mixture of alcohol and water, containing not less than a standard quantity of alcohol [L. probare, to prove].

prop (prop) v.t. to support, or prevent from falling, by placing something under or against; to sustain.—n. that which supports; a stay [M.E. proppe].

propaganda (prop-a-gan'də) n. an association or scheme for propagating a doctrine or set of principles; the opinions or beliefs thus spread; a society in Rome charged with the management of missions.—propagan'dist v.t. and i. to spread propaganda.—propagan'dist n. [fr. L. de propaganda fide, concerning the spreading of the faith].

propagate (prop-a-gāt) v.t. to cause to multiply or reproduce by generation; to breed; to spread the knowledge of; to transmit or carry forward;—v.t. to have young; to breed.—prop'agator n.—propagat'ion n. [L. propagare, to propagate plants by slips].

propel (prō-pel') v.t. to drive forward; to press onward by force; to push.—pr.p. propell'ing.—pa.p. propelled.—propell'er n. one who, or that which, propels; a revolving shaft with blades for driving a ship or aeroplane [L. pro, forward; pellere, to drive].

propensity (prō-pen'si-ti) n. bent of mind; leaning or inclination; disposition; natural tendency; bias; proclivity.—propens'e a. (Arch.) inclined; disposed.—propens'ly adv. [L. pro, forward; pendere, pensum, to hang].

proper (prop'er) a. particular individual belonging to oneself; befitting one's nature; correct or according to usage; (Arch.) handsome; thorough or complete;—adv. (Colloq.) very; exceedingly.—prop'riety adv.—proper fraction (Arith.) one in which the numerator is less than the denominator [L. proprius, own].

property (prop'ē-ri) n. an inherent or essential quality or peculiarity; ownership; the thing owned; possessions; an estate;—pl. theatrical requisites, as scenery, dresses, etc. [L. proprietas, fr. proprius, own].

prophecy (prof'e-si) n. foretelling future events; prediction.—prophesy (prof'e-si) v.i. to foretell; to predict;—v.t. to utter predictions.—pr.p. prop'heying.—pa.p. and pa.t. prop'hesied.—prophet (prof'et) n. (fem. prop'etess) one who foretells future events; in the Bible, an inspired teacher or revealer of the Divine Will.—prophet'ic(al) a. [Gk. prophētēs, aforespeaker].

prophylactic (prof'i-lak'tik) a. (Med.) tending to prevent disease; preventive;—n. medicine or treatment tending to prevent disease.—prophylax'is n. preventive treatment of disease, e.g. by inoculation [Gk. phylassein, to guard].

propinquity (prō-ping'kwī-ti) n. nearness in time or place; nearness in blood relationship [L. propinquitas, fr. prope, near].

propitiate (prō-plish'i-āt) v.t. to appease; to conciliate; to gain the favour of.—propitiat'ion n. appeasement; conciliation; atonement.—propitiator n.—propitiatory a. serving, or intended, to propitiate.—propitious (prō-plish-us) a. favourable; favourably inclined; kind; auspicious.—propitiouly adv.—propitiousness n. [L. propitiare].

proportion (prō-pōr'shun) n. relative size, number, or degree; comparison; relation; equal or just share; relation between connected things or parts; symmetrical arrangement, distribution, or adjustment; equality of ratios; (Arith.) the rule of three;—n.pl. dimensions;—v.t. to arrange the proportions of; to divide into equal or just shares.—proportionable a. capable of being proportioned or made proportional.—proportionably adv.—proportional a. pert. to proportion; having a due proportion;—n. a number or quantity in an arithmetical or mathematical proportion.—proportionally adv.—proportional'ity n.—proportionate a. adjusted so as to correspond in size, amount, or degree; proportional.—proportioned a. having suitable dimensions or measurements.—proportionment n. [L. proportio, fr. portio, a share].

propose (prō-pōz') v.t. to offer for consideration; to suggest; to nominate;—v.i. to form a plan; to intend; to offer oneself in marriage.—propo'sal n. the act of proposing; what is offered for consideration; an offer, esp. of marriage.—propo'ser n.—proposi'tion n. a proposal; a statement or assertion.—proposi'tional a. [L. proponere, to put forward].

propound (prō-pound') v.t. to offer for consideration; to propose; to set (a problem) [L. pro, forth; ponere, to place].

proprietor (prō-prī'e-tor) n. (fem. propri'etress, propri'etrix) one who is the owner of property; an owner.—propri'etary a. pert. to an owner; made and sold by an individual or firm having the exclusive rights of manufacture and sale.—proprietorship n. [L. proprius, one's own].

propriety (prō-prī'e-ti) n. properness; correct conduct.—the propri'eties n.pl. the manners and conventions observed in polite society [L. proprius, one's own].

propulsion (prō-pul'shun) n. the act of driving forward.—propul'sive, propul'sory a. tending, or having power, to propel [L. pro, forward; pellere, pulsare, to drive].

prorogue (prō-rōe') v.t. to adjourn for an indefinite time (applied to parliament);—proroga'tion n. [L. prorogare, to defer].

prosaic, prosaical (prō-zā'ik, -i-kal) a. dull and unimaginative; commonplace.—prosa'ically adv. [L. prosus or prosus, straight-forward].

proscenium (prō-sē-ni-um) n. the part of the stage in front of the curtain [Gk. pro, before; skênē, the stage].

proscribe (prō-skrīb') v.t. to put outside the protection of the law; to outlaw; to prohibit.—proscrib'er n.—proscrip'tion n. the act of proscribing; prohibition; denunciation.—proscrip'tive a. proscribing [L. proscribere, to publish].

prose (prōz) n. ordinary language in speech and writing; language not in verse;—a. pert. to prose; not poetical;—v.t. to write prose; to speak or write in a dull, tedious manner.—pro'sy a. dull and tedious.—pro'sily adv.—pro'siness n. (L. prosa (oratio), direct (speech)).
prosecute (prōs-e-kūt) v.t. to follow or pursue with a view to reaching or accomplishing something; (Law) to proceed against judicially;—v.t. to carry on a legal suit.—prosecu'tion n. (Law) the institution and carrying on of a suit in a court of law; the party by which legal proceedings are instituted, as opposed to the defence.—pro'secutor n. (fem. pro'seutrix) one who prosecutes; a public prosecuting counsel [L. prosecut, to follow].

proselyte (prōs'e-lyt) n. a convert to some party or religion;—v.t. to convert.—pros'elytize v.t. to make converts.—pros'elytism n. [Gk. proselytos, a newcomer].

prosody (prōsō-dī) n. the science of versification.—prosodical (prōsō-dī-fa-kal), prosodial (prōsō-dī-dal), prosodic (prōsō-dīk) a.—prosodist n. one skilled in prosody [Gk. pros, to; ōdē, a song].

prospect (prōs'pekt) n. that which the eye sees at one time; a wide view; anticipation; reasonable hope; promise of future good.—prospect' v.t. and i. to search or explore (a region), esp. for precious metals, oil, etc.—prospective a. looking forward; relating to the future.—prospec'tively adv.—prospec'tor n.—prospec'tus n. a circular or pamphlet outlining the main features of a proposed commercial undertaking, a new publication, a school, hotel, etc. [L. prospicere, to look forward].
prosper (prōs'pēr) v.t. to cause to succeed;—v.i. to succeed; to do well.—prosper'ity n. the state of succeeding or flourishing; success.—pros'perous a. thriving; successful; doing well.—pros'perously adv. [L. prosper, fortunate].

prostate (prōs'tāt) n. a small gland at the neck of the bladder in males. Also prostate gland [Gk. pro, before; statos, placed].

prostitute (prōs'ti-tūt) n. a woman who hires herself for sexual intercourse; a harlot;—v.t. to make a prostitute of; to sell basely; to put to base, infamous, or unworthy use.—prostitu'tion n. [L. prostituere, to offer for sale].

prostrate (prōs'trāt) a. lying on the ground face downwards; mentally or physically exhausted.—prostrate' v.t. to lay flat on the ground; to bow down in adoration; to overcome.—prostra'tion n. [L. pro, forward; sternere, stratum, to lay flat].

protagonist (prō-tag-on-ist) n. the principal actor in a Greek drama; a leading character [Gk. protos, first; agōnistēs, an actor].

protasis (prōt'e-sis) n. the introductory clause of a conditional sentence, the consequent clause being the 'apodosis' [Gk. pro, forward; tasis, a stretching].

Protean (prōtē-an) a. (Myth.) pert. to Proteus, a sea-god who changed his shape at will to avoid divulging the future.—pro'tean a. readily changing form or appearance; inconstant.

protect (prō-tek't') v.t. to defend; to guard; to put a tariff on imports to encourage home industry.—protec'tion n. defending from injury or harm; state of being defended; that which defends.—protec'tionism n. the doctrine of protecting industries by taxing competing imports.—protective a. affording protection; sheltering.—protectively adv.—protector n. one who, or that which, defends.—protectorate n. (period of) office of a protector of a state; political administration of a state or territory by another country.—protectoral, protectorial a. [L. pro. in front of; legere, to cover].

protège (pro-tā-shā') n. (Jem. protégée) one under the care, protection, or patronage of another (Fr. protéger, to protect).

protein (prō-tē-in, prō-tēn) n. a nitrogenous compound similar to white of egg, an essential constituent of all animal and vegetable organisms. Also pro'tein [Gk. protéos, first].

protest (prō-test') v.i. to assert formally; to make a declaration against;—v.t. to affirm solemnly; to object to.—protest (prō-test) n. a declaration of objection.—protestant (prō-test-ant) n. one who holds an opposite opinion.—Pro'testant a. pert. or belonging to any branch of the Western Church outside the Roman communion;—n. a member of such a church.—Pro'testantism n.—protesta'tion n. a solemn declaration, esp. of dissent [L. pro. before; testari, to witness].

prothalamion (prō-tha-lā-mi-on) n. a song written in honour of a marriage. Also prothalamium [Gk. pro. before; thalamos, the bridal chamber].

proto- (prō-tō) prefix fr. Gk. protéos, first; hence, original; primitive.—pro'to-actin'ium n. (Chem.) a metallic radio-active element.—pro'to-mar'tyr n. the first to be sacrificed in any cause, esp. the first Christian martyr, St. Stephen.—pro'toplasm n. a semi-fluid substance forming the basis of the primitive tissue of animal and vegetable life; living matter.—protoplasmat'ic, protoplasm'ic a.—prototype (prō-tō-tīp) n. original or model from which anything is copied; a pattern.—prototypal, prototyp'al (a) a.—Protozoa (prō-tō-zō-ā) n.pl. first or lowest division of animal kingdom, consisting of microscopic, unicellular organisms.—protozoan (prō-tō-zō-on) n. a member of this division.—protozo'al, protozo'an a.—protozo'le a. (Geol.) containing remains of the earliest forms of life.

protocol (prō-to-kol) n. an original copy; a rough draft, esp. a draft of terms signed by negotiating parties as the basis of a formal treaty or agreement [Gk. protokollon, a fly-leaf glued on to a book].

proton (prō-ton) n. in physics, the unit of positive electricity, found in the nuclei of all atoms [Gk. protéos, first].

protract (prō-trakt') v.t. to lengthen; to draw out; to prolong; to delay; to defer; to draw to scale.—protract'ed a. prolonged; long drawn out; tedious.—protract'ion n.—protract'ive a. prolonging; delaying.—protractor n. a mathematical instrument for measuring angles; (Anat.) a muscle which draws forward or extends a limb [L. pro. forward; trahere, to draw].

protrude (prō-trōd') v.t. and i. to stick out; to project; to thrust forward.—protru'sion n. the act of thrusting forward; the state of being protruded or thrust forward; that which protrudes.—protru'sive a. thrusting forward; protruding [L. pro. forward; trudere, to thrust].

protuberant (prō-tū-bē-rant) a. bulging; swelling out; prominent.—protuberantly adv.—protuberance n. a swelling; a prominence [L. protuberare, to swell].

proud (prōud) a. having excessive conceit of oneself; haughty; arrogant; self-respecting.—proud'ly adv.—proud flesh, excessive granulation in tissue of healing wound [O.E. prūf, proud].

prove (prōov) v.t. to try by experiment; to ascertain as fact, by evidence; to demonstrate; to show; to endure; to suffer; to establish the validity of (a will, etc.).—v.i. to turn out (to be, etc.); to be found by trial; to make trial.—pr.p. prov'ing.—pa.p. and pa.f. prov'd—pa.p.

(Scots Law) prov'an.—prov'able a. able to be proved.—prov'ably adv. [L. probare, to test].—provenance (prov'e-nāns) n. source or place of origin. Also proven'ience (pro-vē-ni-ēns) [L. pro. forth; venire, to come].

Provence (prō-vōngs') n. (Geog.) a province of S.E. France.—Provençal (prō-vōng-sal') a. provender (prov'en-der) n. a dry food for beasts, e.g. corn, hay, oats; fodder; hence, provisions; food [O.Fr. provendre].

proverb (prov'erb) n. a short pithy saying to express a truth or point a moral; an adage.—Prov'arbs n.pl. (Bib.) book of Old Testament.—proverbial a. pert. to or resembling a proverb; well-known.—proverbially adv. [L. proverbium, fr. verbum, a word].

provide (prō-vid') v.t. to get or make ready for future use; to prepare; to supply; to furnish;—v.i. to make preparation; to set forth as a previous condition.—provid'ed (that).—provid'ing (that) conj. on condition that.—providence (prov'i-dēns) n. foresight; prudence; wise economy; frugality; God's care; an event regarded as an act of God.—Providence n. God Himself.—provid'ent a. prudent; thrifty.—provid'ently adv.—providential (prov'i-dēn-shal) a. effected by divine foresight; fortunate; lucky.—providen'tially adv.—provid'er n. [L. pro. before; videre, to see].

province (prov'ins) n. a division of a country or empire; an administrative district; a district under the jurisdiction of an archbishop; a sphere of action; a department of knowledge; one's special duty.—the provinces n.pl. any part of the country outside the capital.—provincial (prō-vin-shal) a. pert. to a province or the provinces; countrified; unpolished;—n. an inhabitant of a province or of the provinces.—provin'cially adv. [L. provincia].

provision (prō-vizh-un) n. the act of providing; measures taken beforehand; store esp. of food (generally in pl.); a condition or proviso;—v.t. to supply with provisions.—provis'ional a. temporary; adopted for the time being.—provis'ionally adv. [L. pro. before; videre, to see].

proviso (prō-vi-zō) n. a condition or stipulation in a deed of contract.—pl. provis'es or provis'oes—provis'ory a. containing a proviso or condition; temporary [L. proviso quod, it being provided that].

provoke (pro-vōk') v.t. to excite or stimulate to action, esp. to arouse to anger or passion; to bring about or call forth.—provok'ing a.—provocation (prov-o-kā-shun) n. the act of provoking; that which provokes.—provocative (prō-vōk-ā-tiv) a. serving or tending to provoke.—provoc'atively adv.—provoc'ativeness n. [L. provocare, to call forth].

provost (prov'ost) n. a person appointed to superintend or preside, as the head of certain colleges or religious communities; the chief magistrate of Scottish towns.—provost-marshal (prov-ō-mar-shal) n. an officer in charge of the military police, or of prisoners in the navy [L. praepositus, placed before].

prow (prou) n. the forepart or bow of a ship; (poetic) a ship [L. prora].

prouess (prou-es) n. a bravery, esp. in war; valour; achievement [Fr. prouesse].

prowl (proul) v.i. to roam about stealthily, esp. in search of prey, etc.;—n. the act of prowling [M.E. prullen].

proximate (prok-si-mi-āt) a. next or nearest; closest; immediately following or preceding.—prox'imately adv.—prox'im'ity n. being next in time, place, etc.; immediate nearness.—prox'ime adv. in or of the coming month [L. proximus, nearest].

proxy (prok-si) n. an authorised agent or substitute; one deputed to act for another; a writing empowering one person to vote for another (short fr. procuracy).

prude (prōod) n. a woman of affected, or over-sensitive, modesty or reserve.—prud'ish a. like a prude.—prud'ery n. affected coyness; primness; stiffness [O.Fr. prode, discreet].

prudent (próó-dent) a. cautious and judicious; careful; not extravagant.—prudently adv.—prudence n. the habit of acting with careful deliberation; wisdom applied to practice.—prudential (próó-dent-shal) a.—prudentially adv. [L. prudens, foreseeing].

prune (próón) n. a dried plum [Fr. fr. L. prunum, a plum].

prune (próón) v.t. to cut off dead parts, excessive branches, etc.; to remove anything superfluous.—pruning-hook n. a knife with curved blade for pruning trees, etc. [O.Fr. proignier].

prurient (próó-ri-ent) a. given to, or springing from, unclean or lewd thoughts.—pruriently adv.—prurience, prurieney n. [L. prurire, to itch].

Prussia (prush'á) n. (Geog.) formerly the leading State of Germany, and the recognised home of German militarism.—Prussian n./a.

—Prussian blue, a deep-blue salt of potassium and iron, used as a pigment.—prussic acid, hydrocyanic acid, a violent and rapid poison.

pry (pri) v.t. to look curiously; to peer; to nose about.—pry, prying,—pry, prying, and prying (prying).—pry'er, pry'er n. [M.E. prien, to peer].

psalm (sám) n. a sacred song or hymn.—the Psalm (Bib.) a book of the Old Testament.—psalmist (sám-ist, sál-mist) n. a writer of psalms.—psalmody (sám-mo-di, sál-mo-di) n. the art or practice of singing sacred music; psalms collectively.—psalmodist n. a singer of psalms.—Psalter (sawlt'er) n. the book of Psalms.—psaltery n. an obsolete stringed instrument like the zither [Gk. psalmos, a twanging of strings].

pseudo- (sú-dō) prefix fr. Gk. psudes, false, used in many derivatives to signify, false; pretended; sham; not real; wrongly held to be, etc.—pseudonym (sú-dō-nim) n. a fictitious name assumed, esp. by an author; a nom de plume.—pseudonymous a.

psaw (shaw) interj. expressing contempt, impatience, etc. [imit.].

psittacosis (sit-a-kó-sis) n. (Med.) a fatal disease found in parrots and communicable to man [L. psittacus, a parrot].

Psyche (sí-kē) n. (Myth.) a nymph who married Cupid.—psyche n. the soul personified; the principle of life [Gk. psychē, soul, mind].

psychiatry (sik-i-á-tri, sí-kí-fá-tri) n. study and treatment of mental disorders.—psychiat'ric, psychiat'rist n. a specialist in mental disorders.—psychiat'ric(al) a. [Gk. psychē, mind; iátrōs, a physician].

psychic, psychical (sí-kík, -kí-kal) a. pert. to soul, spirit, or mind; spiritualistic.—psychically adv.—psychic n. one sensitive to spiritualistic forces; medium.—psychicist n. [Gk. psychē, soul, mind].

psycho-analysis (sí-kō-an-ál-i-sis) n. process of studying the unconscious mind; a method of treating mental disturbances, in which causes are traced to forgotten memories and repressions affecting the mind unconsciously removed.—psycho-analyse v.t. to treat thus.—psycho-analys n.—psycho-analytic(al).

psychology (sí-kol-ō-jí) n. the scientific study of the mind and its activities.—psycholog'ical a.—psycholog'ically adv.—psychol'ogist n. [Gk. psychē, the mind; lógos, a discourse].

psychopathology (sí-kō-pá-thol-ō-jí) n. the science or study of mental diseases.—psychopathy (sí-kop-fá-thí) n. minor mental affliction.—psychopath n. one so afflicted.—psychopathic a.

psychosis (sí-kō-sis) n. a general term for any disorder of the mind.—pl. psychoses [Gk. psychē, the mind].

psychosomatic (sí-kō-som-at'ík) a. of mind and body as a unit; treatment of physical diseases as having a mental origin [Gk. soma, body].

psychotherapy (sí-kō-ther'á-pl) n. the treatment of disease through the mind, e.g. by hypnotism, auto-suggestion, etc.—psychotherapeut'ic (ál) a.

ptarmigan (tár-mí-gan) n. a bird of the grouse family whose plumage turns white in winter [Gael. tarmachan].

ptero- (ter'ō) prefix fr. Gk. pteron, a wing.—pterodactyl (ter-ō-dak'tíl) n. extinct flying reptile with bat-like wings [Gk. daktylos, a finger].

Ptolemy (tol'e-mí) n. the name of a dynasty of Egyptian kings, from 323 to 30 B.C.; a famous Egyptian astronomer of the 2nd cent. A.D.—Ptolemaic (tol'e-má'ík) a. pert. to the Ptolemies, to the astronomer, or to his system.—Ptolemaic system, the system of astronomy which assumed the earth to be the centre of the universe, and stationary.—Ptolema'ist n.

ptomaine (tō-mán, to-mán') n. substance, usually poisonous, found in putrefying organic matter [Gk. ptōma, a corpse].

pub (pub) n. (Colloq.) a public-house.

puberty (pū-bér-ti) n. the earliest age at which an individual is capable of reproduction.

—puberal a.—pubescence (pū-bes'ens) n. the period of sexual development; puberty.—pubescent a. [L. pubertas, fr. pubes, adult].

public (pub'lik) a. of, or pert. to, the people, not private or secret; open to general use; accessible to all; serving the people;—a community or its members; a section of community.—publicly adv.—publican n. keeper of a public-house or inn; in ancient Rome, tax collector.—publication n. making known to the public; proclamation; printing a book, etc. for sale or distribution; a book, periodical, magazine, etc.—publicise v.t. to make widely known; to advertise.—publicist n. one versed in, or who writes on, international law, or matters of political or economic interest.—publicity (pub'li-si-ti) n. the state of being generally known, notoriety; advertisement.—public-house n. inn, or tavern for sale of alcoholic liquors for consumption on premises.—public prosecutor, the legal officer appointed to prosecute criminals in serious cases on behalf of the Crown.—public school, a large boarding-school, usually endowed, and managed by a board of governors, e.g. Eton, Harrow, etc.; an elementary or primary school, esp. in Scotland; a council-school [L. publicus, fr. populus, the people].

publish (pub'lish) v.t. to make generally known; to proclaim; to print and issue for sale (books, music, etc.); to put into circulation.—publisher n. [L. publicare, fr. populus, the people].

puce (pús) a. flea-coloured; brownish-purple;—n. the colour [Fr. = a flea].

Puck (puk) n. Robin Goodfellow, a mischievous elf in Midsummer Night's Dream.—puke 'ish a. [O.E. pucal].

puck (puk) n. a rubber quoit used instead of a ball in ice-hockey [etym. uncertain].

pucker (puk-er) v.t. and i. to gather into small folds or wrinkles; to wrinkle;—n. a wrinkle; a fold [fr. poke, a bag].

pudding (pú-ding) n. name of various forms of cooked foods, usually in a soft mass, served as a dessert; meat cooked in a covering of flour; a kind of sausage stuffed with blood meal, suet, and other ingredients; (Nawl.) a rope-fender.—pudd'ing-stone n. (Geol.) conglomerate rock made of rounded pebbles [Fr. boudin, black pudding].

puddle (pu'dl) n. a small pool of dirty water; a mixture of clay and water used as rough cement;—v.t. to make muddy; to line embankments, etc. with puddle; to stir about molten pig-iron to remove carbon and so make it fusible;—v.t. to make muddy.—pudd'ling n.—pudd'ler n. [O.E. pudd, a ditch].

puerile (pū-er-il) a. boyish; childish; foolish; silly. —pu'erilely adv. —puer'il'ity n. childishness; triviality [L. puer, a boy].

puerperal (pū-ŕ-ŕ-ŕ-ŕ-ŕ) a. pert. to, or caused by, child-birth. —puerperal fever (Med.) a fever developing after child-birth [L. puer, a child; parere, to bear].

puff (puf) n. a short blast of breath or wind; its sound; a small quantity of smoke, etc.; a whiff; a light pastry; a soft pad for applying powder; exaggerated praise, esp. in a newspaper; —v.i. to send out smoke, etc. in puffs; to breathe hard; to pant; to swell up; —v.t. to send out in a puff; to blow out; to smoke hard; to cause to swell; to praise unduly. —puff'er n. —puff'ing n. the act of praising unduly. —puff'ingly adv. —puff'y a. inflated; swollen; breathing hard. —puff'iness n. —puff-add'er n. a venomous African viper which inflates its body when disturbed. —puff'ball n. a ball-shaped fungus. —puff'paste n. a short, flaky paste for making light pastry [imit. origin].

puffin (puf'in) n. a sea-bird of the auk family with a parrot-like beak [M.E. pofin].

pug (pug) n. a small, snub-nosed dog; monkey; a fox; a shunting-locomotive. —pug-faced a. monkey-faced. —pug-nose n. a snub nose [etym. uncertain].

pug (pug) v.t. to make clay plastic by grinding with water; to fill in spaces with mortar in order to deaden sound; —n. clay prepared for brickmaking [etym. uncertain].

pugilism (pū-jil-lizm) n. the art of fighting with the fists; boxing. —pug'ilist n. a boxer. —pug'ilist'ie a. [L. pugil, a boxer, fr. pugnus, the fist].*

pugnacious (pug-nā'shūs) a. given to fighting; quarrelsome. —pugna'ciously adv. —pugna'ciousness n. inclination to fight; quarrelsomeness [L. pugnare, to fight].

puisse (pū'se) a. (Law) junior, or lower in rank [O.Fr. fr. L. post, after; natus, born].

puissant (pū-sānt, pwē'sānt) a. powerful; mighty. —pu'issantly adv. —pu'issance n. power [Fr. fr. L. potens, powerful].

puke (pūk) v.t. and i. to vomit [origin uncertain].

pukka (puk'kə) a. (Anglo-Ind.) of full weight; real; genuine [Hind. pukka, ripe].

pulchritude (pul-kri-tūd) n. beauty; comeliness [L. pulcher, beautiful].

pule (pūl) v.t. to chirp; to cry weakly; to whimper; to whine [imit. origin].

pull (pool) v.t. to draw towards one; to drag; to haul; to tug at; to pluck; to gather; to row a boat; —v.i. to draw with force; to tug; —n. act of pulling; force exerted by it; a tug; strain; effort; (Colloq.) influence, unfair advantage; (Print.) a rough proof; (Golf) a curving shot to the left. —pull'er n. —pull'over n. jersey put on by pulling over head [O.E. pūlian].

pullet (pool'tet) n. a young hen [Fr. poulet, dim. of poule, a hen].

pulley (pool'i) n. a small wheel with a grooved rim on which runs a rope, used for hauling or lifting weights [Fr. poulie].

Pullman-car (pūl'man-kār) n. a railway car adapted for sleeping; also one having individual seats. Also Pull'man [fr. G. M. Pullman (1831-97), the inventor].

pulmo- (pul'mō) prefix from L. pulmo, the lung. —pulmonary (pul'mō-nā-ŕi) a. pert. to, or affecting the lungs pulmon'ie a. pert. to, or affecting, the lungs.

pulp (pulp) n. a soft, moist, coherent mass of animal or vegetable matter; the soft, succulent part of fruit; the material of which paper is made; —v.t. to reduce to pulp; to remove the pulp from. —pul'py a. like pulp. —pul'piness n. [L. pulpa, flesh, pith].*

pulpit (pūl'pit) n. elevated place in a church for preacher; a desk [L. pulpitum, a stage].

pulsate (pul-sat, pul-sāt) v.t. to beat or throb, as the heart; to vibrate; to quiver. —pulse'tion n. a beating or throbbing. —pul'satile a. pulsat- ing; producing sounds by being struck, as a drum. —pul'sative, pul'satory a. capable of pulsating; throbbing [L. pulsare, to throb].

pulse (puls) n. the beating or throbbing of the heart or blood-vessels, esp. of the arteries; the place, esp. on the wrist, where this rhythmic beat is felt; any measured or regular beat. —v.t. to throb or pulsate [L. pulsus, beating].

pulse (puls) n. leguminous plants or their seeds, as beans, peas, etc. [L. puls, porridge].

pulverise (pul'ver-iz) v.t. to reduce to a fine powder; to smash or demolish; —v.i. to fall down into dust. —pulverisa'tion n. —pul'verizer n. —pulverisable (pul've-ri-zā-bl) a. that may be reduced to powder [L. pulvis, dust].

puma (pū'mā) n. a large American carnivorous animal of the cat family; the cougar; the American panther [Peruv.].

pumice (pū'mis, pū'mis) n. Also pum'ice-stone, a light, porous variety of lava, used for cleaning, polishing, etc. —pumiceous (pū-mis'shūs) a. [L. pumex].

pummel (pum'el) n. a pommel; —v.t. to pommel; to beat with the fists.

pump (pump) n. an appliance used for raising water, putting in or taking out air or liquid, etc.; —v.t. to raise with a pump, as water; to free from water by means of a pump; (Fig.) to extract information by artful questioning; —v.i. to work a pump; to raise water with a pump. —pump-room n. a room at a spa for patrons who drink the waters [Fr. pompe].

pump (pump) n. a low, thin-soled dancing shoe [Dut. pampoesje].

pumpkin (pum'kin) n. a plant of the gourd family; its fruit, used as food [O.Fr. pompon, fr. Gk. pepon, ripe].

pun (pun) n. a play on words similar in sound but different in sense; —v.t. to use puns. —pun'ster n. one who makes puns.

punch (punsh) n. a drink made of spirits or wine, flavoured with lemon-juice, sugar, and spice [Hind. panch, five (ingredients)].

punch (punsh) n. a tool used for making holes or dents; a machine for perforating tickets; —v.t. to perforate, dent, or stamp with a punch [Fr. poinçon, an awl, fr. L. pungere, to pierce].

punch (punsh) v.t. to strike with the fist; to beat; to bruise; of cattle, to drive; —n. a blow with the fist; (Slang) energy [Fr. punch].

punchoon (pun'shun) n. a large cask of varying capacity (72-120 gallons); a measure of this amount [Fr. poinçon].

punctate (punk'tāt) a. having many points; having dots scattered over the surface. Also punctated [L. pungere, to pierce].

punctillo (punk'til'ō) n. a fine point of etiquette; formality. —punctil'ious a. attentive to punctilios; strict in the observance of rules of conduct, etc.; scrupulously correct. —punctil'iously adv. —punctil'iousness n. [L. punctum, a point].

punctual (punk'tū-ŕi) a. arriving at the proper or fixed time; prompt; not late; (Geom.) pert. to a point. —punctually adv. —punctual'ity n. [L. punctum, a point].

punctuate (punk'tū-ŕi) v.t. to separate into sentences, clauses, etc. by periods, commas, colons, etc.; to emphasise in some significant manner; to interrupt at intervals. —punctua'tion n. the act or system of separating by the use of punctuation marks (the period, comma, colon, semi-colon, etc.) [L. punctum, a point].

puncture (punk'tūr) n. an act of pricking; a small hole made by a sharp point, esp. in a tyre; a perforation; —v.t. to make a hole with a sharp point [L. pungere, to prick].

pundit (pun'dit) n. a title given to a Hindu scholar; (Colloq.) any learned person; one who claims to be an authority [Hind. pundit].

pungent (pun'jent) a. sharply affecting the taste or smell; sharply painful; pricking; stinging; sarcastic; caustic. —pun'gently adv. —pun'gency n. [L. pungere, to prick].

Punio (pū'nik) a. fr. L. Punius, Carthaginian; hence pert. to the Carthaginians; faithless; treacherous; deceitful.

punish (pun'ish) v.t. to cause an offender to suffer for an offence; to inflict a penalty on; to chastise; to visit with bodily pain.

pun'ishable a. — pun'ishment n. penalty inflicted for a crime; chastisement; correction.

punitive (pū-ni-tiv) a. pert. to or inflicting punishment [L. punire, to punish].

punk (punk) n. crumbly, decayed wood; — a. worthless [etym. uncertain].

punkah, punka (pung'ka) n. in India, a large fan for cooling the air of a room [Hind. pankha, a fan].

punnet (pun'et) n. a small, shallow, chip basket for fruit [etym. unknown].

punt (punt) n. a flat-bottomed boat; — v.t. and i. to propel a boat by means of a pole. — punt'er n. [L. pons, pontis, a bridge].

punt (punt) v.t. and i. to kick a football, when dropped from the hands, before it touches the ground; — n. such a kick [etym. uncertain].

punt (punt) v.t. (Colloq.) to back horses. — punt'er n. [L. punctum, a point].

punny (pū-ni) a. small and feeble; petty. — pun'iness n. [O.Fr. puisne, fr. L. post natus, born after].

pup (pup) n. a puppy or young dog; a conceited, foppish fellow; — v.t. to bring forth puppies or whelps [short fr. puppy, fr. Fr. poupée, a doll or puppet].

pupa (pū-pa) n. the third stage in the metamorphosis of an insect, when it is in a cocoon; a chrysalis. — pl. pupae (pū-pā). — pu'pal a. — pu'pate v.i. to become a pupa [L. pupa, a girl, a doll].

pupil (pū-pil) n. a youth or scholar of either sex; a boy or girl under the age of puberty and so under the care of a guardian or tutor; a ward; the small circular opening in the centre of the iris of the eye, through which rays of light pass to the retina. — pu'pillage, pu'pillage n. the state of being a pupil; the period of time during which one is a pupil or minor. — pu'piliary, pu'pillary a. pert. to a pupil or ward; pert. to the pupil of the eye [L. pupillus, an orphan boy].

puppet (pup'et) n. a small figure with jointed limbs manipulated by wires; a marionette; a person whose actions are completely controlled by another. — pupp'etry n. a puppet-show; trivial dexterity [Fr. poupée, a doll; L. puppula].

puppy (pup'i) n. See pup.

purblind (pur'blind) a. almost blind; dull in understanding. — pur'blindly adv. — pur'blindness n. [fr. pure and blind].

purchase (pur'chas) v.t. to buy; to obtain by any outlay of labour, time, sacrifice, etc.; (Law) to obtain by any means other than inheritance; — n. acquisition of anything for a price or equivalent; a thing bought; any advantageous hold that may be secured in order to exert force. — pur'chaseable a. — pur'chaser n. — pur'chase-tax n. a percentage tax added to the retail price of certain articles [Fr. pourchasser, to obtain by pursuit].

purdah (pur'da) n. a curtain; the Indian system of secluding women [Hind.].

pure (pūr) a. free from all extraneous matter; untainted; spotless; blameless; unsullied; chaste; innocent; absolute; theoretical, not applied. — purely adv. entirely; solely. — pureness n. — pu'ry n. freedom from all extraneous matter; freedom from sin or evil; innocence; chastity [L. purus].

puree (pū-rē) n. a thick soup made from vegetables, meat, etc. boiled to a pulp and rubbed through a sieve [Fr.].

purfle (pur'd) n. a border of embroidered work; — v.t. to edge with embroidery or piping. — pur'fling n. an inlaid ornamental border on the edges of stringed instruments [L. pro, before; flum, a thread].

purge (purj) v.t. to purify; to cleanse; to clear out; to clear from guilt, accusation, or the charge of a crime, etc.; to remove from an organisation, political party, army, etc. undesirable or suspect members; to cleanse the bowels by taking a cathartic medicine; — n. a cleansing, esp. of the bowels; a purgative. — purgation (pur-gā'shun) n. act of cleansing or purifying; act of freeing from imputation of guilt; purging. — purgative (pur-gā-tiv) a. having the power of purging; — n. any medicine which will cause evacuation of bowels. — purgatory (pur-gā-tor-i) a. tending to cleanse; purifying; expiatory; — n. in R.C. faith, place where souls of dead are purified by suffering; (Fig.) a place or state of torment. — purgato'rial a. [L. purgare, fr. purus, pure].

purify (pū-rī-fi) v.t. to make pure, clear, or clean; to free from impurities; to free from guilt or defilement; — v.t. to become pure. — pr.p. pur'ifying. — pa.p. and pa.t. pur'ified. — purification (pū-rī-ni-kā'shun) n. the act of removing impurities; act of cleansing, esp. from guilt or sin. — pur'ificative a. — pur'ifier n. — pur'ificatory a. tending to cleanse. — pur'ifier n. [L. purus, pure; facere, to make].

purist (pū-rīst) n. an advocate of extreme care or precision in choice of words, etc.; a stickler for correctness, esp. of style [L. purus, pure].

Puritan (pū-rī-tan) n. a member of the extreme Protestant party, who desired further purification of the Church after the Elizabethan reformation. — pu'ritan a. a person of extreme strictness in morals or religion; a bigot; a kill-joy; — a. pert. to Puritans or to puritan. — puritan'ism (al) a. pert. to Puritans, their doctrine and practice; over-scrupulous. — puritan'ically adv. — pu'ritanism n. doctrine and practice of Puritans; narrow-mindedness; bigotry [L. puritas, purity, fr. purus].

purl (purl) n. an embroidered border; a knitting-stitch that is reverse of plain stitch; — v.t. to ornament with purls; — v.i. to knit in purl. Also pearl [fr. purle].

purl (purl) v.t. to flow with a bubbling sound or gentle murmur [imit. origin].

purlieu (pur'liu) n. ground bordering on something. — pur'lieus n.pl. outlying districts; outskirts [O.Fr. purallee, a survey].

purloin (pur-loin') v.t. to steal; to pilfer [O.Fr. purloigner, to put far away].

purple (pur'pl) n. a colour between crimson and violet obtained from a mixture of red and blue; robe of this colour, formerly reserved for royalty; hence royal dignity; — a. purple-coloured; dark-red; — v.t. to make or dye a purple colour; — v.t. to become purple. — born to the purple, of princely rank [Gk. porphura, shell-fish that gave Tyrian purple].

purport (pur-pōrt) n. meaning; apparent meaning; import; aim. — purport (pur-pōrt') v.t. to mean; to be intended to seem [O.Fr. porporter, to embody].

purpose (pur'pos) n. object in view; aim; end; plan; intention; effect; purport; — v.t. to intend; to mean to. — pur'posely adv. intentionally; deliberately. — pur'posely adv. determined; resolute. — pur'posely adv. — pur'posely a. aimless. — pur'posely adv. — pur'posely a. done with a purpose. — pur'poseness n. [O.Fr. porpos, fr. porposer, to propose].

purpura (pur'pū-ra) n. (Med.) the appearance of purple patches under the skin, caused by hæmorrhage; shell-fish, yielding purplish fluid. — pur'pura a. purple-coloured. — pur'pural (pur-pū-rā-l) a. purple. — pur'pule a. pert. to purpura [Gk. porphura]. See purple.

purr (pur) n. a low, murmuring sound made by a cat when pleased; — v.t. to utter such a sound [imit. origin].

purse (purs) n. a small bag or pouch to carry money in; money offered as a prize, or collected as a present; money; — v.t. to wrinkle up; to pucker. — purs'er n. (Naut.) officer in charge of accounts, etc. on board a ship. — purse'ful a. enough to fill a purse. — purse' strings n. pl. power to control expenditure [Fr. bourse, a purse, fr. Gk. bursa, a hide].

pursue (pur-sū) v. t. to follow with the aim of overtaking; to run after; to chase; to aim at; to seek; to continue;—v. i. to go on; to proceed; to prosecute at law.—pursuer n. one who pursues; (Scoth Law) the plaintiff.—pursuance n. the act of pursuing.—pursuant a. done in consequence, or performance, of anything.—pursuit (pur-sūt) n. the act of pursuing; a running after; chase; attempt to catch; profession; occupation.—pursuivant (pur-sū-vānt) n. an attendant; a state messenger; an officer of the College of Arms ranking below a herald [Fr. poursuivre, fr. L. prosequi, to follow].

pursy (pur-sī) a. small and stout; short-winded [O. Fr. polsif, fr. L. pulsare, to push].
putenance (pur-tē-nāns) n. that which pertains or belongs to; formerly, the intestines of a slaughtered animal [contr. fr. appurtenance].

pusulent (pū-rū-lent, pur-sū-lent) a. pert. to, containing, or discharging pus, or matter; septic; suppurating.—pusulences, pusulency n. [L. pus, puris, matter].

purvey (pur-vā) v. t. to furnish or provide; to supply, esp. provisions;—v. i. as a business, to supply provisions for others; to cater.—purveyance n. act of purveying; supplies; former royal prerogative of requisitioning supplies, or enforcing personal service.—purvey or n. [L. providere, to provide].

purview (pur-vū) n. a stipulation or condition; the enacting clauses of a statute; scope; range; limits [Fr. pourvue, provided].

pus (pus) n. the yellowish-white matter produced by supuration [L. pus, matter].

push (pōosh) v. t. to move or try to move away by pressure; to drive or impel; to press hard; to press or urge forward; to shove; to thrust;—v. i. to make a thrust; to press hard in order to move;—n. a thrust; any pressure or force applied; emergency; enterprise; (Mil.) an advance or attack on a large scale; (Colloq.) dismissal from a post, job, etc.—pusher n.—pushful, pushing a. given to pushing oneself or one's claims; self-assertive.—pushingly adv. [Fr. pousser, fr. L. pellere, to drive].

pusillanimous (pū-sī-lan-ī-mus) a. cowardly; timid; faint-hearted; mean-spirited.—pusillanimously adv.—pusillanimity n. [L. pusillus, very small; animus, spirit].

pus (pōos) n. a familiar name for a cat; a hare; a young girl.—pusy n. dim. of pus; a cat.—pus-in-the-corner n. a children's game (orig. a name to call a cat).

pusule (pus-tūl) n. a small swelling or pimple containing pus.—pus-tular, pus-tulous a. [L. pusula, a blister].

put (pōot) v. t. to place; to set; to lay; to apply; to state; to propose; to urge; to throw; to cast;—v. i. to place.—put, putting (pōot-ing).—put, put n.—put, put n. a throw, esp. of a heavy weight.—put about (Naut.) to alter a ship's course; to inconvenience; to make known. [Late O.E. putian].

putative (put-ā-tiv) a. commonly thought; supposed; reputed.—putatively adv.—putation n. [L. putare, to think].

putrefy (put-ē-re-fī) v. t. and i. to make or become rotten; to corrupt; to decompose; to rot.—put, put and put, put n.—putrefied.—putrefaction n. the process of putrefying; the rotting of animal or vegetable matter; rottenness; decomposition.—putrefactive a. pert. to or causing putrefaction.—putrescence n. tendency to decay; decay; rottenness.—putrescent a.—putrid (pū-trīd) a. in a state of decay; (Colloq.) very bad.—putridity, putridness n. [L. putere, to rot; facere, to make].

putsch (pōoch) n. a revolutionary outbreak; a rising; a coup d'état [Ger.].

putt (put) v. t. and i. (Golf) to hit a ball on the putting-green in the direction of the hole; (Scot.) to throw (a weight or iron ball) from the shoulder;—n. the stroke so made in golf; the throw of the weight.—putt n. one who putts; a short golf-club [var. of put].

puttee (put-ē) n. a strip of cloth wrapped spirally from ankle to knee, to act as a legging. Also put'tie [Hind. putti, a bandage].

putty (put-ī) n. a kind of paste or cement, of whiting and linseed-oil; a polishing powder of calcined tin, used by jewellers; a mixture of fine lime (without sand) and water, used by plasterers;—v. t. to fix, fill up, etc. with putty.—puttler n. [Fr. potée, the contents of a pot].

puzzle (puz-ī) n. a bewildering or perplexing question; a problem, etc. requiring clever thinking to solve it; a conundrum;—v. t. to perplex; to bewilder; (with 'out') to solve after hard thinking; (with 'over') to think hard over;—v. i. to be bewildered.—puzzler n.—puzzling a. bewildering; perplexing [fr. M.E. opposel, a question, interrogation].

pyaemia, pyemia (pi-ā-mī-ā) n. (Med.) blood-poisoning characterised by formation of abscesses [Gk. puon, pus; haima, blood].

pyedog (pi-ē-dog) n. stray mongrel; pariah dog. Also pie dog [Hind. phai, outsider].

Pygmy, Pigmy (pig-mī) n. one of a race of dwarf Negroes of C. Africa.—pl. Pygmies, Pig'mies.—pyg'my, pig'my n. a very small person or thing; a dwarf;—a. diminutive [Gk. pygmē, a measure of length from elbow to knuckles].

pyjamas (pi-, pi-ā-maz) n. pl. loose trousers, worn by Mohammedans; a sleeping-suit. Also pajamas [Pers. pacjamah, a leg garment].

pylon (pi-lon) n. the gateway of an ancient Egyptian temple; a large metal tower, to support power-transmission cables [Gk. pylōn, a gateway].

pyorrhoea (pi-o-rō-ā) n. (Med.) a discharge of pus; a dental disease characterised by the discharge of pus from the gums. Also pyorrhoea [Gk. puon, pus; rhoia, a flowing].

pyramid (pi-rā-mīd) n. a solid figure on a triangular, square, or polygonal base, and with sloping sides meeting at an apex; a structure of this shape, esp. the ancient Egyptian (usually with a square base);—n. pl. (Billiards) a game played with balls arranged in the form of a solid triangle.—pyramidal a. pert. to, or having the form of, a pyramid.—pyramidally adv. [Gk. pyramis].

pyre (pir) n. a pile of wood for burning a dead body; a funeral pile [Gk. pur, fire].

Pyrethrum (pi-rē-thrum) n. (Bot.) a genus of herbaceous perennial plants, including the fever-few [Gk. pur, fire].

pyretic (pi-rē-tik) a. (Med.) pert. to, producing, or relieving, fever; feverish.—pyrexia n. fever [Gk. pyretos, fever, fr. pur, fire].

pyrite (pi-rīt) n. a yellow mineral formed of sulphur and iron; iron pyrites.—pyrites (pi-rīt-ēz, pi-rīt-ā) n. pl. a name for many compounds of metals with sulphur or arsenic, esp. iron pyrites, or copper pyrites.—pyritous, pyritiferous, pyritous a. pert. to, or yielding, pyrites [Gk. pur, fire].

pyro- (pi-rō) prefix fr. Gk. pur, fire, used in many derivatives.—pyro-electricity n. the property possessed by some crystals, e.g. tourmaline, of becoming electrically polar when they are heated.

pyrography (pi-rō-grā-fī) n. the art of producing a design on wood by burning it in with a heated metal point; pokerwork [Gk. pur, fire; graphein, to write].

pyrolatry (pi-rō-lā-trī) n. fire-worship [Gk. pur, fire; latreia, worship].

pyromania (pi-rō-mā-nī-ā) n. a mania for setting things on fire.—pyromaniac n. [Gk. pur, fire; and mania].

pyrometer (pi-rō-mē-ter) n. an instrument for measuring high temperatures.—pyrometric, pyrometrical a. [Gk. pur, fire; metron, a measure].

pyrotechnics (pi-rō-tek-niks) n. pl. the art of making fireworks; the art of displaying them.

Also pyrotech'ny.—pyrotech'nic, pyrotech'nical a. [Gk. pur, fire; techné, art].

Pyrrhus (pí'r-rus) n. (Class. Hist.) King of Epirus (318-272 B.C.) who defeated Romans at Asculum, 279 B.C. but lost so many men that it originated the term, a Pyrrhic victory, one so costly as to be almost a defeat; an empty victory.

Pythagoras (pl-tha'gô-ras) n. a Greek philosopher and mathematician (582-507 B.C.).—Pythagore'an a. pert. to the philosopher or to his teaching.—n. a disciple of Pythagoras.

python (pí'thon) n. a large, non-poisonous snake that kills its prey by crushing it; a spirit; a soothsayer.—Py'thoness n. (Myth.) the priestess of Apollo at Delphi; a witch [Gk. Python, the serpent slain by Apollo near Delphi].

pyx (piks) n. the vessel in which the consecrated bread or Host is kept; a box at the Royal Mint, London, in which specimen coins are kept for trial and assay.—v.t. to test by assay.—pyx'is n. a small pyx; a casket [Gk. pyxis, fr. pyzos, a box-tree].

Q

Q-boat (kû'bôt) n. (World War 1) ship disguised as cargo or fishing vessel and carrying concealed guns, employed in anti-submarine warfare [Q = Query].

quack (kwak) v.t. to wobble like a duck; to act as a quack;—n. cry of duck or like sound, one who pretends to skill in an art esp. in medicine; a charlatan.—a. pert. to quackery.—quack'ery n.—quack'salver n. a quack doctor [imit.].

Quadragesima (kwod-ra-jes'i-ma) n. (Church) the season of Lent, because lasting for 40 days.—Quadrages'im'al a. pert. to Lent [L. quadragesimus, fortieth].

quadrangle (kwod-rang-gl) n. in geometry, a plane figure having four equal sides and angles; a square or court surrounded by buildings (abbr. quad.).—quadrang'ular a. [L. quattuor, four and angle].

quadrant (kwod-rant) n. the fourth part of the area of a circle; an arc of 90°; an instrument for taking altitude of heavenly bodies; in gunnery, an instrument to mark the degrees of a gun's elevation; in motoring, a metal arc forming a combined rack and index for operation of control levers [L. quadrans, a fourth part].

quadrate (kwod-rât) a. having four equal sides and four right angles; square; divisible by four (used chiefly in anatomical names);—n. a square;—quadrate' v.t. to square; to agree; to suit.—quadrat'io a. pert. to, or resembling a square; square; (Alg.) involving the second but no higher power of the unknown quantity. esp. in quadratic equation.—quadrature (kwod-rât-r) n. the act of squaring or reducing to a square; the position of one heavenly body with respect to another 90° away [L. quadratus, squared].

quadrennial (kwod-ren-i-gl) a. occurring once in four years; comprising four years.—quadrén'ially adv.—quadrén'ium n. four years [L. quattuor, four; annus, year].

quadrcentennial (kwod-ri-sen-ten-i-gl) a. pert. to a period of four hundred years;—n. the four hundredth anniversary [L. quattuor, four; centum, hundred; annus, a year].

quadrilateral (kwod-ri-lat-er-gl) a. having four sides;—n. (Geom.) a plane figure having four sides [L. quattuor, four; latus, side].

quadrille (ka-dríl', kwo-dríl') n. an 18th cent. game played by four persons with forty cards; a square dance; also, the music played to such a dance [Fr. through Sp. fr. L. quadrus, square].

quadrillion (kwo-drílyun) n. a million raised to the fourth power, represented by a unit with 24 ciphers annexed; in the French and U.S. notation, with 15 ciphers annexed [L. quattuor, four and milliō].

quadrinomial (kwod-ri-nô'mi-gl) a. (Alg.) consisting of four terms.

quadrupartite (kwod-ri-pár'tít) a. divided into four parts.

quadrirème (kwod-ri-rém) a. in ancient times, a galley with four benches of oars [L. quattuor, four; remus, an oar].

quadroon (kwod-rôon') n. offspring of mulatto and white; one who is one-fourth Negro [Sp. cuarterón, fr. L. quartus, fourth].

quadrumane (kwod-rôo-mán) n. an animal which has all four feet formed like hands.—quadru'manous a. four-handed [L. quattuor, four; manus, the hand].

quadruped (kwod-rôo-ped) n. an animal having four feet;—a. having four feet [L. quattuor, four; pes, pedis, a foot].

quadruple (kwod-rôo-pl) a. fourfold;—n. a fourfold amount; a sum four times as great as another.—v.t. to multiply by four;—v.i. to be multiplied by four.—quadruplet n. one of four children born at a birth; a bicycle for four.—quadru'plicate v.t. to multiply by four;—n. one of four things corresponding exactly;—a. fourfold.—quadruplifica'tion n. [L. quadruplus, fourfold].

quaff (kwaf) v.t. to swallow in large draughts;—v.i. to drink largely (etym. uncertain).

quag (kwag) n. a marshy spot; a bog.—quag'y a. spongy; boggy; like a quagmire.—quagmire (kwag-mír) n. soft, wet land, yielding under the feet; (Fig.) a difficult position [fr. quake].

quagga (kwag-ga) n. an African quadruped of the horse family, closely related to the zebra [Kafir].

quail (kwáil) n. a shallow, bowl-shaped drinking vessel (Gael. cuach, a cup).

quail (kwáil) v.t. to lose spirit; to shrink or cower, to flinch [Fr. caille, to curdle].

quail (kwáil) n. a game-bird allied to the partridge [Fr. caille].

quaint (kwánt) a. interestingly old-fashioned or odd; curious and fanciful; singular; whimsical.—quaint'ly adv.—quaint'ness n. [O. Fr. comie, prudent].

quake (kwák) v.t. to tremble or shake with fear, cold, or emotion; to quiver or vibrate;—n. a shaking or trembling; (abbr. of 'earthquake') [O.E. cwacian].

Quaker (kwa-ker) n. (tem. Qu'. eress) a member of the Society of Friends, a religious sect founded in the 17th cent. by George Fox, the name being first given to them by a judge whom Fox had bade 'quake before the Lord.'—Qua'kerism n.

qualify (kwol-i-fi) v.t. to ascribe a quality to; to describe (as), to fit for active service or office; to prepare by requisite training for special duty; to furnish with the legal title to; to limit; to diminish; to reduce the strength of, as liquors;—v.i. to make oneself competent; to render oneself fit for.—qual'ifier n.—qual'ifiable a.—qualifica'tion n. the act of qualifying or condition of being qualified; any endowment or acquirement that fits a person for an office or employment; abatement; modification; restriction; attribution of a quality [L. qualis, of what kind; facere, to make].

quality (kwol-i-ti) n. a particular property inherent in a body or substance; the essential attribute, or distinguishing feature, or characteristic of anything; character or nature; degree of excellence; excellence or superiority of character; rank or high birth.—qual'itative a. relating to quality; concerned with quality.—qual'itatively adv. [L. qualitas, fr. quais, of what kind].

qualm (kwám) n. a sudden attack of illness, faintness, nausea, distress; a scruple of conscience [Ger. Qualm, vapour].

quandary (kwon'da-ri, kwon-dä'ri) n. a state of perplexity; a predicament; a dilemma [etym. uncertain].

quantity (kwon'ti-ti) v.i. to fix or express the quantity of; to modify with respect to.—quantification n. [L. quantus, how much; facere, to make].

quantity (kwon'ti-ti) n. property of things ascertained by measuring; amount; bulk; a certain part; a considerable amount; number; (Pros.) the length or shortness of vowels, sounds, or syllables;—pl. abundance; profusion.—quantitative (kwon'ti-tä-tiv) a. relating to quantity.—quantity surveyor, a specialist estimator of the costs of erecting buildings, etc. [L. quantus, how much].

quantum (kwon'tum) n. a large quantity or amount; a specified, desired, or required amount; a sufficient amount.—quantum theory, in physics, the theory that energy transferences take place not continuously, but in bursts of a minimum quantity or quantum [L. quantus, how much].

quarantine (kwor'en-tën) n. the period (orig. forty days) during which a ship, with infectious disease aboard, is isolated;—v.i. to put under quarantine [Fr. quarantaine, forty days].

quarrel (kwor-el) n. rupture of friendly relations; an angry altercation; a dispute;—v.i. to dispute; to wrangle; to disagree.—pr.p. quarrelling.—pa.p. and pa.i. quarrelled.—quarreller n.—quarrelsome a. apt to quarrel; irascible; contentious [L. queri, to complain].

quarrel (kwor-el) n. a heavy square-headed arrow for a crossbow; a diamond-shaped pane of glass; a glazier's diamond [O. Fr. fr.L. quadrus, square].

quarry (kwor'i) n. an excavation whence stone is dug for building; any source from which material or (Fig.) information may be extracted;—v.i. to dig from a quarry.—pa.p. and pa.i. quarried [L. quadrare, to square, hew (stones)].

quarry (kwor'i) n. orig. the game hunted with hawks; the object of pursuit; prey; victim [O. Fr. cuirce, fr. L. corium, skin].

quart (kwort) n. the fourth part of a gallon; two pints [L. quartus, fourth].

quartern (kwor'tern) n. fourth part; in avoirdupois weight, fourth of 1 cwt., or 28 lb.; in dry measure, 8 bushels, as of grain; one of the four cardinal points of the compass; (Her.) one of the four parts into which a shield is divided by quartering; one limb of a quadruped with the adjacent parts; a term in a school, etc.; part of a ship's side aft of mainmast; a region; a territory; a division of a town, or county; merciful treatment or exemption from death granted to enemy;—pl. assigned position; lodgings, esp. for soldiers; shelter;—v.i. to divide into four equal parts; to divide up a traitor's body; to furnish with shelter; (Her.) to bear as an appendage to the hereditary arms; of game-dogs, to traverse the ground in all directions in search of game;—v.i. to have temporary residence.—quar'terning n. an assignment of quarters for soldiers; (Her.) the partition of a shield into compartments.—quar'terly a. consisting of a fourth part; occurring every quarter of a year;—n. a review or magazine published four times a year;—adv. by quarters; once in a quarter of a year.—quar'ter-day n. one of the four days in the year, when rents fall due.—quar'ter-deck n. part of deck of a ship which extends from stern to mainmast; (Fig.) the officers of a naval vessel.—quar'termaster n. (Mil.) an officer in charge of quarters, clothing, stores, etc.; (Naut.) a petty officer who attends to steering, signals, stowage, etc.—quar'termaster-sergeant n. the N.C.O. assistant to the quartermaster.—quar'ter-sessions n. court held quarterly by the justices of the peace.—quar'ter-staff n. a long, stout staff, formerly a weapon [L. quartarius, fr. quartus, fourth].

quartern (kwor'tern) n. orig. quarter of peck, stone, or pint; now generally used only in quartern-loaf, weighing four pounds [O. Fr. quartern, fr. L. quartus, fourth].

quartet, quartette (kwor-tet') n. (Mus.) a composition of four parts, each performed by a single voice or instrument; set of four who perform this; a stanza of four lines; a group of four [Fr.].

quarto (kwor'tô) a. denoting the size of a book in which the paper is folded to give four leaves to the sheet (abbrev. 4to);—n. a book of the size of the fourth of a sheet [L. in quarto, in a fourth part].

quartz (kworts) n. kinds of mineral, consisting of pure silica or silicon dioxide, found in massive and in hexagonal crystals [Ger. Quarz].

quash (kwosh) v.i. to crush; to quell; (Law) to annul, overthrow, or make void [L. quassare, to shake].

quasi (kwä'si, kwä'sä) as if; as it were; in a certain sense or degree; seeming; apparently; it is used as adj. or adv. and as prefix to noun, adj., or adv. [L.].

quassia (kwosh'i-a) n. S. American tree, the wood and bark of which yield a bitter decoction used as a tonic [fr. Negro Quassi, who discovered its value].

quatercentenary (kwor-ter-sen-tē'na-ri, kwä-ter-sen-ti-na-ri) n. a 400th anniversary [L. quater, four times].

quatern (kwot'ern) a. consisting of a set of four; growing by fours.—quaternary (kwot-er-na-ri) a. consisting of four; by fours; (Geol.) denoting strata more recent than the Upper Tertiary;—n. the number four [L. quaterni, four each, fr. quattuor, four].

quaternion (kwa-ter'ni-on) n. a set of four parts, objects, or individuals; (Math.) the quotient of two vectors; or of two directed right lines in space, considered as depending on four geometrical elements, and as expressible by an algebraic symbol of quadrinomial form;—pl. (Math.) the calculus of the quaternion [L. quaterni, four each, fr. quattuor, four].

quatrain (kwot'rān) n. (Pros.) a stanza of four lines, generally rhyming alternately [L. quattuor, four].

quaver (kwä'ver) v.i. to shake, tremble, or vibrate; to sing or play with tremulous modulations;—v.i. to utter or sing with quavers or trills;—n. a trembling, esp. of the voice; (Mus.) a note equal to half a crochet [etym. uncertain].

quay (kē) n. a landing-place used for the loading and unloading of ships; a wharf.—quay'age n. payment for use of a quay; space occupied by quays [Fr. quai].

queen (kwēn) n. an ill-beloved girl; (Scol.) a girl [O. E. cwene, a woman].

queasy (kwē'zi) a. affected with nausea; squeamish; fastidious.—queas'ily adv.—queasiness n. [etym. uncertain].

queen (kwēn) n. the consort of a king; a woman who is the sovereign of a kingdom; the sovereign of a swarm of bees; any woman who is pre-eminent; one of the chief pieces in a game of chess.—v.i. to act the part of a queen (usu. 'to queen it').—queen'ly a. like, appropriate to a queen; majestic.—queen-ness n.—queen-hood n. state or position of a queen.—queen-sake n. a small, light cake.—queen-bee n. fully-developed female of a hive; a radio-controlled plane used for anti-aircraft firing practice.—queen-con'sort n. the wife of a king.—queen-dow'ager n. the widow of a king.—queen-moth'er n. a queen-dowager who is also mother of reigning monarch.—queen-of-the-meadow n. the flower meadow-sweet.—queen-re'gent n. a queen who reigns as regent.—queen-reg'nant n. a queen reigning in her own right.—Queen's Bench, one of the three divisions of the English High Court of Justice, hearing mainly common law actions.—Queen's Counsel, an honorary distinction conferred on eminent barristers giving them precedence in courts and the right to wear a silk gown (hence, to take silk).—Queen's Messenger, a courier appointed by Foreign Office to carry despatches to its representatives in foreign capitals, the silver greyhound being the badge of office.—Queen's Proctor, the Treasury solicitor who may intervene to stop decrees nisi in divorce being made absolute.—Queen's Regulations, the official regulations for the organisation of the British Army or Navy [O.E. cwen, a woman].

Queensberry (kwēnz'ber-l) a. applied to the 'Rules of Boxing,' originally drawn up by the Marquess of Queensberry (1844-1900), a famous patron of the sport.

queer (kwēr) a. odd; singular; quaint; of a questionable character; open to suspicion; faint or out of sorts.—v.t. (Slang) to spoil.—queerly adv.—queerly adj. a somewhat queer.—queerness n.—in Queen Street (Slang) in trouble or difficulty, esp. financially [Ger. quer, athwart, crosswise].

quell (kwel) v.t. to subdue; to put down; to suppress forcibly [O.E. cwellan, to kill].

quench (kwēnsh) v.t. to extinguish; to put out, as fire or light; to cool or allay; to repress; to stifle; to slake (thirst);—v.i. to become cool.—quenchable a.—quenchless a.—quench'er n. that which quenches; (Slang) a drink [O.E. cwēncan].

Quercus (kwēr'kūs) n. a genus of trees, containing the oaks.—quercine (kwēr'sin) a. [L. quercus, an oak].

quern (kwēr'n) n. a primitive handmill for grinding grain [O.E. cwern].

querulous (kwēr'ū-lūs) a. peevish; fretful; whining; discontented.—querulously adv.—querulousness n. [L. queri, to complain].

query (kwēr'i) n. a question; an inquiry; a mark of interrogation;—v.t. to inquire into; to call in question; to mark as of doubtful accuracy;—v.i. to express doubt [L. quaerere to seek or inquire].

quest (kwēst) n. search; the act of seeking; the thing sought;—v.t. to search; to seek [L. quaerere, quaestum, to seek].

question (kwēst'yūn) n. interrogation; inquiry; that which is asked; subject of inquiry or debate; (subject of) dispute; a matter of doubt or difficulty; a problem;—v.t. to inquire of by asking questions; to be uncertain of; to challenge; to take objection to; to interrogate;—questionable a. doubtful; suspicious.—questionably adv.—questionableness n.—questioner n.—question-mark n. a mark of interrogation.—out of the question, not to be thought of.—to beg the question, to assume as fact something which is to be proved [L. quaestio, fr. quaerere, to seek, ask].

questionnaire (kwēst'ion-ār) n. a list of questions drawn up for formal answer, and submitted in general to a series of individuals or bodies, with a view to establishing statistics. Also questionary [Fr.].

queue (kū) n. the tie of a wig; a pig-tail; a file of people awaiting their turn to be attended to;—v.t. to dress hair in a queue;—v.i. to form or join a queue [Fr. fr. L. cauda, a tail].

quibble (kwib'l) n. an evasion of the point in question by a play upon words, or by stressing unimportant aspect of it; an equivocation or pretence;—v.t. to use quibbles; to trifle in argument.—quibbler n. [dim. of obs. quib].

quick (kwik) a. alive; living; smart; animated; sprightly; ready or prompt; sensitive; rapid; hasty; impatient; fresh and invigorating; pregnant;—n. sensitive flesh under nails; part of the tissue keenly susceptible to pain; (Fig.) one's tenderest susceptibilities; living plants collectively.—adv. also quickly, rapidly; speedily; promptly; with haste.—quickness n.—quick'en v.t. to make alive; to make active or sprightly; to hasten; to sharpen or stimulate;—v.i. to become alive; to move with greater rapidity.—quick'en'ern.—quick'en'ing n. a making or becoming quick; first movement of foetus in womb.—quick'lime n. unslaked lime, any carbonate of lime, as chalk, limestone, oyster-shells, etc. deprived of its carbonic acid.—quick'sand n. sand, readily yielding to pressure, esp. if loose and mixed with water.—quick'set n. a living plant, esp. hawthorn, planted as a hedge;—a. formed, as a hedge, of living plants.—quick'silver n. mercury.—quick'step n. a march at rate of 120 paces a minute; a lively dance; a quick fox-trot [O.E. cwic, alive].

quid (kwid) n. a portion suitable for chewing, esp. of tobacco; a cud [form of cud].

quid (kwid) n. (Slang) a pound sterling.—pl. quid [etym. unknown].

quiddity (kwid'i-ti) n. a trifling nicety; a quibble; the essence of anything; a subtlety [L. quidditas fr. quid, what?].

quidnunc (kwid'nungk) n. a gossip; a busy-body [L. = what now?].

quiesce (kwī'es) v.t. to become still or silent.—quiescent (kwī'es-sēnt) a. still; inert; motionless; at rest.—quiescently adv.—quiescence, quiescency n. [L. quiescere, to rest].

quiet (kwī'et) a. still; peaceful; not agitated; placid; of gentle disposition; not showy;—n. calm; peace; tranquility;—v.t. to reduce to a state of rest; to calm; to allay or appease; to soothe;—v.i. to become quiet.—quiet'en v.t. and i. to quiet.—quietly adv.—quietness n.—quietude n. freedom from noise, disturbance, alarm; tranquillity; repose.—quietus (kwī'ēt-us) n. final acquittance, of debt, etc.; (Fig.) extinction [L. quietus].

quietism (kwī'et-izm) n. a mystic religious doctrine, based on the theory that Christian perfection is attained by the passive contemplation of God [L. quies, rest].

quiff (kwif) n. curl plastered down on a man's forehead [possibly conn. with coil].

quill (kwil) n. a large, strong, hollow feather of the goose, swan, crow, etc.; this used as a pen; a pen; a spine or prickle, as of a porcupine; a piece of small reed on which weavers wind thread; the tube of a musical instrument; an implement for striking the strings of certain instruments;—v.t. to plait or form into small ridges [etym. uncertain].

quilt (kwilt) n. bed-coverlet made of two pieces of material sewn together, filled with padding and stitched across in patterns; any thick, warm coverlet;—v.t. to stitch together, like a quilt, with a soft filling; to pad [L. calciata, a cushion].

quinary (kwī'n-ā-rī) a. consisting of, or arranged in, fives [L. quinque, five].

quince (kwins) a. a hard, yellow, acid fruit, somewhat like an apple [Fr. coing; L. cydonium; fr. Cydonia, a city in Crete].

quincenary (kwīn-sen-tē-n-ā-rī, kwīn-sen-tē-n-ā-rī) n. a five-hundredth anniversary. Also quingente'nary [L. quinque, five; centum, a hundred].

quincunx (kwīn'kunks) n. an arrangement, esp. of trees, by fives, one being placed at each corner and one in the middle of a square.—quincunxial a. [L.].

quinine (kwī-nēn, kwī-nīn') n. a bitter alkaloid obtained from various species of cinchona bark; it is used as a tonic and febrifuge.—quin'ic a. [Peruv. kina, bark].

quinq(u)e- (kwīn'kw(e)) prefix fr. L. quinque, five.

quinqagesima (kwīn-kwa-jes'i-mā) n. a period of fifty days.—Quinqagesima Sunday, the Sunday before Ash Wednesday, so called because fifty days before Easter [L. quingagesimus, fiftieth].

quinquennial (kwīn-kwen'i-āl) a. occurring once in five years, or lasting five years.—quinquennally adv.—quinquenn'ial, quinquenn'ium n. a period of five years [L. quinque, five; annus, a year].

quinquereme (kwīn'kwe-rēm) n. an ancient galley with five tiers of rowers [L. quinque, five; remus, an oar].

quinsy (kwín-sí) n. a severe inflammation of the throat accompanied by fever and supuration of the tonsils [Gk. kunanché, fr. kuón, a dog; anchein, to choke].

quintal (kwín-tál) n. a weight of 100 or 112 lb.; a hundredweight; the modern French quintal is 100 kilograms, i.e. 220 lbs. [Fr. through Arab. fr. L. centum, a hundred].

quintessence (kwín-tés-éns) n. among the Pythagoreans, the fifth essence in natural bodies, in addition to the four elements, earth, air, fire, water; the pure essence of anything; essential part of a thing.—quintessen'tial a. [L. quinta essentia, fifth essence].

quintet, quintette (kwín-tet') n. (Mus.) a composition for five voices or instruments; a company of five singers or players; a set of five [L. quintus, fifth].

quintillion (kwín-tíl-yún) n. a number produced by involving a million to the fifth power; a unit with 30 ciphers following; in French and American notation, a unit with 18 ciphers [fr. L. quintus, fifth, and after the analogy of billion].

quintuple (kwín-tú-pl) a. multiplied by five; fivefold;—v.t. to make fivefold; to multiply by five.—quín'tuplet n.pl. five children at a birth [Colloq. quins] [fr. L. quintus, fifth, by limit, of quadruple].

quip (kwíp) n. a smart, sarcastic turn of phrase; a gibe; a witty saying [L. quippe, forsooth (ironical)].

quire (kwír) n. See choir.

quire (kwír) n. 24 sheets of writing-paper, the twentieth part of a ream; twenty-four sheets of the same size, each having a single fold [O.Fr. quaier, fr. L. quaduor, four].

quirk (kwérk) n. sudden turn or twist; artful evasion; quibble; a witty saying; knack.—quirk'ish a.—quirk'y a. [etym. uncertain].

quirt (kwért) n. a kind of riding-whip [Sp. cuerda, a rope].

Quisling (kwíz-ling) n. Vidkun Quisling (1887-1945) Norwegian politician and head of puppet government during German occupation of Norway (1940-45).—quís'ling n. a treacherous betrayer of one's country; a collaborator with an enemy.

quit (kwít) v.t. to depart from; to leave; to cease from; to give up; to let go; to conduct (oneself) [Arch.] to requite; to satisfy a claim; [Arch.] to acquit;—v.i. to depart; to stop doing a thing;—a. released from obligation; free.—pr.p. quitt'ing.—pa.p. and pa.t. quitt'ed.—quít'tance n. discharge from a debt of obligation; acquittance; receipt; requital.—quít'ter n. (Colloq.) a person easily discouraged.

—quít'trent n. a rent paid by a landholder in lieu of service.—to be quits, to be equal with another person by repayment (of money, of good, or evil) [O.Fr. quiter, fr. L. quietare, to calm].

quitch-grass (kwích-grás) n. dog-grass or couch-grass [form of quick].

quite (kwít) adv. completely; wholly; entirely; totally; to a considerable extent; positively [M.E. quite, free].

quiver (kwív-ér) n. a case or sheath for holding arrows.—quív'erful n. (Fig.) a numerous family [O.Fr. cuivre, fr. Ger.].

quiver (kwív-ér) v.t. to shake with a tremulous motion; to tremble; to shiver;—n. the act of quivering; a tremor; a shiver [O.E. cwiſer, to risk].

qui vive! (ká-vé-v') n. who goes there! the challenge of a French sentinel.—to be on the qui vive, to be on the alert [Fr. = long live who! i.e. on whose side are you?].

Quixote (kwík-sót) n. the hero of the great romance of Miguel Cervantes (1547-1616).—quixó'tic a. like Don Quixote; ideally and extravagantly romantic.—quixó'tically adv.—quix'otism,—quix'otry n.

quis (kwís) n. a puzzle or riddle; a hoax or jest; one who quizzes others; an odd or eccentric person; a game in which two sides answer questions on general knowledge.—pl. quíz'es.—v.t. to puzzle; to tease; to eye rudely or contemptuously; to interrogate.—quíz'er n.—quíz'ical a.—quíz'sing-glass n. a monocle [etym. unknown].

quod (kwód) n. a quadrangle or court, as in a prison; hence (Slang), a prison.

quoll (kólf) n. See coif.

quoins (kóin) n. (Archit.) the external angle, esp. of a building; a corner-stone: (Gun.) a metallic wedge inserted under the breech of a gun to raise it; (Print.) a small wooden wedge used to lock the types in the galley, etc. [Fr. coin, a corner].

quoit (kóit) n. a flat, iron ring to be pitched at a fixed object in play;—pl. game of throwing these on to a peg;—v.t. to play at quoits [etym. unknown].

quondam (kwón-dám) a. former; that was once; sometime [L. = formerly].

quorum (kwó-rum) n. the number of members that must be present at a meeting to make its transactions valid [L.].

quota (kwó-tá) n. a proportional part or share [L. quol, how many?].

quote (kwót) v.t. to copy or repeat a passage from; to cite; to state a price for;—n. (Slang) a quotation;—pl. quotation marks.—quótation (kwó-tá-shun) n.—quótation-marks n.pl. marks used to indicate beginning and end of a quotation [Late L. quolare, to distinguish by numbers, fr. L. quol, how many?].

quoth (kwóth) v.t. said; spoke (used only in the 1st and 3rd persons) [O.E. cwæthan, to say].

quotidian (kwó-tíd-i-án) a. daily.—n. thing returning daily, esp. fever [L. quotidie, daily].

quotient (kwó-si-ént) n. number resulting from division of one number by another [L. quotiens, how many times?].

R

rabbet (rab'et) n. a groove made so as to form, with a corresponding edge, a close joint;—v.t. to cut with such an edge [O.Fr. raboler, to plane].

rabbi (rab'í), rabbi', rabbín (rab'in) n. a Jewish teacher of the Law.—rabbín'ic(al) [Heb. = my master].

rabbit (rab'it) n. a small, burrowing rodent mammal, like the hare, but smaller; (Slang) a duffer; a poor performer at sport;—v.t. to hunt rabbits.—rabb'it-hutch n. a box for rearing tame rabbits.—rabb'itry, rabb'it-warr'en n. the breeding-place of wild rabbits [etym. uncertain].

rabble (rab'í) n. a noisy, disorderly crowd; the common herd;—v.t. to mob; to hustle.—rabb'lement n. tumult; rabble [etym. unknown].

rabdomancy (rab'do-mán-sí) n. divination by rods or wands [Gk. rhabdos, rod; manteia, divination].

Rabelaisian (rab-e-lá-zí-án) a. pert, to Rabelais (c. 1495-1553), exuberantly and coarsely humorous.

rabid (rab'id) a. furious; fanatical; affected with rabies.—rab'idly adv.—rab'idness, rab'id'ity n. [L. rabidus].

rabies (rá-béz) n. canine madn-ess; hydrophobia.—ra-bíous a. raging; furious [L. fr. rabere, to be mad].

raccoon, racoon (rá-kóon') n. one of a genus of plantigrade carnivorous mammals of N. America, of the bear family [Algonquin].

race (rás) n. the descendants of a common ancestor; distinct variety of human species; a peculiar breed, as of horses, etc.; lineage; descent.—ra'sial a. pert. to race or lineage.

rac'ially adv.—ra'sialism, race-bat'tled n. animosity shown to peoples of different race [It. razza].

race (rās) n. running; swift progress; rapid motion; a contest involving speed; a strong current of water esp. leading to a water-wheel which it drives; the steel rings of an anti-friction ball-bearing; —v.t. to cause to run rapidly; —v.i. to run swiftly; of an engine, pedal, etc., to move rapidly and erratically. —ra'cer n. one who races; a racehorse, yacht, car, etc., used for racing. —race'course, race-ground n. ground for horse-races. —race'horse n. a horse bred to run for a stake or prize. —race-track n. a track used for dog-racing. —rac'ing n. (O.N. ras, a swift course).

raceme (ra'sēm) n. an inflorescence in which the flowers are produced on subsidiary branches borne on the main stem, as in the fox-glove. —racemed' a. having racemes [L. racemus, a cluster].

rachis (rā'kis) n. an axial structure, such as vertebral column in animals, the stem of a plant, a quill, etc. —pl. ra'chides. —rachit'ic a. rickety. —rachitis [ra-kī'tis] n. rickets [Gk. rachis, the spine].

rack (rak) n. an instrument for stretching; an instrument of torture by which the limbs were racked to point of dislocation; hence, torture; an open framework for displaying books, bottles, hats, baggage, etc.; a framework in which hay is lugged; a straight cogged bar to gear with a toothed wheel to produce linear motion from rotary motion, or vice-versa; —v.t. to stretch almost to breaking point; to overstrain; to torture; to extort excessive rent; to place in a rack. —racked a. —rack'ing a. agonising (pain). —rack'rent n. an excessive rent [L. rack, fr. rekken, to stretch].

rack (rak) n. thin, driving clouds; rain; destruction; —v.i. to drift, as vapour [Scand. rak, wreck, drift].

racket, racquet (rak'et) n. bat used in tennis, etc.; —pl. a ball game played in a paved court with walls; a snow-shoe [Fr. raquette].

racket (rak'et) n. a confused, clattering noise; din; an occupation by which much money is made illegally; —v.t. to make noise or clatter. —racketeer n. U.S. slang for one who blackmails business men; a gangster [etym. uncertain].

raccoon See raccoon.

racquet See racket.

racy (rā'si) a. having a strong flavour; spicy; pungent. —ra'cily adv. —ra'ciness n.

radar (rā'dār) n. radiolocation or apparatus used in it (fr. initial letters of radio, detection, and ranging).

raddle (rad'dl), redde (red'dl) n. a form of red ochre; —v.t. to mark sheep with raddle; to paint with rouge. —radd'ler n. [fr. ruddle].

raddle (rad'dl) v.t. to interweave; to beat; —n. a fence made of interwoven branches [etym. uncertain].

radial (rā'di-əl) a. pert. to a ray, radius, or radium; branching out like spokes of a wheel [L. radius, a ray].

radial (rā'di-an) n. in plane trigonometry the unit of circular measure, the angle subtended at the centre of a circle by an arc equal in length to the radius (= 57°.3').

radiant (rā'di-ant) a. emitting rays; beaming; radiating; —n. (Astron.) point in sky from which a shower of meteors appears to come; (Opt.) luminous point from which rays of light emanate. —ra'diance, ra'diancy n. radiant intensity; brilliancy; splendour. —ra'diantly adv. [L. radius, a ray].

radiate (rā'di-āt) v.t. to branch out like the spokes of a wheel; to emit rays; to shine; —v.i. to emit rays, as heat, etc. —a. formed of rays diverging from a centre; radially symmetrical. —radia'tion n. emission and diffusion of rays from central point. —ra'diator n. any device which radiates or emits rays of heat or light; apparatus for heating rooms by means of steam or hot water; in motoring, apparatus to split up and cool circulating water in water-cooling system [L. radius, a ray].

radical (rad'ī-kəl) a. pert. to the root; original; basic; complete; thorough; of extreme or advanced liberal views; —n. a root; a primitive word; a politician who advocates thorough reforms; (Chem.) a basal atomic group of elements which passes unchanged through a series of reactions of the compound of which it is a part; (Bot.) a radicle; a rootlet; (Math.) a quantity expressed as the root of another. —Rad'icalism n. root and branch political reform. —rad'ically adv. —rad'icalness n. [L. radix, a root].

radicle (rad'ī-kl) n. (Med.) the initial fibril of a nerve; (Bot.) the primary root of an embryo plant; any rootlet [L. radix, a root].

radio- (rā'di-ō) prefix used in formation of compound terms referring to the radius of the forearm. —ra'dio-car'pal a. pert. to radius and wrist. —ra'dio-mus'cular a. pert. to radius and muscles. —ra'dio-ul'nar a. pert. to radius and ulna [L. radius, a ray].

radio- (rā'di-ō) prefix used in the formation of compound terms with the meaning 'of rays,' 'of radiation,' 'of radium,' as in —ra'dio-ac'tive a. emitting invisible rays which penetrate matter —ra'dio-ac'tivity n. —ra'dio-el'ement n. metallic chemical element having radio-active properties. —ra'diograph n. an instrument for measuring and recording the intensity of the heat given off by the sun. a photograph taken by means of Röntgen rays. —radiog'rapher n. —radiog'raphy n. —radiol'o'gy n. the science of radio-activity in medicine. —radiol'ogist n. —radio'scopy n. examination by X-rays. —radiother'apy, ra'diotherapeu'tics n. treatment of disease by radium or X-rays [L. radius, a ray].

radio (rā'di-ō) n. wireless telephony or telegraphy; wireless; broadcasting; apparatus for reception of broadcast; a radio telegram. —ra'diogram n. a telegram transmitted by radio; a combination of radio receiver and gramophone. —ra'dio-loca'tion n. system of locating targets by reflecting radio short-wave beams from their surfaces so as to appear illuminated on a screen; also known as radar [L. radius, a ray].

radish (rad'ish) n. an annual herb with pungent edible root [L. radix, a root].

radium (rā'di-um) n. a metallic, radio-active element which undergoes spontaneous disintegration, giving off corpuscular and wave radiations [L. radius, a ray].

radius (rā'di-us) n. a straight line from centre of circle to circumference; the spoke of a wheel; a ray, distance from any one place; the bone on the thumb side of forearm; movable arm of a sextant. —pl. rad'ii (L. = a ray).

radix (rā'diks) n. a root; source; origin; a radical; (Anat.) the point of origin of a structure, as the root of a tooth; (Math.) fundamental base of system of logarithms or numbers [L. = root].

radon (rā'don) n. a gaseous, radio-active element, formed by the disintegration of radium, formerly known as niton; radium emanation.

raff (raf) n. a promiscuous heap; the mob; a worthless fellow. —raf'fah a. —cf. riff-raff [O. Fr. raffer, to snatch].

raffia (rā'fi-ə) n. the fibre from a cultivated palm used for mats, baskets, etc. Also ra'phis [Native].

raffie (raf'ī) n. a lottery in which several persons subscribe towards or beyond the value of an article, the ultimate possessor being decided by lot; —v.t. to sell by raffie. —raff'lar n. (orig. a dicing game, Fr. raffel).

raft (raft) n. an improvised float of planks fastened together; a mass of logs chained together for easy transportation down a river; —v.i. to proceed by raft (O.N. raþr).

rafter (raft'er) n. a sloping beam, from the ridge to the eaves, to which the roof-covering is attached;—v.i. to provide with rafters [O.E. raefter].

rag (rag) n. a fragment of cloth; a remnant; a patch; (Slang) a newspaper;—pl. mean or tattered attire;—a. made of rags.—rag's—rag's—muffin n. a ragged, dirty and disreputable person.—rag's—rag's—man, rag's—plucker n. one who collects rags.—rag's—rag's n. the rabble; riff-raff.—rag's—time n. popular dance music, of Negro origin, marked by strong syncopation;—a. farcical.—rag's—wort n. a common roadside plant with bright, yellow flowers [O.E. ragg].

rag (rag) v.i. to tease; to torment; to play practical jokes on; to nag;—v.i. to be noisy and riotous.—pr.p. ragging.—pa.t. and pa.p. ragged.—n. a disorderly row (esp. by university students) (etym. uncertain).

rage (rāj) n. violent excitement; extreme anger; craze; fashion;—v.i. to be furious with anger; to rave; to proceed violently and without check (as a storm, battle, etc.).—ra's—ging a.—ra's—gingly adv. [Fr. fr. L. rabies, madness].

ragged (rag-ed) a. worn to tatters; dressed in rags; jagged; slipp-shod; imperfectly performed; not rhythmical.—raggedly adv.—raggedness n.—ragged robin, the cuckoo-gillyflower, a crimson-flowered wild plant, with a reddish hairy stem.

raglan (rag-lan) n. an overcoat with wide sleeves running up to the neck, not to the shoulders [fr. Lord Raglan, 1788-1855].

ragout (ra-goo') n. fragments of meat, stewed and highly seasoned; a hash [Fr.].

raid (rād) n. a hostile incursion depending on surprise and rapidity; surprise visit by police to suspected premises; an attack on a town by hostile aircraft;—v.i. to make a sudden attack upon.—raid'er n. [var. of road].

rail (rāl) n. a piece of timber or metal extending from one post to another, as of a fence or balustrade; bars of steel on which the flanged wheels of vehicles run; a track for locomotives; a railway; a horizontal bar for support; top of ship's bulwarks;—v.i. to enclose with rails; to send by railway.—rail's—chair n. an iron piece fastened to a sleeper and holding a rail in position.—rail's—head n. farthest point to which rails have been laid; (Mil.) a railway depot.—rail's—ing n. material for rails;—pl. an open iron-protection or form of fence of upright iron-bars joined by horizontal bars.—rail's—road n. railway.—rail's—way n. a road on which steel rails are laid for wheels to run on; a system of such rails [O. Fr. reille, fr. L. regula, a rule].

rail (rāl) n. wading-birds including land-rail or corn-crake; water-rail, oot and moor-hen [Fr. rdle].

rail (rāl) v.t. to use insolent and reproachful language; to utter abuse; to reproach.—rail'er n.—rail's—lery n. good-humoured banter; chaff; ridicule; rallying [Fr. railler].

raiment (rā-mēnt) n. clothing; dress; apparel [for arment, fr. array].

rain (rain) n. condensed moisture, falling in drops from clouds; a shower;—v.i. and v.t. to fall as rain; to pour down like rain.—rain's—bow n. arch showing seven prismatic colours and formed by refraction and reflection of sun's rays in falling rain in part of sky opposite sun.—rain's—cloud n. a nimbus.—rain's—coat n. a light, rainproof overcoat.—rain's—fall n. a fall of rain; the amount of rain, in inches, or centimetres, which falls in a particular place in a given time.—rain's—gauge n. an instrument for the scientific measuring of rainfall.—rain's—iness n.—rain's—less a.—rain's—proof a. impervious to rain.—n. an over-garment from shower-proof cloth.—rain's—storm n.—rain's—tight a. impervious to rain.—rain's—ing a. [O.E. regn].

raise (rās) v.t. to cause to rise; to elevate; to promote; to build up; to collect; to produce by cultivation; to rear; to institute; to levy; to enliven; to give up (stage); to lighten (voice);—n. an ascent; (Collog.) an increase in wages.—raise's—able a.—raised a. elevated.—raise's—ing n.—to raise Cain, a dust, the devil, hell, etc., to make a scene.—to raise the wind, to obtain ready-money [O.N. reisa].

raisin (rā-zin) n. a dried grape [O. Fr. raisin fr. L. racemus, a bunch of grapes].

raj (raj) n. sovereignty; rule; dominion.—ra's—jah, ra's—ja n. king, prince, or noble of Hindu race [Hind. raja].

rake (rāk) n. a long-handled implement with a cross-bar toothed for smoothing earth, gathering leaves, etc.; an agricultural machine used in hay-making;—v.i. and v.t. to scrape with a toothed implement; to draw together, as mown hay; to sweep or search over; to ransack; to scour; to fire shot lengthwise into a ship, etc.—a. rake off (Collog.) a monetary commission, esp. if illegal [O.E. raca].

rake (rāk) n. a dissolute man of fashion; a libertine.—rake's—hell n. a debauched fellow; a rōuf.—ra's—kish a.—ra's—kishly adv. [M.E. rakel, corrupt, of rake-hell].

rake (rāk) n. an angle of inclination; the inclination of masts from the perpendicular; the projection of the upper parts of the stem and stern beyond the keel of a ship;—v.i. to incline from perpendicular.—ra's—kish a. having a backward inclination of the masts; stylish or speedy-looking.—ra's—kishly adv. [Scand. raka, to reach].

rally (rali) v.i. and v.t. to re-assemble; to collect and restore order, as troops in confusion; to recover (strength, health); to return a ball (in tennis).—pr.p. rallying.—pa.t. and pa.p. rallied.—n. act of rallying; assembly; outdoor demonstration; lively exchange of strokes in tennis [Fr. rallier].

rally (rali) v.t. to attack with artillery; to tease;—n. banter [Fr. rallier].

ram (ram) n. male sheep; a tup; a swinging beam with a metal head for battering; a hydraulic engine; a beak projecting from bow of warship; (Astron.) Aries, one of the signs of zodiac;—v.i. to consolidate loose material with a rammer; to drive against with violence; to butt; to cram; to press down.—pr.p. ramming.—pa.t. and pa.p. rammed [O.E. ram].

Ramadan (ram-a-dān) n. the ninth month of the Mohammedan year, when Moslems may not eat between dawn and sunset. Also Ram'adhan, Rham'asan [Ar. = the hot month].

ramble (ram-bl) v.t. to walk without definite route; to talk or write incoherently;—n. a short stroll or walk.—rambler n. one who rambles; a climbing-rose.—rambling a. wandering (etym. uncertain).

rambustious (ram-bus'tyus) a. (Slang) boisterous; noisy. Also rambunctious.

ramify (ram-i-fi) v.t. and v.i. to branch out in various directions.—pa.p. ramified.—ramification n. a branch; any sub-division proceeding from a main structure [L. ramus, a branch; facere, to make]. [rams [fr. ram].

rammer (ram-er) n. one who, or that which, rambles, rambous (rā-mūs, -mus) a. branched, as a stem or root; consisting of branches [L. ramus, a branch].

ramp (ramp) v.t. to climb, as a plant; to creep up; to leap; to rear up on hind legs; to frolic; to rage;—n. a leap; a bound; a romp; a gradual slope; mechanical device for lifting bodily motor cars, etc. from ground [Fr. rampier to climb].

ramp (ramp) n. a bare-faced swindle (etym. uncertain).

rampage (ram-pāj') n. a state of excitement or passion, as on the rampage;—v.t. to rush about, in a rage; to act violently.—rampageous, rampageous a.—rampageously adv.—rampageousness n. [fr. ramp].

rampant (ram-pant) a. leaping; rearing; climbing; violent; luxuriant; rank; (Her.) erect on one of the hind-legs.—rampant n. [Fr. rampier to climb].

rampart (ram-part) n. a mound of earth around fortified place; that which provides security;—v.t. to strengthen with ramparts [Fr. remparti].

ramrod (ram⁴-rod) n. rod used in ramming down charge of a gun; a rod for cleaning barrel of a rifle, etc. [Fr. ram].

ramshackle (ram⁴-shak-l) a. tumble-down; rickety; beyond repair; crazy. Also ramshackled, ram⁴shakly—v.t. and v.i. to rummage about; to ransack; to search for (formerly ransack). See ransack.

ramstam (ram⁴-stam) a. rash; impetuous;—adv. headlong [ram and stamp].

ran (ran) pa.t. of run.

rana (rá-ná) n. (fem. ra⁴-nee) the title of the ruling prince in some parts of India [Hind.].

ranch (ranch) n. prairie land in America for sheep- and cattle-rearing; a farm;—v.t. to keep a ranch. —ranch⁴er n. a man employed on ranch [Sp. Amer. *ranch*o, a grazing farm].

rancid (ran⁴-sid) a. having a rank smell; smelling or tasting like stale fat; tainted. —ran⁴cidly adv. —ran⁴cidness, rancid⁴ity n. [L. rancidus].

rancour (rang⁴-kur) n. bitter and inveterate ill-feeling. —ran⁴orous a. evincing intense and bitter hatred; malignant. —ran⁴orously adv. [L. rancor].

rand (rand) n. border, margin; thin inner sole; strip of flesh or leather; high land above river valley, as The Rand in Transvaal [O.E. rand, a border].

random (ran⁴-dum) a. done haphazardly; aimless; fortuitous;—n. in phrase, at random, haphazard [O.Fr. random, headlong rush].

randy (ran⁴-di) a. riotous; disorderly; lusty [Fr. rand].

raanee, rani (rán⁴-r) n. in India, a queen or wife of a prince. See rana.

rang (rang) pa.t. of ring.

range (ráng) v.t. to set in a row; to rank; to row over;—v.i. to extend; to roam; to be in line with; to pass from one point to another; to fluctuate between, as prices, etc.;—n. a rank; a row; a block of buildings; a long and wide kitchen stove; line of mountains; compass or register of voice or instrument; distance to a target, place for practice shooting; pasture land; a ranch. —range⁴find⁴er n. optical instrument for finding distance to given objective. —range⁴er n. keeper of park or forest; (Girl Guide aged 16 and upwards; dog which beats the ground for game. —rang⁴ers n.pl. a body of mounted troops. —rang⁴y a. roaming; roomy; in Australia, hilly [Fr. ranger, fr. rang, a rank].

rani See raanee.

rank (rangk) n. row or line; soldiers standing side by side; grade in armed services; status; a class; social position; title; eminence; relative position;—pl. common soldiers;—v.t. to arrange in class, order, or division; to place in line or abreast; to take rank over;—v.i. to be placed in a rank or class; to possess social or official distinction. —rank⁴er n. commissioned officer risen from ranks. —rank⁴ing n. arrangement; disposition [Fr. rang].

rank (rangk) a. growing too thickly; exuberant; offensively strong of smell; rancid, gross; vile; excessive. —rank⁴le v.t. to be inflated; to become more violent; to remain a sore point with. —rank⁴ly adv. —rank⁴ness n. [O.E. ranc, strong, proud].

ransack (ran⁴-sak) v.t. to search thoroughly; to plunder [O.N. *rannsa*k].

ransom (ran⁴-sum) n. a price paid for release of prisoner; immense sum of money;—v.t. to redeem from captivity [O.Fr. fr. L. redemptio, buying back].

rant (rant) v.t. to rave; to talk bombastically and noisily;—n. noisy and meaningless declamation; boisterous talk; wild gale. —rant⁴er n. [O.Dut. ranten, to rave].

Ranunculus (ra-nung⁴-kú-lus) n. plants belonging to *Ranuncula*ceae, including crowfoot, buttercup, etc.—pl. Ranun⁴cull [L. = a little frog, as supposed to grow where frogs abound].

rap (rap) n. a smart, light blow; a knock on door, etc.; a tap;—v.t. and v.i. to deliver a smart blow; to knock;—pr.p. rap⁴-ping. —pa.t. and pa.p. rapped [prob. limit].

rap (rap) v.t. to seize forcibly and violently; to snatch; to hurry away; to transport out of oneself [L. rapere, to seize].

rap (rap) n. an Irish coin, counterfeited and current during the reign of George I, hence the expression, not worth a rap [contr. of Ir. rapparee, a robber].

rapacious (ra-pá⁴-shus) a. subsisting on prey; greedy; grasping. —rapa⁴ciously adv. —rapaciousness, rapa⁴cious n. [L. rapere, to seize].

rape (ráp) n. carnal knowledge of a female against her will; the act of snatching or carrying off by force;—v.t. to ravish or violate [L. rapere, to seize].

rape (ráp) n. an annual of the cabbage family, the seeds of which yield vegetable oils [L. rapum, turnip].

raphia See raffia.

rapid (rap-id) a. very quick; fast; speedy; hurried; descending steeply. —rap⁴ids n.pl. part of a river where current rushes over rocks or through narrow gorge. —rapid⁴ity n. —rap⁴idly adv. —rap⁴idness n. [L. rapidus].

rapier (ráp-er) n. a light, slender, pointed sword, for thrusting only [Fr. rapier].

rapine (rap⁴-in) n. act of plundering; spoliation; pillage; plunder; depredation [L. rapina, fr. rapere, to snatch].

rapport (ra-por⁴) n. harmony; agreement. —en rapport, in relation to; in harmony with [Fr.].

rapprochement (ra-prosh⁴-mong) n. reconciliation; restoration of friendly relations, esp. between States [Fr.].

rapsallion (rap-skal⁴-yun) n. a scamp; a rascal. See rascallion.

rapt (rapt) a. snatched away; intent; transported; in a state of rapture. —rapt⁴ure n. extreme joy; ecstasy; bliss; exultation. —rapt⁴urous a. ecstatic; exulting. —rapt⁴urously adv. [L. rapere, raptum, to snatch away].

Raptors (rap-tó⁴-réz) n.pl. an order of preying birds, as eagles, hawks, owls, etc. —rapt⁴orial, rapt⁴orious a. rapacious, living upon prey.

rare (rár) a. underdone (of meat) [O.E. hrer].

rare (rár) a. uncommon, few and far between; thin, not dense, as air; extremely valuable; of the highest excellence; singular. —rare⁴faction n. act of rarefying, decrease of quantity of a gas in fixed volume. —rare⁴ly (rar⁴-fi or rar⁴-fo⁴) v.t. to make rare or less dense;—v.t. to become less dense;—pa.p. rar⁴-fied. —rare⁴ly adv. —rare⁴ness n. —rar⁴ity n. state of being rare; thinness; something rar⁴ or seldom seen [L. rarus].

rarebit (rar⁴-bit) n. (Cookery) a Welsh rabbit; a delicacy [corrupt. of rabbit].

rascal (ras⁴-kal) n. a rogue; a scoundrel; a trickster; a scamp;—a. mean; low. —ras⁴callism, rascal⁴ity n. knavery; base villainy. —rascal⁴ion n. a low, mean wretch. —ras⁴cally a. [O.Fr. rascaille, the rabble].

rase (ráz) v.t. See raz.

rash (rash) a. quick; rapid; without reflection; precipitate. —rash⁴ly adv. —rash⁴ness n. [Dut. rasch, quick].

rash (rash) n. a temporary, superficial eruption of the skin [O.Fr. rasche, itch].

rasher (rash⁴-er) n. a thin slice of bacon [Fr. arracher, to tear up].

rasp (rasp) v.t. to rub or file; to scrape (skin) roughly; to speak in grating manner; to irritate;—n. a form of file with one side flat and the other rounded; a rough, grating sound. —ras⁴ v.t. emitting a harsh, grating sound; irritating. —rasp⁴ingly adv. [O.Fr. rasper].

rasp (rasp) n. contr. of rasp-berry. —rasp⁴berry n. a plant, cultivated for its fruit; a small drupe, the fruit of the plant; (Slang) derisory applause [E. rasp, rough, like a file].

raster (ras⁴-ter) n. in television, rectangular illumination formed on screen of cathode ray tube by scanning rays [Fr. raser, to scrape].

rat (rat) n. large rodent; one who deserts his party; one who works at less than established wage;—v.t. to hunt rats; to abandon party or associates in times of difficulty.—pr.p. rat'ing.
—pa.t. and pa.p. rat'ed.—rat'er n. a rat-catcher; a terrier which kills rats.—rat'ery n. apostasy.—rat'ing n. [O.E. raet].

ratable See rate.

ratâle (rat-a-tô-a) n. a liqueur, such as ouzo; a cordial or flavouring essence, compounded with oil of almonds or peach and cherry kernels; sweet biscuit [Fr.].

rattan See rattan.

rataplan (rat-a-plong') n. the beat of a military side-drum [Fr. imit.].

rat'ch (rach) n. a ratchet; a ratchet-wheel.—rat'ch n. a bar or piece of mechanism turning at one end upon a pivot, while the other end falls into teeth of wheel, allowing the latter to move in one direction only; a mechanical contrivance whereby, by means of a spindle rotated by a rat'ch-wheel, a to-and-fro movement is converted into a circular movement, as on braces, drills, jacks, screw-drivers, etc.—rat'ch et-wheel n. a circular wheel having angular teeth, into which a ratchet may drop to prevent wheel from running back [Fr. rochet, ratchet of a clock].

rate (rât) n. established measure; degree; standard; proportion; ratio; value; price; movement, as fast or slow;—pl. local taxation;—v.t. to estimate value; to settle relative scale, rank, or position of; to levy rates from;—v.i. to be set in a class, as a ship; to have rank.—rat'able, rat'able a. liable to payment of local rates.—rat'ability n.—rat'al a. pert. to rates.—rat'ing n. assessment; (Naut.) an enlisted seaman; tonnage class of a racing yacht.—ratepayer n. one assessed for local rates [O.Fr. fr. L. rata (pars), fixed portion].

rate (rât) v.t. to take to task; to chide; to scold; to reprove [etym. uncertain].

rath (râth) a. and adv. early; premature; betimes; speedily.—Also rathe (râth).—rath'ly adv. suddenly [O.E. hræthe, quickly].

rather (râth'er) adv. preferably; on the other hand; somewhat [O.E. hræthe, quickly].

ratify (rat'i-fi) v.t. to confirm or sanction officially; to make valid;—pa.p. rat'ified.—ratifica'tion n. [L. ratius, fixed; facere, to make].

ratine (râtên) n. See ratteen.

rating See rate.

ratio (râ-shi-ô) n. relation one quantity has to another, as expressed by number of times one can be divided by the other; proportion; rate; degree [L.].

rationate (rash-i-oe-ti-nât) v.t. to reason; to argue.—rationa'tion n. deductive reasoning from premises.—ratio'native, ratio'natory a. [L. ratiocinari, to reckon].

ration (râ-shun, rashun) n. fixed allotted portion; daily allowance of food, drink, etc., to armed forces;—pl. provisions;—v.t. to limit to fixed amount [Fr. fr. L. ratio].

rational (rash-on-al) a. sane; sensible; reasonable; equitable; fair; just; (Math.) a quantity expressed in finite terms or whose root is a whole number.—rationa'le n. logical basis; exposition of principles.—rationalisa'tion n. in psychology, the attempt to square one's conscience by inventing specious reasons for one's own conduct; in business, industry, commerce, the unification of control for buying, producing and distributing goods, to secure greater efficiency and profits.—rat'ionalise v.t.—rat'ionalism n. philosophy which makes reason the sole guide; system opposed to supernatural or divine revelation.—rat'ionalist a.—rationalist'ic(al) a.—rationalist'ically adv.—rationa'ity n. the power or faculty of reasoning; soundness of mind.—rat'ionally adv.—rat'ionality n. [L. rationalis, fr. ratio, reason].

ratline, ratlin, rattling (rat'lin) n. (Naut.) one of the horizontal lines of the rope-ladder for climbing the rigging.

ratsbane (ratz-bân) n. a poison for rats and mice, arsenious acid mixed with bran.

rattan, ratan (ru-tan') n. a species of palm found in India and the Malay Peninsula; a walking-stick made from a rattan-cane [Malay, rotan].

ratteen, ratine (ra-tên') n. a kind of thick woollen stuff, quilted or twilled [Fr. ratine].
rattle (rat'l) v.t. to clatter; to speak (on), eagerly and noisily; to move along, quickly and noisily;—v.t. to shake briskly, causing sharp noises; to disconcert, or ruffle;—n. a rapid succession of clattering sounds; loud, rapid talk or talker; a toy for making a noise.—rat'tle-brained, -head'ed, -pat'ed a. empty-headed; giddy; lacking stability.—rat'tle-snake n. an American poisonous snake.—rat'ting n. clattering;—a. smart; brisk; lively; first-rate.—adv. extremely; very [M.E. ratelen].

rattling See ratline.

ratty (rat'ti) a. (Slang) irritable; angry.

raucous (raw'kus) a. hoarse; harsh; rough.—rau'cously adv. [L. raucus].

ravage (rav'aj) v.t. to lay waste; to despoil; to plunder; to sack;—n. ruin; destruction [Fr.].
rave (râv) v.t. to talk in delirium or with great enthusiasm.—ra'ver n.—ra'ving n. delirium; incoherent or wild talk;—a. delirious; distracted.—ra'vingly adv. [O.Fr. raver].

ravel (rav'el) v.t. to entangle; to make intricate; to fray out;—v.t. to become twisted and involved; to fall into confusion.—pr.p. rav'elling.

—pa.t. and pa.p. rav'elled.—n. complication; entanglement [Dut. ravelen].

ravelin (rav'lin) n. in fortification, the detached outwork which protected the salient of a bastion [Fr. fr. It. revellino].

raven (râv'n) n. crow with glossy black plumage predatory in habit, —a glossy black esp. of hair [O.E. hræfn].

raven, ravin (rav'n) v.t. and v.i. to obtain by violence; to devour; to prowl for prey; to be ravenous;—n. rapine; plunder; spoil.—rav'ener n. a plunderer.—rav'enous, rav'ined a. famished; voracious; eager for prey.—rav'enously adv. [Fr. ravir, fr. L. rapere, to seize].

ravine (ra-vên') n. a deep, narrow gorge; a gully [O.Fr. fr. L. rapere, to carry off].

ravish (rav'ish) v.t. to seize and carry away by violence; to violate; to dallow; to enrapture, to charm eye or ear.—rav'isher n.—rav'ishing a. entrancing; captivating.—rav'ishingly adv.—rav'ishment n. [Fr. ravir, fr. L. rapere, to carry off].

raw (raw) a. not cooked; not covered with skin; bleak; chilly and damp; unpractised, not manufactured. — a. a sore; a gull.—raw'-boned a. having little flesh; gaunt.—raw'-hide n. compressed untanned leather; a riding-whip of coarse, untanned leather thongs.—raw'ly adv.—raw'ness n.—raw deal, unfair and undeserved treatment [O.E. hræwl].

ray (râ) n. a narrow beam of light; the path along which light and electro-magnetic waves travel in space; a heat radiation; one of a number of lines diverging from a common point or centre; aglow or suggestion (of hope, truth, etc.);—v.t. and v.i. to radiate; to send forth rays.—rayed a. having rays [O.Fr. raye, fr. L. radius, a beam].

ray (râ) n. a flat-fish allied to skate, shark, and dog-fish [O.Fr. raye].

rayon (râ-on) n. a synthetic fibrous material in imitation of silk [Fr.].

raz, rase (râz) v.t. to level to the ground; to destroy completely; to demolish; to wipe out; to delete; to erase; to graze (the skin) [Fr. raser, fr. L. radere, rasum, to scrape].

razor (râ-zur) n. a keen-edged cutting appliance for shaving.—ra'sor'-back n. kind of hog; porcupine or fin-backed whale.—ra'sor-bill n. N. Atlantic sea-bird, of Auk family.—ra'sor-shell n. mollusc bivalve with razor-shaped shell [Fr. rasoir, fr. L. radere, rasum, to scrape].

razure (rāz'ūr) n. emasure.

razzle (razz'l) n. (Slang) a drunken spree. Also razz'le-dazz'le.

re- (rē) prefix used in the formation of compound words, usually signifying back or again [L.].

re (rē) prep. in reference to; concerning.—In re, in the case (of) [L. res, thing].

reach (rēch) v.t. to extend; to stretch; to touch by extending hand; to attain to or arrive at; to come to; to obtain; to gain;—v.i. to stretch out the hand; to strain after; to be extended; to arrive;—n. reaching; easy distance; mental range; scope; grasp; straight stretch of water [O.E. reacan, to stretch out].

react (rē-akt') v.i. to respond to stimulus; to exercise a reciprocal effect on each other, to resist the action of another body by an opposite effect; (Chem.) to cause or undergo a chemical or physical change when brought in contact with another substance or exposed to light, heat, etc.—reaction n. (Elect.) resistance in a coil to an alternating current due to capacitance or inductance in the circuit.—reaction n. action in opposite direction to another; the response to stimulus; revulsion of feeling.—reactionary a. tendency to reaction.—n. one opposed to progressive ideas in politics, religion, thought, etc.—reactionist n. a reactionary.—reactivation n. the restoration of an atom or molecule to an activated state.—reactive a. having the power to react.

re-act (rē-akt) v.t. to act again, to repeat.

reactor (rē-akt'or) n. apparatus for generating heat by nuclear fission.

read (rēd) v.t. to peruse and understand written or printed matter; to interpret mentally, to read and utter, to understand any indicating instrument (as a gas-meter);—v.i. to perform the act of reading; to find mentioned in writing or print, to surmise.—pat. and pa.p. read (rēd) —read (rēd) n. a reading; perusal.—read (rēd) a. versed in books, learned read'able (rēd'a) well written; informative, interesting, legible.—read'ably (rēd'adl) adv. read'er (rēd') n. one who reads; one whose office is to read prayers, a university lecturer, one who determines suitability for publication of manuscripts offered to publisher; corrector of printer's proofs; a reading-book —read'ing (rēd') a. pert. to reading;—n. act of reading; a public recital of passages from books, interpretation of a book, formal recital of a bill or enactment —reading room, room for silent reading and study [O.E. readan, to make out].

readress (rē-a-dres') v.t. to address again.

readily, readiness. See ready.

readjust (rē-a-just') v.t. to adjust or put in order again —readjust'ment *n.

ready (rēd'i) a. prepared, fitted for use; handy; prompt; quick; willing; easy; familiar; apt; glib.—adv. in state of preparation, before-hand;—n. position of a fighting unit or their weapons, as at the ready —read'ily adv. —read'iness n. —read'y-made a. not made to measure.—ready money, cash in hand.—read'y-reck'oner n. a book of tabulated calculations [O.E. readel].

reagent (rē-ā-jent) n. any substance, generally in a solution, employed to bring about a characteristic reaction in chemical analysis.—rea'gency *n.

real (rē'al) a. actual; not sham; not fictitious or imaginary; not assumed; unaffected, (Law) heritable; denoting property not movable or personal, as lands and tenements.—real'ity n. actuality; fact; truth; (Law) reality.—real'ly adv. actually; indeed;—interf. is that so? —re'al-ter n. dealer in real estate.—re'al-ty n. immobility or fixed permanent nature of real property.—real estate, real property, immovable property, covering freehold lands and buildings, proprietary rights in or over lands, as mineral rights [L.L. realis, fr. L. res, a thing].*

real (rē'al, rā'al') n. an obsolete Spanish coin [Sp. fr. L. regalis, royal].

realise (rē'al-iz) v.t. to make real; to yield (profit); to convert into money; to apprehend or grasp the significance of.—realisation n. —re'al-ism n. regarding things as they are; practical outlook on life; representation in art or letters of real life, even if sordid and repellent; (Philos.) doctrine that matter has a separate existence apart from conceptions of it in the mind; doctrine that general terms and ideas have objective existence and are not mere names.—re'al-ist n. —realis'tic a. pert. to realism; actual; factual; practical; true to life.—realis'tically adv. [Fr. réaliser].***

reality, realtor, reality. See real (1).

realm (rēlm) n. kingdom; province; region [O. Fr. realme, fr. L. regalis, royal].

ream (rēm) n. a paper measure containing from 472 to 516 sheets, usually 480 sheets (20 quires) [Fr. rizmah, bundle].

ream, reem (rēm) v.t. to enlarge or make a tapered or conical hole with a reamer.—ream'er n. a machine-tool for enlarging a hole [O.E. rum, room].

reap (rēp) v.t. to cut down ripe grain for harvesting; to harvest; to receive as fruits of one's labour.—reap'er n. a harvester; a reaping-machine [O.E. ripan].

reappear (rē-a-pēr') v.i. to appear a second time.—reappear'ance n. a second appearance.

rear (rēr) n. back or hindmost part; part of army or fleet behind the others.—rear'most a. last of all; at the very back.—rear-ad'miral n. lowest rank of admiral.—rear-guard n. troops detailed to protect main body from rear attacks.—rear'ward n. the rearward; the hind or latter part;—a. in, or to, the rear [L. retro, behind].*****

rear (rēr) v.t. to raise; to bring to maturity, as young; to breed, as cattle; to erect or build;—v.i. to rise up on the hindlegs, as a horse [O.E. raeran].

rearm (rē-arm') v.t. to equip the fighting services with new types of weapons of offence and defence.—rearm'ament *n.

rearmost. See rear.

rearmouse. See eremouse.

rearrange (rē-a-rān') v.t. to arrange anew; to set in a different order.—rearrang'em-ent *n.

reason (rē-zn) n. faculty of thinking; power of understanding; intelligence; the logical premise of an argument; cause; motive; purpose; excuse;—v.t. to exercise rational faculty; to deduce from facts & premises; to argue with;—v.i. to discuss & arguments.—rea'son-able a. rational, just, fair.—rea'son-able-ness n. —rea'sonably adv. —rea'soner n. —rea'son-ing n. —in reason, in moderation; reasonable [Fr. raison, fr. L. ratio, reason].*

reassemble (rē-a-sem-bl) v.t. and v.i. to assemble or bring together again.

reassure (rē-a-shūr) v.t. to free from fear; to allay anxiety, to restore confidence, or spirit to.—re-assur'e v.t. to re-assure against loss.—reassur'ance, re-assur'ance n. confirmation repeated; further insurance to cover risk accepted by insurance-broker —reassur'ing a. comforting.

reave, reaver. See reive.

rebate (re-bat') v.t. to blunt; to allow as discount;—n. deduction; discount [Fr. rabattre, to beat down].

rebate (re-bāt') n. a groove cut into edge of a piece of timber or placed in a surface; a recess in a wall to receive a door or window-frame, etc.

rebec, rebeck (rē-bek) n. a crude musical instrument, the forerunner of the viol [O. Fr. fr. Ar. rebab].

rebel (rē-bəl) n. one who resists the lawful authority of a government; insurgent; revoltor; revolutionist; one who is defiant.—a. rebellious.—rebel (re-bel') v.t. to take up arms against state or government; to revolt.—pr.p. rebel'ing.—pa.p. and pa.p. rebel'ed.—rebel'ion

n. organised resistance to authority; insurrection; mutiny. —rebell'ious a. —rebell'iously adv.
—rebell'iousness n. [L. rebellare, fr. bellum, war]. —rebound n. and a. rebind (rē-bīnd') v.t. to bind anew, esp. a rebirth (rē-bēth') n. state of being born again, spiritually; reincarnation; renaissance, as in the Rebirth of Learning.
rebore (rē-bōr') v.t. to smooth and enlarge the bores of the cylinders of an internal combustion engine. —rebor'ing n.
rebound (rē-bound') v.i. to leap back; to recoil; to bound repeatedly; to reverberate; —v.t. to cause to fly back; —n. rebounding; recoil.
rebuff (re-buff') n. a blunt, contemptuous refusal; a snub; a repulse; —v.t. to beat back; to check; to snub [It. rebuffo, reproof].
rebuke (re-būk') v.t. to censure; to reprove; to reprimand; to find fault with; —n. reprimand; reproof; severe talking [O.Fr. rebuchier, repulse].
rebus (rē-bus) n. an enigmatical representation of a name, word, or phrase by pictures suggesting syllables [L. = by things]. rebut (re-but') v.t. to butt or drive back; to refute; to repel; to disprove; —pr.p. rebut'ting. —pa.t. and pa.p. rebut'ted. —rebut'table a. —rebut'tal n. refutation of an argument [Fr. rebutoir, to repulse].
recalcitrate (re-kal'si-trāt') v.i. to kick back; to be refractory. —recal'it'rant n. one who defies authority; —a. refractory; wilfully disobedient. —recal'it'rance, recalcitra'tion n. [L. recalcitrare, to kick back].
recall (rē-kawl') v.t. to call back; to take back (a gift, etc.); to annul or revoke; to call to mind; to remember; —n. act of recalling; a summons to return, often tantamount to dismissal from office; an encore.
recant (re-kant') v.t. to take back, words or opinions; to retract; —v.i. to unsay. —recanta'tion n. [L. recantare, fr. re-, back; cantare, to sing].
recapitulate (rē-ka-pit'ū-lāt') v.t. to relate in brief the matter or substance of a previous discourse; —v.i. to sum up what has been previously said. —recapitula'tion n. recapitulating; a summary. —recapit'ulative, recapit'ulatory a. [L. capitulum, a small head]. recapture (rē-kap'tūr') v.t. to capture back; to regain; —n. act of retaking.
recast (rē-kāst') v.t. to cast or mould again; to remodel; to throw back; to add up figures in a column, a second time.
recede (re-sēd') v.t. to move or fall back; to retreat; to withdraw; to retire; to retrograde; to ebb. —reced'ing a. receipt (rē-sēt') n. the act of receiving; a written acknowledgment of money received; a place where moneys are officially received; a prescription; a recipe in cookery; —pl. cash-drawings; —v.t. to give a receipt for [L. recipere, receptum, to receive].
receive (re-sēv') v.t. to take; to accept; to get (an offer, etc.); to acquire; to welcome or entertain; to hold; to experience; to take or buy stolen goods. —receiv'able a. —receiv'er n. one who receives; receptacle, place of storage, etc.; one who is convicted of receiving goods knowing them to have been stolen; officer appointed by Bankruptcy Court to receive profits of business being wound up by that court; (Chem.) a vessel into which spirits are emitted from the still in distillation; a wireless receiving set; ear-piece of a telephone; a vessel for containing gases. —receiv'ing n. [O.Fr. fr. L. recipere, to take back].
recension (re-sen-shun) n. a critical revision of a text; a revised edition [L. recensere, to revise].
recent (rē-sent) a. that has lately happened; new; (Geol.) of the Post-Tertiary period. —re'cently adv. —re'centness n. [L. recens].
recept (rē-sept) n. a mental conception arising from repeated sensorious impressions —recept

n. a vessel—that which receives, or into which anything is received and held [L. recipere, receptum, to receive].
reception (rē-sep-shun) n. receiving; welcome; ceremonial occasion when guests are personally announced; the quality of signals received in broadcasting. —recep'tible a. receivable. —recep'tion n. official in hotel, office, etc., who receives guests or clients. —recep'tive a. able to grasp ideas or impressions quickly. —recep'tiveness, recep'tiv'ity n. [L. recipere, receptum, to receive].
recess (rē-sēs') n. a withdrawing or retiring; suspension of business; vacation, as of legislative body or school; a retired place; a niche or cavity in a wall; (Zool.) a small cleft or indentation in an organ. —recessed a. fitted with recess. —reces'sion n. act of receding or withdrawing; a period of reduced trade or business. —reces'sional a. pert. to recession; —n. hymn sung as clergyman leaves chancel. —reces'sive a. receding. —reces'siveness n. [L. recessus, fr. recedere, to recede].
recharge (rē-charj') v.t. to charge again; to reload a gun, etc.
recherche (rē-shor'shā) a. of studied elegance; choice; exquisite; exclusive [Fr.].
recipe (rē-si-pe) n. a prescription; a cookery receipt [L. imperative = take thou!]. recipient (re-sip-i-ent) a. receptive; —n. one who receives [L. recipere, to receive].
reciprocal (re-sip-ro-kal) a. moving backwards and forwards; alternating; mutual; complementary; (Gram.) reflexive; —n. idea or term alternating with, or corresponding to, another by contrast or opposition; quantity arising from dividing unity by any quantity; —pl. two numbers which multiplied give unity, e.g. $\frac{1}{2} \times 2 = 1$. —recip'rocally adv. —recip'rocality n. —recip'rocate v.t. to make return for; to interchange; —v.t. to move backwards and forwards; to act interchangeably; to alternate. —recip'rocating a. applied to mechanism of which the parts move backwards and forwards alternately. Also recip'rocatory. —reciproca'tion n. mutual giving and receiving. —recip'rocative a. —reciprocity (re-si-pro-si-ti) n. action and reaction; the discharge of mutual duties or obligations; in international trade, equal facilities or advantages gained by abolition of prohibitory or protective duties, or by equalising the rates in each country [L. reciprocus, turning back]. recision (re-sizh-shun) n. the act of cutting off or back [L. recidere, recisum].
recite (re-sit') v.t. and v.i. to repeat aloud esp. before an audience. —recit'al n. act of reciting; what is recited; detailed narration; a musical or dramatic performance by one person or by one composer or author. —recita'tion n. reciting; repetition of poem from memory. —recitative n. declamation to musical accompaniment, as in opera; —a. in the style of recitative. —recit'er n. [L. recitare, to read aloud].
reck (rek) v.t. and v.i. to take account (of); to heed; to care (for). —reck'less a. rashly negligent. —reck'lessly adv. —reck'lessness n. [O.E. reccan, to care for].
reckon (rek'n) v.t. and v.i. to count; to calculate; to estimate; to value; to think; to be of opinion. —reck'on'er n. one who reckons; table of calculations (usu. ready reckoner). —reck'on'ing n. computing; calculation; way of thinking [O.E. gereccian, to explain].
reclaim (rē-klām') v.t. to call back; to demand the return of; to bring into a state of productiveness, as waste land, etc.; to win back from error or sin. —reclaim'able a. able to be reclaimed or reformed. —reclaim'ably adv. —reclaima'tion n.
recline (re-klīn') v.t. to lean back; —v.t. to assume a recumbent position; to repose; to rest. —reclin'er n. [L. reclinare]. recluse (re-klōs') a. secluded from the world; solitary; —n. an anchorite; a hermit. —reclus'ion n. [L. reclusus, shut away].***

recognise (rek-og-niz) v.t. to know again; to identify; to acknowledge; to treat as valid; to notice; to realise; to salute. —recognisable a. capable of being recognised. —recognisably adv.

—recognition n. acknowledgment of a person or thing; avowal; an obligation, under penalty, entered into before some court or magistrate to do, or to refrain from doing, some particular act; sum pledged as surety. —recognitional n. recognising; acknowledgment. —recognitive, recognitory a. [L. recognoscere].

recoil (re-kol') v.t. to start, roll, bound, fall back; to draw back; to rebound; —n. return motion; a starting or falling back [Fr. reculer, to spring back].

recollect (rek-to-lekt) v.t. to recall; to remember. —recollection n. recollecting; power of recalling ideas to the mind; remembrance; memory. —recollective a. [L. recolligere, to collect again].

recommend (rek-o-mend') v.t. to speak well of; to commend to one's care; to entrust; to approve; to praise. —recommendable a. worthy of recommendation. —recommendation n. recommending; a statement that one is worthy of favour or trial. —recommendatory a.

recompense (rek-om-pens) v.t. to repay; to reward; to make an equivalent return for service, loss, etc.; to make up for; to punish; —n. repayment; requital [Fr. récompenser].

reconcile (rek-on-sil') v.t. to conciliate anew; to restore to friendship; to make agree; to become resigned (to); to adjust or compose. —reconcilable a. —reconciliation, reconciliatory n. renewal of friendship; harmonising of apparently opposite ideas, etc.; (Bib.) expiation; propitiation; atonement. —reconciliatory a. [L. reconciliare].

recondite (rek-on-dit) a. hidden from view or mental perception; obscure; little known. —reconditeness n. [L. reconditus, hidden away].

recondition (re-kon-dish-un) v.t. to restore to sound condition, either person or thing; to renovate; to repair; to re-fit.

reconnaissance (re-kon-fa-sans) n. an examination or survey, by land or air, for engineering or military operations [Fr.].

reconnitre (rek-on-noit'er) v.t. to make a preliminary survey of, esp. with a view to military operations; —v.i. to make reconnaissance; to scout; —n. a preliminary survey [Fr. reconnitre, old spelling of reconnaître, to recognise].

reconsider (re-kon-sid'er) v.t. to consider again; to take up for renewed discussion.

reconstitute (re-kon-sti-tüt) v.t. to constitute anew; to reconstruct; to restore a dehydrated substance to original form. —reconstituent a. —restitution n.

reconstruct (re-kon-strukt') v.t. to rebuild; to enact (crime) on actual spot, in course of judicial proceedings. —reconstruction n.

record (re-kord') v.t. to commit to writing; to make a note of; to register (a vote); to inscribe; to make a sound record; —v.i. to speak, sing, etc. for reproduction on a gramophone record.

—record (rek-ord) n. register; authentic copy of writing; personal history; list; catalogue; finest performance or highest amount ever known; a disc, cylinder, roll, etc. for mechanical reproduction of sound; —pl. public documents. —recorder n. one who registers writings or transactions; (Law) the chief judicial officer of a city or borough, presiding over the Quarter Sessions; apparatus for registering data, by some form of symbol or line; instrument which transforms sounds into disc impressions; an ancient, flute-like musical instrument. —recording n. the making, or reproduction of, sound by mechanical means. —off the record, unofficial [L. recordari, to remember].

recount (re-kount') v.t. to count again; to relate; to recite; to enumerate; —n. a second enumeration, esp. of votes at election [O.Fr. reconter].

recoup (re-koup') v.t. to recover equivalent for what has been lost or damaged; to compensate. —recoupment n. [Fr. recouper, to cut again].

recourse (re-kours') n. application made to another in difficulty or distress; a resorting to; access [L. recurere, to run back].

recover (re-kuv'er) v.t. to get back; to win back; to revive; to cure; to rescue; (Law) to obtain (damages) as compensation for loss, etc.; —v.i. to regain health or a former state. —recoverable a. —recovery n. regaining, re-taking, or obtaining possession; restoration to health; amends for a bad start in business, sport, etc. [O.Fr. recuerer, fr. L. recuperare].

re-cover (re-kuv'er) v.t. to put a fresh cover on.

recrude (rek-re-ant) a. cowardly; craven; false; apostate; —n. a craven; an apostate. —recrudecy n. [O.Fr. recroire to take back one's pledge].

recreate (rek-ré-ät) v.t. to give fresh life to; to restore; to reanimate; to refresh from weariness; to cheer. —recreation n. recreating; any pleasurable interest; pastime; amusement. —recreational, recreative a. [L. recreare, to make again].

recriminate (re-krim-i-nät) v.t. and v.i. to charge an accuser with a similar crime. —recrimination n. a counter-charge brought by the accused against the accuser; mutual abuse and blame. —recriminative, recriminatory a. [L. re-, back; crimen, charge].

recrudescence (re-kroo-des') v.t. to break out again; to revive. —recrudescence, recrudescency n. —recrudescence a. [L. recrudescere, to become raw again].

recruit (re-kroöt') v.t. to repair by fresh supplies; to renew in strength; to enlist persons for army, navy, etc.; —v.i. to gain health, spirits, etc.; to obtain new adherents; —n. a newly-enlisted soldier; a fresh adherent. —recruitment, recruiting, recruitment n. [O.Fr. recruter, fr. L. recrutesc, to grow again].

rectangle (rek-tang-gul) n. a four-sided figure with four right angles —rectangular a. [L. rectus, right, straight; angulus, an angle].

rectify (rek-ti-fi) v.t. to set right; to correct; to purify; to convert an alternating current of electricity into a direct current; —part. and pa.p. rectified. —rectifiable a. able to be rectified or set right. —rectification n. —rectifier n. one who corrects, a device which rectifies, as a wireless valve, converting alternating current into direct transformer; one who refines spirits by rectified distillations [L. rectus, straight; facere, to make].

rectilinear, rectilinear (rek-ti-line-al, -al) a. consisting of, or bounded by, right lines; straight-lined. —rectilinearly adv. —rectilinearly ly n. [L. rectus, straight; linea, a line].

rectitude (rek-ti-tüd) n. moral uprightness; honesty of purpose [L. fr. rectus, right].

recto (rek-to) n. the right-hand page of an open book —opp. to verso [L. = on the right].

rector (rek-tor) n. clergyman of Church of England who has charge and care of a parish; incumbent of Episcopal church in Scotland or U.S.A.; the head of Exeter and Lincoln Colleges, Oxford; headmaster of certain senior secondary schools in Scotland; nominal head of a Scottish university. —rectoral a. pert. to rector or rectory. —rectorial a. rectorial. —n. in Scottish universities, a rectorial election. —rectorate, rectorship n. the office of rector. —rectory n. house of a rector [L. fr. regere, to rule].

rectum (rek-um) n. lower end of the large intestine. —pl. recta. —rectal a. pert. to the rectum [L. rectus, straight].

recumbent (re-kum-bent) a. reclining; lying on back. —recumbence, recumbency n. —recumbently adv. [L. recumbere, to lie down].

recuperate (re-kup'er-ät) v.t. to win back health and strength; to convalesce; to recover. —recuperation n. convalescence; slow return

- to health. —recu'perative, recu'peratory a. [L. recuperare, to recover].
- recur (re-kur') v.t. to happen again; to return periodically; —pr.p. recur'ring. —pa.t. and pa.p. recurred. —recu'r'ence, recu'r'ency n. —recu'r'ent a. returning periodically [L. re-, again; currere, to run].
- recurve (re-kurv') v.t. to bend backwards.
- recusant (rek'ú-zant) a. obstinate in refusal; specifically, refusing to conform to rites of Established Church; —n. dissenter or non-conformist who refuses to conform to authority, esp. in religious matters. —recu'sance, recu'sancey n. [L. recusare, to refuse].
- red (red) a. (comp. red'der; superl. red'dest) of the colour of arterial blood, rubies, glowing fire, etc.; of colour, including shades, as scarlet, crimson, vermilion, orange-red and the like; of or connected with bloodshed, revolution, left-wing politics, etc.; —n. colour of blood; a socialist; communist, bolshevist; a Russian soldier; a danger signal. —red'den v.t. to make red; —v.t. to become red; to blush; to flush; to rust. —red'y adv. —red'ness n. state or quality of being red; blushing; rust. —red admiral, British butterfly, black with a red band, and white spots on upper wings. —red Biddy, a mixture of red wine and methylated spirits. —red-blood'ed a. having reddish blood; manly. —red-breast n. the robin. —red-cap n. a breed of poultry with large rose-shaped comb; military policeman; goblin. —red-coat n. a British soldier, because of the bright scarlet tunic. —red corpuscle, a coloured blood-corpuscle, containing haemoglobin and carrying oxygen. —Red Cross, international emblem of organisations for relief of sick and wounded in war-time. —red-currant n. shrubby bush bearing clusters of small red berries. —red-deer n. in Britain, the common stag or hind. —red ensign, flag of the mercantile marine. —red flag, danger signal, as on a railway; national flag of Soviet Russia; international communist emblem. —red-hack'le n. a red plume, worn on headgear of the Highland regiment, the Black Watch. —red-hand'ed a. having red hands; hence, in the very act, orig. of a murderer. —red hat, a cardinal's hat; a staff officer. —red-heat n. temperature of a body emitting red rays, about 700°–800° C. —red herring, the common herring, cured by drying, smoking and salting; (Colloq.) any topic introduced to divert attention from main issue. —red-hot a. heated to redness; eager; enthusiastic. —Red-Ind'ian n. a copper-coloured aboriginal native of N. America. —red-lead n. an oxide of lead, minium, used as a pigment for ironwork. —red-let'ter a. applied to principal holy saints' days of Church calendar, —hence, any memorable (day). —red light, a danger signal on railways and at cross-roads. —red ochre, ruddle. —red pepper, chillies, such as cayenne pepper. —red poll, red pole n. the smallest British finch, allied to linnet. —red polls, hornless cattle, bred in E. Anglia. —red-shank n. a shore bird of the Plover family. —red-shirt n. a follower of Garibaldi (1807–82) in Italian wars of independence. —red'skin n. a N. American Indian. —red'start n. a resident British song-bird of thrush family. —red tape, slavish adherence to official regulations, fr. red tape used for tying up government documents. —red-wing n. a song-bird, resembling song-thrush. —red'wood n. any wood yielding a red dye; the sequoia tree of California, a gigantic evergreen coniferous tree. —to paint the town red, to indulge in a drunken orgy. —to see red, to become infuriated [O.E. readl].
- redact (re-dakt') v.t. to digest or reduce to order, literary, or scientific materials. —redac'tion n. —redac'tor n. an editor [L. redigere, redactum, to drive back].
- redan (re-dan') n. in fortification, a fieldwork having two faces uniting, so as to form a salient angle towards the enemy [O.Fr. redent, a double notching].
- reddition (re-dish'un) n. the act of returning anything. —redd'itive a. answering [L. reddere, to give back].
- redidle (red'idl) n. See riddle.
- rede (red) v.t. to advise; expound (riddle, dream); —n. advice; counsel; resolve; a proverb —rede'less a. with no one to advise; foolish [O.E. readl].
- redeem (re-dém') v.t. to purchase back; to regain, as mortgaged property, by paying principal, interest and costs of mortgage; to take out of pawn; to ransom; to deliver from sin; to make good; to recover. —redeem'able a. —redeem'ableness n. —redeem'er n. [L. redimere, to buy back].
- redeless See rede.
- redemption (ré-demp'shun) n. redeeming or buying back, deliverance from sin; the Atonement. —redemp'tionary n. one released from bond or obligation by fulfilment of certain conditions. —redemp'tioner n. one who has redeemed himself. —redemp'tive a. redeeming. —redemp'tory a. paid as ransom; serving to redeem [L. redimere, redemptum, to buy back].
- red-hot poker (red-hot pó-kér) n. the Kniphofia, ornamental plant of the lily-order, with flame-coloured flowers.
- redintegrate (re-din'te-grát) v.t. to make whole again; to renew. —redintegrat'ion n. [L. redintegrare, to make whole again].
- redirect (ré-di-ekt') v.t. to direct again; to re-address a communication. —redirec'tion n.
- redistribute (re-dis-tribút) v.t. to deal out or apportion again. —redistribut'ion n.
- redolent (red'ó-lent) a. diffusing a strong or fragrant odour, scented, reminiscent (of). —red'olence n. [L. redolere, to smell strongly].
- redoubt, redout (re-dout') n. military detached fieldwork, enclosed by earthworks and a high parapet with deep trenches behind and shelter pits; a central part within field fortifications for a final stand by the defenders [Fr. redoute, fr. L. re-, back; ducere, to lead].
- redoubtable (re-dou'ta-bl) a. dreaded; formidable; valiant. —redoubt'ed a. redoubtable [O.Fr. redouter, to fear].
- redound (re-dound') v.t. to contribute or turn to; to conduce (to), to recoil, to react (upon) [L. re-, back, undare, to surge].
- redraft (ré-draft') v.t. to draft or draw up a second time; —n. a second copy; a new bill of exchange which the holder of a protested bill draws on the drawer or endorses for the amount of the protested bill along with costs and charges.
- redress (ré-dres') v.t. to make amends for; to set right, to compensate, to adjust; to dress a second time; —n. reparation; amendment; relief; remedy. —redress'er n. —redress'ible a. [Fr. redresser].
- reduce (re-dús') v.t. to diminish in number, length, quantity, value, price, etc.; to lower; to degrade; (Chem.) to remove oxygen or add hydrogen; to decrease valency number; to separate metal from its ore by heat and chemical affinities; to add electrons to an ion; (Arith.) to change, as numbers, from one denomination into another without altering value; to slim, to impoverish; to subdue; to capture (as a fort). —reduced a. impoverished. —reduc'ible a. capable of being reduced. —reduc'tion n. reducing; subjugation; diminution; curtailment, (Arith.) changing numbers from one denomination to another, or changing form of a quantity, without altering value. —reduc'tive a. having the power of reducing. —reduc'tively adv. —reducing agent, a reagent for abstracting oxygen or adding hydrogen [L. re-, back; ducere, to lead].
- redundant (re-dun'dant) a. superfluous; serving no useful purpose; using more words than necessary for complete meaning. —redundance, redundancy n. —redundantly adv. [L. redundare, to overflow].
- re-echo (ré-ek'ú) v.t. to echo back; to reverberate;—v.i. to resound;—n. the repetition of an echo.

reed (rēd) n. a tall hollow-stemmed grass growing in water or marshes; in certain wind-instruments, a thin strip of cane or metal which vibrates and produces a musical sound; a musical instrument made of the hollow joint of some plant; a pastoral pipe; thatching straw; an arrow; pastoral poetry; a narrow strip of whale-bone;—pl. a moulding on the surface of the material consisting of a series of sunk beads without a quirk;—v.t. to thatch; to fit with a reed.—reed-bunt'ing n. the black-headed bunting, frequenting lakes and marshes.—reed'ed a. covered with reeds; moulded like reeds.—reed'en a. consisting or made of reeds.—reed'er n. a thatcher.—reed'iness n.—reed'in'strument n. (Mus.) a wind-instrument played by means of a reed, as the oboe, English horn, bassoon, clarinet, saxophone, etc.—reed'pipe n. organ pipe whose tone is produced by vibration of metal tongue.—reed-stop n. organ stop owing its tone to vibration of little metal tongues enclosed in metal tubes.—reed-war'bler, reed-wren n. brownish-coloured bird which frequents marshes in South of England.—reed'y a. abounding with reeds; possessing harsh and thin tone of a reed, as certain voices [O.E. hreed].

reeding (rēd'ing) n. the bearded titmouse.
reef (rēf) n. a portion of a square sail which can be rolled up and made fast to the yard or boom;—v.t. to reduce the area of sail by taking in a reef.—reef'er n. one who reefs; a shipman; a sailor.—reef'ing n. reef-fitting jacket.—reef-knot n. (Naut.) a square knot; one in which the ends lie parallel with the cord and will not slip [O.N. ri, reef, rib].

reef (rēf) n. a ridge of rock near the surface of the sea; a lode of auriferous rock; the outcrop of a lode or vein [O.N. ri].

reek (rēk) n. smoke; vapour; fume;—v.t. to emit smoke; to steam.—reek'ing a. smelling strongly.—reek'y a. smoky [O.E. rec].

reel (rēl) n. frame or bobbin on which yarn or cloth is wound; spool for thread; cylinder turning on an axis on which seamen wind the log-lines, and anglers their fishing-line; in cinematography, a flanged spool on which cinema film is wound; a portion of film, usually 1000 feet;—v.t. to wind upon a reel; to draw (in) by means of a reel.—to reel off, to enumerate or recite rapidly [O.E. hroel].

reel (rēl) v.t. to stagger; to sway from side to side; to whirl; to be dizzy [O.E. hroel].

reel (rēl) n. a sprightly dance-tune; a Scottish dance for two or more couples [Gael. rightil].

reem Same as ream (2).

reeve (rēv) v.t. to pass line through any hole in a block, cleat, ring-bolt, etc., for the purpose of pulling a larger rope after it [Dut. reef, a reef].

reeve (rēv) n. official in early English times charged with fiscal and judicial duties, as shire-reeve (sheriff), borough-reeve; a steward [O.E. gerefa].

reeve (rēv) n. female ruff (or sandpiper).

refection (re-fek'shun) n. refreshment; a simple repast; a lunch.—refec'tory n. a hall in a monastery, convent, school, or college where meals are served [L. reficere, refectum, to remake].

refer (re-fər') v.t. to carry or send back; to transfer to another court; to appeal to; to direct to; to assign to;—v.t. to have reference or relation to; to offer, as testimony in evidence of character, qualification, etc.; to allude (to).—pr.p. refer'ring.—pa.t. and pa.p. referred'.—refer'able, refer'ible a. may be referred or assigned to.—referee n. an arbitrator; one named by a candidate for a post as willing to give testimony of character, etc.; an umpire; a neutral judge in various sports.—ref'erence n. appeal to the judgment of another; relation; one of whom inquiries can be made; a passage in a book to which reader is referred; a quotation; a testimonial.—referen'dum n. a popular vote for ascertaining the national will on a single definite issue.—referen'tial a. containing a reference; used for reference [L. re-, back; ferre, to carry].

refine (re-fin') v.t. to purify; to reduce crude metals to a finer state; to clarify; to polish or improve; to free from coarseness, vulgarity, etc.;—v.i. to become pure; to improve in accuracy, excellence, or good taste.—refined' a. purified or clarified; polished; well-bred.—refin'edly adv.—refine'ment n.—refin'ery n. place where process of refining sugar, oil, metals, etc., is effected [Fr. raffiner].

reflect (re-flekt') v.t. to throw back, esp. rays of light, heat, or sound, from surfaces; to mirror;—v.i. to throw back light, heat, etc.; to meditate; to consider attentively.—to reflect on, to cast discredit on; to disparage.—reflec'ted a. cast or thrown back (as light); folded back on itself; reflexed.—reflec'tible a.—reflec'ting a. thoughtful; throwing back rays of light, etc.—reflec'tingly adv.—reflec'tion n. reflecting; return of rays of heat or light, or waves of sound, from a surface; image given back from mirror or other reflecting surface; in radio, the rebound of waves from the reflecting layers, Appleton or Heaviside-Kennelly, back to earth; meditation; contemplation.—reflec'tive a. reflecting; meditative; (Gram.) reflexive; reciprocal.—reflec'tively adv.—reflec'tiveness n.—reflec'tor n. a reflecting surface used to alter the direction of rays of light, heat, etc. [L. reflectere, to bend back].

reflex (re-fleks) a. turned, bent, or directed backwards; introspective; reflective; reflected; (Mech.) produced by reaction; (Anat.) denoting the involuntary action of the motor nerves under a stimulus from the sensory nerves; involuntary; automatic;—n. reflection; a reflected image; a reflex-action;—v.t. to bend back; to reflect.—reflex'ible, reflec'tible a.—reflexibility n.—reflex'ive a. bending or turned backwards; reflective; of certain verbs, whose subject and object are the same person or thing; of pronouns which serve as objects to reflexive verbs, as myself, etc.—reflex'ively adv.—reflex'y adv.—conditioned reflex, reflex action due to power of association and suggestion [L. re-, back; flectere, to bend].

reflux (re-fluks) n. a flowing back; ebb;—a. re'fluent.—ref'luence, ref'lucency n.

reform (re-form') v.t. to form again; to reconstruct; to restore; to reclaim; to amend; to improve; to eliminate (abuse, a practice);—v.t. to amend one's ways; to improve;—n. amendment; improvement; rectification; correction.—reform'able a.—reforma'tion n. the act of forming or shaping again; change for the better; religious movement of 16th cent. in which a large section of the church broke away from Rome.—reform'ative a. forming again; aiming at reform.—reform'atory a. tending to reform;—n. former name for approved school.—reformed' a. formed again or in a new fashion; amended; reclaimed.—reform'er n. one who reforms; an advocate of political reform.—reform'ist n. a reformer.

refract (re-frakt') v.t. to bend sharply back; to cause to deviate from a direct course, as rays of light on passing from one medium to another.—refrac'table a.—refrac'ted a.—refrac'ting a. serving to refract; refractive.—refrac'tion n.—refrac'tive a. having power; to turn from a direct course; pert. to refraction [L. re-, back; frangere, fractum, to break].

refractory (re-frak'to-ri) a. sullen or perverse in opposition or disobedience; suitable for lining furnaces because of resistance to fusion at very high temperatures; (Med.) resistant to treatment.—refrac'torily adv.—refrac'toriness n. [L. re-, back; frangere, to break].

refragable (ref-ra-ga-bl) a. capable of being refuted, resisted, or opposed.—refragabil'ity n. [L. refragari, to resist].

refrain (re-frân') v.i. to hold back; to restrain; —v.t. to abstain. —refrain'ment n. [L. refranere, to bridle].

refrain (re-frân') n. chorus recurring at end of each verse of song; constant theme [Fr. fr. L. refringere, to break off].

refrangible (re-frânj-i-bl) a. able to be refracted. —refrangibil'ity, refrangibil'eness n. [L. re-, back; frangere, to break].

refresh (re-fresh') v.i. to make fresh again; to revive; to renew; to enliven; to provide with refreshment; to freshen up. —refresh'er n. one who, or that which, refreshes; an extra fee paid to legal counsel, in addition to retaining fee; (Slang) a refreshing drink. —refresh'ing a. invigorating; reviving. —refresh'ment n. restoration of strength; that which adds fresh vigour, as rest, drink, or food —hence, pl. food and drink [O.Fr. refreshier].

refrigerate (re-frij-er-ât) v.i. to make cold or frozen; to preserve food, etc., by cooling; —v.t. to become cold. —refrigerat'ion n. —refrig'erative, refrig'eratory a. cooling. —refrig'erator n. apparatus and plant for the manufacture of ice; specially constructed chamber for preserving food by mechanical production of low temperatures [L. re-, again; frigus, cold].

refit (ref) pa.p. of reave.

refuge (ref-ûj) n. shelter; asylum; retreat; harbour; small platform in a roadway for pedestrians; a street-island; —v.t. to shelter; to find shelter for; —v.i. to take shelter. —refugee' n. one who flees to a place of safety [L. re-, back; fugere, to flee].

refulgent (re-fulj-ent) a. shining; splendid. —refulgen'ce n. splendour. Also refulgen'cy [L. re-, again; fulgere, to shine].

refund (re-fund') v.i. to return in payment or compensation for; to repay. —re-fund n. repayment [L. re-, back; fundere, to pour].

refurbish (re-fur-bish) v.t. to furnish up again; to retouch; to renovate; to polish up.

refuse (re-fûz') v.t. to deny or reject; to decline; —v.i. to decline something offered; not to comply. —refu'sal n. act of refusing; the first chance of accepting or declining an offer; an option [Fr. refuser, fr. L. recusare, to decline, to refuse].

refuse (ref-ûs) a. rejected; worthless; —n. waste matter; garbage; trash [Fr. refuser, to refuse].

re-fuse (re-fûz') v.t. of metals, to fuse or melt again. —refu'sion n.

refute (re-fût') v.t. to overthrow by argument; to prove to be false. —refu'table a. capable of being refuted. —refu'tably adv. —refuta'tion n. [L. refutare, to repel].

regain (re-gân') v.t. to recover; to retrieve; to get back; to reach again.

regal (rê-gal) n. a miniature portable rood-organ [Fr. regale].

regal (rê-gal) a. pert. to a king; kingly; royal. —regalia (re-gâ-li-a) n.pl. insignia of royalty, as crown, sceptres, orbs, etc. —regal'ity n. royalty; sovereignty; an ensign of royalty. —regal'ly adv. [L. regalis, royal].

regale (re-gâl') v.t. to entertain in sumptuous manner; to refresh; —v.i. to feast; —n. banquet; feast. —regale'ment n. refreshment [Fr. regaler].

regard (re-gârd') v.t. to observe; to gaze; to consider; to pay respect to; —n. aspect; esteem; account; gaze; heed; concern; —pl. compliments; good wishes. —regard'able a. —regard'ful a. heedful. —regard'fully adv. —regard'ing prep. concerning —also in with regard to, as regards. —regard'less a. without regard; careless; neglectful. —regard'lessly adv. [Fr. regarder].

regatta (re-gat-ta) n. series of races in which yachts, rowing boats, etc. participate [It. orig. a gondola race in Venice].

regency (rê-jen-si) n. See regent.

regenerate (re-jen-er-ât) v.t. and v.i. to give fresh life or vigour to; to reorganise; to recreate the moral nature; to cause to be born again; —a. born anew; changed from a natural to a spiritual state; regenerated. —regen'eracy, regenerat'ion n. —regen'erative a. pert. to regeneration. —regen'eratively adv.

regent (rê-jent) a. holding the office of regent; exercising vicarious authority; —n. one who governs a kingdom during the minority, absence, or disability of sovereign. —re-gen'cy n. office and jurisdiction of a regent [L. regere, to rule].

regicide (rej-i-sid) n. one who assassinates a king. —regic'idal a. [L. rex, regis, a king; caedere, to slay].

régime (râ-zhêm') n. style of rule or management; administration; an ordered mode of dieting [Fr.].

regimen (rej-i-men) n. orderly government; systematic method of dieting [L. = rule, government].

regiment (rej-i-ment) n. a body of soldiers commanded by a senior officer and consisting of companies, batteries, battalions, or squadrons, according to branch of service; —v.t. to form into a regiment; to systematise. regiment'al a. pert. to a regiment; (Slang) very authoritative; —n.pl. the uniform worn by troops of a regiment. —regimenta'tion n. thorough systematisation and control of lives of people without consulting them [L. regimentum, government].

region (rê-jun) n. territory of indefinite extent; district; part of body; sphere or realm (esp. of abstract speculation); —pl. separate parts of the universe. —re-gi'onal a. —re-gi'onally adv. [L. regio, a district].

register (rej-is-ter) n. a written account; an official record; a list; the book in which a record is kept; an alphabetical index; an archive; a catalogue; a roll; a calendar; registrar —as in Scotland, Lord Clerk Registrar, keeper of public archives; a metal damper to close a chimney; any mechanical contrivance which registers or records; (Mus.) row of organ pipes with same tone colour; organ stop; compass of a voice or instrument; —v.t. to record; to enrol; to lodge a complaint in writing. —reg'istrable a. —reg'istered a. enrolled. —reg'istrant n. one who registers. —reg'istrar n. an official who keeps a register or record of transactions. —registra'tion n. entry or record, e.g. of births, etc.; form of insurance of postal packages; the selection of stops by an organist while playing an organ. —reg'istry n. act of registering; office for registering births, deaths and marriages; agency for supplying domestic servants, etc. —registered post, a method of postal delivery by which mail is insured against loss or damage in transit [O.Fr. registre].

regius (rêj-i-us) a. appointed by the crown; royal. —regius professor, one whose chair was founded by Henry VIII. In Scottish Universities, one who receives a crown appointment as professor [L. = royal].

regnal (reg-nal) a. pert. to reign of monarch. —reg'nancy n. rule; reign; predominance. —reg'nant a. reigning; ruling by hereditary right [L. regnare, to reign].

regress (rê-gres') n. passage back; the power of passing back; re-entry; —v.t. to go or fall back; to return to a former state; (Astron.) to move from east to west. —regress'ion n. returning; retrogression; (Psych.) diversion of psychic energy, owing to obstacles encountered, into channels of fantasy instead of reality. —regress'ive a. [L. regressus, fr. regredi, to go back].

regret (re-gret') v.t. to grieve over; to lament; to deplore; —pr.p. regret'ting. —pa.t. and pa.p. regret'ted. —n. grief; sorrow; remorse. —regret'ful a. —regret'fully adv. —regret'table a. deserving regret; lamentable. —regret'ably adv. [Fr. regretter].

regular (reg-û-lar) a. conforming to, governed by rule; periodical; symmetrical; orderly; strict habitual; straight; level; natural; standing (army); (Colloq.) out and out; belonging to a monastic order (opp. to secular); (Mus.) strict; —n. a member of any religious order who professes to follow a certain rule (regula) of life; a soldier belonging to a permanent, standing army. —reg'ularise v.t. to make regular. —regularisation n. —regularity n. conformity to rule; uniformity. —regularly adv. [L. regula, a rule].

regulate (reg'ū-lāt) v.t. to adjust by rule, method, etc.; to dispose; to arrange; to rule; to control. —regula'tion n. regulating or controlling; state of being reduced to order; a bye-law; an order. —reg'ulative a. tending to regulate. —reg'ulator n. one who, or that which, regulates; a mechanical contrivance for regulating motion [L. regula, a rule].

regulus (reg'ū-lus) n. golden-crested wren; a mass of partly purified ore; commercially pure metallic antimony [L. = a petty king].

regurgitate (re-gur'j-i-tāt) v.t. to throw, flow, or pour back in great quantity; —v.i. to be thrown or poured back. —regurgita'tion n. [L. re-, back; gurgis, a gulf].

rehabilitate (rē-hā-bil'i-tāt) v.t. to restore to reputation or former position; to reinstate. —rehabilita'tion n. [L. re-, again; habilitare, to make fit].

rehash (rē-hash') v.t. to mix together and use or serve up a second time; —n. old materials used over again.

rehearse (re-hers') v.t. and v.i. to repeat aloud; to practise (play, etc.); to recite; to recapitulate; to narrate. —rehear'sal n. trial performance of a play, opera, etc. [O.Fr. rehercer, to repeat (lit. rake over again)].

Reich (rīk) n. German Confederation of States. —Reichs'tag n. the German parliament. —Reichswehr (rīk's-vār) n. German army and navy [Ger.].

reify (rē-i-fī) v.t. to make concrete or real. —reifica'tion n. [L. res, a thing; facere, to make].

reign (rān) n. royal authority; the period during which a sovereign occupies throne; influence; —v.i. to possess sovereign power; to be predominant [O.Fr. regne, fr. L. regnare, to rule].

reimburse (rē-im-burs') v.t. to refund; to pay back; to give the equivalent of. —reimburse'ment n. —reimbur'ser n. [Fr. rembourser, fr. bourse, a purse].

rein (rān) n. strap of bridle to govern a horse, etc.; means of controlling, curbing; restraint; —pl. power, or means of exercising power; —v.t. to govern with rein or bridle; to restrain [O.Fr. reine, fr. L. reinere, to hold back].

reincarnate (rē-in-kār-nāt) v.t. to embody again in the flesh. —reincarna'tion n. belief in re-birth of human soul in another physical body; metempsychosis.

reindeer (rān-dēr) n. deer of colder regions. —reind'eer-moss n. lichen, the winter food of reindeer [O.N. hreinndyri].

reinforce (rē-in-fōrs') v.t. to strengthen with new force, esp. of troops or ships; to corroborate. —reinforce'ment n. reinforcing; additional troops or ships to strengthen fighting forces; steel bar incorporated in reinforced concrete. —reinforced concrete n. concrete strengthened by the inclusion in it of steel nets, rods, girders, etc. [Fr. renforcer].

reins (rānz) n.pl. kidneys; loins [L. renes].

reinstate (rē-in-stāt') v.t. to restore to former position. —reinstate'ment n.

reissue (rē-īsh'ū) v.t. to issue again; to republish; —n. a new issue; a reprint.

reiterate (rē-ī-tēr-it) v.t. to repeat again and again. —reiter'ant a. reiterating. —reitera'tion n. —reiter'ative n. and a. (Gram.) a word, or part of a word, repeated so as to form a reduplicated word.

reive, reave (rāv) v.t. to steal; to rob. —pa.p. reft. —reiv'er, reav'er n. a robber; a freebooter [O.E. reafian, to rob].

reject (re-jekt') v.t. to cast from one; to throw away; to refuse; to put aside; —n. a person or thing rejected as not up to standard. — rejec'table a. —rejec'tion n. [L. re-, back; facere, to throw].

rejoice (re-jōis') v.t. to give joy to; to cheer; to gladden; —v.i. to exult; to triumph. —rejoice'ing n. act of expressing joy; —pl. public expression of joy; festivities. —rejoice'ingly adv. [Fr. réjouir].

rejoin (rē-join') v.t. to unite again; to meet again; to enter again, as society, etc.; —v.i. to reply. —rejoin'der n. a curt, abrupt reply; a repartee [Fr. rejoindre].

rejuvenate (rē-jōō'ven-āt) v.t. to make young again. —rejuvena'tion n. —rejuvena'tor n. —rejuvenesce' v.t. to grow young again. —rejuvenes'cence n. —rejuvenes'cent a. —reju'venise v.t. to rejuvenate [L. re-, again; juvnis, young].

relapse (re-laps') v.t. to slide back, esp. into state of ill-health, error, evil ways; —n. a falling back; a sudden return of grave symptoms after convalescence [L. relabi, relapsus, to slip back].

relate (re-lāt') v.t. to narrate; to recount; to tell; to establish relation between; —v.i. to have relation (to); to refer (to). —relat'ed a. connected by blood or marriage; allied; akin. —rela'tion n. telling; account; feeling between persons or nations; connection between things; kindred; connection by consanguinity or affinity; a relative. —rela'tional a. indicating some relation. —rela'tionship n. [L. referre, relatum, to bring back].

relative (rel'a-tiv) a. dependent on relation to something else, not absolute; respecting; connected; related; (Gram.) noting a relation or reference to antecedent word or sentence; —n. a person connected by blood or affinity; a word relating to an antecedent word, clause, or sentence. —rel'atively adv. comparatively. —rel'ativeness n. —relativity n. being relative; doctrine in philosophy that knowledge is not absolute but conditioned; in physics, the doctrine that measurement is conditioned by the choice of co-ordinate axes [fr. relate].

relax (re-laks') v.t. to make less severe or stern; to loosen; —v.i. to become loosened or feeble; to unbend; to become less severe; to ease up. —relaxa'tion n. act of relaxing; recreation; mitigation; alleviation. —relax'ing a. enervating; not bracing [L. re-, again; laxus, loose].

relay (rē-lā') n. supplies conveniently stored at successive stages of a route; a gang of men, a fresh set of horses, etc., ready to relieve others; a device for making or breaking a local electrical circuit; an electro-magnetic device for allowing a weak signal from a distance to control a more powerful local electrical circuit; a low-powered broadcasting station which broadcasts programmes originating in another station; —v.t. to pass on, as a message, broadcast, etc. —relay race, a race between teams of which each runner does a part of the distance [Fr. relais, a rest].

release (re-lēs') v.t. to set free; to allow to quit; to exempt from obligation; (Law) to remit a claim; —n. liberation; exemption; discharge; acquittance; a catch for controlling mechanical parts of a machine; (Law) a discharge of a right or claim. —releas'able a. [O.Fr. relâssier].

relegate (re-lē-gāt) v.t. to send away; to banish; to consign; to demote. —relega'tion n. [L. re-, back; legare, to send].

relent (re-lent') v.t. to give up harsh intention; to yield. —relent'less a. showing no pity or sympathy. —relent'lessly adv. —relent'lessness n. [Fr. valentir, to slacken].

relevant (re-'e-vant) a. bearing upon the case in hand; pertinent; appropriate. —rel'evance, rel'evancy n. —rel'evantly adv. [L. relevare, to raise up].

reliable (re-lī-ā-bl) a. trustworthy; honest; creditable. —reliabil'ity, rel'iability n. quality or state of being reliable. —reli'ably adv. —reli'ance n. trust; confidence; dependence. —reli'ant a. confident; trusting [fr. rely].

relie (rel'ē-ik) n. something surviving from the past; part of body of a saint or martyr, preserved with religious veneration;—pl. a corpse; remains of the dead [L. relictus, remaining].

relict (re-lĭkt) n. widow [L. relicta, left behind].

relied (re-lĭd) pa. p. and pa. f. of rely.

relief (re-lĕf) n. removal or alleviation of pain, distress, or other evil; help; comfort; remedy; one who relieves another at his post; prominence; a sculptured figure standing out from a plane surface.—relief-map n. a map in clay, etc. showing the elevations and depressions of a country in relief [L. re-, again; levare, to raise].

relieve (re-lĕv) v. i. to set off by contrast; to alleviate; to free from trial, evil, or distress; to release from a post by substitution of another; to remedy; to indemnify; to lighten (gloom, etc.).—relieving a. serving to relieve.—relieving officer, official appointed to superintend relief of poor [L. re-, again; levare, to raise].

religion (re-lij-ġun) n. belief in supernatural power which governs universe; recognition of God as object of worship; practical piety; any system of faith and worship; reverence; holiness.—relig'ionist, relig'ionary, relig'ioner n. one who makes inordinate professions of religion.—relig'osity n. sense of, or tendency towards, religiousness.—relig'ous a. pert. to religion; pious; teaching religion; conscientious.—relig'iously adv. [L. religio].

relinquish (re-ling-kwish) v. i. to give up; to yield; to cede; to resign.—relinquisher n.—relinquishment n. [L. relinquere].

reliquary (re-li-kwari) n. a depository or casket in which relics of saints or martyrs are preserved; a shrine [Fr. reliquaire].

relish (re-lish) v. i. to taste with pleasure; to like immensely;—v. t. to have a pleasing taste; to smack (of); to savour;—n. savour; flavour; what is used to make food more palatable, as sauce, seasoning, etc.; appetite; zest; gusto [O.Fr. reles, aftertaste].

reluctant (re-luk-tant) a. unwilling; disinclined.—reluctance n.—reluctancy n.—reluctantly adv. [L. reluctari, to struggle against].

rely (re-lĭ) v. i. to trust; to depend; to confide;—pa. f. and pa. p. relied.—reli'er n. [L. religare, to bind fast].

remain (re-mān) v. i. to stay; to continue or endure; to abide; to last;—n. pl. a corpse; unpublished literary works of deceased.—remain'der n. what remains; remnant; in real property law, an interest in an estate which only operates after the termination of a prior interest [L. re-, back; manere, to stay].

remand (re-mānd) v. t. to send back to prison, an accused person while further inquiries are made;—n. such a recommittal.—remand home, a place of detention for young delinquents [L. re-, back; mandare, to commit].

remark (re-mārk) v. t. to take notice of; to express in words or writing; to regard; to speak; to say; to comment;—n. comment; notice; heed; regard;—v. i. to make a remark (on).—remark'able a. extraordinary.—remark'ableness n.—remark'ably adv. [Fr. remarquer].

remedy (rem-e-di) n. a means of curing or relieving a disease, trouble, fault, etc.; legal means to recover a right, or to obtain redress; cure; antidote;—v. t. to restore to health; to heal; to cure; to put right.—pa. p. rem'edied.—rem'ediable a. curable.—rem'edial a. affording a remedy [L. remedium].

remember (re-mem-ber) v. i. to retain in the memory; to recollect; to reward for services rendered; to remind;—v. t. to have in mind.—remem'berable a.—remem'brance n. act or power of remembering; state of being remembered; recollection; memory; token; memento; keepsake.—remem'brancer n. one who or that which reminds; an officer of City of London, who acts as parliamentary agent in connection with promotion of city bills; officer of the Exchequer [L. re-, again; memor, mindful].

remind (re-mĭnd) v. t. to recall to memory; to cause to remember.—remind'er n. one who, or that which, reminds.

remembrance (rem-i-lĭns-ġens) n. state of calling to mind; a recollection; a remembrance; something recalling past events;—pl. autobiographical notes; memoirs.—remine'cent a. [L. reminiſci, to remember].

remit (re-mĭt) v. t. to send back or remit, esp. in law; to resign or surrender (property, etc.) by deed;—n. (Law) a surrender (O.Fr.).

remiss (re-mĭs) a. not energetic or exact in duty; careless in fulfilling engagements.—remiss'ful a. forgiving.—remiss'ible a. able to be pardoned.—remis'sion n. abatement; diminution; period of moderation of intensity of a fever or other disease; pardon; forgiveness of sin.—remis'sive a. slackening; moderating.—remis'sly adv.—remis'sness n. slackness; neglect [L. remissus, slack].

remit (re-mĭt) v. t. to send back; to refer; to transfer; to send accused for trial to a higher court; to transmit to a distance, as money bills; to return; to restore; to slacken (efforts); to decrease; to forgive; to refrain from exacting (debt, etc.);—v. i. to abate in force; to slacken off.—pr. p. remit'ting.—pa. f. and pa. p. remit'ted.—n. remission.—remit'ment, remit'tal n. a remit.—remit'tance n. transmitting money, bills, or the like to a distant place; the money sent.—remit'tent a. increasing and decreasing at periodic intervals [L. remittere, to send back].

remnant (rem-n-ant) n. fragment of cloth; scrap; residue; remainder [O.Fr. remanant, remaining].

remonstrance (re-mon-strān) v. i. to make evident by strong protestations;—v. t. to present strong reasons against; to speak strongly against course of conduct.—remont'rance n. expostulation; formal protest.—remonstrant n. one who remonstrates;—a. expostulatory.—remonstrat'ion n. the act of remonstrating.—remonstrative, remonstratory a. [L. re-, again; monstrare, to point out].

remorse (re-mors) n. self-reproach excited by sense of guilt; repentance.—remorse'ful a. penitent; repentant.—remorse'fully adv.—remorse'less a. relentless; pitiless [L. remordere, to bite again].

remote (re-mōt) a. far back in time or space; not near; slight; unlikely; aloof.—remote'ly adv.—remote'ness n.—remote control, control of apparatus from a distance, by magnets energised by electric currents sent via wireless [L. re-, back; movere, to move, to move].

remove (re-mōv) v. t. to take or put away; to dislodge; to transfer; to withdraw; to extract; to banish; to dismiss from a post; to eject; to oust;—v. i. to change place or residence;—n. removal; change of place; a step in any scale of gradation; a move; a posting-stage for fresh horses.—removability n.—removable a. not permanently fixed.—remov'ably adv.—remo'val n. removing; transferring to another house; dismissal from a post; departure; death, esp. by violence.—removed a. denoting nearness of relationship, as cousin once removed, parent's cousin or child of cousin.—remo'ver n. [L. re-, back; movere, to move].

remunerate (re-mū-nĭ-rāt) v. t. to reward for services; to recompense; to compensate.—remun'erable a. that may, or should be, remunerated.—remunera'tion n. reward; recompense; salary.—remun'orative a. lucrative; well-paid [L. re-, again; munerare, to give].

ren (ren) n. kidney.—pl. re'nes.—re'nal a. pert. to kidneys [L. renes].

renaissance (re-nā-sāns) n. a rebirth; a period of intellectual revival, esp. of learning in fourteenth to sixteenth cents.;—a. pert. to renaissance. Also renas'sance [Fr.].

renascent (re-nas-ġnt) a. springing into being again; regaining lost vigour.—renas'scence n.

See renaissance [L. re-, again; nasci, to be born].

recounter, rencontre (ren-koun'ter, rong-kōng'tr) n. an unpremeditated encounter; a minor conflict; a clash; a duel [Fr. rencontrer, to meet].

rend (rend) v.t. to tear asunder; to pull to pieces; to split; to lacerate; to crack.—pa.t. and pa.p. rent [O.E. rendan, to cut].

render (ren'der) v.t. to give in return; to deliver up; to supply; to present; to make or cause to be; to translate from one language into another; to reproduce music; to portray; to extract animal fats by heating; to clarify.—ren'derable a.—ren'derer n.—ren'dering n. the act of rendering; translation; version; interpretation.—ren'dition n. surrender, as of fugitives from justice, at the request of a foreign government; translation; version; interpretation [Fr. rendre].

rendevous (ren' or rōng'dē-vōō) n. place of resort; an appointed place for meeting;—v.t. to assemble at a pre-arranged place [Fr. = betake yourselves].

rendition See render.

renegade (ren'ē-gād) n. one faithless to principle or party; a deserter;—a. apostate; false; traitorous.—ren'egate n. a renegade;—a. apostate; false; traitorous.—renege' v.t. and v.i. to deny; to desert; to turn renegade; to revoke at cards.—rene'ger n. [L. re-, again; negare, to deny].

renew (rē-nū') v.t. and v.i. to restore; to renovate; to revive; to begin again; to recommence.—renew'able a.—renew'al n. revival; restoration; regeneration.

rennet (ren'et) n. one of several sub-varieties of desert apple [etym. uncertain].

rennet (ren'et) n. any preparation from animal intestines, used for curdling milk and in preparation of cheese.—ren'nin n. a casein-digesting enzyme or ferment in gastric juice which curdles milk [M.E. rennen, to run, congeal].

renounce (re-nouns') v.t. to disavow; to give up; to resign; to reject;—v.i. to fail in following suit when a card of the suit is in the player's hand.—renounce'ment, renuncia'tion n. [L. renunciare, to protest against].

renovate (ren'ō-vāt) v.t. to render as good as new; to overhaul and repair; to renew.—renova'tion n. renewal;—pl. repairs and improvements.—ren'ovator, ren'ovator n. [L. renovare, fr. novus, new].

renown (re-noun') n. great reputation; fame; celebrity;—v.t. to make renowned.—renowned a. famous; noted; eminent [O.Fr. renoun, fr. renommer, to make famous].

rent (rent) pa.t. and pa.p. of rend;—n. an opening made by rending; a tear; a fissure; a split; a breach; a rupture; a rift.

rent (rent) n. a periodical payment at an agreed rate for use and enjoyment of something, esp. land, houses; rental; hiring charge;—v.t. to lease; to hold by lease; to hire;—v.i. to be leased or let for rent.—rent'able a.—rent'al n. a rent-roll; the annual amount of rent payable.—rent'er n. one who rents [Fr. rente, income].

renunciation (re-nun-si-ā'shun) n. a surrender of claim or interest; disavowal; disowning; rejection; formal repudiation. Also renun'ciance.—renun'ciative, renun'ciatory a. [fr. renounce].

reorganise (rē-or'gā-niz) v.t. to organise anew; to reduce again to a regular system.

rep, repp (rep). reps (repk) n. a thick corded worsted, cotton, or silk fabric [prob. fr. rib].

repair (rō-pār') v.t. to restore to a sound or good state after injury; to mend; to retrieve; to redress;—n. restoration; reparation; patching; mending.—repair'able a.—repair'er n. [O.Fr. reparer].

repair (rē-pār') v.t. to go; to betake oneself (to); to resort;—n. haunt; resort [L. repatriare, to return to one's country].

reparable (rep'ā-rā-bl) a. that can be made good.—rep'arably adv.—repara'tion n. repairing or making amends; indemnity; redress; compensation; atonement.—repar'ative a. [O.Fr. reparer].

repatee (rep-ar-tē') n. apt, witty reply; gift of making such replies [Fr. repartie, orig. answering thrust in fencing].

repast (re-pās't) n. a meal; victuals;—v.t. and v.i. to feed [Fr. repas, a meal].

repatriate (rē-pā'tri-āt, rē-pat'ri-āt) v.t. to restore to one's own country; to bring back prisoners of war and refugees from abroad.—repatria'tion n.

repay (rē-pā') v.t. to pay back; to make return or requital for; to compensate; to requite.—pa.t. and pa.p. repaid'.—repay'able a. meant or expected to be repaid.—repay'ment n.

repeal (rē-pēl') v.t. to revoke, rescind, annul, as a deed, will, law, or statute; to abrogate; to cancel; to abolish;—n. revocation; abrogation; annulment.—repeal'able a. [O.Fr. rapeler, fr. appeler, to appeal].

repeat (re-pēt') v.t. to say or do again; to reiterate; to echo; to recite a piece learnt by heart; to rehearse; to recapitulate; to recur; to regurgitate (of food);—n. repetition; encore; (Mus.) sign that a movement is to be performed twice, indicated by inclusion within dots of part to be repeated.—repeat'able a.—repeat'ed a. frequent; recurring.—repeat'edly adv.—repeat'er n. one who, or that which, repeats; fire-arm which may be discharged many times in quick succession, a watch which, at the touch of a spring, strikes the last hour and the appropriate quarter, so giving an indication of the approximate time; (Arith.) a decimal in which same figures repeat ad infinitum.—repeat'ing n. [L. repetere, to try or seek again].

repel (re-pel') v.t. to drive back; to repulse, to oppose; to excite revulsion in,—r.i. to have a negative electrical power, to cause repugnance.—pr.p. repel'ling.—pa.t. and pa.p. repelled'.—repel'lence, repel'lency n. state of being repellent.—repel'lent a. driving back; tending to repel;—n. that which repels.—repel'ler n. [L. re-, back; pellere, to drive].

repent (re-pent') v.t. and v.i. to feel regret for a deed or omission.—repent'ance n. sorrow or regret; contrition; penitence.—repent'ant a. [Fr. se repentir].

repercuss (rē-pr-kus') v.t. and r.i. to beat or drive back, as sound or air.—repercu'ssion n. act of driving back; reverberation; rebound; recoil; echo; indirect effect or consequence.—repercu'ssive a. driving back [fr. percussion].

repertoire (rep-er-twar') n. list of plays, operas, musical works, dramatic rôles, within sphere of operations of stock theatrical company or of an individual.—rep'ertory n. a repertoire; a place in which things are disposed in an orderly manner; a treasury; a magazine;—n. pert. to the stock plays of a resident company.—rep'ertory theatre, a theatre with a permanent company and a repertoire of plays [Fr. lr. repertorium].

repetition (rep-e-tish'un) n. act of repeating; the thing repeated; poetry or prose learnt by heart and repeated as a school exercise.—repet'itious a. full of repetitions.—repet'itive a. involving much repetition [fr. repetit].

repine (rē-pin') v.t. to fret or vex oneself; to be discontented; to complain; to murmur.—repin'er n.—repin'ing n.

replace (rē-plās') v.t. to put back into its place; to supply as equivalent for; to substitute for.—replace'able a.—replace'ment n. restoration; substitution.

replenish (rē-plen'ish) v.t. to fill up again; to restock; to refill; to furnish; to supply.—replen'ishment n. [L. re-, again; plenus, full].

replete (re-plēt') a. full; completely filled; surfeited.—replete'ness, reple'tion n. satiety; surfeit; (Med.) fullness of blood; plethora [L. re-, again; plere, plenum, to fill].

replica (rep-⁴li-kə) n. exact copy of work of art by the artist of the original; facsimile. — replicate v.i. to fold or bend back; to make a copy of. — replication n. an answer; reply; [Law] reply of a plaintiff to defendant's plea [L. replicare, to fold back].

reply (re-pli') v.i. and v.t. to return an answer; to respond; to rejoin. — pa.f. and pa.p. replied'. — n. answer; rejoinder; response [O.Fr. replier, fr. L. replicare, to fold back].

repose (rē-pōn') v.t. to replace; to restore; to reply [L. re-, back; ponere, to place].

report (re-pōrt') v.i. to relate; to take down in writing; to give an account of; to name as an offender; to communicate; to narrate; — v.t. to make official statement; to furnish in writing an account of a speech, or the proceedings of a public assembly; to betake oneself as to superior officer; — n. an official statement of facts; rumour; noise; reverberation, as of gun; account of proceedings, debates, etc. of public bodies; (Bib.) repute; reputation. — report'er n. one who reports, esp. for newspapers. — report'ing n. — reported speech, not using the exact words spoken but reporting statements in the third person; indirect speech [Fr. reporter, fr. L. reportare, to bring back].

repose (re-pōz') v.i. to rely on; to lean (on); to confide (in); to calm; to deposit; — v.t. to rest; to sleep; to recline; — n. sleep; relaxation. — reposed a. calm; tranquil. — reposit v.t. to lay up, to lodge, in a place of safety. — reposit'ory n. place where valuables are deposited for safety; a shop; magazine; depot; store-house [Fr. reposer, fr. L. reponere, to place back].

repoussé (re-pōs-sā) a. embossed; hammered into relief from reverse side; — n. a style of raised ornamentation in metal. — repoussage (re-pō-sazh') n. [Fr.].

repp See rep.

reprehend (rep-re-hend') v.t. to find fault with; to blame; to rebuke. — reprehens'ible a. unworthy; blameworthy. — reprehens'ibly adv. — reprehens'ive a. containing reproof. — reprehens'ively adv. — reprehens'ory a. given in reproof [L. reprehendere, lit. to take hold again].***

represent (rep-re-zent') v.t. to exhibit the counterpart or image of; to recall by description or portrait; to pretend to be; to allege; to act or play the part of; to personate; to imitate; to deputise for; to be the member (of parliament, etc.) for. — represent'able a. — representa'tion n. describing, or showing; that which represents, as a picture; description; account; a dramatic performance; a protest; the act of representing (in parliament, etc.). — representa'tional a. — represent'ative a. typical; representing all shades of classes or of opinions; exhibiting a likeness; portraying; — n. an agent, deputy, delegate, or substitute; local member of parliament. — representative government, one in which the people are directly represented by deputies [Fr. représenter].

repress (re-pres') v.t. to keep down or under; to put down; to reduce to subjection; to quell; to check. — repress'er, repress'or n. — repress'ible a. capable of being repressed. — repress'ibly adv. — repress'ion n. check; restraint; in psychoanalysis, process arising out of mental conflict by which unconsciously or subconsciously instincts are subdued and painful thoughts and tendencies are automatically excluded from consciousness. — repress'ive a. designed to crush or repress [L. reprimere, repressum, to repress].

reprove (re-prév') v.t. to remit or commute a sentence; to grant temporary relief; to give a respite to; — n. temporary suspension of execution of sentence; rest or relief (for earlier repp, fr. Fr. reprehendere, to take back).

reprimand (rep-ri-mand') v.t. to reprove severely; to chide. — n. a sharp rebuke; a severe admonition [Fr. réprimande, fr. reprimer, to repress].

reprint (ré-print') v.t. to print again. — re'print n. a second or a new impression or edition of any printed work.

reprisal (re-priz'al) n. an act of retaliation or retribution [Fr. représaille].

reproach (re-prōch') v.t. to censure; to upbraid; to rebuke; to reprove; to charge (with); — n. reproof; rebuke; discredit; an object of scorn. — reproach'ful a. expressing censure; conveying protest and sorrow. — reproach'fully adv. [Fr. reprocher].

reprobate (rep-rō-bāt') v.t. to disapprove with signs of extreme dislike; to exclude from hopes of salvation; — a. disallowed; rejected; abandoned to error and apostasy; cast off by God; — n. profligate; hardened sinner; scoundrel. — reproba'tion n. condition of those pre-ordained to eternal perdition; condemnation; censure; rejection [L. reprobare, to reprove].

reproduce (ré-prō-dūs') v.t. to produce over again; to produce likeness or copy of; to imitate; — v.i. to propagate; to generate. — reprodu'cible a. — reprodu'ction n. a repeat; a facsimile, as of a painting, photograph, etc.; wireless signals from loud-speaker of a receiving set; process of multiplication of living individuals or units whereby the species is perpetuated, either sexual or asexual. — reproduc'tive a. pert. to reproduction; yielding a return or profits; fertile. — reproduc'tiveness, reproduc'tivity n.

reproof (re-prōof') n. reprimand; rebuke; censure; admonition. — reprove v.t. to charge with a fault; to rebuke. — reprov'able a. deserving or calling for censure. — reproval n. reproof [O.Fr. reprover, fr. L. reprobare, to reprove].

reptile (rep-tīl) n. animal of class Reptil'ia — cold-blooded, air-breathing vertebrates which move on their bellies or by means of small, short legs; a grovelling or contemptible person; — a. of reptile skin; creeping; grovelling; low; mean. — reptil'ian a. belonging to reptiles [L. reptilis, creeping].

republic (re-pub-lik) n. a state, without a hereditary head, in which supremacy of the people or its elected representatives is formally acknowledged; commonwealth. — repub'lican a. pert. to republic; — n. one who favours a republican system of government; a democrat; one of the two great traditional political parties of the U.S.A. — repub'licanism n. [L. res publica, common weal].

repudiate (re-pū-di-āt') v.t. to cast off; to reject; to disclaim; to disclaim; to disown; to divorce; to refuse (payment). — repudia'tion n. rejection; disavowal. — repud'iator n. [L. re-, away; puere, to be ashamed].

repugn (re-pūn) v.t. and v.i. to oppose; to resist; to make a stand against. — repug'nance n. state or condition of being repugnant. — repug'naney n. a settled or habitual feeling of aversion. — repug'nant a. contrary; distasteful in a high degree; offensive; hostile; adverse; opposed to; contradictory; refractory [L. repugnare, to fight back].

repulse (re-puls') v.t. to beat or drive back; to repel decisively; to reject; to rebuff; — n. state of being repulsed; act of driving off; a local defeat; check; rebuff; rejection. — repul'sion n. act of driving back; state of being repelled; feeling of aversion; repugnance. — repul'sive a. loathsome; disgusting; causing aversion. — repul'sively adv. — repul'siveness n. repulsion. — repul'sory a. repulsive [L. repellere, repulsum, to drive back].

repute (re-pūt') v.t. to account or consider; to hold; to reckon; — n. good character; reputation; credit; esteem. — reputa'tion n. estimation in which a person is held; repute; known or reported character; general credit; good name; fame; renown. — reput'able a. held in esteem; respectable; creditable. — reput'ably adv. — reput'edly adv. generally understood or believed [L. reputare, to reckon].

request (re-kwest') v.t. to ask for earnestly;

- to petition; to beg; —n. expression of desire for; petition; suit; demand; requisition. — requester n. [O.Fr. requeste].
- requiem (rek'wi-em) n. celebration of Holy Eucharist for soul of a dead person, the name derived from introit, Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine, Grant them, O Lord, eternal rest; dirge; music for such a mass.
- require (re-kwir') v.i. to insist upon having; to claim as by right; to make necessary; to demand; to need; to lack. — requirement n. act of requiring; what is required; want; need; an essential condition [L. requirere, to seek].
- requisite (rek'wi-zit) a. necessary; needful; indispensable; essential; —n. something necessary or indispensable. — requisition n. a levy of necessities, with or without payment, made on a community by a military force; formal demand made by one state to another for surrender of a fugitive from justice; a written order for materials or supplies; a formal demand; —v.t. to demand certain supplies or materials, esp. for troops; to request formally; to seize. — requisitionist n. one who makes a requisition [L. requirere, requisitionem, to seek].
- requite (re-kwit') v.t. to return an equivalent in good or evil; to repay; to reward; to retaliate on. — requital n. that which requites or repays; compensation; retaliation [re-, and quit].
- reredos (rêr-dos) n. an elaborately carved screen or wall panelling, behind a church altar [O.Fr. rere, rear; dos, the back].
- reremouse (rêr-mous) n. a bat. Also rear mouse [O.E. heremouse].
- rescind (re-sind') v.t. to annul; to cancel; to revoke; to repeal; to reverse; to abrogate. — rescindable a. — rescindment, rescission n. act of abrogating or annulling. — rescissory a. having power or effect of rescinding [L. rescindere, to cut off].
- rescript (rêskript) n. In early Roman Empire, answers of emperors to questions officially put to them; a decretal epistle of the Popes; an edict or decree.
- rescue (reskû) v.t. to free from danger, evil, or restraint; to set at liberty; to deliver. — pr.p. rescuing. —n. rescuing; deliverance. — rescuer n. [O.Fr. rescoudre].
- research (re-sêrch') n. diligent search or inquiry; scientific investigation and study to discover facts; scrutiny; —a. pert. to research; —v.t. to make research; to examine with care. — researcher n.
- rescui (rê-sêi') v.t. to provide with a new suit or set of seats; to patch (trousers, etc.).
- resemble (re-zem'bl) v.t. to be like or similar to; to compare; to liken. — resemblance n. likeness; similarity. — resembling a. [Fr. ressembler].
- resent (re-zent') v.t. to consider as an injury or affront; to take ill; to be angry at. — resentful a. full of, or readily given to, resentment. — resentfully adv. — resentment n. deep sense of affront; indignation; displeasure [L. re-, again; sentire, to feel].
- reserve (re-zêrv') v.t. to hold back; to set apart; to keep for future use; to retain; to keep for some person; —a. acting as a reserve; —n. keeping back; what is reserved; supply of stores for future use; troops, etc., held back from line of battle to assist when necessary; body of men discharged from armed forces but liable to be recalled in an emergency; funds set aside for possible contingencies; minimum price acceptable at auction; reticence; concealment of feelings or friendliness; an area of land for a particular purpose. — reservation n. reserving or keeping back; what is kept back; booking of a hotel-room, etc.; a proviso or condition; a tract of land reserved for some public use. — reserved a. kept back; retained or booked for another; not free or frank; uncommunicative. — reservedly adv. — reservedness n. — reservist, a. member of the armed forces belonging to reserves. — reserved
- occupation*, one which exempts a worker from military or national service [L. reservare, to keep back].
- reservoir (rez'pr-vwâr) n. enclosed area for storage and filtering of water; basin; cistern [Fr.].
- reset (rê-sêt') v.t. to set over again, as a page of printed matter; to furnish with a new setting or border.
- reset (re-sêt') v.t. and v.i. (Scots Law) to receive, knowingly, stolen goods; to hide and harbour a deserter or criminal. — pr.p. resetting. — pa.t. and pa.p. resetted. — resetter n. [O.Fr. receler, to receive].
- reshuffle (rê-shuf'l) v.t. to rearrange (the order of cards, etc.); to cause office-bearers to exchange offices; —n. rearrangement.
- reside (re-zid') v.t. to dwell permanently; to abide; to live; to be vested in; to be inherent in. — residence n. act of dwelling in a place; place where one resides; house; abode. — residency n. a residence, esp. official residence of a British government agent at a foreign court. — resident a. dwelling; residing; —n. one who resides in a place; formerly a British government representative, resident at capital of Indian State. — residential n. one who resides more or less permanently in a place. — residential a. pert. to a resident or a residence; pert. to a part of a town consisting mainly of dwelling-houses. — residential n. having residence; —n. a resident, esp. clergyman required to reside for a certain time within precincts of cathedral [L. residere, fr. sedere, to sit].
- residue (rez-i-dû) n. balance or remainder, esp. of debt or account. — residual a. remaining after a part is taken away. — residual n. pert. to residue or part remaining. — residium n. what is left after any process of separation or purification; balance or remainder [L. residuum].
- reign (re-zin') v.t. and v.i. to relinquish formally (office, etc.); to yield to; to give up; to submit to. — resignation n. giving up, as a claim, possession, office, or place; abdication; relinquishment; patience and endurance. — resigned a. relinquished; surrendered; acquiescent; submissive; patient. — resignedly adv. [L. resignare, to unseal].
- resile (re-zil') v.t. to start back; to draw back from a previous offer, decision, etc.; to retreat; to recoil; to rebound. — pr.p. resiling. — resiliency n. springing back or rebounding; elasticity, esp. of mind. — resilient a. leaping or springing back; rebounding; elastic; buoyant; possessing power of quick recovery [L. resilire, to jump back].
- resin (rez-in) n. general term for brittle, glassy, thickened juices exuded by certain plants, a resinous substance left after distillation of crude turpentine; fossilised remains, amber, copal, kauri gum, etc.; —v.t. to dress or coat with resin. — resinous a. resinous. — resinous a. of, or like resin [L. resina].
- resist (re-zist') v.t. and v.i. to stand against; to oppose; to withstand; to strive against; to hinder. — resistance n. opposition; hindrance; electrical term denoting opposition offered by a circuit to passage of a current through it; power possessed by an individual to resist disease; in physics, forces tending to arrest movement; —n.pl. in psycho-analysis, mental forces opposed to self-knowledge. — resistant n. one who, or that which, resists. — resistant a. offering or making resistance. — resister n. — resistibility, resistibleness n. the quality or state of being resistible. — resistible a. — resistibly adv. — resistless a. irresistible; unable to resist. — resistlessly adv. — resistance n. — resistor n. a resistance coil or similar apparatus possessing resistance to electrical current. — resistance box, a box with a number of resistance-coils. — resistance coil, a coil of insulated wire whose resistance has been adjusted to a stated value. — resistance movement, the organised, underground movement in occupied country against invader [L. resistere, to oppose].

resolute (rez'-o-lüt) a. having a decided purpose; determined; —n. a determined person; in mechanics, horizontal or vertical component of a resultant force. —resolutely adv. —resoluteness n. determination. —resolution n. act, purpose, or process of resolving; intention; firmness; decision of court or vote of assembly; motion or declaration; courage; boldness [L. resolvere, resolutum, to unite].

resolve (re-zolv') v.i. to separate the component parts of; to solve and reduce to a different form; to make clear; to unravel; (Math.) to solve; (Med.) to clear of inflammation; —v.t. to determine; to decide; to purpose; to melt; to dissolve; to determine unanimously or by vote; —n. act of resolving; that which is resolved on; firm determination. —resolvable a. capable of being solved, reduced to first principles, or decomposed. —resolved a. determined; resolute. —resolvably adv. —resolvableness n. firm determination [L. resolvere, to untie].

resonant (rez'-o-nant) a. resounding; echoing; sonorous; ringing. —resonances, resonancy n. the phenomenon exhibited by vibrating systems, which are brought into oscillation by a periodic disturbance, the frequency of which is equal to that of the system [L. re-, again; sonare, to sound].

resort (re-zort') v.i. to betake oneself; to go; to repair; to have recourse; to apply (to); to frequent; —n. a frequented place; a haunt; recourse; aid. —last resort, the last resource [Fr. ressortir, to rebound, to go back].

resound (re-zound') v.t. to sound back; to send back sound; —v.t. to echo; to reverberate; to be much spoken about; —n. echo; return of sound. —resounding a.

resource (re-sör's') n. that to which one resorts, or on which one depends, for supply or support; skill in improvising; expedient; shift; means; contrivance; —pl. pecuniary means; funds; wealth. —resourceful a. clever in devising fresh expedients; ingenious. —resourcefully adv. —resourcefulness n. [Fr. resource].

respect (re-spekt') v.t. to esteem; to honour; to treat or handle carefully; to pay heed to; to concern; to refer to; to relate to; —n. consideration; proper deference; —pl. expression of esteem; good wishes. —respectable a. worthy of respect; reputable; decent; moderate; commonplace. —respectability, respectableness n. —respectably adv. —respectful a. deferential; reverential; polite. —respectfully adv. —respectfulness n. —respecting prep. regarding; concerning. —respective a. relative; not absolute; relating to particular persons or things, each to each; particular; own; several. —respectively adv. as relating to each; relatively [L. respicere, respectum, to look back at].

resperse (ré-spers') v.t. to sprinkle; to disperse in small quantities. —resper'sion n. act of sprinkling [L. resperare, sprinkled].

respire (re-spir') v.t. and v.i. to breathe; to take rest. —respirable a. fit to be breathed. —respiration n. process of breathing. —respirational, respirative (res'- or ré-spir'-) a. respiratory. —respirator n. an appliance for covering mouth and nostrils in order to purify or warm the air breathed in, or for inhalation of medicated vapours; a gas-mask. —respiratory (res'- or res-pir'-) a. serving for, pert. to, respiration [L. respirare].

respite (res'-pit, res'-pit) a. a temporary intermission; suspension of execution of a capital sentence; suspension of labour; stop; reprieve; —v.t. to grant a respite to; to relieve; to relieve by interval of rest; to delay [O.Fr. respit].

resplendent (re-splen'-dent) a. shining with brilliant lustre; very bright; dazzling. —resplendence, resplendescence n. —resplendently adv. [L. resplendere, to shine].

respond (re-spond') v.t. to answer; to reply; to correspond to; to suit; to react; to make a liturgical response. —respondent a. answering; giving response; —n. (Law) one who answers in certain proceedings, esp. in a chancery or divorce suit; defendant; one who refuses in a debate [L. respondere, to reply].

response (re-spons') n. answer or reply; part of liturgy said or sung by choir and congregation in answer to verses of priest; in R.C. church, anthem after morning lessons, etc. —responsibility n. state of being responsible; that for which any one is responsible; a duty; a charge; an obligation placed on a person who holds a position of trust as agent for another. —responsibly adv. —responsions n.pl. at Oxford, the first of the three examinations leading to graduation as B.A. —responsive a. able, ready, or inclined, to respond; correspondent. —responsively adv. —responsiveness n. the state of being responsive [L. respondere, responsum, to reply].

rest (rest) n. repose; a cessation from motion or labour; that on which anything rests or leans; a place where one may rest; a pause; —v.t. to lay at rest; —v.i. to cease from action; to repose; to stand or be fixed (on); to sleep; to be dead; to remain (with), for decision, etc.; to trust; to be undisturbed. —restful a. soothing; peaceful; quiet. —restfully adv. —restfulness n. —restless a. continually on the move; unsettled in mind; uneasy. —restlessly adv. —restlessness n. —to lay to rest, to bury [O.E.].

rest (rest) v.t. to remain; to continue to be; to depend; —n. that which is left over or remains; remainder [L. restare, to remain].

restaurant (res-to-rang, res-tor-ant) n. a place where customers are provided with meals on payment; a tea-room; a café. —restauranteur (res-to-ran-tör) n. proprietor of a restaurant [Fr.].

restitute (res-titüt') v.t. to restore. —restitution n. the act of restoring, esp. to the rightful owner; reparation, indemnification, compensation. —restitutive a. —restitutor n. [L. restituere, restitutum, to replace].

restive (res-tiv') a. impatient; fidgety; uneasy; obstinate; stubborn. —restively adv. —restiveness n. [O.Fr. restif, stubborn, fr. L. restare, to remain].

restore (re-stör') v.t. to give back or return; to recover from ruin or decay; to repair; to renew; to replace; to reinstate; to heal; to revive; to cure; to recover from error or corruption, as the text of a book. —restorable a. —restoration n. replacement; recovery; reconstruction; re-establishment; establishment of monarchy by return of Charles II in 1660; (Theol.) universal salvation. —restorative a. having power to renew strength, vigour, etc.; —n. a remedy for restoring health and vigour. —restoratively adv. [L. restaurare, to repair].

restrain (re-strän') v.t. to hold back; to hinder; to check; to withhold; to forbear. —restrainable a. —restrainably adv. with restraint. —restraint n. —restraint n. curb; repression; hindrance; imprisonment [O.Fr. restrindre, fr. L. re-, back; stringere, to bind].

restrict (re-strikt') v.t. to restrain within bounds; to limit. —restricted a. limited. —restrictedly adv. —restriction n. act of restricting; state of being restricted; limitation; confinement; restraint. —restrictive a. having the power to restrict. —restrictively adv. [L. restringere, restricere, to bind fast].

result (re-zult') v.t. to follow, as a consequence; to issue (in); to happen; to terminate; —n. issue; effect; decision; outcome; answer to a calculation. —resultant a. following as a result; —n. in mechanics, the single force which can be used to replace, in every respect, two or more forces [L. resultare, to leap back].

resume (ré-süm') v.t. to renew; to recommence; to summarise. —résumé (râ-zû-mâ') n. a summing up; an abridgement; a summary; an abstract. —resum'able a. —resump'tion n. act of taking back or taking again; a fresh start. —resump'tive a. resuming [L. re, again; sumere, to take].

resurge (re-sûr') v.t. to rise again. —resur'gence n. —resur'gent a. rising again (from the dead). —resurrect' v.t. to restore to life; to use once more; to take from the grave. —resurrec'tion n. resurrection of the body after death and its reunion with the soul; Christ's rising from the grave after Crucifixion; a revival. —resurrec'tional, resurrec'tionary a. —resurrec'tionist, resurrec'tion-man n. one who stealthily exhumed bodies from the grave to sell for anatomical purposes [L. re, again; surgere, to rise].

resuscitate (re-sus-i-tât') v.t. to restore to life one apparently dead; to revive; to revivify; —v.t. to come to life again. —resus'citable a. capable of being restored to life again. —resus'citant n. one who, or that which, resuscitates. —resus'citation n. —resus'citative a. tending to revive or reanimate. —resus'citator n. [L. resuscitare, to raise up again].

retail (rê-tâl') v.t. to sell in small quantities; to sell frequently. —rê-tail a. denoting sale in small quantities, as opposed to wholesale; —n. sale in small quantities. —retail'er n. —retail'ment n. [O.Fr. retailer, to cut up].

retain (re-tân') v.t. to continue to keep in possession; to hold; to reserve; to engage services of. —retain'able a. —retain'er n. one who retains; adherent or follower, dependant; a fee paid to secure services of, esp. barrister. —retain'ment n. the act of retaining [L. retinere, to hold back].

retaliate (re-tâl-i-ât') v.t. and v.i. to repay in kind; to return like for like, to requite; to revenge. —retalia'tion n. —retal'iative, retal'iatory a. —retal'iator n. [L. retaliare, fr. talis, like, such].

retard (re-târd') v.t. to hinder progress; to make slow or late; to impede. —retarda'tion n. delaying; hindrance; diminishing velocity of a moving body; rate of loss of velocity; delayed mental development in children due to physical or environmental causes, not to mental defect. —retard'ment n. [L. retardare, fr. tardus, slow].

retch (rech) v.t. to strain at vomiting. —retch'ing n. [O.E. hræcan].

retention (re-ton'shun) n. act or power of retaining; stoppage; holding back; inability to void urine. —reten'tive a. —reten'tively adv. —reten'tiveness n. [fr. retain].

reticary (rê-shi-q-ri, rê-ti-q-ri) a. net-like; weaving a net to catch prey. —Retiar'iae n.pl. (Zool.) spiders [L. rete, a net].

reticent (ret-i-sent) a. reserved; taciturn; uncommunicative. —ret'icence n. also ret'icency. —ret'icently adv. [L. reticere, fr. lacere, to be silent].

reticle (ret-i-kl) n. small net or net-bag — ret'icule n. a little net-work bag; a reticle; a lady's work-bag. —retic'ular, retic'ulary a. having the form of a net; formed with interstices. —retic'ulate v.t. to cover with net-like lines; to make like a net; —u. Also retic'ulated, netted; having veins, fibres, hairs, or lines crossing like net-work, as a leaf. —reticula'tion n. [Fr. reticule, fr. L. rete, a net].

retiform (rê-ti-form) a. having form of a net, reticulated [L. rete, a net; forma, form].

retina (ret-i-nâ) n. innermost, semi-transparent, sensory layer of the eye from which sensory impressions are passed to the brain. —ret'in'al a. [L. rete, a net].

retinue (ret-i-nû) n. a body of hired servants or followers; a train of attendants; suite [Fr. reténir, to retain].

retire (re-tîr') v.t. to compel one to retire from office; to withdraw from circulation notes or bills; —v.t. to go back; to withdraw; to retreat; to give up formally one's work or office; to go to bed. —retir'al n. act of retiring; occasion when one retires from office, etc. — retired' a. secluded; private; sequestered; withdrawn permanently from one's daily work. —retired'y adv. —retired'ness, retire'ment n. act of retiring; state of being retired. — retir'ing a. reserved; modest; pert. to a withdrawal from work or office [Fr. retirer, to pull back].

retort (re-tort') v.t. to bend or curve back; to repay in kind; to hurl back (charge, etc.); —v.t. to make a smart reply; —n. vigorous reply or repartee; a vessel in which substances are distilled [L. retorquere, retortum, to twist back].

retrace (rê-trâs') v.t. to trace back or over again; to go back the same way; to draw over a former tracing. —retrace'able a.

retract (re-trakt') v.t. and v.i. to draw back; to take back, as a statement; to go back on one's word. —retract'able, retract'ible a. able to be retracted. —retracta'tion n. recalling of a statement or opinion; recantation. —retract'ile a. (Zool.) capable of being drawn back or inwards, as claws, etc. —retract'ion n. the act of drawing back; disavowal; recantation; (Surg.) a drawing up or shortening of a part; —retract'ive a. ready to retract. —retract'ively adv. [L. re, back; trahere, tractum, to draw].

retread (rê-tred') v.t. to tread again, to replace a worn tread on the outer cover of a rubber tyre with a new tread.

retreat (re-trêl') n. retiring or withdrawing; a military signal for retiring; a military call, at sunset, on a bugle; place of seclusion; period of retirement for prayer and meditation; —v.t. to move back; to betake oneself to a place of security; to retire before an enemy. —retreat'ing a. sloping backward, as forehead or chin [Fr. retraire, fr. retraire, to draw back].

retrench (re-trensh') v.t. to cut down (expense, etc.); to curtail; to diminish; to lessen; —v.t. to economise. —retrench'ment n. diminution of expenditure; economy; (Fort.) extra parapet and ditch within a rampart to prolong defence [Fr. retrencher, to cut off].

retribution (ret-ri-bû'shun) n. just or suitable return, esp. for evil deeds; requital; repayment; vengeance. —retrib'ute (re-tri'bût, ret-ri'bût) v.t. to pay back —retrib'utive, retrib'utory a. [L. retribuere].

retrieve (re-trêv') v.t. to gain back; to recover; to remedy the evil consequences of; to re-establish (former position, fortune, etc.); to repair; (of a dog) to find and bring back shot game. —retriev'able a. —retriev'ably adv. —retriev'al, retriev'ment n. —retriev'er n. dog trained to find and bring back game [Fr. retrouver, to find again].

retro- (rê-trô, rê-trô) prefix fr. L. retro, back, backward, used in the formation of compound words.

retroact (rê-trô-akt') v.t. to act backwards; to react; to have a retrospective effect. —retroac'tion n. —retroac'tive a. acting in regard to past events; retrospective. —retroac'tively adv. [L. retro, backward, agere, actum, to act].

retrocede (rê-trô-sêd') v.t. to go or move back. —retroce'sion n. the act of retreating or going back [L. retro, backward; cedere, to go].

retrograde (rê-trô-, rê-trô-grâd) v.t. to move backward; to deteriorate; to decline; —u. tending to a backward direction; deteriorating; reactionary; retrogressive. —retrograda'tion n. —retrogress v.t. to move backwards; to deteriorate. —retrogress'ion n. act of going backward, a decline into an inferior state of development. —retrogress'ive a. moving backward; reactionary; degenerating; assuming basic characteristics. —retrogress'ively adv. [L. retro, backward; gradus, to go].

retroorse (re-trors') a. bending or pointing backwards, as feathers of birds. Also ret' reverse. —retroorse'y adv. [L. retro, backwards; vertere, vernum, to turn].

retrospect (ret-rô-, rê-trô-spekt) n. a looking back; survey of past events; a review. —retrospec'tion n. —retrospec'tive a. tending to look back; applicable to past events; of laws, rules, etc., having force as if enacted or authorised at earlier date.—retrospectively adv. [L. retro, backward; specere, to look].

retroussé (re-tróo-sé) a. turned up, as the end of a nose; pug [Fr.].

retroverse (ré-trô-rs, ré-trô-vers) a. bent backwards; retroorse.—retroversion n.—retrovert (ré, ré) v.t. to turn back;—n. one who returns to his original creed or opinions [L. retro, backward; vertere, versum, to turn].

retry (ré-trí) v.t. to try again; to put on trial a second time.

retting, rettery, rettory. See ret.

return (re-turn) v.t. to bring, give, or send back; to restore; to report officially; to elect; to yield (a profit); to reciprocate;—v.i. to go or come back; to recur; to reply;—n. coming back to the same place; what is returned, as a payment; profit; an official report, esp. as to numbers; repayment; restitution.—returnable a. capable of being returned; required to be returned or delivered up.—return-match n. second game played by same opponents.—return-ticket n. ticket for journey, there and back.—returning-officer n. officer who makes returns of writs, precepts, juries, etc.; presiding officer at election [Fr. retourner].

reunion (ré-ün-yun) n. union formed anew after separation; a social gathering.—reunite v.t. to unite again; to join after separation;—v.i. to join and cohere again.

rev (rev) n. (Collog.) revolution of an engine;—v.i. and v.t. to run (an engine).—pr. p. rev'ing.—pa.t. and pa. p. revved.

reveal (re-vél) v.t. to disclose; to discover by supernatural power; to show.—revealable a.—reveal'er n.—reveal'ment n. disclosure; revelation.—revealed law, divine law.—revealed religion, founded on revelation, whereby God supernaturally manifests himself through prophets, etc. Opposite of natural religion [L. revelare, to draw back the veil].

revellie (re-vali, re-vál-ye) n. the bugle-call or roll of drums sounded in military establishments at daybreak to rouse inmates [Fr. réveillez (-vous) wake up!].

revel (rev-el) v.t. to make merry; to carouse; to delight (in); to luxuriate.—pr. p. rev'elling.—pa.t. and pa. p. rev'elled.—n. festivity; noisy celebration;—pl. entertainment, with music and dancing.—rev'eller n.—rev'elment, rev'elry n. noisy and spontaneous festivity [O.Fr. reveler, to make tumult].

revelation (rev-e-lá-shun) n. act of revealing; knowledge of God, or of divine things, imparted to man by His direct operation either on individual soul or through appointed intermediary; (Bib.) last book of New Testament—the Apocalypse.—revelational, rev'elatory a. [L. revelare, to draw back the veil].

revenant (rev'e-nant) n. one returned from long absence or apparently from the dead; a spectre; a ghostly visitant [Fr.].

vengeance (re-venj) v.t. to make retaliation for; to return injury for injury; to avenge;—n. revenging; infliction of injury in return for injury; passion for vengeance.—venge'ful a. full of revenge; vindictive.—venge'fully adv.—venge'fulness n. [O.Fr. venger, fr. L. revē, again; vindicare, to claim].

revenue (rev'e-nū) n. income derived from any source, esp. annual income of a state or institution; proceeds; receipts; profits.—in-land-rev'ue n. public money from income tax, estate or death duties, excise, licences, etc. [Fr. revenue, return, fr. L. revēire, to come back].

rever See revers.

reverberate (re-ver-bér-át) v.t. and v.i. to send back, as sound; to reflect, as light or heat; to re-echo; to resound.—rever'berant a. resounding; beating back.—reverberation n.—reverberative a. tending to reverberate.—reverberator n.—reverberatory a. producing reverberation [L. reverberare, to beat, bang].

reverse (re-vér) v.t. to regard with mingled fear, respect and affection; to reverence.—rever'able a. worthy of respect.—rever'ence n. awe mingled with respect and esteem; veneration; a bow, curtesy, or genuflection; a title applied to a clergyman;—a.t. to reverse; to venerate.—rever'end a. worthy of reverence; venerable; a title of respect given to clergy (abridged Rev.)—rever'ent a. feeling, showing, behaving with, reverence.—reveren'tial a. respectful.—reversen'tially, rev'erently adv. [O.Fr. reverser, fr. L. vereri, to feel awe].

reverie, revery (rev'ér-i) n. state of mind, akin to dreaming; rhapsody; musing [Fr. rêverie, fr. rêver, to dream].

revers (re-vár or ré-vér) n. part of garment turned back for ornamentation, as lapel. Also rever'.—pl. revers' [O.Fr. = reverse].

reverse (re-ver's) v.t. to change completely; to give a contrary decision; to annul; to overturn; to repeal; to revoke; to transpose; to invert;—v.i. to change direction; to come back;—n. side which appears when object is turned round; opposite or contrary; crest-side of coin or medal, as distinguished from obverse; check; defeat; misfortune;—a. turned backward; opposite; upside-down.—revers'al n. reversing, changing, overthrowing, annulling.—reversed a. turned in opposite direction; inverted; annulled.—revers'edly adv.—reversibility n. property of being reversible.—revers'ible a. capable of being used on both sides or in either direction.—revers'ibly adv.—revers'ion n. returning or reverting; a deferred annuity; right or hope of future possession; (Law) return of estate to grantor or his next-of-kin, after death of grantee or legatee; interest which reverts to a landlord after expiry of lease; (Biol.) a tendency to revert to long-concealed characters of previous generations; atavism; throw-back.—revers'ional, revers'ionary a. involving a reversion; returning to a person after a time or event.—revers'ive a. tending to cause reversion.—revers'o n. left-hand page of a book [L. re-, back; vertere, versum, to turn].

revert (re-ver't) v.t. to return to former state or rank; to come back to subject; to turn backwards; (Law) to return by reversion to donor;—v.i. to turn back or reverse.—revert'ible a. [L. re-, again; vertere, to turn].

revet (re-vét) v.t. to face a wall with masonry, sand-bags, etc.—pr. p. revet'ting.—pa.t. and pa. p. revet'ted.—revet'ment n. a retaining wall; facing of a trench [Fr. revêtir, to clothe].

review (re-vú) v.t. to re-examine; to revise; to consider critically (book); to inspect troops, etc.—n. revision; survey; inspection, esp. of massed military, air, or naval forces; a critical notice of a book, etc.; periodical devoted to critical articles, discussion of current events, etc.—review'er n. one who writes critical reviews; examiner; inspector [Fr. revoir, to see again].

revile (re-víl) v.t. to abuse with opprobrious language; to vilify; to defame.—revile'ment n.—revil'er n. [O.Fr. reviler].

revise (re-víz) v.t. to look over and correct; to review, alter and amend;—n. review; a further printer's proof to ensure all corrections have been made.—revi'sal n. review; re-examination.—revi'sion n. revision; revised copy of book or document.—revi'ser, revi'sor n. proof-reader.—revi'sional, revi'sionary a. pert. to revision.—revi'sory a. having power to revise.—Revised Version, new translation of Bible in 1881 (New Testament) and 1884 (Old Testament) [L. reviser].

revive (re-ví) v.t. to come back to life, vigour, etc.; to awaken;—v.i. to resuscitate; to re-animate; to renew; to recover from neglect; to refresh (memory).—revivability n.—reviv'able a. capable of being revived.—reviv'ably adv.—reviv'al n. reviving or being revived; renewed activity, of trade, etc.; a wave of religious enthusiasm worked up by powerful preachers; awakening; reappearance of old, neglected play, etc.—revivalism n. religious fervour during evangelical revival.—revivalist n. one who promotes religious revivals.—revolver n. one who, or that which, revives; a stimulant.—revivification n. renewal of life and energy.—revivify v.t. to reanimate; to reinvigorate;—v.i. to regain power of reacting chemically [L. re, again; vivere, to live].

revoke (re-vōk') v.t. to annul; to repeal; to reverse (a decision);—v.i. at cards, to fail to follow suit; to renounce.—n. neglect to follow suit at cards.—revokes n. revoking.—revok'er n.—revocable a. able to be revoked.—revocableness, revocability n.—revocably adv.—revocation n. repeal; reversal.—revocatory (L. revocare, to recall).

revolt (re-vōlt') v.t. to renounce allegiance; to rise in rebellion; to feel disgust;—v.i. to shock; to rebel;—n. act of revolting; rebellion; mutiny; disgust; loathing.—revol'ter n.—revol'ting a. disgusting.—revol'tingly adv. [Fr. revolter].

revolution (rev-o-lū'shun) n. motion of body round its orbit or focus; turning round on axis (but preferably, rotation); (Geol.) a period when great earth movements were taking place; time marked by a regular recurrence (as seasons); a radical change in constitution of a country after revolt.—revolutionary a. pert. to revolution; marked by great and violent changes;—n. one who participates in a revolution.—revolutionise v.t. to change completely [L. revolvēre revolutum, to turn round].

revolve (re-volv') v.t. to turn round on an axis; to rotate; to meditate;—v.i. to cause to turn; to rotate; to reflect upon.—revolvable a.—revolver n. pistol with several loading chambers on a cylinder, so arranged as to be discharged in succession by the same lock [L. revolvēre, to turn round].

revue (re-vū') n. theatrical entertainment, partly musical comedy, with little continuity of structure or connected plot [Fr.].

revulsion (re-vul'shun) n. sudden, violent change of feeling; repugnance or abhorrence; reaction; counter-irritant.—revulsive a. tending to revulsion [L. revellere, revulsus, to tear away].

reward (re-wārd') v.t. to give in return for; to recompense; to remunerate;—n. what is given in return; return for voluntary act; money offered for recovery of articles or assistance in any form.—reward'er n.—reward'ful a. [O.Fr. rewarder = Fr. regarder, to look upon].

rex (rēks) n. a king.—rex'ist n. a Belgian Fascist; a royalist [L.].

Rexine (rēks'ēn) n. a substitute for leather [Protected Trade Name].

Reynard (rā'nārd, ren'fard) n. the fox in an epic of the Middle Ages; a fox. Also Ren'ard [Fr. renard; Ger. Reinhard].

rhabdo- (răb'dō) prefix used in formation of scientific compound terms, signifying a rod or rod-like.—rhab'doid a. rod-shaped.—rhab'doman'y n. divination by divining-rod, usually of hazel, to trace presence of minerals or metals under-ground [Gk. rhabdos, a rod].

rachis (ră'kis) n. the spine; rachis.—rachio-myelitis (ră-kī-ō-mī-ō-lī'tis) n. (Med.) inflammation of spinal cord [Gk.].

rhadamanthine, rhadamantine (ră-d-man'thin, -tin) a. pert. to Rhadamanthus, in Greek mythology, one of the judges of the dead in the nether world; hence, judicially strict, impartial, and severe.

rhapso'dy (rap-sō-dī) n. collection of verses, esp. one of the books of Homer, recited by the rhapsodists—hence, any number of passages gathered together without natural connection; a wild, rambling composition or discourse; (Mus.) a wild, irregular composition in a free style.—rhap'sode n. a rhapsodist.—rhapso'dic (a.)

a. in wild, irregular style; gushing.—rhapso'dically adv.—rhap'sodies v.i. and v.t. to sing or recite, as a rhapsody; to be ecstatic over.—rhap'sodist n. one who recites or composes a rhapsody [Gk. rhapsōidia].

rhea (rē'a) n. the S. American three-toed ostrich; the nandu [Gk.].

rheic (rē'ik) a. pert. to rhubarb.—rhe'in n. (Gk. rhēon, rhubarb).

Rhenish (ren'ish) a. of or pert. to River Rhine;—n. wine from grapes grown in Rhineland [L. Rhenus].

rhenum (rē'n-um) n. very rare metallic chemical element used for increasing electrical resistance of tungsten [L. Rhenus, the Rhine].

rheo- (rē'ō) prefix used in the formation of scientific compound terms, signifying flowing from Gk. rhein, to flow.—rheom'eter n. instrument for measuring force of electric currents; galvanometer.—rheostat n. instrument for controlling and varying within limits value of resistance in electrical circuit.—rheostat'ic a.—rheostat'ies n. statics of fluids.

rhesus (rē'sus) n. small Indian monkey, looked upon as sacred by Hindus and allowed into precincts of temples.—rhe'sian a.—rhesus factor (Med.) a peculiarity of red cells of blood of most individuals, the so-called rhesus positive, rendering transfusion of their blood unsuitable for rhesus negative minority of patients.

rhetoric (ret'ō-rik) n. art of persuasive or effective speech; declamation; artificial eloquence or sophistry; exaggerated oratory.—rhetor'ical a. oratorical; declamatory; bombastic.—rhetorical question, statement in the form of question to which there is only one rational answer.—rhetor'ically adv.—rhetorician n. a teacher of or one well versed in principles of rhetoric [Gk. rhetorikos, fr. rhēōr, a public speaker].

rheum (rō'm) n. thin, serous fluid secreted by mucous glands and discharged from nostrils or eyes during catarrh or a common cold; tears; spittle.—rheumat'ic, rheumat'ical a. pert. to or suffering from rheumatism.—rheumatism n. group of diseases with symptoms of sharp pains and swelling in muscles and larger joints.—rheumatoid a. resembling rheumatism.—rheum'y a. full of watery humour or rheum (esp. eyes), damp.—rheumatoid arthritis, severe chronic inflammation of joints, esp. knees and fingers [Gk. rheuma, flow].

rhinal (rī-nāl) a. pert. to the nose [Gk. rhis, rhinos, nose].

rhinestone (rīn'stōn) n. kind of rock-crystal; paste imitation of diamonds [fr. the rhine].

rhinoceros (rī-nōs'ē-rōs) n. thick-skinned mammal allied to elephant, hippopotamus, tapir, etc. with strong horn (sometimes two) on nose [Gk. rhis, rhinos, the nose; keras, a horn].

rhis-, rhiso- (rīz', rīzō) prefix used in construction of compound terms, from Greek, rhiza, a root.—rhis'ome n. subterranean shoot, often bearing scales which are membranous, and usually giving off adventitious roots.—rhisom'atous a. of the nature of a rhizome.

rhod-, rhodo- (rōd, rōd'ō) prefix used in the formation of compound terms, signifying rose-coloured, from Greek, rhodon, a rose.—rhod'ium n. a metallic chemical element related to ruthenium and palladium whose salts are rose-red; scented wood of Canary convolvulus, rose-wood.—rhod'e'yte n. red blood corpuscle.—rhododen'dron n. evergreen flowering shrub of the order Ericaceae with magnificent red or white blossoms.

rhodomontade [See redomontade].

rhoeadic (rē-ad'ik) a. pert. to, or derived from, poppies [Gk. rhoia, a poppy].

rhombus (rom'b-us) n. (Geom.) parallelogram whose sides are all equal, but whose angles are not right angles.—rhomb a. a lozenge or diamond-shaped figure; rhombus.—rhomb'ic, rhomb'ic'form, rhomb'oid, rhomboid'al a. having shape of rhomboid.—rhomboid n. parallelogram like rhombus, but having only opposite sides and angles equal [Gk. rhombos].

rhone (rón) n. eaves-gutter which collects rain from roof. Also ron.—rhone-pipe n. pipe which drains rain-water from rhone [O.E. rianan, to run].

rhubarb (rôd'barb) n. two species of cultivated plants, familiar rhubarb of kitchen-garden, and an eastern variety whose roots are used as a purgative [Gk. rha, rhubarb; barbaron, foreign].

rhumb, rumb (rum) n. any one of 32 cardinal points on compass-card; angle separating these, 11° 15' [Gk. rhombos, a rhomb].

rhyme, rime (rim) n. identity of sound in word endings of verses; verses, usually two, in rhyme with each other; a couplet; word answering in sound to another word;—v.t. to put into rhyme;—v.t. to make verses.—rhym'er, rhym'ster n. one who makes rhymes; a minor poet; a poetaster.—rhyme scheme, pattern or arrangement of rhymes in stanza [O.E. rim, number].

rhysimeter (ri-sim'e-ter) n. instrument for measuring velocity of fluids and speed of ships [Gk. rhysis, flowing; metron, measure].

rhythm (ritm) n. regular or measured flow of sound, as in music and poetry, or of action, as in dancing; measured, periodic movement, as in heart pulsations; regular recurrence; symmetry.—rhyth'mic(al) a.—rhythm'ically adv.—rhyth'mics n. science of rhythm [Gk. rhuthmos, fr. rhein, to flow].

riant (ri'ant) a. laughing; merry; genial.—ri'ance n. gaiety [Fr. rire, to laugh].

rib (rib) n. one of arched and very elastic bones springing from vertebral column; anything resembling a rib, as a bar of a fire-grate, wire support of umbrella, a curved rafter, a transverse beam for stiffening wing of aircraft, girder which strengthens side of ship, etc.—v.t. to furnish with ribs.—pr.p. rib'bing.—pa.t. and pa.p. ribbed.—rib'bing n. an arrangement of ribs.—rib'vaulting n. narrow arch below surface of vault to support or enrich it [O.E. ribb].

ribald (rib'ald) a. low; vulgar; indecent;—n. a ribald person.—rib'alry n. vulgar, indecent language or conduct; obscenity.—rib'aldisb, rib'aldrus a. [Fr. ribaud].

ribbon, riband, ribband (rib'un, rib'and) n. fillet, commonly of silk or satin, as trimming or fastening for a dress; coloured piece of silk (riband) as war-medal; part of insignia of order of knighthood.—ribb'onite n. soft lead used in ribbon form to caulk joints of socketed pipes.—ribbon development, building along main roads without corresponding development in back-areas.—ribb'on-worm n. the tape-worm.—Blue Ribbon, decoration worn by members of the Order of the Garter; badge of total abstinence society [O.Fr. riban].

riboflavin (ri'bô-flâ-vin) n. chemical substance present in vitamin B2 complex, with marked growth-promoting properties [L.L. ribus, currant; flavus, yellow].

rice (ris) n. annual grass plant, cultivated in Asia, the principal food of one-third of world.—rice-pa'per n. very thin and delicate paper used in China and Japan for drawing and painting [Gk. oriza].

rich (rich) a. wealthy; abounding in possessions; well supplied; fertile; abounding in nutritive qualities; of food, highly seasoned or flavoured; mellow and harmonious (voice);—n. the wealthy classes.—rich'ness n. wealth; opulence; plenty.—rich'ly adv.—rich'ness n. opulence; wealth [O.E. rice, rich].

rick (rik) n. stack of grain or hay; sprain; wrench;—v.t. to pile up in ricks.—rick'bar'ton n. rickyard [O.E. hrecal].

rickets (rik'ets) n. rachitis, infantile disease marked by defective development of bones.—rick'etness n. being rickety; tottering state; shakiness.—rick'ety a. affected with rickets; shaky; unstable; insecure [etym. uncertain].

rickshaw (rik'shaw) n. Japanese jiriksha—a light two-wheeled, hooded vehicle on springs, drawn by one man [Jap. jiri, man; rikki, strength; sha, vehicle].

ricochet (rik'ô-shâ, -shet) n. glancing rebound of object after striking flat surface at oblique angle;—v.t. and v.i. to rebound or glance off.—pr.p. ricochet'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. ricochet'ed [Fr. i.].

rid (rid) v.t. to free; to deliver; to relieve of; to remove by violence; to disencumber.—pr.p. rid'ding.—pa.t. and pa.p. rid.—rid'dance n. deliverance; forcible removal.—a good riddance, a welcome relief [O.E. hreddan, to snatch away].

ridden (rid'n) pa.p. of ride.

riddle (rid'dl) n. large sieve for sifting or screening gravel, etc.;—v.t. to separate, as grain from chaff, with a riddle; to pierce with holes as in a sieve; to pull (theory, etc.) to pieces.—ridd'lings n.pl. coarse material left in sieve [O.E. hredder].

riddle (rid'dl) n. enigma; puzzling fact, thing, person.—v.t. to speak in, make, riddles.—ridd'lemereen, stuff and nonsense [O.E. raddeles, fr. radan, to read, to guess].

ride (rid) v.t. to be mounted on horse, bicycle, etc.; to traverse or cover distance;—v.i. to be carried on back of an animal; to be borne along in a vehicle; to lie securely at anchor; to float lightly.—pr.p. rid'ing.—pa.t. rode;—pa.p. rid'den.—n. act of riding; journey, on horseback, in a vehicle, etc.; riding-track; district of excise officer.—rid'er n. one who rides, addition to a document; supplement to original motion or verdict; (Math.) an exercise on some book problem or theorem.—rid'ing a. used for riding on; used by a rider;—n. a track prepared for riding exercise.—rid'ing-ha'bit n. dresses worn by ladies on horseback.—rid'ing-light n. white light on forestay of vessel at anchor.—riding-whip, light whip with a short lash.—to ride over, to tyrannise or lord over.—to ride rough-shod, to show no consideration for others.—riding the marbles, ceremonial riding round boundaries of town or burgh [O.E. ridan].

ridge (rij) n. line of meeting of two sloping surfaces; long narrow hill; strip of upturned soil between furrows; highest part of roof, horizontal beam to which tops of rafters are fixed; tongue of high pressure on meteorological map;—v.t. to form into ridges;—v.t. to rise in ridges; to wrinkle.—ridge-bone n. the spine.—ridged a. having ridges on its surface.—ridge'way n. road built along the crest of a hill.—rid'y a. rising in ridges [O.E. hrycg, the back].

ridicule (rid'i-kül) n. mockery; sarcasm; irony; railery; derision;—v.t. to deride; to satirise; to mock; to make fun of.—rid'iculous n.—rid'ulous a. exciting ridicule; ludicrous; droll; laughable.—rid'ulously adv. [L. ridere, to laugh].

Riding (rid'ing) n. one of three divisions of Yorkshire [fr. O.N. thriðe, third].

riever. See reiver.

rife (rif) a. prevailing; prevalent; abundant; plentiful.—rife'ly adv.—rife'ness n. [O.E.].

rif-raff (rit'raf) n. sweepings; refuse; the rabble [M.E. rif and raf].

rifle (ri-fl) v.t. to search and rob; to strip; to plunder.—ri'f'ler n.—ri'f'ing n. pillaging [O.Fr. rifler, fr. Ice. hrifa, to seize].

rifle (ri-fl) v.t. to make spiral grooves in (gun-barrel, etc.); to groove; to channel; to whet, as a scythe.—rifle n. a musket whose barrel is grooved.—ri'f'ing n. the arrangement of grooves in a gun-barrel or rifle-tube.—ri'feman n. private in the Rifle Brigade; a man armed with rifle (Dan. rifle, to groove).

rift (rift) n. cleft; fissure; ford;—v.t. and v.t. to cleave; to split.—rift valley, a valley caused by subsidence of land between two parallel geological faults [fr. rise, to rend].

rig (rig) v.t. to provide (ship) with spars, ropes, etc.; to equip; to clothe.—pr.p. rig'ging.—pa.t. and pa.p. rigged.—n. manner in which masts and sails of vessel are rigged; equipment used in erecting or installing machinery, etc.; costume; style of dress; a horse and trap.—rig'ger n.—rig'ging n. system of ropes and tackle, esp. for supporting mast or controlling sails; adjustment of different components of an aircraft.—rigging lines, the cordage by which harness is attached to parachute.—rig'out n. outfit.—v.t. to supply with complete outfit [Scand.].

rig (rik) n. a frolic; trick; dodge; a swindle; a wanton person.—v.t. to romp.—v.t. to raise prices by prior arrangement or by creating artificial scarcity, hence, to rig the market [etym. doubtful].

rig (rig) n. the back or top of anything; a ridge between furrows; a path.—rig'ging n. the ridge of a roof [O.E. hrygg, the back].

rigadon (rig-a-doon) n. lively old French dance [Fr. rigaudon].

right (rit) a. straight; proper; upright; in accordance with truth and duty; not left; being on same side as right hand; in politics, implying preservation of existing, established order or of restoring former institutions; (Geom.) applied to regular figures rising perpendicularly; correct; true.—adv. in a right manner; according to standard of truth and justice; very; correctly; properly; exactly; to the right hand.—n. that which is correct; uprightness; a just claim; legal title; that which is on right, i.e. opposite to left; political party inclined towards conservatism and preservation of status quo.—v.t. to set upright; to do justice to; to righten;—v.i. to recover proper or natural position; become upright.—right'en v.t. to set right.—right'ful, legitimate; lawful; true; honest; reasonable.—right'fully adv.—right'fulness n. rightness; justice.—right'y adv. in accordance with justice; correctly.—right'ness n. correctness; justice.—right'about adv. in or to the opposite direction.—right'ang'led a. having right angle, one of ninety degrees.—right'hand a. belonging to the right hand; pert. to most reliable assistant or man.—right-of-way n. right of individual to pass over another's lands.—right off adv. immediately [O.E. riht].

righteous (ri'thyus) a. doing what is right; accepted of God; as free from sin; just; upright; godly.—right'ously adv. in righteous manner.—right'ousness n. purity of heart and conduct; holiness; godliness; uprightness; honesty [O.E. riht; riht; wis, wise].

rigid (ri'jid) a. stiff; not easily bent.—rigid'ity n. resistance to change of form; stiffness; severity.—rig'idly adv.—rig'idness n. [L. rigidus].

rigmarole (rig'ma-röl) n. a succession of meaningless, rambling statements; foolish talk;—a. incoherent [corrupt. of rigman-roll, a list of many names].

rigor (rig'or) n. (Med.) attack of cold and shivering, accompanied by rise of temperature and perspiration, followed by weakness; insensible state of plants or animals.—rig'orism n. strictness; austerity.—rig'orist n. a person of strict principles.—rigor mortis, stiffening of body after death [L.].

rigour (rig'ur) n. being rigid; stiffness of opinion; harshness; strictness.—rig'orous a. severe; stiff; austere; strict; exact.—rig'orously adv.—rig'oriveness n. [L. rigor, fr. rigere, to be stiff].

rile (ril) v.t. to anger; to exasperate; to irritate [in form of roil].

rilievo (rè-lè-à-vò) n. relief, in carving, etc. Also relievo [It.].

rill (ril) n. a small brook; a rivulet; a streamlet.—rill'et n. a tiny stream.—rill'marks n.pl. the narrow furrows left on sands by the receding tide [Ger. Rille, a furrow].

rim (rim) n. margin; brim; border; metal ring [H.O.D.]. forming outer edge of road-wheel and carrying the tyre;—v.t. to furnish with a rim;—pr.p. rim'ming.—pa.t. and pa.p. rimmed.—rim'less a. [O.E. rima].

rime Same as rhyme.

rim (rim) n. white or hoar frost; frozen dew or vapour.—ri'my a. [O.E. hrim].

rimose (ri'mös) a. having surface covered with fissures or cracks. Also ri'mous [L. rimosus].

riind (riind) n. the external covering or coating of trees, fruits, cheese, bacon, etc.; skin; peel; husk; bark;—v.t. to strip off a rind; to peel [O.E. rinde].

rinderpest (rin'der-pest) n. cattle plague; a malignant and contagious fever [Ger.].

ring (ring) n. small circle of gold, etc. esp. on finger; band, coil, rim; circle formed for dance or sports; round enclosure, as in circus, auction mart, etc.; area within roped square for boxing, etc.; a combination of persons to control prices within a trade;—v.t. to encircle; to put ring through an animal's nose; to tie horses together by passing rope through snaffles and fastening ends together.—ring'dove n. pigeon, whose neck is surrounded by ring-shaped, white mark.—ringed'plover n. bird with black and white ring round neck.—ring'ing n.—ring'leader n. the leader of people associated together for a common object, usually in defiance of law and order.—ring'less a.—ring'let n. small ring; long curl of hair.—ring'mail, chain-armour.—ring'master n. one who directs performance in circus-ring.—ring'out'set n. member of thrush family, with broad white patch on throat.—ring'tail n. additional sail set abaft and beyond spanker in light winds; young golden-eagle.—ring'worm n. contagious disease of skin, esp. of scalp, leaving circular bare patches [O.E. hring].

ring (ring) v.t. to cause to sound, esp. by striking; to produce, by ringing;—v.t. to give out a clear resonant sound, as a bell, to chime; to resound; to be filled, as with praise, tidings, etc.; to continue sounding, as ears; to tingle.—pa.t. rang, rarely rung.—pa.p. rung.—n. a resonant note, chime (of church bells); act of ringing; to draw attention.—to ring down, to cause theatre curtain to be lowered; to wind up or conclude a transaction or business.—to ring false, to sound insincere.—to ring changes upon, to vary [O.E. hringing].

rink (rink) n. broad strip, 22 to 21 feet wide, of a bowling-green; covered in place for skating or curling; member of side at bowls or curling; floor for roller-skating, etc. [etym. doubtful].

rinse (rins) v.t. to wash out, by filling with water, etc., and emptying; to wash without the use of soap [Fr. rincer].

riot (riot) n. tumultuous disturbance of peace; wanton behaviour; noisy festivity; tumult; uproar; broil; profusion; luxury.—v.t. to make, or engage in, riot; to revel; to disturb peace.—ri'otous a.—ri'ot'ing n.—ri'otous a. engaging in riot; unruly; rebellious.—ri'otously adv.—ri'otousness n.—ri'otry n. riotous conduct.—to read the riot act (Colloq.) to scold and threaten punishment.—to run riot, to behave wildly, without restraint [O.Fr. riotte].

rip (rip) v.t. to rend; to slash; to tear off or out; to slit; to saw wood along direction of grain;—v.t. to tear; to move quickly and freely.—pr.p. rip'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. ripped.—n. rent; tear.—disipated person.—rip'per n.—rip'ping n. (Colloq.) splendid; capital.—rip'ply adv.—rip'cord n. cord to withdraw parachute from pack so that ascending air forces it open.—rip-saw n. saw with large teeth for cutting timber in direction of grain [O.N. rippe, to scratch].

rip (rip) n. a stretch of broken water in sea or river [etym. doubtful].

riparian (ri-pä-ri-än) a. pert. to, or situated on, banks of a river [L. ripa, a river-bank].

ripe (rip) a. ready for reaping; mature; fully developed; sound (judgment, etc.); ready (for) —v.i. to ripen. —ripe'ly adv. —ripen v.i. to hasten process of riping; to mature; —v.t. to grow ripe; to come to perfection. —ripeness n. [O.E.]. riposte (ri-post') n. quick return thrust in fencing; smart reply; repartee [Fr.].

ripple (rip'l) n. fretting or dimpling of surface of water; a little wave; subdued murmur or sound; —v.i. to cause ripple in; —v.t. to flow or form into little waves. —rip'le-mark n. furrow left in sand by receding tide or wind. [var. of rimple, for O.E. hrimpan, to wrinkle].

rise (riz) v.i. to ascend; to get up; to get out of bed; to appear above horizon; to originate; to swell; to increase in value, price, power; to adjourn; to revolt; to reach a higher rank; to revive. —pr.p. ri'sing. —pa.t. rose. —pa.p. ris'en. —n. act of rising; that which rises or seems to rise; increase, as of price, wages, etc.; source; elevation, as of voice. —ri'ser n. one who, or that which, rises; vertical part of a step. —ri'sing n. getting up; revolt; insurrection; —a. noaring; approaching; advancing. —to take a rise out of, to joke at someone's expense; to fool [O.E. risan].

risible (riz'i-bl) a. very prone to laugh; capable of exciting laughter; mirth-provoking. —risibil'ity, ris'ibleness n. —ris'ibly adv. [L. risibilis, fr. ridere, to laugh].

risk (risk) n. danger; peril; hazard; amount covered by insurance; person or object insured; —v.t. to expose to danger or possible loss. —risk'er n. —risk'y a. [Fr. risque].

risorgimento (rè-sor-jè-men'tò) n. period (1830-1870) of struggle for national unity and emancipation in Italy [It. = revival].

risorial (ri-sò'ri-al) a. causing laughter; risible [L. ridere, risum, to laugh].

risotto (ri-zot'tò) n. Italian dish of shredded onions, meat, and rice, cooked in fat [It.].

rissole (ris'òl) n. fish or meat minced and fried with bread-crumbs and eggs [Fr.].

rite (rit) n. former practice or custom, esp. religious; form; solemnity; ceremonial. —rit'ual a. pert. to rites; ceremonial; —n. manner of performing divine service; prescribed book of rites. —rit'ualism n. practices of school of religious thought which insists on importance of decorous ceremonial in public worship and administration of Sacraments, esp. of the High Church Anglicans. —rit'ualist n. —rit'ualist' a. —rit'ually adv. [L. ritus].

rival (ri'val) n. competitor; emulator; opponent; —a. having same pretensions or claims; competing; —v.t. to vie with; to strive to equal or excel; to emulate. —pr.p. ri'valling. —pa.t. and pa.p. ri'valled. —ri'valry n. keen competition; emulation [L. ricialis].

rive (riv) v.i. to rend asunder; to split; to cleave; —v.t. to be split or rent asunder. —pa.t. rived. —pa.p. rived, ri'ven [O.N. ri'val].

river (riv'èr) n. natural stream of water flowing in a channel; a copious flow; abundance. —riv'erain, riv'erine a. situated near or on river. —riv'er-bas' n. area drained by a river and its tributaries. —riv'er-bed n. channel of a river. —riv'er-horse n. the hippopotamus. —riv'er-side n. the bank of a river [Fr. rivière].

river (riv'et) n. cylindrical iron or steel pin with strong flat head at one end, used for uniting two overlapping plates, etc. by hammering down the stub end; —v.t. to fasten with rivets; to clinch; to fasten firmly. —riv'eter n. [Fr.].

riverlet (riv'ù-let) n. a little river.

roach (ròch) n. carp-like fresh-water fish with red fins and silvery body [O.Fr. roche].

roach (ròch) n. an abbrev. of cockroach.

road (ròd) n. a track or way prepared for passengers, vehicles, etc.; direction; way; route; a place where vessels may ride at anchor. —road-block n. an obstruction placed across a road for defensive purposes. —road-bog n. motor-cyclist or motorist who drives to the danger of others. —road'house n. a restaurant, hotel, etc., on main-roads. —road'man, road'man n. one employed in repairing roads. —road'met'al n. broken stones used in macadamising roads. —road'roll'er n. heavy roller for consolidating fresh surface of macadamised roads. —road show, travelling company of actors. —road'side n. strip of ground along edge of road. —road'stead n. anchorage providing pilot shelter for a vessel while off shore. —road'survey or n. one who supervises construction and repair of roads. —road'way n. carriage-way of a road. —to take to the road, to adopt life of a tramp; to become a highwayman [O.E. rad, riding].

roam (ròm) v.i. and v.t. to wander; to ramble; to rove; —n. a ramble; a walk. —roam'er n. [etym. uncertain].

roan (ròn) a. having coat in which the main colour is thickly interspersed with another, esp. bay or sorrel or chestnut mixed with white or grey; —n. a roan horse; sumac-tanned smooth-grained sheep-skin, dyed and finished [Fr. rouan].

roar (ròr) v.i. and v.t. to shout; to bawl; to squall; to make loud, confused sound, as winds, waves, traffic, etc.; to laugh loudly; —n. sound of roaring; a loud cry. —roar'ing n. act or sound of roaring. —roar'ingly adv. —Roaring Forties, area of Southern Ocean between 40° and 50° S. latitude where strong W. and N.W. winds are prevalent. —roaring trade, brisk, profitable business [O.E. varian].

roary (rò-ri) a. conspicuous; loud, as of colour; boisterous. Also rory [fr. roar].

roast (ròst) v.t. to cook by exposure to open fire or in oven; to expose to heat (as coffee, etc.); (Slang) to reprimand; to abuse; —v.i. to become over-heated; —n. what is roasted, as joint of meat; —a. roasted. —roast'ing n. [O.Fr. rostit].

rob (rob) v.t. to take by force or stealth; to plunder; to steal. —pr.p. rob'bing. —pa.t. and pa.p. robbed. —rob'ber n. —rob'bery n. forcibly depriving a person of money or of goods [O.Fr. rober].

robe (ròb) n. a long outer garment, esp. of flowing style; ceremonial dress denoting state, rank, or office; gown; —v.t. to invest with a robe; to array; to dress. —rob'ing n. [Fr.].

robin (rob'in) n. small, brown red-breasted bird of thrush family; the ruddock; robin-redbreast. —rob'inet n. robin; tap or cock of steam-engine [O.Fr. Robin, for Robert].

robot (rò-bot) n. automaton; mechanical man; machine which performs varied and highly-skilled operations as if impelled by a human brain; person of machine-like efficiency [fr. play, R.U.R. (Rossum's Universal Robots), by Karel Capek]. [Pol. robotnik, workman].

robust (rò-bust') a. strong; muscular; sound; vigorous. —robust'ous a. boisterous; violent. —robust'ly adv. —robust'ness n. [L. robustus, fr. robur, an oak, strength].

roc (rok) n. gigantic legendary bird of Arabian tales, capable of mighty feats of strength [Pers. rūkh].

Rochelle salt (rò-shel'sawlt) n. tartrate of sodium and potassium, used as aperient and as an ingredient of Seidlitz powder [La Rochelle, a town in France].

rocket (roch'et) n. garment like a surplice, of white lawn, usually with tight sleeves, worn by bishops [O.Fr.].

rock (rok) n. large mass of stone; (Geol.) any natural deposit of sand, earth, or clay when in natural beds; firm foundation; defence, fortress, strength; sweetmeat in long cylindrical form. —rock'er n. rook-dove. —rock'ery n. small artificial mound of stones planted with Alpine plants. —rock'iness n. —rock'y a. rugged; resembling rocks; unfeeling. —rock'bottom a. lowest possible; —n. fundamental principles. —rock-sake n. current cake with a hard crust. —rock'crystal n. transparent quartz used in making certain lenses.

—rock-dove n. dove or pigeon with two black bars on wings. —rock-garden n. a garden laid out for growing rock-plants. —rock-ling n. one of several species of cod. —rock-oil n. petrol. —rock-plants n.pl. plants which thrive in dry exposed places among stones and rocks. —rock-salt n. unrefined sodium chloride found in great natural deposits. —rock-tar n. petrol. —the Rock, Gibraltar —on [the rocks (Colloq.)] having no money or resources [Fr. roche].

rock (rok) v.t. to sway to and fro; to put to sleep by rocking; to lull; to shake; —v.i. to be moved, backward and forward; to reel; to totter. —rock'er n. curving piece of wood on which cradle or chair rocks; rocking-horse or chair; pivoted lever having a rocking motion by means of which movement is conveyed from one point of machine to another. —rock'y a. disposed to rock; shaky. —rock'ing n. act or state of moving to and fro. —rock'ing-chair n. chair mounted on rockers. —rock'ing-horse n. wooden horse mounted on rockers; a hobby-horse. —off one's rocker (Slang) eccentric [O.E. roccian].

rocket (rok-et) n. cylindrical tube filled with a mixture of sulphur, nitre, and charcoal, which, on ignition, hurls the tube forward by action of liberated gases; a similar tube which draws a life-line towards ship in distress; fire-work; —v.t. to soar up; to increase rapidly in price, etc. —rocket-bomb n. high-explosive bomb which is rocket-projected. —rocket plane, plane propelled by rockets [It. rochetta, dim. of rocca, a distaff].

rococo (rô-kô-sô) n. style of architecture, overlaid with profusion of fantastic ornamentation [Fr.].

rod (rod) n. slender, straight, round bar, wand, stick, or switch; birch rod for punishment; cane; emblem of authority; oppression; fishing-rod; lightning conductor; English linear measure, a pole or perch, equal to 5½ yards or 16½ feet. —rod-bacterium n. bacillus [O.E. rodd].

rode (rôd) pa. t. of ride.

rodent (rô-dent) a. gnawing; —n. gnawing animal, as rabbit, rat [L. rodere, to gnaw].

rodeo (rô-dâ-dô) n. round-up of cattle to be branded or marked; exhibition and contest in steer-wrestling and buck-jumping by cowboys [Sp.].

rodomont (rô-dô-mont) n. a braggart; —a. boasting; bragging. —rodomontade, rodomontade n. vain boasting; bluster; rant; —v.i. to boast; to brag; to bluster [Rodomonte, the blustering opponent of Charlemagne, depicted in Ariosto's Orlando Furioso].

roe (rô) n. small, elegant deer of forests of N. Scotland; female hart. —roe-buck n. male of roe [O.E. rah].

roe (rô) n. the eggs or spawn of fish [Scand.]. —roentgen (runt-gen) n. (Nuclear Physics) measuring unit of radiation dose. See also Röntgen.

rogation (rô-gâ-shun) n. in ancient Rome demand, by consuls or tribunes, of a law to be passed by people; litany; supplication. —Rogation Days, three days preceding Ascension Day, on which special litanies are sung or recited by R.C. clergy and people in public procession, invoking a blessing on crops. —rogatory a. commissioned to gather information [L. rogare, to ask].

rogue (rôg) n. vagrant; sturdy beggar; vagabond; knave; wag. —rog'usery n. knavish tricks; cheating; fraud; wagery. —rog'uish a. dishonest; wagish. —rog'uably adv. —rog'uishness n. —rogue-el'ephant n. an elephant of dangerous temper living apart from herd. —rogues' gallery, a collection of photographs of convicted criminals kept by police [O.Fr. rogue, proud].

rogue (rôg) v.t. and v.i. to remove plant from crop (potatoes, cereals, etc.) when that plant falls short of standard or is of another variety from the crop, in order to keep strain pure; —n. plant so removed; plant that falls short of a standard or has reverted to original type [etym. uncertain].

rolst, rolster (rolst, rolst'er) v.t. to bluster; to bully; to swagger. —rols'tar, rols'ter n. —rols'tarly adv. [O.Fr. rusler, a rough, rude fellow, fr. L. rusticus, rustic].

rolé (rôl) n. a part played by an actor in a drama —hence, any conspicuous part or task in public life [Fr.].

roll (rôl) v.t. to turn over and over; to move by turning on an axis; to form into a spherical body; to bind by winding; to drive forward with a swift and easy motion; to level with a roller; to beat with rapid strokes, as a drum; to utter (vowels, letter r) with a full, long-drawn sound; —v.i. to move forward by turning; to revolve upon an axis; to keep falling over and over; to sway; to reel; to rock from side to side, as ship; to wallow; of aircraft, to turn about the axis, i.e. a line from nose to tail, in flight; —n. rolling; a piece of paper, etc. rolled up; any object thus shaped; bread baked into small crisp oval or rounded shapes; official document; 1st; register; catalogue; continuous sound, as thunder; a full cork-screw revolution of an aeroplane about its longitudinal fore and aft axis during flight. —roll'able a. —roll'call n. calling over list of names to check absentees. —rolled gold, a plate of alloy with thin sheets of gold welded firmly to its surface. —roll'er n. cylinder of wood, stone, metal, etc. used in husbandry and the arts; a cylinder which distributes ink over type in printing; long, swelling wave; long, broad bandage; small, insectivorous bird which tumbles about in the air. —roll'er-skate n. skate with wheels or rollers instead of steel runner. —roll-film n. photographic film rolled on to spool. —roll'ing a. moving on wheels; turning over and over; undulating, as a plain; —n. (Naut.) heeling of ship from side to side. —roll'ing-mill n. apparatus for rolling pieces of metal into rods, bars, sheets, plates, etc. —roll'ing-pin n. cylindrical piece of wood or glass for rolling out paste or dough. —roll'ing-plant, roll'ing-stock n. locomotives, carriages, wagons, etc. of railway. —rolling stone, person incapable of settling down in any one place. —roll'top n. type of opening roof for car; desk with flexible sliding cover [Fr. rouler, fr. L. rotula, a little wheel].

rollick (rol-ik) v.t. to move about in a boisterous, careless manner; —n. frolicsome gaiety. —roll'icking a. jovial; care-free; high-spirited [etym. unknown].

rollock See rowlock.

roly-poly (rôl'h-pô-lî) n. in baking, a sheet of paste covered with jam and rolled in the form of a cylinder [redupl. of roll].

rom (rom) n. a male gypsy. —pl. rom's [Gipsy — man, husband].

Romaic (rô-mâ-ik) n. modern vernacular Greek language; —a. of modern Greece or its language [Fr. romainque, fr. Mod. Gk. Rhōmaïkos fr. Rhômê, Rome].

Roman (rô-man) a. pert. to Rome or Roman people; pert. to R.C. religion; in printing, upright letters as distinguished from Italic characters; expressed in letters, not in figures, as I., IV., i., iv., etc. (as distinguished from Arabic numerals, 1, 4, etc.); —n. native, citizen, resident of Rome. —Roman's a. pert. to Rome or its people; pert. to languages which sprang out of Latin; —n. Romance languages. —ro'manise v.t. to introduce many words and idioms derived from Latin; to convert to Roman Catholicism; —v.i. to use Latin expressions; to conform to R.C. opinions or practices. —Ro'manism n. tenets of Church of Rome. —Ro'manist a. —Ro'mish a. relating to Rome or to R.C. church. —Ro'mist n. Roman Catholic. —Roman candle, a firework which throws out differently coloured stars. —Roman Catholic, a member or adherent of section of Christian Church which acknowledges supremacy of Pope;—a. pert. to Church of Rome.—Roman Catholicism, doctrines and tenets of R.C. church [L. Romanus, fr. Roma, Rome].

Romance (rô-man's) n. vernacular languages of certain countries in southern Europe, developed from Latin and including Italian, Spanish, French, Provençal, Roumanian, Romanish, etc.;—a. pert. to these languages.

—romance n. narrative of knight-errantry in Middle Ages; ballad of adventures in love and war; any fictitious narrative treating of olden times; historical novel; story depending mainly on love-interest; highly-coloured falsehood; (Mus.) composition sentimental and expressive in character;—v.i. to write or tell romances; embroider one's account or description with extravagances; to lie unblushingly.—romancer, roman'st n.—romanesque a. (Paint.) representing subjects and scenes appropriate to romance; resembling Roman architecture;—n. portrayal of fabulous or fanciful subjects; style of drawing and colouring in fantastic forms, and not from life; any form of architecture derived from Roman, as Byzantine, Lombard, Saxon, etc.—romantic a. pert. to romance; fictitious; fanciful; sentimental; imaginative.—romantically adv.—romanticism n. the reactionary movement in literature and art against formalism and classicism; state of being romantic [O.Fr. romans, It. romanza].

Romany, Rommany (rom'-a-ni) n. a gipsy; the language of the gipsies. Also Rom'ani.—Romany rye, a gentleman who cultivates the society of gipsies (Gipsy rom, a man).

romp (romp) v.i. to leap and frisk about in play; to frolic;—n. a tom-boy; a boisterous form of play.—romper's n.pl. a child's overall, with leg openings (earlier, ramp).

rondeau (ron'dô) n. poem, usually of thirteen lines with only two rhymes, the opening words recurring additionally, as a burden, after eighth and thirteenth lines; (Mus.) rondo, ron'del n. poem of thirteen or fourteen iambic lines, first two lines of which are repeated in middle and at close.—ron'do n. musical setting of a rondeau; sonata movement in music in which a principal theme is repeated two or three times [Fr.].

rone (rôn) n. See rhone.

Roneo (rô-ne-ô) n. a duplicating machine;—v. to duplicate letters, etc. by this means [Protected Trade Name].

Röntgen rays (runt'-gen rās) n.pl. X-rays.—Röntgen's v.t. to submit to action of X-rays [Wilhelm von Röntgen (1845-1923), German physicist].

rood (rôod) n. fourth part of acre, equal to 40 square poles or 1,210 square yards; a cross or crucifix, esp. one placed in a church over entrance to choir.—rood'arch n. arch between nave and chancel of church.—rood'loft n. a small gallery over rood-screen of church.—rood'screen n. open-work screen, highly ornamented, separating choir from nave in Gothic churches [O.E. rod, a rod, a cross].

roof (rôof) n. outside structure covering building; framework supporting this covering; stratum immediately above seam in mine; upper part of any hollow structure or object, as roof of cave, mouth, etc.; ceiling;—v.t. to cover with a roof; to shelter.—roof'gar'den n. miniature garden on flat roof.—roof'tree n. a common rafter or spar.—Maupard roof, a roof having a break in slope, lower part being steeper than upper [O.E. hrof].

rook (rook) n. in chess, one of the four pieces placed on corner squares of the board; also known as a castle (Pers. rûkh).

rook (rook) n. blue-black, hoarse-voiced bird of crow family; swindler; a card-sharper;—v.t. to cheat; to swindle.—rook'ery n. colony of rooks and their nests; overcrowded, slum tenement.—rook's n. (Jem. rook'ste') Army slang for a recruit [O.E. hroc].

room (rôom) n. (enough) space; apartment or chamber; scope; opportunity; occasion;—pl. lodgings;—v.t. (U.S.) to lodge.—room'ful a.—room'ly adv.—room'iness n. spaciousness.—room'y a. spacious; wide [O.E. rum].

roost (rôost) n. pole on which birds rest at night; perch; collection of fowls roosting together;—v.t. to settle down to sleep, as birds on a perch; to perch.—roost'er n. a cock [O.E. Aroost].

root (rôot) n. part of plant which grows down into soil seeking nourishment for whole plant; plant whose root is edible, as beetroot; part of anything which grows like root, as of tooth, cancer, etc.; source; origin; vital part; basis; bottom; primitive word from which other words are derived; (Math.) factor of quantity which, when multiplied by itself the number of times indicated by the index number, will produce that quantity, e.g. 4 is third (or cube) root of 64 (symbol $\sqrt[3]{}$), for $4 \times 4 \times 4 = 64$;—v.t. to plant and fix in earth; to impress deeply in mind; to establish firmly;—v.i. to enter earth, as roots; to be firmly fixed or established.—root'erop n. plant grown for edible value of its roots, e.g. turnip.—root'ed a. firmly established.—root'stock n. a rhizome.—root and branch, entirely; completely [O.E. wyrt].

root (rôot) v.t. and v.i. to turn up with the snout, as swine; to extirpate; to rummage, to uncover [O.E. wrot, a snout].

root (rôot) v.t. to cheer [U.S. Slang].

rope (rôp) v.t. stout cord of several twisted strands of fibre or metal wire; row of objects strung together, as onions, pearls, etc.;—v.t. to fasten with a rope; to mark off a racing track, etc., with ropes; to lasso.—rope'cord n. ornamental cord used by upholsterers.—rope'danc'er n. one who performs on a rope raised above ground.—rope'ladd'er, rope'bridge, etc. n. one made of ropes.—rope'ry n. a place where ropes are made.—rope'yarn n. thread or small lines of yarn twisted into strands for making ropes or serving rigging, etc.—rope'iness n. stringiness; stickiness.—rope'ing a. [O.E. rap].

Roquefort (rok'-for') n. a green cheese of ewe's milk [Roquefort, in France].

rorqual (ror'-kwål) n. a genus of whale, the largest of living animals [Scand. rôr, red; hval, whale].

rosy See roary.

rosacea (rô-zâ-sê-â) n. form of acne, marked by redness of nose and pimples [L. fr. rosa, a rose].

Rosaceae (rô-zâ-sê-â) n.pl. order of plants including dog-rose, strawberry, blackberry, cherry, hawthorn.—rosa'ceous a. rose-like; belonging to rose family.—rosa'rium n. rose-garden [L. rosa, rose].

rosary (rô-za-ri) n. rose-garden; string of beads on which are counted Ave Marias and Paternosters [L. rosa, a rose].

rosid (rô'id) a. dewy [L. ros, dew].

rose (rôz) pa.t. of rise.

rose (rôz) n. typical genus (Rosa) of plant family Rosaceae, consisting of spiny, wing-leaved shrubs and red, yellow, or white flowers; flower of one of these shrubs; delicate shade of pink; rosette; perforated nozzle of tube or pipe, as on watering-can.—ro'seal a. resembling rose in colour or fragrance.—ro'seate a. rosy; full of roses; of rose colour; blooming; optimistic.—ro'sebay n. a willow-herb with showy spikes of large pink or purple flowers.—ro'sebud n. the bud of the rose; a young girl in her teens.—ro'se-coloured a. having colour of a rose; unwarrantably optimistic; extravagantly extolled. Also ro'sehued.—ro'sery n. nursery for rearing rose-bushes.—ro'se-wa'ter n. water tinted with roses by distillation;—a. having fragrance of rose-water—hence, affectedly delicate.—ro'se-win'dow n. circular window with a series of mullions diverging from centre.—ro'se-wood n. rich, dark-red hardwood from S. America, used for furniture-making.—ro'se'ly adv.— rose'ness n.—ros'y a. like a rose; blooming; red; blushing; bright; favourable.—under the rose, strictly confidential; secret; sub rosa [L. rosa, a rose].

rosemary (rôz-mā-ri, rôz-mā-ri) n. a small, fragrant evergreen shrub, emblem of fidelity [L. ros, dew; marinus, marine].

rosette (rô-zet') n. something fashioned to resemble a rose, as bunch of ribbon; a rose-shaped architectural ornament.—roset'ed a. [Fr. dim. of roset].

rosin (rôz'in) n. resin in solid state;—v.t. to rub or cover with rosin.—ros'iny a. like rosin [Fr. résine].

rossignol (rô-si-nyol) n. the nightingale; the Canadian song-sparrow [Fr.].

roster (rô-stēr) n. a list or plan showing turns of duty; register of names [Dut. rooster, a corrupt. of L. register].

rostrum (rô-strum) n.—n.pl. ros'trums, ros'tra, beak or bill of bird; snout or pointed organ; beak of a ship; raised platform; pulpit.—ros'tral a. pert. to rostrum, beak, or snout.—ros'trate, ros'trated a. beaked [L. = a beak, fr. rodere, to gnaw].

rosy. See rose.

rot (rôb) v.t. and v.i. to decompose naturally; to corrupt; to putrefy; to moulder away.—pr.p. rot'ting.—pa.t. and pa.p. rot'ted.—n. rotting; decomposition; decay; disease of sheep, as foot-rot; form of decay which attacks timber, usually dry-rot; disease, injurious to potato; (Slang) nonsense [O.E. rotian].

rota (rô-ta) n. wheel; course; roster, list, or roll; (Mus.) a round; an ecclesiastical tribunal in the R.C. Church in which acts as court of appeal.—ro'tal a. [L. = wheel].

rotary (rô-tar-i) a. turning, as a wheel; rotatory;—n. type-cylinder printing-machine; international association of business men's clubs.—Rota'rian n. member of Rotary Club.—rotary engine, in aviation, aero-engine in which cylinder and crank-case rotate with airscrew [L. rota, a wheel].

rotate (rô-tât') v.t. to cause to revolve;—v.i. to move round pivot; to go in rotation; to revolve; to spin.—ro'tate a. (Bot.) wheel-shaped, as a calyx.—ro'tation n. turning, as a wheel or solid body on its axis; (Astron.) period of rotation of planet about its imaginary axis; serial change, as rotation of crops.—ro'tational a.—ro'tator n.—ro'tatory a. turning on an axis, as a wheel; going in a circle; following in succession [L. rota, a wheel].

rote (rôt) n. mechanical repetition of words [O.Fr. rote, track].

rote (rôt) n. early English stringed instrument of dulcimer type [O.Fr. = a fiddle].

rotor (rô-tôr) n. revolving portion of dynamo, motor, or turbine.—ro'tor-ship n. ship propelled by effect of wind pressure on one or more revolving cylinders erected from the deck [short for rotator].

rotten (rô-tŭn) a. putrefied; decayed; carious; unsound; corrupt; (Slang) bad; worthless.—

rot'only adv.—rot'tennes n.—rot'ten-bor'ough n. town become practically non-existent, yet retaining right to return member of parliament.—rot'ter n. (Slang) a worthless, unprincipled person [fr. rot].

rotund (rô-tund') a. round; circular; globular; spherical; plump.—rotun'da n. circular building or apartment, covered by dome.—rotun'dity, rotund'ness n. globular form; completeness [L. rotundus, fr. rota, a wheel].

rouble, ruble (rô-ôb) n. Russian monetary unit and silver coin; divided into 100 copeks (kopeks) [Russ. rubl].

roue (rô-ô) n. a libertine; a profligate; a rake [Fr. = one broken on the wheel].

rouge (rô-ôzh) n. fine red powder used by jewellers as polish-material; cosmetic for tinting cheeks;—v.t. and v.i. to tint (face) with rouge [Fr. = red].

rough (ruf) a. not smooth; rugged; uneven; hewn; shapeless; uncut; unpolished; rude; harsh; bolsterous; stormy; approximate; unfair; having aspirated sound of h;—adv. in rough manner;—n. rude, coarse fellow; crude, unfashioned state; parts of golf-course adjoining fairway and greens;—v.t. to make rough; to roughen; to rough-hew; to shape out in rough and ready way.—rough'age n. fibrous, unassimilated portions of food which promote intestinal movement.—rough'cast n. method of finishing outside plaster-work by covering with mixture of lime and pebbles or gravel.—rough diamond, uncut diamond; a person of ability and worth, but uncouth.—rough'en v.t. to make rough;—v.i. to become rough.—rough'hew v.t. to hew coarsely; to give first form to a thing.—rough-house n. rag; horse-play; a disturbance indoors.—rough'ly adv.—rough-neck n. in U.S.A., (Colloq.) ill-mannered fellow; a tough.—rough'ness n.—to rough it, to put up with hardship and discomfort [O.E. ruh].

roulade (rô-ô-lâd') n. (Mus.) embellishment; trill; shake [Fr. rouler, to roll].

rouleau (rô-ô-lô') n. little roll; roll of coins in paper;—pl. rouleaux', rouleaus'.—rouleaux' n.pl. little rolls or chains of red corpuscles [Fr. dim. of O.Fr. role, a roll].

roulette (rô-ô-lê't') n. game of chance, played with a revolving disc and a ball [Fr. dim. of O.Fr. roule, wheel].

round (round) a. circular; spherical; globular; rotund; whole; total; not fractional or divisional, as a sum; large; plump; smooth; flowing, as style or diction; plain; fair; candid; decided, as assertion; (of vowel) pronounced with rounded lips;—n. circle; globe; circuit; cycle; series; a course of action performed by persons in turn; carousal; bumpers; toasts; a certain amount (of applause); walk by guard to visit posts, sentries, etc.; beat of policeman, milkman, etc.; a game (of golf); one of successive stages in knock-out competition, as cup-tie football; short bout, limited in time, between two boxers; step of a ladder; ammunition unit; circular dance; short, vocal piece, in which singers start at regular intervals after each other;—adv. on all sides; circularly; back to the starting point; on every side of; about;—v.t. to make circular, spherical, or cylindrical; to go round; to smooth; to polish;—v.i. to grow or become round or full in form.—round'about a. indirect; circuitous;—n. merry-go-round; obstacle at cross-roads to compel traffic to slow down.—round'el n. round figure; kind of dance; roundel; small circular shield.—round'elay n. round or country dance; an air or tune in three parts, in which the first strain is repeated in the others.—round'er n. a tool for rounding-off objects; one who habitually goes round beat;—pl. outdoor game with ball and stick.—Round'head n. a Puritan (so called from practice of cropping hair close); republican in time of Commonwealth.—round'house n. in merchant navy, a cabin built on after part of quarter-deck; sentry-box or guard-room.—round'ly adv. vigorously; fully; plainly; bluntly; openly.—round'ness n.—round'rob'in n. petition, etc. having signatures arranged in a circular form so as to give no clue to order of signing.—round'shot n. cannon-ball.—rounds'man n. person who delivers goods regularly on prescribed beat.—round-table conference, one where all participants are on equal footing.—round'up, n. collecting cattle into herds; throwing cordon round area by police or military for interrogating all found within;—v.t. to collect and bring into confined space—to round off, to bring to a grand conclusion.—to come round, to recover consciousness [Fr. round].

round (round) v.t. and v.i. to whisper.—to round on, to inform against; to scold [O.E. runian, to whisper].

roup (roup) n. (Scot.) sale of goods by auction [O.E. Arupan, to cry].

roup (roup) n. a contagious disease of domestic poultry [O.E. hropan, to cry].

rouse (rouz) v.i. to wake from sleep; to excite to action; to agitate; to startle or surprise; — v.i. to awake from sleep or repose. — rouser n. — rous'ing a. — rous'ingly adv. — rous'y a. noisy; rowdy [etym. unknown].

roust (roust) n. fashionable assembly; tumultuous crowd; rabble; defeat of army or confusion of troops in flight; — v.i. to defeat and throw into confusion [L. ruptus, broken].

roust (roust) v.i. to roar; to snore [O.E. hrulan].

roust (roust) v.i. to turn up with the snout; to cut grooves by scooping or gouging; — v.i. to poke about.

route (rout) n. course or way which is travelled or to be followed. — en route, on the way [Fr.].

routine (routin) n. regular course of action or procedure adhered to by order or habit; — a. in ordinary way of business; according to rule [Fr.].

rove (rov) n. a small metal ring or washer for holding a rivet in place [fr. receve].

rove (rov) v.i. to wander or ramble over; to plough into ridges; — v.i. to wander about; to ramble. — ro'ver, wanderer; robber or pirate; Boy Scout. — rov'ing n. and a. — roving commission, a business tour without restriction as to places to be visited [Dut. roofer, a robber].

row (rō) n. persons or things in straight line; a rank; a file; a line [O.E. raw].

row (rō) v.i. to impel (a boat) with oars; to transport, by rowing; — v.i. to labour with oar; — n. spell of rowing; a trip in a rowing-boat. — row'boat, row'ing-boat n. boat impelled solely by oars. — row'er n. — row'lock n. space out in wash-strake, just above gunwale of boat, to take weight and thrust of oars; two thole-pins for same purpose. Also roll'ock, roll'ock [O.E. rowcan].

row (rou) n. riotous, noisy disturbance; a dispute; shindy; brawl. — row'dy a. noisy and rough; — n. hooligan. — row'dyism, row'diness n. [etym. uncertain].

rowan (rou-an) n. mountain-ash producing clusters of red berries. Also roan'tree, rod'dan, etc. [Scand.].

rowel (rou-el) n. wheel of a spur, furnished with sharp points [Fr. roue, a wheel].

royal (roi-el) a. pert to the crown; worthy of, befitting, patronised by, a king or queen; kingly; — n. standard size of paper, 20 by 25 inches (for printing), 19 by 24 inches (for writing and drawing); small sail above top-gallant-sail; third shoot of stag's head; gold coin; tuft of beard on lower lip, an imperial. — roy'alism n. principles of government by king. — roy'alist n. adherent to sovereign, or one attached to kingly government. — roy'ally adv. — roy'alty n. kingship; kingly office; person of king or sovereign; members of royal family; royal prerogative; royal domain; payment to owner of land for right to work minerals, or to inventor for use of his invention, or to author depending on sales of his book. — roy'al burgh (Scot.) town holding a charter granted by sovereign. — roy'al commission, committee of experts appointed by the Crown to investigate matter of public interest or administration. — roy'al mast, fourth division of a mast from the deck [Fr. fr. L. regalis, fr. rex, a king].

royster, roysterer. See rolster, rolsterer.

rub (rub) v.i. to subject to friction; to abrade; to chafe; to remove by friction; to wipe; to scour; to touch slightly; — v.i. to come into contact accompanied by friction; to become frayed or worn with friction. — pr-p. rub'bing. — pa.i. and pa-p. rubbed. — n. rubbing; difficulty, impediment, drawback; a slight collision. — rub'bing, rub'off n. impression of coin, lettering on book, etc. obtained by rubbing thin paper placed on object and rubbed with pencil or similar article. — to rub in, to emphasise by constant reiteration [etym. obscure].

rubber (rub-er) n. one who or that which rubs;

a masseur or masseuse. — rub'bing n. applying friction to a surface; an impression taken of a coin, inscriptions on stone, etc. by covering with paper, tin-foil, etc. and rubbing lightly [fr. rub].

rubber (rub-er) n. coagulated sap of certain tropical trees; caoutchouc; gum elastic; india-rubber for erasing pencil marks. — pl. over-shoes; galoshes; — a. made of rubber. — rubberised a. impregnated or mixed with rubber, as rubberised fabrics. — rubber-neck n. a tourist eager to see every important building, sight, or spectacle [fr. rub].

rubber (rub-er) n. series of three games at various card games; a series of an odd number of games or contests at various games [fr. rub].

rubbish (rub-ish) n. waste or rejected matter; anything worthless; refuse; nonsense; absurdities. — rubbish-heap n. mass of rubbish. — rubbishy a. worthless [etym. uncertain].

rubble (rubl) n. upper fragmentary, decomposed mass of stone overlying a solid stratum of rock; masonry built of rough stone, of all sizes and shapes; water-worn or rough stones used to fill up spaces between walls, etc. — rubbl'y a. of the nature of rubble [O.Fr. robel, dim. of robe, robbe, trash].

rube (rōb) n. in N. America, a farmer; a rustic [abbrev. fr. Ruben].

Rubicon (rō-bi-kon) n. stream in Italy, between Roman Italy and Cisalpine Gaul. — to cross the Rubicon, to take a decisive, irrevocable step in any adventurous undertaking, as Caesar did when, by crossing, he virtually declared war against the republic.

rubicund (rō-bi-kund) a. ruddy; florid; flushed; rosy; reddish. — rubicun'dity, rubicundness n. [L. rubicundus, fr. ruber, red].

rubidium (rō-bid-i-um) n. rare silvery metallic element, one of the alkali metals [L. rubidus, red].

rubied (rō-bid) a. ruby-coloured; florid.

ruble. See rouble.

rubric (rō-brik) n. medieval manuscript or printed book in which initial letter was illuminated in red; heading or portion of such a work, printed in red — hence, the title of a chapter, statute, etc. originally in red; an ecclesiastical injunction or rule; a matter definitely settled by authority; — v.i. to illumine with or print in red; to enact. — rubric'al a. coloured in red; placed in rubrics. — rubricate v.i. to mark in red; to formulate as a rubric. — rubric'ian n. one versed in the rubrics. — rubricist n. a strict adherent to rubrics; a formalist [L. rubrica, red earth, fr. ruber, red].

ruby (rō-bi) n. a transparent variety of corundum, carmine red, pink, purple, or violet in colour, next to diamond in hardness and value as gem; purple-tinged red colour; carbuncle; printing type, equal to 64 points, smaller than nonpareil; a. having the dark-red colour of a ruby. — rubious a. ruby-coloured. — rook ruby, a red garnet [L. ruber, red].

ruche (rōosh) n. pleated trimming for dresses, sewn down the middle and not at top, as in box pleatings. — rush'ing n. in millinery, succession of box-pleats, one on top of the other, gathered or pleated in the centre, leaving the edges free [Fr.].

ruck, ruckle (ruk, ruk'l) v.i. to wrinkle; to crease; — v.i. to be drawn into folds; — n. fold; crease; wrinkle [O.N. hrukka].

ruck (ruk) n. rank and file; common herd [etym. doubtful].

rucksack (rōk'sak) n. pack carried on back by climbers, etc. [Ger. = 'back-pack']. — back-pack n.

rudder (ruk'shun) n. disturbance; row; rumpus [perh. fr. eruption].

rudd (rud) n. British fresh-water fish allied to the roach [O.E. rudu, redness].

rudder (rud-er) n. flat frame fastened vertically to stern-post of ship, which controls direction; in aeroplane, flat plane surface hinged to stern.

post of fin in tail unit and used to provide directional control and stability; anything which guides, as a bird's tail-feathers [O.E. rothor].

ruddle (rud^l) n. species of red earth; red ochre, used for marking sheep;—v.t. to mark (sheep) with ruddle. Also radd'le, redd'le.—rudd'leman n. one who digs ruddle [O.E. rudu, reddness].

ruddock, ruddock (rud^lok) n. the redbreast; a gold coin [O.E. rudig, reddish].

ruddy (rud^l) a. of a red colour; of healthy flesh colour; rosy; florid; (Slang) bloody; damnable.—rudd'ier a. redder.—rudd'iest a. reddest.—rudd'ly adv.—rudd'iness n. [O.E. rudig, reddish].

rude (róó) a. primitive; roughly made; uneducated; uncivil; rustic.—rude'ly adv.—rude'ness n. [L. rudis, rough].

rudiment (róó-di-ment) n. beginning; germ; vestige; (Biol.) imperfectly developed or formed organ;—pl. elements, first principles, beginning (of knowledge, etc.); elementary text-book.—rudimen'tal, rudimen'tary a.—rudimen'tarily adv. [L. rudimentum, fr. rudis, rude].

rue (róó) v.t. and v.i. to grieve for; to lament; to regret; to repent of.—pr.p. rue'ing.—n. sorrow; remorse.—rue'ful a. woeful; mournful; sorrowful.—rue'fully adv. [O.E. hrewan, to be sorry for].

rue (róó) n. aromatic, bushy, evergreen shrub; any bitter infusion [L. rula].

ruff (ruf) n. braid, circular collar, plaited, crimped, or fluted; something formed in plaits, or puckered;—bird: a mottled bird, the male being ringed with ruff or frill of long, black, red-barred feathers during breeding-season; (fem.) reeve; neck fringe of long hair or feathers; breed of domestic pigeons.—ruffed a. [etym. uncertain].

ruff (ruf) n. trumping at cards when one cannot follow suit;—v.t. to trump instead of following suit [O.Fr. roffle].

ruffe (ruf) n. a small, speckled, fresh-water edible fish of the Perch family [ruff].

ruffian (ruf-i-an) n. a rough, lawless fellow; desperado;—a. brutal.—ruff'ianism n. conduct of a ruffian.—ruff'ianly adv. [O.Fr. fr. It. ruffiano].

ruffle (ruf^l) v.t. to make into a ruff; to draw into wrinkles, open plaits, or folds; to furnish with ruffles; to roughen surface of; to crumple; to disorder; to annoy; to put out (of temper);—v.i. to flutter; to jar; to be at variance; to grow rough;—n. a strip of plaited cloth, attached to a garment; a frill; agitation; commotion [Dut. ruielen, to rumple].

rufous (róófus) a. (Bol.) brownish-red; having red hair [L. rufus, red].

rug (rug) n. thick, woollen wrap; mat for floor of shaggy or thick-piled surface; a rough, shaggy dog [Scand.].

rugby (rug^l-bi) n. the handling code of football, played with teams of 15 players each [fr. Rugby public school].

rugged (rug^l) a. rough; uneven; jagged; wrinkled; coarse; harsh; inharmonious; grating; homely; unpolished.—rugg'edly adv.—rugg'edness n. [rug].

rugger (rug^l-er) n. popular name for rugby.
rugose, rugous (róó-góe-gus) a. wrinkled; corrugated.—ru'gously adv.—ru'gosity n. state of being wrinkled [L. rupa, a wrinkle].

ruin (róó-in) n. downfall; eternal misery; remains of demolished or decayed city, fortress, castle, work or art, etc.; state of being decayed;—v.t. to bring to ruin; to injure; to spoil; to mar; to cause loss of fortune or livelihood to.—ru'ins n.pl. ruined buildings, etc.—ruina'tion n. subversion; overthrow; demolition; destruction; decay.—ru'iner n.—ru'inous a. fallen to ruin; decayed; dilapidated; injurious; destructive; pernicious.—ru'iously adv. [L. ruina, fr. ruere, to rush down].

rule (róól) n. act, power, or mode of directing;

government; sway; control; authority; precept; prescribed law; established principle or mode of action; regulation; habitual practice; standard; test; code of conduct in a religious order; an instrument to draw straight lines; ruler; (Print.) thin strip of brass or type metal, type high, used to separate columns; dash or score, a mark of punctuation;—v.t. to govern; to control; to determine; to decide authoritatively; to mark with straight lines, using ruler;—v.i. to have command; to order by rule; to maintain a level, as prices in commercial market; to prevail.—ru'ler n. one who rules; governor; sovereign; instrument with straight edges for drawing lines; a rule.—ru'ling a. governing; controlling; managing; predominant;—n. an authoritative decision; a point of law settled by a court of law [L. regula, fr. regere, to govern].

rum (rum) n. spirit distilled from fermented skimmings of sugar-boilers and molasses.—rum-run'ner n. bootlegger; person illegally introducing spirituous liquors [etym. uncertain].

rum (rum) a. queer; odd; droll; strange.—rumm'y a. rum; queer [perh. a var. of Romany, rom, a gipsy].

rumb (rum) n. See rhumb.

rumba, rumba (róóm-ba) n. a dance imported from Central America [Sp.].

rumble (rum^l-bl) v.t. to make a low, vibrant, continuous sound; to reverberate;—v.i. to rattle; (Slang) to detect or see through.—n. dull, vibrant, confused noise, as of thunder; rumour; seat for footmen at back of carriage.—rum'bler n. [imit.].

rumbustious See rambustious.

ruminant (róó-mi-nant) n. animal which chews cud, as sheep, cow;—a. chewing cud.—ru'minate v.t. to chew over again, to ponder over; to muse on;—v.i. to chew cud; to meditate.—rumina'tingly adv.—rumina'tion n.—ru'minative a.—ru'minator n. [L. ruminare, to chew cud].

rummage (rum^l-aj) v.t. to search thoroughly into or through; to ransack;—v.i. to make a search;—n. careful search; disorderly heap; lumber; upheaval.—rumm'age n. [orig. stowage of casks, O.Fr. arrumage].

rummy (rum^l-i) n. a simple card game for any number of players.

rumour (róó-mur) n. current but unproved report; common talk; fame;—v.t. to put round as a rumour [L. rumor, noise].

rump (rump) n. end of backbone of animal with the parts adjacent; buttocks; hinder part; remnant of anything [Scand.].

rumple (rum^l-pl) v.t. to make uneven; to crease; to crumple;—n. an irregular fold or plait [O.E. hrimpan, to wrinkle].

rumpus (rum^l-pus) n. an uproar; a noisy disturbance; a row [etym. doubtful].

run (run) v.t. to move rapidly on legs; to hurry; to contend in a race; to stand as candidate for; to travel or sail regularly; to extend; to retreat; to flee; to flow; to continue in operation; to continue without falling due, as a promissory note or bill; to have legal force; to fuse; to melt; to average; to turn or rotate; to be worded;—v.i. to cause to run; to drive, push, or thrust; to manage; to maintain regularly, as bus-service; to operate; to evade (a blockade); to smuggle; to incur (risk).—pr.p. run'ning.—pa.t. ran.—pa.p. run.—n. flow; channel; course run; regular, scheduled journey; pleasure trip by car, cycle, etc.; unconstrained liberty; range of ground for grazing cattle, feeding poultry, etc.; trend; rhythm; kind or variety; vogue; point gained in cricket or baseball; a great demand; period play holds the stage; (Mus.) rapid scale passage, roulade.—run'about n. a light motor-car, esp. for short distance work; a gadabout.—run'away n. fugitive; horse which has bolted.—run'ner n. one taking part in a race; messenger; bookmaker's assistant; a long, slender prostrate stem which runs along the ground; one of curved pieces on which sleigh slides; formerly, detective officer; device for facilitating movement of sliding doors, etc.; narrow strip of carpet; smuggler.

—run'ner-up n. one who gains second place. —run'ning a. flowing; entered for a race, as a horse; successive (numbers); continuous (as an order, account); discharging (pus); cursive; easy in style; effortless; —n. moving or flowing quickly; chance of winning. —run'ning-board n. narrow, horizontal platform running along locomotive, carriage, motor-car etc., to provide step for entering or leaving. —running commentary, broadcast description of event by eye-witness. —running in, operating new machine with a light load only until all running parts move sweetly. —running knot, knot made so as to tighten when rope is pulled. —run'way n. prepared track on airfields for landing and taking-off. —also ran, an unsuccessful competitor. —in the long run, in the end; ultimately. —to run amok, to go mad. —to run off, to repeat from memory; to cause to flow out; to print further copies. —to run on, to continue talking; to dwell on. —to run out, to come to an end; to dismiss a batsman out of his crease at cricket. —to run riot, to give way to excess. —to run to earth, to capture after a long pursuit. —to run to seed, to grow too quickly to be of value; to deteriorate after a promising start [O.E. rinan].

runagate (run'-a-gāt) n. a fugitive; a vagabond; a deserter [var. of renegade].

rundle (run'-dl) n. a rung or step of a ladder; a ring; a ball; the drum of a capstan. —run'dled a. circular [fr. round].

ruue (róon) n. letter or character of old Teutonic and Scandinavian alphabets; magic symbol; mystery. —run'ic a. [O.N. run, a mystery].

rung (rung) pa.p. of ring.

ruug (ruug) n. stave of a ladder; cross-bar or spoke [O.E. hrung, a beam].

runnel (run'-el) n. small brook or rivulet; a gutter [O.E. rinnele, a brook].

rust (rust) n. small, weak specimen of any animal; mean, contemptible person; large-sized carrier-pigeon; stem of cabbage; dead stump of tree [etym. doubtful].

rupee (róo-pé') n. standard Indian monetary unit, silver coin [Urdu, rupiyah].

rupture (rup-tür) n. breaking or bursting; state of being violently parted; breach of concord between individuals or nations; hernia; forcible bursting, breaking, or tearing of a bodily organ or structure; —v.i. to part by violence; to burst (as a blood-vessel) [L. ruptura, fr. rumpere, to break].

rural (róó-rál) a. pert. to the country; pert. to farming or agriculture; rustic; pastoral. —ru'ralize v.i. to make rural; —v.i. to live in the country; to become rural. —ru'ralism n. —ru'rally adv. [L. ruralis, fr. rus, the country].

Ruritania (róó-ri-tá'-ni-á) n. any fictitious country in Europe [invented by Anthony Hope].

rust (róos) n. artifice; trick; stratagem; wile [Fr.].

rush (rush) v.i. to carry along violently and rapidly; to take by sudden assault; to hasten forward; to overcharge grossly; —v.i. to move violently or rapidly; to speed; —n. impetuous, forward movement; heavy current of water, air, etc.; eager demand (for an article); stampede of cattle. —rush'er n. one who acts precipitately; a slave-driver [M.E. ruschen].

rush (rush) n. name of plants of genus Juncus, found in marshy places; stem as a material for baskets, etc.; thing of little worth; taper; straw. —rush-bet'omed a. of chair with seat made of rushes. —rush-can'le, rush-light n. primitive form of light made from a peeled rush, dried and dipped in boiling fat or grease. —rush'es a. made of rushes. —rush'y a. [O.E. ryec].

rusk (rusk) n. biscuit or light, hard bread [Sp. rosca, roll of bread].

Russ (rus) n. Russian; language of Russians. —Russ'lan a. pert. to Russia; —n. general name for Slav races in Russia; native or inhabitant of Russia; Russian language. —Rus'so- prefz Russian. —Russia leather, orig. soft kind of leather dyed a deep red. —Russian boot, high-legged boot, worn by women in wet or cold weather. —Russian wolf-hound, the borzoi.

russel (rus'-el) n. twilled woollen fabric. —russel cord, a rep fabric used for academic gowns, etc. [O.Fr. roussel, red].

russet (rus'-et) a. of reddish-brown colour; homespun cloth dyed this colour; dessert apple of russet colour [Fr. roux, red].

rust (rust) n. film which appears on metals on account of atmospheric corrosion, esp. oxide of iron which forms reddish coat on surface of that metal; mildew; —v.i. to corrode with rust; to impair by inactivity; —v.i. to become rusty; to dissipate one's potential powers by inaction. —rust'ily adv. —rust'iness n. —rust' proof a. not liable to rust. —rust'y a. covered with rust; rust-coloured; impaired by neglect or disuse; out of practice [O.E.].

rustic (rust'-ik) a. pert. to the country; rural; awkward; —n. inhabitant of the country; peasant. —rust'ically adv. —rust'icate v.t. to compel to reside in country; to banish from college for a time; —v.i. to live in the country. —rust'ication n. —rust'icity n. state of being rustic; rustic manners; simplicity; artlessness [L. rusticus, fr. rus, the country].

rustle (rus'-l) v.i. to make soft, swishing sounds, like rubbing of silk cloth dry leaves; to be active and on the move; —v.i. to steal, esp. cattle; —n. a soft, whispering sound. —rust'ler n. one who, or that which, rustles; hustler; cattle-thief. —rust'ling n. [limit. origin].

rut (rut) n. furrow made by wheel; settled habit or way of living; groove; —v.i. to form ruts in; —pr.p. rut'ing. —pa.i. and pa.p. rut'ted [Fr. roule, a way, track, etc.].

rut (rut) n. time of sexual excitement and urge among animals, esp. of deer; —v.i. to be in heat [O.Fr. fr. L. rugire, to roar].

ruth (róth) n. pity; tenderness; compassion. —ruth'ful a. compassionate. —ruth'fully adv. —ruth'less a. pitiless; cruel. —ruth'lessly adv. —ruth'lessness n. [rue].

ruthenium (róó-thé'-m) n. a spongy metallic element, related to rhodium and palladium [fr. Ruthenia].

rye ('ri) n. a kind of grass allied to wheat, used for bread-making and distilling of hollands; in U.S.A., potent whisky made from rye. —rye-grass n. grass-like plant as fodder for cattle [O.E. rygr].

ryot (ri'-ot) n. peasant cultivator of soil in India [Urdu, rayyat, subject].

ryepick, ryepick (ri'-pick) n. ironshod pole used to move punt; quart [etym. unknown].

S

Sababism (sá'-bá-izm). Also Sa'baelism, Sa'belism, Sa'baeanism. See Sabianism.

Sabbath (sáb'-ath) n. seventh day of week, a day of rest enjoined upon Jews in the decalogue; Sunday; Lord's Day; intermission of pain, effort, sorrow. —Sabbat'arian n. member of certain Christian sects, e.g. Seventh-day Adventists, who observe seventh-day, Saturday, as the Sabbath; strict observer of Sabbath. —Sabbat'arianism n. —Sabbat'ic, -al a. pert. to Sabbath; rest-bringing. —Sabbat'ical year, in the Jewish ritual, every seventh, in which the lands were left untillied, etc.; a year periodically interrupting one's normal course of work, wholly devoted to further intensive study or one's special subject [Heb. shabbath].

sabeline (sab'e-lin) a. of, or pert. to the sable [O.Fr.].

Sabian (sā'bi-an) a. relating to religion of 'aba in Arabia, or to worship of heavenly bodies;—n. worshipper of sun, moon and stars; adherent of Sabian religion.—Sabianism, Sa'bianism n.

Sabine (sab'in) n. one of an ancient tribe of Italy who became merged with the Romans; a. pert. to the Sabines.

sable (sā'bl) n. small carnivorous mammal of weasel tribe; sable fur; (Her.) tincture or colour black;—pl. mourning garments;—a. black; made of sable [O.Fr.].

sabot (sab'ō) n. a wooden shoe worn by the peasantry of France and Belgium [Fr.].

sabotage (sā'bo-tāzh) n. wilful damage or destruction of property perpetrated for political or economic reasons.—sab'oteur n. one who commits sabotage [Fr. sabot].

sabre (sā'ber) n. sword with broad and heavy blade, slightly curved toward the point; cavalry sword;—v.t. to wound or cut down with sabre.—sā'bre-tache (tash) n. leathern case suspended from sword-belt worn by cavalry and artillery officers.—sā'bre-tooth n. extinct tiger-like animal with long upper canine teeth.—sabreur n. cavalry man [Fr.].

sac (sak) n. pouch-like structure or receptacle in animal or plant; cyst-like cavity [Fr. = sack].

saccharin, saccharine (sak'a-rin) n. a white crystalline solid substance, with an intensely sweet taste.—sac'charine a. pert. to sugar; over-sweet; cloying;—pl. sentimental.—sac'charify v.t. to convert into sugar.—saccharin'ity n.—sac'charise v.t. to convert into sugar.—sac'charoid, -al a. having granular texture resembling that of loaf-sugar.—sac'charose n. cane-sugar.—sac'charous a. sugary [Gk. sakchari, sugar].

saccul (sak'ūl) n. a small sac; a cyst.—sac'cular a. like a sac [dim. of L. sacculus, a bag].—sacerdotal (sas-r-dō'tal) a. pert. to priests, or to the order of priests.—sacerdo'talism n. the system, spirit, or character of priesthood; priestcraft; undue exaltation of person and sacred character of priests.—sacerdo'talist n.—sacerdo'tally adv. [L. sacerdos, a priest].

sachem (sā'chem) n. a Red Indian chief; a sachemore; a political boss, esp. a Tammany leader [Amer.-Ind.].

sachet (sā'shēt) n. a small scent-bag or perfume cushion [Fr.].

sack (sak) n. a large bag, usually of coarse material; contents of sack; loose garment or cloak; measure or weight, varying according to locality; (Colloq.) dismissal from employment;—v.t. to put into sacks, (Colloq.) to dismiss from employment.—sack'cloth n. coarse fabric of great strength used for making sacks, in Scripture, garment worn in mourning or as penance.—sack'ful n. quantity which fills sack.—sack'ing n. coarse cloth or canvas.—sack'race n. race in which logs of contestants are encased in sacks [Heb. sag, a coarse cloth].

sack (sak) n. old name for various kinds of dry wines, esp. Spanish sherry; a warmed and spiced drink of sherry, etc. [Fr. sac, dry].

sack (sak) v.t. to plunder or pillage; to lay waste;—n. pillage of town; devastation.—sack'age, sack'ing n. [Fr. sac, plunder].

sackbut (sak'būt) n. primitive bass trumpet; in scriptural times, stringed instrument of harp family [Fr. sacrabute].

sacrament (sak'ra-mēt) n. one of the ceremonial observances in Christian Church enjoined by Christ esp. the Eucharist; one of additional observances of Roman and Eastern Churches, confirmation, penance, holy order, matrimony and extreme unction; Lord's Supper; solemn oath; sacred obligation; materials used in a sacrament.—sacramental n. any observance, ceremony, or act of the nature of a sacrament instituted by R.C.

Church;—a. belonging to, or of nature of, sacrament.—sacramen'tally adv.—sacramentalian n. one who believes in efficacy of sacraments to confer grace and salvation.—sacramen'tarianism n.—sacramen'tary a. pert. to sacrament of Lord's Supper or to sacramentarians [L. sacer, sacred].

sacarium (sa-krā'ri-um) n. part of chancel of a Christian church containing altar or communion table [L.].

sacred (sā'kred) a. holy; pert. to worship of God; consecrated to God; divine; religious, as writing, history, etc.; dedicated.—sac'redly adv.—sac'credness n. [L. sacer, holy].

sacrifice (sak'ri-fis, or -fiz) v.t. to consecrate ceremonially offering of victim by way of expiation or propitiation to deity; to surrender for sake of obtaining some other advantage; to offer up; to immolate;—v.i. to make offerings to God of things consumed on the altar,—n. anything consecrated and offered to divinity; anything given up for sake of others.—sac'rifice n.—sacrific'ial a. relating to, performing, sacrifice.—sacrific'ially adv. [L. sacrificium].

sacrilege (sak'ri-loj) n. profanation of sacred place or thing; church robbery.—sacrile'gious a. violating sacred things; profane; desecrating.—sacrile'giously adv.—sacrile'giousness n.—sacrile'gist n. one guilty of sacrilege [L. sacer, sacred; legere, to gather].

sacrist (sā'krist) n. sacristan; church official in charge of books and music scrolls.—sac'ristan n. officer in church entrusted with care of sacristy or vestry and responsible for books, vestments, and sacred vessels; sexton; minor canon.—sac'risty n. vestry [L. sacer, sacred].

sacro-sacred (sak'rō-sangkt) a. secure by religious fear against desecration or violence; inviolable and sacred in the highest degree.—sacro-sanc'tity n. [L. sacrosanctus, consecrated].

sacrum (sāk'rum) n. a composite bone, triangular in shape, at the base of the spinal column.—pl. sā'cra [L. = the sacred (bone)].

sad (sad) a. sorrowful; affected with grief; deplorably bad; sombre-coloured; (Bread) heavy or doughy;—v.t. to sadden;—v.i. to become doughy.—sad'den v.t. to make sad or sorrowful; (Dying) to tone down colours by addition of mordants;—v.i. to become sorrowful and downcast.—sad'dly adv.—sad'ness n. [O. E. sad, sated].

saddle (sād'l) n. rider's seat to 'asten on horse, or form part of a cycle, etc.; part of a shaft; joint of mutton or venison;—a. joining part of backbone with ribs on each side; ridge of hill, col, sliding portion of machine which carries cutting-tool or other slides or reets;—v.t. to put a saddle upon; to loaden with; to encumber.—sadd'le-back n. hill whose outline resembles a saddle; an unwholesome type of oyster; the harp-seal; the great black-backed gull.—sadd'le-backed a. having low back, with elevated head and neck (of horse).—sadd'le-bag n. one of two bags united by strap and hanging on either side of horse.—sadd'le-bow n. bow or arch in front of saddle.—sadd'le-cloth n. housing or cloth placed upon saddle.—sadd'le-girth n. band passing under belly of horse to hold saddle in place.—sadd'le-horse n. horse for riding, as distinguished from one for driving.—sadd'ler n. one who makes saddles and harness for horses.—sadd'lerly n. materials for making saddles and harness; occupation of saddler, room for storing saddles.—sadd'le-shaped a.—sadd'le-tree n. frame of saddle [O. E. sadol].

Sadducee (sād'ū-sē) n. one of sect of Jews, politically opposed to Pharisees, denying resurrection, immortality of soul and existence of angels and spirits.—Sadduce'an a. pert. to Sadducees; sceptical; irreligious [Heb. fr. reputed founder, Zadok, or fr. Zadokites, race of priests].

sadism (sā'dizm, sād'izm) n. insatiate love of inflicting pain for its own sake. —sa'dist n. one who practises this; a consistently inhumane person. —sads'tle a. [Marquis de Sade (1740-1814) whose writings exemplify it].

safari (sa-fa're) n. hunting-expedition [Swahili, safar, a journey].

safe (sâf) a. free from harm; unharmed; unhurt; sound; protected; sure; —n. a fire-proof chest for protection of money and valuables; case with wire-gauze panels to keep meat, etc. fresh. —safe-con'duct n. passport to pass through a dangerous zone. —safe-depos'it n. strong-room where valuables are stored and protected. —safe-guard n. protection; precaution; convoy; escort; passport; —v.t. to make safe; to protect. —safe'ly adv. —safe'ness n. —safe'ty n. —safe'ty-belt n. belt to keep person afloat in water. —safe'ty-catch n. contrivance to prevent accidental discharge of gun. —safety curtain, fire-resisting curtain between stage and auditorium. —safe'ty-lamp n. lamp surrounded with cylinder of wire-gauze to minimise danger of igniting 'fire-damp' in mines. —safe'ty-ra'zor n. one in which blade fits into holder with guard to ensure safety for rapid shaving. —safe'ty-valve n. automatically-acting valve fitted to boiler, to permit escape of steam when pressure reaches danger point; outlet for pent-up emotion [Fr. sauv, fr. L. salvus].

saffron (saf-run) n. plant of iris family, whose orange-yellow stigmas yield yellow saffron used in medicine and as a flavouring and colouring in cookery; —a. deep yellow [Fr. saffran].

sag (sag) v.t. to sink in middle; to hang sideways or curve downwards under pressure; to give way; to tire. —pr.p. sag'ing. —pa.p. sagged. —n. a droop [M.E. saggen].

saga (sâ-ga, sâ-ga) n. collection of ancient Scandinavian myths and legends of Viking heroes; novels describing life of a family [O.N. = a tale].

sagacious (sa-gâ-shus) a. quick of thought; acute; shrewd. —saga'ciously adv. —saga'ciousness, saga'cily n. penetration; shrewdness; discernment; wisdom [L. sagax].

sage (sâj) n. dwarf shrub of mint family, used for flavouring. —sage-green a. grey mixed slightly with green [Fr. sauge, fr. L. salvia].

sage (sâj) a. wise; discerning; solemn; —n. wise man. —sage'ly adv. —sage'ness n. [Fr. fr. L. sapere, to be wise].

Sagitta (saj-it-a) n. a constellation north of Aquila — the Arrow. —sag'ital, sag'itate, —d a. arrow-shaped; in direction of arrow. —sag'itally adv. —Sagittarius n. the Archer, 9th sign of zodiac, which sun enters about 22nd November; constellation in Milky Way [L. = arrow].

sago (sâ-gô) n. dry, granulated starch, prepared from pith of several palms, used as article of diet [Malay, sagu].

sahib (sâ'ib) n. (fem. sa'hiba or mem sa'hib) courtesy title in India for European or high-born Indian [Ar. = lord, master].

said (sed) pa.t. and pa.p. of say; the before-mentioned; already specified; aforesaid.

sail (sâl) n. sheet of canvas to catch wind for propelling ship; sailing-vessel; a journey upon the water; arm of windmill; —v.t. to navigate; to pass in a ship; to fly through; —v.i. to travel by water; to begin a voyage; to glide in stately fashion. —sail'able a. navigable. —sail'cloth n. canvas used in making sails. —sail'ing n. art of navigating. —sail'ing-boat n. a boat propelled by sails. —sail'less a. —sail'maker n. one who makes sails; officer who repairs sails and has charge of sail-room. —sail'or n. mariner; seaman; tar. —sail'or-hat n. straw hat. —sail-yard n. yard or spar on which sails are extended. —full sail, with all sails set. —under sail, to have sails spread. —to sail close to the wind, to sail with sails of ship barely full; to run great risks. —to sail under false colours, to act under false pretences [O.E. segel].

sainfoin (sân'foin) n. less correctly saint'foin n. perennial, tough-rooted forage plant of leguminous family [Fr. sain, wholesome; foin, hay].

saint (sânt) n. outstandingly devout and virtuous person; one of the blessed in heaven; one formally canonised by R.C. Church; angel; —v.t. to canonise. —saint'ed a. pious; hallowed; sacred; dead. —saint'hood n. —saint'like, saint'ly a. devout; godly; pious. —saint'liness n. —saint's day, day on which falls celebration of particular saint. —All-Saints' Day, 1st November. —St. Andrew's Day, 30th Nov. —St. Anthony's fire, erysipelas. —St. Bernard, dog famous for guiding and rescuing travellers lost in snow. —St. David's Day, 1st March. —St. Elmo's fire, electrical appearances sometimes seen about masts of ships, steeples, etc. —St. George's Day, 23rd April. —St. John's wort, bright-yellow blossoming plant, floral symbol of superstition. —St. Leger, horse-race for three-year-olds. —St. Martin's summer, warm, damp weather at end of autumn; in U.S. 'Indian Summer.' —St. Patrick's Day, 17th March. —St. Swithin's Day, 15th July. —St. Valentine's Day, 14th February. —St. Vitus's dance, chorea. —Later-day Saints, the Mormons. —patron saint, saint held to be a protector [Fr. fr. L. sanctus, consecrated].

sake (sâk) n. final cause; behalf; purpose; account; regard. —for the sake of, on behalf of [O.E. sacu, dispute at law].

sake (sâ-kê) n. national beverage of Japan, fermented from rice [Jap.].

saki (sak'i) n. monkey of forests of Amazon [Native].

salt (sal) n. salt (much used in compound words pert. to chemistry and pharmacy). —sal' ammo'nias n. ammonium chloride, used in composition of electric batteries and in medicine as expectorant and stomachic. —sal'vo'la'tile n. mixture of ammonium carbonate with oil of nutmeg, oil of lemon and alcohol, used as a stimulant, antacid, or expectorant [L.].

salam, salam (sa-lâm') n. salutation of ceremony or respect in the East, —v.t. to salute; to greet [Ar. = peace].

salacious (sa-lâ-shus) a. lustful; low; lecherous. —sal'a'ciously adv. —sal'a'ciousness, sal'a'cily n. [L. salax, fr. salire, to leap].

salad (sâl'ad) n. green uncooked vegetables or fruit dressed with salt, vinegar, oil or spices, eggs often added. —sal'ad-cream n. a prepared dressing for salads. —salad days, early years of youthful inexperience. —sal'ad-oil n. olive-oil [Fr. salade, fr. L. sal, salt].

salamander (sal-a-man'd-er) n. small, tailed amphibian, allied to newt (medieval salamander was a fabulous creature believed to live and delight in fire). —salaman'driform, salaman'drine a. pert. to or shaped like a salamander; fire-resisting [Gk. salamandra].

salamo (sa-lâmâ) n. Italian salted sausage. salary (sal'a-rî) n. fixed remuneration, usually monthly, for services rendered; stipend. —sal'aried a. [L. salarium, saltmoney, soldier's pay].

sale (sâl) n. exchange of anything for money; demand (for article); public exposition of goods; auction; a special disposal of stock at reduced prices. —sale'able, sal'able a. capable of being sold. —sale'ableness n. —sale'ably adv. —sale'price n. special, low price. —sale-room n. auction-room; retail department of wholesale house. —sales'man n. shop-assistant. —sales'manship n. art of selling goods. —sales'woman n. —sale of work, a special sale of articles made or contributed by members of organisation to raise funds for specific object [O.E. salal].

saler, salop (sal'ep, -op) n. nutritious powder, used for similar purposes as arrowroot [Ar. salab].

Salian (sâ-li-an) n. one of a tribe of Franks who inhabited banks of Yssel, a tributary of lower Rhine; —a. pert. to this tribe. —Salle Law, law which excluded females from succession to land.

salicin (sal'i-sin) n. a bitter white crystalline glucoside obtained from bark of willow and poplar, used as drug.—salicylate n. any salt of salicylic acid.—salicylic a. derived from willow.—salicylle a. white crystalline solid obtained from willow-bark or synthetically from phenol [L. saliz., a willow].

salient (sal'i-ent) a. moving by leaps; projecting outwards; springing; prominent striking, noteworthy;—n. external angle formed by intersection of adjacent surfaces; projecting angle in line of fortifications, system of trenches.—saliently adv. [L. salire, to leap].

saliferous (sa-lif'er-us) a. bearing or producing salt [L. sal, salt; ferre, to bear].

salify (sal'i-fi) v.t. to form a salt by combining an acid with a base.—pa.t. and pa.p. sal'ified.—salif'able a.—salifica'tion n. [L. sal, salt; facere, to make].

saline (sal'in, sa-lin') a. of or containing salt; salty;—n. salt-spring; a fruit salt used as aperient.—sal'ina n. salt-marsh; salt-works.—salinif'erous a. producing salt.—salin'ity n. salt quality; degree of saltiness [L. salinus].

saliva (sa-li'va) n. digestive fluid or spittle, secreted in mouth by salivary glands.—sal'ival a. pert. to saliva.—sal'ivary a. pert. to, producing, saliva.—salivate v.t. to produce abnormal secretion of saliva.—saliva'tion n. [L.]. sallow (sal'ō) n. small tree or shrub, allied to willow [O.E. sealh].

sallow (sal'ō) a. of sickly-yellow colour; of pale complexion, unhealthily looking.—sal'owish a. somewhat sallow.—sal'owness n. [O.E. salō].

sally (sal'i) n. sudden eruption; issuing of troops from place besieged to attack besiegers; sortie; with'draw;—v.t. to issue suddenly.—pa.t. and pa.p. sal'ied [L. salire, to leap].

Sally-lunn (sal'i-lun) n. sweet, spongy tea-cake [Bath street-vendor in 18th cent.].

salmi, salmis (sal'mi) n. ragout or stew of game-birds [Fr.].

salmon (sam'un) n. silver-scaled fish with orange-pink flesh. — sal'm-on-col'our n. orange-pink.—sal'm-on-fly n. artificial fly for catching salmon with rod and line.—sal'm-on-fry n. salmon under two years old.—Salmon'idæ n. pl. family of sea- and fresh-water fishes including salmon, trout grayling and smelt.—sal'm-on-trout n. sea- or white-trout, fish resembling salmon in colour but smaller [L. salmo].

salon (sa-lōng') n. spacious apartment for reception of company [Fr.].

saloon (sa-lōon') n. lofty, spacious hall; state-room; public reception-room; public dining-room; principal cabin in steamer; railway-car not divided into usual compartments; limousine with all seats enclosed.—saloon-bar n. a well appointed section of a public-house [Fr. salon].

salop See salap.

salisfy, salsafy (sal'si-fi, sal'sa fi) n. hardy, biennial, composite herb of chicory family, used in cookery. [Fr. fr. It. sassifraga, goat's beard].

salt (sawlt) n. sodium chloride or common salt, substance used for seasoning food and for preservation of meat, etc.; compound resulting from reaction between acid and a base; electrolyte which is neither acid nor base; savour; piquancy; wit; an old sailor;—pl. (Chem.) combinations of acids with alkaline or salifiable bases; (Med.) saline cathartics, as Epsom, Rochelle, etc.;—a. containing or tasting of salt; pungent; lecherous; (Colloq.) costly; expensive;—r.t. to season or sprinkle with salt; to acclimatise.—sal'ter n. drysalter; sea-trout which returns to fresh water.—sal'tern n. salt-works.—sal'ting n. salt marsh.—sal'tless a. without salt; tasteless; wersh.—sal'tlick n.

salt for animals to lick.—sal't-marsh n. land under pasture liable to be overflowed by sea.—sal'tness n. salt taste; state of being salt.—sal't-pan n. a steel pan, about 36 ft. by 24 ft. by 20 in. deep used for the evaporation of brine.—sal't-spring n. a brine-spring of therapeutic value.—sal't-wat'er n. water impregnated with salt; sea-water.—sal't'y a. saltish.—salt of the earth, persons of the highest reputation or worth.—Attic salt, delicate, subtle wit.—to take with a grain of salt, to be sceptical of [O.E. sealt].

saltant (sal'tant) a. leaping; jumping; dancing.—sal'tate v.t. to leap; to jump; to skip.—sal'tation n. [L. salire, to leap].

salitre, saltier (sal'tir) n. cross in the shape of an X, or St. Andrew's cross [O.Fr. saultoir]. saltpetre (sawlt'pê-t'r) n. common name for nitre or potassium nitrate, used in manufacture of glass, nitric acid, etc. [L. sal petrae, salt of the rock].

salubrious (sa-lō'bri-us) a. wholesome; healthy.—salu'briously adv.—salu'brious a.—salu'brity n. [L. salus, health].

saluki (sa-lō'ki) n. gazelle-hound, native to Persia and Arabia [Ar.].

salutary (sal'u-ta-ri) a. wholesome; resulting in good; healthful; promotive of public safety; beneficial.—sal'utarily adv.—sal'utariness n. [L. salus, health].

salute (sa-lūt') v.t. to address with expressions of kind wishes; to recognise one of superior rank by a sign; to honour by a discharge of cannon or small arms, by striking colours, etc.; to greet; to kiss;—n. greeting showing respect.—saluta'tion n. saluting; words uttered in welcome; opening words of a letter.—salu'tatory a. welcoming [L. salutare, to wish health to].

salvage (sal'vā) See salve.

Salvarsan (sal'var-san) n. preparation of arsenic used by injection for cure of anthrax and syphilis.—Ne'o-sal'varsan n. a derivative of salvarsan, now more commonly employed [Protected Trade Name, fr. L. salvare, to save; E. arsenic].

salvation (sal-vā'shun) n. preservation from destruction; redemption; deliverance; safety.—Salvation Army, international religious organisation for revival of religion among the masses.—salva'tionist n. active member of Salvation Army [L. salvare, to save].

salve (salv) v.t. to save ship or retrieve property from danger or destruction.—salvability n.—sal'vable a. capable of being used or reconstructed in spite of damage.—sal'vage n. compensation allowed to persons who assist in saving ship or cargo, or property in general from destruction; property, so saved.—salv'or, salv'er n. [L. salvare, to save].

salve (salv, sāv) n. healing ointment applied to wounds or sores;—r.t. to anoint with such; to heal; to soothe (the conscience) [O.E. sealf].

salver (sal'ver) n. tray, generally of silver, for presenting refreshments, letters, visiting-cards, etc. [Sp. salra, a tasting of food by a servant as a precaution against poisoning, fr. L. salvare, to save].

Salvia (sal'vi-a) n. large genus of aromatic herbs and shrubs including common sage [L. = sage].

salvo (sal'vō) n. guns fired simultaneously, or in succession as salute, sustained applause or welcome from large crowd.—pl. sal'vo(e)s [It. salra, a volley].

sal-volatile (sal-vol-ā'tile) n. See sal.

salvor (sal'vor) n. See salve.

samara (sa-mā'ra, sa-mar'a) n. the dry, single-seeded, indehiscent, winged fruit of the elm, birch, sycamore, ash and maple [L. = elm-seed].

Samaritan (so-mar'i-tan) a. pert to Samaria in Palestine;—n. native or inhabitant of Samaria; kind-hearted, charitable person (fr. parable of good Samaritan, Luke 10).

samarium (sa-mā'ri-um) n. hard and brittle metallic chemical element belonging to rare-earth group.—samarite n. radio-active ore containing tantalum and traces of samarium [Samaraki, a Russian mineralogist].

samba (sam'ba) n. a dance of S. American origin; the music for such a dance [Sp.].

sambo (sam'bō) n. offspring of black person and mulatto; humorously, Negro [Sp. zambo, fr. L. scambus, bow-legged].

Sam Browne (sam broun) n. leather belt formerly part of British officer's service uniform [name of inventor].

same (sām) a. identical; not different; of like kind; unchanged; uniform; aforesaid.—same'ly adv.—same'ness n. near resemblance; uniformity [O.N. samr].

samite (sam'it) n. rich silk material; any lustrous silk stuff [Fr. samit, fr. Gk. hexamilos, woven with six threads].

samovar (sam'o-vār) n. Russian tea-urn [Russ.].

Samoyed (sam'ō-yed) n. Mongolian race inhabiting N. shores of Russia and Siberia.

Sam'oyede n. breed of dog, orig. a sledge-dog.

samp'an (sam'pan) n. a Chinese light river-vessel. Also sam'pan [Malay fr. Chin. san, three; pan, a board].

samphire (sam'fir) n. herb found on rocks and cliffs. St. Peter's wort; sea-fennel (corrupt. fr. Fr. Saint Pierre).

sample (sam'pl) n. specimen; example;—v.t. to take or give a sample of; to try; to test; to taste.—samp'ler n. one who makes up samples; pattern work; beginner's exercise in embroidery [M.E. essample; fr. L. exemplum, example].

Samurai (sa'mōō-rī) n. (s. and pl.) member of hereditary military caste in Japan from 12th to mid 19th cent. Now applied to any Japanese army officer.

sanable (san'a-bl) a. curable.—sanabil'ity, san'ableness n.—san'ative a. having power to cure or heal.—san'ativeness n.—sanato'rium n. (pl. sanato'ria) institution for open-air treatment of tuberculosis; institution for convalescent patients. Also sanato'rium; in N. America, sanito'rium, sanito'rium. See sanitary.—san'atory a. healing [L. sanare, to heal].

sanctify (sang'k'ti-fi) v.t. to set apart as sacred or holy; to hallow; to consecrate; to purify.—pa.t. and pa.p. sanctified.—sanctanim'ity n. religious devotion; holiness of mind.—sanctifies'tion n. sanctifying or making holy.—sanctified a. hallowed; sanctimonious.—sanctifiedly adv.—sanctimon'ious a. hypocritically pious.—sanctimon'iously adv.—sanctimon'iously, sanctim'ony n. holiness; devoutness; (Ironically) affected piety.—sanctitude n. saintliness; holiness.—sanctity n. quality of being sacred; state of being pure and devout; state of being solemnly binding on one; inviolability [L. sanctus, holy].

sanction (sang'k'shun) n. solemn ratification; express permission; authorisation; approval; legal use of force to secure obedience to law; anything which serves to move a person to observe or refrain from given mode of conduct;—v.t. and v.i. to confirm; to authorize; to countenance.—sanctious n.pl. measures to enforce fulfilment of international treaty obligations.—sanctuary a. ratifying [L. sanctus, holy].

sanctuary (sang'k'tū-a-ri) n. holy place; shrine; eastern part of choir of church; place of protection for fugitives.—sanctum n. sacred place; private room or study.—sanctum sanctorum, holy of holies in Jewish temple; exclusive private place [L. sanctus, holy].

sand (sand) n. fine, loose grains of quartz or other mineral matter formed by disintegration of rocks;—n.pl. sandy beach; desert region;—v.t. to sprinkle or cover with sand.—sand-bag n. bag filled with sand or earth, for repairing breaches in fortification, etc.—sand-bank n. shoal of sand thrown up by sea.—sand-bar n. barrier of sand facing entrance of river-estuary.—sand-blast n. jet of sand driven by a blast of air or steam, for roughening glass or enamel.—sand'dune n. ridge of loose sand.—sand'ed a. sprinkled with sand.—

sand'glass n. hour-glass, instrument for measuring time by running of sand.—sand'grass n. grass whose roots bind loose sand.—sand'iness n. state of being sandy; a sandy colour.—sand'ing n. cleaning up wood by rubbing with sand-paper.—sand'jet n. See sand-blast.—sand'martin n. small swallow.—sand'paper n. stout paper or cloth coated with glue and then sprinkled over with sand, used as an abrading agent for smoothing wood, etc.—v.t. to smooth with sand-paper.—sand'piper n. small wading bird of plover family.—sand'pit n. place from which sand is dug out.—sand'run'ner n. a sandpiper.—sand'shoe n. shoe with canvas uppers and rubber soles.—sand'star n. sea-animal resembling the starfish.—sand'stone n. rock employed for building and making grindstones.—sand'storm n. a storm of wind carrying dust.—sand'y a. like or covered with sand; not firm or stable; yellowish-brown [O.E.]. sandal (san'dal) n. a shoe consisting of flat sole, bound to foot by straps or thongs.—sandal'da a. [Gk. sandalon].

sandal-wood (san'dal-wōd) n. fragrant heartwood of santalum, used in East for trinket-boxes, incense and perfumery [Ar. sandal].

sanderling (san'dqr-ling) n. a wading-bird of the plover family; the ruddy plover.

sandwich (sand'wich) n. two thin pieces of bread and butter, with thin slice of meat, etc., between them (said to have been a favourite dish of Earl of Sandwich);—v.t. to make into sandwich; to form of alternating layers of different nature; to insert or squeeze in between, making a tight fit.—sand'wich-man n. man carrying two advertising boards, one slung before and one behind him.

sane (sān) a. of sound mind; not deranged; sensible; rational; reasonable; lucid.—sane'ly adv.—sane'ness n. [L. sanus, healthy].

sang (sang) pa.t. of sing.

sang-troid (song-trōw') n. composure of mind; imperturbability; freedom from agitation [Fr. sang, blood; troid, cold].

sanguine (sang'gwin) a. deep red; florid; warm; hopeful; lively; bloodthirsty.—sanguinarily adv.—sanguinarness n.—sanguinary a. bloody; bloodthirsty; murderous.—sanguinely adv.—sanguineness n. fulness of blood; plethora; ruddiness; ardour; confidence.—sanguin'eous a. bloody; blood-red; blood-stained; containing blood.—sanguin'ity n. sanguineness; relationship by blood.—sanguiv'orous a. blood-feeding, as fleas, vampires, etc. [L. sanguis, blood].

Sanhedrin, Sanhedrin (san'hē-drim, -drin) n. supreme court of justice and legislative council of Ancient Jerusalem; any similar Jewish assembly [Heb. fr. Gk. sun, together; hedra, seat].

sanify (san'i-fi) v.t. to make healthy; to improve the sanitary conditions of [L. sanus, sound; facere, to make].

sanitary (san'i-tā-ri) a. pert. to health; hygienic; relating to drains.—sanitar'ian n. one interested in the promotion of hygienic reforms.—san'itarly adv.—sanita'tion n. the measures taken to promote health and to prevent disease; hygiene.—sanito'rium, sanita'rium n. private hospital for treatment of special or chronic diseases; health retreat; sanatorium.—sanitary towel, pad or absorbent material for use during menstruation [L. sanitas, health].

sanity (san'i-ti) n. state of being sane; soundness of mind [L. sanus, sane].

sank (sang) pa.t. of the verb sink.

sans (sans) prep. without; lacking [Fr.].

Sanskrit See Sanskrit.

sansculotte (song-kū-lot') n. ragged fellow a name given in the first French Revolution to extreme republican party, who rejected knee-breeches as badge peculiar to upper classes—hence, extreme republican, Jacobin [Fr. = without knee-breeches].

sanserif (san-ser'if) n. (typography) type face without serifs at termination of lines, e.g. SANSERIF [Fr. sans, without].

Sanskrit, Sanscrit (san'skrit) n. classical literary language of ancient India, member of Aryan family of languages [Sams. sanskṛita, perfected, finished].

Santa Claus (san'ta klawz) n. traditional 'Father Christmas' of children [corrupt. of St. Nicholas, patron saint of children].

sap (sap) n. watery juice of plants, containing mineral salts, proteins and carbohydrates; simple, confiding person.—sap'head n. sap, dolt.—sap'less a.—sap'ling n. young tree; youth; young greyhound not yet entered for racing.—sap'piness n. succulence; juiciness, doltishness.—sap'py a. juicy; silly.—sap'rot n. dry rot in timber.—sap'wood n. alburnum, exterior part of wood of tree next to bark [O.E. sæp].

sap (sap) n. tunnel driven under enemy positions for purpose of attack.—r.f. and v.t. to undermine; to impair maliciously; to exhaust gradually.—pr.p. sap'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. sapped.—sap'per n. a member of the Royal Engineers [It. zappa, a spade].

sapid (sə'pid) a. savoury, palatable; tasty.—sap'id'ity n.—sap'id'ness a. tastefulness.—sap'id'ness n. [L. sapere, to taste].

sapient (sə'pi-ent) a. discerning; wise; sage, shrewd; (ironically) knowing, would-be wise.—sap'ience n.—sap'iently adv. [L. sapiens, wise].

saponaceous (sap o-nā'shus) a. resembling soap; slippery, as if soaped.—sapon'ify v.t. to convert into soap.—sap'onin n. glucoside obtained from common soapwort used as expectorant, emetic, and for foam-baths and fire-appliances, due to its frothy qualities [L. sapo, soap].

sapor (sə'por) n. taste; savour; flavour.—sapor'ific a. producing taste or flavour.—saporos'ity n. [L. = taste].

sapper. See sap.

Sapphic (sə'fik) a. pert. to Sappho, lyric poetess of Greece of 7th cent. B.C.; denoting verse in which three lines of five feet each are followed by line of two feet;—n. Sapphic verse.—sapp'hism n. unnatural sexual intercourse between women.

sapphire (sə'fir) n. pure crystallised alumina; translucent precious stone of various shades of blue; (Her.) tincture blue;—a. deep, pure blue [Gk. sappheiros].

saraband, sarabande (sar'a-g-band) n. slow, stately dance, introduced by Moors into Spain in 16th cent.; in England, country dance [Pers. sarband, a fillet].

Saracen (sar'a-egn) n. Arab or Mohammedan who invaded Europe and Africa, an infidel.—Saracen'ic, Saracen'ical a.—Sar'acensm n. [L. Saracenus].

saracoga, saratoga trunk (sar'a-tō-ga-trunk) n. a large travelling-trunk for ladies' dresses [Saratoga Springs, U.S.A.].

sarcasm (sar-kazm) n. taunt; scoffing ribe; veiled sneer; irony; use of such expressions.—sar'cas'ic,—al a. bitterly satirical and cutting; taunting.—sar'cas'ically adv. [Gk. sarkasmos].

sarcology (sar-kol'o-jī) n. branch of anatomy which treats of soft parts of body, as distinguished from osteology.—sarcolog'ic,—al a.—sarcol'ogist n. [Gk. sarz, flesh; logos, a discourse].

sarcophagus (sar-kof'a-gus) n. kind of lime-stone used by Greeks for coffins and believed to consume flesh of bodies deposited in it; stone coffin; monumental chest or vase of stone, erected over graves.—pl. sarcoph'agi [Gk. sarz, flesh; phagēin, to eat].

sard (sərd) n. rare variety of cornelian [Sardis, ancient capital of Lydia].

sardine (sar-dēn') n. small fish of herring family, esp. pilchard, in young stage salted and preserved in olive-oil [It. sardina, fr. the island of Sardinia]. sardonio (sar-don'ik) a. (of laugh, smile) bitter, scornful, derisive, mocking.—sardon'ically adv. [L. sardoniacus].

sardonyx (sar-don'iks) n. semi-precious stone [Gk. = Sardinian onyx].

Sargassum (sar-gas'sum) n. genus of seaweeds.—sargas'o n. gulf-weed.—Sargasso Sea, part of Atlantic which, being free from ocean currents, is covered with sea-weed [Sp. sargazo].

sari (sar'e) n. light cotton cloth with fancy-coloured border used as loin robe by Hindu women; long scarf of embroidered gauze or silk. Also sar'ee [Hind.].

sark (sərk) n. shirt, chemise; body garment.—sar'king n. linen for shirt-making; thin boards to afford a hold for slates or tiles on roofs [O.E. syrc].

sarong (sa rōng') n. garment draped round waist by Malaysians [Malay].

sarrasin, sarasin (sar'a-sin) n. a portcullis [Fr.].

sarsaparilla (sar-sa-pa-ril'a) n. several plants of genus Smilax, with roots yielding medicinal sarsaparilla, a mild diuretic. Also sar'sa [Sp. carzaparilla].

sarsenet. See sarsenet.

sartorial (sar-tō'r-i-al) a. pert. to tailor, tailoring [L. sartor, a tailor].

sash (sash) n. silken band; belt or band, usually decorative, worn round body [Arab. shash]. [panes of glass [Fr. chassis].

sash (sash) n. frame of window which carries saskatoon (sas-ka-tōon') n. in N. America, service tree; small edible berry, fruit of the service tree [N. Amer. Ind.].

Sassenach (sas's-nall) n. name given in Scotland to Englishman [Gael. Sasunnach, a Saxon].

sat (sat) pa.t. and pa.p. of sit.

Satan (sā-tan) n. the devil.—sat'an'ic,—al a. devilish; infernal; diabolical.—sat'an'ically adv. [Heb. = enemy].

satchel (sach'el) n. small bag for books [L. sacculus, small sack].

sate (sat or sāt) v.t. Same as sat, pa.t. of sit.

sate (sāt) v.t. to satisfy appetite of; to glut [earlier sate, to make sad].

satén (sa-tēn') n. glossy cloth for linings, etc., made of cotton or woolen fabric in imitation of satin. Also satteen' [fr. satīa].

satellite (sə-tē-lit) n. one constantly in attendance upon important personage; an obsequious follower; (Astron.) a secondary body which revolves round planets of solar system; a moon.—satellus (earth) n. an object launched into space by man to orbit the earth for scientific purposes.—satellite town, small town specially developed to absorb part of population and industries of over-crowded neighbouring city.—satellit'ic a. [L. satelles].

sati. See suites.

satiare (sā-shi-āt) v.t. to satisfy appetite of; to surfeit; to sate;—a. filled to satiety, glinted; surfeited.—satiability n.—sa'tiable a. capable of being satisfied.—satiat'ion n. state of being satiated.—satiety (sə-tīe-ti) n. state of being satiated; feeling of having had too much [L. satiare, fr. satis, enough].

satín (sat'in) n. soft, rich, silk fabric with smooth, lustrous surface;—a. made of satin;—v.t. to give a satin finish to.—sat'inet n. thin kind of satin; glossy cloth of cotton warp and woollen weft, to imitate satin.—sat'in-jean n. a smooth-surfaced twilled cotton fabric.—sat'in-stitch n. stitch in embroidery and wool-work in close parallel lines to produce sheeny effect.—sat'in-wood n. beautiful hard yellow wood, valued in cabinet work for veneers.—sat'iny a. [Fr. fr. lit. sate, silk].

satire (sat'ir) n. literary composition holding up to ridicule vice or folly of the times; use of irony, sarcasm, invective, or wit. —satisfac'tion n. —satisfac'tionally adv. —satisfac'tion n. —satisfac'tion v.t. to make object of satire. —satisfac'tion n. [L. satura, a literary medley].

satisfy (sat'is-fi) v.t. to gratify fully; to pay, fulfil, supply, recompense, adequately; to convince; to content; to answer; to free from doubt; —v.i. to give content; to supply to the full; to make payment. —pa.t. and pa.p. satisfied. —satisfac'tion n. complete enjoyment; contentment; assurance; amends; recompense; payment. —satisfac'torily adv. —satisfac'toriness n. —satisfac'tory a. giving satisfaction; yielding content; agreeable. —satisfying a. affording satisfaction, esp. of food. —satisfyingly adv. [L. satis/acere].

satrap (sat'rap, sá'trap) n. governor of province under ancient Persian monarchy; petty, despotic governor. —sat'rapal a. —sat'rapy n. government, jurisdiction, or district of satrap [Gk. satrapes].

Satsuma Japan.

satteen. See satteen.

saturate (sat'ú-rát) v.t. to soak thoroughly; to steep; to drench; to bring concentrated fire to bear on target; —a. saturated; very intense (of colour). —satura'tion n. act of saturating; complete penetration; condition of being saturated; solution of a body in a solvent, until solvent can absorb no more; in magnetism, state when increase of magnetising force produces no further increase of flux-density in magnet. —satura'tor n. contrivance for saturating air of factory, etc. with water-vapour [L. saturare].

Saturday (sat'ur-dá) n. seventh day of week [O.E. Sæterdag, day of Saturn].

Saturn (sat'urn) n. old deity, father of Jupiter; sixth of major planets in order of distance from sun. —Saturna'tia n. pl. festival in ancient Rome in honour of Saturn; time of carnival and unrestrained license; orgy. —saturna'tian a. —Saturnian a. pert. to epoch of Saturn; primitive; golden; distinguished for simplicity and peacefulness. —saturnine a. gloomy, sluggish in temperament [L. Saturnus, god of agriculture].

satyr (sat'ér) n. woodland deity in Greek mythology, represented with hair-clad man's body, with legs and hoofs of a goat, fond of sensual enjoyment; lecherous person. —satyri'sis n. excessive and morbid desire for sexual intercourse exhibited by men. Also satyromania. —satyromaniac n. a man with unrestrained sexual desires. —satyric a. pert. to satyrs [Gk. satyros].

sauce (saw) n. liquid seasoning for food to render it more palatable or to whet appetite; condiment; relish; (Collog.) impudence; cheek; —v.t. to season with sauce; to give flavour or interest to; to be rude in speech or manner. —sauce'bowl, sauce'tureen n. dish with lip for serving sauce. —sauce'pan n. metal pot with lid and long handle used for cooking. —sau'cy a. bold; pert; cheeky. —sau'cily adv. —sau'ciness n. [Fr. fr. L. sals, salt].

saucer (saw'tér) n. orig. vessel for sauce; small curved plate put under cup, etc. to catch spilt liquid [Fr. saucière].

sauerkraut (sour'kraut) n. German dish of shredded young white cabbage laid in layers, with salt and spice-seeds, pressed in casks and allowed to ferment [Ger.].

sault (sô) n. rapid in a river, esp. in Canada [Fr. fr. L. salire, to leap].

saunter (saw'n'tér, sán'tér) v.t. to stroll; to loiter; linger. —n. leisurely walk or stroll. —saun'ter n. —saun'tering n. —saun'terily adv. [etym. unknown].

saurian (saw'ri-an) n. lizard-like reptile, esp. ancient types as dinosaur, Iguanodon, etc.; —a. resembling a lizard. Also saur'id a. [Gk. saurus, a lizard].

sausage (saw'sáj) n. meat minced and seasoned and enclosed in thin membranous casings obtained from small entrails of pig or sheep; (Collog.) wind sock which gives wind direction on aerodrome. —sau'sage-roll n. meat minced and seasoned, enveloped in roll of flour paste and cooked [Fr. saucisse].

sauté (sô'tâ) a. fried lightly and quickly in a saucpan kept moving [Fr.].

sauterelle (sô'te-rel') n. mason's implement for tracing and forming angles [Fr.].

Sauterne (sô'tern') n. a well-known white wine, from Sauternes, S. W. France.

savage (sav'áj) a. pert. to forest; remote from human habitation; wild; uncivilised; primitive; cruel; —n. man in native state of primitiveness; a barbarian; —v.t. to tear at and worry; —v.i. to play the savage. —sav'agely adv. —sav'ageness, sav'agery n. ferocity; barbarism [L. silvaticus, fr. silva, a wood].

savanna, savannah (sa-van'á) n. in tropical America extensive open plain destitute of trees and covered with grass or low vegetation [Sp. sabana].

savant (sav'ong, sa'vant) n. a man of learning [Fr. fr. savoir, to know].

save (sav) v.t. to rescue, preserve from danger, evil, etc.; to redeem; to protect; to secure, to maintain (face, etc.); to keep for future; to lay by; to hoard; to obviate need of; to spare; to except; —v.t. to lay by money; to economise; —prep. except; —conj. but. —sav'able, sav'able a. capable of being saved; retrievable. —sav'er n. one who, or that which, saves. —sav'ing a. frugal; thrifty; delivering from sin; implying reservation, as saving clause; —prep. excepting; with apology to; —n. economy; —pl. earnings or gains put by for future. —sav'ingly adv. —sav'ings-bank n. bank for receipt and accumulation of small savings [Fr. épargne, fr. L. salvare, to save].

saveloy (sav'ô-lô) n. highly-seasoned dried sausage made of salted pork (leather cervelat, lt. cervellata, fr. cervello, brain).

saviour (säv'yur) n. one who saves or delivers from destruction or danger; a deliverer or redeemer; the Redeemer, Jesus Christ [L. salvare, to save].

savoir-faire (sav-wär-fer') n. the knack of knowing the right thing to do at the right time; tact [Fr.].

savory (säv'ô-ri) n. genus of aromatic plants, often grown as pot-herbs, the leaves being used in cooking as flavouring [Fr. savouri].

savour, savor (säv'yur) n. taste; flavour; relish; odour; smack; in Scripture, character; reputation; —v.t. to like; to taste or smell with pleasure; to relish; —v.i. to have a particular smell or taste; to resemble; to indicate. —sav'ourily adv. —sav'ouriness n. —sav'ourless a. —sav'oury a. having savour; tasty —n. tasty dish at beginning or end of dinner [L. sapor, taste].

Savoy (sa-vol') n. a former duchy in S.E. France. —savoy n. a hardy winter variety of cabbage with curly leaves, orig. from Savoy. —Savoyard n. a native of Savoy.

savvy, savvey (sav'í) v.t. (Slang) to understand; —n. intelligence [Sp. saber; Fr. savoir, to know].

saw (saw) pa.t. of the verb see.

saw (saw) n. old saying; maxim; proverb; aphorism; adage (O.E. sagu).

saw (saw) n. hand or mechanical tool with thin blade, band, or circular disc with serrated edge, used for cutting; —v.t. and v.i. to cut with a saw; —pa.t. sawed. —pa.p. sawed or sawn. —saw'bones n. (Slang) surgeon. —saw'dust n. small particles of wood, etc. made by action of a saw. —saw'er n. one who saws; sawyer. —saw'fish n. genus of tropical ray-like fish whose snout is extended into long flat serrated beak. —saw'mill n. place where logs are sawn by mechanical power. —saw'pit n. pit over which timber is sawn by two men, one standing below, the other above the timber while using two-handed saw. —saw'toothed a. having serrations like a saw. —saw'yer n. one who saws timber; beetle of longhorn family with saw-like mandibles.—circular saw, a power-driven steel disc with teeth on its periphery, for sawing logs.—cross-cut saw, large two-handled saw for cutting across grain of wood.—fret-saw n. very narrow saw with fine teeth for cutting plywood.—hack-saw n. one for cutting metal.—jig-saw, jigg'er-saw n. machine fret-saw [O.K. sage].

Saxe (saks) a. pert. to or made in Saxony; of light blue shade;—n. light-blue shade, Saxony blue [Fr. Saxe, Saxony].

saxhorn (saks-horn) n. brass wind-instrument [Adolphe Sax, inventor, c. 1812].

saxifrage (saks-i-frāj) n. popular name of various plants, most of them true rock plants, with tufted foliage and panicles of white, yellow, or red flowers [L. saxum, a stone; frangere, to break].

Saxon (saks-sun) n. one of the people who formerly dwell in N. Germany and who invaded England in the 5th and 6th cents.; a person of English race; native of Saxony; language of Saxons;—a. pert. to Saxons, their country, their language; Anglo-Saxon [O.E. Sætra, Sætran, fr. sax, a knife].

Saxony (saks-sun-i) n. very fine quality of wool; flannel [Saxony, where first produced].

saxophone (saks-sō-fōn) n. brass wind-instrument, with a reed and clarnet mouth-piece, fingered like an oboe [A. J. Sax, the inventor; Gk. phōnē, a sound].

say (sā) v.t. to utter with speaking voice; to state; to express; to allege, to repeat (lesson, etc.); to rectify; to tell as near enough.—pa.t. and pa.p. said (sed).—n. something said; what one has to say; share in a decision.—say'er n. a speaker.—say'ing n. a verbal utterance; spoken or written expression of thought; proverbial expression; adage, maxim [O.E. scepan].

say (sā) n. trial, assay; proof by trial.—v.t. to say (sā) n. thin silk, kind of serge used for linings, aprons, etc.—sayette n. light stuff, made of pure wool, adapted for linings, etc. [Fr.].

scab (skab) n. crust forming over open wound or sore; contagious skin disease, resembling mange, which attacks horses, cattle and sheep; potato-disease, disease of apple and pear; blackleg; despicable person;—v.t. to heal over; to form a scab.—pa.t. and pa.p. scabbed.—pr.p. scabbing.—scab'bed a. covered with scabs; paltry, vile, impure.—scab'bedness, scab'biness n.—scab'bily adv. vilely.—scab'by a. scabbed.—scab'mite n. the itch-mite [O.N. skabbi].

scabbard (skab-bard) n. sheath for sword or dagger;—v.t. [O.Fr. escabheret].

scabies (skā-bi-ēz) n. skin disease caused by parasite burrowing under skin; the itch; the scab [L.].

Scabiosa (skā-bi-ō-sa) n. Also scab'ious, a genus of annual and perennial plants of teasel family [L. scabius, because reputed to cure the itch].

scabious (skā-bi-us) a. consisting of scabs; scabby; itchy [L. scabius, the itch].

scabrid (skab-rid) a. (Bot.) having a rough, file-like surface.—scab'rous a. rough; (Bot.) having wart-like excrescences; harsh [L. scabridus, rough].

scad (skad) n. the British species of the horse-mackerel [form of shad].

scaffold (skaf-uld) n. temporary erection, of timber or metal, used in erecting, altering, or repairing buildings; framework; stage; platform, esp. for execution of criminal.—v.t. to furnish with a scaffold; to prop up; to sustain.—scalf'olding n. scaffold [O.Fr. eschafaut].

scallawag, scallawag. See scallywag.

scald (skawld) v.t. to burn with moist heat or hot liquid; to cleanse by rinsing with boiling water; to heat milk to point approaching boiling-point;—n. injury by scalding [L. ex, out of, calidus, hot].

scald, skald (skawld, skald) n. ancient Scandinavian poet who sang or recited verses extolling deeds of heroes.—scald'sie, skald'sie a. [O.N. skald].

scale (skāl) n. dish of a balance; balance itself; machine for weighing, chiefly in pl.; Libra, one of signs of zodiac;—v.t. to weigh, as in scales; to measure; to estimate [O.N. skal, bowl].

scale (skāl) n. horny or bony plate-like outgrowth from skin of certain mammals, reptiles, and fishes; any thin layer or flake on surface;—v.t. to deprive of scales,—r.t. to come off or peel in thin layers.—scaled a. having scales.—scale'less a.—scal'iness n. being scaly.—scal'ing n. removing of scales.—scal'y a. covered with scales; resembling scales [O.Fr. escale, husk].

scale (skāl) n. ladder; series of steps or gradations; comparative rank in society; ratio between dimensions as shown on map, etc. to actual distance, or length; scope; basis for a numerical system, as binary scale; (Mus.) succession of notes arranged in order of pitch between given note and its octave; gamut;—v.t. to climb by a ladder; to clamber up; to mount [L. scala, a ladder].

scalene (ska-lēn) a. uneven; (Geom.) having all three sides unequal;—n. a scalene triangle [Gk. skalēnos, uneven].

scall (scawld) n. scabbiness; scurf; leprosy;—a. mean; paltry; low.—scalled, scald a. scabby [O.N. skalli, bald head].

scallion (skal-yun) n. a variety of shallot [L. (repa) Ascalonia, onion of Ascalon].

scallop, scollop (skal-op, skol-op) n. bivalve mollusc with ribbed, fan-shaped shell and beautiful colouring; fringed, ornamental curved edge; dish resembling scallop shell to serve oysters, etc.;—v.t. to cut edge of material into scallops [O.Fr. escalope, a shell].

scallywag (skal-i-wag) n. scamp; a worthless fellow; scapegrace. Also scall'awag, scall'awag [etym. doubtful].

scalp (skalp) n. covering dome of cranium consisting of skin and hair; skin and hair torn off by Indian warriors as token of victory; bare mountain top;—v.t. to deprive of integument of head; to criticise savagely [contr. of scallop].

scalp (skalp) n. area off coasts of Britain consisting of a flat surface formed by sandbanks overlying clay where oysters and mussels breed; a scarp [etym. doubtful].

scalpel (skalp-el) n. small, straight surgical knife with convex edge [L. scalpere, to cut].

scamble (skam-bl) v.t. to sprawl; to scramble;—v.t. to squander.—scam'bling a. noisy; turbulent;—n. a hasty meal [etym. doubtful].

scamp (skamp) n. scoundrel; rascal; rogue;—v.t. to execute work carelessly; to skimp [O.Fr. escamper, to decamp].

scamper (skam-per) v.t. to run about; to run away in haste and trepidation;—n. a hasty, impulsive flight [fr. scamp].

scan (skan) v.t. to examine closely; to scrutinise; to measure or read (verse) by its metrical feet; (Radar) to traverse an area with electronic beams.—v.t. to be metrically correct.—pr.p. scan'ning.—pa.t. and pa.p. scanned.—scan'ning n. (Television) process of dissecting a picture to be transmitted.—scan'sion n. act or mode of scanning poetry [L. scandere, to climb].

scandal (skan-dal) n. malicious gossip; outrage; disgrace; injury to a person's character;—v.t. to defame; to traduce.—scan-dal'bear'er, scan-dal-mt'g'er n. one who delights in retailing malicious scandal and gossip.—scan-dal'ise v.t. to shock popular morals or sentiments; to defame; to disgrace; to vilify.—scan'dalous a. giving offence; bringing shame; libellous; disgraceful.—scan'dalously adv.—scan'dalously n. [Gk. skandalon, a cause of stumbling].

scandalise (skan-dā-liz) v.t. to reduce the area of sail on a ship [fr. scandle].

Scandinavia (skan-di-nā-vi-ə) n. peninsula of Norway and Sweden, but historically and linguistically includes Denmark and Iceland. —Scandinavian a. pert. to Scandinavia [L. Scandinavia or Scandia].

scandium (skan'di-um) n. a metallic chemical element belonging to group of the rare earths. Symbol Sc. [L. Scandia, Scandinavia].

scansion. See scan.

scant (skant) a. barely sufficient; inadequate; —v.i. to put on short allowance; to supply grudgingly; —adv. scarcely; not quite; —n. scarcity. —scant'ly adv. —scant'ness n. —scant'ly adv. sparingly; scarcely; barely. —scant'ness n. scantiness; insufficiency. —scant'y a. [O. N. skamt, short].

scantle (skan'tl) v.t. to divide into small pieces; to partition. —scant'let n. fragment. —scant'ling n. little piece; —pl. the dimensions of all the principal items in a structure in engineering practice [Fr. échantillon, a sample].

scape (skäp) n. an escape; an escapade; a freak; —v.i. and v.t. to escape from; to avoid; to shun. —scape'goat n. In Moslem ritual, goat upon whose head were symbolically placed sins of people; one who has to shoulder blame due to another. —scape'grace n. graceless, good-for-nothing fellow [fr. escape].

scaphoid (skaf-oid) a. boat-shaped [Gk. skaphe, a boat; eidos, form].

scapula (skap'u-lä) n. shoulder-blade. —scap'ular a. pert. to scapula; —n. bandage for shoulder blade; part of habit of certain religious orders in R.C. church, consisting of two bands of woollen stuff, of which one crosses the back and the other the stomach. Also scap'ulary [L. scapulae, the shoulder-blades].

scar (skär) n. permanent mark left on skin after healing of a wound, burn; a cicatrix; any blemish; —v.t. to mark with scar; —v.i. to heal with a scar [O.Fr. escare].

scar (skär) n. bare and broken place on side of mountain; precipitous bank or cliff. Also sear [O.N. sker].

scarab (skar-ab) n. dung-rolling beetle, regarded by ancient Egyptians as emblematic of solar power; gem cut in shape of this beetle, as amulet [L. scarabaeus].

scaramouch (skar-a-mouch) n. buffoon in motley dress; personage in old Italian comedy characterised by bragging and poltroonery [Scaramuccia, famous Italian merry-andrew of the 17th cent.].

scarce (skärs) a. not plentiful; deficient; wanting; rare; infrequent; uncommon; —scanty; —adv. hardly; scarcely. —scarce'ly adv. with difficulty; hardly; only just; not quite. —scarce'ness, scarce'ly n. being scarce; lack; deficiency [O.Fr. escars].

scare (skär) v.t. to terrify suddenly; to alarm; to drive away by frightening; —n. sudden alarm (esp. causeless); panic; fright. —scare'crow n. figure set up to frighten away birds from crops; a miserable-looking person in rags. —scare'mong'er n. alarmist [O.N. skitra].

scarf (skärf) n. long, narrow, light article of dress worn loosely over shoulders or about neck; necktie; a muffler. —pl. scarfs, scarves [O.Fr. escrêpe, a purse hanging from the neck].

scarf (skärf) v.t. to unite lengthways two pieces of timber by letting notched end of one into a similar end of the other, then securing them with bolt or strap. —n. joint for connecting timbers lengthways, the two pieces overlapping [Scand. = skar, a joint].

scarily (skar'i-ly) v.t. to scratch or slightly cut the skin; to stir the surface soil of; to lacerate; to criticise unmercifully. —pa.i. and pa.p. scar'ified, scar'ification n. —scar'y'lier n. [L. scarificare].

scarlatina (skärlä-tä-nä) n. scarlet fever [It.]. scarlet (skär-lät) n. bright red colour of many shades; cloth of scarlet colour; —a. of this colour; —v.t. to redden; —v.t. to blush. —scar'let-bean n. scarlet-runner. —scar'let-f'er n. scarlatina. —scar'let-hat n. a cardinal's hat.

—scarlet pimpernel, small annual herb with red flowers. —scar'let-run'ner n. bean plant with twining stem and scarlet flowers [O.Fr. escarlate].

scarp (skärp) n. steep inside slope of ditch in fortifications; —v.t. to make steep. —scarp'd a. steeply sloping [It. scarpa].

scary (skär-i) a. producing fright or alarm; exceedingly timid [fr. scare].

scat (skat) n. a rain-squall [perh. from scud]. scathe, scath (skäth) n. harm; injury; damage; waste; —v.t. to injure; to damage. —scathe'ful a. hurtful; injurious. —scathe'fulness n. —scath(e)'less a. unhurt; unharmed; uninjured; undamaged. —scath'ing a. damaging; cutting; biting. —scath'ingly adv. [O.N. skatha].

scatology (skat-ol-ö-jī) n. scientific study of fossilised excrement of animals; obscene literature. —scatolog'ical a. [Gk. skōr, skatos, dung].

scat-singer (skat-sing-er) n. (U.S.) in a dance band, a vocal accompaniment of humorous noises [etym. doubtful].

scatter (skät-er) v.t. to strew about; to sprinkle around; to put to rout; to disperse; —v.t. to take to flight; to disperse. —scatt'er-brain n. a giddy, thoughtless person. —scatt'er-brained a. —scatt'ered a. widely separated or distributed; distracted; wandering; sporadic; desultory. —scatt'er'er n. —scatt'ering n. act of dispersing; effect of irregularly reflected light; (Radio) general re-radiation of wave-energy when a ray meets an obstacle in its path. —a. dispersing; sporadic; diversified. —scatt'eringly adv. [etym. uncertain].

scarp (skawp) n. poor, hard land; firm sand-bank uncovered at low tide [fr. scarp].

scarp (skawp) n. bed of shell-fish. —duck n. pochard, dun-bird [O.N. skarp].

scarp (skawp) n. See sear, a precipitous cliff.

scavenger (skav'en-ger) n. one employed in cleaning streets, removing refuse, etc.; animal which feeds on carrion; —v.t. to scavenge. —scav'enge v.t. to cleanse streets, etc. [orig. scavenger, inspector of goods for sale, later, of street cleaning, fr. O.E. scæwian, to inspect].

scelerate (selc-e-rät) a. wicked; —n. a criminal; a villain. —scel'erous a. [L. scelus, crime].

scena (shä-nä) n. in grand opera, dramatic vocal solo consisting of both recitative and air. —pl. scenes (shä-nä) [It.].

scenario (sen-ä-ri-ö') n. script or written version of play to be produced by cinematograph; plot of a play. —scenar'ist n. [It.].

scene (sen) n. stage of a theatre; place, time of action of novel, play, etc.; a sub-division of a play; spectacle, show, or view; episode; unseemly display of temper; minor disturbance. —scen'ery n. painted stage-scenes; natural features of landscape which please eye. —scene-shift'er n. one who manages the scenery in theatrical representation. —scen'ic a. pert. to scenery, esp. of theatre; theatrical; picturesque. —scen'ic-rail'way n. miniature railway running through artificial panoramic scenery, as on far-ground, etc. —scenograph'ic, -al a. drawn in perspective. —scenograph'ically adv. —scenog'raphy n. [L. scena].

scent (sent) v.t. to discern or track by sense of smell; to give a perfume to; to detect; to become suspicious of; —v.t. to smell; —n. odour or perfume; fragrance; aroma; paper trail in game of hare and hounds. —scent'ed a. perfumed. —scent'gland n. a gland which secretes odoriferous matter. —to put off the scent, to mislead wilfully [Fr. sentir, to smell].

sceptic, skeptick (skept'ik) n. one who doubts esp. existence of God, or doctrines of Christianity; rationalist; agnostic; unbeliever; —a. sceptical. —scep'sis, skept'sis n. scepticism. —scep'tical, doubtful; doubting; disbelieving; incredulous. —scep'tically adv. —scep'ticalness n. —scep'ticise v.t. to doubt everything. —scep'ticism n. doubt in absence of conclusive evidence; theory that positive truth is unattainable by human intellect; a doubt of the existence of the supernatural or of a god; agnosticism [Gk. skeptesthai, to investigate].

sceptre (sep'tor) n. ornamental staff or baton; as symbol of royal power; royal mace; royal or imperial dignity. — sceptred a. invested with a sceptre; regal [Gk. skeptron, a staff].
schedule (shed'ul, in U.S.A. sked') n. written or printed scroll of paper; smaller document forming part of principal document, deed, etc.; official, tabulated list; an inventory; timetable; — v.t. to note and enter in list [L. a small scroll]. schema (ské'ma) n. plan or diagram; synopsis; outline; scheme; figure of speech. — pl. schemata. — schematic a. — schematically adv. — schematic v.t. to form a scheme, to represent diagrammatically [Gk.]. scheme (ském) n. plan; design; system; plot; machination; draft; outline; a syllabus; tabulated statement; horoscope; — v.t. to plan; to contrive; to frame; — v.i. to intrigue; to plot. — schemer n. intriguer. — scheming n. and a. planning; intriguing; plotting. — scheme'st n. a schemer; astrologer [Gk. schéma, form].
scherso (sker'so) n. (Mus.) composition of a lively, playful character [It. = a jest].
schilling (shil'ing) n. orig. a German silver coin, re-introduced into Austrian monetary system in 1925 [Ger.].
schipperke (ship't, skip'per-ki) n. a smallish, alert, tailless dog [Dut. = 'the little skipper', originally a dog on canal boats].
schism (sizm) n. split of a community into factions; division of a church or religious denomination; crisis of promoting this. — schismatic a. — n. one who separates from a church; dissenter. — schismatical a. — schismatic v. — schismatically adv. [Gk. schisma, a cleft].
schist (shist) n. any crystalline metamorphic rock which has polished structure and splits into thin irregular plates. — schistaceous a. blue-grey; slate-coloured. — schist'le, schist'ous, schist'ose a. having the structure of schist; resembling schist [Fr. schiste, fr. Gk. schizein, to split].
schizo- (skiz', skiz'o) prefix fr. Greek, schizein, to cleave, used in the construction of compound terms. — schizoid a. exhibiting slight symptoms of schizophrenia. — schizophrenia n. mental disorder known as 'split personality', characterised by asocial behaviour, introversion, and loss of touch with one's environment. — schizophrenic a. schnapps, schnaps (shnaps) n. kind of Holland gin [Ger.]. scholar (skol'ar) n. schoolboy or schoolgirl; student; learner; disciple; learned person; holder of scholarship. — scholarly a. learned. — scholarship n. learning; erudition; a grant; exhibition; bursary. — scholar'st'ic a. pert. to schools, scholars, or education; pert. to schools or scholars of philosophy of Middle Ages; pedantic; very subtle and abstruse; formal; — n. schoolman who expounded medieval philosophy; Jesuit student who has not yet taken Holy Orders. — scholar'stically adv. — Scholasticism n. system of philosophy during Middle Ages which attempted to harmonise doctrines of Aristotle with teachings of Church [Gk. scholē, a school].
scholiast (skó'll-ast) n. ancient commentator or annotator of classical texts. — scholiastic a. — scholium n. — pl. scholia, marginal note or comment; grammatical or philological note [Gk. scholiastēs, commentator]. school (skool) n. a shoal (of fish, whales, etc.) [Dut. school, crowd].
school (skool) n. institution for teaching or giving instruction in any subject; academy; seminary; institute; gymnasium; pupils of a school; group of writers, artists, thinkers, etc. with principles or methods in common; lecture hall; branch of study; degree examination (usually in pl.); system; habit or practice; — v.t. to educate; to discipline; to instruct; to tutor. — school-boy n. boy attending school or of school age. — school'fellow, school'mate n. contemporary at school. — school'ing n. instruction in school; tuition; education. — school inspector, official appointed to examine schools. — school'man n. (fam. school'mis'tress) learned doctor of Middle Ages, versed in scholasticism. — school'mast' n. master in charge of school; male teacher in school. — school'room n. a place for teaching in. — school'teach' n. one certificated to teach. — boarding school, residential school for boys or girls. — grammar school, secondary school where emphasis is on teaching of Latin and Greek. — preparatory school, private school which prepares young boys for public schools in England. — public school, in England, endowed school whose headmaster is a member of the Headmasters' Conference; in Scotland, a state-aided school, elementary or primary [Gk. scholē, leisure; place for discussion].

 schooner (skóo'n-er) n. small, sharp-built vessel, having two masts, fore-and-aft rigged; extra large glass for holding beer; in N. America, long drink long 'ooner, fr. Prov. E. acon to make flat stone skip along surface of water. O.E. scunian.
schottische, scottish (sho-tê'h, shôt'tish) n. round dance resembling polka; music in 2 time for this dance. — Highland schottische, lively dance to strathspey tunes, Highland fling [Ger. = Scottish].
sciatica (si-at'i-ka) n. neuralgia of sciatic nerve, with pains in region of hip. — sciatic'le, -al a. situated in, or pert. to, hip region. — sciatically adv. [Late L. fr. Gk. schion, hip-joint].
science (si-ens) n. systematic knowledge of natural or physical phenomena; truth ascertained by observation, experiment, and induction; ordered arrangement of facts known under classes or heads; theoretical knowledge as distinguished from practical; knowledge of principles and rules of invention, construction, mechanism, etc. as distinguished from art. — scientific'le, -al a. — scientifically adv. — scientism n. outlook and practice of scientist. — scientist n. a person versed in science, esp. natural science. — Christian Science, religious doctrine of faith-healing, bodily diseases being due to errors of mortal mind and therefore curable by faith and prayer. — domestic science, study of good housekeeping. — natural science, physical science, science which investigates nature and properties of material bodies and natural phenomena. — pure science, science based on self-evident truths, as mathematics, logic, etc. [L. scientia, knowledge]. scimitar (sim-i-tar) n. short sabre with curved, sharp-edged blade broadening from handle [Pers. shamsîr].
scintilla (sin-til'la) n. spark; gleams; least particle; atom. — scintillant a. emitting sparks; sparkling. — scintillate v.t. to emit sparks; to sparkle; to gladden, to coruscate. — scintillation n. [L. = a spark].
sciolism (si-ô-lizm) n. superficial knowledge used to impress others. — sciolist n. one possessed of superficial knowledge; charlatan. — sciolistic a. [L. scire, to know].
scion (sion) n. slip for grafting; offshoot; young member of family; a descendant; heir [Fr.].
sirococo. See sirocco. sciscitation (sis-i-tâ'shun) n. the act of inquiring; demand [L. sciscitari, to inquire].
scissile, scissible (sis'il, sis'i-bl) a. (Bot.) capable of being cut, split, or divided. — scission n. act of cutting [L. scindere, scissum, to cut].
scissors (sis'ters) n.pl. instrument of two sharp-edged blades pivoted together for cutting; small shears. — scissor' v.t. to cut with scissors. — scissor-bill n. bird of skimmer family [Fr. ciseaux].
Sclav, Slavonic, etc. See Slav, etc. scler- sclero- (sklér, skléro) prefix fr. Gk.

sklēros, hard, used in the construction of compound terms, implying hardness or dryness.—sker's n. strong, opaque fibrous membrane forming outer coat of eyeball.—the white of the eye.—sker'al a. hard, bony.—sker'itis n. inflammation of sclera of eye.—skeroder'ma, skeroder'mia n. chronic skin disease characterised by hardness and rigidity.—skeroder'matous a. (Zool.) possessing a hard, bony, external structure for protection.—skeroder'mic, skeroder'mous, skerodermit'ic a. pert. to scleroderma; having a hard outer skin.—skeroid a. of hard texture.—skero'ma n. hardening of tissues.—skero'sal a. pert. to sclerosis.—skero'sis n. hardening of organ as a result of excessive growth of connective tissue; induration.—skerot'ic a. indurated; hardened; pert. to sclera;—n. external hard coat of eye; the sclera.—skerous a. hard; indurated; bony.

scobs (skobz) n. dross of metals; shavings; sawdust; flings.—scobie'ular, scob'form a. resembling sawdust [L. scobis, sawdust].

scoff (skof) v.i. to treat with derision; to mock at;—v.t. to jeer;—n. expression of scorn; an object of derision.—scoff'er n.—scoff'ingly adv. [Scand.].

scoff (skof) v.t. (Slang) to eat greedily; to eat the whole of [etym. uncertain].

scold (sköld) v.t. and v.i. to find fault (with); to chide; to reprove angrily; to rebuke;—n. one who scolds; a nagging, brawling woman.—scold'er n.—scold'ing adv. [Ger. schellen, to bawll].

scallop Same as scallop.

score (skons) n. ornamental bracket fixed to wall, for carrying a light; lantern for candle; projecting partition or screen, to provide cover; protection for head, hence head itself, wits; small fort or breastwork; a bulwark; fine imposed for some misdemeanour;—v.t. to fortify or defend with a score; to impose fine as at Oxford or Cambridge [O.Fr. esconce, fr. L. abscondere, to hide].

score (skon, skön) n. (Scot.) a thin, flat cake baked on griddle [etym. doubtful].

scoop (sköop) n. article for lading; kind of shovel; hollow piece of wood for baling boats; lucrative speculation on Stock Exchange; publication of exclusive news in newspaper;—v.t. to ladle out, shovel, lift, dig or hollow out with scoop; to publish exclusive news; to gain or secure, as in to scoop the pool [prob. fr. Sw. skopa, a scoop].

scot (sköot) v.t. to move off quickly; to dart away suddenly; to scamper off.—scot'er n. a toy consisting of flat board mounted on two wheels, on which one foot rests, propelled by other foot and guided by handle attached to front wheel [fr. shoot].

scope (sköp) n. range of activity or application; space for action; room; play; outlet; opportunity; aim; length of cable paid out when ship is riding at anchor [It. scopo, a target].

scorbutic (skor-büt'ik) a. affected with, or relating to, scurvy [etym. uncertain].

scorch (skorch) v.t. to burn the surface of; to parch; to shrivel; to char; to singe; to wither; to blast;—v.i. to be burnt on surface; to dry up; to parch; to drive at excessive speed.—scorched-earth policy, destroying everything of value in path of hostile army.—scorch'er n. anything which scorches; scolding, sarcastic remark; one who drives furiously; hot, sultry day.—scorch'ing a. burning superficially; oppressively hot; scathing.—scorch'ingly adv. [etym. uncertain].

score (skör) n. a cut, notch, line, stroke; tally-mark, reckoning, bill, account; number twenty; reason; sake; number of points, runs, goals, etc. made in a game; arrangement of different parts of a musical composition on the page so that each bar may be read in all parts simultaneously;—v.t. to mark with lines, scratches, furrows; to cut; to engrave; to write down in proper order; to orchestrate; to enter in account book, to record; to make (points, etc.) in game; to cross out;—v.i. to add a point, run, goal, etc. in a game; to make a telling remark; to achieve a success.—scor'er n. one who keeps official record of points, runs, etc. made in the course of a game; one who makes the point, run, etc. in a game.—scor'ing n.—score-book, -card, -sheet, scor'ing-card n. for recording points, etc. made in game.—to score off, to gain the advantage over [O.N. skor, notch].

scoria (skö'ri-a) n. dross or slag resulting from smelting of metal ores; rough, angular, clindry-looking material sent out by volcano.—scor'ias n.pl. frothy-looking volcanic ash.—scor'ify v.t. to reduce to dross or slag [Gk. skoria, dross].

scorn (skorn) n. extreme disdain or contempt; object of derision;—v.t. to contempt; to despise; to spurn.—scorn'ful a.—scorn'fully adv. [O.Fr. escarnir].

Scorpio (skor'pi-d) n. Scorpion, 8th sign of zodiac, which the sun enters about 23rd October; scorpion.—scor'pion n. insect allied to spiders having slender tail which ends in very acute sting; whip armed with points like scorpion's tail; (World War 2) tank with anti-mine flail; vindictive person with virulent tongue [L.].

scot (skot) n. formerly, tax, contribution, fine. Also shot.—scot-free a. unhurt; exempt from payment [O.N. skot, a tax].

Scot (skot) n. native of Scotland; one of the Scotts or Scots, a Celtic tribe from Ireland who settled in N. Britain in 5th cent. and ultimately gave whole country name of Scotland [O.E. Scottas (pl.), Irishmen].

Scotch (skoeh) a. pert. to Scotland or its inhabitants; Scots (adj. form usually preferred in Scotland); Scottish;—n. Scots; Scots dialect; Scotch whisky.—Scotch (Scottish) bluebell, the harebell.—Scotch'bonnets n.pl. a fungus, the fairy-ring mushroom.—Scotch broth, broth made of pearl-barley, various vegetables and beef for seasoning.—Scotch collie, sheep-dog with long-haired coat and sharp muzzle.—Scotch fir, indigenous pine in Britain—also known as Scotch pine, Northern pine and Baltic fir or pine.—Scotch hall, broth.—Scotch'man n. a Scotsman.—Scotch mist, a very fine rain.—Scotch terrier, small short-legged, rough-coated dog; Aberdeen terrier.—Scotch thistle, national emblem of Scotland.

scotch (skoeh) v.t. to support, as a wheel, by placing some object to prevent its rolling; to prevent progress being made, to kill project in its initial stages;—n. prop. wedge, strut, or shoulder.

scotch (skoeh) v. to wound slightly; to maim, to hack; to abrade;—n. scratch; notch; mark or score [etym. uncertain].

Scotia (skö'ti-sha) n. poetical name for Scotland [Scotti, a Celtic tribe].

Scottic, Scotticism See Scottish, Scottishism. Scots (skotz) n. dialect of English spoken in Lowland Scotland;—a. pert. to Scotland; Scottish.—Scots'man, Scots'woman n. native of Scotland.—Scots Greys, oldest dragoon regiment in British army.—Scots Guards, one of five regiments forming Foot Guard of Household Troops [O.E. Scottas].

Scottic (sköt'i-së) adv. in the Scots language, dialect, or manner.—Scott'icism n. idiom, expression, or word peculiar to Scots language or people.—Scott'icise v.t. to make conform to Scots ways or speech [L. Scotticus, Scottish].

Scottish (sköt'ish) a. pert. to Scotland or its people; Scots; Scotch [O.E. Scottas].

scoundrel (skoun'drel) n. rascal; villain; vagabond.—scoun'drelism n. rascality; baseness.—scound'relly a. villainous; rascally [etym. uncertain].

scour (skour) v.t. to clean or polish the surface of, by hard rubbing; to purge violently; to flush out;—v.i. to clean by rubbing; to be purged to excess;—n. clearing action of swift, deep current or rush of water.—scourer n. [O.Fr. escurer].

scour (skour) v.i. to pass rapidly along or over in search of something; to range; to rake;—v.i. to scamper; to rove over; to scurry along.—scourer n. one who roams streets at night [etym. uncertain].

scourge (skurj) n. whip made of leather thongs; lash; punishment; a grievous affliction; pest; one who inflicts pain or devastates country;—v.i. to flog; to lash; to chastise; to devastate [L. excoriare].

scout (skout) n. one sent out to reconnoitre; look-out; a Boy Scout; reconnoissance aeroplane; college man-servant at Oxford;—v.i. to reconnoitre; to spy out.—scout-master n. adult instructor and organiser in the Boy Scouts [O.Fr. escoute, fr. escouter, to listen].

scout (skout) n. a high rock [O.N. skuta, to jut out]. [sneer at [etym. uncertain].]

scout (skout) v.i. to reject with contempt; to scow (skou) n. large flat-bottomed barge, with square ends; lighter for carrying deck-loads [Dut. schouw].

scowl (skoul) v.i. to wrinkle brows in displeasure; to frown gloomily or sullenly; to look sour, sullen, or annoyed;—n. a gloomy, angry frown [Scand.].

scrabble (skrabl) v.i. to scribble; to scrawl;—v.i. to scratch with hands; to move on hands and knees [var. of scapple, freq. of scapel].

scrag (skrag) n. anything thin, lean, gaunt, or shrivelled; raw-boned person; long, thin neck; lean end of neck of mutton;—v.i. to wring neck of; to hang; to execute.—scragged a. rough and uneven; knobby; rugged; ill-disposed.—scraggedness, scragginess n.—scraggily adv.—scraggly a. rough and unkempt-looking.—scraggy a. lean; jagged [earlier crag].

scram (skrain) interj. (Slang) clear out!

scramble (skrambl) v.i. to move by crawling, climbing, etc. on all fours; to clamber; to struggle with others for;—v.i. to collect together hurriedly and confusedly; to cook eggs by stirring when broken, in frying-pan;—n. scrambling; disorderly proceeding; rough-and-tumble.—scrambling a. climbing; snatching; struggling [etym. uncertain, cf. scrabble].

scran (skran) n. (Slang) scraps of food [O.N. skran, refuse].

scranch (skransh) v.i. to grind with the teeth. Also scrunch [imit.].

scranrel (skran-rl) a. grating; squeaking; screechy; thin; miserable [etym. uncertain].

scrap (skrap) n. small detached piece or fragment; material left over which can be used as raw material again; coloured picture, cut round main outline, for pasting into a scrap-book;—pl. odds and ends;—v.i. to throw out; to discard;—pa.t. and pa.p. scrapped.—pr.p. scrapping.—scrap-heap n. a rubbish heap; pile of old iron, etc.—scrap-metal n. fragments of any metal collected for remelting.—scrapgily adv.—scrapiness n.—scrapy a. consisting of scraps or odds and ends; fragmentary [O.N. skrap].

scrap (skrap) n. (Slang) a fight; a rough-and-tumble;—v.i. to fight with the fists [var. of scrape].

scrap (skrap) n. snare for birds.

scrape (skrap) v.i. to abrade; to grate; to scratch; to remove by rubbing; to clean or smooth thus;—v.i. to produce grating noise by rubbing; to live parsimoniously; to bow awkwardly with drawing back of foot; to scratch in earth, as fowls;—n. act or sound of scraping; scratch; predicament; embarrassing situation.—scraper n. one who, or that which, scrapes; misor; fiddler; metal bar for scraping mud off soles of shoes; tool with thin blade for scraping.—scrap-board n. prepared card-board for artists, with a surface which may be scraped away or left to be inked [O.E. scrapian].

scratch (skrach) v.i. to score or mark a narrow surface wound with claws, nails, or anything pointed; to abrade skin; to erase; to scrape; to withdraw name of entrant for race or competition; to write in a hasty, careless manner;—v.i. to use claws or nails in tearing, abrading, or shallow digging; to strike out one's name from list of competitors;—n. slight wound, mark, or sound made by sharp instrument; mark indicating the starting point of back-marker in a handicap race; one who concedes a start in distance, time, etc. to other competitors; noise associated with the playing of a gramophone record;—a. taken at random, brought together in a hurry, as a scratch team; denoting competitor without handicap.—scratch' n.—scratch'y a. [mixture of earlier scrat and crach, both of Teut. origin].

scrawl (skrawl) v.i. to write or draw untidily; to scribble;—v.i. to write unskillfully and inelegantly;—n. hasty, careless writing; scribble; trivial composition.—scrawler n. [perh. fr. scribble].

scrawl (skrawl) n. in U.S., brushwood.

scrawny (skrawn) a. lean; scraggy; raw-boned; gaunt.—scrawniness n. (cf. scanny).

scream (skrem) v.i. and v.i. to utter a piercing cry; to shriek; to laugh immoderately;—n. a shrill, piercing cry; uncontrollable fit of laughter; a person who excites much laughter; laughter-provoking incident.—screaming a. [imit. origin].

scree (skré) n. pile of debris at base of cliff or hill; a talus [etym. uncertain].

screech (skrech) v.i. to utter a harsh, shrill cry; to scream;—n. a shrill and sudden, harsh cry.—screech-hawk n. night-jar.—screech-owl n. owl with persistent harsh call [earlier scritch of imit. origin].

screed (skred) n. long letter or passage; long boring speech; list of grievances, etc.; fragment or shred [O.E. screade, a shred].

screen (skren) n. piece of furniture to shelter from heat, light, draught, or observation; partition of stone, metal, or wood, cutting off one part of ecclesiastical building from the rest; coarse, rectangular riddle for grading coal, pulverised material, etc.; white surface on which image is projected by optical means; troops thrown out towards enemy to protect main body;—v.i. to provide with shelter or concealment; to protect from blame or censure; to conceal; to sift; to riddle; to film; to project film, lantern slide, etc. on a screen; to subject a person to political scrutiny.—screen-grid n. (Radio) third electrode in a screened grid or pentode valve.—screened-grid n. a tetrode (four electrode) valve used in high-frequency amplification.—screen'ing n. employing a metal sheath to screen a magnetic field from the outside surroundings; (Nuclear Physics) reduction in intensity of radiations on passing through matter.—the screen, the cinema, smoke-screen n. dense smoke artificially disseminated to conceal movements [O.Fr. ecran].

screeve (skrév) v.i. to write or draw; to concoct begging letter [L. scribere, to write].

screw (skróo) n. in mechanics, a machine consisting of an inclined plane wound round a cylinder; cylinder with a spiral ridge running round it, used as holding agent or as mechanical power; turn of screw; twist to one side; a screw-propeller; tractor; skin-flint; moral pressure or compulsion; (Slang) wages; salary;—v.i. to fasten with screw; to press or stretch with a screw; to work by turning; to twist round; to treat harshly; to obtain by pressure; to extort;—v.i. to assume a spiral motion; to move like a screw.—screw-bolt n. metal bolt with a flat head at one end and screw at other used with nut for fastening timbers, etc. together.—screw-driver n. tool for turning screws.—screwed a. (Slang) drunk; tipsy.—screw' n.—screw'ing a. turning; exacting; stingy.—screw-nail n. small nail with a flat, slotted head and fine thread.—screw-propeller n. revolving shaft carrying two or more symmetrically arranged fan-like blades or flanges to create forward thrust of a ship.—screw-rudder n. screw instead of rudder for steering a ship.—screw-thread n. spiral ridge, triangular or rectangular in section, on a screw cylinder.—screw-wrench n. a tool for gripping the flat surfaces of screws and turning them.—screw'y a. tortuous, like the thread or motion of a screw; (Slang) crazy; daft [O.Fr. escrouel].

scribble (skribl) v.i. and v.t. to write carelessly; to draw meaningless lines; to write worthless stuff; to scrawl;—n. something scribbled.—scribbler n. bad or careless writer; a writer of unimportant trifles; an author.—scribbling a. used for scribbling;—n. careless writing [freq. of scribe, fr. L. scribere, to write].

scribble (skribl) v.t. to card or tease wool [Scand. skrubbla, to card].

scribe (skrib) n. a writer; official or public writer; clerk; copyist; secretary; an author; official copyist and expounder of Moslem and traditional Jewish law; a scribe;—v.t. to incise wood, metal, etc. with a sharp point as a guide to cutting; to mark off, to trim off edge of a board so as to fit to another edge or to a surface;—v.i. to write.—scribal a. pert. to a scribe.—scriber n. sharp-pointed instrument used to mark off metal work (L. scribere, to write).

scrimmage (skrim'ʒi) n. a confused struggle; a tussle for the ball in football; a scrum. Also serum'age (Cf. skirmish).

scrimp (skrimp) v.t. to make too short or small; to stint;—a. scanty.—scrimped a. stinted; pinched.—scrimp'y adv.—scrimp'ness n.—scrimp'y a. [O.E. scrimman, to shrink].

scrimsnank (skrim'shank) v.t. (Slang) to be work-shy; to dodge or shirk a duty.—scrimsnanker n. [etym. unknown].

scrimsnaw (skrim'shaw) v.t. and v.i. to make decorative article out of odds-and-ends;—n. such work [etym. unknown].

scrip (skrip) n. small bag or wallet; satchel [O.Fr. escrpele].

scrip (skrip) n. a writing; interim certificate of holding bonds, stock, or shares [var. of script].

script (skript) n. kind of type, used in printing and typewriting, to imitate handwriting; a writing; hand-writing; producer's version of words of play, or of scenes and words of film; text of spoken part in broadcast; (Law) original or principal document [L. scribere, scriptum, to write].

scripture (skrip'tūr) n. anything written; sacred writing; passage from Bible.—the Scriptures. Old and New Testaments.—scriptural, scripture a. according to Scriptures; biblical [L. scribere, scriptum, to write].

scrivener (skriv'en-er) n. one who draws up contracts or other documents; one who places money at interest on behalf of clients; public writer; notary [L. scribere, to write].

scrofula (skrof'ū-lā) n. constitutional weakness, due to malnutrition in early life.—scroful'ic, scroful'ous a. [L. = a little sow].

scroll (skrōl) n. roll of paper or parchment; a writing formed into a roll; a list; flourish at end of signature; curved head of violin; system of architectural ornament consisting of spiral volutes; (Her.) motto-bearing ribbon or inscription.—scroll'd a. formed like, or contained in, a scroll [O.Fr. escroul].

scrotum (skrō'tum) n. external muscular sac which lodges testicles of the male.—scrot'al a. [L.].

scrounge (skrounj) v.t. and v.t. (Slang) to cadege; to pilfer, esp. public property.—scrounger n.—scroung'ing n.

scrub (skrub) v.t. to clean with a hard brush and water; to scour; to rub;—v.t. to be penurious; to work hard for a living;—pa.t. and pa.p. scrubbed.—pr.p. scrubbing.—n. one who labours hard and lives meanly; stunted growth, found in semi-deserts; underwood, brushwood; worn-out brush; worthless horse.—scrub'ber n. one who, or that which, scrubs.—scrub'bing n. and a.—scrub'bing-board n. a corrugated board for scouring clothes.—scrub'bing-brush n. brush with extra-strong bristles.—scrub'y a. mean and small; stunted, covered with scrub; unshaved.—scrub'wood n. a small, stunted tree [obs. Dut. scrubben].

scruff (skruf) n. the back of the neck; nape

Also skruft [etym. uncertain].

scruffy (skruf'ī) a. scurfy; unkempt [var. of scurfy].

scrum (skrum) n. (Abbrev.) scrummage (in rugby football).—scrum-half n. half-back in rugby, who stands fairly close to scrummage, puts ball into scrum and attempts to retrieve it.—scrum'age n. scrummage; in rugby, pushing compact mass of rival forwards waiting for ball to be inserted [fr. scrimmage].

scrambling. See scumbling.

scramptious (skrum'shus) a. (Slang) delicious; delightful; nice; fastidious.

scrunch (skrunsh) v.t. to crush with the teeth; to crunch; to crush [fr. crunch].

scruple (skrō'pl) n. small weight equal to 20 troy gr. apothecaries' weight or 1.296 grammes (symbol, \mathfrak{g}); very small quantity, feeling of doubt; conscientious objection, qualm;—v.t. to hesitate from doubt; to have compunction.—scrup'ulous a. extremely conscientious; attentive to small points.—scrup'ulously adv.—scrup'ulousness, scrup'ulous'ity n. [L. scrupulus].

scrutiny (skrō'ti-ni) n. close search; critical examination; searching look or gaze; official re-examination of votes cast at an election.—scrut'or n. one who examines closely.—scrut'inate, scrut'inate v.t. to examine into critically.—scrut'iner n. one who makes a close examination.—scrut'insingly adv. [L. scrutari, to examine closely].

scud (skud) v.t. to move quickly; to run before a gale;—v.t. to slap; to skip.—pr.p. scud'ing.

—pa.t. and pa.p. scud'ded.—n. act of moving quickly; ragged cloud drifting rapidly in strong wind [etym. uncertain].

scuff Same as scuff.

scuff (skuff) v.t. to graze against one in passing;—v.t. to shuffle along without raising the foot [Sw. skuffa, to push].

scuffle (skuf'l) v.t. to struggle at close quarters; to fight confusedly;—n. confused fight, or struggle; rough and tumble.—scuff'ler n. [Sw. skuffa, to push].

sculdaddery (skul-dud'le-ri) n. (Scot.) obscenity; lewdness [etym. doubtful].

scull (skul) n. short light oar pulled with the one hand; light racing boat of a long, narrow build; cock-boat;—v.t. to propel boat by two sculls; to propel boat by means of oar placed over stern and worked alternately, first one way and then the other.—scull'er n. [etym. uncertain].

scullery (skul'er-i) n. small room off kitchen where rough work is done [O.Fr. escuelerie, fr. escuele, a dish].

scullion (skul'yun) n. male underservant who performed menial work; low, mean, dirty fellow [O.Fr. escouillon, a dish-clout].

sculp (skulp) v.t. to sculpture; to carve; to engrave; to flay [L. sculpere, to carve].

sculpture (skulp'tūr) n. art of reproducing objects in relief or in the round out of hard material by means of chisel; carved work; art of modelling in clay or other plastic material, figures or objects to be later cast in bronze or other metals; a copper-engraving;—v.t. to represent, by sculpture.—sculp'tor n. (fem. sculp'tress) one who carves or moulds figures.—sculp'tural a. [L. sculpere, sculptum, to carve].

scum (skum) n. impurities which rise to surface of liquids; foam or froth, if of dirty appearance; vile person or thing, riff-raff;—

v.f. to take scum off; to skim;—v.f. to throw up scum.—pr.p. scumming.—pa.t. and pa.p. scummed.—scum'my a. covered with scum; low-bred (Dan. scum, froth).
scumble (skum-bl) v.f. to apply opaque colours with little body as a wash to soften the tone of an under-coat of paint.—scum'bling, scum'bling n. process of softening the tints of a picture by blending them with a neutral tint laid on with a nearly dry brush (freq. of scum).
scupper (skup-er) n. channel alongside bulwarks of ship to drain away water from deck through scupper-holes;—v.f. to throw into the scupper; to endanger; to slaughter; to sink (O.Fr. escopir, to spit out).
scurf (skurf) n. dry scales or flakes formed on skin, esp. of head; dandruff; anything adhering to surface.—scurf'iness n.—scurf'y a. covered with scurf (O.E. scorfi).
scurrilous, scurrile, scurril (skur-⁴-l-us, skur-⁴-il) a. obscenely vulgar; foul-mouthed; indecent; abusive; vile.—scurril'ity, scurrilousness n. vulgar language; vile abuse.—scurrilously adv. (L. scurrilis).
scurry, skurry (skur-⁴-i) v.f. to hurry along; to run hastily.—pa.t. and pa.p. scurried.—scurry'y, scurrying n. [fr. scurry].
scurvy (skur-⁴-vi) n. deficiency disease due to lack of vitamin C; (Med.) scorbutus;—a. afflicted with the disease; scurvy; mean; low; vile.—scurvily adv. In a scurvy manner; meanly; vilely.—scurviness n. [fr. scurvy].
scut (skut) n. a short tail, as [that of a hare] (O.N. skjota, to jut out).
scutage (skut-⁴-a) n. In feudal law, a tax on a knight's fee of holding (L. scutum, a shield).
scutate (skut-⁴-at) a. (Bot.) shield-shaped; (Zool.) protected by scales or shield-like processes (L. scutum, a shield).
scutcheon, scutchin (skuch-un, -in) n. shield for armorial bearings; escutcheon; nameplate; plate to which door-knob is fixed (var. of escutcheon).
scutella (skut-⁴-el-a) n. horny plate or scale.—scutellate, -a. (Bot.) rounded and nearly flat, like a saucer.—scutell'iform a. scutellate.—scutell'iform a. (Bot.) shield-shaped (L. = a. salver).
scutter (skut-⁴-er) v.f. to run away hastily; to scurry [fr. scuttle].
scuttle (skut-⁴-l) n. broad, shallow, open basket; wide-mouthed vessel for holding coal (O.E. scutell).
scuttle (skut-⁴-l) n. hole with a cover, for light and air, cut in ship's deck or hatchway; hinged cover of glass to close a port-hole;—v.f. to make hole in ship, esp. to sink it.—scuttler n. one who scuttles; one who wrecks project (O.Fr. escoutille, a hatchway). scuttle (skut-⁴-l) v.f. to rush away; to run hurriedly [freq. of scud].
scythe (sith) n. mowing implement with long curved blade swung by bent handle held in both hands;—v.f. to cut with scythe; to mow (O.E. sithel).
sea (se) n. mass of salt water covering greater part of earth's surface; named broad tract of this; certain large expanses of inland water, when salt; billow, or surge; swell of ocean; vast expanse; flood; large quantity.—seanem'one n. beautifully coloured radiate marine animal, found on rocks on sea-coast.—sea-board n. coast-line and its neighbourhood; seashore.—sea-borne a. carried on the sea or on a sea-going vessel.—sea-breeze n. one which blows from sea toward land.—sea-captain n. captain of sea-going vessel; skipper.—sea-coast n. shore or border of land adjacent to sea.—sea-dog n. dog-fish; seal; pirate; old, experienced sailor.—sea-farer n. one who travels by sea; sailor.—sea-faring a.—seafenn'el n. samphire.—sea-front n. land adjoining sea; promenade or esplanade facing sea; part of building facing sea.—sea-girl a. endorbed by the sea.—sea-go'ing a. pert. to vessels which make long voyages by sea.—

sea-green a. having colour of sea-water; being of faint green colour, with a slightly bluish tinge.—sea-gull n. any gull.—sea-horse n. a small fish, allied to needle-fish and pipe-fish, with horse-like head; the hippopotamus; the walrus; fabulous animal, part horse, part fish.—sea-legs n.pl. ability to walk on ship's deck in spite of rough seas.—sea-level n. level of the sea taken at mean-tide.—sea-lion n. lion-headed, large-eared type of seal, eared-seal.—Sea Lord, naval member of the Board of Admiralty.—sea-man n. deck-hand on board a mercantile ship; rating in British Navy.—sea-manlike, sea'manly a.—sea-manship n. art of managing and navigating properly ship at sea.—sea-mew n. seagull; any gull.—sea-mile n. geometrical mile, 60th part of a degree of latitude, a distance varying with the latitude, mean value being 6076.8 ft.—sea-pink n. species of thrift which grows on sandy shores.—sea-plane n. aeroplane which can take off from and alight on sea.—sea-port n. town with harbour.—sea-power n. command of the seas; nation with powerful fleet.—sea-scape n. a picture representing maritime scene or view.—Sea-Scout n. member of special branch of Boy Scouts who receive training in seaman-ship, etc.—sea-serpent n. enormous marine animal of serpentine form said to inhabit ocean.—sea-shell n. a marine shell.—sea-shore n. land adjacent to sea; (Law) ground between ordinary high-water mark and low-water mark.—sea-sick a. suffering from seasickness.—sea-sickness n. a disturbance of the nervous system with nausea and vomiting, produced by rolling and pitching of vessel at sea.—sea-side n. and a. land adjacent to the sea.—sea-trout n. salmon-trout.—sea-wall n. embankment to prevent erosion or flooding.—sea-ward a. and adv. towards the sea.—sea-war'ter n. salt-water.—sea-way n. rate of progress of a vessel under way.—sea-weed n. collective name for large group of marine plants (Algae) distributed from above high-water mark to depth of about fifty fathoms.—sea-worthy n. fit for proceeding to sea; able to stand up to buffetings of waves.—sea-worthiness n.—sea-wrack n. sea-weed thrown up by the sea.—at sea, on the ocean, away from land; bewildered.—half-sea over, half-drunk, tipsy.—high seas, the open sea (O.E. seae).
seal (sel) n. an aquatic carnivorous animal with flippers as limbs, of which the eared variety furnishes rich fur pelts as well as oil;—v.f. to hunt for seals.—seal'er n. ship, or person, engaged in seal-fishing.—seal'ery n. seal-fishing station.—seal'skin n. dressed skin or fur of eared-seal;—a. made of seal-skin (O.E. seolth).
seal (sel) n. piece of metal or stone engraved with a device, cipher, or motto for impression on wax, lead, etc.; impression made by this (on letters, documents, etc.); that which closes or secures; symbol, token, or indication; arrangement for making drain-pipe joints air-tight;—v.f. to affix a seal to; to confirm; to ratify; to settle, as doom; to shut up; to close up joints, cracks, etc.—sealed a. having a seal affixed; enclosed; ratified.—sealing-wax n. wax composed of shellac or other resinous substances and turpentine tinted with colouring matter.—seal-ring n. a signet ring.—Great Seal, official seal of United Kingdom, used to seal treaties, writs summoning parliament, etc.—Privy Seal, official seal affixed to state documents of minor importance (O.Fr. seel, fr. L. signum, a seal).
Sealyham (sel-⁴-ham) n. small rough-coated terrier with very short legs, a Welsh breed of dog (village in Wales).
seam (sem) n. line of junction of two edges, e.g. of two pieces of cloth, or of two planks; thin layer or stratum, esp. of coal;—v.f. to join by sewing together; to mark with furrows or wrinkles; to scar.—seam'less a. having no seams; woven in the piece.—seam'ster n. (Jem.***

seam'stress, semp'stress n. one who sews by profession. — seam'y a. showing seams; sordid [O.E. fr. stician, to sew]. [seine] seam (sēn) n. a seine-net, used in fishing. See seance (sā'ōngs) n. session of a public body; assembly; meeting of spiritualists for consulting spirits and communicating with 'the other world' [Fr.].

sear (sēr) v.i. to scorch or brand with a hot iron; to dry up; to wither; to cauterise; to render callous: — a. dry; withered; burned; hardened. — searing iron, iron for cauterising flesh [O.E. searian].

sear (sēr) n. the catch in the lock of a firearm which holds it at cock or half-cock. Also sere [O.Fr. fr. L. sera, a bar].

search (serch) v.i. to look over or through in order to find; to probe into; — v.t. to look for; to seek; to explore; — n. searching; quest; inquiry; investigation. — searched a. in art, pert. to outline, silhouette effect, accurately depicted in vigorous and characteristic way.

— search'er n. one who searches; custom-house officer who searches for articles liable to duty.

— search'ing a. thorough; penetrating; keen; minute; trying; severe. — search'ingly adv.

— search'ingness n. — search'light n. electric arc-light which sends concentrated beam in any desired direction. — search'warr'ant n. warrant to enable police to enter premises of suspected person [Fr. chercher, to look for].

season (sē-zn) n. one of four divisions of year — spring, summer, autumn, winter; in tropical regions, the wet or dry period of year; busy holiday period; fashionable time of the year for high society; convenient time; period; time; interval; (Colloq.) season-ticket; season-ing; — v.t. to render suitable; to habituate; to give relish to; to spice; to mature; — v.i. to grow fit for use; to become adapted to climate; to become accustomed to. — sea'son-able a. suitable or appropriate for the season; opportune; timely; fit. — sea'sonableness n. — sea'sonably adv. — sea'sonal a. depending on, or varying with, seasons. — sea'sonally adv. — sea'soning n. flavouring. — sea'son-tick'et n. one valid for definite period. — close season, time when something is not lawful or permitted [L. saſio, sowing].

seat (set) n. thing made or used for sitting on; manner of sitting (of riding, etc.); right to sit (e.g. in council, etc.); sitting part of body; part of trousers which covers buttocks; locality of disease, trouble, etc.; country-house; mansion; place from which a country is governed; — v.t. to place on a seat; to cause to sit down; to assign a seat to; to fit up with seats; to establish; — v.i. to rest; to lie down. — seat'ed a. fixed; confirmed; settled. — seat'ing n. setting on, or fitting up with, seats [O.N. sæti].

sebaceous (eg-bā'shus) a. made of, or pert. to, tallow or fat; secreting oily matter [L. sebum, tallow].

secability (sek-a-bil'i-ti) n. capability of being cut or divided [L. secare, to cut].

secant (sēkant, sek'ant) a. cutting; incising; dividing into two parts; — n. any straight line which cuts another line, curve, or figure; a straight line drawn from centre of circle through one end of an arc, and terminated by a tangent drawn through other end; in trigonometry, ratio of hypotenuse to another side of a right-angled triangle is secant of angle between these two sides. [L. secare, to cut.]

secateurs (sek-a-terz') n.pl. small hand pruning shears [Fr.].

secede (eg-sēd') v.t. to withdraw formally from federation, alliance, etc. — seces'ser n. one who secedes; one of a party who left Established Church of Scotland in 1733. — seces'sion n. seceding from fellowship, alliance, etc.; withdrawal; departure [L. secedere, to go apart].

seclude (eg-blōd') v.t. to shut up apart; to guard from or to remove from sight or resort. — seclud'ed a. living apart; retired; remote; sequestered. — seclud'edly adv. — seclu'sion n. — seclu'sive a. tending to seclude; retiring [L. secludere, to shut away].

second (sek'und) a. next to first; other; another; inferior; subordinate; — n. one who, or that which, follows the first; one next and inferior; one assisting esp. principal in duel or boxing-match; sixtieth part of a minute; (Mus.) interval contained between two notes on adjacent degrees of the staff; moment; — n.pl. coarse kind of flour; inferior quality, brand, etc. of commodity or article; — v.t. to support, esp. a motion before a meeting or council; to back; to encourage. — second' v.t. to 'lend' an official of one department to another for special duties. — second'ed a. to be so transferred. — Second Advent, belief that Christ will return to earth in visible form. — sec'ond-best n. and a. best except one. — second childhood, dotage; senility. — sec'ond-class a. of an inferior order; mediocre. — sec'ond-cous'in n. child of first cousin. — sec'onder n. one who supports another. — sec'ond-hand a. not new; having been used or worn; indirect. — sec'ond-lieuten'ant n. lowest commissioned rank in British Army. — sec'ondly adv. in the second place. — second'ment n. temporary transfer of official to another department. — second nature, acquired habit. — sec'ond-rate a. of inferior quality, value, etc. — sec'ond-sight n. prophetic vision esp. of Scottish Highlanders. — to play second fiddle, to play or act subordinate part [L. secundus].

secondary (sek'un-dar-i) a. succeeding next in order to the first; of second place, origin, rank; second-rate; inferior; unimportant; pert. to education and schools intermediate between elementary schools and university. (Geol.) relating to Mesozoic period. — n. one who occupies a subordinate place. — secondary colour, colour obtained by combination of primary colours, blue, red, and yellow. — sec'ondarily adv. in a secondary or subordinate manner; not primarily. — sec'ondariness n. [fr. second].

secret (sēkret) a. kept or meant to be kept from general knowledge, concealed; unseen; private; — n. something kept secret or concealed; a mystery; governing principle known only to initiated. — se'crecy n. keeping or being kept secret; fidelity in keeping a secret; retirement; privacy; concealment. — se'crecy adv. — se'cretness n. secrecy. — se'cretive (or -krēt) a. uncommunicative; reticent; underhand. — se'cretively adv. — se'cretiveness n. [L. secretus, separated].

secretary (sek're-to-ri) n. one employed by another or appointed by a society to deal with papers and correspondence, keep records, prepare business, etc.; confidential clerk; minister in charge of a particular department of government; scribe; scribe; scribe. — secretaire' n. writing-desk for deeds and papers. — secretarial a. pert. to duties of a secretary. — secretariat, secretariate n. administrative office or officials controlled by secretary. — se'cretary-bird n. bird of prey of S. Africa and Senegambia. — Secretary of State, cabinet minister in charge of certain important government departments; in U.S., equivalent of Foreign Secretary. — se'cretaryship n. office or post of a secretary [fr. secret].

secrete (se-krēt') v.t. to hide; to conceal; of gland, etc. to collect and supply particular substance in body; — a. separate; distinct. — secre'ta n.pl. products of secretion. — secre'tion n. substance elaborated by gland out of blood or body-fluids; process of so secreting or elaborating. — secre'tional a. — secre'tive a. promoting or causing secretion. — secre'tor n. a secreting organ or gland. — secre'tory a. secretion-forming [L. secremere, secretum, to set apart].

sect (sekt) n. body of persons separated from others in virtue of some special doctrines held in variance with parent body; religious denomination; followers of philosopher or religious leader; party; faction; cutting; seclon. —sectarian a. pert. to a sect; narrow-minded; bigoted. Also sectarial. —n. one of a sect; a bigot; a partisan. —sectarianism n. bigoted devotion to the interests of a sect. —sec'lary n. one of a sect; a dissenter [L. secta, fr. sequi, to follow].

sectant (sek'tant) n. (Geom.) the portion of space cut off by three planes and extending to infinity [L. secare, secum, to cut].

section (sek'shun) n. cutting or separating by cutting; part separated from the rest; division; portion; a piece; a sub-division of subject matter of book, chapter, statute; signature; printer's reference mark (§) used for footnotes; representation of portion of building or object exposed when cut by imaginary vertical plane so as to show its construction and interior; surveyor's scaled drawing showing variations in surface level of ground along base-line; (Geom.) plane figure formed by cutting a solid by another plane; line formed by intersection of two surfaces; distinct part of a city, country, people, etc.; smallest military unit, four sections forming a platoon; (Bot. and Zool.) thin, translucent slice of organic or inorganic matter mounted on slide for detailed microscopic examination. —sectional a. pert. to, made up of sections; partial; local; (of paper) ruled in small squares. —sectionalism n. partial regard for limited interests of one particular class at expense of all others. —sectionally adv. —sectionism v.t. to divide out in parts [L. secare, secum, to cut].

sector (sek'tur) n. portion of circle enclosed by two radii and the arc which they intercept; mathematical instrument graduated with sines, tangents, etc., used for finding fourth proportional in making planes, diagrams, etc.; in military affairs, a definite length of trench or front line. —sectoral a. [L. secare, secum, to cut].

secular (sek'ul-lar) a. worldly; temporal, as opposed to spiritual, lay; civil; profane; lasting for, occurring once in, a century or age; —n. layman, clergyman, not bound by vow of poverty and not belonging to religious order. —secularisation n. —secularise v.t. to convert from spiritual to secular use; to make worldly. —secularism n. ethical doctrine which advocates a moral code independent of all religious considerations or practices. —secularist n. —secularity n. worldliness; indifference towards future existence. —secularly adv. [L. saecularis, fr. saeculum, an age, a century].

secure (sē-kūr) a. free from care, anxiety, fear; safe; fixed, stable; in close custody; certain, confident; —v.t. to make safe, certain, fast; to close, or confine, effectually; to gain possession of, to obtain; to insure; to assure. —secureable a. —secureance n. assurance; confirmation. —securely adv. —secureness n. free from anxiety; feeling of security. —securer n. —security n. being secure; what secures; protection; assurance, anything given as bond, caution, or pledge. —Security Council n. branch of United Nations Organisation, set up in 1945, to settle international disputes and to prevent aggression. —securities n.pl. general term for shares, bonds, stocks, debentures, etc. bought and sold on the Stock Exchange; documents giving to holder right to possess certain property [L. securus, fr. se, without; cura, care].

sedan (sē-dan') n. old-time closed conveyance with a chair inside for one, carried on two poles; a sedan-chair; a closed-in motor-car [orig. made at Sedan, France].

sedate (sē-dāt') a. staid; not excitable, composed; calm; prim. —sedately adv. —sedateness n. calmness; composure; primness. —sedative a. tending to calm; soothing. —n. agent, external or internal, which soothes [L. sedare, to calm].

sedentary (sē-dēn-tā-ri) a. sitting much; requiring sitting posture, as certain forms of employment; inactive. —sedentariness n. [L. sedere, to sit].

sedesunt (sē-dē-runt) n. a single sitting of a court, or of a body of men in deliberation [L. — they sat, fr. sedere, to sit].

sedge (sēd) n. rush-like plant growing in swampy grounds; any marsh-grass. —sedge-warbler n. sedge-wren; reed-warbler. —sedgey a. over-grown with sedge [O.E. seagd].

sediment (sēd'i-mēt) n. matter which settles to bottom of liquid; leas; dregs. —sedimentary a. composed of sediment, esp. of rock laid down as deposits by water action. —sedimentation n. [L. sedere, to settle].

sedition (sē-dish'un) n. any act aimed at disturbing peace of realm or producing public disorder; insurrection. —seditionary a. one who incites sedition. —seditious a. pert. to, tending to excite sedition. —seditiously adv. —seditionness n. [L. seditio, a going apart].

seduce (sē-dūs) v.t. to lead astray; to draw aside from path of rectitude and duty; to induce woman to surrender chastity; to allure. —seducee n. seduction. —seducer n. —seducible a. liable to be led astray; corruptible. —seduction n. act of seducing. —seductive a. —seductively adv. —seductiveness n. [L. seducere, to lead aside].

sedulous (sē-dū-lus) a. diligent; steady; industrious; persevering. —sedulity n. —sedulousness n. —sedulously adv. [L. sedulus].

see (sē) n. diocese or jurisdiction of bishop; province of archbishop. —the Holy See, the papal court [O.Fr. siet, fr. L. sedere, to sit].

see (sē) v.t. to perceive by eye; to behold; to observe; to note; to mark; to form an idea; to understand; to have interview with; to visit; to meet with; —v.i. to have the power of sight; to pay regard; to consider; to give heed; to understand, to apprehend. —pa.t. saw. —pa.p. seen. —seer n. one who sees; one who foresees events, has second-sight; a prophet; a vaticinator. —seeing con. considering; since; —n. act of perceiving; sight [O.E. seon].

seed (sēd) n. embryo; fertilised ovule, which gives origin to new plant; one grain of this; such grains saved or used for sowing; that from which anything springs; origin; source; progeny; offspring; children; descendants; generation; first principle; —v.t. to sow with seed; to remove seeds from; to arrange draw for sports tournament, so that best players, etc. should not be drawn against each other in earlier rounds; —v.i. to reduce seed; to shed seed. —seeded a. sown; matured. —seedily adv. in seedy manner. —seediness n. being seedy or off colour; shabbiness. —seedless a. —seedling n. young plant, no longer depending on seed for food. —seedsman n. one who deals in seeds. —seed-vessel n. case, envelope, or pericarp which contains seeds; pod. —seed'y a. abounding with seeds; run to seed; exhausted; worn out; miserable looking. —to run to seed, to produce flowers and seed at expense of leaves or roots; to go to waste or ruin [O.E. sead].

seek (sek) v.t. to make search or enquiry for; to look for; to ask for; to strive after; —v.i. to make search. —pa.t. and pa.p. sought. —seeker n. [O.E. secan].

seel (sēl) n. good fortune. —seely a. lucky; happy; artless; silly [O.E. seal].

seem (sēm) v.i. to appear (to be or to do); to look; to pretend; to appear to one's judgment; —v.t. to L. seem; to suit. —seeming a. appearing like; apparent; ostensible; plausible; specious; —n. appearance; apparent likeness; judgment. —seemingly adv. —seemliness n. —seem'y a. fit; becoming. —adv. in a decent or proper manner [O.N. sēmal].

seem (sēm) pa.p. of see.

seep (sēp) v.t. to ooze; to trickle; to drip; to leak away; to drain slowly. Also sipe, sye. —seepage n. Also sip'age [O.E. sipian, to soak].

seer (sēr) n. one who mystically foresees events; a prophet; a prognosticator; a sooth-sayer. —seer'ship n. [Fr. seer].

seer-fish. See seir-fish.

seersucker (sēr-suk-er) n. a light-weight linen fabric, woven in India (fr. Pers. shir o shakkar = milk and sugar).

seesaw (sē-saw) n. game in which two children sit at opposite ends of plank supported in middle and swing up and down; plank for this; to-and-fro motion; vacillation; —a. moving up or down; alternate; reciprocal; —v.t. to move upward and downward [imit.].

seethe (sē-th) v.t. to boil, cook, or soak in hot water; —v.i. to be in a state of ebullition; to be violently agitated or in confused movement; —pa.p. seethed or sod; —pa.p. seethed or sod'den (O.E. seothan, to boil).

segment (seg-mēt) n. part cut off from a figure by a line; part of circle contained between chord and arc of that circle; section; portion; part; —v.t. and v.i. to separate into segments. —segmen'tal a. relating to a segment. —seg'mentary, seg'mentate a. having the form of a segment. —seg'mentation n. act of dividing into segments; state of being divided into segments. —segment'ed a. [L. segmentum].

segregate (seg-re-gāt) v.t. and v.i. to set or go apart from the rest; to isolate; to separate; —a. set apart; separate from the others. —seg'regation n. [L. segregare, to remove from the flock (grex)].

seguidilla (seg-i-dēl'ya) n. graceful, lively Spanish dance; music for it [Sp.].

Seignior (sēn'yor), Seigneur (sēn'yer) n. a feudal lord of a manor; title of honour or respectful address. —seign'orage, seign'orage n. anything claimed by sovereign or feudal superior as prerogative. —seignior'al n. authority or domains of a seignior. —seignior'al, seigneur'al, signo'rial a. manorial. —seign'orise v.t. to lord it over. —seign'ory, seign'ory n. authority of seignior; lordship or feudal domain; manorial rights; municipal council in medieval Italian republic. —grand seignor, Sultan of Turkey [Fr. fr. L. senior, elder].

seine (sān, sēn) n. seine-net, open bag-net for sea-fishing. Also sean; —v.t. to catch fish by dragging a seine-net through water [Fr. fr. L. sagena, a fishing-net].

seism (sīsm) n. earthquake. —seis'mal, seis'mic a. pert. to or produced by earthquake. —seis'mogram n. record of earthquake made by seismograph. —seis'mograph n. instrument which records distance and intensity of slightest earth tremors. —seismolog'ic, —al a. —seismol'ogist n. one versed in seismology. —seismol'ogy n. the study of earthquakes and their causes and effects [Gk. seismos, an earthquake].

seize (sēz) v.t. to grasp; to take hold of; to take possession of by force or legal authority; to arrest; to capture; to fasten; to comprehend; —v.i. of bearing parts or piston of machine, to adhere or stick tightly through excessively high temperature. —seiz'able a. —seiz'ure n. act of seizing; thing or property seized; sudden attack, as apoplectic stroke [Fr. seisir].

select (se-lect') v.t. to choose; to cull; to elect; to prefer; —a. of choice quality; of special excellence; choosen; picked; exclusive; —n. the best people. —selec'tance n. (Radio) selectivity. —selec'ted a. —selec'tedly adv. —selec'tion n. selecting; things selected; variety of articles for sale; book containing select pieces; (Mus.) medley of airs; (Biol.) process, according to the evolutionary theory, by which certain members of species survive and others, unfit, are gradually eliminated. —selec'tive a. having power of selection; discriminating. —selec'tively adv. —selec'tivity n. (Radio) property of receiving set whereby discrimination can be made between a number of simultaneous signals or programmes on differing carrier-wave frequencies. —selec'tor n. one who, or an electric device which, selects [L. seligere, selectum].

Selene (se-lā-nē) n. (Gk. Myth.) goddess of moon. —sele'noscope n. instrument for taking observations of moon. —sele'nograph n. showing surface of moon. —sele'nog'raphy n. study of moon surface [Gk. = moon].

selenite (selen-it) n. a colourless and translucent crystalline form of gypsum (calcium sulphate) [Gk. sēlēnē, the moon].

selenium (se-lēn-um) n. non-metallic element with remarkable property of altering its electrical resistance according to intensity of light falling on it [Gk. sēlēnē, the moon].

self (self) n. one's individual person; one's personal interest; ego; subject of individual consciousness; selfishness. —pl. selves (selvz).

pron. affix used to express emphasis or a reflexive usage; —a. of colour, uniform, same throughout; same; plain; —prefix used in innumerable compounds. —self-abas'ement n. disregard of self. —self-abnega'tion n. self-denial. —self-abuse n. masturbation; abuse of one's own powers. —self-assur'ance n. self-confidence. —self-con'tend a. egotistic. —self-con'fidence n. whole-hearted reliance on one's own powers and resources. —self-con'fident a. —self-con'sciousness n. an embarrassed state of mind leading to confusion due to belief that one is object of critical judgment by others present. —self-con'scious a. —self-con'tained a. of a reserved nature; complete in itself; (of a house) having a separate entrance, detached. —self-control n. control over one-self, temper, emotions, and desires; self-command. —self-defence n. the act of defending one's person or justifying one's actions. —self-deni'al n. refraining from gratifying one's desires or appetites; unselfishness, to the point of deprivation. —self-determi'nation n. free-will; right of a people or nation to work out its own problems and destiny, free from interference from without. —self-gov'erning a. autonomous; having a legislature elected by and responsible to, those governed. —self-government n. —self-indul'gence n. undue gratification of one's appetites or desires. —self-in'terest n. exclusive regard to one's own profit or advantage; selfishness. —self'ish a. concerned unduly over personal profit or pleasure; lacking consideration for others; mercenary; greedy. —self'ishly adv. —self'ishness n. —self'less a. having no regard to self; unselfish. —self-pit'y n. morbid pleasure in nursing one's woes. —self-possessed a. calm and collected; able to control one's feelings and emotions, composed; undisturbed. —self-preser'vation n. instinctive impulse to avoid injury or death. —self-reli'ant a. not depending or relying on others. —self-reli'ance n. —self-respect n. a proper regard for one's own person, character, or reputation. —self-respect'ing a. —self-respect'ful a. —self-right'eous a. thinking oneself faultless; esteeming oneself as better than others; priggish; pharisaical; hypocritical; sanctimonious. —self-sac'rifice n. foregoing personal advantage or comfort for the sake of others. —self'same a. the very same; identical. —self-satisfaction n. personal reassurance; (in a bad sense) smug conceit. —self-sat'isfied a. —self-seek'er n. one who seeks only his own profit or pleasure. —self-seek'ing a. seeking one's own interest or happiness. —self-start'er n. an automatic contrivance used for starting internal-combustion engine of motor-car. —self-styled a. so-called, without any real warrant or authority; self-assumed; would-be; pretended. —self-suffi'cient a. sufficient in itself; relying on one's own powers. —self-sugges'tion n. a reflex mental process leading to a belief originating in the subliminal mind. —self-support'ing a. not dependent on others for a living [O.E.].

sell (sel) n. seat; throne; saddle. —sell'form a. saddle-shaped [L. sella, a seat].

sell (sel) v.t. to dispose of for an equivalent, usually money; to deal in; to betray for money or a consideration; to delude; to trick; to have for sale; to promote sale of;—v.t. to fetch a price; to be in demand;—pa.t. and pa.p. sold.—n. deception; hoax; disappointment.—sell'er n. one who sells; vendor [O.E. sellan].

seltzer (selt'zər) n. a carbonated mineral water found at Nieder-Selters in Prussia; artificial mineral water of similar composition aerated with carbon dioxide.—selt'zogen n. a gazo-gene [corrupt. of Sellers].

selvage, selvedge (sel'vāj) n. edge of cloth finished to prevent ravelling out; strong edging of web [for self-edge].

selves (selvz) n.pl. of self.

semantic (se-man'tik) a. pert. to meaning of words.—seman'tics n.pl. branch of linguistic research concerned with studying changes in meaning of words [Gk. semainein, to mean].

semaphore (sem'a-for) n. a post with movable arm or arms used for signalling; a system of signalling by human or mechanical arms [Gk. sema, sign; pherein, to bear].

semasiology (se-mā-si-olō-jī) n. the science of the development of the meanings of words, semantics.—semasiolog'ical a. [Gk. semasia, meaning; logos a discourse].

semlable (sem'blā-bl) a. similar; resembling;—n. likeness.—sem'blance n. real or seeming likeness; appearance; image; form; figure [Fr. sembler, to seem].

semiology (se-mi-olō-jī) n. study of signs and symbols.—semiol'ogy, semiol'ogy n. (Med.) study of signs and symptoms of disease; symptomatology.—semiol'ies n. science or language of signs [Gk. semeion, a mark].

semen (sē'men) n. whitish, viscid secretion formed by male reproductive organs, containing fertilising spermatozoa by which impregnation of female is effected [L. = seed].

semester (se-mes'tər) n. college half-year session in universities of Germany, America, etc. [Fr. semestre, fr. L. sext, six; mensis, a month].

semi- (sē'mi), prefix with the meaning of half, partly, imperfectly, etc., used in the construction of compound terms, the meaning being usually obvious.—sem'i-an'nual a. half-yearly.—sem'i-an'nular a. forming a semi-circle.—sem'ibreve n. (Mus.) standard note of measurement, a whole note—half the length of a breve and equivalent to two minims or four crotchets (symbol C).—sem'icircle n. plane figure bounded by diameter and portion of circumference of a circle which it cuts off.—sem'icircled, semior'cular a.—sem'icoleon n. punctuation mark (:) used to separate clauses of a sentence requiring a more marked separation than is indicated by a comma.—sem'i-detached a. (of house) joined by a party-wall with another house but free on all sides.—sem'i-final n. a match, round, etc. qualifying winner to contest the final.—semi-quaver n. (Mus.) one half of a quaver; a 16th note or rest (symbol v).—sem'itone n. (Mus.) half a tone; one of the intervals of diatonic scale.—sem'i-trop'ical a. between tropical and temperate; sub-tropical [L. = half].

seminal (sem'i-nal) a. pert. to seed of plants or semen of animals; radical; germinal; reproductive.—sem'inate v.t. to sow; to propagate; to disseminate.—semin'ation n. act of sowing or disseminating; seeding.—seminif'erous, seminif'ile a. seed-bearing [L. semen, seed].

seminar (sem'in-ar) n. group of advanced students pursuing research in a specific subject under supervision [L. semen, seed].

seminary (sem'in-ār-i) n. place of education; academy; school or college; a training college for R.C. priesthood; breeding-ground or nursery.—a. trained in seminary.—semin'arist n. R.C. priest educated in foreign seminary; student at seminary [L. seminarium, a seed-plot].

Seminole (sem'i-nōl) one of a nomadic tribe of American Indians, formerly living S.E. of the Mississippi (Florida, etc.).

semiology, semiology, semiotics, etc. Alternative for semiology, etc.

Semite (sem'it, sē'mit) n. one of a group of races, speaking allied languages; they include Jews, Arabs and Syrians, supposed to be descendants of Shem (see Genesis, 10).—Semit'ic a. pert. to Semites or to language, customs, etc. of these races.

semolina (sem-ō-lē'nā) n. hard grains of wheat after fine parts have passed through during milling—used in production of spaghetti, macaroni, etc. Also sem'ola [L. simila, wheatmeal].

sempiternal (sem-pli-ter'nal) a. everlasting; never-ending; without beginning or end; eternal.—sempit'erity n. future duration without end [L. sempiternus, fr. semper, always].

sempster (sem'stər) n. (fern. semp'stress) one who sews by profession [fr. seamster].

sen (sen) n. Japanese copper coin, in value 1-100th part of a yen or dollar [Jap.].

senate (sen'at) supreme legislative and administrative assembly in ancient Rome; 'Upper House' in legislature, e.g. U.S. and some British Dominions; governing body in many universities.—sen'ator n. a member of a senate.—senato'rial a.—sen'atorship n. office or position of senator.—senatus n. governing body in certain universities [L. senatus, council of old men, fr. senex, old man].

send (send) v.t. to cause to go, to transmit; to forward; to despatch; to delegate, to depute; to cast; to throw; to confer,—v.i. to despatch messenger; to transmit message.—pa.t. and pa.p. sent.—to send down, to expel from college or university; to rusticate [O.E. sendan].

senectitude (se-nek'ti-tūd) n. old age [L. senex, an old man].

senescence (se-nēs-ēns) n. the state of growing old; decay; old age.—senes'cent a. growing old [L. senescere, to grow old].

seneschal (sen'e-shal) n. functionary who superintended household feasts and ceremonies of feudal lord in Middle Ages, steward; majordomo [O.Fr.].

senile (sē'nīl) a. pert. to old age, aged; dotting.—senil'ity n. degenerative physical conditions accompanying old age, old age [L. senex, old man].

senior (sē'nī-ər, sē'nī-er) a. or er; superior in rank or standing; prior;—a. person older, or of higher rank, or of long service, than another, an aged person.—senior'ity n. state of being older, or higher in rank, or longer in service; priority; superiority. Also se'niority.—senior service, the navy [L. = older].

senna (sen'a) n. a valuable purgative drug, obtained from the dried leaves and pods of a number of shrubs and herbs of the genus Cassia [Ar. sana].

sennet (sen'et) n. a flourish of trumpets [O.Fr. suēt, a sign].

sewnight (sen'it) n. a week. Also se'nnight [Scrn. night].

señor (se-nyōr') n. Spanish form of address; sir, gentleman, equivalent to Mr.;—seño'ra n. lady; madam; Mrs.—señor'ita n. young lady; Miss.

sensation (sen-si'shun) n. what we learn through senses; state of physical consciousness; effect produced on a sense-organ by external stimulus; excited feeling or state of excitement, exciting event; strong impression.—sen'sate, sen'sated a. perceived by the senses.—sen'sational a. pert. to perception by senses; producing great excitement and surprise; melodramatic.—sen'sationalist n.—sen'sational'ly adv. [L. sensus, feeling].

sense (sens) n. any of the bodily faculties of perception or feeling; sensitiveness of any or all of these faculties; ability to perceive, mental alertness; consciousness; significance; meaning; coherence; wisdom; good judgment; prudence. —pl. wits; faculties. —v.t. to perceive; to suspect; to understand. —senseless a. destitute of sense; insensible; unfeeling; silly; foolish; stupid; absurd. —senselessly adv. —senselessness n. [L. sentire, sensum, to feel].

sensible (sen-'si-bl) a. capable of being perceived by the senses; characterised by good sense; perceptible; aware; conscious; appreciable; reasonable; judicious; wise; sensitive. —sensibility n. power of experiencing sensation; faculty by which mind receives sensuous intuitions; capacity of feeling. —sensibly adv. [fr. sense].

sensitize (sen-'si-tiz) v.t. to render sensitive; in photography, to render film, paper, etc. sensitive to the chemical action of light. —sensitizer n. [L. sensus, feeling].

sensitive (sen-'si-tiv) a. open to, or acutely affected by, external stimuli or impressions; easily affected or altered; responsive to slight changes; reacting readily to light rays; easily upset by criticism; —n. one who is sensitive. —sensitively adv. —sensitiveness n. quality or state of being sensitive. —sensitivity n. sensitiveness; keen sensibility; capacity to receive and respond to external stimuli [Fr. sensiti, fr. L. sentire, to feel].

sensory (sen-'sory) a. pert. to, or serving, senses; conveying sensations, as the nerve-fibres [L. sensus, feeling].

sensual (sen-'sü-äl) a. depending on the senses only and not on the mind; given to pursuit of pleasures of sense, self-indulgent; carnal; voluptuous; lewd. —sensualisation n. —sensualise v.t. to make or render sensual; to debase by gratifying carnal appetites or passions. —sensualism n. fleshly indulgence; luxurious living. —sensualist n. one given to lewd or loose mode of life; voluptuary. —sensualistic a. —sensuality n. state of being sensual; lewdness; debauchery. —sensually adv. —sensuously a. stimulating, or apprehended by, senses. —sensuously adv. —sensuousness n. [L. sensus, feeling].

sent (sent) pa.t. and pa.p. of send.

sentence (sen-'tens) n. combination of words, which is complete as expressing a thought; opinion; axiom; maxim; judgment passed on criminal by court or judge; decision. —v.t. to pass sentence upon; to condemn. —sententious a. abounding with axioms and maxims; short and energetic; pithy; bombastic; pompously moralising. —sententiously adv. —sententiousness n. [L. sententia, an opinion].

sensitient (sen-'shi-ent) a. feeling or capable of feeling; perceiving by senses; sensitive; thinking; reflecting. —sensitences, sensitency n. consciousness at a sensory level. —sensitiently adv. [L. sentire, to feel].

sentiment (sen-'ti-ment) n. abstract emotion; tendency to be moved by feeling rather than by reason; verbal expression of feeling; saying; idea; opinion. —sentimental a. abounding with sentiment; romantic; emotional; foolishly tender. —sentimentalism, sentimentality n. affected and distorted expression of sentiment revealing a superficiality of feeling. —sentimentalist n. one given to sentimental talk; one swayed by emotions rather than by reason. —sentimentally adv. [O.Fr. sentiment, fr. L. sentire, to feel].

sentinel (sen-'ti-nel) n. guard; sentry; —a. acting as sentinel; watching [Fr. sentinelle].

sentry (sen-'tri) n. soldier on guard; sentinel; duty of sentry. —sentry-box n. small shelter against weather used by sentry. —sentry-go n. sentry duty [fr. sanctuary, a place of safety, a shelter for a watchman, a watchman].

sepal (sep-'äl, sē-'päl) n. (Bot.) leaf-like member of outer covering, or calyx, of flower. —sepalous a. having sepals [Fr. sépale].

separate (sep-'ä-rät) v.t. to part in any manner; to divide; to disconnect; to detach; to sever; to sunder; to put apart; —v.i. to part; to withdraw; to become disunited; —a. divided;

disconnected; apart; distinct; individual. —separability n. —separable a. able to be separated or disconnected. —separableness n. —separably adv. —separately adv. —separateness n. —separation n. act of separating; state of being separate. —separationist n. one who supports policy of breaking away from a union of states or countries; a separatist. —separatism n. act or policy of separating or withdrawing from any union; secession. —separatist n. one who secedes from church or political union; seceder; schismatic; home-ruler [L. separare].

sepia (sē-'pi-ä) n. brown pigment obtained from ink-bags of cuttlefish or octopus, used as water-colour [Gk. = cuttlefish].

sepoj (sē-'pöl) n. native of India employed as soldier in British service [Hind. sipahi, a soldier].

sepsis (sē-'sis) n. (Med.) state of having bodily tissue infected by pathogenic bacteria; putrefaction; putridity; rot. —septic a. [Gk. = putrefaction].

sept (sept) n. clan, race, or family, proceeding from common progenitor. —septal a. pert. to sept; (Bot.) pert. to a septum [cym. uncertain. Cf. sect].

septicaemia. Same as septicæmia. See septic.
September (sep-'tem-bər) n. ninth month of year [L. septem, seven, as being 7th month of Roman year].

septenary (sep-'te-nä-ri) a. consisting of seven; lasting seven years; occurring once in seven years. —septennial a. continuing seven years; occurring once in every seven years. —septennialum n. a period of seven years [L. septem, seven].

septet, septette (sep-'tet') n. (Mus.) composition for seven voices or instruments [L. septem, seven].

septic (sep-'tik) a. pert. to sepsis; causing or caused by blood-poisoning or putrefaction; infected; putrefying. Also septicæmia, septicæmia, septicæmia n. invasion of blood and other tissues by living pathogenic bacteria; blood-poisoning. —septically adv. —septicæmia n. septicæmia a. pert. to septicæmia [Gk. septicus, putrefying].

septuagenarian (sep-'tü-ä)-e-nä-ri-än) n. person between seventy and eighty years of age. —septuagenary a. consisting of seventy; seventy years old. [L. septuaginta, seventy].

Septuagesima (sep-'tü-ä)-jō-i-mä) n. third Sunday before Lent, seventy days before Easter. —septuagesimal a. pert. to the number seventy [L. septuagesimus, seventieth].

Septuagint (sep-'tü-ä)-jint) n. the first and only complete version in Greek of the Old Testament, made by 6 scholars from 12 tribes (approximately 70). —Septuagintal a. [L. septuaginta, seventy].

septuple (sep-'tü-pl) a. sevenfold; —v.t. to multiply by seven [L. septem, seven].

sepulchre (sep-'ul-ker) n. tomb; grave; burial vault; —v.t. to place in a sepulchre. —sepulchral a. pert. to burial, the grave, or monuments erected to dead; funereal; mournful. —sepulture n. act of burying the dead [L. sepulcrum].

sequacious (se-'kwā-shus) a. following; attendant; easily led. —sequaciousness, sequacity n. [L. sequi, to follow].

sequal (sē-'kwel) n. that which follows; consequence; issue; end; continuation, complete in itself, of a novel or narrative previously published [L. sequi, to follow].

sequence (sē-'kwens) n. connected series; succession; run of three or more cards of same suit in numerical order; part of scenario of film; (Mus.) repetition of musical figure, either melodic or harmonic, on different degrees of scale. —sequent a. following; succeeding; —n. sequence. —sequential a. in succession. —sequentially adv. [L. sequi, to follow].

sequester (se-'kwes-ter) v.t. to put aside; to separate; to seclude; to cause to retire into obscurity; to withdraw from society; (Law) to put into the hands of a trustee; to sequester;—v.i. to renounce, on the part of a widow, all interest in her husband's property;—n. a mediator.—sequestered a. withdrawn from public view; secluded.—sequester-able a. liable to sequestration.—sequester-ate v.i. (Law) to sequester.—sequestration n. reparation; retirement; the act of taking thing from parties contending for it, and entrusting it to a neutral party [L. sequestrare, to put in safe keeping].

sequin (sê-kwin) n. ornamental metal disc on dresses, etc.; formerly Venetian gold coin [It. zecchino, fr. zecca, mint].

Sequoia (sê-kwoi-â) n. genus of gigantic coniferous evergreen trees native to California [fr. Sequoia, a Cherokee Indian chief].

seraglio (se-râlyô) n. harem or women's quarters in royal household. orig. palace of former Turkish sultans at Istanbul [It. serraglio, an enclosure, fr. L. sera, a bolt].

serai (se-râ-i) n. place for accommodation of travellers in India and Tartary; caravansary or khan.—serail' n. a seraglio; a harem [Pers. — a palace].

serang (se-rang') n. boatswain of a Lascar crew [Pers. sarhang, commander].

seraph (ser-af) n. one of an order of angels ranking highest in Jewish and Christian angelology.—ser'aphs, ser'aphim n.pl.—seraph'ic, seraph'ical a.—seraph'ically adv. [Heb.].

Serb, Serbian (serb, serbi-an) a. pert. to Serbia;—n. native or inhabitant of Serbia, the chief constituent state of Jugo-Slavia.—Serb-Croat'ian n. one of the Slavonic group of languages spoken in Jugo-Slavia.

sero (ser) a. dry; withered [fr. sear].

seré (sêr) n. Same as sear, part of a gun-lock.

serenade (ser-e-nâd') n. musical composition intended orig. for open-air performance; music of quiet, simple, melodious character sung or played at night below person's window, esp. by lover;—v.i. to entertain with serenade.—serena'der n.—serena'ta n. instrumental work, between suite and symphony, orig. intended for performance in open air [It. serenata, fr. sereno, the open air].

serendipity (ser-en-dip-i-ti) n. knack of stumbling upon interesting discoveries in a casual manner [word coined by Horace Walpole to burlesque hero of fairy-tale, 'The Three Princesses of Serendip'].

serene (se-rên') a. clear and calm; unclouded; fair; bright; untroubled; quiet; placid; composed; sedate;—n. clearness; calmness.—serene'ly adv.—serene'ness, seren'itude, seren'ity n. condition or quality of being serene [L. serenus, clear].

serf (serf) n. under feudalism, labourer who was attached to an estate and could be transferred with it to a new owner; a bondman; vassal; drudge.—serf'age, serf'dom, serf'hood n. [L. servus, a slave].

serge (serj) n. hard-wearing worsted fabric [L. sericus, silk].

sergeant, serjeant (sar-jent) n. non-commissioned officer in army, ranking above corporal; police officer ranking between inspector and constable; in law, the name (often Serjeant) given, until 1875, to certain English barristers. Also Serjeant-at-law; title of certain officers of royal household; in Elizabethan times, bailiff.—ser'geanty, ser'geantship n.—Ser'geant-at-arms n. officer attendant on Speaker of House of Commons, charged with preservation of order.—ser'geant-major n. highest non-commissioned officer [Fr. sergent, fr. L. serviens, serving].

serial (sê-ri-âl) a. consisting of a series; appearing in successive parts or instalments;—n. a periodical publication; a tale or other writing published in successive numbers of a periodical.—se'rially v.i. to publish as a serial.—se'rially, se'rially adv. in a regular series or order.—se'rially adv. point by point; one after another; in regular order [fr. series].

series (sê-rîz, sê-ri-ôz) n. sing. and pl. succession of related objects or matters; sequence; order; books, bound and printed in same style, usually on kindred subjects; (Elect.) end-to-end arrangement of batteries or circuits which are traversed by the same current [L.].

serif (serif) n. (Printing) a fine line at the end of the stems and arms of unconnected Roman type letters, as M, K, l, y, etc. Also ser'iph, ser'iph (etym. unknown).

serious (sê-ri-us) a. grave in manner or disposition; earnest; important; attended with danger; in earnest.—se'riously adv. in a serious manner; solemnly; gravely; dangerously.—se'riousness n. [L. serius].

seriph. See serif.

serieant. See serjeant.

sermon (ser-mun) n. discourse of religious instruction or exhortation founded on some text or passage of scripture, spoken or read from a pulpit; serious and admonitory address.—v.i. to tutor; to lecture; to harangue.—sermon'ic, -al a. of the nature of a sermon.—ser'monise v.i. to preach earnestly; to compose a sermon; to dignatise.—sermoni'ser n. [L. sermo, a discourse].

serosity See serous.

serous (sê-rus) a. pert. to, containing, or producing serum; watery; thin.—seros'ity n. state of being serous; serous fluid; serum [L. serum].

serpent (ser-pent) n. snake; reptile without feet; treacherous or malicious person; kind of firework; constellation in northern hemisphere; (Mus.) bass wooden wind instrument bent in a serpentine form;—v.i. to wind like a serpent; to meander;—v.t. to curl or wind round; to encircle;—a. deceitful; treacherous.—ser'pentry n. a drug reputed to cure bite of rattlesnake or of mad dog.—ser'pentine a. relating to, or like, serpent; winding; eural; meandering; crafty; treacherous;—n. magnezian mineral of obscure green colour, with spotted appearance resembling serpent's skin; kind of firework;—v.t. to wind in and out like a serpent.—ser'pentina'ly adv. [L. serpere, to creep].

seriate, serrated (ser-iât, -ed) a. notched or cut like saw.—seria'tion n. formation in shape of saw.—ser'ature n. series of notches, like that of saw.—ser'iform a. toothed like a saw.—ser'ous a. like teeth of a saw; irregular [L. serra, a saw].

serried (ser'id) a. in close order; pressed shoulder to shoulder [Fr. servir, to look].

serum (sê-rum) n. watery secretion; whey; thin straw-coloured fluid, residue of plasma or liquid part of the blood; such fluid, used for inoculation or vaccination [L. = whey].

servant (ser-vant) n. personal or domestic attendant; one who serves or obeys orders; menial; helper; dependant; term of respect or civility employed in official correspondence.—civil servant, member of the civil service; government employee [L. servire, to serve].

serve (serv) v.t. to work for; to be a servant to; to minister to; to wait on; to attend; to help; to distribute, as rations, stores, etc.; to promote; to advance; to forward; to satisfy; to deliver formally;—v.t. to work under another; to carry out duties; to be a member of a military, naval, etc. unit; to be useful, or suitable or enough; in tennis, to resume play by striking the ball diagonally across court;—n. in tennis, act of serving a ball.—serv'able a. capable of being served.—serv'er n. one who serves; a saviour or small tray [L. servire, to serve].

service (serv-is) n. state of being a servant; work done for and benefit conferred on another; act of kindness; department of State employ; employment of persons engaged in this; military, naval, or air-force duty; advantage; use; form of divine worship; regular supply, as water, bus, rail, etc.; (Law) serving of a process or summons; turn for serving ball at tennis, fives, etc.; a set of dishes, etc.;—v.i. to perform service for, e.g., motor cars, etc.; also ser'viceable a. useful; helpful; convenient; in fair working order.—serviceability, ser'viceableness n. usefulness.—ser'viceably adv.—service dress, ordinary uniform.—active service, military, naval, or air-force service against an enemy.—dinner-table, tea-ser'vice, complete set of the appropriate dishes.—senior service, Royal Navy.—the Services, Army, Navy, and Royal Air Force.—to take service, to engage as servant [L. servire, to serve].

service (ser'vis) n. a small fruit-tree resembling the mountain ash [corrupt. of L. sorbus].

servient (ser'vi-gnt) a. serving; subordinate [L. servire to serve].

serviette (ser'vi-et') n. a table-napkin [Fr.].
servile (ser'vil) a. pert. to or befitting a servant or slave; mean; fawning; dependent; menial.—ser'vilely adv.—servility n. state of being servile; slavery; bondage; slavishness [L. servilis, slavish].

servitor (ser'vitor) n. male attendant; follower or adherent.—ser'vitude n. state of subjection to a master; slavery; bondage [L. servire, to serve].

sesame (ses'a-me) n. annual herbaceous plant cultivated in India and Asia Minor for seeds from which oil is extracted.—open sesame, charm, mentioned in Arabian Nights, by which door of robbers' dungeon flew open; hence, specific for gaining entrance to a place; key to solving difficulty [Gk.].

sesqui- (ses'kwī) prefix denoting a proportion of 3:2.—sesquialteral, sesquialterate, sesquialterous a. one and a half more.—sesquicentennial a. pert. to a century and a half;—n. the 150th anniversary.—sesquipedalian a. measuring a foot and a half long; applied humorously to any long cumbersome technical word or to one given to using unnecessarily long words; very tall or long.—sesquipedalianism n. [L. sesqui, one half more].

sessile (ses'il) a. attached without any sensible support; fixed and stationary [L. sessilis, low, fr. sedere, sessum, to sit].

session (sesh'un) n. actual sitting of a court, council, etc. for transaction of business; term during which a court, council, and the like, meet for business; a period of time at school or college when a definite course of instruction is given; period between meeting and prorogation of parliament; in Scotland, lowest Presbyterian church court comprising minister and elders; kirk-session; meeting.—ses'sional a. pert. to session(s).—Court of Session, Supreme Civil Court of Scotland [L. sessio, fr. sedere, to sit].

sester, sestette (ses'tet) n. (Mus.) composition for six instruments or voices; last six lines of a sonnet [L. sextus, sixth].

set (set) v.i. to cause to sit; to seat; to place; to plant; to make ready; to put up; to adjust; to arrange (of hair) while wet; to fix, as precious stone in metal; to convert into curd; (of razor, etc.) to give fine edge; to extend (sail); to reduce from dislocated or fractured state, as limb; to adapt, as words to music; to compose type-matter; to grant to a tenant; to let; to place a brooding fowl on nest of eggs; to crouch or point, as dog, to game; to clench (teeth); to stake; to suit (of dress);—v.t. to pass below horizon; to go down; to strike root; to become fixed or rigid; to congeal or solidify; to put forth an effort; to tend; to begin.—pp. set, set; pt. set; pl. set; pp. set.—to set at naught, to defy; to reckon as of no account.—to set back, to cause to deteriorate; to impede.—to set on foot, to start (some project, business, plan, etc.).—to set out, to start on a journey; to begin; to mark out.—to set sail, to begin a voyage.—to set to, to set (set) n. a number of things or persons associated as being similar or complementary or used together, etc.; the manner in which a thing is set, hangs, or fits, as a dress; permanent change of shape or figure in consequence of pressure or cooling; an attitude or posture; young plant, cutting, or slip for planting out; direction, tendency, drift; figure of square dance; group or clique; setting of sun; organised settings and equipment to form the ensemble of a scene for stage or film representation; (Radio) complete apparatus for reception (or transmission) of wireless signals and broadcasts; (Tennis) series of games forming unit for match-scoring purposes; (Print.) width of type character; a wooden or granite block or sett;—a. fixed; firm; prescribed; regular; established; arranged; appointed; formal, obstinate; determined; fully grown.—set'back n. check to progress; overflow.—set'square n. flat triangular drawing instrument for making or testing angles of 30°, 60°, 90°, or of 45°, 90° [O.Fr. setle, sett].

apply oneself vigorously; to begin to fight [O.E. setlan].

seta (sē'tā) n. bristle or bristle-like structure.—setaceous, setose, set'ous a. bristly [L. = a bristle].

sett (set) n. tennis-set; small wood or stone paving block, rectangular in shape; cutting tool or chisel, used by blacksmiths; in weaving, the number of ends or threads per inch [fr. set].

settee (se-tē') n. couch or sofa [Fr. settle].

setter (set'ter) n. hunting-dog of spaniel family trained to crouch or set when game is perceived [fr. set].

setting (set'ing) n. fixing, adjusting, or putting in place; direction of stream; descending below horizon, as of sun; bezel which holds a precious stone, etc. in position; fixing a drawing in crayon, pastels, or pencil by spraying with a solution of zinc in alcohol; mounting of scene in play or film; background.—setting lotion, fixative to assist hair to set well [fr. set].

settle (set'tl) v.t. to put in place, order, arrangement, etc.; to fix; to establish; to make secure or quiet; to decide upon; to bring (dispute) to an end; to reconcile; to calm; to pay; to liquidate; to secure by legal deed, as a pension, annuity, etc.; to colonise;—v.i. to become fixed or stationary; to come to rest; to (cause to) sink to bottom; to subside; to take up permanent residence in; to dwell; to become calm; to become clear (of liquid).—sett'led a. fixed; permanent; deep-rooted; decided; quiet; methodical; adjusted by agreement.—sett'lement n. act of settling; state of being settled; ordination or installation, as a pastor; colonisation; a colony; (Law) transfer of real or personal property to trustees to hold for benefit of persons in succession; sum secured to a person, esp. jointure made to woman at her marriage.—sett'ler n. one who makes his home in a new country; colonist.—sett'ling n. the act of making a settlement; act of subsiding; adjusting of matters in dispute;—pl. settling; sedg. sett; less [O.E. setl, a seat].

settle (set'tl) n. long high-backed bench; settee [O.E. setl, a seat].

seven (sev'n) a. one more than six;—n. number greater by one than six.—sev'en-a-side n. abbreviated form of rugby-football, seven men making up a side or team.—sev'en-fold a. repeated seven times; increased to seven times the size;—adv. seven times as much or as often.—sev'en-night, se'n'night n. period of seven nights and days; week [O.E. seofon].

seventeen (sev'tu-tēn) a. one more than sixteen;—n. sum of ten and seven.—sev'earteenth a. and n. the seventh after the tenth [O.E. seofonfene].

seventh (sev'enth) a. constituting one of seven equal parts;—n. one of seven equal parts.

seventh-day Adventists, Christian sect believing in second coming of Christ in person and observing seventh day as Sabbath. — seventh heaven, supreme ecstasy or beatitude. — seventhly adv. [fr. seventh].

seventy (sevén) n. seven times ten; — n. sum of seven times ten. — seventieth a. constituting one of seventy equal parts; — n. one of seventy equal parts [O.E. seofontig].

sever (sever) v.t. to part or divide by violence; to sunder; to cut or break off. — v.i. to divide; to make a separation. — severable a. — severance n. separation, partition [Fr. fr. L. separare].

several (sever-əl) a. more than two; some; separate; distinct, various; different. — pron. several persons or things. — severally adv. apart from others [O.E. fr. L. separare].

severe (se-vēr) a. serious; rigidly methodical; painful; not flowery, as style; very searching. — severely adv. — severeness, sever'ity n. sternness; harshness, rigour, austerity; intensity [L. severus].

Sèvres (sevr) n. and a. name of a fine porcelain ware made at Sèvres, France.

sew (sē) v.t. to fasten together with needle and thread; to join with stitches; — v.i. to practise sewing. — sewer n. one who sews. — sewing n. and a. — sewing-machine n. automatic machine adapted for all kinds of sewing operations [O.E. seouman].

sewage (sē-āj) n. drainage; organic refuse and excrement carried off by a regular system of underground pipes. — sewage-farm n. establishment where sewage is artificially treated to provide innocuous sludge or manure [fr. sewer].

sewer (sē-er, sē-er) n. underground drain or conduit to remove waste water and organic refuse. — sewerage n. underground system of pipes and conduits to carry off surface water and organic refuse [O.E. esewer].

sex (seks) n. state of being male or female; sum-total of characteristics which distinguish male and female organisms; function by which most animal and plant species are perpetuated as a result of fusion of two nuclei from separate individuals, males or females collectively. — sex appeal, what makes person sexually desirable or attractive. — sexual a. pert. to sex or sexes; pert. to genital organs. — sexual intercourse, coition. — sexuality n. state or quality of being sexual. — sex'ually adv. [L. sexus].

sexagenary (sek-sa-jē-nā-ri) a. pert. to the number sixty; proceeding by sixties. — sexagenarian n. person of age of sixty [L. sexaginta, sixty].

Sexagesima (sek-sa-jes-i-ma) n. second Sunday before Lent, sixty days before Easter. — sexagesimal a. pert. to number sixty [L. sexagesimus, sixtieth].

sexcentenary (sek-sen-tē-nā-ri, or sek-sen-tō-nā-ri) n. and a. (of) the 600th anniversary; (of) the space of 600 years.

sexennial (seks-en-yē-ni-əl) a. continuing for six years, happening once every six years. Also sexennial. — sexennially, sexennally adv. [L. sex, six; annus, a year].

sexisyllabic (sek-si-sil-lab-ik) a. having six syllables. — sexisyllable n. [L. sex, six].

sextain (seks-tān) n. a stanza of six lines.

sextant (seks-tānt) n. sixth part of circle; reflecting instrument consisting of graduated brass sector the sixth part of a circle, used in surveying and navigation for measuring altitudes of celestial bodies and their angular distances [L. sextus, sixth].

sextennial. See sexennial.

sextet, sextette (seks-tet) n. musical composition for six voices or instruments; company of six singers or instrumentalists [L. sex, six].

sexton (seks-tun) n. church lay-officer acting as caretaker and may also be grave-digger [corrupt, of sacristan].

sextuple (seks-tū-pl) a. sixfold; six times as many; — v.t. to multiply by six [L. sex, six; plicare, to fold].

sforzando (sfor-tēn-dō) a. (Mus.) forced or pressed; strongly accented. Usually abbrev to sf., sfz., or denoted by symbols f, >. [It.].

shabby (shab-ē) a. torn or worn to rags; poorly dressed; faded; worn; mean, dishonourable. — shabbily adv. — shabbiness n. [O.E. sceabb, scab].

shack (shak) n. roughly built wooden hut; shanty [etym. doubtful].

shack (shak) v.t. to fall, as grain at harvest; to feed on stubble or waste grain; to roam or wander about, as tramp; — v.i. to chase after or retrieve (ball); — n. grain, etc. fallen on ground [fr. shake].

shackle (shak-ē) n. metal loop or staple; U-shaped steel link with a pin closing the free ends, used for joining lengths of chain-cables; (Naut.) a length of chain-cable, equal to 12 fathoms; — pl. fetters; manacles; anything which hampers; restraints; — v.t. to fetter; to trammel or hamper [O.E. sceacal, a bond].

shad (shad) n. name of several species of herring family [O.E. scadd].

shaddock (shad-ōk) n. large fruit of orange family, native of Malay Peninsula; grapefruit [fr. Capt. Shaddock, who first introduced it into W. Indies].

shade (shād) n. partial darkness, due to interception of light; place sheltered from light, heat, etc.; screen; darker part of anything; depth of colour; tint; hue; a very minute difference; shadow; ghost; spirit; — pl. invisible world or region of the dead; Hades; total darkness; — v.t. to shelter or screen, from light or a source of heat; to darken; to dim; to represent shades in a drawing; to pass almost imperceptibly from one form or colour to another. — shaded a. — shadily adv. in shady manner. — shadiness n. quality of being shady. — shading n. interception of light; tinting or lining a picture or drawing to show parts in relief. — shady a. providing shade; in shade, disreputable, not respectable; doubtful; suspicious [O.E. scadu].

shadow (shad-ō) n. patch of shade; dark figure projected by anything which intercepts rays of light, darker or less illuminated part of picture; gloom; inseparable companion; ghost, phantom, gloom; slight trace; — v.t. to cast a shadow over; to follow and watch closely; to outline. — shadow-boxing n. boxing practice without opponent. — shadow cabinet, group of leading members of political party out of office, regarded as probable members of Cabinet, if, and when, party comes into power. — shadower n. one who dogs the footsteps of another. — shadow-graph n. representation, usually made by hands and fingers, of animals or objects produced as shadow upon sheet or wall; X-ray photograph, radiograph. — shadowiness n. state of being shadowy or indistinct. — shadowing n. gradation of light and colour, shading. — shadowy a. full of shadow; serving to shade; faintly representative; unsubstantial; etc.; unreal; fanciful [O.E. scadu].*

shaft (shaft) n. straight rod, stem, or handle; shank; stem of arrow; arrow; anything long and slender, as a tall chimney, the well of an elevator, vertical passage leading down to mine or excavation, etc.; part of column between base and capital; revolving rod for transmitting power; stem of feather; pole of carriage. — shafting n. system of long rods and pulleys used to transmit power to machinery [O.E. scraft].

shag (shag) n. coarse, matted wool or hair; long and coarse nap on some types of woollen fabrics; strong mixture of tobacco leaves cut and shredded for smoking; — a. rough; shaggy. — shagreened, shagreened n. — shaggy a. covered with rough hair or wool; rugged; tousy; unkempt [O.E. sceage, a head of hair].

shagreen (shā-grün') n. untanned leather made from belly skins of sharks, rays, etc.; imitation of this leather used, after being dyed green, in manufacture of luxury articles [var. of chagrin].

Shah (shā) n. abbrev. of Shah-in-Shah (King of Kings), the title given to the monarchs of Iran, Persia [Pers.].

shake (shāk) v.i. to cause to move with quick vibrations; to weaken stability of; to impair resolution of; to trill, as note in music; to agitate; to convulse; —v.i. to tremble; to shiver; to totter. —pa.t. shook. —pa.p. shak'en. —n. shaking; vibration; jolt; severe shock to system as result of illness; friendly grasping of hands by two individuals; (Mus.) trill; (Collog.) moment. —shake'down n. any temporary substitute for a bed. —shak'en a. weakened; agitated; cracked. —shak'ly adv. —shak'iness n. —shak'y a. easily moved; unsteady; weak; tottering; unreliable. —to shake off, to get rid of [O.E. sceacan].

shako (shak'ō) n. military peaked headdress, shaped like truncated cone and usually plumed in front [Hung. csako].

shale (shāl) n. shell or husk; pod; (Geol.) clay or mud become hardened and which splits into thin plates, parallel to stratification. —shale-oil n. grade of naphtha, obtained by carbonisation of oil-shales. —sha'ly a. [O.E. scealu, scale].

shall (shal) v.i. and aux. used to make compound tenses or moods to express futurity, obligation, command, condition or intention [O.E. sceal].

shallop (shal'op) n. a light open boat or vessel; a small fore-and-aft rigged fishing-vessel [Fr. chaloupe].

shalot (sha-lot') n. bulbous-rooted plant like onion. Also (shalot' [Fr. échalote].

shallow (shal'ō) a. having little depth of water; having little knowledge; superficial; not sincere; slight; trivial; —n. place where water is of little depth; shoal, flat, or sand-bank. —shall'owly adv. —shall'owness n. [etym. doubtful].

shalt (shalt) 2nd pers. sing. of shall.

sham (sham) n. any trick, fraud, or device which deludes; imposture; pretence; counterfeit; imitation; —a. counterfeit; false; pretended; —v.t. to counterfeit; to feign; to pretend; —v.i. to make false pretences. —pr.p. sham'ing. —pa.t. and pa.p. shammed [etym. uncertain].

Shaman (sham'an) n. a priest or medicine-man who practises Shamanism. —Sham'anism n. religious cult of native races of northern C. Asia [Hind. = idolater].

shamble (sham-bl) v.i. to walk unsteadily with shuffling gait [etym. uncertain].

shambles (sham-blz) n.pl. slaughter-house, place where animals are killed and their flesh prepared for food; hence a scene of carnage [O.E. scamel, a bench].

shame (shām) n. emotion caused by consciousness of something wrong or dishonouring in one's conduct or state; cause of disgrace; dishonour; ignominy; (Biblical) modesty; —v.t. to cause to feel shame; to disgrace; to degrade; to force by shame (into). —shame'faced, shame'fast a. bashful; modest; shy; sheepish. —shame'facedly adv. —shame'facedness, shame'fastness n. excessive shyness or bashfulness. —shame'ful a. disgraceful. —shame'fully adv. —shame'fulness n. —shame'less a. destitute of shame; brazen-faced; immodest. —shame'lessly adv. —shame'lessness n. [O.E. scamu].

shammy (sham'i) n. leather prepared orig. from skin of chamois. Also sham'le, sham'oy, buck or doe leather; wash-leather [Fr. chamois].

shampoo (sham-pōō') v.t. to wash (scalp) with something forming lather in rubbing; to massage parts of body after hot bath; —n. act of shampooing; state of being shampooed. —shampoo'er n. [Hind. champna, to knead].

shamrock (sham-rok) n. small trefoil plant; national emblem of Ireland [Ir. seamrog, trefoil].

Shan (shan) n. and a. one of several tribes of Mogul origin inhabiting the frontiers of Burma, Siam and S. China.

shandygaff (shan'di-gaf) n. mixture of beer and ginger-beer [etym. doubtful].

shanghai (shang-hi') n. a long-legged fowl; —v.t. to drug or render unconscious by violence a man so that he may be shipped as member of a crew; to orlop. —pa.t. and pa.p. shanghaied' [Shanghai, China].

Shangri-la (shang'ri-lā') n. escape, a peaceful, untroubled place to which one may escape [From the name of the hidden retreat in James Hilton's Lost Horizon].

shank (shangk) n. lower part of leg, from knee to ankle; shin-bone; stem of anchor, pipe, etc.; shaft of a column; long connecting part of an appliance. —Shank's mare, one's own legs [O.E. scanca, leg].

shantung (shan-tung') n. silk cloth with rough, knotted surface made from the wild silkworm [Chinese province].

shanty (shant'i) n. mean dwelling; temporary wooden building [Fr. chantier, a workshop].

shanty (shant'i) n. sailor's song, sung while heaving at capstan or windlass. Also chant'y, chant'ie [Fr. chanter, to sing].

shape (shāp) v.t. to mould or make into a particular form; to give shape to; to figure; to devise; to cut out, as a dress; —v.i. to assume a form or definite pattern; —n. form; figure; appearance; outline; pattern; jolly etc. turned out of mould. —shap'able, shap'able a. capable of being shaped; shapely. —shape'less a. without regular shape or form; deformed; ugly. —shape'lessness n. —shape'liness n. beauty of shape or outline. —shape'ly a. well-proportioned; symmetrical [O.E. sciepan].

shard (shārd) n. broken fragment, esp. of earthenware; hard wing-case of beetle; cowdung [O.E. sceard, a fragment].

share (shār) n. pointed, wedge-shaped, cutting blade of plough [O.E. scear].

share (shār) n. part allotted; portion; division; lot; indivisible unit of ownership in public company entitling one to share in profits; quota; —v.t. to give or allot a share; to enjoy with others; to divide; to distribute; to allot; to apportion; —v.i. to take a share; to partake; to participate. —share'cap'ital n. money obtained from sale of shares in company in order to finance company's undertakings. —share'holder n. one who by possessing share(s) in company, etc. is entitled to share in profits. —share'r n. [O.E. scearu, a cutting or division].

shark (shārk) n. general name applied to certain voracious marine fishes with sharp teeth in a crescentic mouth placed on underside of the head; swindler; rapacious fellow; sharper; cheat. —shark'skin n. stiff, smooth-finished rayon fabric [etym. unknown].

sharp (shārp) a. having keen, cutting edge or fine point; having ready perception; quick; shrewd; acid; acrid; witty; pungent; sarcastic; harsh; painful; intense; dealing cleverly but unfairly; artful; strongly marked, esp. in outline; shrill; (Mus.) raised a semi-tone in pitch; —n. acute sound, esp. note raised semi-tone above its proper pitch; (Mus.) sign raising note before which it is placed a semi-tone; —v.t. to play the sharper; to cheat in bargaining, etc.; —adv. punctually. —sharp'en v.t. to give a keen edge or fine point to; to make more eager or intelligent; to make more tart or acid; (Mus.) to raise a semi-tone. —sharp'ener n. one who, or that which, sharpens; instrument for putting fine point on lead-pencil, etc. —sharp'er n. swindler; cheat; rogue. —sharp-eyed a. very observant. —sharp'y adv. —sharp'ness n. —sharp'set a. ravenous; very hungry. —sharp'shoot'er n. skilled, long-range marksman. —sharp'shoot'ing n. — sharp-sight'ed a.—sharp-wit'ted a. having acute mind [O.E. scearp].

shatter (shat'gr) v.t. to break into many pieces; to smash; to crack; to disorder;—v.i. to fly in pieces [doublet of scatter].

shave (shāv) v.t. to pare away; to cut close, esp. hair of face or head with razor; to cut off thin slices; to miss narrowly; to graze;—v.t. to shave oneself;—pa.p. shaved or sha'ven.—n. act of shaving; thin slice or shaving; tool for shaving hoops, etc.; narrow escape; close miss.—sha'ver n. one who shaves; (Slang) a young lad.—sha'ving n. act of shaving; what is shaved off.—close or near shave, very narrow escape from danger [O.E. scēafan, to scrape].

Shavian (shā'vi-an) a. in style of George Bernard Shaw (1856-1950), playwright, characterised by the free use of paradox, epigram, satire and mordant wit.

shaw (shaw) n. small wood; thicket; grove; stem of a plant with its leaves, as potato, etc. [O.E. scēgal].

shawl (shawl) n. cloth used by women as loose covering for neck and shoulders;—v.t. to wrap in a shawl [Pers. shāl].

shawm, shalm (shawm) n. shepherd's pipe, ancient double-reed instrument, similar to oboe [Gk. kalamas, reed].

shay (shā) n. an obsolete one-horse carriage [var. of chaise].

she (shē) pron. this or that female; feminine pronoun of the third person; a female (used humorously as a noun); also, in compound words, as she-bear [O.E. seo].

sheaf (shēf) n. a bundle of stalks of wheat, rye, oats, or other grain; any similar bundle; a sheave;—pl. sheaves;—v.t. to make sheaves;—v.t. to collect and bind corn, etc. into sheaves [O.E. scēaf].

shear (shēr) v.t. to clip or cut through with shears or scissors; to clip wool (from sheep); to fleece; to cut down, as with a sickle; to reap;—v.t. to divide or part with a scissor-like action;—pa.t. sheared, shore.—pa.p. shorn (rarely sheared).—n. (Engineering) stress in a body in a state of tension due to a force acting parallel with its section; deviation; curve;—pl. a cutting instrument, consisting of two blades movable on a pin, large pair of scissors; a scissor-shaped erection of beams used as a crane.—shear-bill n. scissor-bill or black-skimmer.—shear'er n.—shear'ing n. operation of clipping or cutting with shears; wool, etc. cut off with shears; deformation in which parallel planes in a body remain parallel but are relatively displaced by sliding movement in a direction parallel to themselves.—shear'ing n. sheep only once sheared [O.E. sceran].

sheath (shēth) n. close-fitting cover, esp. for knife or sword; scabbard; thin protective covering.—sheathe v.t. to put into a sheath; to envelop; to encase.—sheath'ing n. that which sheathes; metal covering for under-water structures as a protection against sea-organisms.—sheath'knife n. knife with a fixed blade fitting into a sheath when not in use [O.E. scēath].

sheave (shév) n. grooved wheel in block, rail, mast, yard, etc. on which a rope works [doublet of shive].

sheave (shév) v.t. to bind into sheaves; to sheaf [fr. sheaf].

shed (shed) n. temporary roofed shelter used as store or workshop; outhouse [doublet of shade].

shed (shed) v.t. to cause to emanate, proceed, or flow out; to spill; to let fall, to cast off, as hair, feathers, shell; to spread; to radiate; to separate; to divide.—pr.p. shed'ding.—pa.t. and pa.p. shed.—n. division or parting, as of hair; a watershed [O.E. scēdan, to divide].

sheen (shēn) n. gloss; glitter; brightness; light reflected by a bright surface.—sheen'y a. [O.E. sciēne, beautiful].

sheep (shēp) n. sing. and pl. ruminant mammal, valued for its flesh and its soft fleecy wool; simple, bashful person;—pl. pastor's church congregation.—sheep'cot, sheep'cote n. enclosure affording shelter for sheep.—sheep'dip n. tank containing insecticide through which sheep are passed to free them from ticks; anti-parasitic solution or sheep-wash so used.—sheep-dog n. any breed of dog trained to tend and round up sheep.—sheep-farm n. sheep-run.—sheep-fold n. sheep-cote.—sheep-hook n. a shepherd's crook.—sheep'ish a. like a sheep; bashful; shy and embarrassed; awkwardly timid and diffident.—sheep'ishly adv.—sheep'ishness n.—sheep'pen n. sheep-cote.—sheep's eyes, fond, languishing glances; leer.—sheep's shank n. knot or hitch for temporarily shortening rope, halyard, etc.; something lank, slender, or weak.—sheep-shear'er n. one who clips wool from sheep.—sheep-shear'ing n.—sheep'skin n. skin of sheep; leather, parchment, or rug made from this.—black sheep, disreputable member of family; rogue [O.E. scēap].

sheer (shēr) a. pure; unmixed; absolute; down-right; perpendicular; of linen or silk, very fine;—adv. quite; completely [O.E. scir, pure, bright].

sheer (shēr) v.t. to deviate from the right course; (with off) to move away; to swerve; to turn aside;—n. longitudinal, upward curvature of ship's deck towards bow or stern.—sheer-hulk n. old vessel fitted with sheers.—sheers n. See shears [Dut. scheren].

sheet (shēt) n. any broad expanse; a broad piece of cloth spread on bed; broad piece of paper; newspaper; broad expanse of water, or the like; broad, thinly expanded portion of metal or other substance;—v.t. to cover, as with a sheet.—sheet'copper, -i'ron, -lead, -metal, etc. n. appropriate metal in broad, thin sheets.—sheet-glass n. glass blown first in cylindrical form, then made ribbon-shaped by being continuously drawn up an annealing tower and finally, when flat, cut into sheets.—sheet'ing n. process of forming into sheets; calico or linen cloths used for bed coverings;—sheet-light'ning n. sudden glow appearing on horizon due to reflection of forked lightning.—sheet-mus'ic n. music printed on unbound sheets of paper [O.E. scēde].

sheet (shēt) n. rope attached to lower lee corner of sail in order to extend it to wind; ship's sail;—pl. open space at bow or stern of undecked boat.—sheet-anchor n. large anchor carried in ship's waist for emergencies; chief support [O.E. scēatol].

Sheik, Shelkh (shāk, shēk) n. Arab chief; a title of respect to Moslem ecclesiasts [Ar.]. shekel (shēk'l) n. among ancient Hebrews, orig. weight, and later name of a gold or silver coin.—pl. (Colloq.) money; coins; cash [Heb. sheqel].

sheldrake (shel'drāk) n. (fem. shēl'drak) genus of wild duck [O.E. sheld, variegated; and drake].

shelf (shelf) n. board fixed horizontally on frame, or to wall, for holding things; sand-bank in sea, or ledge of rocks, rendering water shallow; reef; shoal.—pl. shelves (shelvs).—shelf'y a. [O.E. scēlf].

shell (shel) n. hard, rigid, outer, protective covering of many animals, particularly molluscs; outer covering of eggs of birds; protective covering of certain seeds; hollow steel container, filled with high explosive, for discharging from mortar or gun; outer part of structure left when interior is removed; inner coffin; frail racing boat or skiff; in motoring, radiator casing; group of electrons in atom all having same principal quantum number; intermediate form at some schools; musical instrument.—shell'back n. old sailor; barnacle.—shelled a. having shell; stripped of shell; damaged by shellfire.—shell'egg n. egg of domestic fowl.—shell'fish n. aquatic animal with external covering of shell, as oysters, lobster, crustacean; mollusc.—shell'jack'et n.*

an undress military jacket.—shell-proof a. capable of withstanding bombs or high-explosives.—shell-shock n. war-neurosis, disturbance of mind and nervous system due to war conditions [O.E. scell].

shellac, shell-lac (she-lak', shel-lak') n. refined, melted form of seed-lac, obtained from resinous deposit secreted by insects on certain Eastern trees, used as varnish.—v.t. to cover with shellac [shell (l) and lac].

shelter (shel-ter) n. place or structure giving protection; that which covers or defends; an air-raid shelter; a place of refuge; asylum;—v.t. to give protection to; to screen from wind or rain;—v.i. to take shelter.—shel'ter n. [etym. uncertain].

sheltie, shelty (shel-ti) n. a Shetland pony [Ice. Shjalt, Shetlander].

shelve (shelv) v.t. to furnish with shelves; to place on a shelf; to put aside, as unfit for use; to defer indefinitely consideration of some proposal;—v.t. to slope gradually; to incline.—shel'ing n. act of fitting up shelves; material for shelves.—shel'vy a. full of rocks or sandbanks; sloping; shallow [fr. shelf].

shemzzle (she-mozl') n. (Slang) rough-and-tumble; brawling; uproar.

shemanigan (she-nan-i-gan) n. (Slang) frolicking; practical joking.

shepherd (shep-erd) n. (fem. shep'herdess) one who tends sheep; pastor of church;—v.t. to tend sheep; to watch over and guide.—shep'herd's-crook n. long staff, with end curved to form large hook.—shep'herd's-pie, n. minced meat mixed with potatoes and onions baked in oven.—shep'herd's-purse, —bag, —pouch n. common British weed.—shepherd tartan, shepherd's tartan, kind of small black and white check pattern [O.E. scaphurde].

sheppy, sheppey (shep-i) n. a sheep-cote or -pen [fr. sheep].

Sheraton (sher-a-tun) n. style of furniture design distinguished for grace and beauty (Thomas Sheraton (1751-1806), the designer).
sherbet (sher-bet) n. cooling drink used in East, composed of fruit juice diluted with iced-water and sweetened; in Britain, usually made effervescent [Ar. sharbat, a drink].

sherd. See shard.

sherif, shereef (she-réf') n. title bestowed upon descendants of Mohammed through daughter Fatima; prince, ruler; chief magistrate of Mecca [Ar. shari, noble].

sheriff (sher-iff) n. orig. governor of a shire, a 'shire-reeve'; in England, chief officer of Crown in every county; in Scotland, law-officer of Crown; in U.S.A., a police official with many ministerial functions.—sher'iffalty, sher'iffdom, sher'iffship n. the office or jurisdiction of sheriff [O.E. sciregerefa, a shire-reeve].

Sherpa (sher-pa) n. one belonging to a N.E. Nepal tribe, whose male members are often employed as porters or guides on Himalayan mountaineering expeditions.

sherry (sher-i) n. Spanish wine of deep amber colour [fr. Jerez de la Frontera, also known as Xeres, near Cadiz].

Shetland (shet-land) (Geog.) group of islands off N. coast of Scotland.—Shet'lander n.—Shetland pony, 'shelty', small breed of pony.

show (shó). Same as show.

showbread, showbread (shó-bred) n. in ancient, Mosaic ritual, loaves of bread, formerly placed before the Lord on the golden table in the sanctuary and renewed every Sabbath [fr. show].

shibboleth (shib-bó-leth) n. word by which Gileadites distinguished Ephraimite, from his inability to sound sh in the word, and so discovered whether he was friend or foe (see Judges 12); hence, party cry or watchword [Heb.].

shield (shíld) n. broad piece of armour carried on arm; buckler; anything which protects or defends; escutcheon or field on which are placed bearings in coats of arms; tophy in shape of a shield;—v.t. to protect; to defend; to screen; to ward off; to fortend [O.E. scield]. shieling (shé-ling) n. Highland hut or small cottage, such as used by shepherds. Also sheal'ing, sheel'ing [O.N. skjöl, shelter].

shift (shift) v.t. to change position (of); to transfer from one place to another; to remove; to move; to change, as clothes;—v.t. to move; to change place, course; to change in opinion; to manage or contrive;—n. change; evasion; expedient; squad or relay of workmen; time of their working; woman's undergarment.—shift'er n. one employed to shift scenery, articles, etc.; trickster; adjustable spanner.—shift'iness n. trickiness of character or behaviour.—shift'ing a. changing place or position; displacing; fickle; unreliable.—shift'less a. lacking in resource or character; aimless; not to be depended upon.—shift'lessness n.—shift'y a. shuffling; not to be trusted; unreliable.—to shift one's ground, to veer round in argument.—to make shift, to manage or contrive somehow [O.E. scifian, to arrange].

shillelagh, shillelah (shi-lá-lá) n. oak or blackthorn sapling; cudgel. Also shilla'ah [Shillelagh, Co. Wicklow].

shilling (shíling) n. British silver coin of the value of twelve pence.—to cut off with a shilling, to disinherit without any dowry [O.E. scilling].

shilly-shally (shí-lí-shal-i) n. foolish trifling; indecision; v.t. to hesitate or trifle; to waver.—shilly-shall'er n. [redupl. of shall I].

shily Same as shyly.

shimmer (shím-er) v.t. to shine with faint, tremulous light; to gleam; to glitten;—n. faint, quivering light or gleam.—shim'mering n. [O.E. scimian].

shimmy (shím-i) n. chemise; dance characterised by exaggerated wriggling;—v.i. to wobble [fr. chemise].

shin (shín) n. fore-part of leg, between ankle and knee; shank;—v.t. to climb (up) with aid of one's arms and legs; to swarm (up).—shin-bone n. tibia, larger of two bones of leg [O.E. scinu].

shindig (shín-díg) n. (U.S. Slang) social evening; jollification [var. of shindy].

shindy (shín-di) n. excessive noise and tumult; uproar [Romany, chindi, quarrel].

shindy. Same as shinty.

shine (shín) v.t. to give out or reflect light; to radiate; to beam; to gleam; to glitten; to glitter; to perform in brilliant fashion.—q.t. and pa.p. shone.—v.t. to cause to shine; to polish, shoes, etc.—pa.t. and pa.p. shined.—n. brightness; gloss; (Slang) fuss; row; shindy.—shí'ner n.—shí'ning a. glistening; splendid.—shí'nness n.—shí'ny a. bright; glossy; unclouded [O.E. scinan].

shingle (shing-gl) n. rounded water-worn pebbles, occurring near high-water mark of sea-beaches or on banks of rivers.—shing'ly a. [fr. chink].

shingle (shing-gl) n. thin, wooden, rectangular slat, used as a roofing tile; style of hairdressing for women;—v.t. to cover with shingles or tiles, as a roof; to crop women's hair close at nape of neck [L. scindula].

shingles (shing-glz) n.pl. (Med.) Herpès Zoster, acute inflammation of nerve ganglia in spine, accompanied by severe pain and later a vesicular eruption, usually round the waist [L. circulum, a belt].

Shinto (shín-tó) n. native religion of Japan, manifested by payment of religious honour to Mikado, combined with ancestor-worship.—Shintóism n. principles of Shinto [Chín. shín, god; táo, the way].

shinty (shín-ti) n. ball-game played mainly in Gaelic-speaking parts of Scotland, intermediate between hockey and Irish hurley; stick used [etym. doubtful].

ship (ship) n. sailing-vessel with three masts, all square-rigged; any vessel other than those propelled by oars; vessel for carriage of passengers and goods by sea;—v.t. to put on board ship for transportation; to engage for service on board a ship; to place object in position, as oar; to receive on deck force of wave;—v.i. to embark.—pr.p. ship'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. shipped.—ship board n. deck or side of ship.—ship-break'er n. one who breaks up obsolete ships for scrap-metal, etc.—ship-brok'er n. agent for a shipping-company; one who transacts marine-insurance deals.—ship-builder n. one who constructs ships; naval architect.—ship-building n.—ship-hand'ler n. one who deals in equipment for a ship.—ship-shand'lery n.—ship'man n. sailor.—pl. ship'men.—ship'mas'ter n. captain or commander of ship.—ship'mate n. fellow sailor.—ship'ment n. process of shipping; that which is shipped; cargo.—ship'mon'ey n. formerly, tax leviable on port-towns to furnish navy in times of danger.—ship-own'er n.—ship'per n. one who forwards commodities by ship.—ship'ping n. collective body of ships in one place; mercantile vessels generally; tonnage.—ship'ping-agent n. one who arranges the shipment of goods or passengers.—ship'rigged a. rigged with square sails and spreading yards.—ship'shape a. in a seamanlike manner; hence, orderly, trim, tidy;—adv. properly.—ship's log, device for reckoning speed of vessel at sea; official day-to-day record of events on board ship.—ship'way n. sloping berth on which ships are built.—ship'wreck n. loss of ship by mischance; total destruction; ruin.—ship'wright n. carpenter actively engaged in building or repairing ships.—ship'yard n. place where ships are built or repaired.—to ship a sea, to have wave breaking over gunwale [O.E. scip].

Shir See shurr.

shire (shir) n. territorial division, usually identical with county, but sometimes comprising smaller district; county.—shire-town n. capital town of county; county town.—the Shires, the midland counties of England whose names all end in -shire [O.E. scir, district].

shirk (sherk) v.t. to evade; to try to avoid (duty, etc.).—n. one who seeks to avoid duty.—shirk'er n. a shirk [etym. uncertain].

shir, shir (sher) n. in ornamental needle-work, row of puckering or gathering;—v.t. to gather with parallel threads run through [etym. doubtful].

shirt (shert) n. undergarment worn on upper part of body by men and boys; jersey worn in field games; woman's blouse;—v.t. to clothe, as with shirt.—shirt'front n. starched front part of a shirt; dickey or detachable front.—boiled shirt, shirt with starched front for evening-wear.—to keep one's shirt on (Slang) to keep cool and unruffled [O.E. scyrte].

shist See schist.

shiver (shiv'er) v.t. to quiver or shake from cold or fear; to tremble; to shudder; to vibrate;—v.i. to cause to shake in wind (applied to sails);—n. shaking or shuddering caused by cold, fear, a vibration.—shiv'ery a. inclined to shiver; tremulous; timid to excess [etym. uncertain].

shiver (shiv'er) n. small piece or splinter into which thing breaks by application of sudden violence;—v.t. and v.i. to break into many small pieces or splinters; to shatter [M.E. scifre].

shoal (shôl) n. large number of fish swimming together; a great quantity;—v.t. to form into shoals; to crowd together [O.E. scolu, company, fr. L. schola, a school].

shoal (shôl) n. a sandbank or bar; shallow water;—a. shallow;—v.t. to become shallow.—shoal'er n.—consting-vessel.—shoal'y a. full of shoals or shallows [O.E. scæld, shallow].

shock (shok) n. violent impact or concussion when bodies collide; clash; percussion; conflict; emotional disturbance produced by anything unexpected, offensive, or displeasing; sudden depression of the system due to violent injury or strong mental emotion; paralytic stroke; effect of electric discharge through body;—v.t. to strike against suddenly; to strike with surprise, horror, or disgust.—shock-absorb'er n. anything to lighten a blow, shock, or ordeal.—shock'er n. highly sensational tale of no literary merit.—shock'ing a. appalling; terrifying; frightful; repulsive; offensive.—shock'ingly adv.—shock'ingly n.—shock'proof a. able to withstand shocks [Fr. choquer].

shock (shok) n. disordered mass of hair;—a. shaggy; bushy.—shock-head, -ed a. having a thick, bushy head of hair [O.E. scucca, a demon].

shock (shok) n. group of sheaves of grain;—v.t. to make into shocks [Dut. schoeke].

shod (shod) pa.t. and pa.p. of verb shoe.

shoddy (shod'di) n. inferior textile material;—a. made of shoddy; pert. to shoddy; inferior; of poor material; second rate [etym. unknown].

shoe See shoed.

shoe (shôo) n. covering for foot, but not enclosing ankle; metal rim or curved bar nailed to horse's hoof; various protective plates or under-coverings; plate of iron or slip of wood, nailed to bottom of runner of sledge; apparatus which bears on the live rail in an electric railway in order to collect current to actuate the motor;—v.t. to furnish with shoes; to put shoes on.—pr.p. shoe'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. shod.—shoe'black n. one who polishes shoes.—shoe'brush n. brush for polishing shoes.—shoe'horn n. curved piece of horn, metal, etc. used to help foot into shoe.—shoe'lace n. shoe-string for fastening shoe on foot.—shoe'less a.—shoe'maker n.—shoe'er n. one who makes or puts on shoes.—shoe-string n. a shoe-lace [O.E. soeh].

shog (shog) n. push;—v.t. and v.i. to shake; to swing.—shog's v.t. and v.i. to shake; to wobble [W. ysog, a jolt].

shogun (shô-goon) n. title of hereditary commander-in-chief of Japanese army from 17th cent. until 1868.—shô-gun'al a.—shô-gun'ate n. [Jap. shô, to hold; gun, army].

shone (shon) pa.t. and pa.p. of shine.

shoo (shôo) interj. begone! (used esp. in scaring away fowls and other animals);—v.t. to scare or drive away [imit.].

shook (shook) pa.t. of shake.

shoon (shoon) n.pl. an older pl. of shoe.

shoot (shôot) v.t. to discharge missile from gun, etc.; to kill or wound with such a missile; to fire; to hit; to cast (a net); to hurl; to propel quickly; to thrust out; to pass swiftly over (rapidly) or through (arch of bridge); to photograph episode or sequence of motion-picture;—v.i. to move swiftly and suddenly; to let off a gun, etc.; to go after game with gun; to put out; to sprout; to bud; to dart through (as severe pain); to advance; to kick towards goal-mouth.—pa.t. and pa.p. shot.—n. a shooting, expedition to shoot; young branch or stem, inclined plane down which timber, coal, rubbish, etc. slide; chute; a rapid or fall in stream.—shoot'er n. one who shoots; implement for shooting; ball at cricket which rolls along ground instead of rebounding.—shoot'ing n. act of discharging fire-arms, etc.; the act of killing game.—shoot'ing-box n. small lodge for accommodation of sportsmen.—shoot'ing-gallery n. long room for practice with miniature rifles.—shoot'ing-star n. incandescent meteor.—shoot'ing-stick n. printer's implement for driving home little wedges of wood or quills when locking up page in chase; walking-stick which can be converted into seat.—to shoot a line (Slang) to brag; to exaggerate [O.E. scotan].

shop (shop) n. building where goods are made, or bought and sold; workshop;—v.t. to visit shops to purchase articles;—v.i. (Slang) to arrest or imprison.—pr.p. shop'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. shopped.—shop-assis'tant n. one employed in retail trade.—shop-count'er n. table —shop'keeper n. one who keeps retail shop.—shop'keeping n.—shop'lift'er n. one who makes petty thefts from shop counters.—shop'mate n. fellow workman in shop or workshop.—shop'ping n. visiting shops with view to purchasing.—shop'ping-bag, -bas'ket n. receptacle for holding articles purchased.—shop'soiled, shop'worn a. soiled or tarnished by long exposure in shop.—shop'stew'ard n. trade-union representative of workers in factory, etc.—shop'walk'er n. one employed in large shop to superintend staff and to assist customers.—to talk shop, to talk exclusively about one's daily business or particular interests [Fr. échoppe, a booth].

shore (shōr) pa.t. of shear.

shore (shōr) n. land adjoining sea or large lake;—v.t. to put ashore [Dut. schor].

shore (shōr) n. strong beam set obliquely against wall of building or ship to prevent movement during structural alterations;—v.t. to support by post or buttress; to prop [etym. uncertain].

shorn (shorn) pa.p. of shear;—a. cut off; having the hair or wool cut off or sheared; deprived (of) [fr. shear].

short (short) a. having little length; not long in space; not extended in time; limited or lacking in quantity; hasty of temper; crumpling in the mouth; pronounced with less prolonged accent; brief; near; direct; concise; pithy; abrupt; destitute; crisp; dilute.—adv. suddenly; abruptly; without reaching the end;—n. short film to support feature film; short-circuit;—pl. short trousers reaching down to above knees.—short'age n. insufficient supply; deficiency.—short'bread, short'-cake n. rich, brittle form of sweet cake.—short'breathed a. having short breath or quick respiration.—short'circuit n. passage of electric current by a shorter route than that designed for it;—v.t. to cause short-circuit; to by-pass.—short'coming n. failing; fault; falling short; defect.—short'comm'ons n. reduced allowance of food; scanty rations.—short'cut n. quicker but unorthodox way of reaching a place or of accomplishing a task, etc.—short'en v.t. to make shorter; to render friable, as shortbread, with butter or lard; to abridge; to lessen; to diminish; to reduce; to dress (baby) in shorter clothes;—v.t. to contract; to lessen.—short'en'ing n. lard used when baking crisp pastry or shortbread.—short'hand n. system of rapid reporting by means of signs or symbols; stenography.—short'hand'ed a. not having the full complement or staff on duty.—short'hand'typ'ist n. one who types from shorthand notes.—short'head n. in racing, distance less than the length of a horse's head.—short'horn n. a breed of domestic cattle with short horns, valued for its rich milk yield and for beef.—short'ly adv. in a brief time; soon; in a few words; curtly.—short'ness n.—short shift, summary treatment.—short'sight'ed a. not able to see distinctly objects some distance away; lacking in foresight; heedless.—short'sight'edly adv.—short'sight' (edness) n.—short'skip n. in cricket, part of field, or fielder, a short distance obliquely behind wicket-keeper on off-side of batter.—short'tem'pered a. easily roused to anger.—short time, not working the usual full hours owing to bad trade or other causes.—short waves (Radio) electro-magnetic waves whose wavelength is, by international definition, between 10 and 50 metres.—short'wind'ed a. affected with shortness of breath; asthmatic; easily made out of breath.—in short, briefly.—little short' of, almost.—nothing short of, really [O.E. sceort].

shot (shot) pa.t. and pa.p. of shoot.

shot (shot) n. in weaving, a single thread of weft;—a. pert. to fabrics woven with warp and weft of contrasting tints or colours, so that shade changes according to angle of light [fr. shoot].

shot (shot) n. reckoning; one's share of expenses incurred; (Slang) dose, esp. of drug [O.E. scot].

shot (shot) n. act of shooting; skilled marksman; one of small pellets, contained in cartridge fired from sporting rifle; heavy, solid, round missile, formerly fired from cannon; range of such missiles; charge of blasting powder; stroke in billiards, tennis, etc.; young hog; cast of fishing-nets at sea; in cinematography, continuous strip of film showing without interruption one view or action-sequence; a try or attempt;—v.t. to load or weight with shot.—pr.p. shot'ting.—pa.t. and pa.p. shot'ted.—shot'sa'f'ridge n. cartridge containing small shot.—shot'f'ir'ing n. method of blasting in mines.—shot'gun n. smooth-bore gun for shooting small game.—big shot, important person.—a shot in the locker, something kept in reserve [O.E. sceot].

should (shood) v. and aux. used in Future-in-the-Past tenses of verbs with pronouns I or we; auxiliary used after words expressing opinion, intention, desire, probability, obligation, etc. (Cf. shall).

shoulder (shōld'g) n. ball and socket joint formed by humerus (bone of the upper arm) with scapula (shoulder-blade); upper joint of foreleg of animal; anything resembling human shoulder, as prominent part of hill;—v.t. to push forward with shoulders; to bear (burden, etc.); to accept (responsibility);—v.t. to push forward through crowd.—shoul'der-belt n. belt which passes across shoulder; baldric.—shoul'der-blade, -bone n. flat bone of shoulder; scapula.—to give one the cold shoulder, to ignore or treat coldly [O.E. sculdor].

shout (shout) n. loud, piercing cry; call for help;—v.t. and v.t. to utter loud and sudden cry [etym. uncertain].

shove (shuv) v.t. to push; to press against; to jostle;—v.t. to push forward; to push off from shore in a boat, using oar;—n. act of pushing; push [O.E. scufan].

shovel (shuv'l) n. spade with broad blade slightly hollowed; scoop;—v.t. to lift or move with a shovel;—v.t. to use shovel.—pr.p. shov'elling.—pa.t. and pa.p. shov'elled.—shov'el-board, shuff'le-board, shove-board n. game of shove-ha'penny; board on which game is played.—shov'el-hat n. clerical head-gear with broad brim turned up at sides and projecting over forehead.—shov'eller n. [O.E. scof].

show (shō) v.t. to present to view; to point out; to display; to exhibit; to disclose; to divulge; to explain; to manifest; to evince; to demonstrate; to prove; to conduct; to usher; to guide;—v.t. to appear; to be visible; to come into sight.—pa.p. shown or showed.—n. act of showing; that which is shown; spectacle; exhibition; sight; parade; display; semblance; likeness.—show'bill n. broad sheet containing advertisement.—show bread n. Same as shewbread.—show'case n. glass case for display of goods, museum exhibits, etc.—show'down n. laying down of cards, face upwards, at poker or other card games; open disclosure of truth, clarification.—show'er (shō'g) n. one who shows or exhibits.—show'ily adv. ostentatiously; pompously.—show'iness n.—show man n. proprietor of a show at a fair, etc.; one employed in such a show; specious, self-advertising person.—show man'ship n.—show'place n. place of local interest made especially attractive to draw tourists.—show-room n. room where goods are laid out for inspection.—show'y a. gaudy; attracting attention; loud; ostentatious; specious; plausible.—to show a leg, to get out of bed.—to show off, to make an ostentatious display.—to show up, to stand out prominently; to expose; to hold up to ridicule [O.E. sceawian, to look at].

shower (shou'g) n. a brief fall of rain or hail; anything coming down like rain; great number:—v.t. to wet with rain; to give abundantly;—v.i. to rain; to pour down.—show'er-bath n. bath equipped with fine-spraying apparatus.—show'erness n. state of being showery or unsettled.—show'er-proof a. impervious to rain.—show'ery a. raining intermittently [O.E. scur].

shrank (shrank) pa.t. of shrink.

shrapnel (shrap-nel) n. shell timed to explode over, and shower bullets and splinters on, personnel; shell-splinters (invented by Gen. H. Shrapnel).

shred (shred) n. long, narrow piece cut or torn off; strip; fragment; small portion; particle; bit; rag; tatter; scrap:—v.t. to cut or tear to shreds; to tear into strips.—pr.p. shred'd'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. shred'ded [O.E. scradde].

shrew (shróo) n. noisy, quarrelsome woman; scold; a termagant. Also shrew-mouse, most diminutive of existing mammals, resembling, but unrelated to, mouse.—shrew'ish a. having manners of a shrew.—shrew'lably adv.—shrew'ishness n. [O.E. screeva, shrew-mouse].

shrewd (shróód) a. intelligent; discerning; sagacious; knowing; artful; cunning; subtle.—shrewd'ly adv.—shrewd'ness n. [fr. shrew].

shriek (shrók) v.t. and v.i. to scream, from fright, anguish, or bad temper; to screech;—n. a loud, shrill cry [limit. origin].

shrieval (shré-vál) a. pert. to sheriff.—shrievalty n. office of sheriff; sheriffalty.—shrieve n. sheriff;—v.t. to confess or hear confession; to shrieve [fr. shrive].

shrift (shrift) n. confession made to a priest; absolution.—shrift'less a. summary treatment [O.E. scrifan, to prescribe (penance)].

strike (shrík) n. bird which preys on birds, frogs, and insects, and impales victims on thorns; butcher-bird [limit. of cry].

shrill (shríl) a. uttering an acute sound; piercing; high-pitched; importunate;—v.t. to sound in a shrill tone.—shrill'y adv. piercingly [limit. origin].

shrimp (shrímp) n. small edible crustacean allied to prawns; small, puny, wizened person; object of contempt; dwarf;—v.t. to catch shrimps with net.—shrimp'er n. [etym. uncertain].

shrine (shрін) n. case in which sacred relics are deposited; tomb of saint; place of worship, esp. by wayside; any sacred place [L. scrinium, coffer].

shrink (shríngk) v.t. to become wrinkled by contraction; to shrivel; to contract; to dwindle; to recoil; to draw back:—v.t. to cause to contract.—pa.t. shrank, shrunk.—pa.p. shrunk.—shrink'age n. act or amount of shrinking.—shrink'ena a. contracted; shrivelled; narrowed in size [O.E. scrincan].

shrive (shrív) v.t. to give absolution to; to confess (used reflexively);—v.t. to receive confessions [O.E. scrifan, to prescribe (penance)].

shrivel (shrív'el) v.t. and v.i. to cause to contract; to wither.—pr.p. shriv'elling.—pa.t. and pa.p. shriv'elled [etym. uncertain].

shroud (shróúd) n. that which clothes or covers; sheet for a corpse; winding-sheet;—pl. strongest of the wire-rope stays which support mast athwartships;—v.t. to enclose in winding-sheet; to cover with shroud; to screen; to wrap up; to conceal [O.E. scrud, a garment].

shrove (shróv) n. shrift; shriving.—pa.t. of the verb shrive.—Shrove'tide n. period immediately before Lent, ending on Shrove Tuesday [fr. shrive].

shrub (shrub) n. any hard-wooded plant of smaller and thicker growth than tree; bush; low, dwarf tree.—shrub'bery a. collection of shrubs; place where shrubs are planted.—shrub'by a. of nature of shrub; full of shrubs [O.E. scrybb].

shrug (shróg) v.t. to raise and narrow shoulders in disdain; etc.—v.t. to move (shoulders) thus; to contract.—pr.p. shrugging.—pa.t. and pa.p. shrugged.—n. drawing up of shoulders [etym. unknown].

shrunk, shrunk'en See shrink.

shuck (shuk) n. husk or pod; shell of nut; shock or stock;—v.t. to remove husk, pod, or shell from [Cf. chuck, to throw].

shudder (shud'gr) v.t. to tremble violently, esp. with horror or fear; to shiver; to quake;—n. trembling or shaking; shiver.—shudd'ring n. and a. trembling; shivering [M.E. Cf. Ger. schaudern].

shuffle (shuf'el) v.t. to shove one way and the other; to throw into disorder; to mix (cards); to scrape (feet) along ground;—v.t. to change position of cards in pack; to practise shifts; to prevaricate; to move in a slovenly manner; to scrape floor with foot in dancing;—n. act of throwing into confusion by change of places; artifice or pretext; rapid, scraping movement of foot in dancing.—shuff'le-board n. a shovel-board.—shuff'ler n. [etym. uncertain].

shun (shun) v.t. to keep clear of; to get out of the way of; to avoid.—pr.p. shun'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. shunned [O.E. scunian].

shunt (shunt) v.t. to move or turn off to one side; to move (train) from one line to another; to divert (electric current);—v.t. to go aside; to turn off.—n. act of shunting.—shunt'er n. railway employee who shunts rolling-stock.—shunt'ing n. [etym. uncertain].

shut (shut) v.t. to close to hinder ingress or egress; to fasten; to secure; to bar; to forbid entrance to;—v.t. to close itself; to become closed.—pr.p. shut'ting.—pa.t. and pa.p. shut.—a. closed; barred; made fast.—shut'down n. stoppage of work or activity.—shut'ter n. one who, or that which, shuts; movable protective screen for window; automatic device in camera which allows light from lens to act on film or plate for a predetermined period.—to shut down, to stop working; to close (business, etc.).—to shut up, to close; to fasten securely; (Colloq.) to stop talking [O.E. scytlan].

shuttle (shut'el) n. instrument used in weaving for shooting thread of woof between threads of warp; similar appliance in sewing-machine to form a lock stitch;—v.t. and v.i. to move backwards and forwards.—shut'tlecock n. cork with fan of feathers for use with battledore or in badminton; game itself.—shuttle service, transport service on a short route with only one vehicle operating between two points [O.E. scutel, a missile].

shy (shí) a. sensitively timid; reserved; coy; easily frightened; shrinking; modest; bashful; cautious;—v.t. to start suddenly aside.—pa.t. and pa.p. shied.—shy'ly, shí'ly adv.—shy'ness n.—shy'ster n. unscrupulous lawyer; a twister; welsher.—to fight shy of, to avoid [O.Pr. eschif].

shy (shí) v.t. to throw; to fling.—pa.t. and pa.p. shied.—n. throw; cast; trial [etym. uncertain].

Siamese (sí-am-éz') a. pert. to Siam, the people, or language;—n. native of Siam; the language.—Siamese twins, male twins born in Siam whose bodies were united by a fleshy band (1811-74); name now applied to any 'joined twins'.

sib, sibbe (síb) a. having kinship; related by blood; kin; akin, in affinity;—n. a blood relation [O.E. Cf. Ger. sippe].

Siberian (sí-bé-ri-an) a. pert. to Siberia, formerly known as Asiatic Russia.

sibilance (sí-bí-lans) n. hissing sound; quality of being sibilant. Also sibilancy.—sib'ilant a.—n. letter uttered with hissing of voice, as s, z, etc.—sib'ilate v.t. to pronounce with hissing sound [L. sibilare, to whistle].

Sibyl (sí-b'ul) n. a name applied to certain votaries of Apollo, endowed with visionary, prophetic power; prophetess; fortune-teller; witch.—sib'yile, sib'yline a. prophetic; oracular; obscure; mysterious; occult [Gk. Sibúlla].

sic (sík) adv. abbreviated form of sic in originali (Lat. = so it stands in the original) printed in brackets as guarantee that passage has been quoted correctly; so; thus [L.].

siocate (sik'at) v.t. to dry. —sioca'tion n. act or process of drying. —sioca'tive a. drying; causing or tending to dry; —n. a drier [L. siocus, dry].

Sicilian (si-sil'yan) a. pert. to island of Sicily; —n. native of Sicily.

sick (sik) a. affected with or attended by nausea; inclined to vomit; ill; ailing; disgusted; tired of; morbid; —v.t. to make sick; to sicken; —v.i. to become sick; to sicken. —sick'bay n. place set aside on main deck of ship or elsewhere for treating the sick. —sick'ben'efit n. allowance made to insured person while ill and off duty. —sick'en v.t. to make sick; to disgust; —v.i. to become sick; to be filled with abhorrence. —sick'ening a. causing sickness or disgust; nauseating. —sick'eningly adv. —sick'head'shoe n. migraine. —sick'leave n. leave of absence from duty on account of illness. —sick'liness n. state of being sickly. —sick'list n. list of sick persons. —sick'ly a. somewhat sick; ailing; infirm; weakly. —sick'ness n. state of being sick; illness; disordered state of stomach attended by retching [O.E. sec].

sickle (sik'l) n. reaping-hook with semi-circular blade and a short handle [L. secula, fr. secare, to cut].

side (sid) n. one of surfaces of object, esp. upright inner or outer surface; one of the edges of plane figure; margin; verge; border; any part viewed as opposite to another; part of body from hip to shoulder; slope, as of a hill; one of two parties, teams, or a ts of opponents; body of partisans; sect or faction; line of descent traced through one parent; bias given to a ball by striking it on the side; side-spin; region; priggish conceit; affectation; —a. being on the side; lateral; indirect; incidental; —v.t. (with) to hold or embrace the opinions of another; to give support to one of two or more contending parties. —side'arms n.pl. weapons carried on side of body. —side'board n. piece of furniture designed to hold dining utensils, etc. in dining-room. —side'car n. small box- or canoe-shaped body attached to motor-cycle; Irish jaunting-car. —side'glance n. glance or furtive look to one side. —side's'tue n. subsidiary to main argument or business. —side'light n. any source of light situated at side of room, door, etc.; lantern, showing red or green, on side of a vessel; incidental information or illustration of how other people live and conduct themselves. —side'line n. any form of profitable work which is ancillary to one's main business or profession. —side'ling a. and adv. sideways; aslant. —side'long a. lateral; oblique; not directly forward; —adv. obliquely; on the side. —side'r n. supporter; backer; partisan. —side'rail n. additional rail fixed to side of stair-wall; third rail to act as check on pronounced railway curve. —side'saddle, saddle for woman on horseback, not astride, but with both feet on one side of horse. —side'show n. minor entertainment or attraction; subordinate affair. —side'slip n. involuntary skid or slide sideways; —v.t. to skid. —side'sman n. officer, who assists churchwarden; church usher. —side'split'ting a. exceedingly ludicrous and laughter-provoking. —side'step n. step to one side; —v.t. to step to one side. —side'stroke n. style of swimming where body is turned on one side. —side'strack v.t. to shunt into siding; to postpone indefinitely; to shelve; —n. a railway siding. —side-view n. oblique view; a view on or from one side. —side'walk n. a raised foot-pavement. —side'ward, side'wards adv. towards the side. —side'ways, side'wise adv. towards or from the side; edgewise; laterally; obliquely; —a. lateral. —side'whisk'ers n.pl. whiskers confined to cheeks. —side'ing n. short line of rails on which trains or wagons are shunted from main line. —side v.t. to move sideways; to edge alongside; —v.i. to cause to move sideways. —side by side, close together; alongside. —no side, Rugby football term for call of time [O.E.].

sidereal (si-dê-rê-ál) a. relating to constellations and fixed stars; measured or determined by apparent motion of stars. —sidereal year, period during which earth makes revolution in its orbit with respect to a fixed star, 365 days 6 hrs. 9-10 mins. [L. sidus, stella, a star].

siderite (sid'êr-it) n. brown ironstone, a carbonate of iron found in shaly beds; also known as spathic ore, chalybite; meteorite consisting chiefly of nickel-iron; the lodestone [Gk. sideritis, the lodestone].

sidesman, siding, sidle See side.

siege (sêj) n. investiture of town or fortified place by hostile troops in order to induce it to surrender either by starvation or by attack at suitable juncture; continuous effort to gain (affection, influence, etc.); seat; position, rank; —v.t. to besiege. —state of siege, suspension of civil law and assumption of special powers by military authorities during period of emergency [Fr. siege, seat, siege].

sienna (sê-en'-a) n. natural yellow earth which provides pigment. —burnt sienna, pigment giving dull-brown tint. —raw sienna, pigment giving a reddish-brown tint [fr. Sienna, Italy].

sierra (sê-er'-a) n. chain of mountains with saw-like ridge [Sp. fr. L. serra, a saw].

siesta (sê-es'ta) n. rest or sleep in afternoon esp. in hot countries; afternoon nap [Sp. = the sixth (hour) i.e. noon].

sieve (siv) n. utensil with wire netting for separating fine part of any pulverized substance from the coarse; —v.t. to put through sieve; to sift [O.E. sife].

siffle (sif'l) n. whistling, hissing sound; —v.t. to whistle; to hiss. —siff'leur n. (fem. siff'leuse) one who has made an art of whistling [Fr. siffler].

sift (sift) v.t. to separate coarser portion from finer; to sieve; to bolt; to scrutinize; to examine closely [O.E. sif, a sieve].

sign (si) v.t. to make a deep, single respiration, as expression of exhaustion or sorrow; —v.t. to utter sighs over, —n. long, deep breath, expressive of sorrow, fatigue, regret, or relief [O.E. sičan].

sign (sit) n. one of the five senses; act of seeing, faculty of seeing; that which is seen; view; glimpse; anything novel or remarkable; show; exhibition; spectacle; inspection; (Colloq.) pitiful object; a piece of metal near breech of firearm to assist the eye in correct aiming; any guide for eye to assist direction; —v.t. to catch sight of; to see; to give proper elevation and direction to instrument by means of a sight. —v.t. to take aim by means of a sight. —sign'less a. blind; not appearing to sight; invisible. —sign'lessly adv. —sign'lessness n. blindness. —sign'liness n. comeliness. —sign'ly a. pleasing to the eye; graceful; handsome. —sign'read'er n. one who reads or interprets at sight, as music, etc. —sign'read'ing n. —sign'see'ing n. indiscriminate viewing of places or objects of interest. —sign'se'er n. —see'ond-sight n. gift of prophetic vision. —at sight, immediately; without study or previous examination [O.E. siht, fr. seon, to see].

signil (si'l'il) n. seal; signature; occult sign. —sig'illary a. [L. sigillum, a seal].

sigma (sik'ma) n. the Greek letter (Σ , σ , ς) corresponding to letter ς ; symbol indicating, in mathematics, etc., summation; 200; mille second or $\frac{1}{1000}$ second. —sig'mate, sig'moid a. curved like letter S. [Gk.].

sign (stn) n. movement, mark, or indication to convey some meaning; token; symbol; omen; signboard; password; (Math.) character indicating relation of quantities, or operation to be performed, as +, \times , \div , =, etc.; (Mus.) any character, as flat, sharp, dot, etc.; (Astron.) the twelfth part of the ecliptic or zodiac; —v.t. to represent by sign; to affix signature to; to ratify;—v.t. to make a signal, sign, or gesture; to append one's signature.—sign-board n. board displayed outside or near a building, etc. advertising business carried on within.—sign-manual n. the signature or mark appended by one to legal instrument; specifically, royal signature.—sign-painter n. one who paints signs for inns, shops, etc.—sign-post n. post supporting signboard, esp. to show way at cross-roads [L. signum].

signal (sig-nal) n. sign to give notice of some occurrence, command, or danger to persons at a distance; that which in the first place impels any action; sign; token; semaphore, esp. on railway; (Radio) any communication made by emission of wireless waves from a transmitter;—v.t. to communicate by signals;—v.i. to make signals.—pr.p. sig'nalling.—pa.t. and pa.p. sig'nalled.—a. eminent; remarkable; extraordinary; conspicuous.—sign-box, -cab n. place from where railway signals are manipulated.—signalling v.t. to make notable, distinguished, or remarkable; to render noteworthy.—signaller n. one who signals; member of Signal Corps in British Army.—signally adv. eminently; remarkably.

signman n. one whose duty it is to convey or interpret information by signals; one who works railway signals [L. signum, a sign].

signatory (sig-na-tor-i) a. and n. (one) bound by signature to terms of agreement. Also signatory [L. signare, to sign].

signature (sig-na-tür) n. a sign, stamp, or mark impressed; a person's name written by himself; act of signing; letter or number printed at bottom of first page of section of book to facilitate arrangement when binding; (Mus.) the flats or sharps after clef which indicate key (key signature), followed by appropriate signs giving value of the measures contained in each bar (time signature).—signature tune, short introductory tune associated with specific dance-band, etc. [L. signare, to sign].

signet (sig-net) n. seal, esp. privy seal, one of three royal seals used for authenticating documents.—signet-ring n. finger-ring on which is engraved monogram or initials of owner.—Writer to the Signet, in Scotland, solicitor corresponding to English attorney, privileged to prepare Crown writs [L. signum, a mark].

signify (sig-ni-fy) v.t. to make known by a sign; to convey notion of; to denote; to imply; to indicate; to mean;—v.i. to express meaning; to purport; to be of consequence.—pa.t. and pa.p. signified.—significance n. importance; force; weight; meaning; import; moment.—significant a. fitted or designed to signify or make known something; important.—significantly adv.—signification n. act of signifying; that which is expressed by signs or words; meaning; sense.—significative a.—significatory a. having meaning [L. significare, fr. signum, a sign; facere, to make].

signor, signior (sē-ni-ör) n. Italian lord or gentleman; title of respect or address equivalent to Mrs.—signora (sē-ni-ör-ä) n. fem. of signor [It.].

Sikh (sēk, sik) n. one of a native religious and military community of the Punjab, India [Hind. = a disciple].

silage (sil-äj) n. compressed, acid-fermented fodder, orig. packed green in a silo for preservation [fr. ensilage].

silence (sil-ens) n. stillness; quietness; calm; refraining from speech; muteness; dumbness; secrecy; oblivion;—(interj.) be quiet!;—v.t. to cause to be still; to forbid to speak; to hush; to calm; to refute; to gag; to kill.—silencer n. internal-combustion engine, a chamber into which the exhaust is passed, reducing or eliminating the noise.—sil'ent a. free from sound or noise; indisposed to talk; unpronounced, as a vowel or consonant.—sil'ently adv.—sil'entness n. [L. silentium].

silex (sil'eks) n. silica; any flinty substance as sand, quartz, flint, etc. [L. = flint].

silhouette (sil-dö-öt') n. portrait or picture cut from black paper or done in solid black upon a light ground; outline of object seen against the light;—v.t. to represent in outline; to cause to stand out in dark shadow against a light background [Fr.].

silica (sil-i-ka) n. silicon dioxide, main component of most rocks, occurring in nature as sand, flint, quartz, crystal, etc.—sil'icate n. salt of silicic acid.—sil'icated a. combined or coated with silica.—silicates of soda, water-glass.—siliceous (sil-i-sh'us) a. pert. to silica in a finely divided state. Also sil'eous.—silicic (sil-i-sh'ik) a. derived from or containing silica.—silicify v.t. to convert into silica; to petrify;—v.i. to become siliceous.—pa.t. and pa.p. silicified.—sil'ic'ous n. non-metallic dark-brown chemical element, chief constituent of many types of rock. Also silicium (sil-i-sh'ium).—silico'sis n. (Med.) chronic fibrosis of lung, caused by inhaling dust.—silico'sis a. affected by silicosis [L. silex].

silicones (sil-i-könz) n.pl. new family of synthetic rubbers, made from same basic materials—petroleum, brine, ordinary sand [L. silex, flint].

silk (silk) n. fine, soft, lustrous thread obtained from cocoons made by larvae of certain moths, esp. silkworm; thread or fabric made from this; (Colloq.) King's Counsel;—a. made of silk.—sil'ken a. made of, or resembling, silk; soft; smooth; silky.—sil'k'hat n. top hat covered with plush and lined to produce high, silky polish.—sil'k'iness n. quality of being soft and smooth to the touch.—sil'k'screen a. and n. (pert. to) the reproduction of a design by means of a pattern made on a screen of nylon or silk.—sil'k'worm n. caterpillar of any moth which produces silk, esp. Bombyx mori.—sil'ky a. made of, or pert. to, silk; silklake; smooth; glossy; soft; suave; agreeable.—artificial silk, rayon.—to take silk, to become a King's (Queen's) Counsel [O.E. seolcor].

sill (sill) n. base or foundation; horizontal member of stone, brick, or wood at the bottom of window frame, door, or opening [O.E. syll].

sillabub (sil'a-hub) n. milk or cream beaten up with sugar into froth, dish of sponge-cakes, fruits, and wine, covered with whipped cream, anything light or gossamer. Also sill'ub [etym. uncertain].

sillibub See sillabub.

sillock, sil'ok (sil'ok) n. saithe or coal-fish. Also sil'lik, sil'lok [dim. of sill].

silly (sill-i) a. weak in intellect; foolish; senseless; stupid; indiscreet; (Arch.) simple; innocent; harmless;—n. silly person; booby;—adv. In a silly fashion.—sil'ily adv.—sil'iness n. foolishness.—silly point, in cricket, stance of fielder on off-side, in front of, and close to, batsman [O.E. sælig, happy, fortunate].

silo (sil-o) n. large grain store or elevator; pit in which green crops are preserved for future use as fodder;—v.t. to preserve in a silo. Cf. ensilage [Sp.].

silt (silt) n. fine, alluvial, soil particles, between soils and clays, deposited from water; mud; slime; sediment;—v.t. to choke or obstruct with silt (generally with up);—v.i. to become filled up with silt; to ooze; to percolate [etym. uncertain].

Silurian (sī-lū-ri-an) a. pert. to Silures who inhabited part of England and S. Wales; denoting group, or strata, of sedimentary rocks immediately below Old Red Sandstone; early palaeozoic; greyish-green.

silvan, sylvan (sil'van) a. pert. to woods or groves; wooded; rural.—sil'va, syl'va n. natural history of forest trees (of a country) [L. silva, a wood].

silver (sil'vər) n. soft, white, metallic element, very malleable and ductile; silverware; silves coins; anything resembling silver;—a. made of, or resembling, silver; white or grey, as hair; having a pale lustre, as moon; soft and melodious, as voice or sound; bright; silvery;—v.i. to coat or plate with silver; to apply amalgam of tin-foil and quicksilver to back of a mirror; to tinge with white or grey; to render smooth and bright;—v.t. to become gradually white, as hair.—sil'ver-bath n. solution of silver nitrate, used for sensitising plates in photography; flat dish used for this.—silver birch, forest tree with thin, silvery bark which peels off in long papery strips.—sil'ver-fish n. name applied to various varieties of fish, as smelt-like atherine, artificially bred gold-fish.—sil'ver-fox n. fox now specially bred in semi-captivity for its glossy, silver-tipped, black fur.—sil'ver-gilt n. silver or silver-plate with a thin coating of gold;—a. pert. to silver so covered.—sil'ver-grey a. of a grey or bluish-grey colour like that of silver.—sil'veriness n. state or quality of being silvery.—sil'vering n. process of coating glass with silver film; silver so used.—sil'verise v.t. to coat or cover thinly with a film of silver.—sil'ver-leaf n. silver beaten out into thin, fine leaf.—sil'verling n. small silver coin.—silver lining, prospect of better times to come.—sil'vern a. made of, or resembling, silver.—silver paper, tin-foil, a special quality of tissue-paper used for wrapping.—sil'ver-plate n. metallo articles coated with silver.—sil'ver-plated a.—sil'ver-plating n. deposition of silver on another metal by electrolysis.—silver screen, screen in cinemas; cinematography.—sil'verside n. upper part of a round of beef suitable for salting.—sil'ver-smith n. worker in silver.—sil'ver-stick n. field-officer of Life Guards on duty at royal palace whose insignia of office is a silver wand.—sil'verware n. articles made of silver.—silver wedding, 25th anniversary of marriage.—sil'very a. like silver; white; lustrous; (of sound) soft and clear [O.E. siolfor].

simar, simarre (si-már') n. a woman's long dress or robe; also, a light covering; a scarf [Sp. chamarra, a sheepskin coat].

simia (sim'i-a) n. anthropoid ape; orang-utang; monkey or ape generally.—sim'ian a. Also sim'ial [L. = ape].

similar (sim'i-lar) a. like; resembling; exactly corresponding; (Geom.) of plane figures, differing in size but having all corresponding angles and side ratios uniform.—similar'ity n. quality or state of being similar.—similarly adv. [L. similis, like].

simile (sim'i-le) n. explicit statement of some point of resemblance observed to exist between two things which differ in other respects; similitude [L. similitudo, like].

similitude (si-mil'i-túd) n. state of being similar or like; resemblance; likeness; parable [L. similitudo, like].

simmer (sim'er) v.i. to cause to boil gently;—v.i. to be just bubbling or just below boiling-point; to be in a state of suppressed anger or laughter;—n. gentle, gradual heating [fr. origin].

simnel (sim'nel) n. rich plum-cake offered as a gift at Christmas, Easter, or Mid-Lent; a simnel-cake [O.Fr. simenel].

simoniac (si-mó-ni-ak) n. one guilty of simony.—simoni'cal a.—simoni'cally adv.—si'monist n. one who practices simony (Cf. simony).

simony (sim'on-i, si'mon-i) n. the offence of offering or accepting money or other reward for nomination or appointment to an ecclesiastical office. See Acts 8.

simoom (si-móom') n. hot, dry, sand-laden wind of N. Africa, Syria, Arabia. Also simoon [Ar. samm, poison].

simper (sim'per) v.i. to smile in a silly, affected manner; to smirk;—n. smile with air of silliness or affectation.—sim'per n. [etym. uncertain].

simple (sim-pl) a. single; not complex; entire; mere; plain; honest; clear; intelligible; simple-minded; (Chem.) elementary; (Med.) non-malignant;—n. something not compounded; ingredient; medicinal herb.—sim'ple-heart'ed a. artless; guileless; sincere.—simple interest, money paid on principal borrowed but not on accrued interest as in compound interest.—sim'ple-minded a. ingenuous; open; frank; unsuspecting; harmless.—sim'pleness n. quality or state of being simple; artlessness; innocence; weakness of intellect; simplicity.—sim'pleton n. foolish person; person of weak intellect.—simple'ity n. artlessness of mind; sincerity; clearness; simpleness.—simplification n. act of making simple or clear; thing simplified.—sim'plificative a. tending to simplify.—sim'plify v.t. to make or render simple, plain, or easy.—pa.t. and pa.p. sim'plified.—sim'ply adv. in a simple manner; plainly; unostentatiously; without affectation; absolutely; foolishly [L. simplus].

simulacrum (sim-ú-lá-krum) n. image; phantom; representation; semblance; a sham.—pl. simulá'ra [L.].

simulant (sim-ú-lant) a. simulating; having the appearance of;—n. one simulating something.—sim'ular a. simulated; counterfeit; feigned;—n. one who pretends to be what he is not; hypocrite; a simulator.

simulate (sim-ú-lit) v.t. to assume the mere appearance of, without the reality; to feign; to mimic; to counterfeit.—simulation n.—sim'ulator n. [L. simulare, to make like].

simultaneous (sim-ul-tá-né-us) a. existing or occurring at same time; (Alg.) of set of equations satisfied by same values of the variables or unknown quantities.—simulta'neity, simulta'neousness n. quality or state of happening at same time.—simulta'neously adv. [L. simul].

sin (sin) n. transgression against divine or moral law, esp. when committed consciously; conduct or state of mind of a habitual or unrepentant sinner; moral depravity; iniquity; wickedness; ungodliness; evil; immorality; crime; trespass;—v.t. to depart from path of duty prescribed by God; to violate any rule of duty; to do wrong.—pr.p. sin'ning.—pa.t. and pa.p. sinned.—sin'ful a. iniquitous; wicked; unholy.—sin'fully adv.—sin'fulness n. depravity; moral corruption.—sin'ner n. one who sins; morally depraved person.—mortal sin, serious transgression of divine law, committed with due deliberation.—original sin, inherent tendency to sin born within us, legacy from original sin of Adam.—venial sin, pardonable, or less serious, lapse into wrongdoing [O.E. synn].

since (sins) adv. from then till now; subsequently; ago;—prep. at some time subsequent to; after;—conj. from the time that; seeing that; because that; inasmuch as [earlier sithens, O.E. siththan].

sincere (sin-áer') a. not assumed or merely professed; straightforward.—sincere'ly adv.—sincere'ness, sincer'ity n. state or quality of being sincere; honesty of mind or intention; truthfulness; genuineness [L. sincerus, pure].

sine (sin) n. (abbrev. sin) (Math.) perpendicular drawn from one extremity of an arc to diameter drawn through other extremity; function of one of the two acute angles in a right-angle triangle, ratio of line subtending this angle to hypotenuse [L. sinus, a curve].

sinicure (si-né-kür, sín-é-kür) n. orig. an ecclesiastical benefice without cure of souls; office, position, etc. with salary but without duties.—si'necurist n. one who holds, or seeks sinicure [L. sine cura, without care].

sinew (sin'é) n. ligament or tendon which joins muscle to bone; muscle; nerve;—pl. strength; source of strength or vigour.—sin'ewed a. having sinews; strong; firm, vigorous.—sin'ewiness n. quality or state of being sinewy.—sin'ewous a. sinewy.—sin'ewy a. well braced with sinews; muscular; nervous; strong [O.E. sinu].

sing (sing) v.t. to utter with musical modulations of voice; to celebrate in song; to praise in verse;—v.i. to utter sounds with melodious modulations of voice; to pipe, twitter, chirp, as birds; to hum, as a kettle on the boil; to reverberate.—pa.t. sang or sung.—pa.p. sung.

—singer n. one who sings, esp. one who sings well; vocalist.—sing'ing n. art of singing; vocal music; a humming noise (in the ear, on a telephone circuit, etc.).—sing'ing-gall'ery n. a gallery in church for choir [O.E. singan].

singe (sinj) v.t. to burn slightly the surface of; to scorch; to char; to burn loose fluff from yarns.—pr.p. singe'ing.—n. superficial burn [O.E. senegan, to make hiss].

Singhalese Same as Cingalese.

single (sing-gl) a. sole; alone; separate; individual; not double; unmarried; (ticket) valid for journey in one direction only; sincere; whole-hearted; straightforward; upright;—n. unit; (Cricket) one run; (Tennis) game confined to two opponents; ticket valid for journey in one direction only;—v.t. (with out) to select from among a number; to pick; to choose.—sing'le-bless'edness n. celibacy; state of being unmarried.—sing'le-breast'ed a. of a garment, buttoning on one side only.—sing'le-deck'er n. passenger vehicle having no roof seats.—sing'le-en'try n. in bookkeeping, entry of each transaction on one side only of an account.—sing'le-hand'ed a. and adv. without help; unassisted.—sing'le-heart'ed a. sincere; guileless; without duplicity.—sing'le-mind'ed a. having but one purpose or aim; honest; upright; sincere.—sing'le-ness n. state of being single; honesty of purpose; freedom from deceit or guile; sincerity.—sing'le-stick n. fencing with a basket-hilted ash-stick; stick used.—sing'ly adv. one by one; by oneself; individually; alone; sincerely; single-mindedly [L. singuli, one at a time].

singlet (sing-glet) n. undershirt [fr. single].

singleton (sing-gl-ton) n. (Cards) hand containing only one card of some suit, or the card itself [dim. of single].

singsong (sing-song) n. drawing, monotonous fashion of uttering; droning; impromptu gathering where all contribute a song or join in communal singing;—a. monotonous; droning [redup. of singl].

singular (sing-gl-lar) a. existing by itself; denoting one person or thing; individual; unique;—n. single instance; word in the singular number.—sing'ularise v.t. to make singular or unique.—sing'ular'ity n. state of being singular; anything unusual or remarkable; strangeness of manner or appearance; oddity.—sing'ularly adv. in a singular manner; strangely; remarkably [L. singularis].

Sinhalese n. and a. See Cingalese.

Sinic (sin-ik) a. Chinese.—sin'icise v.t. to give a Chinese character to.—sin'icism n. mode of thought or customs peculiar to the Chinese [Gk. Sinai, the Chinese].

sinister (sin-is-ter) a. on left hand; evil-looking; unlucky (left being regarded as unlucky side); threatening; (Her.) side of escutcheon on left of person standing behind it.—sin'isterly adv. in a sinister manner.—sin'istral a. to the left; reversed; (Bot.) having whorls not turning normally [L. — on the left hand].

sink (sing) v.t. to cause to sink; to submerge; to lower out of sight; to dig; to excavate; to ruin; to suppress; to invest;—v.i. to fall; to subside; to descend; to penetrate (into); to decline in value, health, or social status; to be dying; to droop; to decay; to become submerged; to yield.—pa.t. sank or sunk.—pa.p. sunk.—n. a receptacle for washing up, with pipe for carrying away waste water; marsh or area in which river water percolates through surface and disappears; place notoriously associated with evil-doing; filthy dwelling-place; cesspool.—sink'er n. weight fixed to anything to make it sink, as on net, fishing-line, etc.—sink'ing n. operation of excavating; subsidence; settling; abatement; ebb; part sunk below surrounding surface.—sinking fund, fund set aside at regular intervals to provide replacement of wasting asset or repayment of particular liability at a fixed future date [O.E. sincan].

Sinn Féin (shin fân') n. Irish policy and movement which aimed at independent self-government.—Sinn Féin'er n. [Ir. — we ourselves].

Sino-Japanese (si'no-jap-a-néz') a. pert. to China and Japan [Gk. Sinai, Chinese].

siniology (si-noi-o-ji) n. that branch of knowledge which deals with the Chinese language, culture, history, religion and art.—sini'o'logist, sini'o'logue n. one versed in Chinese culture and language [Gk. Sinai, the Chinese; logos, a discourse].

sinter (sin'ter) n. silica deposited in neighbourhood of geysers and hot springs; partial fusion under influence of heat (Ger. sintern, to drop).

sinate (sin-ô-ât) v.t. and v.i. to bend in and out; to wind; to turn;—a. (Biol.) wavy; tortuous; curved on the margin, as a leaf. Also sin'uated.—sina'tion n.—sin'uous, sin'uous a. bending in and out; of serpentine or undulating form; morally crooked; supple.—sinuous'ity n. quality of being sinuous.—sin'uously adv. [L. sinus, a fold].

sinus (si'us) n. opening; hollow; cavity; groove or passage in tissue leading to a deep-seated abscess, usually in nose or ear.—sinus'itis n. inflammation of sinus, esp. of bones of forehead or jaws [L. sinus, a curve].

Sioux (sóo) n. member of great Siouan division of N. American aborigines; their language.—pl. Sioux (sóo, sóoz) [Fr. form of native word].

sip (sip) v.t. and v.i. to drink or imbibe in very small quantities; to taste.—pr.p. sip'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. sipped.—n. a portion of liquid sipped with the lips; a mouthful [O.E. sypian, to soak].

siphon, syphon (sif-ton) n. a bent tube or pipe by which a liquid can be transferred by atmospheric pressure from one receptacle to another; bottle provided with internal tube and lever top, for holding and delivering aerated water; projecting tube in mantle of shell of bivalve along which currents of water can flow;—v.t. to draw off by means of a siphon.—siph'onage, sy'phonage n. action of a siphon [Gk. — tube].

sir (ser) n. a title of respect to any man of position; title of knight or baronet; formerly priest or curate; sirrah [var. of sire].

sirdar (ser-dar, ser-dar') n. in India, a native chief; a leader; a military officer (Pers. ser, head; dar, holding).

sire (sir) n. father; one who stands in the relation of a father, as a king or emperor; male parent of an animal (applied esp. to horses).—pl. ancestors;—v.t. to beget (of animals) [Fr. fr. L. senior, elder].

siren (si-ren) n. (Myth.) one of several nymphs said to sing with such sweetness that sailors were lured to death; mermaid; sweet singer; seductive alluring woman; form of horn which emits series of loud, piercing notes used as warning signal of approaching danger; steam-whistle or hooter; the mud-eel;—a. pert. to, or resembling a siren; alluring; seductive [Gk. Sirên].

Sirius (sir'-us) n. (Astron.) a fixed star of the first magnitude known as the Dog-star (Canis Major) [L.].

sirlain (ser-loin) n. the upper part of a loin of beef [O.Fr. serloigne].

sirocco (si-rok-ô) n. a hot, southerly, dust-laden wind from Africa, chiefly experienced in Italy, Malta and Sicily [It.].

sirup, sirup See syrup.

sirrah (ser-ə) n. (Archie) term formerly applied to man to express reproach or contempt [form of sir].

sisal (sis'al, sis'al) n. fibre plant, native to Florida and Yucatan providing sis'al-grass (sis'al-hemp) [Sisal, a seaport in Yucatan].

sissey (sis'i) n. (Colloq.) sister; ineffectively effeminate man or boy; —a. effeminate.

sister (sis'ter) n. female whose parents are same as those of another person; correlative of brother; woman of the same faith; female of the same society, convent, abbey; nun; —a. standing in relation of sister; related; of a similar nature to, as institute, college, etc. — sister-german n. a full sister. — sisterhood n. state of being a sister; society of women united in one faith or order. — sister-in-law n. husband's or wife's sister; brother's wife. — pl. sis'ters-in-law. — sisterlike, sisterly a. like a sister; becoming or befitting a sister; affectionate [O.N. systir].

Sistine (sis'tin, sis'tin) a. pert. to any Pope named Sixtus. — Sistine Chapel, the Pope's private chapel in the Vatican at Rome, built in 1473 for Pope Sixtus VI.

sit (sit) v. tr. to rest upon haunches, a seat, etc.; to remain; to rest; to perch, as birds; (of hen) to cover and warm eggs for hatching; to be officially engaged in transacting business, as court, council, etc.; to be in session; to be representative in Parliament for constituency; to pose for portrait; to press or weigh (upon); to be in a particular quarter, as wind; to fit (of clothes); —v. i. to keep good seat, upon, as on horseback; to place upon seat; to put carefully in position; to compete in (examination). — pp. sitting — pa. t. and pa. p. sat. — n. position assumed by an object after being placed. — sit'er n. one who sits; one who poses for artist; an easy catch, shot, or target; bird sitting on its eggs. — sit'ing n. state of resting on a seat, etc.; act of placing oneself on a seat; session; business meeting; occasion when food is served to group of people; time given up to posing for artist; clutch of eggs for incubation; —a. resting on haunches; perched. — sit'ing-room n. room for sitting in; parlour; reception-room; small drawing-room; waiting-room. — sit-down strike, form of strike in which strikers refuse to leave their place of work. — to sit for, to represent in parliament; to pose for an artist [O.E. sittan].

site (sit) n. place, situation; plot of ground for, or with, building; position; place where anything is fixed; —v. t. to place in position; to locate [L. situs, a site].

sith (sith) adv. prep. and conj. since. — sith'ness, sith'ness [short for M.E. sithen].

sitology, sitiology (sit'ol'og-i, sit'ol'og-i) n. that department of medicine which relates to the regulation of diet; dietetics [Gk. sitos, food; logos, a discourse].

situate (sit'u-ät) v. t. to give a site to; to place in a particular state or set of circumstances; to place; to locate; —a. located; situated. — situa'ted a. resident; located; placed with reference to other affairs, etc.; conditioned. — situation n. location; place or position; seat; site; condition; job; office; post; plight; predicament [L. situs, a site].

six (siks) a. one more than five; —sum of three and three; symbol 6 or VI. — six'er n. hit scoring six at cricket. — six'fold a. six times as much or as many. — six'footer a. person six feet in height. — six'pence n. silver coin in British currency of value of six pennies. — six'penny a. worth sixpence; bought or sold for sixpence; paltry; cheap; of small value. — six'shoot'er n. a six-chambered revolver. — six'teen n. and a. six and ten, symbol 16 or XVI. — six'teenth a. sixth after the tenth; being one of sixteen equal parts into which anything is divided; —n. one of sixteen equal parts; a division of the inch, in common usage; (Mus.) semiquaver. — sixth a. next in order after the fifth; one of six equal parts; — (Mus.) an interval comprising six degrees of the staff, as A to F. — sixth'ly adv. — six'ty a. six times ten; three score; —n. symbol 60 or LX. — six'tieth a. next in order after the fifty-ninth; one of sixty equal parts; —n. — at sixes and sevens, in disorder and confusion [O.E. seaz]. — sizar (siz'ar) n. student at Cambridge or Dublin Universities charged lower fees [O.Fr. size, allowance of food].

size (siz) n. bulk; bigness; comparative magnitude; dimensions; extent; conventional measure of dimension; —v. t. to arrange according to size. — si'zable a. of considerable size or bulk. — size-stick n. boot-retailer's instrument used for measuring length of foot. — to size up, to estimate possibilities of; to take measure of [contr. of assize].

size (siz) n. substance of a gelatinous nature, like weak glue; —v. t. to treat or cover with size [Fr. assise, a layer (e.g. of paint, etc.)]. — sizzle (siz'l) v. t. to make hissing or sputtering noise; to shrivel up; —n. hissing, sputtering noise; extreme heat. — sizz'ling n. [limit. word].

siambok (sham'bok) n. short, heavy horse-whip, made of strip of dried, rhinoceros hide [Afrikaans].

skald See scald.

skate (skät) n. steel blade with framework to attach it to boot, used for gliding over ice; —v. i. to travel over ice on skates. — ska'ter n. — ska'ting n. — ska'ting-rink n. stretch of ice (usually under cover) for skating; ice-rink. — roll'er-skate n. skate with castors in place of steel blade [Dut. schaats].

skate (skät) n. a large, edible, flat fish of the ray family [O.N. skata].

skathe See seathe.

skean (skän) n. Highland dagger or dirk; long knife. Also skene, skene. — skean-dhu (doo) n. dirk worn in top of stocking [Gael. sgian, knife; dubh, black].

skedaddle (ske-dad'l) v. t. (Colloq.) to scamper off; —n. hasty, disorderly flight [etym. unknown].

skeen See skean.

skeln (skän) n. small hank, of fixed length, of thread, silk, or yarn, doubled and secured by loose knot; knot of thread or yarn; a flight of wild geese or swans. — a tangled skeln, a complicated, confused affair [O.Fr. escaigne].

skeleton (skele-ton) n. bony framework providing support for human or animal body; any framework, as of building, plant, etc.; general outline; —a. pert. to skeleton; containing mere outlines. Also skel'etal. — skeleton crew, staff, etc., minimum number of men employed on some essential duty. — skel'eton-key n. key designed to open or pick lock by avoiding impeding wards [Gk. skeletos, dried up].

skellum (skel-um) n. a blackguard; a good-for-nothing; a rascal [Ger. Schein, a rogue].

skelter (skel'ter) v. t. to rush; to hurry; to dash along. See helter-skelter. skene See skean.

skep (skep) n. beehive made of straw; light basket [O.N. skeppa, a basket].

skopsis, skoptic See septic.

skerry (sker'i) n. rocky isle; reef; piece of lime in brick-earth [O.N. sker].

sketch (skech) n. first rough draught or plan of any design; outline; drawing in pen, pencil, or similar medium; descriptive essay or account, in light vein; a short, humorous one-act play; —v. t. to draw outline of; to make rough draught of; to plan by giving principal ideas of; —v. i. to draw; to make sketches. — sketch'er n. — sketch'ily adv. — sketch'iness n. lack of detail. — sketch'y a. containing outline or rough form; inadequate; incomplete [Dut. schets].

skew (skü)a. awry; oblique; askew; off the straight; —adv. awry; obliquely; —n. anything set obliquely or at an angle to some other object; a deviation; —v. t. to put askew; to turn aside; —v. i. to walk sideways; to shy; to skid. — skew-bald a. of horse, bay and white in patches. — skewed a. distorted. — skew-eyed a.

squinting.—skew'gee a. off the straight; crooked [O.Fr. escuer].

skewer (skē'ēr) n. pointed rod for fastening meat to a spit, or for keeping it in form while roasting (formerly used instead of pins);—v.t. to fasten with skewers [etym. uncertain].

ski (skē, in Norway, shē) n. long wooden runner strapped to foot, for running, sliding and jumping over snow;—v.i. to run, slide, or jump on skis.—skier (skē'ēr, shē'ēr) n. one who skis [Norw.].

skiagraph (ski'ə-graf) n. an X-ray photograph. Also ski'agram.—ski'ographer n. one who takes X-ray photographs.—skiagraph'ic a. [Gk. skia, a shadow; graphein, to write].

skid (skid) n. a piece of timber to protect side of vessel from injury; drag placed under wheel to check speed of vehicle descending steep gradient; inclined plane down which logs, etc. slide;—v.i. to slide along without revolving; to slip;—v.t. to slide a log down an incline; to place on skids.—skid'way n. inclined plane down which logs slide [O.N. skidh].

skied (skid) part. and past. of skid.

skiff (skif) n. long, narrow sculling-boat, of light structure, for one rower; any light, small boat [Fr. esqui].

skiffle (skifl) a. and n. (descriptive of) a kind of folk-music in the playing of which a group of musicians accompany a singing guitarist and give him exaggerated rhythmic support on a variety of instruments, e.g. rattles, whistles, drums, etc.—skiffle'r n. a player of skiffle music [orig. unknown].

skill (skil) n. præc. ability and dexterity; knowledge, understanding, expertness; aptitude.—skill'ful a. expert; skilled, adept; adroit; dexterous.—skill'fully adv.—skill'fulness n.—skilled a. having knowledge, united with dexterity [O.N. skil, distinction].

skillet (skil'et) n. small metal vessel with long handle, for heating water, stewing vegetables, etc. [O.Fr. esculette].

skilly (skil'i) n. watery soup or gruel [etym. unknown].

skim (skim) v.t. to remove from surface of liquid; to glide over lightly and rapidly; to glance over print in superficial way; to graze;—v.i. to pass lightly over, to glide along; to hasten over superficially.—pr. p. skim'ming.—part. and past. skimmed.—n. thick matter which forms on surface of liquid; scum.—skim'mer n. one who, or that which, skims.—skim'milk n. milk from which cream has been removed [O.Fr. escumer].

skimp (skimp) v.t. to stint, to do imperfectly;—v.i. to be mean or parsimonious, to economise in petty fashion;—a. scanty; spare; meagre.—skimp'y a. scant; meagre [etym. uncertain].

skin (skin) n. external protective covering of animal bodies; epidermis; a hide; a pelt; receptacle of skin for water or wine; exterior coat of fruits and plants; husk or bark; thick scum;—v.t. to strip off skin or hide of; to flay; to graze; to peel; to cheat; to swindle;—v.i. to peel off; to become covered with skin.—skin-deep a. superficial.—skin-flint n. miser; niggard.—skin-ful n. as much as the stomach can hold.—skin-game n. wholesale cheating and swindling.—skin-graft'ing n. transplanting healthy skin to wound to form a new skin.—skin'ner n. dealer in hides; furrier.—skin'niness n. leanness.—skin'ny a. having thick skin; of skin; very lean or thin; mean; grasping.—skin'tight a. fitting close to skin.—skin'tights n. pl. theatrical costume fitting close to limbs.—to have a thick skin, to be not at all sensitive.—by the skin of one's teeth, very narrowly [O.N. skinn].

skip (skip) v.t. to lean over lightly; to omit;—v.i. to leap lightly, esp. in frolic; to frisk; to clear repeatedly a rope swing in play under one's foot; to run away hastily; to pay hurried visits.—pr. p. skip'ping.—part. and past. skipped.—n. light leap, spring, or bound.—

skipped area (Radio) area where signals from a transmitting station are not audible although heard much farther away owing to reflection from ionosphere.—skip'per n. one who skips.—skip'ping a. characterised by skips; flighty; giddy.—skip'pingly adv. [etym. uncertain].

skip (skip) n. a rectangular steel box with a hinged door, working in guides in a mine-shaft, used for hoisting ore, etc.; bucket hanging from cableway for transporting minerals, etc. Also skep [O.E. scep].

skip (skip) n. captain of bowling or curling team;—v.t. and v.i. to act as this.

skipper (skip'ēr) n. captain of ship or team [Dut. schipper].

skir (sker) v.t. to scour; to ramble over;—v.i. to move rapidly. Also seur [Fr. seur].

skirl (sker) v.t. to scream shrilly;—n. shrill, high-pitched scream; music of bagpipe (var. of shrill).

skirmish (sker'mish) n. irregular, minor engagement between two parties of soldiers; brush; encounter;—v.i. to take part in skirmish.—skir'misher n. [Fr. escarmouche].

skirt (skirt) n. lower part of coat, gown; outer garment of a woman fitted to and hanging from waist; petticoat; edge of any part of dress; flap, border; margin; edge; rim; diaphragm of animal; mudriff of beef;—v.t. to border, to pass or go round edge of;—v.i. to be on border.—skirt'ing n. material for women's skirts; border.—skirt'ing-board n. narrow, moulded board between plaster of internal wall and floor [O.N. skyrta].

skit (skit) n. satirical gibe, squib; lampoon; caricature; burlesque; stage parody.—v.t. to burlesque; to write a skit upon;—v.i. to leap aside, to shy.—skitt'ish a. frisky; frivolous; fickle; volatile; timid.—skitt'ishly adv.—skitt'ishness n. [etym. uncertain].

skittles (skit'ls) n. pl. nine-pins, game in which object is to overturn nine wooden skittles.—to skittle out, to bowl out opposing batsmen in rapid succession [form of skuttle].

skive (skiv) v.t. in shoe-making, to pare away or bevel edges of leather, to grind (diamonds) on skive.—n. high-speed metal lap or wheel for polishing diamonds [Ice. skifa, to split].

skivvy (skiv'i) n. (Colloq.) domestic servant [etym. doubtful].

skoal (skōl) interj. salutation, hail' in toasting [Dan. skål, bowl, a toast].

skoff (sko'f) n. in S. Africa, food;—v.t. (Slang) to eat greedily; to bolt food; [Dut. schoffend, breakfast, meal-time].

skua (skū'a) n. family of Arctic or Antarctic birds allied to the gulls [O.N. skuf].

skulk (skulk) v.i. to sneak out of the way; to lurk or keep out of sight in a furtive manner; to act sulkily;—n. one who skulks [etym. uncertain].

skull (skul) n. bony framework which encloses brain; cranium along with bones of face.—skull'cap n. metal headpiece; brimless cap fitting close to head [M.E. skulle].

skunk (skungk) n. small N. American burrowing animal, allied to weasel and otter, which defends itself by emitting evil-smelling fluid; a base, mean person [N. Amer.-Ind. sepanku].

sky (skī) n. the apparent vault of heaven; heavens; firmament; weather; climate.—pl. skies.—v.t. to hit ball so as to rise almost perpendicularly; to hang high on wall, esp. picture.—part. and past. skied.—sky'blue a. and a. azure; cerulean.—sky'er n. ball hit high into air.—sky'ey a. like the sky. Also sk'ey.—sky'gazer n. a visionary.—sky'high a. and adv. at a great elevation; carried away with excitement or anticipation.—sky'lar n. bird which sings as it soars;—v.t. to indulge in boisterous play.—sky'lar'ing n. orig. playing frolicsome pranks about rigging of ship; noisy frolicking and horse-play.—sky'light n. glazed opening in roof of ceiling.—sky'line n. horizon.—sky'p'lot n. clergyman.—sky'scraper n. lofty building with numerous storeys, characteristic of American architecture; triangular sky-sail. —sky-sign n. advertising sign perched high upon building against skyline; design traced in sky by trail of smoke from aeroplane. —sky-writ'ing n. writing in air for advertising or propaganda purposes by sky-sign method [O.N. sky, a cloud].

Skye (ski) n. or Skye-tarr'ier, breed of Scotch terrier, with long hair, long body and short legs, orig. bred in Skye.

slab (slab) n. thickish, flat, rectangular piece of anything; concrete paving-block; thick slice of cake, etc.; outside piece of a log during sawing; —v.t. to cut or split in form of slabs [etym. uncertain].

slabber (slab'gr) v.t. to slaver, slobber, dribble; —v.t. to cover with saliva. Also slobber'er—slabb'er, slobber'er n. [var. of slaver].

slack (slak) a. not taut; not closely drawn together; not holding fast; remiss about one's duties; easy-going; —n. part of a rope which hangs loose; quiet time. —slack, slack'en v.t. to loosen; to moderate; to relax; to diminish; to abate; to slack; —v.t. to become slack; to lose cohesion; to relax; to dodge work; to languish; to fling. —slack'er n. one who shirks work. —slack'ly adv. —slack'ness n. —slacks n.pl. loose trousers worn by men or women. —to slack(en) off, to lessen one's energies; to ease off [O.E. slacc].

slack (slak) n. the finer screenings of coal which pass through a half-inch mesh; coal-dust; dross. —slack'heap n. a dump for slack [Ger. Schlacke, dross].

slade (slād) n. little dell; flat, undrained ground; open space in a wood; peat spade; sloping pathway [O.E. slæd].

slag (slag) n. fusible silicate formed during smelting of ores; scoriae of a volcano; —v.t. to form slag; —v.t. to tap out slag during smelting. —slag'gy a. pert. to, like, slag [Ger. Schlacke, dross].

slain (slān) pp.p. of the verb slay.

slake (slāk) v.t. to quench; to extinguish; to combine quicklime with water; to slacken; —v.t. to become mixed with water; to become extinct; to diminish. —slaked lime, hydrate of lime formed by mixing quicklime and water [O.E. slacian].

slam (slam) v.t. to shut violently and noisily; to bang; to hit; to dash down; to win all, or all but one, of the tricks at cards. —pr.p. slam'ming, —pa.t. and pa.p. slammed. —n. act of slamming; bang. —slam (grand or little) thirteen or twelve tricks taken in one deal in cards [imit. origin].

slander (slan'dgr) n. false or malicious statement about person; defamation of character by spoken word; calumny; —v.t. to injure by maliciously uttering false report; to defame. —slan'derer n. —slan'derous a. calumnious; infamous. —slan'derously adv. —slan'derousness n. [Fr. ecclandre].

slang (slang) n. word or expression in common colloquial use but not regarded as standard English; jargon peculiar to certain sections of public, trades, etc.; argot; —a. pert. to slang; —v.t. to vituperate; to revile; to scold. —slang'ly adv. —slang'iness n. —slang'y a. of nature of, or given to use of, slang [etym. uncertain].

slant (slant) v.t. to turn from a direct line; to give a sloping direction to; —v.t. to lie obliquely; to slope; to incline; —n. slanting direction or position; slope; a gibe; oblique point of view or illuminating remark (on); puff of wind; —a. inclining; sloping; oblique. —slan'ting adv. —slant'ly, slant'wise adv. in slanting, oblique, or indirect direction or manner; aslant [Swed. slänta, to slide].

slap (slap) n. blow with open hand or flat instrument; —v.t. to strike with open hand or something flat. —pr.p. slap'ping. —pa.t. and pa.p. slapped. —adv. with a sudden blow; instantly; directly. —slap'bang adv. suddenly; violently; headlong. —slap'dash adv. impetuously; —a. careless; slipshod. —slap'stick n. wooden wand carried by harlequin, to produce illusion of resounding smack when used in knock-about farce; bolsterous knock-about farce of pantomime or music-hall. —slap-up a. [Colloq.] up-to-date; grand; stylish [imit. origin].

slash (slash) v.t. to cut by striking violently and haphazardly; to make gashes in; to slit; —v.t. to strike violently and at random with edged weapon; —n. long cut; gash; cutting stroke; large slit in garment. —slash'er n. [O.Fr. eschachier, to sever].

slat (slat) n. narrow strip of wood or stone; a lath. —pl. (Slang) ribs. —slat'ed a. covered with slats [O.Fr. esclat, fragment].

slate (slāt) n. a form of shale, composed mainly of aluminium silicate, which splits readily into thin leaves; prepared piece of such stone, esp. thin piece for roofing houses, etc.; table for writing upon; dark blue-grey colour; —a. made of slate; bluish-grey; —v.t. to cover with slates; to upbraid; to reprimand. —slate'clay n. shale. —slate'coloured a. dark bluish-grey. Also slate'grey. —slate'pen'cil n. stick of soft slate or moulded slate powder, for writing on slates. —sla'ter n. one who shapes slates or covers roofs with slates; wood-loune. —sla'ting n. act of covering with slates; roof-covering thus put on; severe reprimand; harsh criticism. —sla'ty a. having nature or colour of slate [O.Fr. esclat, a splinter].

slatter (slat'cr) v.t. to waste; to spill or lose carelessly; —v.t. to be careless of dress and dirty. —slatt'ern n. slut; sloven. —slatt'ernliness n. —slatt'ernly a. like a slattern; —adv. in slovenly, untidy manner. —slatt'ery a. wet; dirty [Scand. slat, to strike].

slaughter (slaw'tgr) n. act of slaughtering; carnage; massacre; butchery; bloodshed; killing of animals to provide food; —v.t. to kill; to slay in battle; to butcher. —slaugh'terer n. —slaugh'terhouse n. place where cattle are slaughtered. —slaugh'terous a. bent on slaughter; murderously inclined; destructive. —slaugh'terously adv. [O.N. slautr, butcher's meat].

Slav, Slavic (slāv) n. a member of a group of peoples in E. and S.E. Europe, comprising Russians, Ukrainians, White Russians, Poles, Czechs, Slovaks, Serbians, Croats, Slovenes and Bulgarians; —a. relating to the Slavs; Slavic; Slavonic. —Slav'ic a. —Slavon'ic, Sclavon'ic a. Slavic [etym. unknown].

slave (slāv) n. person held legally in bondage to another; bondman; vassal; serf; drudge; one who has lost all powers of resistance to some pernicious habit or vice; —v.t. to work like a slave, to toil unremittently. —slave'dri'var n. an overseer in charge of slaves at work; exacting task-master. —slave-mar'ket n. bazaar for sale of slaves. —sla've n. person or ship engaged in slave traffic. —sla'very n. condition of slave compelled to perform compulsory work for another; bondage; servitude; drudgery. —slave'ship n. vessels used for transporting slaves. —slave-trade n. traffic in human beings. —slave'tra'der n. —sla've'y n. (Slang) domestic servant, esp. general servant. —sla'vish a. pert. to slaves; menial; drudging; servile; obsequious; cringing; fawning; base; mean. —sla'vishly adv. —sla'vishness n. —white slavery, traffic in women and girls for immoral purposes abroad [Fr. esclave, fr. Slav].

slaver (slāv'gr) n. saliva running from mouth; gross flattery; sentimental nonsense; —v.t. to smear with saliva issuing from mouth; —v.t. to slobber; to talk in a weakly sentimental fashion. —slav'er n. [O.N. slavra, to slaver].

slaw (slaw) n. sliced cabbage served cooked, or uncooked, as a salad [Dut. slaw, salad].

slay (slā) v.t. to kill; to murder; to assassinate; to slaughter. —pa.t. slaw. —pa.p. slain. —slay'er n. [O.E. slæan, to smite].

sleave (slév) n. knotted or entangled part of silk or thread; floss silk; tangled silk;—v.t. to separate and divide as into threads [etym. uncertain].

sled, sledge (sled, slej) n. a carriage on runners, for conveying loads over hard snow or ice; a sleigh;—v.t. to convey on a sled;—v.i. to ride on a sled [Dut. slede].

sledge (slej) n. large, heavy hammer.—sledge hammer n. heavy hammer with a long handle [O.E. sleap].

sleek (slék) a. having a smooth surface; glossy; not rough; plausible; ingratiating;—v.t. to make smooth; to calm; to soothe;—v.i. to glide; to sweep smoothly.—adv. smoothly; neatly; skillfully.—sleekly adv.—sleekness n. [O.N. slíkr, smooth].

sleep (slép) v.i. to rest by suspension of exercise of powers of body and mind; to become numb (of limb); to slumber; to doze; to repose; to rest; to be dead.—pa.t. and pa.p. slept.—n. slumber; repose; rest; death.—sleep'er n. one who sleeps; berth in railway sleeping-car; one of the strong, horizontal pieces of timber which bear weight of engine-frames, shores or struts, railway lines, etc.—sleepily adv. in drowsy manner.—sleepiness n.—sleeping a. resting in sleep; inducing sleep; adapted for sleeping;—n. state of resting in sleep; state of not being raised or discussed.—sleeping-bag n. bag of thick material, waterproofed on outside, for sleeping in the open.—sleeping-car or carriage n. railway-carriage with sleeping-berths.—sleep'ing-draught n. medicine used for inducing sleep; soporific; opiate.—sleep'ing-partner n. business associate who takes no active part in management.—sleep'ing-sick'ness n. tropical disease, especially common among the natives of C. and W. Africa; trypanosomiasis.—sleep'less a. wakeful; restless; alert; vigilant; unremitting.—sleep'lessly adv.—sleep'lessness n.—sleep'walk'er n. one who walks in his sleep or in trance; somnambulist.—sleep'walk'ing n.—sleep'y a. inclined to sleep; drowsy.—sleep'y-sick'ness n. epidemic European disease [O.E. slæapan].

sleet (slét) n. mixture of melting snow and rain;—v.t. to snow or hail with rain.—sleet'iness n.—sleet'y a. [M.E. sléte].

sleeve (slév) n. part of garment which covers arm, casing surrounding shaft of engine; drogue or wind-sock used on aerodromes as wind-indicator;—v.t. to furnish with sleeves.—sleeve-band n. wristband or cuff.—sleeve-link n. two buttons or studs linked together and securing edges of cuff or wristband.—sleeve valve, sliding valve fitted between cylinder and piston of engine.—to laugh up one's sleeve, to be inwardly amused at someone [O.E. slief].

sleigh (slá) n. a sled or sledge;—v.t. to drive in a sleigh [Dut. slee].

sleight (slít) n. artful trick; feat so dexterously performed that manner of performance escapes observation.—sleight-of-hand n. legerdemain; conjuring [O.N. slægtli].

slender (slen'dér) a. thin or narrow; weak; feeble; not strong.—slen'derly adv.—slen'derness n. [M.E. slendre].

slept (slept) pa.t. and pa.p. of sleep.

sleuth (sléuth) n. track of man or beast, as followed by scent; bloodhound; a relentless tracker; detective.—sleuth-hound n. bloodhound [O.N. slóth, a track].

slew (slód) pa.t. of slay.

slew, slue (slód) v.t. and v.i. to turn about for positioning purposes round a fixed point; to swing round [etym. unknown].

slice (slis) v.t. and v.i. to cut off thin flat piece; to strike a ball so that its line of flight diverges well to the right;—n. thin, flat piece cut off; broad, flat, thin knife for serving fish; spatula; share or portion; stroke at golf, etc. in which ball curls away to the right.—sl'ice n. [O.Fr. esclice].

slick (slík) a. smooth; sleek; smooth-tongued; quick in reply; smart; deft; clever;—adv.

deftly; cleverly; simultaneously; at once;—v.t. to sleek; to make glossy. See sleek.

slicker (slík'tér) n. waterproof coat.

slid, slidden See slide.

slidder (slid'tér) v.t. to slip; to slide in all directions.—slid'dery a. [O.E. slidan].

slide (slíd) v.t. to slip smoothly along; to slip, to glide, esp. over ice; to pass imperceptibly; to deteriorate morally;—v.i. to move something into position by pushing along the surface of another body; to thrust along; to pass imperceptibly.—pr.p. slí'ding.—pa.t. slíd.—pa.p. slíd or slidd'en.—n. sliding; track on ice made by sliding; sliding part of mechanism; anything which moves freely in or out; photographic plate-holder; smooth and easy passage; chute; a narrow piece of glass to carry small object to be examined under microscope; woman's hair clip; moving part of trombone or trumpet.—slí'der n. one who slides; (Collog.) ice-cream between two thin water-biscuits.—slide-rule, slí'ding-rule n. mathematical instrument for rapid calculations.—slí'ding-roof n. roof of theatre, saloon-car, etc. designed to slide open.—slí'ding-scale n. schedule of wages, prices, duties, etc. showing the automatic variations of these according to fluctuations of other factors, as cost of living, etc.—slí'ding-seat n. seat in rowing-boat which moves with motions of rower [O.E. slidan].

slight (slít) a. trifling; inconsiderable; not substantial; slim; slender;—n. contempt by ignoring another; disdain; insult;—v.t. to ignore; to disdain; to insult.—slíght'ing n. scorn; disrespect;—a. disparaging.—slíght'ingly adv.—slíghtly adv. to slight extent; not seriously.—slíght'ness n. [O.N. slíetr].

slily (slíli) adv. slyly. See sly.

slim (slím) a. of small diameter or thickness; slender; thin; slight; unsubstantial; cunning;—v.t. to reduce weight by diet and exercise;—slím'ly adv. frail [Dut. = crafty].

slime (slím) n. soft, sticky, moist earth or clay; greasy, viscous mud, mire; mucus; viscous secretion of snails, etc.; fawning words or actions.—slím'ly adv. in a slimy manner.—slím'iness n.—slím'y a. consisting of, or covered with slime [O.E. slím].

slinness Same as sliness.

sling (slíng) n. pocket of leather, etc., with a string attached at each end for hurling a stone; catapult; swinging throw, strap attached to rifle; hanging bandage, for supporting an arm or hand; rope, chain, belt, etc. for hoisting weights;—v.t. to throw by means of sling or swinging motion of arm; to hoist or lower by means of slings; to suspend.—pa.t. and pa.p. slung.—slíng'er n. [O.N. slíngva].

slíng (slíng) n. American food drink of sweetened gin (or rum) with putmeg; gin-sling [Ger. schlingen, to swallow].

slink (slíngk) v.t. to move in a stealthy, furtive manner.—pa.t. and pa.p. slunk [O.E. slíncan, to creep].

slip (slíp) v.t. to move an object secretly or furtively into another position; to put on, or off gently; to loosen; to release (dog); to omit; to miss; to overlook; to escape (memory); to escape from; of animals, to give premature birth to;—v.i. to lose one's foothold; to move smoothly along surface of; to withdraw quietly; to slide; to stumble; to make a mistake; to lose one's chance; to fall into fault.—pr.p. slíp'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. slípped.—n. act of slipping; unintentional error; stumble; false step; twig forgrating separated from main stock; leash for dog; long, narrow, piece; loose garment worn under woman's blouse; pinafore; covering for a pillow; in cricket, position on the off-side, behind wicket; fieldman in this position; revolution of wheels without movement along surface of the road; in aviation, pitch of airscrew, less distance it actually travels in one revolution; sideslip;—pl. short bathing drawers or pants worn by men; wings of theatre; slipway in shipbuilding yard.—slip-cover n. a loose-covering for upholstered furniture.—slip-knot n. running knot which slips along rope around which it is made, forming loop.—slip'per n. light shoe for indoor use; dancing-shoe; a drag or brake-shoe for braking wagon wheel.—slip'perily adv.—slip'periness, slip'piness n. condition of being slippery.—slip'pery a. so smooth as to cause slipping or to be difficult to hold or catch; not affording a firm footing; unstable; untrustworthy; changeable; artful; wily.—slip'py a. slippery; lively; nimble; brisk; quick.—slip-shod a. having shoes down at heel; untidy; slovenly; inaccurate.—slip-stream n. stream of air driven astern by airscrew of aeroplane.—slip-way n. long inclined plane down which a cradle runs from which ships are launched.—to slip the cable, to sail without hoisting anchor; to throw over domination of another (O.E. slipan).

slit (slit) v.t. to cut lengthwise; to cut open; to sever; to rend; to split;—v.i. to split;—pr.p. slit'ting.—pa.t. and pa.p. slit.—n. straight, narrow cut or incision; narrow opening in box.—slit'ter n. one who slits; machine for cutting material into strips.—slit trench n. narrow trench for one (O.E. slitan).

slither (slit'ter) v.i. to slide and bump (down a slope, etc.);—a. slippery;—n. a limestone rubble.—slith'ery a. slippery (var. of sludger).—sliver (sliv'vēr, sliv'vēr) v.i. to divide into long, thin strips;—v.t. to split; to become split off;—n. piece cut lengthwise (O.E. slifan, to split).

slobber Same as slabber.

sloe (slō) n. blackthorn; small wild plum, the fruit of blackthorn.—sloe-gin n. liqueur from gin and sloes (O.E. slat).

slog (slog) v.t. to hit wildly and vigorously;—v.i. to work or study with dogged determination; to trudge along;—pr.p. slog'ging.—pa.t. and pa.p. slogged.—n. a wild swipe at ball; hard and tiring spell of work.—slog'ger n. (O.E. slēan, to strike).

sloman (slō-man) n. war-cry of Highland clan in Scotland; distinctive phrase used by a political party; catchword for focusing public interest, etc. (Gael. slough-phairn).

sloop (sloop) n. one-masted sailing vessel; (Old navy) small warship rated below a frigate; (Modern navy) warship of about 1,000 tons displacement for escort and general duties. [Dut. sloop].

slop (slop) n. water carelessly spilled; puddle;—pl. semi-liquid food; water in which anything has been washed;—v.t. to spill; to soil by spilling over;—v.i. to overthrow or be spilled.—pr.p. slop'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. slopped.—slop-ba'sin, slop-bowl n. basin or bowl for holding dregs from tea-cups.—slop'ply adv.—slop'piness n.—slop'py a. wet; muddy; weak; slovenly; untidy; mawkishly sentimental (O.E. sloppē).

slop (slop) n. a smock-frock; a night-gown;—pl. loose-fitting breeches; an overall; ready-made clothes (O.N. sloppr, a loose-fitting robe).

slop (slop) n. (Slang) policeman (a form of backslang from word police).

slope (slōp) n. upward or downward inclination; slant; side of hill; position of rifle resting on shoulder;—v.t. to form with slope; to place slanting;—v.i. to assume oblique direction; to be inclined; (Slang) to decamp; to make off.—slop'ing a. inclined from straight line or plane.—slope arm military command to place rifle on shoulder (O.E. slupan, to slip away).

slush (slush) n. soft mud; (Slang) sentimental gush; heavy blow;—v.t. (Slang) to hit wildly and violently (fr. slush).

slot (slot) n. broad flat wooden bar or slat, used for holding together larger pieces of timber (Dut. = a lock).

slot (slot) n. hollow or defile between two ridges or hills; wide ditch; slit out for reception of object or part of machine; slit where coins are inserted into automatic machines;—v.t. to make a slot in.—pr.p. slot'ting.—pa.t. and pa.p. slot'ted.—slot-machine n. automatic machine worked by insertion of coin (O.Fr. esciot).

slot (slōt) n. stage trap-door. Also slot.

sloth (slōth) n. lethargy; indolence.—slōth'ful a. inactive; sluggish; lazy.—slōth'fully adv.—slōth'fulness n. (O.E. slaceth, fr. slaw, slow).

slōth (slōth, slōth) n. group of edentate mammals of S. America which cling mostly to branches of trees (fr. slow).

slotter (slōt'ter) n. filth; dirt;—v.t. to defile; to foul; to pollute (fr. slattern).

slouch (slouch) n. ungraceful, stooping manner of walking or standing; shambling gait;—v.i. to shamble;—v.t. to depress; to cause to hang down loosely.—slouch'hat n. soft hat or trilby with a broad, flexible brim.—slouch'y a. inclined to slouch (etym. uncertain).

slough (slou) n. bog; swamp (O.E. slōh).

slough (sluf) n. cast-off outer skin, esp. of snake; dead mass of soft tissues which separates from healthy tissues in gangrene or ulcers;—v.t. to cast off, or shed, as a slough;—v.i. to separate as dead matter which forms over sore; to drop off (etym. uncertain).

Slovak (slō-vak') n. member of Slav people in northern Carpathians, closely related to Czechs; language spoken in Slovakia;—a. pert, to Slovaks. Also Slovak'ian.

sloven (slu-v'n) n. person careless of dress, or neglect of cleanliness; slattern; slut.—slōv'enliness n.—slōv'only a.—adv. in slovenish manner (etym. uncertain).

slow (slō) a. not swift; not quick in motion; gradual, indicating time later than true time; mentally sluggish; dull, wearisome.—adv. slowly;—v.t. to render slow; to retard; to reduce speed of;—v.i. to slacken speed.—slow'coach n. loiterer; laggard.—slow'ly adv.—slow'match n. fuse made so as to burn slowly, for firing mines, etc.—slow'motion n. and a. in cinematography, motion shown in exaggeratedly slow time.—slow'ness n.—slow'sighted, slow-witt'ed a. mentally slow, dull; apathetic.—slow in the uptake (Colloq.) slow-witt'ed (O.E. slaw, sluggish).

slow-worm (slō-wurm) n. blind-worm or grass-snake (O.E. slawwurm, a 'slayworm').

slubber (slub'vēr) v.t. to do slovenly or carelessly; to soil; to bedaub;—v.i. to slubber (Dut. slubberen).

sludge (sludj) n. mud which settles at bottom of waterways, of vessel containing water, or a shaft when drilling; semi-solid, slimy matter precipitated from sewage in sedimentation tank.—slud'gy a. muddy; murky; oozy, slushy (var. of slushy).

slue See slaw.

slug (slug) n. sluggish; hindrance; one of land-snails, a common pest in gardens.—slug-a-bed n. one rather fond of lying in bed; a sluggard.—slug'gard n. person habitually lazy, idle, and inactive; drone;—a. lazy, sluggish; slothful.—slug'ghish a. disinclined to exert oneself; habitually indolent; slothful; slow-moving.—slug'ghishly adv.—slug'ghishness n. (Scand.).

slug (slug) n. small thick disc of metal; a piece of metal fired from gun; solid line of type cast by linotype process (etym. uncertain).

slug (slug) v.t. to strike heavily; to slog;—n. heavy blow (O.E. slēan, to strike).

sluice (slōos) n. valve or shutter for regulating flow and volume of water from reservoir; flood-gate or water-gate; artificial channel along which stream flows; rough-and-ready wash; sluicing;—v.t. to provide with sluices; to wash out, or pour over with water; to wash by dipping one's head in free-running stream.—sluice-box n. trough used in gold-mining (O.Fr. escuisse).

slum (slum) n. squalid house, street, or quarter of town, characterised by gross overcrowding, dilapidation, poverty, vice and dirt;—v.t. to visit slums.—pr.p. slum'ming.—pa.t. and pa.p. slummed.—slum-clear'ance n. substitution of new houses for old, dilapidated buildings [etym. unknown].

slumber (slum'ber) v.t. to sleep lightly; to be in a state of negligence, sloth, or inactivity;—n. light sleep; doze.—slum'berer n.—slumberous, slum'brous a. inducing slumber or drowsiness; drowsy [O.E. sluma].

slummock (slum'ok) v.t. and v.i. to swallow hastily; to move awkwardly; to gabble [etym. unknown].

slump (slump) n. sudden, sharp fall in prices or volume of business done; industrial or financial depression;—v.t. to decline suddenly in value, to wane, or ebb; to sink suddenly when crossing snow, ice, boggy ground, etc. [etym. uncertain].

slump (slump) v.t. to lump together in a mass or as one;—a. gross; total, without detailing specific items [Dut. slump].

slung (slung) pa.t. and pa.p. of sling.

slunk (slunk) pa.t. and pa.p. of slink.

slur (slur) v.t. to pass over lightly; to bring into dispute; to depreciate; to insult; to blur type, in printing; to pronounce indistinctly; (Mus.) to sing or play in a smooth, gliding style; to run one into the other, as notes.—pr.p. slur'ring.—pa.t. and pa.p. slur'd.—n. slight mark or stain; stigma; reproach; implied insult; (Mus.) mark, thus (— or —) connecting notes that are to be sung to same syllable, or made in one continued breath; a tie [O. Dut. sluoren, to trail (in mud)].

slush (slush) n. half-melted snow mixed with mud, any greasy, pesty mass; trashy literature;—v.t. to sluce or flush a place with water.—slush'y a. [var. of sludge].

slut (slut) n. dirty, untidy woman; flatterer.—slut'tish a. untidy and dirty.—slut'tishly adv.—slut'tishness n. [M.E. slute].

slily (slily) a. artfully cunning; secretly mischievous.—slily, slily adv. in a slily manner.—sliness, sliness n. [O.N. sligr].

smack (smak) v.t. to make a loud, quick noise (with lips) as in kissing or after tasting; to slap loudly; to strike;—v.i. to make sharp, quick noise with lips;—n. quick, sharp noise, esp. with lips; a loud kiss; a slap [imit. origin].

smack (smak) v.t. to have a taste or flavour; to give a suggestion (of);—n. a slight taste [O.E. smæc, taste].

smack (smak) n. small sailing-vessel, usually for fishing [Dut. smak].

small (smaw) a. little in size, number, degree, etc.; not large; unimportant; short; weak; slender; mean.—n. small or slender part, esp. of back.—small'ish a. rather small.—small'ness n.—small's n.pl. at Oxford University, the first examination for the degree of B.A.; responses, (Collog.) small articles of clothing.—small'arms n.pl. hand firearms, e.g. rifles, pistols, etc.—small change, coins of small value, e.g. pennies, sixpences, etc.—small'talk n. gossip; light conversation [O.E. smawl].

smallpox (smaw'poke) n. infectious disease, characterised by fever and an eruption developing into pustules; variola [E. small; O.E. roc, a pustule].

smarm (smarm) v.t. and v.i. to anoint; to smooth, esp. hair; (Collog.) to fawn; to ingratiate.—smarm'y a. unctuous; fawning [etym. uncertain, perh. fr. smear].

smart (smart) n. sharp, stinging pain; (Fig.) pang of grief;—v.t. to feel such a pain; to be punished (with 'for');—a. causing a sharp, stinging pain; clever; active; shrewd; trim; neat; well-dressed; fashionable.—smart'y adv.—smart'ness n.—smarten (smart'n) v.t. and v.i. to make or become smart; to make brighter [O.E. smearian, to feel pain].

smash (smash) v.t. to break into pieces; to shatter; to hit hard; to ruin;—v.i. to break into pieces; to dash violently against; of a business firm, to fail;—n. crash; heavy blow; accident, wrecking vehicles; utter ruin; of business firm, bankruptcy.—smash'ing a. crushing; (Slang) excellent [fr. E. smash, to mix up].

smatter (smat'ter) v.t. to talk superficially;—smat'tering n. slight, superficial knowledge [etym. uncertain].

smear (smēr) v.t. to rub over with a greasy, oily, or sticky substance; to daub; to impute disgrace to;—n. mark made thus; stain;—smear'iness n.—smear'y a. marked with smears [O.E. smēru, fat].

smeddum (smeddum) n. fine powder; sagacity; quickness; spirit; mettle [O.E. smedema, fine flour].

smell (smel) n. sense of perceiving odours by nose; act of smelling; (unpleasant) odour; scent; perfume;—v.t. to perceive by nose; (Fig.) to suspect;—v.i. to use nose; to give out odour.—pr.p. smell'ing.—pa.p. and pa.t. smelled or smelt.—smell'ing n. the sense of smell.—smell'y a. having unpleasant smell.—smell'ing-salts n.pl. scented ammonium carbonate used to relieve faintness, headache, etc. [M.E. smel].

smelt (smelt) n. small, silvery fish of salmon family [O.E. smelt].

smelt (smelt) v.t. to melt or fuse ore in order to extract metal.—smelt'ery n. a place for smelting ores.—smelt'ing n. [Sw. smalta, to melt].

smew (smū) n. diving-bird, allied to the merganser [O.E. smec, smooth].

Smilax (smil'aks) n. genus of evergreen climbing shrubs (Gk. = bindweed).

smile (smil) v.t. to express pleasure, approval, amusement, contempt, irony, etc. by curving lips; to look happy;—v.i. to express by smile;—n. act of smiling; pleasant facial expression.—smil'ing a. cheerful; gay; joyous.—smil'ingly adv. [Sw. smila, to smile].

smirch (smirch) v.t. to smear over; to dirty; to soil; to stain; to bring disgrace upon;—n. stain [M.E. smēren, to smear].

smirk (smirk) v.t. to smile in an affected or conceited manner;—n. affected or silly smile [O.E. smērcian, to smile].

smite (smit) v.t. to infect; to mar;—n. infection; stain [O.E. smīthan, to spoil].

smite (smit) v.t. to hit hard; to strike with hand, fist, weapon, etc.; to defeat, to afflict;—v.i. to strike.—pa.p. smitten mit't'n.—pa.t. smote (smōt).—smite'ry n. [O.E. smītan, to smite].

smith (smith) n. one who shapes metal, esp. with hammer and anvil; blacksmith.—smith'y n. smith's workshop, forge [O.E. smīth].

smitherens (smīth'grēnz) n.pl. (Collog.) small bits. Also smith'er's [O.E. smīth].

smitten (smīt'n) pa.p. of smite.

smock (smok) n. woman's undergarment; a smock-frock.—smock-frock n. coarse linen smock worn over clothes by farm-labourers.—smock'ing n. gathering of dress, blouse, etc. into honeycomb pattern [O.E. smoc].

smog n. mixture of smoke and fog in atmosphere (from smoke and fog); smog mask n. worn for protection against smog.

smoke (smok) n. cloudy mass of suspended particles that rise from fire or anything burning; spell of tobacco-smoking. (Collog.) cigar or cigarette;—v.t. to consume (tobacco, opium, etc.) by smoking; to expose to smoke (esp. in curing fish, etc.);—v.i. to inhale and expel smoke of burning tobacco; to give off smoke.—smo'ker n. one who smokes tobacco, railway-carriage, in which smoking is permitted; smoking-concert.—smo'king n.—smo'kiness n.—smo'ky a. emitting smoke; filled with smoke; having colour, taste of smoke.—smo'kily adv.—smoke-ball, -bomb, -shell n. (Mil.) one emitting dense smoke to conceal operations.—smo'king-con'cert n. social gathering, for men only, at which smoking is allowed [O.E. smoca].

smolt (smôlt) n. young salmon when it first leaves the river for the sea.

smooth (smôôTH) a. not rough; level; polished; gently flowing; calm; steady in motion; plausible;—v.t. to make smooth; to polish; to calm; to soothe; to make easy;—adv. in a smooth manner.—smoothly adv.—smoothness n. state of being smooth [O.E. smoth].

smote (smôt) pa.p. and pa.t. of smite.

smother (smuTH'er) v.t. to destroy by depriving of air; to suffocate; to conceal;—v.t. to be suffocated; to be without air;—n. thick smoke or dust [O.E. smorian, to choke].

smoulder (smôld'gër) v.t. to burn slowly without flame; (Fig.) of feelings, esp. anger, resentment, etc., to exist inwardly [M.E. smolder, stifling smoke].

smudge (smuj) n. smear; stain; dirty mark; blot; smoky fire to drive off insects or protect fruit-trees from pests;—v.t. to smear; to make a dirty mark;—v.t. to become dirty or blurred.—smudgy a. [etym. uncertain].

smug (smug) a. very neat and prim; self-satisfied; complacent.—smugly adv.—smugness n. [L. Ger. smuk, neat].

smuggle (smuggl) v.t. to import or export goods secretly to evade customs duties; to bring in, or take out, secretly, esp. against regulations.—smuggler n.—smuggling n. [L. Ger. smuggeln].

smut (smut) n. black particle of dirt; spot caused by this; fungoid disease of cereals, characterised by blackening of ears of oats, barley, etc.; lewd or obscene talk or writing;—v.t. to blacken; to smudge.—pr.p. smut't'ing.—pa.p. and pa.t. smut't'ed.—smut't'y a. soiled with smut; obscene; lewd.—smut't'ly adv.—smut't'iness n. [etym. uncertain].

smutch (smuch) v.t. to blacken, as with soot, etc.;—n. dirty spot; stain; smudge [a form of smut].

snack (snak) n. share; slight, hasty meal.—snack-bar, coun'ter, -room n. part of restaurant for service of light, hurried meals (fr. snack).

snaffle (snaf'l) n. horse's bridle, with mouth-bit jointed in middle but without curb;—v.t. to put one on a horse [Dut. snafel, nose of animal].

snaffle (snaf'l) v.t. (Slang) to steal; to purloin [perh. fr. snap].

snag (snag) n. stump projecting from tree-trunk; stump or tree-trunk sticking up in a river, impeding passage of boats; any obstacle, drawback, or catch;—v.t. to catch on a snag; to clear of snags [O.N. snagi, a point].

snail (snål) n. slow-moving mollusc with spiral shell.—snail'ery n. place where edible snails are reared [O.E. snægel].

snake (snák) n. long, scaly, limbless reptile; serpent; treacherous person;—v.t. (U.S. Colloq.) to drag along, e.g. log.—snaky a. pert, to, or resembling, snake; full of snakes.—a snake in the grass (Fig.) hidden enemy [O.E. snaca].

snap (snap) v.t. to break abruptly; to crack; to seize suddenly; to snatch; to bite; to shut with click; (Photog.) to take snapshot of;—v.t. to break short; to try to bite; to utter sharp, cross words; to make a quick, sharp sound; to sparkle.—pr.p. snap'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. snapped.—n. act of seizing suddenly, esp. with teeth; bite; sudden breaking; quick, sharp sound; small spring catch, as of a bracelet; crisp gingerbread biscuit; short spell of frosty weather; (Photog.) short for snapshot; card game;—a. sudden; unprepared; without warning.—snapper n. one who snaps; kind of fresh-water turtle.—snappish a. apt to snap, as dog; short-tempered.—snappishness n.—snappy a. snappish; lively; brisk; (Colloq.) smartly dressed; quick.—snap'dragon n. (Bot.)

Antirrhinum; party game.—snap'shot n. hasty shot; photograph taken by giving instantaneous or very quick exposure [Dut. snappen].

snare (snår) n. running noose of cord or wire, used to trap animals or birds; a trap; anything by which one is deceived;—n.pl. (Mus.) catgut strings across lower head of slide-drum, to produce rattling sound;—v.t. to catch with snare; to entangle [O.N. snara].

snarl (snår) v.t. to growl like an angry dog; to speak in a surly manner;—n. growling sound; surly tone of voice.—snar'ler n. [limit. origin].

snarl (snår) n. tangle or knot of hair, wool, etc.; complication;—v.t. and v.i. to entangle or become entangled (fr. snare).

snatch (snach) v.t. to seize hastily or without permission; to grasp;—v.t. to make quick grab or bite (at);—n. quick grab; small bit or fragment [M.E. snachen].

sneak (snæk) v.t. to creep or steal away; to slink;—v.t. (Slang) to steal;—n. mean, cowardly fellow; tell-tale.—sneak'er n.—sneak'ers n.pl. (U.S.) light, soft-soled shoes.—sneak'ing a. mean; cowardly; secret.—sneak'ingly adv.—sneak'iness, sneak'ingness n. quality of being sneaky; slyness.—sneaky a. somewhat sneaking; mean; underhand [O.E. snican, to creep].

snee (snê) n. a large knife [Ger. schneiden, to cut].

sneer (snêr) v.t. to show contempt by facial expression, as by curling lips; to smile, speak, or write scornfully;—n. look of contempt or ridicule; scornful utterance.—sneer'er n.—sneer'ing a.—sneer'ingly adv. [etym. uncertain].

sneeze (snêz) v.t. to expel air through nose with sudden convulsive spasm and noise;—n. a sneezing [O.E. fnæcan].

snick (snik) n. small cut; notch; nick;—v.t. to cut; to notch; to clip; to hit cricket-ball with edge of bat [Scand. snikka, to cut].

snicker (snik'er) v.t. to laugh with small, audible catches of voice; to giggle;—n. half-suppressed laugh [limit. origin].

sniff (snif) v.t. to draw in breath through nose with sharp hiss; to express disapproval, etc. by sniffing; to snuff;—v.t. to take up through nose; to smell;—n. act of sniffing; that which is sniffed.—sniff'le v.t. to sniff noisily through nose; to snuffle.—sniff'ler n. one who snuffles.—snift v.t. to sniff; to snuff.—snift'er v.t. to sniff; to snuffle;—n. a sniff; (Slang) small drink, esp. of whisky [limit. origin].

snigger (snig'er) v.t. to laugh in half-suppressed manner; to giggle;—n. sly, suppressed laugh; to giggle [limit. origin].

snip (snip) v.t. to clip off with scissors; to cut;—n. a single, quick stroke, as with scissors; a bit cut off; (Slang) in betting, certainty; (Colloq.) tailor.—pr.p. snip'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. snipped.—snip'per n. one who snips.—snip'pet n. little bit snipped off; a fragment.—snips n.pl. strong hand-shears for cutting sheet-metal [Dut. snippen].

snipe (snip) n. long-billed gamebird, frequenting marshy places; simpaton;—v.t. to shoot snipe; (Mit.) to shoot from cover;—v.t. to hit by so shooting.—pr.p. snip'ing.—pa.p. and pa.t. sniped.—sniper n. [O.N. snipa].

snivel (sniv'l) n. running at the nose; sham emotion; whining, as of child.—v.t. to run at the nose; to show real or sham sorrow; to cry, or whine, as children.—pr.p. sniv'elling.—pa.p. and pa.t. sniv'elled.—sniv'eller n. [O.E. snifan].

snob (snob) n. one who judges by social rank or wealth rather than merit; one who ignores those whom he considers his social inferiors; cobbler.—snob'bery n.—snob'bish a.—snob'bishly adv.—snob'bishness n. [etym. uncertain].

snood (snôod) n. ribbon formerly worn to hold back hair; fillet; fine, short line fixing a fish-hook to long line [O.E. snod].

snook (snôók) n. vulgar gesture of contempt, made by placing thumb at point of nose and extending fingers. —to cock a snook, to make this gesture [etym. uncertain].

snooker (snóó'kqr) n. game resembling pool or pyramids [etym. uncertain].

snoop (snóóp) v.i. (Colloq.) to investigate slyly; to pry into; —n. one who acts thus. Also snoop'er [perh. fr. snook].

snooze (snóoz) n. short sleep; nap; —v.i. to take a snooze [perh. fr. snore].

snore (snór) v.i. to breathe heavily and noisily during sleep; —n. such noisy breathing. —snor'er n. [O.E. snora, a snore].

snort (snort) v.i. to force air with violence through nose, as horses; to express feeling by such a sound; —v.t. to express by snort; —n. snorting sound [imit. origin].

snout (snót) n. (P'alg.) mucus secreted in nose; mean fellow. —snout'y a. filthy, esp. if due to snote; mean; (Colloq.) offended; petulant; —n. (Navy Slang) a midshipman. —snout'ily adv. [O.E. gemot].

snout (snout) n. projecting nose of animal, esp. of pig; any projection like a snout [O.E. snut].

snow (snó) n. frozen vapour which falls in flakes; snowfall; mass of flakes on the ground; (Slang) narcotic drug, in powdered form; —v.t. to let fall or throw down like snow; to cover with snow. —snow'y a. covered with, full of snow; white. —snow'yly adv. —snow'iness n. —snow'ball n. round mass of snow pressed or rolled together; shrub bearing ball-like clusters of white flowers, guelder-rose; anything increasing like snowball, esp. mass movement where every helper brings in others; —t.t. to pelt with snowballs; —v.t. to throw snowballs. —snow'blind'ness n. temporary blindness caused by glare of sun from snow. —snow'bound a. shut in by heavy snowfall. —snow'drift n. mass of snow driven into a heap by wind. —snow'drop n. bulbous plant bearing white flowers in early spring. —snow'fall n. falling of snow; amount of snow falling in given time or place. —snow'field n. wide expanse of snow-covered territory. —snow'flake n. small, thin, feathery mass of snow. —snow'line n. line on mountain above which snow never melts. —snow'man n. figure of man shaped out of snow. —snow'plough n. machine for clearing snow from roads, etc. —snow'shoe n. light, wooden framework with interwoven leather thongs for travelling over deep snow. —snow'storm n. heavy fall of snow. —snow'y a. as white as snow [O.E. snaw].

snub (snub) v.t. to check or rebuke with rudeness or indifference; to repress intentionally; —n. intentional slight; rebuff; check; —a. of nose, short, flat, and slightly turned-up [O.N. snubba, to rebuke].

snuff (snuff) n. clumped part of wick of candle or lamp; —v.t. to nip this off; to extinguish. —snuff'ar n.pl. instrument resembling scissors, for nipping off snuff from wick [M.E. snuffel].

snuff (snuff) v.t. to draw up or through nostrils; to snuff; to smell; to inhale; —t.t. to draw air or snuff into nose; to take snuff; —n. powdered tobacco for inhaling through nose; snuff. —snuff'er n. one who snuffs. —snuff'mull n. snuff-box [Dut. snuffen].

snuffle (snuffl) v.t. to breathe hard through nose, esp. when obstructed; to snuff continually; to speak through nose; —n. act of snuffling; a nasal twang. —snuff'ler n. one who snuffles [fr. snuff].

snug (snug) a. cosy; trim; comfortable; sheltered. —snug'ly adv. —snug'ness n. cosiness. —snug'gery n. a cosy room. —snug'gle v.t. to lie close to, for warmth or from affection; to nestle [Scand.].

so (só) adv. in this manner or degree; in such manner; very; to such degree (with as or that coming after); the case being such; accordingly; —conj. therefore; in case that; —interj. well! —so long! (Colloq.) good-bye. —so-so a. (Colloq.) fair; middling; tolerable; —adv. fairly; tolerably [O.E. swa].

soak (sók) v.t. to steep; to wet thoroughly; —v.i. to lie steeped in water or other fluid; to drink to excess; —n. a soaking; the act of soaking; heavy rain; a hard drinker. —soak'er n. one who soaks; a habitual drinker. —soak'ing a. wetting thoroughly; drenching; —n. a drenching by rain [O.E. socian].

soap (sóp) n. compound of oil or fat with alkali, used in washing; —v.t. and v.i. to apply soap to. —soap'y a. pert. to soap; covered with soap; (Fig.) flattering; oily. —soap'iness n. —soap'bub'ble n. iridescent bubble from soap-suds. —soap'op'era n. (U.S. Colloq.) highly dramatised radio serial. —soap'stone n. soft, smooth stone, with soapy feel; steatite; talc. —soap'suds n.pl. foamy mixture of soap and water; suds [O.E. sape].

soar (sór) v.i. to fly high; to mount into air; (Fig.) to rise far above normal [L. ex, out of; aura, the air].

sob (sób) v.i. to catch breath, esp. in weeping; to sigh with convulsive motion. —pr.p. sob'bing. —pa.p. and pa.t. sobbed. —n. convulsive catching of breath, esp. in weeping or sighing [imit. origin].

sober (só-ber) a. temperate; not intoxicated; exercising cool reason; subdued; —t.t. and v.t. to make or become sober. —soberly adv. —so'berness n. state of being sober. —sobriety (só-bríe-ti) n. habit of being sober; habitual temperance; moderation; seriousness; calmness [L. sobrius].

sobriquet (só-bré-ká') n. nickname; assumed name. Also soubriquet (sóó-) [Fr.].

soccer (sók'er) n. (Colloq.) association football [fr. soc in association].

social (só-shá-bl) a. inclined to be friendly; fond of company. —so'ciably adv. —so'ciableness n. —so'ciability n. friendliness; gummity [L. socius, a companion].

social (só-shá-bl) a. pert. to society; affecting public interest; pert. to upper classes, world of fashion, etc.; living in communities, as ants; sociable; companionable; convivial; —n. social meeting. —so'ciably adv. —socialite (só-shál-ít) n. member of fashionable society [L. socius, a companion].

socialism (só-shál-izm) n. economic and political system, aiming at public or government ownership of means of production, etc. —so'cialise v.t. to make social; to transfer industry, etc. from private to public or government ownership. —socialisation n. —so'cialise a. pert. to socialism. —socialist's a. —socialist'ically adv. [L. socius, a companion].

society (só-síe-ti) n. people in general; community; people of culture and good breeding in any community; the upper classes; the world of fashion; fellowship; intercourse; a company; an association; a club [L. socius, a companion].

sociology (só-shí-ol-ó-jí) n. science of origin, development, and nature of problems confronting society; social science. —so'ciol'og'ical a. —so'ciol'ogist n. a student of sociology [L. socius, a companion; Grk. logos, a discourse].

sock (sók) n. orig. a low-heeled shoe worn by actor of comedy; half-socking, esp. for men [L. soccus, a light shoe].

sock (sók) v.t. (Slang) to hit hard; to thrash. socket (sók'et) n. opening or hollow into which anything is fitted; cavity of eye, tooth, etc.; —v.t. to provide with, or place in, sockets [dim. of sock].

Socrates (sók'rá-téz) n. a famous Greek philosopher (469-399 B.C.). —Socrat'ic a. —Socrat'ically adv. —Socratic method, teaching by series of questions and answers.

sod (sod) n. flat piece of earth with grass; turf [etym. uncertain].

soda (só-da) n. name applied to various compounds of sodium, e.g. baking-soda, caustic soda, washing-soda. (See sodium.) (Colloq.) soda-water. —so da-toum'ain n. case for holding soda-water; shop selling soft drinks, ices, etc. —so da-wa'ter n. drink made by charging water with carbonic acid gas [It. fr. L. solidus, firm].

sodality (sô-dal'i-ti) n. fraternity; a religious association, esp. of members of the R.C. Church [L. sodalitas, a comrade].

sodden (sod'dn) a. soaked; soft with moisture; dull and heavy; stupid [orig. pa.p. of seethe].

sodium (sô'di-um) n. silvery-white metallic alkaline element, the base of soda (symbol, Na. fr. L. natrium).—sodium bicarbonate, compound of sodium and carbon, used in cooking, medicine, etc.; baking-soda.—sodium carbonate, washing-soda.—sodium chloride, common household salt [fr. soda].

Sodom (sod'um) n. (Bib.) a city of ancient Palestine, consumed by fire, together with Gomorrah, for its wickedness.—sod'omite (Vulg. abbrev. sod) n. one guilty of sodomy.—sod'omy n. unnatural sexual intercourse, esp. between males.

sota (sô'fa) n. long, padded couch, with raised back [formerly sopha, fr. Ar. suffah, a bench].

soft (soft) a. yielding easily to pressure; not hard; easily shaped or molded; smooth; gentle; melodious; quiet; susceptible; oversentimental; weak; weak in intellect; not astringent; containing no alcohol; in phonetics, esp. of consonants 'o' and 'g,' pronounced with a sibilant sound;—adv. softly; quietly.—interf. hold! stop! not so fast.—soft'ish a. somewhat soft.—soft'ly adv. quietly.—soft'ness n.—soft-head'ed a. weak in intellect.—soft-heart'ed a. kind; gentle; merciful [O.E. softe].

softball (soft'bawl) n. variant of the game of baseball [soft and ball].

soften (sof'n) v.t. to make soft or softer; to lighten; to mitigate; to tone down; to make less loud;—v.i. to become soft or softer.—soft'ening n. act, process, or result of becoming soft or softer [O.E. softe].

soggy (sog'gi) a. soaked with water; sodden [Icel. soggr, damp].

soigné (swan'yâ) a. well-finished; trim; neat; exquisitely groomed [Fr.].

soil (soil) v.t. to make dirty; to defile; to stain;—v.i. to become dirty; to show stains;—n. dirty mark [O.Fr. soltier, perh. fr. L. sus, a pig].

soil (soil) n. top layer of earth's surface; earth, as food for plants [L. solum, the ground].

soirée (swâ-râ') n. a social evening; a reception [Fr. = evening].

sojourn (sô'jurn, so-jurn') v.i. originally, to stay for a day; to dwell for a time;—n. short stay [L. sub, under; diurnus, of a day].

sol (sol) n. (Mus.) the fifth note in the sol-fa notation. Also sol.

Sol (sol) n. the sun [L. = the sun].

solace (sol'as) n. comfort in grief; consolation;—v.t. to console [L. solari, to comfort].

solan (sô'lan) n. large sea-bird like a goose; a gannet. Also so'lan-goose [O.N. sula].

solar (sô'lar) a. pert. to, caused by, measured by sun.—so'larise v.i. and v.t. to expose to sun's rays.—solarium (sô-lar'i-um) n. room or balcony, esp. in hospital, etc. adapted for sun-bathing.—pl. solar'ia.—solar plexus (Med.) network of nerve tissue and fibres at back of stomach.—solar system, sun and nine planets revolving round it [L. sol, the sun].

solatium (sô-lâ'shi-um) n. (Law) money compensation, awarded as a solace for wounded feelings [L. = solace].

sold (sôld) pa.p. and pa.t. of sell.

solder (sôl'der, sôl'dgr, sôl'dgr) n. easily melted alloy for joining metals;—v.t. to join or mend with solder [L. solidare, to make solid].

soldier (sôl'djer) n. man engaged in military service; private or N.C.O. as distinguished from commissioned officer.—sold'ierly n. soldiers collectively; troops.—soldier of fortune, one willing to serve in army of any country; military adventurer [L. solidus, a coin = the pay of a soldier].

sole (sôl) n. flat of the foot; under part of boot or shoe; lower part of anything, or that on which anything rests; small flat-fish, used for food;—v.t. to supply with a sole [L. solea].

sole (sôl) a. being, or acting, without another; alone; only.—sole'ly adv. alone; only.—sole'ness n. [L. solus, alone].

solecism (sô-le-sizm) n. gross breach of grammar; a breach of etiquette.—so'leis't n. one guilty of solecisms.—soleis't'ic, soleis't'ical a.—soleis't'ically adv. [Gk. soleikos, speaking incorrectly].

solemn (sôl'em) a. marked, or performed, with religious ceremony; impressive; grave; inspiring awe or dread.—so'lemnly adv.—so'lemnness n.—so'lemnise v.t. to perform with ritual ceremony or legal form; to celebrate, esp. festival.—solemnisa'tion n.—solemnity (sôl-em'ni-ti) n. sacred rite or formal celebration; gravity; seriousness [L. solemnis, yearly, solemn].

Solen (sô'len) n. genus of bivalve molluscs having a long, slender shell; razor-shell.—so'lenoid n. (Elect.) cylindrical coil of wire (without fixed iron core) forming electromagnet when carrying current [Gk. sôlên, a channel pipe; eidô, form].

sol-fa (sol-fa') v.t. to sing notes of scale with syllables sol, fa, etc.;—n. use of these syllables in singing;—a. pert. to system of musical notation [It.].

solicit (so-lis'it) v.t. to ask with earnestness; to petition; to entreat;—v.i. to try to obtain, as custom, etc.; to accost.—solic'itant n. one who solicits; petitioner.—solicita'tion n. earnest request; invitation; petition.—solic'itous a. anxious; eager; earnest.—solic'itously adv.—solic'itousness, solic'itude n. being solicitous; uneasiness; anxiety; concern; carefulness [L. solicitare, to stir up].

solicitor (so-lis'i-tor) n. one who solicits; person legally qualified to represent another in a court of law.—Solicitor-General, law officer of Crown, ranking below Attorney-General (in England) or below Lord Advocate (in Scotland) [L. solicitare, to stir up].

solid (sol'id) a. not in a liquid or gaseous state; hard; compact; firm; not hollow; dependable; sound; unanimous; (Geom.) having length, breadth, and thickness; (Colloq.) whole; complete.—n. firm, compact body; (Geom.) that which has length, breadth and thickness; (Physics) substance which is not liquid nor gaseous.—solid'ly adv. firmly; unyieldingly; unanimously.—solidar'ity n. state of being solidly united in support of common interests, rights, etc.—solid'ity n. state of being solid; compactness; hardness; firmness.—solid'ness n. [L. solidus, firm].

solidify (so-lid'i-fi) v.t. to make solid or firm; to harden;—v.t. to become solid [L. solidus, firm; facere, to make].

solidus (sô'l-i-dus) n. oblique stroke (/) denoting English shilling.—pl. sol'id [L.].

soliloquy (so-lil'o-kwi) n. talking to oneself; monologue, esp. by actor alone on stage.—solil'oquise v.t. to recite a soliloquy [L. solus, alone; loqui, to speak].

solitaire (sô-l-i-târ') n. single gem, esp. diamond, set by itself; game for one person, played on a board with marbles; (Cards) game for one, patience; reclusive [Fr. fr. L. solus, alone].

solitary (sol'i-tar-i) a. living alone; done or spent alone; lonely; secluded; desolate; single; sole;—n. one who lives in solitude; hermit; reclusive.—sol'itarily adv.—sol'itariness n.—sol'itude n. being alone; loneliness; lonely place or life [L. solus, alone].

solo (sô'lô) n. musical composition played or sung by one person.—pl. solos (sô'lôz) or soll (sô'lô); in aviation, flight by single person; short for—so'lo-whist n. card game;—a. done or performed by one person; unaccompanied; alone.—solis't (sô'lô-lst) n. (Mus.) performer of solos [It. fr. L. solus, alone].

Solomon's seal, figure in form of six-pointed star, made by interlacing of two triangles; (Bot.) plant like lily of the valley.

solstice (sol'stis) n. either of two points in sun's path at which sun is farthest N. or S. from equator; they mark mid-summer and mid-winter respectively. —solstitial (sol-istich'al) a. [L. sol, the sun; sistere, to cause to stand].

soluble (sol'u-bil) a. capable of being dissolved in a liquid; able to be solved or explained. —solubility n. [L. solubilis, fr. solvere, to loosen].

solus (sô'lus) a. as a stage direction, alone. —fem. so'la [L. = alone].

solution (so-lû'shun) n. process of finding answer to problem; answer itself; dissolving gas, liquid, or solid, esp. in liquid; mixture so obtained; commonly, a mixture of a solid in a liquid; separation; disintegration; —v.t. to coat with solution, as a puncture. —solute n. substance dissolved in a solution [L. solvere, solutum, to loosen].

solve (solv) v.t. orig. to loosen or separate parts of; to work out; to find the answer to; to explain; to make clear. —solvable a. capable of explanation; able to be worked out. —solver n. one who solves. —solvent a. having the power to dissolve another substance; able to pay all one's debts; —n. substance, able to dissolve another substance. —solveny n. state of being able to pay one's debts [L. solvere, to loosen].

somatic (sô-mat'ik) a. pert. to the human body; corporeal; physical. Also somat'ic [Gk. soma, a body].

sombre (sômbré) a. dark; gloomy; melancholy. —sombrély adv. —som'breness n. darkness; gloominess. —som'brous a. (Poet.) sombre. —som'brously adv. [Fr. fr. L. sub umbra, under shade]. [felt hat (Sp. umbra, shade)].

sombrero (som-brâ'rô) n. broad-brimmed some (sum) a. denoting an indefinite number, amount, or extent, amount of; one or other; a certain; particular; approximately; (Colloq.) remarkable, —(prom.) quantity; portion; particular persons not named; —adv. approximately. —somebody n. person not definitely known; person of importance. —some'how adv. in one way or another; by any means. —someone n. somebody; person not named. —some'such a. denoting person or thing of the kind specified. —something n. thing not clearly defined; an indefinite quantity or degree; —adv. in some degree. —some'time adv. at a time not definitely stated; at one time or other; at a future time; —a. former. —some'times adv. at times; now and then; occasionally; at intervals. —some'what n. indefinite amount or degree, more or less; something; —adv. to some extent; rather. —some'where adv. in an unnamed or unknown place [O.E. sum].

somersault (sum'er-sawlt) n. leap in which one turns heels over head; —v.t. to make such a leap. Also somerses (sum'er-set) [L. supra, above; saltus, a leap].

somite (sô'mit) n. segment of body of a vertebrate or articulate animal. —somit'e a. [Gk. soma, a body].

somnambulate (som-nam'bû-lât) v.t. to walk in one's sleep. —somnambula'tion n. the act of walking in one's sleep. —somnam'bulism n. habit of walking in one's sleep; sleep-walking. —somnam'bulist n. a sleep-walker. —somnam'bulist'a a. [L. somnus, sleep; ambulare, to walk].

somnolent (som-ni-fû-shent) a. inducing sleep; —n. soporific. —somnif'erous a. inducing sleep. —somnif'ic a. causing sleep [L. somnus, sleep; facere, to make; ferre, to bring].

somnolent (som'no-lent) a. sleepy; drowsy. —som'nolently adv. drowsily. —som'nolence n. sleepiness; drowsiness. Also som'nolency. —somnol'ent a. half-asleep [L. somnus, sleep].

son (sun) n. male child; male descendant, however distant; term of affection; native of a place; disciple. —son-in-law n. the husband of one's daughter [O.E. sunu].

sonant (sô'nant) a. pert. to sound; (Phonetics) of certain alphabetic sounds, voiced; —n. letter as uttered. —so'naney n. [L. sonare, to sound].

sonata (so-nâ'tâ) n. a musical composition in three or four movements. —sonatina (so-nâ'tînâ) n. a short sonata [It. fr. L. sonare, to sound].

song (song) n. singing; poem, or piece of poetry, esp. if set to music; piece of music to be sung; musical sounds made by birds; (Colloq.) a mere trifle. —song'bird n. a singing bird. —song'ster n. (fem. song'stress) one who sings a song-bird [O.E. sang, fr. singan, to sing].

sonnet (son'et) n. poem of fourteen lines of iambic pentameter, with a definite rhyme scheme. —sonneteer n. a writer of sonnets [It. sonetto, fr. L. sonus, a sound].

sonorous (so-nô'rûs) a. giving out a deep, loud sound when struck; resonant; high-sounding. —sonor'ously adv. —sonor'ity, sonor'ousness n. [L. sonorus, noisy].

soon (sôon) adv. in a short time; shortly; without delay; early; willingly. —as soon as, immediately after [O.E. sona, at once].

soot (soot) n. a black powdery substance formed by burning of coal, etc.; —v.t. to cover with soot. —soot'y a. pert. to, or like, soot; covered with soot; black; dingy; dirty. —soot'iness n. [O.E. soth].

sooth (soôth) n. truth; reality; —a. true; faithful. —sooth'sayer n. one who claims to be able to foretell future. —sooth'saying n. [O.E. soth, true].

soothe (sôôth) v.t. to please with soft words or kind actions; to calm; to comfort; to allay, as pain. —sooth'ing a. —sooth'ingly adv. [O.E. sothian, to show to be true].

sop (sop) n. piece of bread, etc., dipped in a liquid; anything given to pacify or quieten; bribe; —v.t. to steep in liquid. —pp. sop'ping. —pa.p. and pa.l. sopped. —sop'ping a. soaked; wet through. —sop'py a. soaked; (Colloq.) ridiculously sentimental; sloppy. —to throw a sop to Cerberus, to placate by giving a bribe, etc. [O.E. sopp, fr. sipan, to sip].

sophism (sof'izm) n. specious argument; clever but fallacious reasoning. —soph'is orig. in ancient Greece, teacher of logic, rhetoric, philosophy; one who uses fallacious arguments or who quibbles. —soph'istry n. practice of sophists. —sophis'tic, sophis'tical a. —sophis'tically adv. —sophis'tice v.t. to deceive by using sophisms; to make artificial; to falsify; to adulterate. —sophis'ticate a. wise in ways of the world; not genuine; artificial. —sophis'tication n. [Gk. sophisma, fr. sophos, wise].

sophister (sof'is-ter) n. formerly, university student after first year. —sophomore (sof'ô-môr) n. (U.S.) second year student of university, college, or high school [Gk. sophos, wise].

sopor (sô'por) n. coma. —soporif'ic a. causing or inducing sleep; —n. drug, which induces deep sleep. —soporif'erous, sopor'ous, sopor'ous a. causing sleep, sleepy. —soporif'erously adv. —soporif'erousness n. [L. sopor, deep sleep; facere, to make].

soprano (sô-prânô) n. highest type of female or boy's voice; soprano singer. —pl. sopra'nos, soprani (sô-prân'i) [It. fr. sopra, above].

sorcery (sor'ser-i) n. witchcraft; magic; enchantment. —sor'cerer n. a magician. —fem. sor'ceress. —sor'cery [L. sorcere, to cast lots].

sordid (so. did) a. filthy; squalid; meanly avaricious. —sor'didly adv. —sor'didness n. [L. sordidus, dirty].

sore (sôr) a. painful when touched; causing pain; tender; severe; intense; distressed; grieved; angry; —adv. painfully, grievously; intensely; —n. place where pain is felt; diseased, injured, or bruised spot on body; ulcer; boil. —sore'ly adv. —sore'ness n. [O.E. sar].

sorghum (sor-'gum) n. cane-like grasses, including millet; Chinese sugar-cane; molasses [etym. uncertain].

Soroptimist (sor-op'tim-ist) n. member of women's Rotary club [L. soror, sister, and optimist].

sororal (so-rô-'ral) a. pert. to sisters; sisterly. —sororicide n. murder, or murder of, of sister. —sorority n. (U.S.) a girls' or women's society [L. soror, a sister].

sorosis (so-rô-'sis) n. compound fleshy fruit, e.g. pineapple [Gk. sôros, heap].

sorrel (sor-'el) n. meadow plant with sour taste [O.Fr. surelle].

sorrel (sor-'el) a. reddish-brown; —n. (horse of) reddish-brown colour [O.Fr. sorel].

sorrow (sor-'ô) n. pain of mind; grief; sadness; distress; cause of grief, etc.; —v.i. to feel pain of mind; to grieve. —sorrower n. —sorrowful a. causing sorrow; sad; unhappy. —sorrowfully adv. —sorrowfulness n. [O.E. sorh].

sorry (sor-'i) a. feeling regret; pained in mind; mean; shabby; wretched; worthless. —sorryly adv. —sorryness n. [O.E. sarig].

sort (sort) n. kind or class; persons or things having same qualities; quality; character; order or rank; —v.i. to classify; to put in order. —sort'ern n. —of a sort, of sorts, of middling quality; not up to standard. —out of sorts, unwell [L. sors, a share, a lot].

sortie (sor-'tô) n. sally by besieged forces to attack besiegers; flight by warplane [Fr. sortir, to go out].

S. O. S. (es-ô-'es) n. international code-signal call of distress, esp. by wireless in Morse (... — — ...); any desperate appeal for help.

sot (sot) n. confirmed drunkard. —sot'ish a. pert. to sot; stupid through drink [Fr. sot, foolish].

sotto voce (sot-'tô vô-'châ) adv. under one's breath [It. sotto, under; voce, the voice].

sou (sô) n. former French coin of various values; French halfpenny [Fr. fr. L. solidus, a coin].

soubrette (sô-'bret') n. pert, coquettish maid-servant in French comedy [Fr.].

soubriquet See sobriquet.

soufflé (sô-'flâ) n. a delicate dish made from whites of eggs beaten to a froth, flavoured, and baked [Fr. souffler, to blow].

sough (suf, sou, Scol. sooh) n. low murmuring, sighing, or whistling sound, as of the wind through trees; —v.i. to make this sound [O.E. suogan, to resound].

sought (sawt) pa.p. and pa.t. of seek.

soul (sôl) n. spiritual and immortal part of human being; seat of emotion, sentiment, and aspiration; the centre of moral and intellectual powers; vigour; energy; spirit; the essence; the moving spirit; a human being. —soul'ful a. full of soul, emotion, or sentiment; expressing elevated feeling. —soul'fully adv. —soul'less a. without a soul; not inspired; prosaic [O.E. sawol].

sound (sound) a. healthy; in good condition; solid; entire; profound; free from error; reliable; solvent, as a business firm; —adv. soundly; completely. —sound'ly adv. thoroughly. —sound'ness n. [O.E. gesund, healthy].

sound (sound) n. long, narrow stretch of water; channel; strait [O.E. sunð].

sound (sound) v.i. to find depth of water, by means of line and lead; (Fig.) to try to discover the opinions of; —v.i. to find depth of water; of a whale, to dive suddenly. —sound'ing n. measuring the depth of water, esp. with a weighted line; measurement obtained [Fr. sonder].

sound (sound) n. that which is heard; the distance to which a sound is heard; earshot; a noise; a report; —v.i. to cause to make a sound; to utter; to play on; to signal; to examine with stethoscope; —v.i. to make a noise; to be conveyed by sound; to appear; to seem. —sound'ing a. making a sound; resonant. —sound barrier (Aero.) colloq. term for phenomena occurring when an aircraft reaches speed in excess of that of sound. —sound'track n. strip on one side of cinema film which records sound vibrations and so produces dialogue. —sound-waves n.pl. vibrations of the air producing sound. —sound'ing-board, sound'ing-box n. board or box which reinforces sound from musical instrument; canopy over pulpit for directing voice towards the congregation [L. sonus].

soup (sôop) n. liquid food made by boiling meat or vegetables. —to be in the soup (Slang) to be in serious trouble [Fr. soupe, fr. souper, to sup].

soupçon (sôop-sông') n. suspicion; hence, very small quantity; a taste [Fr.].

sour (sour) a. acid; having a sharp taste; pungent; rancid; of milk, turned; of soil, cold and wet; (Fig.) cross; —v.i. and v.t. to make or become sour. —soured a. embittered; aggrieved. —sour'ly adv. —sour'ness n. [O.E. sur]. [stream] [L. surgere, to rise].

source (sôrs) n. spring; fountain; origin (of sour'dough (sôur-'dô) n. batter of flour and water left till it sours or ferments, then baked; (U.S.) an old-timer, esp. in Alaska (sour and dough).

souse (sous) v.i. to steep in brine; to pickle; to plunge into a liquid; to soak; —n. a pickle made with salt; brine; anything steeped in it; a drenching [form of sauce, fr. L. sal, salt].

soutane (sôo-'tan') n. gown worn by R.C. priests; cassock [L. sutulus, beneath].

south (south) n. cardinal point of compass opposite north; region lying to that side; —a. pert. to, or coming from, the south; —adv. towards the south; —v.i. to move towards the south. —south'erly a. (su'til-'er-ll) a. pert. to south. —south'ern a. in, from, or towards, the south. —south'erner n. native of south of a country, etc. —south'ernly adv. towards the south. —south'ernmost (also south'ermost, south' most) a. lying farthest towards the south. —south'ward a. and adv. towards south; —n. southern direction. —south'wardly a. and adv. —south'wards adv. —sou'-west'er (or south' west'er) n. a strong wind from south-west; waterproof hat [O.E. suth].

southernwood (su'til-'er-wood) n. an aromatic plant, allied to wormwood [E. southern and wood].

souvenir (sôo-'ve-nêr', sôo-'ven-'er) n. a keepsake; a memento [Fr. souvenir, to remind].

sovereign (suv-'ran, sov-'ran, suv-'er-in, sov-'er-in) n. ruler; British gold coin = one pound sterling = 20 shillings; —a. supreme in power; chief; efficacious in highest degree. —sov'erainty n. right to exercise supreme power [O.Fr. soverain, fr. L. supra, above].

Soviet (sov-'yet, sô-'vi-et) n. council. —Sov'iet n. political body, consisting of representatives of workers and peasants, elected to local municipalities, regional councils, etc. and sending delegates to higher congresses. Also a. —Soviet Union, short for the 'Union of Socialist Soviet Republics', i.e. Russia; —abbrev. U.S.S.R. [Russ. = a council].

sow (sou) n. female pig; in smelting, bar of cast iron [O.E. sugu].

sow (sô) v.i. to scatter or deposit (seed); to spread abroad; to disseminate; —v.t. to scatter seed. —pa.p. sown (sôn) or sowed (sôd). —pa.i. sowed. —sow'er n. [O.E. sawian].

soy (sol) n. sauce made from soy-bean (soya-bean). —soy'bean, soy'a-bean n. seed of leguminous plant of Far East, yielding oil (for margarine), flour, cattle fodder, and a fertiliser [Jap. shoyu].

Spa (spâ) n. inland watering-place in Belgium. —spa n. any place with mineral spring.

space (spâs) n. expanse of universe; area; room; period of time; extent; empty place; —v.t. to place at intervals. —spa'cious (spâ'shus) a. roomy; capacious; extensive.

spaciously adv.—spaciousness n. [Fr. espace, fr. L. spatium].

spade (spād) n. digging-tool, with flat blade and long handle;—v.t. to dig with spade.—spade-work n. tollsome work preliminary to main task [O.E. spadu].

spade (spād) n. (Cards) one of two black suits, marked by figure like a pointed spade [Sp. espada, a sword].

spaghetti (spa-get'ti) n. foodstuff resembling macaroni but thinner [It. spago, cord].

spake (spāk) pa.t. (Arch.) of speak.

Spam (spam) n. chopped, spiced ham [Proprietary name. fr. spiced ham].

span (span) pa.t. of spln.

span (span) n. distance between thumb and little finger, when fingers are fully extended; this distance as measure = 9 in.; short distance or period of time; distance between supports of arch, roof, etc.; of aeroplane, distance from wing-tip to wing-tip; pair, of horses or oxen harnessed together;—v.t. to reach from one side of to the other; to extend across.—pr.p. span'ning.—pa.p. and pa.t. spanned.—span'ner n. one who spans; tool for tightening screw-nuts; a wrench [O.E. spanni].

spandrel (span-drel) n. (Arch.) the space between outer curves of arch and square head over it; ornamental design in corner of postage-stamp [etym. uncertain].

spangle (span-g'l) n. a small piece of glittering metal, used to ornament dresses;—v.t. to adorn with spangles;—v.i. to glitter [O.E. spanng, a buckle].

Spaniard (span-iv-er) n. native of Spain.—Span'ish a. of, or pert. to, Spain.—n. language of Spain.—Spanish Main, mainland of S. America bordering Caribbean Sea.

spaniel (span-iel) n. breed of dogs, with long, drooping ears; fawning person [O.Fr. espagnuel, Spanish].

spank (spank) v.t. to move with vigour or spirit.—spank'ing a. moving with quick, lively step; dashing.—spank'er n. fast-going horse, ship, etc.; (Naut.) fore-and-aft sail attached to the mast nearest the stern [Dan. spanke, to strut].

spank (spank) v.t. to strike with flat of hand; to slap;—n. slap [limit. origin].

spar (spär) v.t. to fight with the fists, in fun or in earnest; to fight with spurs on, as in cock-fighting; to dispute, esp. in fun.—pr.p. spar'ring.—pa.p. and pa.t. sparred [etym. uncertain].

spar (spär) n. pole or beam, esp. as part of spar (spär) n. crystalline mineral which breaks into smooth layers, and has some degree of lustre [O.E. spacellan, gypsum].

spare (spär) v.t. and v.t. to use frugally; to do without; to save; to omit; to leave unharmed; to give away;—a. frugal; scanty; scarce; parsimonious; thin; lean; additional; in reserve; not in use;—n. that which is held in reserve.—pl. spares or spare-parts, duplicate parts of a machine.—spare'y adv.—spare'ness n. thinness; leanness.—spar'ing a. frugal; saving; scanty; merciful.—spar'ingly adv. [O.E. sparian].

spark (spärk) n. small glowing or burning particle; flash of light; trace or particle of anything; in internal-combustion engines, electric flash which ignites explosive mixture in cylinder; (Colloq.) gay, dashing young fellow;—v.t. to send out sparks.—pl. sparks (Naut. Slang) wireless operator.—spark'ing n. in internal-combustion engines, device, screwed into cylinder head, for providing electric spark to ignite mixture of air and petrol vapour [O.E. spearca].

sparkle (spärk-l) n. small spark; a glitter; a gleam;—v.t. to emit small flashes of light; to gleam; to emit little bubbles; to effervesce.—spark'ler n. one who, or that which, sparkles; (Slang) a diamond.—spark'ling a. emitting sparks; flashing; gleaming; glittering; of wines, effervescent [O.E. spearca].

sparrow (spar'el) n. small brown bird of finch family.—sparrow-grass n. asparagus.—sparrow-hawk n. one of the falcon family, which hunts small birds [O.E. spearwea].

sparse (spärs) a. thinly scattered; scanty; rare.—sparse'y adv.—sparse'ness n. scantiness [L. spargere, sparsum, to scatter].

Sparta (spär'ta) n. ancient Greek city-state.—Spar'tan n. citizen of this town; one who faces danger, etc. without flinching;—a. pert. to Sparta; dauntless.

spasm (spazm) n. sudden, involuntary contraction of muscle(s); sudden, convulsive movement, effort, emotion, etc.; fitful effort; a paroxysm.—spasmod'ic n. medicine for relieving spasms.—spasmod'ic(al) a. pert. to spasms; convulsive; fitful.—spasmod'ically adv. by fits and starts.—spas'tic a. (Med.) pert. to spasms; in a rigid condition, due to spasm, applied to children suffering from cerebral palsy.—n. such a child.—spas'tics n.pl. (Med.) condition showing tendency to spasm or muscular contraction [Gk. spasmos, fr. spainein, to draw].

spat (spat) pa.t. of split.

spat (spat) n. kind of cloth gaiter, reaching a little above ankle. Usually in pl. spats [Althoe. of spatterdash].

spat (spat) n. spawn of shell-fish or oyster;—v.t. to spawn, of oysters [fr. spit].

spate (spät) n. flood in a river, esp. after heavy rain; inundation [Gael. spaid].

spathe (spät'h) n. leaflike sheath enveloping flower cluster.—spathed, spa'those, spa'thous a. [Gk. spathe, a broad blade].

spatial (spä'shal) a. pert. to space.—spa'tially adv. [L. spatium].

spatter (spät'er) v.t. to cast drops of water, mud, etc. over; to splash; to speak ill of;—v.t. to fall in drops;—n. the act of spattering; a slight splash [Dut. spatten, to burst].

spatula (spät'ü-la) n. broad-bladed knife for spreading paints, ointments; (Med.) small instrument for holding down tongue during examination of throat.—spat'ular, spat'ulate a. shaped like spatula [Gk. spathe, a broad blade].

spavin (spävin) n. swelling on horse's leg, causing lameness.—spav'ined a. affected with spavin [O.Fr. esparvain].

spawn (spawn) n. eggs of fish, frogs; offspring;—v.t. and v.t. of fish, frogs, to cast eggs; to produce offspring [O.Fr. espandre, fr. L. expandere, to spread out].

speak (spëk) v.t. to utter words; to tell; to deliver a discourse;—v.t. to utter; to pronounce; to express in words; to express silently or by signs; to address.—pr.p. speak'ing.—pa.p. spo'ken.—pa.t. spoke or (Arch.) spake.—speak'er n. one who speaks; orator.—the Speaker, president of British House of Commons and of similar legislative bodies.—speak'ing n.—a. having power to utter words; eloquent; (Fig.) lifelike, e.g. of picture.—speak'say n. (U.S.) illicit drinking-den, esp. during Prohibition; shebeen [O.E. sprecan].

spear (spër) n. long, pointed weapon, used in fighting, hunting, etc.; sharp-pointed instrument for catching fish; lance; pike;—v.t. to pierce or kill with spear.—spear'head n. iron point, barb, or prong of a spear; leader of an advance; (Mil.) deep penetration, on a narrow front, into an enemy position.—spear'mint n. common mint.—spear'side n. male branch of a family [O.E. sperc].

special (spesh'äl) a. pert. to a species or sort; particular; beyond the usual; distinct; intimate; designed for a particular person or purpose.—spec'ially adv.—spec'ialise v.t. to make special or distinct; to adapt for a particular purpose;—v.t. to devote oneself to a particular branch of study.—special'ist n. act of specialising.—spee'ialist n. one trained and skilled in a special branch.—special'ist a.—speciality (spesh-i-äl'i-ti), specialty (spesh'äl'ti) n. a special characteristic of a person or thing; a special product; that in which a person is highly skilled. —special constable, man sworn in to help police in emergency, esp. in wartime [L. species, a kind].

specie (spé'shē) n. coined money, esp. gold or silver, as distinct from paper money [L. species, a kind].

species (spé'shēz, -shiz) n. kind; variety; sort; class; subdivision of a more general class or genus [L. species, a kind].

specific (spe-sif'ik) a. pert. to, or characteristic of, a species; peculiar to; well defined; precise; —n. (Med.) infallible remedy. —specifically adv. —specific gravity, weight of substance expressed in relation to weight of equal volume of water [L. species, a kind; facere, to make].

specification (spe-si-fikā'shun) n. act of specifying. —specifically v.t. to state definitely; to give details of; to indicate precisely. —specifically a. [L. species, a kind; facere, to make].

specimen (spe-si-men) n. part of anything, or one of a number of things, used to show nature and quality of the whole; sample [L. specere, to look].

specious (spé'shūs) a. having a fair appearance; superficially fair or just; apparently acceptable, esp. at first sight. —speciously adv. —speciousity, speciousness n. [L. speciosus, fair to see, fr. species, kind, appearance].

speck (spek) n. small spot; particle; very small thing; stain; —v.t. to mark with specks. —speckle n. a small speck or spot; —v.t. to mark with small spots. —speckled a. spotted; variegated. —speckless a. unstained; perfectly clean [O.E. speccal].

spectacle (spek'ta-kli) n. sight; show; thing exhibited; pageant. —spectacles n. pl. arrangement of lenses, to help defective or weak eyesight. —spectacled a. wearing spectacles. —spectacular a. showy; grand; making great display. —spectacularly adv. [L. spectare, to look at].

spectator (spek-tā'tor) n. (term. specta'tress, specta'trix) one who looks on; an onlooker [L. spectare, to look at].

spectre (spek'ter) n. ghost; apparition. —spectral a. pert. to a spectre; ghostly; pert. to spectrum. —spectrally adv. —spectrum n. the coloured band into which a ray of light can be separated as in the rainbow [L. spectrum, an image].

spectro- (spek'tro) prefix fr. L. spectrum, an image, used in many derivatives. —spectrograph n. scientific instrument for photographing spectra. —spectroscope n. instrument for production and examination of spectra. —spectroscop'ic, spectroscop'ical a. [Gk. graphein, to write; skopein, to view].

speculate (spek'ti-lāt) v.i. to make theories or guesses; to meditate; to engage in risky commercial transactions. —speculation n. act of speculating; theorising; guess; practice of buying shares, etc. in the hope of selling at a high profit. —speculatively adv. —speculatively a. speculatively [L. speculari, to observe].

speculum (spek'tū-lum) n. mirror; reflector of polished metals, esp. as used in reflecting telescopes; (Surg.) instrument for examining interior cavity of body. —pl. spec'ula [L. fr. specere, to observe].

speed (sped) pa.p. and pa.t. of speed.

speech (spéch) n. power of speaking; what is spoken; faculty of expressing thoughts in words; enunciation; remarks; conversation; language; formal address; an oration. —speechless a. without power of speech; dumb; silent. —speechlessly adv. —speechlessness n. —speechify v.t. to make speech, esp. long and tedious one. —speechifier n. [O.E. spæc].

speed (sped) n. swiftness of motion; rate of progress; velocity; —v.t. to cause to move faster; to aid; to bid farewell to; —v.t. to move quickly or at speed beyond legal limit; to succeed. —pa.p. and pa.t. speed. —speedy a.

quick; rapid. —speedily adv. —speedboat n. very fast motor-boat. —speedometer n. instrument indicating speed, usually in miles per hour. —speedway n. track for motor-cycle racing. —speedwell n. small plant of genus Veronica, bearing white, blue, or purple flowers [O.E. sped].

spelaeon, spelean (spé'lē'an) a. pert. to, dwelling in, cave [Gk. spelaion, cave].

spell (spel) n. word or words supposed to have magical power; magic formula; fascination. —spellbind v.t. to hold as if by spell; to enchant; to fascinate. —spellbound a. fascinated; enchanted; entranced [O.E. spell, a narrative].

spell (spel) n. a turn of work or duty, esp. to relieve another; a brief period of time [O.E. spelian, to act for].

spell (spel) v.t. to read letter by letter; to mean; —v.t. to form words with proper letters. —pa.p. and pa.t. spelled or spelt [O.E. spell, a narrative].

spencer (spen'ser) n. a short over-jacket [fr. Karl Spencer, (1782-1845)].

spend (spend) v.t. and v.i. to pay out; to disburse; to pass, as time; to employ; to waste; to exhaust. —spent a. exhausted; worn out; inefficient; of a fish, having deposited spawn. —spender n. one who spends. —spendthrift n. one who spends money foolishly or extravagantly; —a. extravagant [O.E. spenden].

sperm (sper'm) n. fertilising fluid of male animals; semen. —sperm'oll n. oil obtained from sperm-whale. —sperm'whale n. cachalot, large whale, valuable for its oil and for spermaceti. —spermaceti (sper-mā-gē'ti, sper-mā-gē'ti) n. wax-like substance obtained from head of sperm-whale, used for making candles, etc. —spermat'ic, spermat'ical a. pert. to sperm [Gk. sperma, seed].

spermato- (sper-mat'o) prefix fr. Gk. sperma, seed. —spermatoid a. resembling sperm. —spermatozoon (sper-mat-o-zō-on) n. male generative cell, found in semen and capable of fertilising ovum, or female germ cell. —pl. spermatozoa. —spermatozo'al, spermatozo'an a.

spew, spue (spū) v.t. and v.i. to eject from the stomach; to vomit [O.E. spuran].

sphagnum (sfag'num) n. bog-moss [Gk. sphagnos].

sphere (sfēr) n. round, solid body; ball; globe; revolution; orbit, range of knowledge, influence, etc.; field of action; social status; position; —v.t. to put in a sphere; to encircle. —spher'al (sfēr'al) a. formed like a sphere. —spherio (sfēr'ik) a. pert. to heavenly bodies. —spher'ical a. sphere-shaped. —spher'ically adv. —spher'icity n. roundness. —spheroid (sfēr'oid) n. body almost, but not quite, spherical, e.g. orange, earth, etc. —spheroid'al a. having form of spheroid. Also spheroid'ic, spheroid'ical. —spherule (sfēr'ul) n. a small sphere. —spher'ular, spher'ulate a. [Gk. sphaira, a globe].

sphincter (sfink'ter) n. (Anat.) circular muscle which contracts or expands orifice of an organ, e.g. round anus [Gk. sphingon, to bind tight].

spinx (sfingks) n. (Myth.) fabulous monster, with winged body of lion and head of woman, which proposed riddles to passers-by, and strangled all unable to solve them; statue of this; (Fig.) one whose thoughts are difficult to guess; enigmatic person [Gk. sphinx, literally, the strangler].

sphygmus (sfīg'mus) n. (Med.) pulse. —sphygm'ic a. [Gk. sphugmos, the pulse].

spice (spis) n. aromatic substance, used for seasoning; spices collectively; (Fig.) anything that adds flavour, etc.; a trace; —v.t. to season with spice. —spic'ery n. spices collectively. —spic'ey a. seasoned with spices; aromatic; fragrant; dashing. —spic'ily adv. [O.Fr. espice].

spick (spik) n. spike; nail; —a. neat; tidy. —spick and span, fresh and new; neat, clean [pick, spike; fr. O.N. span-nyr, new as chip just split].

spider (spid'ger) n. small, eight-legged insect.

like animal that spins web to catch flies, etc.
—spid'ery a. like a spider; full of spiders; very thin.
—spid'er-crab n. spiderlike crab, with long, thin legs.
—spid'er-mon'key n. monkey with long, thin legs and tail [O.E. spinnan, to spin].

spied (spid) pa.p. and pa.t. of spy.

spigot (spig'ut) n. peg for stopping hole in cask; part of a water-tap which controls flow [L. spica, an ear of corn].

spike (spik) n. sharp-pointed piece of metal or wood; large nail; ear of corn, etc.; (Bot.) flower-cluster growing from central stem;—v.t. to supply, set, fasten, or pierce with spikes.—spik'y a. furnished with spikes; pointed [O.N. spik, a nail, fr. L. spica, an ear of corn].

spikenard (spik'nard) n. Indian plant like valerian; fragrant oil extracted from its roots [L. spica nardi, a spike of nard].

spill (spil) v.t. to cause to flow out; to pour out; to shed (blood); to throw off, as from horse, etc.; to upset;—v.i. to flow over; to be shed; to be lost or wasted;—n. overflow; full or tumble, as from vehicle, horse, etc.—pa.p. and pa.t. spilled or spilt.—spill'er n.—spill'way n. channel for overflow water from dam [O.E. spillan, to destroy].

spill (spil) n. thin strip of wood or twist of paper, for lighting a fire, pipe, etc.; a peg [Dut. speld, a splinter].

spin (spin) v.t. to twist into threads; to cause to revolve rapidly; to whirl, to twirl; to draw out tediously, as a story; to prolong;—v.i. to make thread; to revolve rapidly; to move swiftly;—n. rapid whirling motion; short, quick run or drive.—pr.p. spin'ning.—pa.p. and pa.t. spun or (Arch.) span.—spin'ner n. one who spins.—spin'ning-jenny y (jenny = kin or engine) n. machine for spinning several threads simultaneously.—spin'ning-wheel n. household machine in which a large wheel is turned by treadle, for spinning cotton, wool, flax, etc. into thread or yarn [O.E. spinnan].

spinach (spin'ish) n. vegetable used for food. Also spin'age.—spin'a'ceous a. [O.Fr. espinaque].

spindle (spind'l) n. long, slender rod, used in spinning, for twisting and winding the thread; measure of yarn, thread, or silk, shaft, axis;—v.t. to grow long and slender.—spin'dly a. long and slender [O.E. spinel, fr. spinnan, to spin].

spindrift (spind'rift) n. spray blown from surface of sea. Also spoon' drift.

spine (spin) n. thorn; prickle; backbone; back of book.—spin'al a. pert. to spine or backbone.

spine'less a. having no spine; weak of character.—spiny a. full of spines, like a spine.—thorny, prickly; perplexing.—spin'nose (spinf'nos), spin'ous a. full of spines; prickly.—spin'al column, the backbone [L. spina, a thorn].

spinnet (spinet) n. musical instrument like a harpsichord [O.Fr. espinette, fr. L. spinal].

spinnaker (spin'a-ker) n. a large triangular sail [etym. uncertain].

spinney (spin'ey) n. small wood; grove. Also spin'y [L. spinetum, fr. spina, thorn].

spinster (spin'ster) n. orig. one who spins; unmarried woman.—spin'sterhood n.—spin'stress n. woman who spins [O.E. spinnan, to spin].

spiracle (spira'kl, spir'a-kl) n. breathing-hole; blow-hole of whale.—spira'cular, spira'culate a. [L. spirare, to breathe].

Spiraea (spira'ra) n. a genus of herbaceous plants, including meadow-sweet, bearing white or pink flowers [Gk. spira, a coil].

spirant (spir'rant) n. consonant pronounced with perceptible emission of breath [L. spirare, to breathe].

spire (spir) n. winding line like threads of screw; curl; coil.—spin'al a. winding; coiled;—n. spiral curve; coil; whorl;—v.t. to follow spiral line; to coil; to curve [Gk. spira, coil].

spire (spir) n. blade of grass; stalk; slender shoot; anything tall and tapering to point; spirit (spir'it) n. vital force; immortal part of man; soul; spectro; ghost; frame of mind; disposition; temper; eager desire; mental vigour; courage; cheerfulness; essential character; leader of cause, etc.; liquid got by distillation, esp. alcoholic;—v.t. to carry away mysteriously; to put energy into.—spir'its n.pl. a state of mind; mood; distilled alcoholic liquor.—spir'ited a. full of spirit and vigour; lively; animated.—spir'itedly adv.—spir'itedness n.—spir'itism n. See spiritualism.—spir'itless a. without spirit or life; lacking energy; listless.—spir'itlessly adv.—spir'ituous a. containing alcohol; distilled.—spir'it-lamp n. lamp in which alcohol is burned, usually methylated spirit.—spir'it-lev'el n. instrument for finding or testing horizontal line [L. spiritus, fr. spirare, to breathe].

(tapering part of) steeple; peak;—v.t. to furnish with spire;—v.i. to rise high, like spire.—spin'al a. like a spire.—spiry a. having spires; tapering [O.E. spira, a stalk].

spiritual (spir'it-u-əl) a. pert. to spirit or mind, not material; unworldly, pert. to sacred things, holy;—n. Negro sacred song or hymn.—spir'itually adv.—spir'itualise v.t. to make spiritual; to make pure in heart.—spir'itualism, spir'itism n. religious belief that spirits of dead can communicate with living people.—spir'itualist n.—spir'itualistic a. [L. spiritus, breath].

spit (spit) n. pointed rod put through meat for roasting; sandy point of land projecting into sea;—v.t. to thrust spit through; to impale [O.E. spitu].

spit (spit) v.t. to eject from mouth; to expel;—v.i. to eject saliva from mouth; to expectorate; to hiss, esp. of cats;—n. saliva; act of spitting; light fall of fine rain; an exact likeness.—pr.p. spit'ting.—pa.p. spat.—pa.t. spat (Arch. spit).—spit'ter n.—spit'tle n. saliva ejected from mouth, sputum.—spittoon n. a vessel for spittle; cuspidor [O.E. spittan].

spit (spit) n. in digging, the depth of a spade, i.e. 8 to 12 inches [Dut.].

spite (spit) n. malice, ill-will;—v.t. to treat maliciously, to try to injure or thwart, to vex; to annoy.—spite'ful a. full of ill-feeling; desirous of thwarting.—spite'fully adv.—spite'fulness n.—in spite of, in defiance of, notwithstanding [fr. despite].

spitfire (spit'fir) n. hot-tempered person.—Spit'fire n. (World War 2) fighter aeroplane [spit and fire].

spits (spitz) n. a Pomeranian dog (Ger.).

spiv (spiv) n. (Colloq.) one who lives on his wits; scound drone; work-shy person; formerly, police informer, bookmaker's runner [corruption of spiff, dandyish].

splash (splash) v.t. to spatter water, mud, etc. over, to soil thus, to print in bold headlines;—v.i. to dash or scatter, of liquids; to dabble in water; to fall in drops.—n. sound of object falling into liquid; water, mud, etc. dashed, about; spot, daub; patch of colour.—splash'y a. full of dirty water, wet and muddy.—splash-board n. mud-guard [imit. origin].

splatter (splat'ter) v.t. and v.i. to splash continuously, to spatter [fr. spatter].

splay (spla) v.t. to slope; to slant; to spread outwards;—a. turned outwards, flat and broad; n. sloped surface of opening, as window.—splay-foot n. flat foot [fr. display].

spleen (splèn) n. ductless organ lying to left of stomach; anger; ill-humour; spite; melancholy; irritability.—spleen'ful a. showing spleen; ill-humoured [Gk. splên].

splendid (splen'did) a. magnificent; gorgeous; (Colloq.) excellent.—splen'didly adv.—splendous (splen'der) n. brilliant lustre; gorgeousness; pomp [L. splendere, to shine].

splenetic (sple-ne'tik) a. pert. to spleen; affected with spleen; morose; irritable.

splanetic (splen'e-tik) n. one suffering from disease of spleen; remedy for this.—splen'ic a. pert. to the spleen [Gk. splên].

splice (splic) v.i. to join, as two ends of a rope, by weaving strands together; to join, as wood, etc. by overlapping and binding; (Colloq.) to marry; — n. union of two ends of ropes, etc. by splicing. — to splice the mainbrace (Naval) to serve a tot of rum to all on board [Dut. splitsen].

split (splint) n. piece split off; rigid piece of material for holding broken limb in position; bony excrescence on inside of horse's leg; — v.i. to bind with splints. — split'er n. piece of wood, metal, etc. split off; — v.i. and v.t. to break off into long, thin pieces; to shiver [Swed. splinta].

split (split) v.t. to cut lengthwise; to cleave; to tear apart; to separate; to divide; — v.i. to break asunder; to cut lengthwise; to dash to pieces; to betray a secret; — n. crack; fissure; a breach in political party; — pl. sitting down with legs stretched apart until they are flat on floor. — pr.p. split'ting. — pa.p. and pa.t. split. — split'ting n. cleaving or rending; — a. severe; distressing. — split infinitive, insertion of adverb or adverbial phrase between 'to' and verb of infinitive. — split-new a. brand-new. — to split hairs, to make fine distinctions [Dut. splitten].

splutter (splut'er) v.t. to utter incoherently with spitting sounds; — v.i. to emit such sounds; to speak hastily and confusedly; — n. such sounds or speech; a confused noise. — splut'erer n. [imit. origin].

Spode (spód) n. highly decorated porcelain [Josiah Spode, pottery manufacturer of the 18th cent.].

spoil (spoil) v.t. to damage; to injure; to take by force; to plunder; to cause to decay; to harm character of by indulgence; — v.i. to go bad; to decay; — n. booty; prey; plunder; pillage. — pa.p. and pa.t. spoiled or spoilt. — spoil-sport n. one who takes a delight in interfering with enjoyment of others [L. spoliare].

spoke (spók) pa.t. of the verb speak. — spoken (spók'n) pa.p. — spokes'man n. one deputed to speak for others; a representative.

spoke (spók) n. one of small bars connecting hub of wheel with rim; rung of ladder; a hand-spike. — to put a spoke in one's wheel, to frustrate person by putting difficulties in his way. — spoke'shawe n. tool for planing wood [O.E. spaca].

spoliate (spóli-át) v.t. to spoil; to plunder; — v.i. to practice plundering. — spoliative a. tending to diminish. — spoliation n. the act of spoiling; robbery; destruction. — spoliat'or n. pillager [L. spoliare].

spondée (spón-dé) n. in poetry, a foot of two long syllables, marked (— —). — spendable (spón-dá'ik) a. [Gk. spendé, drink-offering (this metre was much used in hymns accompanying drink-offerings)].

spondulicks (spón-dú'liks) n.pl. (Slang) money; funds [etym. unknown].

sponge (spun) n. marine animal of cellular structure, outer coating of whose body is perforated to allow entrance of water; skeleton of this animal, used to absorb water; act of cleaning with sponge; sponge-cake; (Colloq.) parasite; sponger; hanger-on; (Colloq.) habitual drinker; — v.t. to wipe, cleanse, with sponge; — v.i. to live at expense of others. — spong'er n. — spongy (spun'j) a. sponge-like; of open texture; full of small holes; absorbent; wet and soft, esp. of ground. — spong'iness n. — sponge-cake n. light, sweet cake. — to throw up the sponge, to acknowledge defeat [Fr. éponge, fr. Gk. spongia].

spousal (spón-sal) a. relating to betrothal or marriage [L. spondere, to promise].

sponsor (spón-sar) n. one who promises for another; surety; godfather or godmother; guarantor; a patron; — v.t. to support; to act as guarantor or patron of; to pay for a wireless programme including advertisements of one's own goods. — sponsorial a. — sponsorship n. [L. spondere, sponsum, to promise].

spontaneous (spón-tá-ne-us) a. of one's own free-will; voluntary; natural; produced by some internal cause, said of physical effects, as combustion, growth, etc. — spontaneously adv. — spontaneity (spón-tá-né-i-ti) n. spontaneity. — n. [L. sponte, of one's own free-will].

spool (spóol) n. hoax; swindle; — v.t. to fool; to hoax.

spook (spóok) n. ghost; apparition. — spook'ish, spook'y a. pert. to ghosts [Dut.].

spool (spóol) n. small cylinder for winding thread, yarn, etc.; reel; bobbin; — v.t. to wind on spool [O.Fr. espole].

spoon (spóon) n. implement, with bowl at end of handle, for carrying food to the mouth, etc.; golf-club with wooden head; — v.t. and v.i. to use, lift with spoon; (Golf) to scoop ball high in air. — spoon'ful n. quantity spoon can hold; small quantity; (Med.) half an ounce. — spoon'bill n. long-legged wading bird. — spoon-feed v.t. to feed with a spoon; (Fig.) to de- over-much for a person, thus weakening his self-reliance. — spoon-fed a. [O.E. spoon].

spoonerism (spóon-ér-izm) n. transportation of letters of spoken words, causing a humorous effect, e.g. a half-warmed fish for a 'half-formed wish' [fr. Dr. A. W. Spooner (1844-1930), noted for such slips].

spoor (spóor) n. track or trail of wild animal [Dut. = a track].

sporadic (spó-rad'ik) a. occurring singly here and there; occasional. Also sporad'ical. — sporad'ically adv. [Gk. sporadikos, fr. speirein, to sow].

spore (spór) n. in flowerless plants, e.g. in ferns, minute cell with reproductive powers; germ; seed. — sporangium n. spore-case. — pl. sporangia. — sporang'ial a. — spore'oid a. spore-like [Gk. spora, seed].

sporran (spór-an) n. large pouch worn in front of the kilt [Gael. sporran].

sport (spórt) n. that which amuses; diversion; pastime; merriment; object of jest; mockery; outdoor game or recreation; freak of nature; (Colloq.) broad-minded person; good loser; one willing to take a chance; — v.t. to display in public; to show off; — v.i. to play; to take part in out-door recreation. — sports n.pl. games; athletic meetings. — sport'ing a. pert. to sport or sportsman; willing to take a chance. — sport'ive a. pert. to sport; playful. — sports'man, sports'woman n. — sports'manship n. practice or skill of a sportsman; fair-mindedness; generosity towards opponent [fr. disport].

spot (spot) n. speck; blemish, esp. on reputation; pimple; place; locality; (Colloq.) small quantity of anything; a drink; — v.t. to cover with spots; to stain; to place billiard-ball on marked point; (Colloq.) to detect; to recognise; — v.i. to become marked. — pr.p. spot'ting. — pa.p. and pa.t. spot'ted. — spot'less a. without spot or stain; scrupulously clean; pure; innocent. — spot'lessly adv. — spot'lessness n. — spot'ted, spot'ty a. marked with spots or stains; irregular. — spot'tedness, spot'tiness n. — spot'ter n. one who spots. — spot cash, immediate payment; ready money. — spot'light n. apparatus used to throw concentrated beam of light on performer on stage; light thrown. — spotted dog (Slang) currant dumpling; raisin pudding. — on the spot, immediately [O.N. spotti].

spouse (spouz) n. married person, husband or wife. — spous'al a. pert. to spouse, marriage; — n. marriage. — spous'als n.pl. marriage; nuptials [L. sponsus, promised].

spout (spout) v.t. to throw out, as liquid through a pipe; to utter in a pompous manner; to recite; — v.i. to gush out in jet; to speak volubly, esp. in public; of whale, to force up column of water when breathing through spiracle; to blow; — n. projecting tube, pipe, etc., for pouring liquid; a pipe or tube for leading off rain from roof; copious discharge. — spout'er n. — up the spout (Slang) in pawn; in difficulties [etym. uncertain].

sprag (sprag) n. piece of wood used to lock wheel of vehicle; device to prevent vehicle running backwards on hill [Dan.].

sprain (sprän) v.t. to wrench or twist muscles or ligaments of a joint; to overstrain; —n. such wrenching [etym. uncertain].

sprang (sprung) pa.t. of the verb spring.

sprat (sprat) n. small sea-fish, allied to herring and pilchard [O.E. sprot].

sprawl (sprawl) v.t. to sit or lie with legs outstretched or in ungainly position; to move about awkwardly; to spread out irregularly; to write carelessly and irregularly; —n. act of sprawling [O.E. spreawlian].

spray (sprä) n. twigs; small, graceful branch with leaves and blossoms; sprig; —spray'ey a. [etym. uncertain].

spray (sprä) n. fine droplets of water driven by wind from tops of waves, etc.; shower of fine droplets of any liquid, e.g. medicine, perfume, etc.; spraying-machine; atomiser; —v.t. to sprinkle with shower of fine drops; —spray'er n. spraying-machine [L. Ger. Spret].

spread (spröd) v.t. to stretch out; to extend; to cover surface with; to scatter; to unfold, as wings; to circulate, as news, etc.; to convey from one to another, as disease; to set and lay food on table; —v.t. to extend in all directions; to become spread, scattered, circulated, etc.; —n. extension; expanse; range; (Colloq.) feast. —pa.p. and pa.t. spread. —spread'ing n. act of extending. —spread'se'gle n. eagle with wings stretched out; —a. with arms and legs stretched out; bombastic; extravagant; —v.t. to spread up a person, with outstretched limbs [O.E. spreadan].

sprees (spré) n. lively frolic; drinking-bout [Ir. spre, a sparl].

sprig (sprig) n. small shoot or twig; ornament in form of spray; scion; youth; small, headless nail; —v.t. to mark, adorn, with figures of sprigs or sprays [O.E. spraec, a twig].

spright (sprit) n. (Arch.) sprite; spirit; —spright'ly a. lively; airy; vivacious. —spright'li-ness n. [old form of sprite].

spring (spring) v.t. to leap; to jump; to shoot up, out, or forth; to appear; to recoil; to result, as from a cause; to issue, as from parent or ancestor; to appear above ground; to grow; to thrive; —v.t. to cause to spring up; to produce unexpectedly; to start, as game; to cause to explode, as a mine; to develop leak; to bend so as to weaken; to release, as catch of trap; (Archit.) to throw off arch from abutment or pier; —n. a leap; a bound; a jump; recoil; a contrivance of coiled or bent metal with much resilience; resilience; flow of water from earth; fountain; any source of supply; cause; origin; a crack; season of year. —pa.p. sprung. —pa.t. sprang or sprung. —spring'er n. one who springs; one who rouses game; breed of spaniel. —spring'y a. elastic; light in tread or gait. —spring'iness n. —spring'bal'ance n. instrument for measuring weight by compression of spiral spring. —spring'bed n. mattress of spiral springs set in wooden frame. —spring'board n. springy board used in jumping and diving. —spring-gun n. gun with wire fastened to trigger, discharged when person comes against the wire. —spring-head n. fountain-head; source of a stream. —spring tide, tide that happens near time of new moon and of full moon, and rises higher than ordinary tides (opp. of neap tide). —spring-time n. season of spring [O.E. springan].

springbok (spring'bok) n. small S. African gazelle or antelope [S. Afr. Dut.].

springe (spring) n. snare with a spring-noose; —v.t. to catch in a springe [fr. spring].

sprinkle (spring'kl) v.t. to scatter small drops of water, sand, etc.; to scatter on; to baptise with drops of water; to purify; to cleanse; —v.t. to scatter (a liquid or any fine substance); —n. small quantity scattered; occasional drops of rain; utensil for sprinkling. —sprin'kled a. marked by small spots. —sprin'kler

n. one who sprinkles. —sprin'kling n. act of scattering; small quantity falling in drops [O.E. sprengan].

sprint (sprint) v.t./n. run at full speed. —sprin'ter n. [Ct. sprint].

sprit (sprit) n. (Naut.) small spar set diagonally across fore-and-aft sail to extend it [O.E. spreot, a pole].

sprite (sprit) n. spirit; apparition; elf; a fairy; a goblin [older form = spright, fr. L. spiritus, spirit].

sprocket (srok'et) n. toothlike projection on outer rim of wheel, e.g. of bicycle, for engaging links of chain [etym. uncertain].

sprout (sprout) v.t. to begin to grow; to put forth shoots; to spring up; —n. shoot; bud. —brussels sprouts, miniature cabbages growing on stalk [O.E. spreutan].

spruce (spröds) a. neat in dress; smart; dapper; trim; —v.t. and v.t. to smarten up; to dress smartly. —spruce'ly adv. —spruce'ness n. [M.E. Spruce, Prussia].

spruce (spröds) n. common name of some coniferous trees, esp. Spruce-fir or Norwegian Spruce; its wood; Prussian leather [M.E. Spruce, Prussia].

sprung (sprung) pa.p. and pa.t. of the verb spring; (Colloq.) intoxicated.

spry (sprt) a. nimble; agile; gay [Scand.].

spud (spud) n. small spade-like implement; (Colloq.) potato. —spud'y a. short and fat [etym. uncertain].

spue (spü) v.t. and v.t. See spew.

spume (spüm) n. froth; foam; scum; —v.t. to froth; to foam. —spu'mous a. consisting of froth or scum; foamy. —spu'my a. foamy [L. spuma].

spun (spun) pa.p. and pa.t. of verb spin.

spunk (spungk) n. wood that readily takes fire; match; (Fig.) spirit. —spunk'y a. plucky [L. spongia, a sponge].

spur (spur) n. pricking instrument worn on horseman's heels, used as goad; (Fig.) incitement, instigation; projection on the leg of a cock; mountain projecting from range; projection; —v.t. to apply spurs to; to urge to action; —v.t. to ride hard; to press forward. —pr.p. spur'ing. —pa.p. and pa.t. also a. spurred (spurd), wearing spurs; (Bot.) having spur-like shoots; incited [O.E. spora].

spurge (spurj) n. plant of several species, having acrid, milky juice; —v.t. to discharge [L. ezpurpare, to purge].

spurious (spü'ri-us) a. not genuine or authentic; counterfeit; false. —spu'riously adv. —spu'riousness n. [L. spurius].

spurn (spurn) v.t. to drive away, as with foot; to reject with disdain; to scorn to accept; —n. disdainful rejection [O.E. spornan; connected with spur].

spurt (spurt) v.t. to force out suddenly in a stream; to squirt; —v.t. to gush out with force; to make a short, sudden, and strong effort, esp. in a race; —n. a sudden, strong flow from opening; short, sudden, and strong effort. Also sprit [O.E. sprytan].

sputnik (spüt-nëk') n. In Russia, a fellow traveller; a satellite; name commonly given to earth satellites first launched by Russians in 1957.

sputter (spüt'er) v.t. to throw out with haste and noise; to utter excitedly and indistinctly; —v.t. to scatter drops of saliva, as in excited speech; to speak rapidly; to fly off with crackling noise, as sparks from burning wood; —n. act of sputtering; sound made. —sput'ter n. [fr. spout].

sputum (spütum) n. spittle; saliva. —pl. spu'ta [L. spuere, sputum, to spit].

spy (spl) n. one who enters enemy territory secretly, to gain information; secret agent; one who keeps watch on others. —pl. spies. —v.t. to catch sight of; to notice; to discern; —v.t. to act as a spy. —pa.p. and pa.t. spied (spid). —spy'glass n. small telescope [Fr. espion, fr. L. specere, to look].

squab (skwob) a. fat and short; squat; plump; unfeathered [etym. uncertain].

squabble (skwob'l) v.i. to contend in debate; to wrangle; to dispute noisily; —n. petty, noisy quarrel; a brawl [imit. origin].

squad (skwod) n. (Mil.) small party of soldiers at drill, etc.; small party of men at work; gang [Fr. escouade].

squadron (skwod'rūn) n. division of a cavalry regiment comprising two 'troops'; warships grouped into a unit; Royal Air Force formation of two or more 'flights'. —squadron-leader n. (R.A.F.) rank equivalent to Lieut.-Commander in Navy or Major in Army [Fr. escadron, fr. It. squadra, a square].

squalid (skwol'id) a. mean and dirty, esp. through neglect; filthy; foul. —squalidly adv. —squalidly adv. —squalidness n. filth; foulness [L. squalere, to be stiff (with dirt)].

squall (skwawl) v.i. and v.t. to scream or cry out violently; —n. loud scream; sudden gust of wind. —squally a. [imit. origin].

squaloid (skwål'oid, skwål'oid) a. pert, to like, a shark [L. squalus, a sea-fish].

squama (skwā'ma) n. scale; scale-like part of bone; scale-like feather. —pl. squamæ (skwā'mē) [L. = a scale].

squander (skwon'der) v.i. to waste; to dissipate. —squanderer n. spendthrift. —squandermania (mā'nī-ə) n. a passion for reckless spending, esp. of public money [Scand.].

square (skwār) n. plane figure with four equal sides and four right angles; anything shaped like this; in town, open space of this shape; carpenter's instrument for testing or drawing right angles; body of soldiers drawn up in form of square; short for barracks-square, drill, or parade-ground; (Math.) product of a number or quantity multiplied by itself; a. square-shaped; rectangular; rightly fitted; giving equal justice; fair; balanced, as accounts; settled, as account or bill; —adv. squarely; directly; —v.t. to make like a square; to place at right angles; (Math.) to multiply by itself; to balance; to settle; to put right; (Colloq.) to win over by bribery; (Golf) to draw level with opponent; —v.i. to agree exactly; to fit; to suit. —squarély adv. in a square form or manner; honestly; fairly. —squareness n. —squarish a. nearly square. —square dance, old-fashioned dance for four couples. —square inch, foot, yard, etc., area equal to surface of square with sides one inch, foot, yard, etc. long. —square-leg (Cricket) fielder who stands to batsman's left. —square-rigged a. (Naval) having chief sails stretched along yards slung horizontally to mast by the middle. —square root, number or quantity which, when multiplied by itself, produces the number of which it is the square root. —to square up, to put things in order; to settle debts [L. quadrare, to square, fr. quattuor, four].

squash (skwosh) v.t. to beat or crush flat; to squeeze to pulp; (Fig.) to suppress; —v.i. to fall into a soft, flat mass; —n. anything soft and easily crushed; soft drink with flavour of crushed fruit; packed crowd; short for squash rackets, game played in a walled court with small hollow rubber ball [L. ex, out; coactare, to force].

squash (skwosh) n. gourdlike fruit [Amer.-Ind. asquash, raw, green].

squat (skwot) v.i. to sit on heels; to crouch, as animal; to settle on land without having title to it; —a. short and thick; sitting close to ground. —pr.p. squatting. —pa.p. and pa.t. squatted. —squatter n. one who squats; one who settles on land or in house, without legal right [O.Fr. caquair].

squaw (skwaw) n. Red Indian woman, esp. wife [N. Amer.-Ind. squai].

squawk (skwawk) n. shrill, harsh cry; —v.t. to utter such a cry [fr. squeak].

squeak (skwék) n. short, sharp, shrill sound; sharp, unpleasant, grating sound; —v.t. to utter, or make, such sound; (Slang) to give away secret. —squeak'er n. —squeak'y a. [imit. origin].

squeal (skwól) n. long, shrill cry; —v.i. to utter long, shrill cry; (Slang) to turn informer. —squealer n. [imit. origin].

squeamish (skwēm'ish) a. easily made sick; easily shocked; over-scrupulous; fussy. —squeamishly adv. [O.Fr. escymous].

squeegee (skwōjē) n. brush or broom, with rubber edge on head, for clearing water from deck of ship, floor, pavement, etc.; —a. (Colloq.) not straight. Also squill'gee [fr. squeeze].

squeeze (skwōz) v.t. to press or crush; to compress; to extract by pressure; to cause to pass, esp. by force; to hug; to subject to extortion; —v.i. to force one's way; to press; —n. pressure; compression; close hug or embrace; crowd. —squeezers n.pl. contrivance, like a large pair of pliers [O.E. crisan].

squelch (skwelch) n. crushing blow; suppression; sound made when withdrawing feet from sodden ground; —v.t. to crush down; —v.i. to make sound of a squelch [imit. origin].

squib (skwib) n. small firework; a short satire; a petty lampoon [etym. uncertain].

squid (skwid) n. a kind of cuttle-fish [etym. uncertain].

squill'gee (skwíl'jē) n. Same as squeegee.

squill (skwid) n. plant of lily family whose bulb has emetic properties. —squills n.pl. drug from bulb of squill, used as expectorant and diuretic [Gk. skilla].

squint (skwint) a. looking obliquely; having eyes turned in different directions; looking with suspicion; —v.t. to cause to squint; —v.i. to have eyes turned in different directions, to glance side-ways. —n. act, habit of squinting; (Med.) strabismus; hasty glance; peep. —squint-eyed a. having eyes that squint [earlier asquint; etym. uncertain].

squire (skwir) n. formerly, knight's attendant; esquire; country gentleman; landed proprietor; lady's escort; —v.t. to escort (a lady) [fr. esquire].

squirm (skwirm) v.i. to move like a snake, eel, worm, etc.; to wriggle [imit. origin].

squirrel (skwir'el) n. small graceful animal with bushy tail, living in trees and feeding on nuts; its fur [O.Fr. escurcul, fr. Gk. skia, shade; oura, a tail].

squirt (skwurt) v.t. and v.i. to eject, or be ejected, in a jet; to spurt; —n. instrument for squirting; syringe; thin jet of liquid. —squirt'er n. [etym. uncertain].

stab (stab) v.t. to pierce or wound with pointed instrument, to hurt feelings of; —v.i. to strike with pointed weapon; —n. blow or wound so inflicted; sudden pain. —pr.p. stab'bing. —pa.p. and pa.t. stabbed. —stab'ber n. [perh. fr. Gael. stab, slake].

stabilise (stab'li-iz, stā'bi-li-iz) v.t. to make stable, steady, fixed, etc.; to fix exchange value of currency of a country. —stabilisation n. —stabiliser n. that which stabilises; horizontal tailplane of aircraft. —stability (stā'bi-lī-ti) n. steadiness [L. stabilis, fr. stare, to stand].

stable (stā'bl) a. firmly fixed, established; steady; lasting; resolute; —adv. stably adv. —stabileness n. stability [L. stabilis, fr. stare, to stand].

stable (stā'bl) n. building for horses, usually divided into stalls; racehorse-trainer's establishment; —v.t. to put into, or keep in, stable; —v.i. to be in stable [L. stabulum, a stall, fr. stare, to stand].

staccato (stak-kā'tō) a. and adv. (Mus.) direction to play notes in abrupt, disconnected fashion; short, sharp, and distinct [It. fr. L. staccare, to separate].

stack (stak) n. large heap or pile, esp. of hay, straw, or wood; number of chimneys standing together; tall chimney, esp. of factory; chimney of locomotive; funnel of steamer; a precipitous shaft of rock; —v.t. to heap or pile up; to arrange pack of cards for cheating [O.N. stakkr, a haystack].

stadium (stá'di-um) n. ancient Greek measure of length equal to 606 feet 9 inches; arena of this length for foot-races; large sports-ground. —pl. stá'dia [L. fr. Gk. stadion].

staff (stáf) n. pl. stáffs or staves (stávz) pole or stick used in walking, climbing, etc. or for support or defence; prop; comfort; stick, as emblem of office or authority; flagpole; (Mus.) five lines and four spaces on which music is written; (Arch.) stanza. —(with pl. stáffs) body of persons working in office, school, etc.; (Mil.) body of selected officers, attached in advisory capacity to army commander; —v.t. to provide with staff. —staff college, military college where selected army officers are trained [O.E. stæf].

stag (stág) n. male of red or other large deer. —stag-hound n. Scottish deer-hound, resembling, but larger than, greyhound. —stag party (Shag) party for men only [O.E. staggol].

stage (stáj) n. raised floor or platform esp. of theatre, etc.; theatrical profession; dramatic art or literature; scene of action; degree of progress; point of development; bus or tramway stopping-place; distance between two of them; —v.t. to put (a play) on stage, —stá'ging n. scaffolding. —stágy (stáj) a. theatrical; affectedly theatrical; artificial. —stá'giness n. —stage-coach n. four-wheeled coach, running as a public passenger vehicle for journeys between towns. —stage-fright n. extreme nervousness felt when facing audience. —stage-struck a. stá'tic a. with love for stage as career. —stage-whisper n. whisper but loud enough for audience to hear. —old stager, person of long experience, esp. actor [O.Fr. estage, fr. L. stare, to stand].

stagger (stág-er) v.t. to walk or stand unsteadily; to reel; to totter; to hesitate; —v.i. to cause to reel; to cause to hesitate, to shock; to distribute over a period; to arrange in zigzag fashion; —n. act of staggering; unsteady movement. —stágg'ers n.pl. disease of horses, cattle, etc. —stágg'ery n. —stágg'ering a. amazing; astounding [O.N. stakra, to push].

stagnate (sták-nát) v.t. to cease to flow; to be motionless, to be dull. —stágnant a. of water, not flowing; hence, foul; impure; (Fig.) not brisk; dull. —stágnantly adv. —stágnation n. act of stagnating; dullness [L. stagnum, pool].

staid (stáid) a. of sober and quiet character; steady; sedate, grave. —stáid'ly adv. —stáid'ness n. [for stayed, fr. stay].

stain (stán) v.t. and v.i. to discolour; to spot; to blot; to dye; to colour, as wood, glass, etc.; (Fig.) to mark with guilt; —n. discoloration; spot; dye, taint of guilt, disgrace. —stáin'less a. without a stain; not liable to stain or rust, esp. of a kind of steel. —stáinéd-glass, glass with colours fused into it [for distain, fr. O.Fr. desleindre, fr. L. dis, away; ungere, to dye].

stair (stár) n. steps one above the other for connecting different levels. —stáirs n.pl. flight of steps. —stáir'case n. space in which flight of steps is placed. Also stáir'way [O.E. stacer, fr. stigan, to ascend].

stake (sták) n. sharpened stick or post; post to which one condemned to be burned, was tied; death by burning; money laid down as wager; interest in result of enterprise; —pl. money to be contended for, e.g. in horse-racing, etc.; —v.t. to secure or mark out with stakes; to wager; to risk; to pledge. —at stake, risked; in danger; involved [O.E. staca].

stalactite (stál-ák-tít, stá-lák-tít) n. deposit of carbonate of lime, hanging like icicle from roof of cave. —stáct'ile, stalactit'ile a. [Gk. stalaktion, dropping].

stalag (stá'lag) n. (World War 2) prisoner-of-war camp in Germany for n.e.o.s and men [Ger. Standlager, cantonment].

stalagmite (stál-ág-mít, stá-lág-mít) n. deposit of carbonate of lime rising from floor of cave.

—stalagmit'ic(al) [Gk. stalagma, that which drops].

stale (stál) a. not fresh; kept too long, as bread; tasteless; musty; having lost power to please; common; —v.i. to make tasteless; to spoil novelty of; —v.t. to lose freshness. —stále'ly adv. —stále'ness n. [O.Fr. estale, spread out].

stale (stál) v.t. of horses, to make water; —n. urine of horses, etc. [etym. uncertain].

stalemate (stál'mát) n. (Chess) position, resulting in drawn game; deadlock; standstill [prob. fr. stale and mate].

stalk (stawk) n. stem of plant, leaf, etc.; tall chimney [O.E. stalu].

stalk (stawk) v.i. to steal up to game cautiously; to walk in stiff and stately manner; —v.t. to steal up to (game, etc.); to track down; —n. act of stealing up to game; stiff and stately gait. —stálk'er n. —stálk'ing-horse n. horse, or figure or one, behind which a sportsman takes cover when stalking game; pretence; feint; pretext [O.E. stalcian, to walk cautiously].

stall (stawl) n. compartment for animal in stable; erection for display and sale of goods; seat in cathedral or collegiate church, reserved for ecclesiastical dignitary; front seat in theatre, etc.; protective sheath for injured finger; —v.t. and v.i. to place or keep in stall; to come to a standstill; of engine of motor-car, to stop running unintentionally; of aircraft, to lose flying speed and controllability [O.E. stall, a standing-place, esp. for cattle].

stall (stawl) n. ambush; decoy; —v.i. (U.S.) to evade question in conversation or under interrogation [O.E. stelan, to steal].

stallion (stál'yun) n. an uncastrated male horse, esp. one kept for breeding.

stalwart (stáwlwárt) a. sturdy; strong; brave; steadfast; —n. strong, muscular person; staunch supporter. —stálwárt'ly adv. [O.E. stalcwerthe, serviceable].

stamen (stá'men) n. (Bot.) male organ of flowering plant, pollen-bearing part. —stámina (stám'i-ná) n. power of endurance; staying-power; vigour. —stá'mín'al a. pert. to stamens, or to stamina. —stá'mínif'erous a. bearing stamens [L. = fibre, thread].

stammer (stám-er) v.t. to speak with repetition of syllables or hesitatingly; to stutter; —n. halting enunciation, stutter. —stámm'er n. —stámm'ering n. stammer; stutter [O.E. stamern].

stamp (stámp) v.t. to put a w.n a foot with force. —v.i. to set down (a foot) heavily or with force; to make a mark on; to affix postage stamp; to distinguish by a mark; to brand; to fix deeply; to coin. —n. act of stamping; instrument for making unprinted mark; mark imprinted; die; piece of stamped paper printed with device, as evidence of postage, etc.; character; form. —stámp'er n. —stámp-du'ty n. tax imposed on bonds, legacies, etc. [O.E. stempian].

stamped (stám-péd) n. sudden, frightened rush, esp. of herd of cattle, crowd, etc.; —v.t. to put into a state of panic; —v.i. to take part in a stampede; to rush off in a general panic [Sp. estampido, a crash].

stance (stáns) n. position of feet in certain games, e.g. golf, cricket, etc.; site; stand or stall in a market-place; station, esp. for buses [L. stare, to stand].

stanch (stáush) v.t. to stop or check flow (of blood) [O.Fr. estancher, to stop a flow; estanche, watertight].

stanchion (stán'shun) n. upright support; iron bar, used as prop [O.Fr. estance, fr. L. stare, to stand].

stand (stánd) v.t. to remain at rest in upright position; to be situated; to become or remain stationary; to stop; to endure; to adhere to principles; to have a position, order, or rank; to consist; to place oneself; to offer oneself as candidate; to adhere to; to persist; to insist; to be of certain height; (Naut.) to hold course or direction; to continue in force (Colloq.) to treat;—v.i. to endure; to sustain; to maintain; to resist; to withstand; to admit;—pa.p. and pa.i. stood.—n. place where one stands; place in town for motor-vehicles; structure for spectators to stand on for better view; piece of furniture on which things may be placed; stall for display of goods; resistance.—stand-by n. something in reserve.—stand-in n. (Film) actor or actress who stands in the place of principal player until scene is ready to be shot.—stand-off, stand-offish a. haughty; reserved; aloof.—stand-offishness n.—stand-point n. fundamental principle; a point of view.—to stand down, to withdraw; to demobilise temporarily.—to stand out, to project; to be conspicuous [O.E. standan].

standard (stan'dard) n. pole with a flag; flag, esp. ensign of war; royal banner; weight, measure, model, quality, etc. to which others must conform; criterion; upright support;—a. serving as established rule, model, etc.; having fixed value; uniform; standing upright.—stan'dardise v.i. to make of, or bring to, uniform level of weight, measure, quality, etc.—standardisation n. [O.Fr. estandard, a royal banner].

standing (stan'ding) a. established by law, custom, etc.; settled; permanent; not flowing; erect;—n. duration; existence; continuance; reputation.—standing army, force maintained in peacetime.—standing orders, permanent rules [O.E. standan].

stang (stang) n. pole, rod, or perch; long bar; shaft [O.E. stangl].

stank (stank) pa.i. of the verb stink.

stannary (stan'a-ri) n. tin-mines or tin-works in specified district;—a. pert. to these.—stann'le a. pert. to tin.—stannif'erous a. containing or producing tin.—stann'ous a. containing tin [L. stannum, tin].

stanza (stan'za) n. group of lines or verses of poetry having definite pattern; loosely, division of poem.—stanzae (stan-zä'ik) a. [It. stanza, fr. L. stare, to stand].

staple (stā'pl) n. settled mart or market; chief product of a country or district; unmanufactured material; fibre of wool, cotton, flax, etc.;—a. established in commerce; settled; regularly produced or made for market; principal; chief;—v.i. of textiles, to grade according to length and quality of fibre.—stapler n. dealer in staple commodities [O.Fr. estaple, a general market].

staple (stā'pl) n. U-shaped piece of metal with pointed ends to drive into wood, used with hook, as locking device for a door, etc.—stapler n. mechanical device for fastening papers together [O.E. stapel, a prop.].

star (stär) n. shining celestial body, seen as twinkling point of light; asterisk; leading actor or actress;—v.i. to set or adorn with stars; to cast (in play) as leading actor;—v.i. to shine, as star; to play principal part.—star'let n. small star.—star'light n. light from stars.—star'lit a.—star'ry a. pert. to, or like, stars; covered with stars; shining like stars.—star'ness n.—star'fish n. marine animal allied to sea-urchin.—star-gaz'ing n. practice of observing stars; astrology.—star-spang'led a. thickly set or studded with stars.—Star of Bethlehem (Bib.) star of the Nativity; (Bot.) garden plant of lily family [O.E. steorra].

starboard (stär'börd) n. right-hand side of a ship, looking forward;—a. pert. to, or on this side;—v.i. to put (the helm) to starboard [O.E. steorbord, the steer side].

starch (stärch) n. substance forming main food element in bread, potatoes, etc. and used, mixed with water, for stiffening linen, etc.; (Fig.) formality; primness;—v.i. to stiffen with starch.—starch'y a. pert. to, containing, starch; stiff; formal; prim.—starch'ly adv.—starch'iness n. [O.E. stearc, rigid].

stare (stär) v.i. to look fixedly; to gaze;—v.t. to abash by staring at; to be obvious to; to be visible to;—n. fixed, steady look.—stär'er n.—stär'ing n. a. [O.E. starian].

stark (stärk) a. stiff; rigid; strong; downright; utter;—adv. completely.—stark'ly adv.—stark'ness n. stiffness [O.E. stearc, rigid].

starling (stär'ling) n. bird, bluish-black and speckled [O.E. slaer, starling].

start (stär't) v.i. to make sudden movement; to spring; to wince; to begin, esp. journey; to become loosened or displaced;—v.i. to cause to move suddenly; to set going; to begin; to alarm; to loosen; to displace;—n. sudden involuntary movement, spring or leap; act of setting out; beginning; in sports, advantage of lead in race.—start'er n.—by fits and starts, spasmodically [O.E. sturtan].

startle (stär'tl) v.i. to cause to start; to excite by sudden alarm; to give a fright to;—v.t. to move abruptly, esp. from fright, apprehension, etc.—start'ling a. alarming; astonishing; surprising.—start'lingly adv. (fr. start).

starve (stärv) v.i. to suffer from cold or hunger; to die of hunger; to be short of something necessary;—v.i. to cause to suffer or die from lack of food, warmth, etc.—starva'tion n. the suffering from lack of food, warmth, etc.—starv'ing a. hungry; lean; emaciated;—n. one weak from lack of food [O.E. steorfan, to die].

state (stät) n. condition of person or thing; place or situation; temporary aspect of affairs; rank; high position; formal dignity; politically organised community; civil powers of such;—a. pert. to state; governmental; royal; public; ceremonial;—v.i. to set forth; to express in words; to specify.—stā'ted a. fixed; regular; established; settled.—state'ly a. dignified; imposing; majestic.—state'liness n.—state'ment n. act of expressing in words; what is expressed; formal account.—state-aid'ed a. partially supported out of public funds.—state-craft n. political sagacity; statesmanship.—state'less a. without nationality.—state'room n. a private cabin in a ship.—states'man n. one skilled in art of government; able politician.—states'man-like a. possessing qualities of a statesman.—states'manly a.—states'manship n. [L. status, fr. stare, to stand].

static (stā'tik) a. pert. to bodies at rest, or in equilibrium; motionless;—n. (Wireless) crackling noises during reception; atmospheres.—stat'ical a. static.—stat'ics n.pl. branch of mechanics dealing with bodies at rest [Gk. statikos, causing to stand].

station (stā'shun) n. place where thing or person stands; position; situation; condition of life; rank; regular stopping-place for railway trains; local or district office for police force, fire-brigade, etc.;—v.t. to put in a position; to place; to set; to appoint to place of duty.—stā'tionary a. not moving; fixed; regular; stable [L. statio, fr. stare, to stand].

stationer (stā'shun-gr) n. one who deals in writing materials.—stā'tionery n. wares sold by stationer.—Stationery Office, Government department responsible for supply of stationery, and for publication and sale of all official reports, pamphlets, statistics, etc. (fr. station, first booksellers exhibiting their stocks on stalls or stations).

statistics (stā-tis'tiks) n.pl. numerical data collected systematically, summarised, and tabulated; science of collecting and interpreting such information.—stat'istic(al) a.—stat'istically adv.—statistician (stā-tis'tish-än) n. one skilled in statistics.—sta'tist (stā'tist) n. statistician; statesman (Gk. statistes, to set up). [of a generator (L. stare, to stand)].

statue (stā'tor) n. (Elect.) the stationary part statue (stā'tū) n. image of person or animal, carved out of solid substance or cast in metal.—stat'uary n. art of making statues; collection of statues; one who makes statues; sculptor.—statuesque (stā't-ēsk') a. like a statue; immobile.—statuette (stā't-ēt') n. small statue [L. statua, a standing image].

stature (stat'ūr) n. the height of a person or animal [L. statura, fr. stare, to stand].

status (stāt'us) n. position; rank; position of affairs [L. fr. stare, to stand].

statute (stat'ūt) n. law passed by legislature; Act of Parliament; permanent rules defining purposes and governing operations of corporation, institution, etc. —stat'utable a. made by statute; in accordance with statutes. —stat'utory a. enacted, defined, or authorised by statute [L. statutum, that which is set up].

staunch (stawnsh) a. firm; loyal; trustworthy. —staunch'ly adv. —staunch'ness n. [fr. stanch].

stave (stāv) n. one of curved strips of wood forming cask; rung of ladder; staff; five lines and spaces on which musical notes are written; verse or stanza; —v.t. to fit with staves; to break stave(s) of (cask); to knock hole in side of; to ward off; to defer. —pa.p. and pa.t. staved or stove [fr. staff].

staves (stāvz) n.pl. See staff and stave.

stay (stā) v.t. to restrain; to check; to stop; to support; to satisfy; to last; —v.i. to remain; to continue in a place; to dwell; to pause; —n. remaining or continuing in a place; halt; support; postponement, esp. of a legal proceeding. —stays n.pl. laced corset. —stay'er n. one who, or that which, stays or supports; in a race, person or horse having qualities of endurance. —stay-in strike, industrial dispute in which workers refuse to leave factory, etc., until their demands are granted [O.E. stæcg].

stay (stā) n. (Naut.) strong rope or wire to support a mast or . . . , —v.t. to support or incline to one side with stays; to put on the other tack; —v.i. to change tack; to go about [O.E. stæcg].

stead (sted) n. place which another had; place; use; benefit; advantage; service; place of abode; frame of bed. —in stead, in place. —in good stead, of service. —stead'ing n. out-houses of farm [O.E. stede, position, place].

steadfast (sted'fast) a. firmly fixed; steady; constant. —stead'fastly adv. —stead'fastness n. [O.E. stede, place; faest, firm].

steady (sted'i) a. firm; constant; uniform; temperate; industrious; reliable; —v.t. to make steady; to support; —v.i. to become steady; —pr.p. stead'ying. —pa.p. and pa.t. stead'ied. —n. support. —stead'ier a. more steady. —stead'iest a. most steady. —stead'ily adv. —stead'iness n. [O.E. stede, position, place].

steak (stūk) n. slice of meat, esp. beef; also, slice of fish [O.N. stek].

steal (stēl) v.t. to take by theft; to get by cunning or surprise; to win gradually by skill, affection, etc.; —v.i. to take what is not one's own; to move silently, or secretly. —pa.p. sto'len (stō'len). —pa.t. stole (stōl). —stealth (stelh) n. secret means used to accomplish anything; concealed act. —stealthy (stelh'th) a. done by stealth. —stealth'ly adv. —stealth'iness n. [O.E. stelan].

steam (stēm) n. vapour rising from boiling water; water in gaseous state; any exhalation of heated bodies; —a. worked by steam; —v.t. to apply steam to; to cook or treat with steam; —v.i. to give off steam; to rise in vapour; to move under power of steam. —steam'y a. pert, to, or like, steam; full of steamship; vessel for cooking or washing by steam; road-engine, fire-escape, etc., operated by steam. —steam'boat, steam ship n. a vessel propelled by steam. —steam'en'gine n. engine worked by steam. —steam'roller n. heavy roller, driven by steam, used in road-making [O.E. steam].

stearin (stē-ə-rin) n. solid fat-like substance occurring in natural fats. —stear'ine n. hard, waxy solid used in manufacture of candles. —stear'ic a. [Gk. stear, suet].

steed (stēd) n. horse [O.E. steda, stallion].

steel (stēl) n. hard and malleable metal, made by mixing carbon in iron; tool or weapon of steel; instrument for sharpening knives; —n.

made of steel; hard; inflexible; unfeeling; —v.t. to overlay, point, or edge, with steel; to harden; to make obdurate. —steel'y a. made of, or like, steel; hard; obdurate; relentless. —steel'iness n. —steel-engrav'ing n. art of engraving on steel plates; design engraved on steel plate; print from this [O.E. stēle].

steelyard (stēl'y-ard) n. balance with unequal arms and movable weight [etym. uncertain].

steep (stēp) a. having abrupt or decided slope; precipitous; difficult; (Colloq.) very high or exorbitant, esp. of prices; —n. steep place; precipice. —steep'ly adv. —steep'en v.t. and v.i. to make, or become, steep [O.E. stēap].

steep (stēp) v.t. to soak in a liquid; to drench; to saturate; —v.i. to be soaked; —n. act or process of steeping; liquid used [O.N. stēppa, to pour out].

steeple (stē-pl) n. a church tower with a spire. —steep'chase n. a cross-country horse-race in which ditches, hedges, etc. must be jumped; a similar horse-race on a course specially set with artificial obstacles; a cross-country foot-race. —steep'pleack n. a skilled workman who climbs steeples, tall chimneys, etc. [O.E. stēap, lofty].

steer (stēr) n. a young male ox; a bullock [O.E. steor, a bullock].

steer (stēr) v.t. to guide or direct the course of (a ship, motor-car, etc.) by means of a rudder, wheel, etc.; —v.i. to guide a ship, motor-car, etc.; to direct one's course. —steer'age n. the act of steering; the part of a ship allotted to passengers paying the lowest fare. —steer'er, steers'man n. the man who steers a ship; the helmsman of a ship. —steer'age-way n. sufficient movement of a vessel through the water to enable it to answer the helm. —steer'ing-column n. a hollow, cylindrical rod on a motor-vehicle, to the top of which the steering-wheel is fixed. —steer'ing-gear n. the mechanism for steering a vessel, motor-vehicle, etc. —steer'ing-wheel n. the wheel for directing the course of a ship or for guiding a motor-vehicle [O.E. stieran].

stela, stele (stē-lā, stē-lē) n. an ancient upright stone tablet or pillar. —pl. stel'ae [Gk. stēlē, to set, stand].

stellar (stē-lār) a. pert. to, or like, stars; starry. —stell'ate, stell'ated a. arranged in the form of a star; star-shaped; radiating. —stell'iform a. star-shaped. —stell'ular a. like little stars [L. stella, a star].

stem (stēm) n. the principal stalk of a tree or plant; any slender stalk . . . a plant; any slender shaft resembling a stalk; branch of family; curved or upright piece of timber or metal to which two sides of ship are joined; part of word to which inflectional endings are added; —v.t. to remove the stem of. —pr.p. stem'ming. —pa.p. and pa.t. stemmed [O.E. stefn].

stem (stēm) v.t. to check; to stop; to dam up. —pr.p. stem'ming. —pa.p. and pa.t. stemmed [O.N. stemmal].

stench (stensh) n. strong, offensive odour [O.E. stenc].

stencil (sten-sil) n. thin sheet of metal, paper, etc. pierced with pattern or letters, so that when placed on any surface and brushed over with paint, ink, etc., the design is reproduced; design so reproduced; —v.t. to mark or paint thus. —pr.p. sten'siling. —pa.p. and pa.t. sten'silled [etym. uncertain].

Sten gun (sten-gun) n. (World War 2) light, automatic weapon [ST for initials of designer; EN for L. field, the makers].

stenography (sten-og'ra-fī) n. shorthand writing. —sten'ograph n. character used in stenography; the script; stenographic machine; —v.t. to write in shorthand. —stenog'rapher, stenog'raphist n. —steno'type n. a machine for writing shorthand; shorthand-writer. —steno-graph'ic, stenograph'ical a. [Gk. stenos, narrow; graphēin, to write].

Stentor (stent'or) n. Greek herald in Homer's

Ilhad.—stento'rian a. of voice, extremely loud or powerful; brazen-voiced.

step (step) v.i. to move and set down the foot; to walk, esp. short distance; to walk slowly;—v.t. to set or place, as foot; to measure in paces; (Naut.) to set up (mast);—n. act of stepping; complete movement of foot in walking, dancing, etc.; distance so covered; manner of walking; footprint; footfall; tread of stair; degree of progress; act; measure; grade; (Naut.) socket for mast;—pl. portable ladder.—pr.p. step'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. stepped.—step per n.—step'ping-stone n. stone for stepping on when crossing stream, etc.; (Fig.) aid to success [O.E. stæppan].

step- (step) pre/Lt. showing relationship acquired by remarriage.—step'father n. second, or later, husband of one's mother. Similarly step'mother, step'brother, step'sister.

steppe (step) n. vast, treeless plain, as in Siberia (Russ. = a heath).

stercoral (ster'ko-ral) a. pert. to dung or excrement. Also ster'o'rary.—stercora'ceous a. [L. stercus, stercoris, dung].

stereo- (ster'e-o) fr. Gk. stereos, solid, used in many derivatives.—ster'eograph n. double photograph of same scene, for use in stereoscope.—stereog'raphy n. the art of representing solid bodies on a plane surface.

stereoscope (ster'e-o, stê'rê-o-skôp) n. optical instrument in which two pictures taken at different view-points are combined into one image, with effect of depth and solidity.—stereoscop'ic(al) a.—stereoscop'ically adv.—stereoscopy n. [Gk. stereos, solid; skopein, to view].

stereotype (ster'e-o, stê'rê-o-tîp) n. in printing, plate made by pouring metal into mould of plaster or papier-mâché made from original type;—a. pert. to stereotypes;—v.t. to make a stereotype from; to print from stereotypes; to fix unalterably; (Fig.) to reduce to empty formula; to make always the same.—ste'reo'typed a.—ste'reotyper, ste'reotypist n.—stereoty'graphy n. art of printing from stereotypes [Gk. stereos, solid; and type].

sterile (ster'il, ster'il) a. barren; not fertile; unable to have offspring; producing no fruit, seed, or crops; (Med.) entirely free from germs of all kinds.—ster'ilise v.t. to make sterile; to deprive of power of having offspring; to destroy germs, esp. by heat or antiseptics.—sterilisa'tion n.—ster'iliser n.—ster'il'ity n. barrenness [L. sterilis, barren].

sterling (ster'ling) a. pert. to standard value, weight, or purity; of solid worth; genuine; pure; denoting British money;—n. British money, [etym. uncertain—perh. fr. O.E. steorling, a coin with a star].

stern (stern) a. severe; strict; rigorous.—stern'ly adv.—stern'ness n. [O.E. styrne].

stern (stern) n. after part of ship; rump or tail of animal.—stern'most a. farthest stern [O.N. stjorn, steering].

sternum (ster-num) n. breast-bone.—pl. ster'na.—ster'nal a. [Gk. sternon, the chest].

sternutation (ster-nû-tâ-shun) n. act of sneezing; sneeze.—sternuta'tive, sternuta'tory a. exciting to sneeze;—n. anything which causes sneezing [L. sternutare, to sneeze].

stertor (ster'tor) n. heavy, sonorous breathing.—ster'torous a. snoring; characterised by snoring sound.—ster'torously adv. [L. stertere, to snore].

set (set) v.t. word used by proof-readers as instruction to printer to cancel previous correction [L. = let it stand].

stethoscope (steth'o-skôp) n. instrument for listening to action of lungs or heart.—stethoscop'ic a. [Gk. stêthos, chest; skopein, to see].

setoon (set-sun) n. kind of soft hat, for men [fr. the same of the maker].

steward (stêv'e-dôr) n. one who loads and unloads ships [Sp. estivador a wool-packer, fr. L. stipare, to press together].

stew (stê) v.t. to cook slowly in a closed vessel; to simmer;—v.i. to be cooked slowly; to feel uncomfortably warm; (Slang) to study hard;—n. stewed meat; a swot; (Colloq.) nervous anxiety [O.Fr. estuve, a stove].

steward (stê'ard) n. one who manages another's property; on ship, attendant on passengers; catering-manager of club; official who manages race-meeting, assembly, etc.—stew'ardess n. fem. female steward.—stew'ardship n. office of steward; management.—stew'ardry n. stewardship [O.E. stigeard, a major-domo, fr. stig, a house; weard, a ward].

stibium (stib'i-um) n. antimony [L.].
stich (stik) n. verse or line of poetry, of whatever measure or number of feet.—stich'ic a. pert. to stich.—stichom'etry n. measurement of manuscript by number of lines it contains.—stichomet'ric, stichomet'rical a. [Gk. stichos, row].

stick (stik) n. small branch cut off tree or shrub; staff; walking-stick; rod; (Print.) instrument in which types are arranged in words and lines; (R.A.F.) set of bombs dropped one after the other; (Colloq.) stiff or dull person [O.E. sticca].

stick (stik) v.t. to stab; to pierce; to jab; to puncture; to fasten; to cause to adhere; to fix; to thrust; (Colloq.) to endure;—v.i. to pierce; to adhere closely; to remain fixed; to stop; to halt; to hesitate; to be unable to proceed; to be puzzled, e.g. by a problem.—pa.p. and pa.t. stuck.—stick'er n. one who sticks; one who perseveres.—stick'y a. adhesive; viscous; glutinous; tenacious; (Colloq.) embarrassing; rough; painful.—stick'iness n.—stick'ing-plas'ter n. adhesive bandage for small wounds, cuts, etc.—stuck up, conceited [O.E. stician, to pierce].

stickle (stik'l) v.t. to hold out stubbornly.—stick'ler n. one who insists on trifles of procedure, etc. [O.E. stihlan, to control].

stickle (stik'l) n. sharp point; prickle; spine.—stick'leback n. small spiny-backed freshwater fish [O.E. sticel, a prickle].

stiff (stif) a. not easily bent; not flexible or pliant; moved with difficulty. firm, hard; thick; stubborn; formal in manner, (Colloq.) high in price; (Slang) fool; corpse.—stiff'ly adv.—stiff'ness n.—stiff'en v.t. and v.i. to make or become stiff or stiffer.—stiff'ener n. one who, or that which, stiffens.—stiff-necked a. stubborn; obstinate [O.E. stif].

stifle (stif'l) v.t. and v.i. to smother; to choke; to extinguish; to suppress sound of; to repress.—stif'ling a. useless, close [etym. uncertain].

stigma (stik'ma) n. brand; mark of disgrace; stain on character, bluish on skin; (Bot.) top of pistil of a flower.—pl. stig'mas or stig'mata.—stig'mata (stik'ma-ta) n.pl. marks resembling five wounds of Christ, said to have been miraculously impressed on bodies of certain saints.—stig'mat'ic(al) a. pert. to, or marked with, stigma; giving reproach or disgrace.—stig'mat'ically adv.—stig'matise v.t. to mark with stigma or stig'mata; to hold up to disgrace [Gk. stigma, a tattoo mark].

stile (stil) n. arrangement of steps for climbing fence or wall, in panelling or framing, upright sidepiece [O.E. stigel].

stiletto (stî-lê-tô) n. small dagger; pointed instrument used in needlework [It. fr. L. stilus, a pointed instrument].

still (stil) a. motionless; silent; quiet; peaceful; of wine, not sparkling;—n. stillness; (Cinema) enlargement of one unit of film;—v.t. to quiet; to silence; to calm;—adv. to this time; yet; even;—conj. yet; however.—still'y a. still; quiet; calm;—adv. silently; quietly.—still'ness n.—still-birth n. state of being dead at time of birth.—still-born a.—still life (Art) inanimate objects as subject of painting [O.E. stille].

still (stil) n. apparatus for distilling alcoholic liquors;—v.t. to expel spirit from liquor by heating into vapour and then cooling; to distill; (Poet.) to let fall in drops [L. stillare, to drip].

stilt (stilt) n. pole with foot-rest, for walking raised from ground; —v.t. to walk on stilts. — stilt'ed a. (Fig.) formal; stilt; pretentious [Dut. stilt].

Stilton (stilt'on) n. rich cheese, orig. made at Stilton, in Huntingdonshire.

stimulus (stim'ū-lus) n. goad; incentive; stimulant; (Bot.) sting; prickle. —pl. stim'uli. — stim'ulate v.t. to rouse to activity; to excite; to increase vital energy of. — stim'ulant a. serving to stimulate; —n. that which spurs on; (Med.) any agent or drug which increases temporarily action of any organ of body. — stimula'tion n. — stim'ulative a. having quality of stimulating; —n. stimulant [L. stimulus, a goad].

sting (sting) n. pointed organ often poisonous, of certain animals, insects, or plants; thrust, wound, or pain of one; any acute physical or mental pain; —v.t. to thrust sting into; to cause sharp pain to; to hurt feelings; to incite to action; (Slang) to overcharge; —v.i. to use a sting. —pa.p. and pa.t. stung. — sting'er n. — sting'ing a. that uses a sting, causing acute pain; keen; sharp. — sting'ingly adv. [O.E. stigan].

stingy (stin'jī) a. meanly avaricious; miserly. — stin'gily adv. — stin'giness n. [fr. sting].

stink (stink) v.t. to give out strongly offensive smell; —pa.p. stunk (stungk). — pa.t. stank (etangk) or stunk. —n. stench. — stink'er n. one who, or that which, stinks. — stink'ing a. — stink'ingly adv. [O.E. stincan].

stint (stint) v.t. to limit; to keep on short allowance; to skimp; —v.i. to be frugal. —n. limitation of supply or effort, allotted task. — stint'ed a. limited; scanty [O.E. stytan, to blunt].

stipe (stip) n. (Bot.) the stalk or stem of a fungus or mushroom; the leaf-stalk of a fern [L. stipes, a stem].

stipend (stip'end) n. money paid for a person's services; (Scol.) salary of clergyman. — stipend'iary a. receiving salary; —n. one who performs services for fixed salary [L. stipendium, wages].

stipple (stip'l) v.t. and v.i. to engrave, draw, or paint by using dots instead of lines; —n. this process. — stipp'ler n. one who stipples; brush, tool, used for stippling. — stipp'ling n. [Dut. stip, a point].

stipulate (stip'ū-lit) v.t. to arrange; to settle definitely; to insist on in making a bargain or agreement. — stipula'tion n. act of stipulating; specified condition. — stip'ulator n. [L. stipulari].

stir (stir) v.t. to set or keep in motion; to move; to mix up ingredients, materials, etc. by circular motion of utensil. — to rouse, to incite; —v.i. to begin to move, to be in motion; to be out to bed; —pr.p. stir'ring. — pa.p. and pa.t. stirred. —n. act of stirring; commotion. — stir'rer n. — stir'ring a. active; energetic, exciting, rousing; —n. act of stirring [O.E. styrian].

stirrup (stir'up) n. metal loop hung from strap, for foot of rider on horse. — stir'up-rop n. drink given to departing rider. — stir'up-pump n. portable, hand-operated pump [O.E. stirap, mount rope].

stitch (stich) n. in sewing, a single pass of needle; loop or turn of thread thus made; in knitting, crocheting, etc., single turn of yarn or thread round needle or hook; (Fig.) bit of clothing; sharp, sudden pain in the side; —v.t. and v.i. to form stitches; to sew. — stitch'er n. — stitch'ing n. work done by sewing [O.E. stician, to pierce].

stithy (stith'ī) n. anvil; forge; —v.t. to forge on anvil [O.N. stethi, anvil].

stiver (stiv'er) n. old Dutch coin of small value; trifle [Dut. stuiver].

stoat (stōt) n. ermine or weasel, esp. in its summer fur of reddish-brown colour [etym. unknown].

stock (stok) n. stump or post; stem or trunk of tree or plant; upright block of wood; piece of wood to which the barrel, lock, etc. of firearm are secured; crossbar of anchor; ancestry; family; domestic animals on farm; fund; supply of goods trader has on hand; government securities; capital of company or corporation; quantity; supply; juices of meat, etc. to form a liquid used as foundation of soup; close-fitting band of cloth worn round neck; garden plant bearing fragrant flowers; gillyflower; —pl. frame of timber supporting a ship while building; old instrument of punishment in form of wooden frame with holes in it, to confine hands and feet of offenders; —v.t. to lay in supply for future use; to store; to keep for sale; —a. used, or available, for constant supply; commonplace; conventional. — stock-breed'er n. one who raises cattle, horses, etc. — stock-broker n. one who buys and sells stocks or shares for others. — stock'broking n. — stock exchange, building in which stockbrokers meet to buy and sell stocks and shares. — stock-in-trade n. all goods merchant, shopkeeper, etc. has on hand for supply to public. — stock'ist n. one who keeps supply of certain goods. — stock market, stock exchange. — stock'still a. still as stock or post, motionless. — stock'st'king n. act of preparing inventory of goods on hand in trading establishment. — stock-whip n. heavy whip, with short handle and long lash. — stock-yard n. large yard with pens for cattle, sheep, pigs, etc., esp. for those to be slaughtered [O.E. stoc, a stick].

stockade (sto-kād') n. enclosure or pen made with posts and stakes, —v.t. to surround, enclose, or defend by erecting line of stakes [Sp. estacada, a stake].

stockfish (stok-fish) n. salted and dried cod-fish, hake, etc. [fr. stock].

stocking (stok'ing) n. woven or knitted covering for foot and leg; wind-indicator at aerodrome. — stockinet' n. elastic knitted fabric (for neither stock, lower hose). — stocky (stok'ī) a. short and stout; thickset. — stock'ily adv. [fr. stock].

stodge (stodj) v.t. to stuff; to cram. — stodg'y a. heavy; lumpy; indigestible; (Fig.) dull and uninteresting. — stodg'iness n. [etym. uncertain].

stoep (stōp) n. in S. Africa, veranda in front of house [Dut.].

Stoic (stō'ik) n. disciple of the Greek philosopher Zeno (342-270 B.C.). — sto'ic n. one who suffers without complaint, person of great self-control, one indifferent to pleasure or pain. — sto'ical a. suffering without complaint; being indifferent to pleasure or pain. — sto'ically adv. — sto'icism n. endurance of pain, hardship, etc. without complaint [Gk. stoa, porch (where Zeno taught this philosophy)].

stoke (stōk) v.t. and v.i. to stir up, feed, or tend (fire). — stok'er n. — stoke-hole n. mouth of furnace, furnace-room of steamer [Dut. stoken, to kindle a fire].

stole (stōl) pa.t. of steal — sto'len pa.p.

stole (stōl) n. long, loose garment, reaching to feet; long, narrow scarf worn by bishops, priests, etc. during mass; woman's long, narrow scarf [Gk. stola, a robe].

stolid (stol'id) a. dull or stupid; not easily excited. — stol'idly adv. — stol'idness, stolid'ity n. [L. stolidus].

stomach (stum'ak) n. chief digestive organ in any animal, appetite; desire; spirit; —v.t. to put up with; to endure. — stomacher (stum'ak-er) n. part of a woman's dress covering stomach, generally lower part of bodice. — stomachic (stum-ak'ik), stomach'ical a. pert. to stomach; aiding digestion. — stomach'ic n. (Med.) any medicine for aiding digestion. — stom'ach-pump n. rubber tube about 18 in. long, for washing out stomach, and for feeding patients [Gk. stomachos, the gullet, fr. stoma, a mouth].

stone (stōn) n. hard, earthy matter of which rock is made; piece of rock; a measure of weight equal to 14 lb.; hard centre of certain fruits; gem; concretion in kidneys or bladder; calculus; testicle;—a. made of stone, stone-ware, earthenware;—v.i. to pelt with stones; to remove stones from, as from fruits.—sto'ny a. like stone; full of stones; (Fig.) hard; pitiless.—sto'nily adv.—sto'niness n.—Stone Age, primitive stage of human development when man used stone for tools and weapons.—stone-blind a. entirely blind.—stone-chat n. small bird, with orange-red breast and black legs and bill; wheat-eat.—stone-crop n. creeping plant found on old walls, etc.; wall-pepper.—stone-dead a. quite dead; lifeless.—stone-deaf a. completely deaf.—stone-mason n. worker or builder in stone.—stone's-throw n. as far as one can throw a stone; hence, not far away. Also stone-cast, stone's-cast, stone-shot.—stone-wall v.i. and v.t. to offer stubborn resistance.—stone-ware n. hard, coarse, glazed pottery; earthenware.—sto'ny-broke a. (Slang) quite penniless [O.E. stan].

stood (stōd) pa.p. and pa.t. of stand.

stooge (stōj) n. (Slang) one who bears blame for others; actor serving as butt of another's jokes;—v.i. to act as stooge [etym. uncertain].

stook (stōk) n. group of sheaves of corn, etc. set up in field;—v.t. to set up in stooks [M.E. stuk].

stool (stōl) n. chair with no back; low backless seat for resting feet on; seat for evacuating bowels; discharge from bowels.—stool-pigeon n. pigeon used to trap other pigeons; person used as decoy.—to fall between two stools (Fig.) to lose both of two things, opportunities, etc. [O.E. stol].

stoop (stōp) v.t. to bend body; to lean forward; to have shoulders bowed forward, as from age; to bow one's head; to submit; to condescend; to swoop down, as bird of prey;—v.t. to cause to lean forward;—n. act of stooping; stooping carriage of head and shoulders [O.E. stūpan].

stoop (stōp) n. See stoop.

stop (stop) v.t. to fill up opening; to keep from going forward; to bring to a halt; to obstruct; to check; to impede; to hinder; to suspend; to withhold; to desist from; to bring to an end; to leave off; to punctuate;—v.t. to cease to go forward; to halt; to leave off.—pr.p. stop'ping,—pa.p. and pa.t. stopped;—n. act of stopping; state of being stopped; halt; halting-place; pause; delay; hindrance; any device for checking movement, e.g. peg, pin, plug, etc.; punctuation mark; (Mus.) any device for altering or regulating pitch, e.g. vent-hole in wind instrument; set of organ pipes; lever for putting it in action; consonant (p, t, etc.) produced by checking escape of breath from mouth by closure of lips, teeth, etc.—stop'page n. state of being stopped; act of stopping; obstruction; cessation; deduction from wages.—stop'per n. one who, or that which, stops; plug for closing mouth of bottle, etc.; (Naut.) short rope;—v.t. to close opening with stop'per.—stop'ping n. material for filling up cracks, holes, etc.; in dentistry, material for filling cavity of tooth.—stop-cock n. short pipe with key for tap, for regulating flow of liquid from vessel.—stop-gap n. that which closes gap or opening; makeshift; a temporary substitute.—stop-press n. news put into a newspaper, generally in a special column, after printing has begun.—stop-watch n. special watch whose hands can be started or stopped instantly, used for exact timing of races.—full stop, in punctuation, period [O.E. stoppian, to plug].

store (stōr) n. great quantity; abundance; reserve supply; stock; a place for keeping goods; shop; warehouse;—v.t. to collect; to accumulate; to hoard; to place in a warehouse.—sto'rage n. act of placing goods in a warehouse; space occupied by them; price paid.—

store-sail's n. cattle kept for fattening [L. instaurare, to restore].

storey, story (stō'ri) n. horizontal division of building; set of rooms on one floor.—pl. sto'reys, sto'ries.—storeyed (stō'rid), sto'ried a. having storeys or floors [var. of story].

stork (stork) n. large wading-bird allied to heron and ibis.—stork's-bill n. plant of geranium family [O.E. storc].

storm (stōrm) n. violent wind or disturbance of atmosphere; tempest; gale; assault on fortified place; vehemence; commotion; outburst of emotion;—v.t. to take by storm; to assault;—v.t. to raise tempest; to rage; to fume; to scold violently.—storm'ya, tempestuous; boisterous; violent; passionate.—storm'ily adv.—storm'iness n.—storm-bound a. delayed by storms.—storm-cone, storm-drum n. large cone (drum) made of stout canvas, used as part of storm-signal.—storm-stayed a. prevented from proceeding by stormy weather.—storm-troop'er n. member of a body formed in Germany by Hitler, disbanded 1934.—storm-troops n. troops specially trained to attack strongly fortified positions.—storm'ypet'rel n. small sea-bird, Mother Carey's Chicken [O.E. storm].

story (stō'ri) n. history or narrative of facts or events; account; tale; legend; anecdote; (Collog.) falsehood; a lie.—pl. sto'ries.—storied (stō'rid) a. told in a story; having a history.—sto'ry-tell'er n. one who tells stories; novelist; romancer; (Collog.) a liar [Gk. historia].

story (stō'ri) n. See sto'ry.

stot (stot) n. young bullock; steer [O.N. stutr, a bull]. [stoup [O.N. staupt].

stoup (stōp) n. flagon; holy-water basin. Also stout (stout) a. strong; robust; vigorous; bold; resolute; fat; thickset; bulky;—n. strong, dark-coloured beer; porter.—stout'ly adv.—stout'ness n.—stout-hearted a. brave; courageous; intrepid [O.Fr. esout, proud, fierce].

stove (stōv) n. apparatus with enclosed fire, for cooking, warming room, etc.; oven of blast-furnace;—v.t. to heat; to keep warm.—stove-pipe n. metal pipe for carrying off smoke from stove [O.E. stofa, a heated room].

stove (stōv) pa.p. and pa.t. of slave.

stow (stō) v.t. to fill by packing closely; to arrange compactly, as cargo in ship; to be silent about; to conceal.—stow'age n. act of packing closely; space for stowing goods; charge made for stowing goods.—stow'away n. one who hides on ship to obtain free passage [O.E. stow, a place].

strabismus (stra-biz'mus) n. (Med.) squint [Gk. strabos, squinting].

straddle (strad'l) v.t. to spread legs wide; to stand or walk with legs apart;—v.t. to bestride something; in gunnery, to drop shells beyond and short of (target);—n. act of straddling; distance between legs in such position;—adv. astride [fr. stridel].

Stradivarius (strad-i-vā'ri-us) n. a violin, usually of great value, made at Cremona, Italy, by Antonio Stradivari (1649-1737).

strafe (strāf) v.t. (Mil. Slang) to bombard heavily [Ger. strafen, to punish].

straggle (strag'l) v.t. to wander from direct course; to stray; to get dispersed; to lag behind; to stretch beyond proper limits, as branches of plant.—stragg'ler n. one who, or that which, straggles.—stragg'ling a. wandering; uneven; scattered [etym. uncertain].

straight (strāt) a. passing from one point to another by nearest course; without a bend; direct; honest; upright; frank; (Slang) of whisky, etc. undiluted;—n. straightness; straight part, e.g. of racing-track;—adv. in a direct line or manner; directly; without ambiguity; at once.—straight'ly adv.—straight'en v.t. to make straight; to put in order;—v.t. to become straight.—straight'ener n.—straight'away adv. straight forward; (Collog.) at once.—straight'ward a. proceeding in a straight course; honest; frank; simple.—straight'ward wardly adv.—straightfor'wardness n.—straightness n. state of being straight; narrowness; tightness [O.E. streht].

strain (strān) n. race; breed; stock; inherited quality [O.E. strean].

strain (strān) v.t. to stretch tight; to stretch to the full or to excess; to exert to the utmost; to injure by over-exertion, as muscle; to wrench; to force; to stress; to pass through sieve; to filter;—v.i. to make great effort; to filter;—n. act of straining; stretching force; violent effort; injury caused by over-exertion; wrench, esp. or muscle; sound; tune; style; manner; tone of speaking or writing.—strain'er n. filter; sieve [L. stringere, to make tight].

strait (strāt) a. narrow; strict; rigorous; difficult;—n. narrow channel of water connecting two larger areas; difficulty; financial embarrassment.—strait'ly adv. strictly; narrowly.—strait'en v.t. to make strait; to narrow; to restrict; to put into position of difficulty or distress.—strait-jack'et,—waist'coat n. garment for restraint of violent lunatics.—strait-laced a. laced tightly in stays; puritanical; austere [L. stringere, strictum, to draw tight].

strand (strand) n. edge of sea or lake; the shore;—v.t. to cause to run aground; to drive ashore; (Fig.) to leave in helpless position;—v.i. to run aground; to be driven ashore.—strand'ed a. driven on shore; left in a state of difficulty or embarrassment [O.E. strand].

strand (strand) n. single string or wire of rope; any string, e.g. of hair, pearls, etc.;—v.t. to make rope by twisting strands together [O.Fr. estran, a rope].

strange (strānj) a. foreign; belonging to another person or place; unaccustomed; not familiar; uncommon; odd; wonderful, extraordinary; shy; inexperienced.—strange'ly adv.—strange'ness n.—stran'ger n. one from another country, town, place, etc.; unknown person; newcomer; one unaccustomed (to) [O.Fr. estrange, fr. L. extraneus, outer].

strangle (strang'gl) v.t. to kill by squeezing throat; to choke; to stifle; to suppress.—strang'ler n.—strang'ulate v.t. to constrict so that circulation of blood is impeded; to compress; to strangle.—strangula'tion n. [L. strangulare].

strap (strap) n. long, narrow strip of leather, cloth, or metal; strip of any material for binding together or keeping in place;—v.t. to fasten, bind, chastise with strap; to sharpen (a razor).—pr.p. strap'ping.—pa.p. and pa.i. strapped.—strap'ping n. act of fastening with strap; material used; punishment with strap;—a. tall, robust, and handsome [O.E. strop, fr. L. strappus].

strata (strā'ta, strāt'a) n.pl. See stratum.

stratagem (strāt'a-jem) n. artifice in war; scheme for deceiving enemy; ruse [Gk. strategia, to lead an army].

strategy (strāt'e-jī) n. art of conducting military or naval operations; generalship.—strategie (strā'te-jik, strā'tō-jik) a. pert. to, based on, strategy.—strateg'ies n.pl. strategy.—strateg'ical a.—strateg'ically adv.—strateg'ist n. one skilled in strategy [Gk. strategia, to lead army].

strathspey (strath-spā') n. lively Scottish dance; music played for it [fr. Strathspey, Scotland].

stratify (strāt'i-fi) v.t. to form or deposit in strata or layers.—pa.p. and pa.i. strat'ified.—stratifica'tion n. arrangement in strata or layers.—strat'iform a. in form of strata [L. stratum, a layer].

stratosphere (strāt'ō-sfēr) n. upper part of atmosphere, six miles or more above earth [L. stratum, layer, and sphere].

stratum (strāt'um, strāt'um) n. bed of earth, rock, coal, etc. in series of layers; any bed or layer; class in society.—pl. strā'ta.—strāt'us n. cloud form, in low, horizontal layers or bands.—pl. strā'tū [L. stratum, fr. sternere, to spread out].

straw (straw) n. stalk of corn, etc. after grain has been thrashed out; collection of such dry stalks, used for fodder, etc.; thing of very little value;—a. made of straw [O.E. streatw].

strawberry (straw'bē-ri) n. creeping plant of genus Fragaria; its fruit, a red berry with delicious taste [O.E. streatw, straw; berige, a berry].

stray (strā) v.i. to wander from path; to get lost; to digress; (Fig.) to err;—v.t. to cause to stray;—a. wandering; strayed; lost; occasional;—n. stray animal; lost child [O.Fr. estrater].

streak (strēk) n. line, or long band, of different colour from the background; stripe; flash of lightning; trait; strain;—v.t. to mark with streaks.—streak'ed, streak'y a. having streaks; striped [O.E. strica, a stroke].

stream (strēm) n. flowing body of water, or other liquid; river, brook, etc.; current; course; trend; steady flow of air or light, or people;—v.t. to issue in stream; to flow or move freely; to stretch in long line; to float or wave in air;—v.i. to send out in a stream; to send forth rays of light.—stream'er n. long, narrow flag; pennant; auroral beam of light shooting up from horizon.—stream'let n. little stream.—stream'line n. line of current of air; shape of a body (e.g. motor-car, ship, etc.) calculated to offer least resistance to air or water when passing through it;—v.t. to design body of this shape [O.E. stream].

street (strēt) n. road in town or village, usually with houses or buildings at the side.—street'walk'er n. one who walks the streets; prostitute [L. strata (ria), a paved (way)].

strength (strength) n. quality of being strong; capacity for exertion; ability to endure; power or vigour; physical, mental, or moral force; potency of liquid, esp. of distilled or malted liquors; intensity; force of expression; vigour of style; support; security; force in numbers, e.g. of army.—streng'th'en v.t. to make strong or stronger; to reinforce;—v.i. to become or grow strong or stronger.—streng'th'ener n. [O.E. strengthu].

strenuous (stren'ū-us) a. eagerly pressing, urgent; energetic; full of, requiring effort, bold; earnest.—stren'uously adv.—stren'uousness n. [L. strenuus].

streptococcus (strep-tō-kok'us) n. (Med.) bacterium of chain formation, the organism responsible for serious septicaemias.—pl. streptococci' (kok'ē) [Gk. strep'tos, bent; kokkos, grain].

streptomycin (strep-tō-mī'sēr, n. (Med.) drug related to penicillin [Gk. strep'tos, bent; mukos, fungus].

stress (stres) n. force; pressure; strain; emphasis; weight or importance; accent; (Mech.) force producing change in shape of body;—v.t. to lay stress on [O.Fr. estrecier].

stretch (stretch) v.t. to pull out; to tighten; to reach out; to strain; to exaggerate;—v.i. to be drawn out; to be extended; to spread;—n. extension; strain; effort; utmost extent of meaning; expanse; scope; long line or surface; direction; course; unbroken period of time.—stretch'er n. one who, or that which, stretches; a frame or litter for carrying sick or wounded; brick or stone laid lengthwise along line of wall.—at a stretch, continuously.—to stretch a point, to make concession [O.E. strecan].

strew (strōd) v.t. to scatter over surface; to spread loosely.—pa.p. strewed or strewn.—pa.i. strewed [O.E. strecwian].

stria (strī'a) n. line or small groove.—pl. striae (strī'ā) thread-like lines, as on surface of shells; (Archit.) fillets between flutes of columns.—stri'ate, striated a. marked with striae.—stri'ation n. [L. stria, a furrow].

stricken (strīk'n) a. struck; smitten; afflicted (with illness, etc.); worn out (by age) [fr. strike].

strict (strikt) a. stern; severe; exacting; rigid; unwavering; defined; without exception.

accurate; restricted.—strid'ly adv.—strid'ness n.—strid'ture n. severe criticism; (Med.) morbid contraction of any passage of body, esp. urethra [L. stringere, stricturn, to tighten].

stride (strid) v.i. long step, or its length;—v.t. to pass over with one long step;—v.i. to walk, with long steps.—pa.p. stridden (strid'n).—pa.t. strode [O.E. stridan].

strident (strid'ent) a. harsh in tone; grating; jarring.—strid'ently adv. [L. stridere, to creak].

strife (strif) n. conflict; struggle for victory; contest; rivalry [O.Fr. estrif].

strike (stri) v.t. to hit; to smite; to punish; to dash against; to collide; to sound; to cause to sound; to occur; to impress; to afflict; to stamp; to cause to light, as match; to lower, as flag or sail; to take down, as tent; to ratify; to conclude; to come upon unexpectedly, as gold; to cancel;—v.t. to hit; to deliver blow; to dash; to clash; to run aground; to stop work for increase of wages, etc.; to take root, of a plant;—n. a stoppage of work to enforce demand; (Collog.) find, esp. in prospecting for gold; stroke of luck.—pa.p. struck, or strik'en (obsolete).—pa.t. struck.—striker n. one who, or that which, strikes.—striking a. affecting with strong emotions; impressive.—strikingly adv. [O.E. strican, to move, to wipe].

string (string) n. cord; twine; ribbon; thick thread; cord or thread on which things are arranged, e.g. string of pearls; chain; succession; series; stretched cord of gut or wire for musical instrument; vegetable fibre, as string beans; (Collog.) all race-horses from certain stable;—pl. stringed musical instruments collectively;—v.t. to furnish with strings; to put on string, as beads, pearls, etc.;—v.t. to stretch out into a long line; to form strings; to become fibrous.—pa.p. and pa.t. strung.—stringed (strind) a. having strings, as violin, etc.—string'y a. fibrous; of person, long and thin.—string'iness n.—string-beans n.pl. French beans [O.E. streng].

stringent (strin'gent) a. binding strongly; strict; rigid; severe.—stringently adv.—string'ency, strin'gentness n. [L. stringere, to tighten].

strip (stri) v.t. to pull or tear off; to peel; to skin; to lay bare; to divest; to rob;—v.i. to take off one's clothes;—n. long, narrow piece of anything.—pr.p. strip'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. stripped (stript).—strip'ling n. youth [O.S. strypian, to plunder].

stripe (stri) n. narrow line, band, or mark; strip of material of a different colour from the rest; (Mil.) V-shaped strip of material worn on sleeve as badge of rank; chevron; stroke made with lash, whip, scourge, etc.; weal;—v.t. to mark with stripes; to lash.—striped (stript) a. [Dut. sreep].

strive (stri) v.i. to try hard; to make an effort; to struggle; to battle; to contend.—pa.p. striv'en.—pa.t. strove.—stri'ver n. [O.Fr. estriver].

stroke (ströd) pa.t. of stride.
stroke (strök) n. blow; paralytic fit; apoplexy; any sudden seizure of illness, misfortune, etc.; sound of bell or clock; mark made by pen, pencil, brush, etc.; completed movement of club, stick, racquet, etc.; in swimming, completed movement of arm; in rowing, sweep of an oar; rower nearest stern who sets the time and pace; entire movement of piston from one end to other of cylinder; stroke, sudden effort, esp. if successful, in business, diplomacy, etc.;—v.t. to set time and pace for rowers [O.E. stracan, to strike].

stroke (strök) v.t. to pass hand gently over; to caress; to soothe;—n. act of stroking [O.E. stracan, to strike].

stroll (ströl) v.t. to walk leisurely from place to place; to saunter; to ramble;—n. a leisurely walk.—stroll'er n. [etym. uncertain].

strong (strong) a. having physical force; powerful; muscular; able to resist attack; healthy; firm; solid; steadfast; well-established; violent; forcible; intense; determined; not easily broken; positive.—strongly adv.—strong-box n. box for storage of valuables; safe.—strong drink, drink containing alcohol.—strong-hold n. fortified place.—strong-room n. specially constructed chamber or vault, usually burglar- and fire-proof, for storage of valuables [O.E. strang].

strontium (stron'shim) n. (Chem.) a yellowish, reactive, metallic element (symbol Sr.) [first found at Strontian, Argyllshire, Scotland].

strop (strop) n. strip of leather for sharpening razor;—v.t. to sharpen on strop.—pr.p. strop'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. stropped (stroit) [L. struppus].

strophe (ströf'e) n. in ancient Greek drama, song sung by chorus while dancing from right to left of orchestra; stanza.—stroph'ic a. [Gk. strophē, a turning].

stroke (ströv) pa.t. of strive.

struck (struk) pa.p. and pa.t. of strike.

structure (struk'tür) n. that which is built; building; manner of building; arrangement of parts or elements; organisation.—struc'tural a.—struc'turally adv. [L. struere, struatum, to build].

struggle (strug'l) v.t. to put forth great efforts, esp. accompanied by violent twistings of body; to contend; to strive;—n. violent physical effort; any kind of work in face of difficulties; strife.—strugg'ler n. [etym. uncertain].

strum (strum) v.t. and v.i. to play badly and noisily on (stringed instrument).—pr.p. strum'ming.—pa.p. and pa.t. strummed [imit. origin].

strumpet (strum'pet) n. prostitute; harlot;—a. inconstant [etym. uncertain].

strung (strung) pa.p. and pa.t. of string.

strut (strut) v.t. to walk pompously; to walk with affected dignity;—n. stiff, proud and affected walk; pomposity.—pa.p. strut'ting.—pa.p. and pa.t. strut'ted [O.E. struttian, to stick out stiffly].

strut (strut) n. rigid support, usually set obliquely; support for rafter; brace;—v.t. to brace [etym. uncertain].

strychnine (strikn'en, or -nin, or -nin) n. highly poisonous alkaloid, used medicinally as nerve and spinal stimulant. Also strychnia [Gk. strichnos, the nightshade].

stub (stub) n. stump of a tree; short, remaining part of pencil, cigarette, etc.;—v.t. to clear (ground) by rooting up stumps of trees; to strike toe against fixed object.—pr.p. stub'bing.—pa.p. and pa.t. stubbed.—stubbed a. short and blunt like stump; obtuse.—stub'y a. abounding with stubs; short and thick-set.—stub'biness n. [O.E. stubb].

stubble (stub'l) n. short ends of cornstalks left after reaping; short growth of beard.—stubb'led a. covered with stubble.—stubb'y a. pert, to, or like, stubble; bristly [L. stipula, fr. stipes, stalk].

stubborn (stub'orn) a. fixed in opinion; obstinate; headstrong.—stub'bornly adv.—stub'bomness n. [M.E. stoburn].

stucco (stuk'tō) n. plaster of lime, sand, etc. used on walls, and in decorative work;—v.t. to make of stucco [It.].

stuck (stuk) pa.p. and pa.t. of stick.—stuck-up a. (Collog.) conceited.

stud (stud) n. a movable, double-headed button; ornamental button or knob; large flat-headed nail; boss;—v.t. to furnish with studs; to set thickly in, or scatter over.—pr.p. stud'ding.—pa.p. and pa.t. stud'ded [O.E. studu, a post].

stud (stud) n. collection of horses, kept for breeding or racing; place where they are kept.—stud-book n. official book for recording pedigrees of thoroughbred animals [O.E. stod].

student (stüd'ent) n. one who studies; scholar at university or other post-school institution for higher education.—stu'dentship n. scholar-

VICTORIA CROSS

GEORGE CROSS

MOST HONOURABLE ORDER OF THE BATH

ORDER OF MERIT

ORDER OF ST MICHAEL AND ST GEORGE

ROYAL VICTORIAN ORDER

ORDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE (Civilian)

ORDER OF THE COMPANIONS OF HONOUR

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE ORDER

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS

MILITARY CROSS

DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS

AIR FORCE CROSS

DISTINGUISHED CONDUCT MEDAL

CONSPICUOUS
GALLANTRY MEDAL
(Navy)

CONSPICUOUS
GALLANTRY MEDAL
(Army and R.A.F.)

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL

MILITARY MEDAL

GEORGE MEDAL

LONG SERVICE AND GOOD CONDUCT MEDAL (Army)

LONG SERVICE AND GOOD CONDUCT MEDAL (Navy)

WAR MEDAL 1939-45

VOLUNTARY SERVICE MEDAL (CANADA)

INDIA SERVICE MEDAL

AFRICA SERVICE MEDAL
(UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA)

AUSTRALIAN
SERVICE MEDAL

NEW ZEALAND
WAR SERVICE MEDAL

KOREA MEDAL
(COMMONWEALTH)

UNITED NATIONS
SERVICE MEDAL

CORONATION MEDAL (1953)
(Queen Elizabeth)

MEDAL RIBBONS

The ribbons of some Commonwealth medals have variations and the top of the Medal ribbon with Companion of Honour has an additional thin grey vertical stripe down the centre.

ship at university, etc. [L. studere, to be zealous].

studio (stú'di-ó) n. workroom of artist, sculptor, or professional photographer; where film plays are produced; a room equipped for broadcasting of radio and television programmes.—pl. studios [It.].

studious (stú'di-ús) a. given to, or fond of, study; thoughtful; contemplative; painstaking; careful (of); deliberate.—stu'diously adv. [L. studium, zeal].

study (studí) n. application of the mind to books, etc. to gain knowledge; subject of such application; branch of learning; thoughtful attention; meditation; aim; room for study; preliminary sketch by an artist.—v.t. to set the mind to; to examine carefully; to scrutinise; to ponder over.—v.t. to read books closely in order to gain knowledge.—studied (studíd) pa.p. and pa.t.—also a. examined closely; carefully considered and planned [L. studium, zeal].

stuff (stuf) n. essential part; textile fabric, esp. woollen; cloth not yet made into garments; goods; belongings; useless matter; worthless things, trash, esp. in stuff and nonsense.—v.t. to fill by pressing closely; to cram; in cookery, to fill, e.g. chicken with seasoning; to fill skin, e.g. of animal, bird, etc. to preserve it as specimen.—v.t. (Colloq.) to eat greedily.—stuffing n. material used to stuff or fill anything; (Slang) spirit; vim; stamina; courage [O.Fr. estoffe, fr. L. stupa, town].

stuffy (stufí) a. ill ventilated; airless.—stuffy n. [Fr. stouffer, to choke, stifle].

stultify (stul'ti-fí) v.t. to make to look ridiculous; to make ineffectual; to destroy the force of.—stultification n. [L. stultus, foolish; facere, to make].

stumble (stum-bl) v.t. to trip in walking and nearly fall; to walk in unsteady manner; to fall into error; to speak hesitatingly;—v.t. to cause to trip; to mislead.—n. act of stumbling; wrong step; error.—stumblingly adv.—stumbling-block n. obstacle; hindrance [M.E. akin to stammer].

stump (stump) n. part of tree left after trunk is cut down; part of limb, tooth, etc. after main part has been removed; remnant; in cricket, one of three upright rods forming wicket.—pl. (Slang) legs.—v.t. to reduce to a stump; to cut off main part; in cricket to dismiss batsman by 'breaking' wicket when he is out of his ground; (Colloq.) to puzzle or perplex; to tour (district) making political speeches.—v.t. to walk noisily or heavily.—stumpy a. full of stumps; short and thick [akin to stub].

stun (stun) v.t. to knock senseless; to daze; to stupefy; to amaze.—pr.p. stunning—pa.p. and pa.t. stunned—stunner n.—stunning a. rendering senseless; stupefying; (Slang) striking; excellent [O.Fr. stunier].

stung (stung) pa.p. and pa.t. of sting.

stunk (stungk) pa.p. and pa.t. of stink.

stunt (stunt) v.t. to check the growth of; to dwarf.—stunted a. underdeveloped; dwarfed [O.E. stunt, dull].

stunt (stunt) n. any spectacular feat of skill or daring, esp. if for display, or to gain publicity (U.S. sling; etym. uncertain).

stupefy (stú'pe-fí) v.t. to make stupid; to deprive of full consciousness; to dull the senses; to amaze.—stupéfaction n. act of making stupid; dazed condition; utter amazement [L. stupere, to be amazed; facere, to make].

stupendous (stú'pen-dús) a. astonishing, esp. because of size, power, etc.; amazing.—stupendously adv.—stupendousness n. [L. stupere, to be amazed].

stupid (stú'pid) a. slow-witted; unintelligent; foolish; silly.—stu'pidly adv.—stupid'ity, stu'pidness n. [L. stupídus].

stupor (stú'por) n. complete or partial loss of consciousness; dazed state; overpowering amazement [L. stupor, fr. stupere, to be struck senseless].

sturdy (stur'di) a. hard; robust; vigorous; strongly built; firm.—stur'dily adv.—stur'diness n. [O.Fr. estourdi, stunned, amazed].

sturgeon (stur-jun) n. large fish, whose roe is made into caviare and air-bladder into isinglass [Fr. esturgeon].

stutter (stur-er) v.t. and v.t. to speak with difficulty, esp. with repetition of initial consonants; to stammer;—n. the act or habit of stuttering.—stutterer n. one who stutters.—stuttering a. [M.E. stoten].

sty (sti) n. place to keep pigs in; hence, any filthy place [O.E. stig].

sty, styre (sti) n. small abscess on eyelid [O.E. stigid].

Stygian (stí'di-an) a. pert. to river Styx in Hades; infernal; gloomy; dismal [L. Stygus, fr. Gk. stugrín, to hate].

style (stil) n. pointed instrument used by the ancients for writing on waxed tablets; engraving-tool; etching-needle; manner of expressing thought in writing, speaking, acting, painting, etc.; in the arts, mode of expression or performance peculiar to individual, group, or period; in games, manner of play and bodily action; mode of dress; fashion; fine appearance; mode of address; title; mode of reckoning time; sort, kind, make, shape, etc. of anything; (Bot.) stem-like part of pistil of flower, supporting stigma; pin of a sun-dial.—v.t. to give title, official or particular, in addressing or speaking of (person), to term; to name; to call.—sty'let n. little style; pointer; stiletto; probe.—sty'lyse v.t. in art, to make conform to convention.—sty'lish a. fashionable elegant.—sty'lishly adv.—sty'lishness n.—sty'list n. writer, who is attentive to form and style; one who is master of style.—sty'lus n. style, pen [L. stilus].

stylograph (stí'ló-gráf) n. fountain-pen, recombining pencil, with needle-like writing-point instead of nib.—stylographic a. stylographically adv. [L. stilus, style; Gk. graphein, to write].

stymie (stí'mi) n. (Golf) position on putting-green resulting from one player's ball coming to rest between hole and opponent's ball; (Frg.) to thwart [etym. unknown].

styptic (stí'ptik) a. contracting; stringent;—n. (Med.) any substance used to arrest bleeding [Gk. stuptein, to contract].

suasion (swá'shun) n. persuasion; advisory influence.—sua'sible a. able to be persuaded.

—sua'sive a. having power to persuade [L. suadere, suasum, to advise].

suave (swá, swáy) a. pleasant; agreeable; smoothly polite; bland.—suave'ly adv.—suav'ity n. [L. suavis, sweet].

sub (sub) n. (Colloq.) shortened form of subaltern, sub-lieutenant, subscription, sub-sistence money, substitute, etc.

sub- (sub) pref. meaning under, below, from below, lower, inferior, nearly, about, somewhat slightly, moderately, used in many words, e.g.—subacute a. moderately acute or severe [L.].

subaltern (sub-ál-tern, su-haw'tern) n. (Mil.) commissioned officer under rank of captain; first or second lieutenant;—a. of lower rank [L. sub, under; alternus, in turn].

subaqueous (sub-ákwú-us) a. living, lying, or formed under water.—subaquat'ly a.

subarctic (sub-Ark'tík) a. pert. to region or climate immediately next to the Arctic.

subastral (sub-ástrál) a. situated under the stars; terrestrial.

subatom (sub-at-óm) n. (Chem.) a component part of an atom.—subatomic a.

subconscious (sub-kon-shus) a. pert. to unconscious activities which go on in mind; partially conscious;—n. subconscious mind.

—subcon'sciously adv.

subcutaneous (sub-kú-tá-ne-us) a. under the skin.—subcutá'neous a. under the cuticle.

subdivide (sub-di-vid') v.t. to divide a part, or parts of, into other parts; to divide again; —v.i. to be subdivided. —subdivi'sion n. act of subdividing; result of subdividing.

subduce (sub-dūs') v.t. to withdraw; to take away. Also subduct (sub-duk't'). —subduc'tion n. [L. subducere, to withdraw].

subdue (sub-dū') v.t. to bring under one's power; to conquer; to bring under control; to reduce force or strength of; to soften. —subdued a. —subdu'er n. —subdu'al n. act of subduing; state of being subdued. —subdu'able a. [L. subducere, to withdraw].

sub-edit (sub-ed'it) v.t. to act under an editor; to be assistant editor; to prepare copy for. —sub-ed'itor n.

subfusc (sub-fusk) a. of darkish colour; sober-hued. Also subfus'ous. [heading.] subheading (sub-hed'ing) n. division of main subhuman (sub-hū'man) a. less than human.

subject (sub-jekt') a. under power or control of another; owing allegiance; subordinate; dependent; liable to; prone; exposed; —n. one under the power or control of another; one owing allegiance to a sovereign, state, government, etc.; a person, animal, etc. used as an object of experiment, treatment, operation, etc.; matter under consideration or discussion, written or spoken; topic; theme; (Mus.) principal theme or melody of movement; (Gram.) a word or words in sentence of which something is affirmed; (Philos.) conscious self; thinking mind. —subject (sub-jekt') v.t. to bring under power or control of; to subdue; to cause to undergo; to submit. —subject'ion n. act of bringing under power or control; state of being under control. —subject'ive a. pert. to subject; existing in the mind; arising from senses; relating to, or reflecting, thoughts and feelings of person; (Gram.) pert. to subject of sentence. —subject'ively adv. —subject'iveness n. —subject'ivity n. state of being subjective; theological doctrine that bases religious beliefs on subjective experience [L. sub, under; jacere, to throw].

subjoin (sub-join') v.t. to append; to annex. —subjoin'er n. something added at end; sub-sequent remark.

subjugate (sub-jōō-gāt') v.t. literally, to bring under the yoke; to force to submit; to conquer. —subjuga'tion n. —sub'jugator n. [L. sub, and fugum, yoke].

subjunctive (sub-jungkt'iv) a. subjoined; denoting subjunctive mood; —n. subjunctive mood. —subjunctive mood (Gram.) mood of verb implying condition, doubt, or wish [L. sub; fungere, to join].

sublease (sub-lēs') n. lease granted to another tenant by one who is himself a tenant; —v.t. to grant or hold a sublease.

sublet (sub-let') v.t. to let to another tenant property, of which one is a tenant.

sub-lieutenant (sub-lef-ten'ant) n. a naval officer ranking above midshipman and below lieutenant. —sub-lieuten'ancy n.

sublimated (sub-lim-āt') v.t. (Chem.) to convert solid direct into vapour and then allow it to solidify again; to purify thus; in psychoanalysis to direct repressed impulses, esp. sexual, towards new aims and activities; —n. (Chem.) substance that has been sublimated. —sublima'tion n. [L. sublimare, to lift up].

sublime (sub-lim') a. exalted; elevated; high in place; eminent; inspiring awe, adoration, etc.; majestic; grandiose; —n. that which is sublime; —v.t. to sublimiate; to purify; to exalt; to ennoble. —sublime'ly adv. —sublime'ness, sublimity (sub-lim'i-ti) n. [L. sublimis, high].

subliminal (sub-lim'in-al) a. in psychology, below level of consciousness; latent.

sub-machine-gun (sub-ma-shēn-gun) n. (Mil.) light, portable machine-gun.

submarine (sub-ma-rēn') a. situated, living, or able to travel under surface of sea; —n. submersible boat, esp. one armed with torpedoes.

submerge (sub-mgrj') v.t. to put under water; to cover with water; to flood; (Fig.) to overwhelm; —v.i. to go under water. —submer'gence n. [L. sub; mergere, to dip].

submerge (sub-mgrs') v.t. to submerge; to put under water. —submer'sible a. able to be submerged; —n. submarine boat. —submer'sion n. [L. submergere].

submit (sub-mit') v.t. to put forward for consideration; to surrender; —v.i. to yield oneself to another; to surrender. —pr.p. submit'ting. —pa.p. and pa.t. submit'ted. —submis'sion n. act of submitting; confession of inferiority or error; surrender; humility; meekness. —submis'sive a. ready to submit; obedient; docile; humble. —submis'sively adv. —submis'siveness n. docility of behaviour; resignation [L. sub, under; mittere, to put].

submultiple (sub-mul'ti-pl) n. number or quantity that divides into another exactly.

subnormal (sub-nor-mal) a. below normal.

subordinate (sub-or-di-nāt') a. lower in rank, importance, power, etc.; —n. one of lower rank, importance, etc. than another; one under the orders of another; —v.t. to make or treat as subordinate; to consider of less importance; to make subject. —subor'dinately adv. —subor'dinary, subor'dinateness n. state of being subordinate. —subordina'tion n. [L. sub, under; ordinare, to set in order].

suborn (sub-orn') v.t. to induce (person) to commit perjury; to bribe to do evil. —suborna'tion n. —suborn'er n. [L. sub, under; ornare, to furnish].

subpoena (sub-pō'na) n. (Law) writ summoning person to appear in court (under penalty for non-appearance); —v.t. to issue such an order [L. sub poena, under penalty, first words of writ].

subreption (sub-rep'shun) n. act of obtaining advantage by concealment or misrepresentation of truth. —subrep'tive a. surreptitious [L. sub, under; rapere, to seize].

subscribe (sub-skrīb') v.t. to write underneath; to sign name at end of paper or document; to give, or promise to give, (money) on behalf of cause; to contribute; —v.i. to promise in writing to give a sum of money to a cause; (with to) to pay in advance for regular supply of issues of newspaper, magazine, etc.; to agree with or support. —subscrib'er n. —sub'script a. written underneath. —subscrip'tion n. act of subscribing; name or signature of subscriber; money subscribed or gifted; fee for membership of society, club, etc.

subsequent (sub'se-kwent) a. following or coming after in time; happening later. —sub'sequent'ly adv. —sub'sequence, sub'seque'ncy n. [L. sub; sequi, to follow].

subserve (sub-sprv') v.t. to serve in small way; to help forward; to promote. —subserv'ient a. serving to promote some purpose; submissive; servile. —subserv'iently adv. —subserv'ience, subserv'ien'cy n. state of being subservient.

subside (sub-sid') v.t. to sink or fall to the bottom; to settle; to sink to lower level; to collapse; to abate; to come to an end. —sub'sidence, sub'siden'cy n. act of subsiding [L. sub, under; sidere, to settle].

subsidiary (sub-sid'i-a-ri) a. pert. to subaldy; aiding; helping; supplementary; secondary; auxiliary; —n. one who, or that which, helps; auxiliary; accessory [L. subsidiūm, a reserve].

subsidy (sub-sid-di) n. financial aid; government grant for various purposes, e.g. to encourage certain industries, to keep cost of living steady, etc.; formerly, grant of money to king from subjects; also, money paid by one state to another in return for help in time of war. —sub'sidies v.t. to pay subsidy to [L. subsidiūm].

subsist (sub-sist') v.t. to continue to be; to exist; to live (on); —v.i. to support with food; to feed. —subsist'ent a. having real being; existing. —subsist'ence n. act of subsisting; things or means by which one supports life;

livelihood [L. subsistere, fr. sislere, to stand].
subsoil (sub'soil) n. the layer of earth lying just below the top layer.

subsonic (sub-son'ik) a. pert. to speeds less than that of sound; below 700-750 m.p.h.

substance (sub'stans) n. essence; stuff, material, etc. of which anything is made; matter; essential matter of book, speech, discussion, etc.; real point; property. —substantial (sub-stan'shal) a. pert. to or having substance; material; essential; really existing, i.e. not imaginary. —substan'tially adv. —substantiate (sub-stan'shi-ät) v.t. to make substantial; to give substance to; to bring evidence for; to establish truth of; to confirm. —substantia'tion n. —sub'stantive a. having independent existence; real; solid; fixed; permanent; (Gram.) expressing existence; pert. to noun, or used as noun; —n. (Gram.) noun. —sub'stantively adv. [L. substare, to stand under, to be present].

substitute (sub'stit-tüt) v.t. to put in place of another; to exchange. —v.i. to take place of another; —n. one who, that which, is put in place of another. —substitu'tion n. —substitu'tional, substitu'tionary a. [L. sub, under; statuere, to appoint].

stratum (sub-strä'tum) n. underlying stratum or layer of soil, rock, etc.; a basic element. —pl. strata.

subsume (sub'süm) v.t. to include under a class as belonging to it, e.g. all sparrows are birds. —subsump'tion n.

subtenant (sub-ten'ant) n. tenant who rents house, farm, etc. from one who is himself a tenant. —subten'aney n.

subtend (sub-tend') v.t. (Geom.) of line, to extend under or be opposite to, e.g. angle.

subterfuge (sub'ter-füj) n. that to which a person resorts in order to escape from a difficult situation, to conceal real motives, to avoid censure, etc.; an underhand trick; evasion [L. subter, under; fugere, to flee].

subterranean (sub-te-rä-ne-an) a. being or lying under surface of earth. Also subterra'neous, subterrene (sub-te-rén'), subterres'trial [L. sub, under; terra, the earth].

subtil, subtle (sub'til, sub'tl) a. (archaic forms of subtle) finely spun; made in delicate fashion; fine; rare. —sub'tilely adv. —sub'tility n. [L. sub, under; telas, a web].

sub-title (sub'ti-tl) n. additional title of book; half-title; film caption.

subtle (sub'tl) a. delicate; acute; discerning; clever; crafty; ingenious; intricate; making fine distinctions; evasive. —sub'tly adv. —sub'tleness, sub'tlety (sub'tli) n. quality of being subtle; artfulness; acuteness; a fine distinction [L. subtilis, fine woven].

subtopic (sub-töpi-n) n. name used to designate sprawling, architectural ugliness in town- and country-planning.

subtract (sub-trakt') v.t. to take away (part) from rest; to deduct one number from another to find difference. —subtra'ction n. act or operation of subtracting. —subtra'ctive a. subtracting; pert. to subtraction. —sub'trahend n. quantity or number to be subtracted from another [L. sub; trahere, to draw].

subtropical (sub-trop'i-kal) a. designating zone just outside region of the tropics.

suburb (sub'urb) n. residential district on outskirts of town; —pl. outskirts. —suburb'an a. pert. to, living in, suburb; affectedly superior; socially snobbish; —n. one who lives in the suburbs. —suburb'an n. suburbs and their inhabitants [L. sub, under; urbs, city].
subvention (sub-ven'shun) n. act of coming to the help of; government grant; subsidy [L. sub, under; venire, to come].

subvert (sub-vert') v.t. to turn upside down; to overthrow, esp. government; to destroy; to ruin utterly; to corrupt. —subver'sion n. the act of subverting; entire overthrow; complete ruin; corruption. —subver'sive a. [L. sub, under; vertere, to turn].

subway (sub-wä) n. underground passage; underground railway.

succeed (suk-séd') v.t. to come immediately after; to follow in order; to take place of, esp. of one who has left or died; —v.i. to come next in order; to become heir (to); to achieve one's aim; to prosper. —succeed'er n. successor. —success' n. act of succeeding; state of having succeeded; accomplishment; attainment; issue, result, outcome; prosperity; one who has achieved success. —success'ful a. resulting in success; brought to a favourable end; fortunate; prosperous. —success'fully adv. —success'fulness n. —succession (suk-sesh'un) n. act of following in order; sequence; series of persons or things according to some established rule; line of descendants; race; act or right of entering into possession of property, place, office, title, etc., of another, esp. of one near of kin. —success'ive a. following in order; consecutive. —success'ively adv. —success'or n. one who succeeds or takes place of another; heir to throne or title [L. succedere]. succinct (suk-singkt') a. closely compressed; expressed in few words; terse; concise. —succinctly adv. —succinct'ness n. terseness; brevity [L. succingere, to gird up].

succour (suk-ur) v.t. to help esp. in great difficulty or distress; to relieve; to comfort; —n. aid; support [L. succurrere, fr. currere, to run].

succulent (suk'ül-lent) a. full of juice; juicy. —succu'lently adv. —succu'lence n. juiciness [L. succus, juice].

succumb (su-kum') v.t. to yield; to submit; to die [L. sub, under; cumbere, to lie down].

such (suk) a. of like kind; of that kind; of same kind; similar; of degree, quality, etc. mentioned; certain or particular. —pron. used to denote a certain person or thing; these or those. —such'like a. similar; —pron. similar things (but not defined), this or that [O.E. sylc].

suck (suk) v.t. to draw into mouth (by using lips and tongue); to draw liquid from (by using mouth); to roll (sweet) in mouth; to drink in; to absorb; to imbibe; —vi. to draw in with mouth; to drink from mother's breast; —n. act of drawing with the mouth; milk drawn from mother's breast. —suck'er n. one who, or that which, sucks; organ by which animal adheres by suction to any object; circular piece of leather, wh. ch., when soaked in water, is used as a toy to lift stones, etc. by suction; shoot of plant from roots or lower part of stem; (U.S. Slang) person easily deceived. —suck'ing a. drawing nourishment from mother's breast; young; inexperienced. —suck'le v.t. to give suck to; to feed at mother's breast. —suck'ling n. young child or animal not yet weaned [O.E. sučan].

sucrose (sü-kroö) n. white, sweet, crystalline substance; cane-sugar, beet-sugar, etc. [Fr. sucre, sugar].

suction (suk-shun) n. act of sucking or drawing in, act of drawing liquids, gases, dust, etc. into vessel by exhausting air in it; force that causes one object to adhere to another when air between them is exhausted. —sucto'rial a. pert. to suction. —suct'ion-pump n. pump in which water or other liquid is raised by atmospheric pressure [L. sugere, suctum, to suck].

sudation (sü-dä-shun) n. sweating. —sudato'rium (sü-dä-tö-ri-um) n. room with heated air, to promote sweating. —pl. sudato'ria. —sudato'ry a. sweating; inducing perspiration; —n. hot-air bath [L. sudare, to sweat].

sudden (sud'n) a. happening without notice or warning; coming unexpectedly; done with haste; abrupt. —sud'denly adv. —sud'deness n. —a. of a sudden, all of a sudden, or on a sudden, suddenly; unexpectedly [Fr. soudain, fr. L. subitus, unexpected].

sudor (sü-dor) n. sweat. —sudoral a. pert. to sweat. —sudorif'erous a. causing or secreting sweat.—sudorific a. and n. (a drug for), inducing perspiration [L.].

suds (sudz) n. pl. boiling-water in which soap has been dissolved; froth and bubbles on it [O.E. soothan, to seethe].

sue (su) v. t. (Law) to seek justice by taking legal proceedings; to prosecute;—v. i. to begin legal proceedings; to petition; to entreat; to woo [L. sequi, to follow].

suede (swäd) n. soft, undressed kid leather, used for making gloves, shoes, etc.;—a. made of undressed kid [Fr. Suede, Sweden].

suet (sü-et, söd-et) n. hard animal fat around kidneys and loins, used in cooking.—suet a. [L. sebum, fat].

suffer (suf-er) v. t. to endure; to undergo; to bear; to be affected by; to allow; to tolerate;—v. i. to undergo pain, punishment, etc.; to sustain a loss.—sufferable a. able to be suffered; bearable.—sufferance n. the state of suffering; toleration.—on sufferance permitted but with reluctance [L. sub, under; ferre, to bear].

suffice (su-fis') v. t. to satisfy;—v. i. to be enough; to meet the needs of; to be satisfied.—sufficient (su-fish-ent) a. enough; satisfying the needs of.—sufficiently adv.—sufficiency n. [L. sufficere, to satisfy].

suffix (suf-iks) n. letter or syllable added to end of word; affix.—suffix v. t. to add to end of.—suffixal a. [L. sub; figere, to fix].

sufflate (su-flät') v. t. to inflate; to blow up.—sufflation n. [L. sufflare, to inflate].

suffocate (suf-ö-kät) v. t. to kill by choking; to smother; to stifle;—v. i. to be choked, stifled, or smothered.—suffocating a. choking; gasping for breath.—suffocatingly adv.—suffocation n. [L. suffocare, fr. L. sub, under; fauces, the throat].

suffragan (suf-ra-gan) a. assisting;—n. assistant bishop [L. suffragari, to vote for].

suffrage (suf-rä) n. vote; right to vote; approval.—suffragette n. woman who agitated for women's right to parliamentary vote [L. suffragium, a vote].

suffuse (su-füz') v. t. to pour from underneath and spread over, as fluid; to well up; to flood; to cover.—suffusion n. [L. sub, under; fundere, to pour].

sugar (shöög-är) n. sweet, crystalline substance obtained from certain vegetable products, e.g. sugar-cane, sugar-beet, maple, etc.; any sweet substance like sugar; (fig.) sweet words; flattery;—v. t. to sweeten with sugar;—v. i. to turn into sugar.—sugary a. made of, tasting of, or containing sugar; sweet; flattering.—sugariness n.—sugar-cane, tall grass whose sap yields sugar.—sugar-loaf n. a cone-shaped mass of hard, refined sugar.—sugar-plum n. sweetmeat formed into plum-shaped ball.—sugar-refiner n. one who refines raw sugar.—sugar-refinery n.—sugar-tongs n. pl. implement for lifting cube-shaped lumps of sugar [Fr. sucre, fr. Ar. sukkar].

suggest (su-jest') v. t. to bring forward; to propose; to hint; to insinuate.—suggester n.—suggestion n. proposal; hint; veiled, indecent offer to woman; in psychiatry, influence exercised over subconscious mind of a person, esp. one suffering from a nervous disorder, resulting in a passive acceptance by him of impulses, beliefs, etc.—suggestive a. tending to call up an idea to the mind; hinting at; tending to bring to the mind indecent thoughts; improper.—suggestively adv.—suggestiveness n. [L. suggerere, to carry up].

suicide (sü-i-sid) n. one who kills himself intentionally; act of doing this.—suicidal (sü-i-sid-al) a. pert. to, tending to suicide; (fig.) disastrous; ruinous.—suicidally adv. [L. sui, of oneself; caedere, to kill].

suit (stt) n. act of suing; petition; request; action in court of law; courtship; series or set of things of same kind or material; set of clothes; any of four sets in pack of cards;—v. t. to fit; to go with; to become; to be adapted to; to meet desires of;—v. i. to agree; to be convenient.—suitable a. proper; appropriate; becoming.—suitably adv.—suitability, suitableness n.—suiting n. suit of clothes; material suitable for making this.—suit or n. one who sues; a wooer; a lover.—suit-case n. flat travelling-bag for holding clothes, etc. [Fr. suitere, to follow, fr. L. sequi].

suite (swët) n. train of followers or attendants; retinue; a number of things used together, e.g. set of apartments, furniture; (Mus.) series of dances or other pieces [Fr. fr. suitere, to follow].

sulcus (sul-kus) n. groove; a furrow.—sulcate, sulcated a. [L. = a furrow].

sulk (sulk) v. t. to be silent owing to ill-humour, etc.; to be sullen;—n. sullen fit or mood.—sulka n. pl. sullen mood.—sulky a. silent and sullen; morose;—n. light two-wheeled carriage for one person.—sulkily adv.—sulkiness n. state of being sulky; sullenness [etym. unknown].

sullen (sul-en) a. gloomily ill-humoured; silently obstinate; morose.—sullenly adv.—sullenness n. the state of being sullen [L. solus, alone].

sully (sul-i) v. t. to soil; to stain; (Fig.) to disgrace;—v. i. to be sullied [Fr. souiller, to soil].

sulphate (sul-fät) n. salt of sulphuric acid.—sulphide n. compound of sulphur with metal or other element.—sulphite n. salt of sulphurous acid [L. sulphur].

sulphonol (sul-fö-nal) n. (Chem. and Med.) colourless and tasteless crystalline substance, used as anaesthetic and hypnotic.—sulphonamide (sul-fon-ä-mid) n. (Chem.) amide of sulphonic acid.—a. denoting group of drugs used as internal germicides in treatment of many bacterial diseases.—sulphon a. (Chem.) pert. to or denoting group SO₃ OH.

sulphur (sulf-ur) n. yellow, non-metallic element, burning with blue flame and giving off suffocating odour; brimstone.—sulphurate (sul-fü-rit) v. t. to combine with sulphur; to treat with sulphur.—sulphuret (sul-fü-ret) n. a sulphide.—sulphurio a. pert. to, obtained from, sulphur.—sulphurise v. t. to combine with sulphur; to sulphurate.—sulphurous a. pert. to, like, containing sulphur; sulphureous; (Fig.) hellish; profane.—sulphury a. like sulphur.—sulphuric acid, colourless acid, having strong corrosive action [L. sulphur].

sultan (sul-tän) n. Mohammedan prince or ruler.—sultana n. wife, mother, or daughter of sultan; kind of raisin [Fr. fr. Ar. sultan, victorious].

sultry (sul-tri) a. hot, close, and oppressive; sweating.—sultrily adv.—sultriness n. [form of sveltry, fr. sweller].

sum (sum) n. result obtained by adding together two or more things, quantities, etc.; full amount; total; aggregate; summary; quantity of money; arithmetical problem;—v. t. (generally with up) to add up; to find total amount; to make summary of main parts.—pr.p. summing.—pa.p. and pa.t. summed.—summation n. act of summing up; addition; total reckoning [L. summa, total amount].

summary (sum-ä-ri) a. expressed in few words; concise; done quickly and without formality;—n. abridgment or statement of chief points of longer document, speech, etc.; epitome.—summarily adv. In summary manner.—summarise v. t. to make summary of.—summarist n. [Fr. sommaire].

summer (sum-er) n. warmest of four seasons of year, season between spring and autumn; commonly, months of June, July, and August;—pl. 'years, in counting age;—a. pert. to period of summer;—v. t. to pass the summer.—summery a. like summer.—summer-house n. permanent garden-shelter or outhouse [O.E. sumor].

summersault, summerset n. See somersault.

summit (sum'it) n. highest point; top, esp. of mountain [L. summus, highest].

summon (sum'on) v.t. to demand appearance of, esp. in court of law; to cite; to send for; to gather up (energy, etc.).—sum'moner n. one who summons.—sum'mons n. (Law) document ordering person to appear in court; any authoritative demand;—v.t. to serve with summons [L. summonere, to hint, fr. sub, under, secretly; monere, to warn].

sump (sump) n. lowest part of excavation, esp. of mine, in which water collects; well in crank-case of motor vehicle for oil [Dut. somp].

sumpter (sump'ter) n. animal, esp. a horse for carrying burdens; pack-horse [O.Fr. sommelier, a pack-horse driver].

sumptuary (sump'tū-ā-ri) a. pert. to, or regulating, expenditure.—sump'tuous a. costly; lavish; magnificent.—sump'tuously adv.—sump'tuousness n. [L. sumptus, cost].

sun (sun) n. luminous body round which earth and other planets revolve; its rays; any other heavenly body forming the centre of system of planets; anything resembling sun, esp. in brightness;—v.t. to expose to sun's rays; to warm (oneself) in sunshine; to bask.—pr.p. sun'ning.—pa.p. and pa.t. sunned.—sun'ny a. pert. to, like, sun; exposed to sun; warmed by sun; (Fig.) cheerful.—sun'liness n. state of being sunny.—sun'bathe v.t. to expose body to sun.—sun'beam n. ray of sunlight.—sun'blind n. movable shade for protecting windows from sun.—sun'burn n. darkening of skin, accompanied often by burning sensation, due to exposure to sun.—v.t. and v.i. to darken by exposure to sun.—sun'burned, sun'burnt a.—sun'dew n. dew plant secreting sticky fluid on which insects are caught.—sun'dial n. device for showing time by shadow which a raised pin casts on plate marked with hours.—sun'down n. sunset; broad-brimmed hat.—sun'flower n. tall plant with large, round, yellow-rayed flower-heads.—sun'light n. light of sun.—sun'lit a. lighted up by sun.—sun'rise n. first appearance of sun above horizon in morning; time of its appearance; dawn; east.—sun'set n. descent of sun below horizon; time of its disappearance; west.—sun'shade n. parasol.—sun'shine n. light of sun; (Fig.) cheerfulness.—sun'shiny a. bright with sun'shine; pleasant.—sun'spot n. dark, irregular patches seen periodically on surface of sun; freckle.—sun'stroke n. feverish and sudden prostration caused by undue exposure to very strong sunlight.—sun'worship n. worship of sun as god [O.E. sunne].

sundae (sun'dā) n. ice-cream served with crushed fruit [perh. fr. Sunday].

Sunday (sun'dā) n. first day of week; Christian Sabbath.—a. pert. to first day of week [O.E. sunnan, sun; day, day].

sunder (sund-er) v.t. to separate; to divide; to sever;—v.i. to come apart.—sun'dry a. separate; several; various.—sun'dries n.pl. sundry things; odd items.—all and sundry, all collectively and individually; everybody [O.E. sundrian, to separate].

sung (sung) pa.p. of sing.

sunk (sunk) pa.p. of sink; also one form of the pa.t.—sunk'en a.

sup (sup) v.t. to take in sip; to sip; to eat with spoon, as soup;—v.t. to have supper; to sip;—n. small mouthful; sip.—pr.p. sup'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. supped [O.E. supan].

super (sū-per) n. supernumerary (actor); (Colloq. abbrev.) superintendent; (Colloq.) short for superfluous, super-excellent, etc.; hence; first-rate [L. super, above].

super- (sū-per) prefix fr. L. super, above, over, beyond, etc., combining to form many words.

superable (sū-per-ā-bl) a. capable of being overcome [L. superare, to overcome].

superabound (sū-per-ā-bound') v.t. to be exceedingly abundant.—superabundant a. much more than enough; excessive.—superabundantly adv.—superabundance n.

superannuate (sū-per-an'ū-āt) v.t. to pension off because of age or infirmity.—superannuation n. state of being superannuated; pension of superannuated person; regular contribution made by employee towards pension [L. super, above; annus, year].

superb (sū-perb') a. grand; splendid; magnificent; stately; elegant.—superbly adv.—superbness n. [L. superbus, proud].

supercargo (sū-per-kar-gō) n. ship's officer who takes charge of cargo.

supercharge (sū-per-chā-rj') v.t. to charge or fill to excess.—supercharg'er n. in internal-combustion engine, device for forcing extra supply of petrol mixture into cylinders.

superciliary (sū-per-sil'i-ār-i) a. pert. to eyebrow.—supercil'ious a. lofty with pride; haughty and indifferent.—supercil'iously adv.—supercil'iousness n. [L. supercilium, the eyebrow].

supercool (sū-per-kō-ol) v.t. (Chem.) to cool (liquid) below its freezing-point without solidifying it.—supercooling n.

super-ego (sū-per-egō) n. in psycho-analysis, that unconscious morality which directs action of censor.

supererogation (sū-per-er-ō-gā-shun) n. doing more than duty or necessity requires.—supererog'ative, supererog'atory a. [L. super, above; erogare, to expend].

superficies (sū-per-fish'i-ēz) n. outer surface; surface area.—superficial (sū-per-fish'i-āl) a. lying on surface; not deep; shallow; understanding only what is obvious; slight.—superf'cially adv.—superf'ciality (fish'i-āl'i-ti) n. Also superf'cialness [L. super, above; facies, the face].

superfine (sū-per-fin) a. fine above others; of first class quality; very fine or subtle.

superfluous (sū-per-floo-us) a. more than is required or desired; useless.—superfluously adv.—superflu'ity n. state of being superfluous; quantity beyond what is required; a superabundance.—superflu'ousness n. [L. super, over; fluere, to flow].

superheat (sū-per-hēt') v.t. to heat (steam) above boiling-point of water, done under a pressure greater than atmospheric; to heat (liquid) above its boiling-point.

superheterodyne (sū-per-het'ēr-ō-dīn) n. (Elec.) receiving-set of great power and selectivity.—abbr. superhet.

superhuman (sū-per-hū-mān) a. more than human; divine; excessively powerful.

superimpose (sū-per-im-pōz') v.t. to lay upon another thing.—superimpos'ition n.

superintend (sū-per-in-tend') v.t. to manage; to supervise; to direct; to control.—v.i. to supervise.—superinten'dence, superinten'dency n.—superinten'dent a. superintending;—n. one who superintends; police officer above inspector.

superior (sū-pi-ri-or) a. upper; higher in place, position, rank, quality, etc.; surpassing others; being above, or beyond, power, or influence of; too dignified to be affected by; supercilious; snobbish;—n. one who is above another, esp. in rank or office; head of monastery or other religious house.—superi'ority n. state or quality of being superior; advantage [L. superior, higher].

superlative (sū-per-lā-tiv) a. of or in the highest degree; surpassing all others; supreme; (Gram.) denoting, as form of adjective or advrb, highest degree of quality;—n. superlat. a degree of adjective or advrb.—superlatively adv. [L. superlativus, exaggerated, fr. super, above; ferre, latum, to carry].

superman (sū-per-man) n. 'Übermensch' or overman of Nietzsche's philosophy; ideal man; one endowed with powers beyond those of the ordinary man.

supernal (sū-per-nāl) a. pert. to things above; celestial; heavenly; exalted.

supernatural (sū-per-nat'ū-rāl) a. beyond powers or laws of nature; miraculous; spiritual.—supernat'urally adv.

supernumerary (sū-per-nū-mēr-ār-i) a. exceeding the number required; over and above what is necessary;—n. person or thing in excess of what is necessary or usual; actor with no speaking part [L. super, above; numerus, a number].

superphosphate (sū-per-fosfāt) n. acid phosphate; mixture of calcium sulphate and calcium acid phosphate as fertilizer.

superscribe (sū-per-skrib') v.t. to write or engrave on outside or top of; to write name, etc. of a person on the top or cover of.—superscription n. act of superscribing; words written or engraved on top or outside of anything.

supersede (sū-per-sēd') v.t. to set aside; to replace by another person or thing; to take the place of.—supersession n. [L. super, above; sedere, to sit].

supersonic (sū-per-son'ik) a. pert. to sound-waves of too high a frequency to be audible; denoting a speed greater than that of sound, i.e. more than 750 miles per hour.

superstition (sū-per-stish'un) n. belief in, or fear of, what is unknown, mysterious, or supernatural; religion, opinion, or practice based on belief in divination, magic, omens, etc.—superstitious a. pert. to, believing in, or based on, superstition.—superstitiously adv.—superstitiousness n. [L. superstitio, excessive fear of the gods].

superstratum (sū-per-strāt'um) n. layer above another layer.

superstructure (sū-per-struk'tūr) n. structure built on top of another; the part of building above foundation.—superstruc'tive, superstruc'tural a.

supertax (sū-per-taks) n. tax on large incomes in addition to income-tax.

supervene (sū-per-vēn') v.t. to happen in addition, or unexpectedly; to follow closely upon.—supervene'nt a. happening in addition.—supervener n. act of supervening [L. super, above; venire, to come].

superwise (sū-per-wīz') v.t. to oversee; to superintend; to inspect; to direct and control.—supervision (vīzh'un) n. act of supervising; superintendence; inspection. Also supervis'al n.—supervisor (vī-z'or) n.—supervis'ory a. pert. to supervision [L. super, over; videre, visum, to see].

supine (sū-pīn) a. lying on one's back; (Fig.) indolent; inactive;—n. either of two Latin verbal forms, the first ending in um, the second in a.—supine'ly adv.—supine'ness n. [L. supinus, fr. sub, under].

supper (sūp'er) n. the last meal of the day [Fr. supper, to sup].

supplant (su-plan't') v.t. to displace (person) esp. by unfair means; to take the place of.—supplant'er n. [L. supplantare, to trip up, fr. planta, the sole of the foot].

supple (sup'l) a. easily bent; flexible; (Fig.) docile; obsequious;—v.t. and v.t. to make or become supple.—supple'ly adv. in supple manner.—supple'ness n. [L. supplex, suppliant].

supplement (sup'le-ment) n. something added to fill up or supply deficiency; appendix; special number of newspaper; extra charge; (Geom.) number of degrees which must be added to angle or arc to make 180° or two right angles.—supplement' v.t. to fill up or supply deficiency; to add to; to complete.—supplement'al a.—supplement'ary a. added to supply deficiency; additional [L. supple-mentum, fr. supple, to fill up].

suppliant (sup-pli-ant) a. supplicating; asking humbly and submissively; beseeching;—n. one who supplicates.—suppliantly adv.—supp'liant a. supplicating;—n. one who supplicates; suppliant.—supp'liate v.t. and v.t. to supplicate; to beg earnestly; to petition.—supp'liation n.—supp'liatory a. [L. supplicare, to kneel down, fr. plicare, to fold].*

supply (su-plī') v.t. to provide what is needed; to furnish; to fill the place of;—n. act of supplying; what is supplied; stock; store; temporary substitute who does duty for another.—supplies' n.pl. food or money; sums of money granted by parliament to meet public expenditure for current year.—suppl'er n. one who supplies [L. supple, to fill up].

support (su-pōrt') v.t. to keep from falling; to bear weight of; to sustain; to bear or tolerate; to encourage; to furnish with means of living; to confirm; to defend;—n. act of sustaining; advocacy; maintenance or subsistence; one who, or that which, supports.—support'er n. one who, or that which, supports; pl. (Her.) figures placed one on each side of the escutcheon [L. sub, under; portare, to carry].

suppose (su-pōz') v.t. to assume as true without proof; to advance or accept as a possible or probable fact, condition, etc.; to imagine.—supposed' a. imagined; accepted; put forward as authentic.—supposedly (su-pōz'd-li) adv.—suppos'able a. [Fr. supposer, fr. L. sub, under; ponere, to place].

supposition (sup-o-zish'un) n. act of supposing; assumption; that which is supposed; belief without proof.—supposi'tional a.—supposi'tionally adv.—supposititious (su-pōz-i-tish'un) a. put by trick in place belonging to another; spurious; counterfeit.—suppositi'tiously adv. [L. sub, under; ponere, positum, to place].

suppository (su-pōz-i-tor-i) n. medicinal substance introduced into rectum or other canal of body [L. sub, under; ponere, positum, to place].

suppress (su-pros') v.t. to put down or subdue; to overpower and crush; to quell; to conceal.—suppression (su-pros'h'un) n. act of crushing or subduing; state of being suppressed.—suppress'ive a. tending to suppress.—suppress'or n. [L. sub, under; premere, pressum, to press].

suppurate (sup'pū-rāt) v.t. to form pus; to fester.—suppurative a. tending to suppurate; accompanied by suppuration.—suppura'tion n. [L. sub, under; pus, matter].

supra (sū-prā) L. prefix, meaning above, over, supreme (sū-prēm') a. holding highest authority; highest or most excellent; greatest possible; uttermost.—supreme'ly adv.—supreme'ness n.—supremacy (sū-prēm'ā-si) n. state of being highest in power and authority; utmost excellence [L. supremus, superl. of superus, upper].

sur (sur) prefix, meaning over, above, upon, in addition [Fr. fr. L. super, over].

surcease (sur-sēs') v.t. (Arch.) to cause to cease;—v.i. to cease;—n. cessation [O.Fr. surceas, fr. surceoir, fr. L. supersedere, to refrain from].

surcharge (sur-chāj') v.t. to make additional charge; to overload or overburden.—surcharge (sur-chāj', sur-chārj') n. excessive charge, load, or burden; additional words or marks superimposed on postage stamp.

surcingle (sur-sing-gl) n. belt, band, or girth for holding something on a horse's back [L. super, over; cingulum, a belt].

surcoat (sur-kōt) n. long and flowing cloak worn by knights over armour [O.Fr. surcote, an over-garment].

surd (surd) a. (Math.) not capable of being expressed in rational numbers; radical; involving surds; (Phon.) uttered with breath alone, not voice, as f, p, k, etc.;—n. (Math.) quantity that cannot be expressed by rational numbers, or which has no root [L. surdus, deaf].

sure (shōr) a. certain; positive; admitting of no doubt; firmly established; strong or secure.—sure'ly adv. certainly; undoubtedly; securely.—sure'ness n.—surety (shōr'ē-ti) n. certainty; that which makes sure; security against loss or damage; one who makes himself responsible for obligations of another [L. securus, sure].

surf (surf) n. foam or broken water of sea breaking on shore or reefs, etc.—surf'y a.— surf-rí'ding n. sport, consisting in riding on long, narrow boards over surf [etym. uncertain].

surface (sur'fás) n. external layer or outer face of anything; outside; exterior; —a. involving the surface only; —v.t. to cover with special surface; to smooth; —v.i. to come to the surface. —sur'face-man n. man engaged in keeping permanent way of railway in repair; miner in surface works of mine [L. super, over; facies, the face].

surfeit (sur'fít) v.t. to overfeed; to fill to satiety; —n. excess in eating and drinking; oppression caused by such excess. —sur'feiter n. a glutton. —sur'feting n. gluttony [Fr. surfaire, to overdo].

surge (surj) n. rolling swell of water; large wave or billow; —v.i. to swell; to rise high and roll, as waves. —sur'gent, sur'gy a. [L. urgere, to rise].

surgeon (sur'jün) n. medical man qualified to perform operations; one who practices surgery. —sur'gery n. branch of medicine dealing with cure of disease or injury by manual operation; doctor's consulting-rooms. —sur'gical a. pert. to surgeons or surgery. —sur'gically adv. [Fr. chirurgien].

surjoin (sur'join) n. the sirloin [Fr.].

surly (sur'li) a. of unfriendly temper; gloomily morose, uncivil; sullen. —sur'lyly adv. —sur'liness n. [etym. uncertain].

surmise (sur-míz) v.t. to imagine or infer something without proper grounds; to make a guess; to conjecture; —n. supposition; a guess or conjecture. —sur'mise, sur'mise, sur'mise n. surmise, accusation.

surmount (sur-mount') v.t. to rise above; to overtop; to conquer or overcome. —surmount'able a. [Fr. sur, over; monter, to mount].

surname (sur-nám) n. name added to baptismal or Christian name; family name [Fr. surnom].

surpass (sur-pas') v.t. to go beyond; to excel; to outstrip. —surpass'ing a. excellent; in an eminent degree; exceeding others [Fr. sur, beyond; passer, to pass].

surplice (sur-plis) n. white linen vestment worn over cassock by clergy of Anglican Church [L.L. superpellicium, overgarment].

surplus (sur-plus) n. excess beyond what is wanted; excess of income over expenditure; —a. more than enough [L. super, over; plus, more].

surprise (sur-príz') v.t. to fall or come upon unawares; to capture by unexpected attack; to strike with astonishment; —n. act of coming upon unawares; astonishment; unexpected event, piece of news, gift, etc. —surpris'al n. act of surprising or state of being surprised. —surpris'ing a. wonderful; remarkable. —surpris'ingly adv. [Fr. surprendre, fr. L. super, over; prehendere, to catch].

surrealism (su-ré-al-izm) n. 20th cent. phase in art and literature of expressing subconscious in images without order or coherence, as in dream. —surre'alist n. —surre'alistic a. [Fr. sur, over; réalisme].

surrender (su-rén-der) v.t. to yield or hand over to power of another; to resign; to yield to emotion, etc.; —v.i. to cease resistance; to give oneself up into power of another; to capitulate; —n. act of surrendering. —surrender'er n. [L. super, over; reddere, to restore].

surreption (su-rep-shün) n. act of obtaining in stealthy or crafty manner [L. surreptio, fr. sub, under; rapere, to seize].

surreptitious (sur-op-tish-üs) a. done by stealth; furtive; clandestine; underground. —surreptitiously adv. [L. surripere, fr. sub, under; rapere, to seize].

surrey (sur'á) n. lightly-built, four-wheeled carriage (prob. fr. proper name).

surrogate (sur-ó-gát) n. deputy or delegate; deputy who acts for bishop or chancellor of diocese [L. sub, under; rogare, to ask].

surround (su-round') v.t. to be on all sides of; to encircle; (Mil.) to cut off from communication or retreat; —n. that which surrounds; border or framework. —surround'ings n.pl. things which environ; neighbourhood [O.Fr. surround, fr. L. superundare, to overflow].

surtax (sur'taks) n. additional tax; —v.t. to impose extra tax on.

surtout (sur-tóó') n. a long, close-fitting overcoat [Fr. sur, over; tout, all].

surveillance (sur-vá'láns, sur-vá'yáns) n. close watch; supervision [Fr. fr. surveiller, to watch over].

survey (sur-vá') v.t. to look over; to view as from high place; to take broad, general view; to determine shape, extent, position, contour, etc. of tract of land. —survey (sur'vá) n. general view, as from high place; attentive scrutiny; measured plan or chart of any tract of country. —survey'or n. one versed in the art of surveying, i.e. measuring and mapping surfaces. —survey'orship n. [L. super, over; videre, to see].

survive (sur-viv') v.t. to live longer than; to outlive or outlast; —v.i. to remain alive. —surviv'al n. living longer than, or beyond, life of another person, thing, or event; any rite, habit, belief, etc. remaining in existence after what justified it has passed away. —surviv'or n. one who lives longer than another; one who remains alive in spite of some event which might have caused death [L. super, over; vivere, to live].

susceptible (su-sep'ti-bl) a. capable of; readily impressed; sensitive; touchy; amorous. —suscep'tibly adv. —suscep'tibleness n. —suscep'tibility n. capacity for feeling, or emotional excitement; sensitiveness; —pl. sensitive spots in person's nature. —suscep'tive a. receptive of emotional impressions [L. suscipere, to take up, receive].

suspect (sus-pekt') v.t. to imagine existence or presence of; to imagine to be guilty; to conjecture; to mistrust. —sus'pect n. suspected person; —a. inspiring distrust [L. suspicere, to look at secretly].

suspend (sus-pend') v.t. to cause to hang; to bring to a stop temporarily; to debar from an office or privilege; to defer or keep undecided. —suspen'dar n. one who suspends; contrivance for supporting sock; —pl. (U.S.) braces.

suspense n. state of being suspended; state of uncertainty or anxiety; indecision. —suspension n. act of suspending or state of being suspended; delay or deferment; temporary withdrawal from office, function, or privilege. —suspen'sor n. so. thing which suspends. —suspen'sory a. pert. to suspension; hanging [L. sub, under; pendere, to hang].

suspicion (sus-pish-ün) n. act of suspecting; imagining of something being wrong, on little evidence; doubt; mistrust; slight trace or hint. —suspi'cious a. feeling suspicion; mistrustful; arousing suspicion. —suspi'ciously adv. [L. suspicare, to look at secretly].

aspire (sus-plr') v.t. to fetch long, deep breath [L. aspirare, to breathe out].

sustain (sus-tán') v.t. to keep from falling or sinking; to nourish or keep alive; to endure or undergo; (Law) to allow the validity of. —sustain'able a. —sustain'er n. —sustenance (sus-te-náns) n. that which sustains (life); food, nourishment. —sustenta'tion n. maintenance [L. sustinere, to support].

sutler (sut-lyr) n. formerly person who followed army and sold provisions, liquors, etc., to troops. —sut'lery n. work [Dut. soetelaar, a small tradesman].

suttee (su-té') n. Hindu widow who immolates herself on funeral pyre of husband; hence (wrongly), sacrifice. —suttee'ism n. (Sans. sati, a faithful wife).

suture (sú-túr) n. act of sewing; sewing up of wound; material used for this; connection or seam, between bones of skull; —v.t. to join by stitching. —sut'ural a. —sut'ured a. united by sutures [L. suere, sufum, to sew].

suzerain (sú-se-rán) n. feudal lord; paramount ruler.—su'serainty n. authority or dominion of su'serain [Fr. su'serain, paramount]. svelte (svelt) a. supple; lithe; lissom [Fr.].

swab (swob) n. mop for rubbing over floors, decks, etc.; (Surg.) absorbent pad;—v.t. to clean with mop or swab.—pr.p. swabb'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. swabbed.—swabb'er n. [Dut. scraber, ship's drudge].
swaddle (swoddl) v.t. to bind tightly with, or as with, bandages.—swadd'ling-band, -cloth n. long binder formerly wrapped round infants [O.E. swaðhu, a bandage].
swag (swag) n. bundle; stolen goods or booty; in Australia, a tramping bushman's pack [O.N. svagga, to walk unsteadily].
swagger (swag'gr) v.t. to walk with a conceited or defiant strut; to boast or brag;—n. defiant or conceited bearing; boastfulness;—a. (Slang) smart.—swagg'er'orn.—swagg'ring a. [perh. O.N. svagga, to walk unsteadily].
Swahili (swa-hē'li) n. people of mixed Bantu and Arab stock, occupying Zanzibar and adjoining territory; their language.—Swahili'lan a. [Ar. = coast-man].
swain (swān) n. country lad; rustic lover; (Colloq.) suitor [O.N. svēinn, a boy, a servant]. swallow (swol'd) n. small migratory, passerine, insectivorous bird.—swallow'ow-tail n. forked tail; kind of butterfly [O.E. swælcwe].
swallow (swol'd) v.t. to receive into stomach through mouth and throat; to absorb; to accept without criticism or scruple;—v.i. to perform act of swallowing;—n. act of swallowing; amount taken down at one gulp.—swallow'er n. [O.E. swelgan].
swam (swam) pa.t. of swim.
swamp (swomp) n. tract of wet, spongy, low-lying ground; marsh;—v.t. to cause to fill with water, as boat;—v.i. to founder; to sink.—swamp'y a. [Scand. swamp, a sponge].
swan (swon) n. large, web-footed bird of goose family, having very long, gracefully-curving neck.—swan'bery n. place where swans are bred.—swan's-down n. fine, soft feathers on swan, used for dress-trimmings, powder-puffs, etc.; thick cotton or woollen cloth with soft nap on one side.—swan'shot n. shot of a large size.—swan'song n. song which, according to myth, swan sings before dying; last work of poet, composer, etc.—swan'up'ping, swan'hop'ping n. marking swans with owner's mark; refers esp. to annual outing to mark royal swans on Thames [O.E.]. swank (swangk) v.t. (Slang) to show off; to swagger;—n. (Slang) showing off; swagger; bluff;—a. (Slang) fine; smart.—swank'y a. [etym. uncertain].
swap (swop). See swop. sward (swawrd) n. land covered with short green grass; turf;—v.t. to cover with sward.—sward'ed a. [O.E. swærd, skin of bacon].
swarm (swawrm) n. large number of insects esp. in motion; cluster of honey-bees leaving hive to form colony elsewhere; great multitude or throng;—v.t. of bees, to emigrate in swarm; to collect in large numbers [O.E. swearm].
swarm (swawrm) v.t. to climb with arms and legs [etym. uncertain].
swart, swarth (swawrt, swawrth) a. (Arch.) of dark hue; swarthy.—swarth'y a. dark in hue; of dark complexion; sunburnt.—swarth'ly adv.—swarth'ness n. [O.E. swearþ].
swashbuckler (swash'buukler) n. literary, one who strikes his shield; swaggering bully; braggart.—swash'buukling a. bragging, bullying [imit.].
svastika, svastika (swas', swas'ti-ka) n. symbol in form of Greek cross with ends of arms bent at right angles, all in same direction, thus 卐 . Used as badge of Nazi party. Also called fuhrer [Sans. svasti, well-being].
swat (swot) v.t. (Colloq.) to hit smartly; to kill, esp. insects [etym. uncertain].
swatch (swoch) n. piece of cloth, cut as a sample of quality [var. of swath].

swath (swawth) n. line of hay or grain cut by scythe or mowing-machine; wbole sweep of scythe. Also swathe (swäth) [O.E. swaðth, a track].
swathe (swäth) v.t. to bind with bandage; to envelop in wraps;—n. bandage; folded or draped band [O.E. swaðthian].
sway (swä) v.t. to cause to incline to one side or the other; to influence or direct;—v.i. to incline or be drawn to one side or the other; to swing unsteadily; to totter;—n. swaying or swinging movement; control [M.E. swæjen].
swear (swär) v.t. to utter, affirm or declare on oath;—v.i. to utter solemn declaration with appeal to God for truth of what is affirmed; (Law) to give evidence on oath; to use name of God or sacred things profanely; to curse.—n. (Colloq.) oath or profane word.—pa.p. sworn.—pa.t. swore.—swear'er n.—swear'ing n. the use of profane language.—swear'word n. (Colloq.) profane word.—to swear by, (Colloq.) to have great confidence in [O.E. swerian].
sweat (swet) n. moisture excreted from skin; perspiration; moisture exuding from any substance; state of sweating; anything that induces sweat; toil or drudgery; (Colloq.) state of anxiety;—v.t. to cause to excrete moisture from skin; to exude from skin; to employ at wrongfully low wages;—v.i. to excrete moisture from skin; to toil or drudge at.—sweat'er n. warm, woollen jersey or jacket.—sweat'y a. damp with sweat; causing sweat; like sweat.—sweat'ly adv.—sweat'ness n. [O.E. swæd].
Swede (swêd) n. native of Sweden; kind of turnip.—Swed'ish a. pert. to Sweden.—n. language of Swedes.
sweep (swêp) v.t. to pass brush or broom over to remove loose dirt; to pass rapidly over, with brushing motion; to scan rapidly;—v.i. to pass with swiftness or violence; to move with dignity; to extend in a curve; to effect cleaning with a broom;—n. act of sweeping; reach of a stroke; curving or wide-flung gesture or movement; powerful drive forward, covering large area; long, heavy oar, used either to steer or to propel; one who sweeps chimneys; sail of windmill; (Slang) base person; cad; (Colloq.) sweepstake.—pa.p. and pa.t. swept.—sweep'er n. one who, or that which, sweeps.—sweep'ing a. moving swiftly; of great scope; comprehensive.—sweep'ingly adv.—sweep'stake(s) n. gambling on horse-racing, in which participants' stakes are pooled, and apportioned to drawers of winning horses [O. E. scapan].
sweet (swêt) a. tasting like sugar; having agreeable taste; fragrant; melodious; pleasing to eye; gentle; affectionate; dear or beloved; likeable;—n. sweetmeat; sweet dish served as dessert; darling;—pl. sweetmeats, confections.—sweet'en v.t. to make sweet, pleasing, or kind; to make pure and salutinous.—sweet'ening n. act of making sweet; ingredient which sweetens.—sweet'ly adv. (Colloq.) smoothly; without friction.—sweet'ness n.—sweet'bread n. pancreas of animal, as food.—sweet'heart n. lover or beloved person; darling.—sweet'meat n. small confection chiefly of sugar or chocolate.—sweet'pea n. leguminous plant, bearing bright, sweet-scented flowers.—sweet'potato n. creeping plant, bearing sweetish, starchy tubers, used as vegetable.—sweet'will'iam n. garden-plant, bearing clusters of small pink or red flowers.—sweet'y n. (Colloq.) sweetmeat.—to be sweet on, to be in love with [O.E. swete]. swell (swel) v.t. to increase size; to dilate; to augment;—v.i. to grow larger; to expand; to rise in waves; to grow louder; to be filled to bursting point with some emotion.—n. act of swelling; increase in bulk, intensity, importance, etc.; slight rise in ground level; slow heaving and sinking of sea after storm; one of enclosed clefts in large organ; (Mus.) crescendo followed by diminuendo; (Colloq.)

a dandy;—a. (Slang) excellent.—pr.p. swelling.—pa.p. swollen or swelled.—pa.t. swelled.
swelling n. act of swelling; state of being swollen; prominence or protuberance; (Med.) enlargement [O.E. swellan].
swelter (swelt) v.t. to be oppressive, or oppressed, with heat; to perspire profusely;—n. heated or sweaty state.—sweltry a. [O.E. swellan, to swoon or perish].
sweep (swept) pa.t. and pa.p. of sweep.
swerve (swerv) v.t. to depart from straight line; to deviate; to wander or turn aside from duty, custom, aim, etc.;—v.t. to cause to bend or turn aside;—n. act of swerving [O.E. swearfan, to rub or file].
swift (swift) a. quick; rapid; prompt; moving quickly.—swiftly adv.—swiftness n. speed [O.E. swifan, to move quickly]. swift (swift) n. long-winged, quick-flying migratory bird, resembling swallow; common newt [O.E. swifan, to move quickly].
swig (swig) v.t. and v.i. (Collog.) to gulp down; to drink in long draughts;—n. long draught [O.E. swelgan, to swallow].
swill (swill) v.t. and v.i. to drink greedily; to rinse or flush;—n. act of swilling; pig-food; slops.—swiller n.—swillings n.pl. hogwash [O.E. swiltan, to wash].
swim (swim) v.t. to propel oneself in water by means of hands, feet, or fins, etc.; to float on surface; to move with gliding motion, resembling swimming;—v.t. to cross or pass over by swimming; to cause to swim;—n. act of swimming;—swim n.—swimming.—pr.p. swimming.—pa.t. swam.—pa.p. swum or swam.—swimmer n.—swimmingly adv. easily, successfully, without obstacle [O.E. swimman].
swim (swim) v.t. to be dizzy or giddy;—n. dizziness or unconsciousness [O.E. swima, a swoon].
swindle (swindl) v.t. and v.t. to cheat or defraud; to obtain by fraud;—n. act of defrauding; false pretences.—swindler n. [Ger. schwindeln, to cheat].
swine (swin) n. sing. and pl. thick-skinned domestic animal, fed for its flesh, pig; hog; person of bestial disposition or habits.
swinehard n. one who tends swine.—swinish a. like swine; gross, brutal.—swinishly adv. [O.E. swin]. swing (swing) v.t. to move to and fro, esp. as suspended body; to sway; to vibrate, to turn on pivot; to progress with easy, swaying gait; to be executed by hanging; to wheel round;—v.t. to fix up so as to hang freely; to move to and fro; to cause to wheel about a point; to brandish;—n. act of swinging or causing to swing; extent, sweep, or power of anything that is swung; motion to and fro; seat suspended by ropes, on which one may swing.—pa.p. and pa.t. swung.—swing'er n.—swinging adv. moving to and fro; moving with vigour and rhythm.—swing'ingly adv.—swing-boat n. boat-shaped carriage slung from frame, used in recreation parks.—swing-bridge n. bridge which can be pivoted round to allow vessels passage along river, canal, etc.—to swing the lead (Naval and Military Slang) to mangle [O.E. swingan, to swing, whirl]. swing (swing) n. (Mus.) kind of jazz music [O.E. swingan]. swinge (swin) v.t. to beat soundly; to whip; to chastise.—swing'ing a. very large; thumping [O.E. moerngan, to shake, dash]. swipe (swip) v.t. and v.t. to strike with a wide, sweeping blow, as with a bat, racket, etc.;—(Slang) to steal by snatching;—n. hard stroke [O.E. swipan, to beat].
swirl (swirl) n. eddy of wind or water; whirling motion;—v.t. to form eddies;—v.t. to carry along with whirling motion [O.N. swirla, to whirl round].
swish (swish) n. whistling or hissing sound;—v.t. to move with hissing or rustling sound;—v.t. to flourish; to flog;—a. (Slang) smart; elegant [imit.].

Swiss (swis) n. sing. and pl. native of Switzerland; people of Switzerland;—a. pert. to Switzerland or the Swiss [O. Ger. Schwiz]. switch (switch) n. flexible twig or rod; tufted end of animal's tail; tress of false hair; tufted bristles brush or broom; on railway, movable rail for transferring carriages from one set of lines to another; (Elect.) device for making, breaking, or transferring, electric current; act of switching;—v.t. to strike with switch; to whisk; to sweep with stiff broom; to shift or shunt (train) to another track; (Elect.) to turn electric current off or on with switch; to transfer one's thoughts to another subject; to transfer.—switch'back n. zigzag method of ascending slopes, to lessen gradient, in amusements park, miniature railway with sudden and steep rises and descents.—a. resembling such railway.—switch-board n. set of switches at telephone exchange [Old Dut. swick, a whip].
swither (swith) v.t. to hesitate; to vacillate [O.E. swith].
swivel (swivl) n. ring turning on pivot, forming connection between two pieces of mechanism and enabling one to rotate independently of the other;—v.t. to swing on pivot;—v.t. to cause to turn as on pivot.—pr.p. swiv'elling.—pa.p. and pa.t. swiv'elled [O.E. swifan, to move quickly].
swollen (swoln) a. swelled.—pa.p. of swell.
swoon (swoon) v.t. to faint;—n. fainting fit [O.E. swogan, to sigh deeply].
swoop (swoop) v.t. to catch up with sweeping motion (with 'up');—v.t. to sweep down swiftly upon prey, as hawk or eagle; to pounce;—n. sweeping downward flight of bird of prey; pounce [O.E. swupan, to rush, sweep].
swop, swap (swop) v.t. and v.t. to exchange; to barter;—n. exchange.—pr.p. swop'ping.—pa.p. and pa.t. swopped [perh. same as O.E. swap, to strike].
sword (sword, sord) n. weapon for cutting or thrusting, having long blade; emblem of judicial punishment or of authority and power; destruction by war; military power.—sword-arm, -hand n. right arm or hand.—sword-fish n. large fish allied to mackerel, with upper jaw elongated into sword-like process.—sword-play n. fencing.—swordsman n. one skilful with sword.—swordsman'ship n.—sword-stick, -cane n. cane or walking-stick containing slender sword.—cross swords, to oppose in fight, controversial argument [O.E. sword].
swore (swōr) pa.t. of swear.—sworn pa.p. of the same verb.
swot (swot) v.t. and v.t. (Slang) to study hard or long;—n. one who studies hard [var. of swat].
swum (swum) pa.p. of swim.
swung (swung) pa.p. and pa.t. of swing.
sybarite (si-ba-rit) n. person devoted to luxury and pleasure.—sybaritic, sybaritical a. [L. Sybaris, Greek city].
sybo (si-bō) n. small variety of onion;—pl. syboes [Fr. ciboule].
sycamore (sik-a-mōr) n. tree with broad leaves, allied to plane-tree and maple; kind of fig-tree of Egypt and Asia Minor [Gk. sykon, fig; moron, black mulberry].
sycophant (sik-a-fant) n. orig. (it is said) informer against those who exported figs contrary to law in Athens; tale-bearer or informer; flatterer, or one who fawns on rich or famous; parasite;—a. servile; obsequious.—sycophancy, sycophantism n.—sycophant'ship, sycophantical, sycophantish a. [Gk. sukophantes, fr. sykon, a fig; phainein, to show].
syllable (sil-a-bl) n. sound uttered at single effort of voice, and constituting word, or part of word;—v.t. to divide into syllables; to articulate.—syllab'ic, syllab'ical a. pert. to, or consisting of, a syllable(s).—syllab'ically adv. [Gk. syllabē, that which is held together].

syllabus (sil'a-bub) n. See syllabus.

syllabus (sil'a-bus) n. compendium containing heads of discourse; outline or programme of topics treated of, as in book, course of lectures, etc. [Gk. sun, together; lambainein, to take].

sylogism (sil'ô-jizm) n. formal statement of argument, consisting of three parts, major premise, minor premise, and conclusion, conclusion following naturally from premises. — syll'ogise v.t. and v.i. to reason by means of syllogisms. — syll'ogis'tic, syll'ogis'tical a. — syll'ogis'tically adv. [Gk. sullogismos, a reckoning together].

syph (sif) n. elemental spirit of the air; fairy or sprite; graceful girl. — syf'phid n. little syph. — syph'like a. graceful and slender [Fr. syphé].

silva, silva (sil'va) n. forest-trees collectively. — sil'van a. forest-like; abounding in forests; rural; rustic. — sil'viculture n. forestry; culture of trees [L. silva, a wood].

symbiosis (sim-bi-ô-sis) n. (Biol.) living together of different organisms for mutual benefit, as in the lichens. — symbiot'ic a. — sym'biont n. organism living in symbiosis [Gk. sun, together; bios, life].

symbol (sim'bôl) n. something that represents something else, esp. concrete representation of moral or intellectual quality; emblem; type character or sign used to indicate relation or operation in mathematics; in chemistry, letter or letters standing for atom of element. — symbol'ic, symbol'ical a. — symbol'ically adv. — symbol'ize v.t. to stand for, or represent; to represent by a symbol or symbols. — symbol'ism n. representation by symbols; system of symbols; investing of any practice with symbolic meaning; in art and literature, tendency to represent emotions by means of symbols, and to invest ordinary objects with imaginative meanings. — symbol'ist n. one who uses symbols; adherent of symbolism in art and literature [Gk. symbolon, a token].

symmetry (sim'e-tri) n. due proportion between several parts of object; exact correspondence of opposite sides of an object to each other; beauty of form. — symmet'ric, symmet'rical a. — symmet'rically adv. — symmet'rize v.t. to make symmetrical [Gk. sun, together; metron, measure].

sympathy (sim'pa-thi) n. fellow-feeling, esp. feeling for another person in pain or grief; sharing of emotion, interest, desire, etc.; compassion or pity. — sympath'ic(al) a. exhibiting or expressing sympathy; compassionate; congenial; (Med.) denoting nerve system in body. — sympath'ically adv. — symp'athize v.t. to feel or express sympathy; to agree. — symp'athize n. [Gk. sun, together; pathe, feeling].

symphony (sim'fo-ni) n. harmony of sound; (Mus.) composition for full orchestra, consisting usually of four contrasted sections or movements. — symphon'ic a. — sym'phonist n. composer of symphonies. — symphon'ic poem, composition of symphonic scope without symphonic form [Gk. sun, together; phônê, sound].

symposium (sim-pô-zi-um) n. drinking together; any convivial gathering, esp. one at which interchange or discussion of ideas takes place; series of short articles by several writers dealing with common topic. — sympos'ia [Gk. sun, together; posis, a drinking].

sympptom (sim'tom) n. (Med.) perceptible change in body or its functions, which indicates disease; sign of the existence of something else. — sympptomat'ic, sympptomat'ical a. [Gk. sun, together; ptôma, a fall].

sym- (sin) prefix from Gk. sun, meaning with, together, at the same time; becomes sym-, before p, b, and m, and syf- before l.

synagogue (sin-a-gog) n. congregation of Jews met for worship; Jewish place of worship. — synagogal (sin-a-goj'kal) a. [Gk. sun, together; agôn, to lead].

synchro-mesh (sin'krô-mesh) a. of system of automatic gear-changing in car.

synchronise (sin'krô-nis) v.t. to agree in time; to be simultaneous; — v.i. to cause to occur at the same time; to run machines at exactly the same speed. — synchronis'tion n. — syn'chronism n. concurrence of events in time; simultaneousness. — syn'chronal a. happening at same time; lasting the same time. — syn'chronous a. happening at the same time; simultaneous [Gk. sun, together; chronos, time].

synchrotron (sing'krô-tron) n. scientific machine, used in atom research, for accelerating electrons to very high speeds [Gk. sun, together; chronos, time].

syncopate (sin'kô-pât) v.t. (Gram.) to contract, as a word, by taking one or more letters or syllables from middle; in music, to alter rhythm by accenting a usually unaccented note, or causing the accent to fall on a rest, or silent beat. — syncopa'tion n. [Gk. sun, together; koptê, a cutting].

syncope (sin'kô-pe) n. the elision of one or more letters from the middle of a word; (Med.) a fainting or swooning. — syn'copal, syn'cop'ic a. [Gk. sun, together; koptê, a cutting].

syndic (sin'dik) n. magistrate or government official having different duties in different countries; legal representative chosen to act as agent for corporation or company; in Cambridge Univ., member of special committee of senate. — syndic'ate n. council of syndics; body of persons associated to carry out enterprise; association of industrialists or financiers formed to carry out industrial project, or to acquire monopoly in certain goods; — v.t. to control by a syndicate; to publish news, etc. simultaneously in several periodicals owned by one syndicate [Gk. sundikos, an advocate, fr. sun, together; dikê, justice].

syndicalism (sin'di-kal-izm) n. movement aiming at replacing national State by federation of trade unions, and transferring control of production to unions of workers. — syn'dicalist n. — syndicalis'tic a. [Fr. syndicalisme, fr. syndicat, a trade union].

synecdoche (si-nek'do-kê) n. (Rhet.) figure of speech by which the whole is put for the part, or a part for the whole [Gk. l.].

synod (sin'od) n. church court, superior to presbyteries, but subordinate to General Assembly; convention or council. — syn'odal, synod'ic, synod'ical a. — synod'ically adv. [Gk. synodos, assembly].

synonym (sin'o-nim) n. word which has same meaning as another. — synon'yous a. — synon'yously adv. [Gk. sun, together; onoma, name].

synopsis (si-nop'sis) n. general outlook, view; summary. — synop'sis (sêz'), — synop'tic, synop'tical a. — synop'tically adv. [Gk. sun, together; opsis, view].

synovia (si-nô-vi-a) n. fluid secreted from glands in the joints of body. — synov'ial a. — synov'itis (sin-o-vi'tis) n. [Gk. sun, together; L. ovum, egg].

syntax (sin'taks) n. part of grammar that treats of construction of sentences, and correct arrangement of words therein; rules governing sentence-construction. — syn'tac'tic, syn'tac'tical a. — syn'tac'tically adv. [Gk. sun, together; tassein, to put in order].

synthesis (sin'the-sis) n. combination or putting together; combining of parts into whole (opp. to analysis); (Chem.) uniting of elements to form compound; (Gram.) building up of words into sentences, and of sentences into one of a more complex nature. — pl. syn'theses (sin'the-sêz). — syn'thet'ic, syn'thet'ical a. pert. to, consisting in synthesis; not derived from nature; artificial; spurious. — syn'thet'ically adv. — syn'thesize, syn'thesize v.t. to combine by synthesis. — syn'thesist, syn'thetist n. [Gk. sun, together; thesis, a placing].

syntony (sin'ton-i) n. in wireless, state in which frequencies of oscillations of transmitter and receiving-set are equal.—synton'ic a. (Mus.) sharp; intense; in wireless, of corresponding frequency [Gk. sun, together; tonos, a tone].

syphilis (sif'li-lis) n. contagious venereal disease.—syphilitic a. [fr. Syphilus, shepherd in Latin poem (1530)].

syphon (sif'on) n. See siphon.

Syria (sir'ya) n. See siren.

Syria (sir'i-a) n. country in S.E. Asia.—Syr'ian n. language of Syria;—a. pert. to Syria or to its language.—Syr'ian n. native of Syria;—a. pert. to Syria.

syringa (sir-ing'ga) n. lilac; applied to mock-orange, shrub with large white or creamy flowers [Gk. surinx, pipe].

syringe (sir-inj', sir'inj) n. tube and piston serving to draw in and then expel fluid; squirt;—v.t. to inject by means of syringe [Gk. surinx, a pipe or reed].

syrinx (sir'ingks) n. (Mus.) Pan-pipe; (Anal.) a duct.—pl. syr'inxes, syr'inges (kēz).—syringal (sir-inj'e-gal) a. [Gk. surinx, a reed or pipe].

syrup, sirup (sir-up) n. fluid separated from sugar in process of refining.—syr'upy a. [O.Fr. syrrop, fr. Ar. sharab, a beverage].

system (sis'tem) n. assemblage of objects arranged after some distinct method, usually logical or scientific; whole scheme of created things regarded as forming one complete whole; universe; organisation; classification; set of doctrines or principles; the body as functional unity.—systemat'ic, systemat'ical a.—systemat'ically adv.—sys'temalise, sys'temise v.t. to reduce to system; to arrange methodically.—systematisa'tion, systematisa'tion n. [Gk. systēma, fr. sun, together; histēnai, to place].

system (sis'to-lē) n. contraction of heart and arteries for expelling blood and carrying on circulation.—opp. to diastole; (Gram.) shortening of long syllable.—system'ic a. contracting [Gk. fr. sun, together, stellēin, to place].

T

tab (tab) n. small tag or flap; a shoe-tongue; a label; a check [fr. tape].

tabard (tā'bard) n. sleeveless tunic worn over armour by knights; tunic emblazoned with Royal arms, worn by heralds. Also tā'berd.

tabby (tab'i) n. stout kind of watered silk; striped cat, esp. female; (Colleg.) old maid; a malicious gossip;—a. striped;—v.t. to give watered finish to, as silk.—tabby-cat n. striped or brindled female cat [Ar. altabi, a watered silk].

taber Same as tabour.

tabernacle (tab'er-na-kli) n. movable shelter esp. for religious worship by Israelites; non-conformist meeting-place for worship; (Fig.) human body [L. tabernaculum, a small tent].

tableture (tab'le-tūr) n. painting on ceiling or wall; mental picture [fr. table].

table (tā'bl) n. smooth flat surface of wood, etc. supported by legs, as article of furniture for working at, or serving meals; any flat surface, esp. slab bearing inscription; food served on table; memorandum-book; systematic arrangement of figures, facts, etc. as multiplication table; Index, scheme, or schedule; synopsis; one of the divisions of decalogue; upper, flat surface of gemstone;—a. pert. to or shaped like a table;—v.t. to form into a table or catalogue; to lay down, as money in payment of a bill; to set down in writing for subsequent consideration.—table-land n.—table-tennis n. game of indoor-tennis played on a table; ping-pong [L. tabula, a board].

tableau (tab'lō) n. vivid representation of scene in history, literature, art, etc. by group of persons appropriately dressed and posed.—pl. tableaux (tab'lōz).—tableau vivant (tab'lōvā'vong) n. living picture; tableau.—pl. vivants (vā'vong) [fr. tableau, a picture].

tablet (tab'let) n. anything flat on which to write; pad; slab of stone with inscription; a sweetmeat cut in small, flat squares [dim. of table].

tablet (tab'lōid) n. Registered trade name for small, compressed flat lozenge containing a drug; (U.S.) illustrated newspaper, giving topical and usually sensational events in compressed form.

taboo, tabu (ta-bōō') n. system among natives of the Pacific islands by which certain objects and persons are set aside as sacred or accursed; political, social, or religious prohibition;—a. prohibited; proscribed;—v.t. to forbid the use of; to ostracise [Polynesian tapu, consecrated].

labor, labour (lā'būr) n. small drum like a tambourine.—lab'oret n. small labor.—lab'orine n. a small drum.—lab'oret n. embroidery frame; low cushioned stool; needle-case.—lab'et n. a small labor [O.Fr. labour, a drum].

tabular (tab'ū-lar) a. pert. to, or resembling, a table in shape; having a broad, flat top; arranged systematically in tables or columns.—tabularise v.t. to tabulate.—tab'ularly adv.—tab'ulate v.t. to reduce to tabular form [L. tabula, a table].

tachy(o)meter (tak'f(ō)mē-tēr) n. surveyor's instrument for speedy measurement of distance and location of points [Gk. tachus, swift; metron, a measure].

tacit (tā'sit) a. implied, but not expressed; silent.—tacitly adv.—taciturn a. silent; reserved of speech.—taciturnity n. habitual silence or restraint.—tac'iturnly adv. [L. tacitus, silent].

tack (tak) n. small sharp-pointed nail; long stitch; ship's course in relation to position of her sails; (Fig.) course of action; reliance; land held on lease; stickiness, as of gum, varnish, etc.; (Slang) food;—v.t. to fasten with long, loose stitches; to append; to nail with;—v.t. to change ship's course by moving position of sails; (Fig.) to make change of policy.—tack'er n.—tack'iness n. stickiness.—tack'y a. sticky; viscous [O.Fr. tache, nail].

tackle (tak'l) n. mechanism of ropes and pulleys for raising heavy weights; rigging, etc. of ship; equipment or gear; (Rugby) move by player to grasp and stop opponent;—v.t. to harness; to fix by ropes and pulleys; to lay hold of; to undertake; to argue a point;—v.t. to perform operation of tackling.—tack'ling n. gear; rigging of a ship.—tack'le-block n. pulley [Scand. taka, to grasp].

tact (takt) n. intuitive understanding of people; awareness of right thing to do or say to avoid giving offence; (Mus.) emphatic stroke in beating time.—tact'ful a.—tact'fully adv.—tact'ile a. capable of being touched or felt; tangible.—tact'less a. wanting in tact.—tact'ual a. pert. to sense of touch [L. tangere, tactum, to touch].

tactics (tak'tiks) n. sing. science of disposing of military, naval, and air units to the best advantage; adroit management of situation.—tact'ic, -al a.—tact'ically adv.—tact'ician n. [Gk. takтика, tactics].

tadpole (tad'pōl) n. young of frog in its first state before gills and tail are absorbed [O.E. tad, a toad; and poll].

taffeta (tā'fe-tā) n. light-weight glossy silk of plain weave. Also taffety [Pers. taftah, woven].

taffrail, taffrel (tā'f-ril, tā'fe-ri) n. rail round stern of ship; upper part of ship's stern [Dut. tafferel, a panel].

tag (tag) n. metal point at end of a shoelace, etc.; tab on back of boot; tie-on label; appendage; catchword; hackneyed phrase; ragged end; refrain; game in which one player chases and tries to touch another;—v.t. to fit with tags; to add on; to follow behind.—gr.p. tag'ging.—pa.f. and pa.p.

- tagged.—tag'-end n. tail-end.—tag'-rag n. and a. anything ragged; the rabble, as in phrase tag-rag (or rag-tag) and bob-tail [Scand. tagg, a spike].
- Tahitian (ta-hé-ti-an) a. pert. to island of Tahiti or its inhabitants.
- Taic (tá'ik) a. pert. to inhabitants of Indo-China or their language;—n. [Chin.].
- tail (tál) n. (Lau) a limitation of ownership; entail;—a. being entailed.—tail'age n. [Fr. taille, cutting].
- tail (tál) n. flexible prolongation of animal's spine; back, lower, or inferior part of anything; reverse side of coin; queue; train of attendants; upward or downward stroke of letter, minims, crochet, etc.; (Aero.) group of stabilising planes or fins at rear of aeroplane;—pl. tail-coat;—v.t. to furnish with tail; to extend in line; to trail; to cut off stalk.—tail'-board n. movable board at back of cart.—tail'-coat n. man's evening-dress coat with tails.—tail'ed a. possessing a tail.—tail'-less a. without a tail.—tail'-light n. red rear-light of vehicle.—tail'-piece n. ebony strip below bridge of violin to which strings are attached; ornamental design marking close of chapter in book.—tail'-plane n. (Aero.) stabilising surface at rear of aircraft (O.E. inept, a tail).
- tailor (tál'or) n. (fem. tail'ress) one who makes clothes;—v.t. and v.i. to make men's suits, women's costumes, etc.—tail'oring n. work of a tailor.—tail'or-made a. made by tailor; plain in style and perfectly fitting (O.E. faihtier, to cut).
- taint (tánt) v.t. to impregnate with something poisonous; to contaminate;—v.i. to be infected with incipient putrefaction;—n. tincture; corruption; (Fig.) moral blemish [L. tingere, tinctum, to dye].
- take (ták) v.t. to grasp; to capture; to entrap; to remove; to win; to purchase; to inhale; to choose; to assume; to suppose; to photograph;—v.i. to be effective; to catch; to please; to go; to direct course of; to resort to;—pr.p. ta'king.—pa.t. took.—pa.p. ta'ken.—n. quantity of fish caught at one time; drawings at theatre performance; one of several cinema-shots of same scene.—take'-in n. (Slang) fraud; hoax.—take'-off n. mimicry; caricature; (Aero.) moment when aircraft leaves ground.—take'r n.—take'ing n. act of taking or gaining possession; agitation;—pl. cash drawings of shop, theatre, etc.;—a. attractive; infectious.—take'ingly adv.—take'ingness n. quality of being attractive.—to take after, to resemble in face or character.—to take for, to mistake.—to take in, to furl (sail); to hoax.—to take in hand, to undertake.—to take in vain, to blaspheme.—to take to, to become addicted to; to feel liking for (person) [Scand. taka, to seize].
- talc (talk) n. hydrated silica of magnesia; fine, slightly perfumed toilet-powder; soft pearly-lustrous mineral with soapy feel; commercial name for mica.—tal'cose a. pert. to or composed of talc.—tal'sum n. powdered talc, as toilet powder [Ar. talq].
- tale (tál) n. narrative; story; what is told; false report; reckoning.—tale'-bearer n. one who spitefully informs against another; scandalmonger.—old wives' tale, far-fetched story (O.E. tales, a reckoning).
- talent (tal'ent) n. ancient weight and denomination of money; faculty; special or outstanding ability.—tal'ented a. gifted (Gk. talanton).
- talisman (tal'is-man) n. object endowed with magical power of protecting the wearer from harm; lucky charm.—talisman'ic, -al a. [Gk. telema, payment].
- talk (tawk) v.t. and v.i. to converse; to speak; to discuss; to persuade;—n. conversation; short dissertation; rumour; gossip.—talk'-ative a. loquacious; chatty.—talk'-atively adv.—talk'ativeness n.—talk'er n. one who talks; a gossip.—talk'le n. (Slang) a sound-film.—
- talk'ing a. capable of speaking.—to talk big, to boast.—to talk round, to fail to reach a conclusion; to persuade.—to talk shop, to talk exclusively of one's daily occupation (M.E. talken, to speak).
- tall (tawl) a. high in stature; lofty; (Slang) excessive; exaggerated.—tall'ness n. [etym. doubtful].
- tallboy (tawl'boy) n. high, narrow chest of drawers; additional metal chimney-pot to counteract blow-down of smoke (tall and boy).
- tallow (tal'ow) n. animal fat melted down and used in manufacture of candles, etc.;—v.t. to smear with tallow.—tall'ow-can'dle n. candle made of tallow.—tall'ow-chand'ler n. one who sells tallow-candles.—tall'owish a. pasty; greasy (M.E. talgh, tallow).
- tally (tal'í) n. stick notched to indicate purchases made, and afterwards split in two, one part being kept by the seller, the other by the buyer; duplicate of business account; match; identity label;—pl. tall'ies.—v.t. to score with corresponding notches; to make to fit;—v.i. to correspond; to conform.—pa.t. and pa.p. tall'ied.—tall'er n. one who keeps a tally (L. talen, a slip of wood).
- tally-ho (tal-i-hó') interj. huntsman's cry to urge on hounds (Fr. talaut, hunting-ory).
- Talmud (tal'mud) n. standard collection of texts and commentaries on Jewish religious law.—Tal'mudic(al) a.—Tal'mudist n. student of the Talmud.—Talmudis'tic a. [Aramaic talmud, instruction].
- talón (tal'on) n. hooked claw of bird of prey.—tal'on'd a. having talons (L. talus, the heel).
- tamarind (tam'a-rind) n. tropical tree, its bark and pods used for medicines, etc.; its hard wood used for furniture [Ar. tamr, date; Hind. India].
- tamarisk (tam'er-isk) n. evergreen shrub with pink and white flowers (L. tamarix, tamarisk).
- tambour (tam'bóor) n. small flat drum; circular embroidery-frame; piece of embroidery worked in metal threads on tambour; palisade constructed to defend a gateway; kind of fish [Fr. a drum].
- tambourin (tam'bóor-rang) n. small Provençal drum; dance; music for dance.—tambour'ine n. round, shallow, single-sided drum with jingling metal discs used to accompany Spanish dances (Fr.).
- tame (tám) a. domesticated; subdued; insipid; dull;—v.t. to domesticate; to discipline; to curb; to reclaim.—tamability, tameability n.—tameableness n.—tame'able a. capable of being domesticated.—tame'y adv.—tame'ness n.—tame'r n. one who tames wild animals (O.E. tam, tame).
- Tamil (tam'í) n. Dravidian language spoken in S. India and Ceylon; native of S. India or Ceylon.
- Tammany (tam'a-ni) n. orig. a democratic organisation founded in 1803 in New York, its ostensible objects being charity and reform of the franchise; later wielded great and often suspect political power;—a. Tam'manism n. (Colloq.) unscrupulous politics (fr. the name of a Red Indian chief).
- tam o' shanter (tam'ó-shan'ter) n. round woollen cap.—abbrev. tam'my [fr. Burns's poem Tam o' Shanter].
- tamp (tamp) v.t. to ram down; to plug a shot-hole with clay during blasting operations.—tam'ping n. [etym. doubtful].
- tamper (tam'per) v.t. to meddle; to interfere with; to corrupt; to alter (as document, cheque) with malicious intent.—tam'perer n. [var. of temper].
- tan (tan) n. bark of oak, etc. bruised to extract tannic acid for tanning leather; yellowish brown colour; sunburn;—v.t. to convert skins into leather by soaking in tannic acid; to make bronze-coloured; to toughen; (Colloq.) to thrash;—v.t. to become sunburned.—pr.p. tan'ning.—pa.t. and pa.p.

tanned.—tan'nage n. process of tanning; materials used in tanning.—tan'nate n. (Chem.) salt of tannic acid.—tan'ner n. one who works in tannery.—tan'nery n. place where leather is made.—tan'nie a. port. to tannin.—tan'nin n. now called tannic acid.—tan'ning n. [etym. doubtful].

tandem (tan'dem) adv. one behind the other;—n. pair of horses so harnessed; a bicycle for two people sitting one behind other [L. tandem, at length].

tang (tang) n. a projection or prong (of a tool) which fits into the handle; a pungent smell or taste; a distinctive flavour;—v.t. to furnish (a tool) with a tang.—tanged, tang'y a. [Scand. tang, a point].

tangent (tan'jent) n. (Geom.) line which touches curve but, when produced, does not cut it;—a. touching but not intersecting.—tan'gency, tan'gence n. state of touching.—tan'gen'tial a. pert. to, or in direction of, a tangent.—tan'gen'tially adv. [L. tangere, to touch].

Tangerine (tan'je-rén) n. native of Tangiers;—a. pert. to Tangiers.—tan'gerine n. small sweet orange named after Tangiers.

tangible (tan'jil-bl) a. perceptible by the touch; palpable; concrete.—tan'gibil'ity, tan'gibility n. quality of being tangible.—tan'gibly adv. [L. tangere, to touch].

tangle (tangl) n. knot of unravelled threads, hair, etc.; edible species of seaweed, also called tangle-wrack; confusion;—v.t. to form into a confused mass; to ravel; to muddle [Scand. thang, seaweed].

tango (tang'gō) n. S. American dance of Spanish origin in two-four time [Sp.].

tank (tank) n. large basin, cistern, or reservoir; immerser for photographic films; part of a railway engine, motor car etc. where water, petrol, etc. is stored; a mechanically propelled bullet-proof heavily armoured car with caterpillar wheels;—v.t. to store or immerse in a tank.—tan'kage n. storage of water, oil, gas, etc. in a tank; cost of this; liquid capacity of tank; fertilising agent from refuse of fats.—tan'ker n. oil-driven vessel designed to carry liquid cargo, e.g. petroleum, rubber-latex, etc. [L. stagnum, a pool].

tankard (tank'kard) n. large drinking-vessel, sometimes with lid, holding about a pint. [O. Fr. tancquard, drinking-vessel].

tanner (tan'er) n. (Slang) a sixpence.

tannin See tan.

tansy (tan'si) n. perennial plant common in hedgerows, bearing small yellow flowers, and bitter aromatic leaves [perh. fr. Gk. athanasia, immortality].

tantalise (tan'ta-liz) v.t. to torment by keeping just out of reach something ardently desired; to tease; to provoke.—tan'talis'ing a. provocative; teasing; irritating.—tan'talisingly adv.—tan'talus n. locked case containing spirit decanters. See Tantalus.

tantalum (tan'ta-lum) n. (Chem.) rare metallic element, symbol Ta, used for filaments of electric lamps, chemical apparatus, and surgical instruments [fr. Tantalus].

Tantalus (tan'tal-us) n. in Greek mythology, Lydian king who was plunged in water up to his chin with fruit dangling near his lips, but water and fruit reaved when he attempted to reach them.

tantalumount (tan'ta-mount) a. equivalent in value or significance.—tan'tity n.—tan'to adv. (Mus.) so much [L. tantus, so much].

tantivy (tan-tiv'i) adv. speedily; swiftly;—a. swift;—n. a hunting-cry; a gallop [imit.].

tantrum (tan'trum) n. fit of bad temper over nothing [etym. unknown].

Taoism (tā'ō-izm) n. a Chinese philosophical and religious system founded on the doctrines of Lao-tze (born 604 B.C.).—Ta'oi'st n. one who believes in Taoism.—Taoist's a. [Chin. tao, a way].

tap (tap) v.t. to strike lightly; to fix patch of leather on worn shoe;—v.i. to strike gentle blow.—pr.p. tap'ping.—pa.p. tapped.—n. a rap leather patch on shoe-sole [imit.].

tap (tap) n. hole, pipe, or screw-device with valve, through which liquid is drawn; plug or bung; liquor of particular brewing in a cask. Instrument of hardened steel for cutting internal screwheads; (Elect.) connection made at intermediate point on circuit;—v.t. to pierce to let fluid flow out, as from a cask, tree, etc.; to furnish (cask) with tap; (Surg.) to draw off fluid from body, as from lung, abdomen, etc.; to listen-in deliberately to telephone conversation; (Slang) to borrow money from;—v.i. to act as tapster.—pr.p. tap'ping.—pa.p. tapped.—tap'-house n. inn or tavern.—tap'per n. one who taps.—tap'-room n. bar, of inn or hotel, for sale of liquor.—tap'-root n. the root of a plant which goes straight down into earth without dividing.—tap'ster n. barman.—on tap, of liquor, drawn from cask, not bottled; (Fig.) at hand [O.E. tæppa, a tap].

tape (tāp) n. narrow piece of woven material used for tying, fastening clothes, etc.; strip of this marking winning post on race-track; strip of paper used in a printing telegraph instrument, strip of paper or linen marked off in inches used for measuring; (Slang) liquor;—v.t. to tie with tape or finish with loops of tape; to measure.—tape'-machine n. teleprinter.—tape'-measure n. inch-tape.—tape'-worm n. parasite found in alimentary canal of vertebrates.—red tape, officialdom, because red tape was used to tie up legal documents [O.E. tæppe, a fillet].

taper (tā'pər) n. long wick coated thinly with wax; a small light;—a. narrowing gradually towards one end;—v.t. to narrow gradually;—v.i. to cause to narrow.—ta'pering a. narrowing gradually.—ta'peringly adv. [O.E. tapor].

tapestry (tap-es'tri) n. fabric covering for furniture, walls, etc. woven by needles, not in shuttles [Fr. tapis, carpet].

tapioca (tap-i-ō'ka) n. farinaceous substance in irregular grains, obtained from manioc [Braz. tapi, residue; ok, to press out].

tapir (tā'pür) n. ungulate mammal with pig-like body, and short, flexible proboscis; found in C. and S. America, and in Malaya [Braz.].

tapis (tā'pis or tā'pē) n. car; ing; tapestry; formerly, cover of council table [Fr. tapis, carpet].

tappet (tap'et) n. small lever connected with the valves of a steam-engine cylinder; small cam; in internal combustion engine, short steel rod conveying to the valve-stem movement imparted by lift of cam [O. Fr. tapper, to rap].

tar (tār) n. sailor [abbrev. of tarpanin].

tar (tar) n. dark-brown or black viscid liquid, a by-product in destructive distillation of wood (esp. pine), coal, etc., used for waterproofing, road-laying, and as antiseptic and preservative;—v.t. to smear, cover, or treat with tar.—pr.p. tar'ring.—pa.t. and pa.p. tarred.—tar'-macad'am n. a mixture of tar and small oven-sized stones for road-surfacing, from Macadam, inventor.—tar'y pert. to, smeared with, or smelling of, tar.—tar'y-flag'wed a. (Fig.) light-fingered, addicted to thievery.—to tar and feather, to smear with tar and roll in feathers, as punishment.—to be tarred with the same brush or stick, to have the same faults as another [O.E. tera, pitch].

tarantella (tar'an-tel'la) n. Italian dance with rapid, whirling movements, music for it [fr. Taranto, in S. Italy].

tarantula (tar-an'tū-la) n. large, hairy, venomous spider of S. Europe [fr. Taranto].

tarboosh (tar'bōosh) n. cap resembling a fez.

usually with dark blue tassel, worn by Moslems. Also tarbouche [Ar.].

tardy (tár'di) a. slow; dilatory; late; backward.—tar'dily adv.—tar'diness n. [L. lardus].

tare (tár) n. vetch, used for cattle-fodder; a weed, prob. darnel, growing among corn (Matthew 13, 25) [etym. uncertain].

tare (tár) n. allowance made for weight of container, such as oak, crate, etc. in reckoning price of dutiable goods; weight of vehicle when empty [Ar. tarhak, that which is rejected].

targe (tár) n. small, round shield. Also target [Scand. target, a shield].

target (tár'get) n. mark to aim at in shooting practice, esp. flat circular board with bull's eye in centre of series of concentric circles; circular railway signal near switches; butt; object of attack [fr. targe].

tariff (tár'rif) n. list of goods (imports and exports) on which duty is payable; list of charges, as in hotel, restaurant, etc. [Ar. tar'if, giving information].

tarmac (tár'mak) n. tar macadam.

tarn (tárn) n. small lake among mountains [Scand.].

tarnish (tár'nish) v.i. to lessen lustre of; (Fig.) to sully, as one's reputation;—v.i. to become dull, dim, or sullied [Fr. ternir, to tarnish].

taro (tá'ró) n. plant of Pacific Islands, cultivated for edible leaves and root [Native].

tarpaulin (tár-paw'lin) n. canvas sheet treated with tar to make it waterproof; oilskin coat, hat, etc. Also tarpauling [fr. tar and pauling, a covering].

tarpon (tár'pon) n. large edible fish of herring family caught in the W. Indies. Also tar'pum [etym. doubtful].

tarragon (tár'a-gon) n. perennial herb cultivated for its aromatic leaves, used in making tarragon vinegar [Gk. drakon, a dragon].

tarry (tár'ri) v.i. to stay; to linger; to delay; to stay behind.—pr.p. tarrying.—pa.t. and pa.p. tar'ried [L. tar'dus, slow].

tarsus (tár'sus) n. ankle.—pl. tar'si.—tar'sal a. pert. to the tarsus [Gk. tarsos, the sole of the foot].

tart (tárt) a. sour to taste; acid; (Fig.) caustic; severe.—tar'tish a. rather sour.—tar'tily adv.—tar'tiness n. [O.E. teart, acid].

tart (tárt) n. fruit baked in oven with covering of paste; small pastry cake containing fruit or jam; (Slang) girl; prostitute.—tar'tlet n. small tart [O.Fr. tar'le, a tart].

tartan (tár'tan) n. woollen cloth of coloured checks, each genuine Scottish clan possessing its own pattern;—a. made of tartan [etym. unknown].

Tartar (tár'tar) n. native of Tartary. Also Ta'tar.—tar'tar n. irritable, quick-tempered person.—to etch a Tartar, to seize on someone or something too difficult to manage [fr. Tatar, a Mongol tribe].

tartar (tár'tar) n. crude potassium tartrate; crust deposited in wine cask during fermentation (purified, it is called cream of tartar; in crude form, argol); acid incrustation on teeth.—tar'tareous, tar'tarous a. consisting of tartar; having a crumbling surface.—tar'tar's a. pert. to, or obtained from, tartar.—tar'taric n. a salt of tartaric acid.—tar'taric acid, organic hydroxy acid found in many fruits; in powder form used in manufacture of cooling drinks.—cream of tartar, purified form of tartar used medicinally and as raising-agent in baking [Fr. tar'tre].

tashed (tásh't) a. (Scol.) untidy; tawdry.

task (task) n. specific amount of work apportioned and imposed by another; set lesson; drudgery; unconsensual labour;—v.t. to impose task on; to exact.—task'er n.—task'fore n. body of soldiers sent to do specific operation.—task'master (fem. task'mistress) n. overseer.—to take to task, to rebuke; to call in question [L. lazzare, to rate].

Tasmanian (tas-má'ni-an) a. pert. to or belonging to Tasmania;—n. native of Tasmania.—Tasmanian devil, the dasyure, fierce nocturnal marsupial found only in Tasmania [fr. Tasman, discoverer].

Tass (tas) n. official news agency of the U.S.S.R. [Russ. Telegrafnoye Agéntstvo Sovetskoye Sojuz—Soviet Telegraphic Agency].

tass (tas) n. drinking-cup [Fr. tasse, cup].

tassel (tás'l) n. ornamental fringed knot of silk, wool, etc.; pendent flower of some plants.—tass'elled a. ornamented with tassel(s) [L. tarillus, a small die].

taste (tást) v.i. to perceive or test by tongue or palate; to appraise flavour of by sipping; to experience; to participate in;—v.i. to try food with mouth; to eat or drink very small quantity; to have specific flavour;—n. act of tasting; one of five senses; flavour; predilection; aesthetic appreciation; judgment; small amount.—taste'ful a. having or showing good taste.—taste'fully adv.—taste'fulness n.—taste'less a. insipid.—taste'lessly adv.—taste'lessness n.—tast'er n. one whose palate is trained to discern subtle differences in flavour, as tea-taster.—tast'ily adv. with good taste.—tast'y a. having good taste; savoury [L. tare, to estimate].

tat (tat) v.i. to make tatting.—tat'ting n. lace-like edging made from fine crochet or sewing thread [prob. Scand. tacta, shred].

ta-ta (tá'tá) n. and interj. (Colloq.) good-bye.

Tatar (tá'tar) n. Same as Tartar.

tatter (tát'ter) n. rag; shred of cloth or paper hanging loosely;—v.t. and v.i. to tear or hang in tatters.—tatter'demon'ion n. ragged fellow.—tatter'ed a. ragged; torn in small pieces.—tatt'ery a. [Scand. loturr, rag].

tattle (tát'l) v.i. to prattle; to talk much of trivial matters; to gossip;—n. chatter.—tatt'ler n. a gossip [imit.].

tattoo (tá'tóó) n. beat of drum or bugle as signal; sudden rapping; military pageant, usually at night;—v.i. to beat tattoo [Dut. taptoel].

tattoo (tá'tóó) v.t. to prick coloured designs, initials, etc. into skin with needle-like coloured inks;—n. such design.—tattoo'er n. [Tahitian tatuu].

tau (tou) n. Greek letter T.—tau'-cross, a T-shaped cross [Gk.].

taught (taw't) pa.t. and pa.p. of verb teach.
taunt (tawnt) v.t. to reproach with severe or insulting words; to gibe at; to sneer at;—n. gibe; sarcastic remark.—taunt'er n.—taunting a. [O.Fr. tanter, to provoke].

Taurus (taw'rús) n. Bull, 2nd sign of Zodiac, which sun enters about April 21st.—tau'rian a. pert. to a bull.—tau'rine a. bovine.—tauro'-machy n. bull-fighting [Gk. tauros, a bull].

taut (taw't) a. tight; fully stretched; (of a ship) trim.—tau'ten v.t. to make tight or tense.—tau'tness n. [a form of tight].

tautology (taw-toi'-lō-jī) n. needless repetition of same idea in different words in same sentence.—tautolog'ic, -al a.—tautolog'ically adv.—tautolog'ism n. superfluous use of words [Gk. tauto, the same; logos, a word].

tavern (táv'ern) n. licensed house for sale of liquor; inn; hostelry.—tav'erner n. inn-keeper [L. taberna, booth].

taw (taw) n. large marble for children's game; the line in which the marble is thrown; a game of marbles [Gk. letter T.].

tawdry (taw'drī) a. showy but cheap; gaudy; flashy.—taw'drily adv.—taw'driness n. [fr. St. Audrey, at whose fair on Oct. 17 cheap laces and gewgaws were sold].

tawny (taw'nī) a. of yellow-brown colour.—taw'niness n. [O.Fr. laine, tanned].

tax (taks) n. levy imposed by State on income, property, etc.; burden; severe test;—v.t. to impose tax on; to subject to severe strain; to challenge or accuse; (Law) to assess cost of actions in court.—tax'able a. capable of being taxed; subject to taxation.—tax'able- ness, taxability n.—tax'ably adv.—taxa'tion n. act of levying taxes; assessing of bill of costs; aggregate of particular taxes.—tax'-collect'or n. official who gathers in taxes.—tax'er n.—tax'-free a. exempt from taxation.—tax'payer n. one subject to taxation [L. taxare, to rate].

taxi (tak'si) n. (abbrev. of taximeter cab) a motor-car for hire, fitted with a taximeter; any car plying for hire;—v.t. to travel by taxi; of aircraft, to travel on ground (or surface of water) under its own power.—pr.p. tax'ing, tax'ing.—pa.p. tax'led.—tax'i-cab n. motor-car for public hire.—tax'i-driv'er, tax'i-man n.—tax'imeter n. instrument which automatically registers mileage and corresponding fare of journey by taxi.

taxidermy (tak'si-dgr-mi) n. art of preparing and preserving pelts of animals for exhibition. tax'idermist n. [Gk. taxis, arrangement; derma, the skin].

taxis (tak'sis) n. classification; order.—taxol'ogy n. science of classification.—taxon'-omy n. principles of taxonomy, esp. in relation to natural history [Gk. taxis, an arrangement].

tea (tē) n. dried and prepared leaf of tea-plant, native to China and Japan, and grown in India, Ceylon, etc.; infusion of dry tea in boiling water; any infusion of plant leaves, or of chopped meat; meal at which tea is drunk.

—tea'-caddy, —tea'-cister n. air-tight box for holding tea.—tea'-cake n. flat, round, slightly sweet socone, usually served hot and buttered.

—tea'-cloth n. ornamental cloth for tea-table or tray.—tea'-cozy n. padded cover to keep a tea-pot hot.—tea'-cup n. small size cup used in drinking tea.—tea'-cupful n. amount contained in teacup.—tea'-gar'den n. tea-plan-tation; public garden where afternoon tea is served.—tea'-gown n. loose gown worn for tea.—tea'-kettle n. smallish-sized kettle, as used for infusing tea.—tea'-lead n. thin foil for lining tea-chests.—tea'-party n. social entertainment at which tea is served.

—tea'-pot n. vessel with spout in which tea is infused.—tea'-room n. restaurant where tea, coffee, etc. are served.—tea'-ser-v'ice n.—tea'-set n. cups, saucers, plates, etc. for use at tea.—tea'-spoon n. small-sized spoon used with the teacup.—tea'-spoonful n.—tea'-tast'er n. one trained to test quality of tea by tasting.

—tea'-time n. when tea is taken.—tea'-tray n. small tray holding tea-cups, etc. for afternoon tea.—tea'-urn n. vessel with tap near bottom rim, for serving tea to large numbers.

—black tea, tea allowed to ferment between two processes of rolling and firing.—green tea, tea left exposed to air for only short time before firing.—Russian tea, tea served in glasses with slices of lemon and sugar.

—storm in a teacup, quarrel over nothing [Chin.].

teach (tēch) v.t. to instruct; to educate; to discipline; to impart knowledge of;—v.i. to follow profession of a teacher.—pa.t. and pa.p. taught (tawt).—teachability n.—teach-able a. capable of being taught; willing to learn.—teach'ableness n.—teach'er n. one who instructs; one trained to teach in school or college [O.E. taccan, to teach].

teak (tēk) n. tree of E. Indies yielding very hard, durable timber [Malay].

teal (tēl) n. web-footed water-fowl like small duck [etym. doubtful].

team (tēu) n. two or more oxen, horses, or other beasts of burden harnessed together; group of people working together for common purpose; side of players in game, as football team.—team'ster n. one who drives team.—team'wise adv.—team'work n. co-operation among members of a group [O.E. team, offspring].

tear (tēr) n. small drop of fluid secreted by lachrymal gland, appearing in and flowing from eyes, under emotional stimulus; any transparent drop;—pl. grief; sorrow.—tear-drop n. tear.—tear'ful a. weeping.—tear'fully adv.—tear'fulness n.—tear'-gas n. irritant poison gas causing abnormal watering of eyes and temporary blindness.—tear'less a. dry-eyed [O.E. tear, a tear].

tear (tēr) v.t. to pull apart forcibly; to rend; to shatter; to lacerate;—v.i. to move violently; to rush; to rage.—pr.p. tear'ing.—pa.t. tore.—pa.p. torn.—n. rent; fissure.—tear'er n. [O.E. teran, to tear].

tease (tēz) v.t. to comb or card, as wool or flax; to raise pile of cloth; to harass; to annoy in fun; to chaff.—teas'er n. a pester; difficult question to answer.—teas'ing a. [O.E. laesan, to pluck].

teat (tēt) n. nipple of female breast; dug of animal; rubber nipple of baby's feeding-bottle [O.E. tēf].

technic, —al (tek'nik, -al) a. pert. to any of the arts, esp. to useful or mechanical arts; connected with particular art or science; accurately defined; involving legal point.—technical'ity n. state of being technical; term peculiar to specific art; point of procedure.—techn'ically adv.—techn'icalness n.—technic'ian n. expert in particular art or branch of knowledge.—techn'icist n. technic'ian.—techn'ies n.pl. arts in general; industrial arts.—technique (tek-nēk') n. skill acquired by thorough mastery of subject; method of handling materials of an art; executive ability.—technolog'ic, —al a. pert. to technology.—technologist n.—technol'ogy n. science of mechanical and industrial arts, as contrasted with fine arts; technical terminology [Gk. technē, art].

Technicolor (tek'nī-kul'or) n. trade name for colour cinematography.

techy, tech'y (tech'i) a. peevish; fretful.—tech'yly adv. [Fr. tache, a blemish].

tectonic (tek-ton'ik) a. pert. to building; (geol.) pert. to earth's crust [Gk. tekton, builder].

teddy-bear (ted'i-bār) n. stuffed toy-bear for children (named after Theodore (Teddy) Roosevelt).

Te Deum (tē-dē-um) n. Latin hymn named from the opening words Te Deum laudamus, 'We praise thee, O God' [L.]. tedious (tēdi-us) a. wearisome; protracted; irksome; monotonous.—tedi'ous'ly, ted'iousness n.—ted'iously adv.—ted'ium n. wearisomeness; monotony. Also ted'ium [L. tedium, weariness].

tee (tē) n. mark aimed at in games, such as quoits, bowls; tiny cone of sand, wooden peg, etc. on which golf-ball is placed for first drive of each hole; teels-ground which marks beginning of each hole on golf-course.—v.t. to place (golf-ball) on tee [etym. uncertain].

tee (tē) n. the letter T; anything shaped like a T;—a. having the form of a T.

teem (tēm) v.t. to produce; to bring forth;—v.i. to bring forth, as animal; to be prolific; to be stocked to overflowing.—teem'ing a. prolific; over-abundant [O.E. team, offspring].

teem (tēm) v.t. to pour; to empty;—v.i. to run in torrents [Scand. tennr, empty].

teens (tēnz) n.pl. the years of one's age, thirteen to nineteen.—teen-a-g'er n. a young person, esp. a girl, 13-19 years of age.

teeny (tēn'i) a. very small [frnyl].

teepee (tēpē) n. (U.S.) a wigwam, one of the conical tents of N. American Indians. Also tipi.

teeter (tē-er) v.i. (U.S. colloq.) to seesaw; to vacillate; to idle [fr. titler].

teeth See tooth.

teething (tēth'ing) n. the process, in baby-hood, of cutting the first teeth.—teeth'e v.t. to cut the first teeth [fr. tooth].

teetotal (tē-tō-tal) a. pert. to teetotalism; abstemious.—teeto'taler, teeto'taller n. one who abstains from intoxicating liquors.—teeto'talism n. (redupl. of initial letter of 'total).

tee-totum (tē-tō-tum) n. toy-top with letters on four sides; letter T on one side indicated the top score.

tegument (teg-ū-ment) n. covering, esp. of living body; skin; integument.—tegumen'tal, -tary a. [L. tegere, to cover].

tela (tē'la) n. tissue.—pl. te'las.—te'lar a. pert. to tissue or web.—te'larian a. web-spinning;—n. spider.—te'lar'y a. pert. to a tela; spun [L.].

telecast (tel'e-kast) v.i. to transmit programme by television [Gk. tele, far; and cast].

telecommunication (tel'i-ko-mūn-i-kā'shun) n. communication by electric means, telegraph, telephone, etc. [Gk. tele, far, and communication].

telecontrol (tel'e-kon-trōl) n. control of aircraft, etc. from distance by radio.

telegenic (tel'e-jen'ik) a. favourable to the medium of television.

telegram (tel'e-gram) n. message sent by telegraph.—telegram m. a.

telegraph (tel'e-graf) n. electrical apparatus for transmitting messages by code to a distance; any signalling device for transmitting messages;—v.t. to send a message by telegraph; to signal.—telegrapher (or to-log'er), telegraphist (or te-leg'ist) n. one who operates telegraph.—telegraph'ic, -al a.—telegraph'ically adv.—telegraphy n. electrical transmission of messages to a distance.—wireless telegraphy, transmission of messages, news, etc. by means of electric waves; radio [Gk. tele, far; graphein, to write].

telemark (tel'e-mark) n. a quick turn on skis [Norw.].

telemechanics (tel'e-me-kan'iks) n.pl. the science of mechanical control from a distance, by rays.

telemeter (tel'em'e-tēr) n. instrument for determining distances in surveying, gun-practice, etc.

teleology (tel'e-ol'o-jī) n. science or doctrine of final causes.—teleolog'ic, -al a.—teleolog'ically adv. [Gk. telos, end; logos, discourse].

telepathy (te-lep'ā-thī) n. occult communication of facts, feelings, impressions between mind and mind at a distance; thought-transference.—telepath'ic, -a a.—telepath'ically adv.—[Gk. tele, far; pathos, feeling].

telephone (tel'e-fōn) n. electrical instrument by which sound is transmitted and reproduced at a distance;—v.t. and v.i. to communicate by telephone.—telephon'ic a.—telephonist (or tel-e'f) n. telephone-operator, esp. at switchboard of exchange.—telephony n. art or process of operating telephone [Gk. tele, far; phonē, a sound].

teleprinter (tel'e-prin'ter) n. electrical apparatus like typewriter by which typed messages are sent and received by wire.

teleprompter (tel'e-promp'ter) n. In television, a device to enable the speaker to refer to his script out of sight of the camera, thus giving viewers the impression of an unscripted talk.

telescope (tel'e-skōp) n. optical instrument for magnifying distant objects;—v.t. to slide or drive together, as parts of telescope;—v.i. to be impacted violently, as carriages in railway-collision.—telescop'ic, -al a. pert. to or like a telescope.—telescop'ically adv. [Gk. tele, afar; skopein, to see].

teletype (tel'e-tip) n. automatically printed telegram; the apparatus by which this is done [Gk. tele, far; and type].

teletypewriter (tel'e-tip'rit-er) n. invention by which material typed on one typewriter is by electrical control simultaneously typed on machines at a distance.

televiseur (tel'e-vū-ēr) n. one who views a television programme; a viewer.

television (tel'e-vizh-un) n. transmission of scenes, persons, etc. at a distance by means of electro-magnetic wireless waves.—tele'visive v.t. to transmit by television [Gk. tele, far, and vision].

telford (tel'ford) n. type of road-surfacing consisting of layer of stones topped by smaller stones and gravel, and subjected to pressure [fr. Telford, inventor].

tell (tel) v.t. orig. to count; to recount or narrate; to divulge; to reckon; to discover;—v.i. to produce marked effect; to betray (as secret); to report.—pa.t. and pa.p. told.—tell'er n. narrator; bank-clerk who pays out money; Member of House of Commons who counts votes; enumerator.—tell'ing a. effective; impressive; striking.—tell'ingly adv.—tell-tale n. one who betrays confidence; an informer;—a. warning; tending to betray.—to tell off, to detail for special duty; (Slang) to scold [O E. tellan, to count].

tellurium (te-lū'r-i-um) n. (Chem.) bluish-white element, brittle and lustrous, resembling sulphur in its chemical properties (symbol Te).—tellu'ric a. pert. to, derived from, the earth or from tellurium [L. tellus, the earth].

temerity (to-mer'i-ti) n. rashness; audacity; heedless [L. temere, rashly].

temper (tem'per) v.t. to mingle in due proportion; to soften, as clay, by moistening, to bring (metal) to desired degree of hardness and elasticity by heating, cooling, and reheating; to regulate,—n. due proportion; consistency required and achieved by tempering; (Fig.) balanced attitude of mind, composure; anger; irritation.—tempered a. having a certain consistency, as clay, or degree of toughness, as steel, having a certain disposition, as good-tempered, bad-tempered.—tem'peredly adv.—tem'pering n. [L. temperare, to combine in due proportion].

tempera Same as distemper.

temperament (tem'per-a-ment) n. emotional mood; natural disposition, physical, moral and mental constitution peculiar to individuals, (Mus.) system of adjusting tones of keyboard instrument, such as a piano, so as to adapt the scale for all keys.—temperamen'tal a. liable to moods. [L. temperamentum, disposition].

temperance (tem'per-ans) n. moderation; self-discipline, esp. of natural appetites; total abstinence from, or moderation in, consumption of intoxicating liquors, sobriety [L. temperantia, moderation].

temperate (tem'per-āt) a. moderate; abstemious, sober; (of climate) equable; not extreme.—tem'perately adv.—tem'perateness n.—tem'perative a.—tem'perature n. degree of heat or cold of atmosphere or of a human or living body; (Collog.) fevered condition.—temperate zones, areas of earth between Polar Circles and Tropics.—to run a temperature, to become fevered [L. temperare, to moderate].

tempest (tem'pest) n. wind storm of great violence; (Fig.) any violent commotion.

tempestuous a. pert. to tempest; violent.—tempestu'ously adv.—tempestu'ousness n.—[L. tempestas, weather, storm].

Templar (tem'plar) n. one of a religious order of knights founded in 12th cent. for protection of Holy Sepulchre and pilgrims visiting it; lawyer or law-student with chambers in the Temple, London [fr. temple].

template (tem'plat) n. pattern of wood or metal cut to shape required for finished flat object [prob. fr. L. templum, small altar].

temple (tem'pl) n. place of worship; place dedicated to pagan deity; Christian church; shrine [L. templum, a sacred place].

temple (tem'pl) n. part of forehead between outer end of eye and hair.—tem'poral a. [L. tempora, the temples].

tempo (tem'pō) n. (Mus.) time; degree of speed or slowness at which passage should be played or sung; the degree of movement, as in the plot of a drama [It.].

temporal (tem'por-al) a. pert. to time or to this life; transient; secular; political as opposed to ecclesiastical, as temporal power of tenfold See ten.

terbium (ter-'bi-um) n. (Chem.) metallic element, one of the rare earths, chemical symbol Tb. [fr. Ytterby, in Sweden].

tercel (ter'sel) n. a young male falcon. Also tier'cel [dim. of L. tertius, third].

tercentenary (ter'sen-tō-nē-ri or ter-sen'te-nē-ri) n. the 300th anniversary of an event; —a. pert. to a period of 300 years [L. ter, thrice; centum, a hundred].

tercet (ter'set) n. (Mus.) triplet; (Pros.) group of three lines or verses. Also tier'set [L. ter, thrice].

terebene (ter'e-bēn) n. disinfectant liquid, made by treating oil of turpentine and sulphuric acid; used also for thinning down paint. —tereb'le a. pert. to turpentine. —ter'ebinth n. turpentine-tree. —terebinth'ine a. [Gk. terebinthos].

teredo (to-rē'dō) n. ship-worm, mollusc which causes destruction to ship hulls by boring. Also ter'edine [Gk. teredōn, woodworm].

tergiversate (ter'jī-ver-sāt) v.i. to make use of subterfuges; to be shifty or vacillating; to apostatize. —tergiversation' n. —ter'giversator n. one who changes sides [L. tergum, the back; vertere, to turn].

term (tērm) n. boundary; limit, esp. of time; period during which law-courts are sitting; fixed day when rent is due; period during which schools, universities, etc. are open; word or expression with specific meaning; (Math.) member of compound quantity; —pl. mode of expression; stipulation; relationship, as on friendly terms; charge for accommodation, etc. as hotel terms, or for instruction given; —v.t. to give name to; to call. —terminology a. pert. to terminology or specific language used. —terminologically adv. —terminology n. technical words; nomenclature. —to come to terms, to reach agreement, usually by compromise [L. terminus, the end].

Termagant (ter'ma-gant) n. Imaginary god of Saracens depicted in old plays as of violent nature. —ter'magant n. quarrelsome, shrewish woman; —a. scolding; quarrelsome.

terminate (ter'min-āt) v.t. to set limit to; to end; to conclude; —v.i. to come to an end; to finish. —ter'minable a. capable of being terminated; liable to cease. —ter'minal n. extremity; (Elect.) metal attachment such as screw, block, clamp for connecting end of circuit; end of lightning-conductor; —a. pert. to end; belonging to terminus; occurring in, or, at end of, a term; (Bot.) growing at tip. —ter'minally adv. —termina'tion n. act of terminating; finish; conclusion; ending of word. —termina'tional a. —ter'minative a. serving to terminate; definite. —ter'minatively adv. —ter'minus n. end; farthest limit; railway-station, aerodrome, etc. at end of long-distance line. —pl. ter'mini, ter'minuses [L. terminus, the end].

termite (ter'mit) n. insect of order of Isoptera, found in tropical countries erroneously called the white ant [L. termes, a wood-worm].

tern (tērn) n. sea-bird allied to gull, with forked tail [Scand.].

tern (tērn) n. that which consists of three; —a. threefold. —ter'nal, ter'nary a. consisting of three; proceeding by threes; (Chem.) comprising three compounds. —ter'nate a. arranged in threes; (Bot.) having three leaflets. —ter'nion n. group of three [L. terni, three each].

Terpsichore (terp-sik'ō-rē) n. (Myth.) Muse of choral song and dancing. —Terpsichorean a. pert. to Terpsichore or to dancing [Gk. Terpsichorē, fond of dancing].

terra (ter'a) n. earth, as in various Latin phrases. —ter'a-cot'ta n. reddish, brick-like earthenware, porous and unglazed. —ter'a-firma n. dry land. —ter'a-inaeogn'ita n. unexplored territory. —terra'nean a. belonging to surface of earth. —terra'neous a. growing on land. —terraqueous (ter'a'kwē-us) a. comprising both land and water, as the globe [L. terra, the earth].

terrace (ter'as) n. raised shelf of earth, natural or artificial; row of houses built on a terrace; promenade; —v.t. to form into terraces [L. terra, the earth].

terrain (ter'ān) n. tract of land; ground considered by tactician suitable or not for defence [L. terra, the earth].

terrapin (ter'a-pin) n. edible tortoise found in eastern U.S.A. [Amer.-Ind.].

terrazzo-paving (te-rat'sō-pāv-ing) n. kind of mosaic paving in concrete chips [It.].

terrene (te-rēn') a. pert. to earth; earthy; terrestrial [L. terra, the earth].

terrestrial (ter-es'tri-āl) a. pert. to earth; existing on earth; earthly, opp. to celestial; —n. inhabitant of earth [L. terra, the earth].

terrible (ter'i-bl) a. calculated to inspire fear or awe; frightful; dreadful; formidable; (Collog.) excessive. —ter'r'bleness n. —ter'r'ibly adv. [L. terrere, to frighten].

terrier (ter'i-gr) n. breed of small or medium-sized dog, originally trained for hunting foxes, badgers, etc. [M.E. terriere, a burrowing dog].

terrier (ter'i-gr) n. book or register containing site, and extent of private person's land [L. terra, the earth].

Terrier (ter'i-gr) n. (Collog.) member of the Territorial Army.

terrify (ter'i-fi) v.t. to frighten greatly; to inspire with terror. —pa.t. and pa. p. terr'ified. —terr'ile a. causing terror or alarm; (Collog.) tremendous. —terr'ifyingly adv. [L. terrere, to terrify; facere, to make].

territory (ter-i-to-ri) n. large tract of land, esp. under one governmental administration; part of country which has not yet attained political independence. —territo'rial a. pert. to territory; limited to certain district; —n. member of Territorial Army, voluntary home-defence force in Britain [L. terra, the earth].

terror (tor-or) n. extreme fear; violent dread; one who or that which causes terror. —terrorisa'tion n. —terr'orise v.t. to fill with terror; to rule by intimidation. —terr'oriser n. —terror'ism n. mass-organised ruthlessness. —terr'orist n. one who rules by terror. —terr'or-stricken, terr'or-struck, terr'or-struck a. (of speech, writing, etc.) concise; succinct; brief; laconic; (of persons) abrupt. —ter'rely adv. —ter'reness n. [L. terpere, to tremble, to smooth].

tertian (ter'shan) a. (Med.) occurring every third day; —n. fever, such as malaria, with paroxysms occurring at intervals of forty-eight hours [L. tertius, third].

tertiary (ter'shar-i) a. of third formation or rank; (Geol.) pert. to era of rock formation following Mesozoic; —n. (Geol.) the tertiary era [L. tertius, third].

Terylene (ter'i-lēn) n. a synthetic textile yarn, manufactured by Imperial Chemical Industries, from a product of terephthalic acid and ethylene glycol (Protected Trade Name).

terza-rima (ter'tsa-rī-ma) n. form of stanza-arrangement of iambic pentameter lines in groups of three, rhyming aba, bab, etc [It. terza, third; rīma, rhyme].

tessellate (tes'e-lāt) v.t. to pave with tesserae; to make mosaic paving with square-cut stones. —tes'sella, tes'sera n. (pl. tess'ellae, tess'erae) one of the square stones used in tessellated paving. —tessella'tion n. process of making tessellated paving [L. tessera, a square block].

test (test) n. vessel in which metals are refined; critical examination; standard; grounds for admission or exclusion; (Chem.) reagent; substance used to analyse compound into its several constituents; a touchstone; —v.t. to make critical examination of; to put to proof; (Chem.) to analyse nature and properties of a compound. —test-case n. (Law) case tried for purpose of establishing a precedent. —test'er n. —test'ing n. —a. demanding endurance. —test'match n. cricket-match between international sides, as England v. Australia. —test'pa'per n. examination question-paper; litmus or other impregnated paper used to test acid or alkaline content of chemical solution.—test-pilot n. experienced pilot engaged in testing flying qualities of new types of aircraft.—test-tube n. glass tube rounded and closed at one end, used for testing liquids. [L. testa, earthen pot].

test (test) v.i. [Law] to attest and date;—v.t. to make a will.—testable a. capable of being bequeathed by will.—testary n. state of being testate.—testate a. having left a valid will.—testator n. [Jern. testa-tris] one who makes a will [L. testari, to witness].

testa (tes'ta) n. (pl. testae) [Zool.] hard outer shell of molluscs; (Bot.) seed-coat. Also testa—testacean a. having hard shell.—testaceous a. testaceous; brick-coloured [L. testa, shell].

testament (tes'ta-ment) n. solemn declaration of one's will; one of the two great divisions of the Bible, as the Old Testament, or the New Testament.—testamentary a. pert. to testament or will; bestowed by will [L. testari, to witness].

tester (tes'ter) n. flat canopy, esp. over a bed [O.Fr. teste, the head].

tester (tes'ter) n. a teston; sixpence.

testicle (tes'ti-kli) n. one of the two male reproductive glands.—testicular a.—testiculate, -d a. having testicles; resembling testicle in shape.—testis n. a testicle.—pl. testis [L. testis, testicle].

testify (tes'ti-fi) v.i. to bear witness; to affirm or declare solemnly; to give evidence upon oath.—v.t. to bear witness to; to manifest.—testifier n. [L. testis, a witness; facere, to make].

testimony (tes'ti-mon-i) n. solemn declaration or affirmation; witness; proof of some fact; in Scripture, the two tables of the law; divine revelation as a whole.—testimonial a. containing testimony;—n. written declaration testifying to character and qualities of person, esp. of applicant for a post; written tribute to person's outstanding worth [L. testimonium, an attestation].

teston (tes'ton) n. tester; silver coin of Henry VIII's time, orig. worth a shilling; sixpence [O.Fr. teste, head].

testy (tes'ti) a. fretful; irascible.—testily adv.—testiness n. [O.Fr. teste, head].

tetanus (tet'a-nus) n. a disease in which a virus causes spasms of violent muscular contraction; lockjaw; any spasmodic muscular contraction or rigidity caused by intake of drugs.—tetanic a. [Gk. tetanos, stretched].

tetchy See tetchy.

tether (te'th'er) n. rope or chain fastened to grazing animal to keep it from straying;—v.t. to confine with tether; to restrict movements of [Scand.].

tetra- (tet'ra) prefix meaning four [Gk.].

tetractomy (te-trak'tom-i) n. division into four parts [Gk. tetra-, four; tomē, a cutting].

tetrad (tet'rad) n. the number four; group of four things [Gk. tetras].

tetra-ethyl lead (tet'ra-eth'il led) n. colourless liquid, one of various substances used to eliminate 'knocking' in petrol-driven engines.

tetragon (tet'ra-gon) n. a plane figure, having four angles.—tetragonal a.

tetragram (tet'ra-gram) n. word of four letters; (Geom.) figure formed by four right angles.

tetrahedron (tet'ra-hē'dron) n. solid figure enclosed by four triangles; triangular-based pyramid.—tetrahedral a. [Gk. tetra-, four; hedra, a base].

tetralin (tet'ra-lin) n. colourless turpentine substitute [fr. tetra-hydro-naphthalene].

tetralogy (te-tral'o-j-i) n. group of four dramas or operas connected by some central event or character [Gk. tetra-, four; logos, a discourse].

tetrameter (te-train'e-tēr) n. verse of four measures.

tetrapod (tet'ra-pod) n. [Zool.] insect with four feet;—a. having four feet.

tetrarch (tet'rank) n. Roman governor of fourth part of a province.—tetrarchate, tetrarchy n. office of tetrarch; province ruled by tetrarch.—tetrarchie, -al a. [Gk. tetra-, four; archos, ruler].

tetrastyle (tet'ra-stil) a. having four pillars.

tetrode (tet'rōd) n. (Radio) four-electrode thermionic valve [Gk. tetra-, four; electrode].

tetter (tet'er) n. skin disease; ringworm;—v.t. to affect with this.—tetterous a. [O.E. teler, ringworm].

Teuton (tū'ton) n. member of one of Germanic races; (Colloq.) a German.—Teutonic a. pert. to Teutons or their language.—Teutonic languages, those languages from which modern German, English, Scandinavian, and Dutch are derived [L. Teutones].

tewel (tū'el) n. a flue [O.Fr. tuel, a pipe].

text (tekst) n. original words of author, orator, etc. as distinct from paraphrase or commentary; verse of passage of Scripture chosen as theme of sermon.—textbook n. manual of instruction.—textual a. pert. to text or subject-matter; based on actual text or wording; literal.—textually adv. [L. texere, to weave].

textile (tek'stil) a. pert. to weaving; capable of being woven;—n. fabric made on loom.—textorial a. pert. to weaving [L. texere, to weave].

texture (teks'tur) n. that which is woven; manner of weaving threads in fabric; quality of surface of a woven material; disposition of several parts of anything in relation to whole; quality (as of mind). [L. texere].

Thailand (tī'land) n. Siam.

thalassic (tha-las'ik) a. pert. to the sea; living in the sea [Gk. thalassa, the sea].

thaler (tāl'er) n. former German silver coin worth about 3s.

thallium (thal'i-um) n. (Chem.) rare metal (symbol Tl) bluish white and soft; so called because of brilliant green line in its spectrum [Gk. thallos, green shoot].

thallus (thal'us) n. simple plant organism which shows little or no differentiation into leaves, stem, or root as in fungi, algae, etc.—pl. thalli [Gk. thallos, green shoot].

than (Tī'an) conj. introducing adverbial clause of comparison and occurring after comparative form of an adjective or adverb [O.E. thanne, than].

thane (thān) n. in Anglo-Saxon community, member of class between freemen and nobility.—thane's dom n. property held by a thane [O.E. thegn, soldier].

thank (thank) v.t. to express gratitude for favour;—n. expression of gratitude usually in pl.—thankful a. grateful; appreciative.—thank fully adv.—thankfulness n. gratitude.—thankless a. ungrateful; unappreciated by others.—thanklessly adv.—thanklessness n. ingratitude.—thank-offering n. gift made as token of gratitude.—thanksgiving n. act of rendering thanks; service held as expression of thanks for Divine goodness.—Thanksgiving Day (U.S.) day, usually last Thursday in November, set apart for rendering thanks to God for blessings granted to nation [O.E. thanc, thanks].

that (THat) demons. pron. or a. (pl. those) pointing out a person or thing, or referring to something already mentioned; not this but the other;—rel. pron. who or which; conj. introducing a noun cl., adjective cl., or adverbial cl. of purpose, result, degree or reason [G.E. thæt].

thatch (thach) n. straw, rushes, heather, etc. used to roof cottages, or cover stacks of grain; (Colloq.) hair;—v.t. to roof with thatch.—thatcher n.—thatching n. act or craft of roofing with thatch; materials used [O.E. thæc, a roof, thatch].

thaumaturgy (thaw'ma-tur-j-i) n. art of working miracles; conjuring.—thaumaturge n. miracle worker; magician; conjurer.—thaumaturgie a. [Gk. thauma, a wonder].

thaw (thaw) v.t. to cause to melt by increasing temperature; to liquefy;—v.i. to melt, as ice, snow, etc.; to become warmer; (Fig.) to become genial;—n. melting of ice or snow [O.E. thawian, to melt].

the (THē, emphatic THē) a. or definite article, placed before nouns, and used to specify general conception, or to denote particular person or thing;—adv. by so much; by that amount, as the more, the merrier [O.E.].

thearchy (thē-ār-ki) n. theocracy; government by gods [Gk. theos, a god; archē, rule].

theatre (thē-ā-ter) n. in Ancient Greece, a large, open-air structure used for public assemblies, staging of dramas, etc.; play-house; stage; lecture or demonstration room for anatomy studies; room in hospital where surgical operations are performed; field of military, naval, or air operations.—theat'ric, -al a.—theat'rically adv.—theat'ricals n.pl. dramatic performances, esp. by amateurs [Gk. theatron].

the dānsant (tā-dong-song) n. afternoon tea with dancing (Fr.).

thee (THē) pron. objective case of thou.

theft (thēft) n. act of stealing; that which is stolen [O.E. theof, a thief].

theft Same as thane.

theine (thē-in) n. alkaloid of tea-plant; caffeine.—the'ic n. one who drinks tea excessively [Mod.L. thea, tea].

their (THār) a. and pron. of them; possessive case of they.—theirs poss. pron. form of their used absolutely [Scand. theira, their].

theism (thē-iz-m) n. belief in existence of personal God who actively manifests Himself in world.—the'ist n.—the'istic, -al a. [Gk. theos, a god].

them (THem) pron. objective and dative case of they [O.E. thæm].

theme (thēm) n. subject-matter of writing, discourse, or discussion; brief essay. (Mus.) groundwork melody recurring at intervals and with variations.—the'ma n. subject for discussion.—themat'ic a. pert. to.—themat'ically adv.—theme-song n. recurring melody in play, revue, or film [Gk. thema, something laid down].

themselves (THem-selvz) pron. pl. of himself.

then (THen) adv. at that time (past or future); immediately afterwards; thereupon; that being so; for this reason; in consequence of;—conj. moreover; therefore;—a. existing or acting at particular time.—now and then, occasionally [doublet of than].

thence (THens) adv. from that place; from that time; for that reason.—thence'forth adv. from that time on.—thence'or'ward adv. thenceforth [M.E. thennes].

theocracy (thē-ok'ra-si) n. government of State professedly in the name, and under direction, of God; government by priests.—theocrat, theocrat'ist n. ruler under this system.—theocrat'ic, -al a. [Gk. theos, a god; kratos, power].

theodolite (thē-od'ō-lit) n. instrument for measuring angles, used in surveying [etym. unknown].

theogony (thē-og'ō-ni) n. branch of heathen theology dealing with genealogy of gods.—theogon'ic a. [Gk. theos, a god; gonē, generation].

theology (thē-ol'ō-jī) n. science which treats of facts and phenomena of religion, and relations between God and man.—theol'ogist, theol'og'ian n. one learned in theology; professor of divinity.—theol'og'ic, -al a. pert. to theology.—theol'og'ically adv.—theol'og'ise v.t. to render theological; to theorise upon theological matters.—theol'og'ist n.—theol'og'ist n. student of, authority on, theology [Gk. theos, god; logos, discourse].

theophany (thē-ōf'ā-ni) n. manifestation of God to men, in human form; incarnation.—theophan'ic a. [Gk. theos, a god; phainesthai, to appear].

theorem (thē-or-em) n. established principle; speculative truth; (Math.) proposition to be proved by logical reasoning; algebraical formula.—theoremat'ic, -al a. [Gk. theoremā, speculation].

theory (thē-ō-ri) n. supposition put forward to explain something; speculation; exposition of general principles as distinct from practice and execution; (Collog.) general idea; notion.—theoret'ic, -al a. pert. to or based on theory; speculative as opp. to practical.—theoret'ics n.pl. speculative side of sciences.—the'orise v.t. to form a theory; to speculate.—the'oriser, the'orist n. [Gk. theoria, speculation].

theosophy (thē-ōsō-fī) n. name given by the Alexandrian philosophers to ancient Wisdom-Religion in 3rd cent. A.D.; the eternal revelation of Divine Spirit which forms source of all religions, arts, and sciences of the world; knowledge of God by immediate Divine illumination.—theosoph, theosoph'er, theosoph'ist n. one who believes in theosophy.—theosoph'ic, -al a. [Gk. theos, a god; sophia, wisdom].

therapeutic (ther-a-pō'tik) a. pert. to healing.—therapeut'ically adv.—therapeut'ics n. branch of medicine concerned with treatment and cure of diseases.—therapeut'ist n. [Gk. therapeuein, to attend (medically)].

therapy (thēr-ā-pi) n. remedial treatment, as radio-therapy, for cure of disease by radium [Gk. therapeia, (medical) attendance].

there (THār) adv. in that place; farther off—opp. to here; as an introductory adverb it adds little to the meaning of the sentence as 'There is someone at the door':—interf. expressing surprise, alarm.—there'about, thereabouts adv. near that place, number, or quantity.—thereaft'er adv. after that time, accordingly.—thereat' adv. at that place; by means of that.—thereby adv. by that means; in consequence.—there'fore conj. and adv. for that or this reason; consequently, accordingly.—therein adv. in that, or this place, time, or thing; in that particular.—thereinaft'er adv. afterwards in same document.—thereof adv. of that or this.—thereon' adv. on that or this.—thereto' adv. to that or this.—thereupon adv. upon that or this; consequently; immediately.—therewith' adv. with that or this; straightway.—therewithal adv. over and above; at the same time [O.E. thær, there].

therm (therm) n. term used in Britain for thermal unit (abbrev. B.Th.U.), amount of heat required to raise 1 lb. of water through 1°F.; (of household gas supply) measuring 100,000 British thermal units.—ther'mae n.pl. hot springs; Roman baths.—ther'mal a. pert. to heat.—ther'mic a. caused by heat.—ther'mically adv.—thermatology n. medical treatment of ailments by hot springs, etc. [Gk. thermē, heat].

thermion (ther-ni-on) n. positively or negatively charged particle or ion emitted from incandescent substance.—thermion'ic a. pert. to thermions.—thermion'ic current (Radio) flow of electrons from filament to plate of thermion'ic valve.—thermion'ics n. branch of science dealing with emission of electrons from substances under action of heat [Gk. thermē, heat; ion, going].

thermit (thēr-mit) n. aluminum powder mixed with metal oxide, which, when ignited, emits tremendous heat, used esp. in welding and for incendiary bombs. Also ther mite [Gk. thermē, heat].

thermochemistry (thēr-mō-kem'is-tri) n. branch of science which deals with changes of heat during chemical processes.

thermodynamics (thēr-mō-dī-nam'iks) n. branch of science which deals with the conversion of heat into mechanical energy.

thermoelectricity (thēr-mō-el-ek'tris'it-i) n. electricity developed by action of heat alone on two different metals.—thermoelect'ric, -al a. [Gk. thermē, heat; and electricity].

thermogenesis (ther-mō-jen'ē-sis) n. production of heat, esp. in human body.—thermogen'ic, thermogen'ic a.

thermogram (ther-mō-gram) n. recording on a thermograph.—thermograph n. instrument for automatically registering varying temperatures on a graph.

thermology (ther-mol'ō-jī) n. the science of heat [Gk. thermē, heat; logos, a discourse].

thermometer (ther-mom'ē-ter) n. instrument for measuring temperature, usually consisting of graduated and sealed glass tube with bulb containing mercury.—thermomet'ric, -al a.—thermomet'rically adv.—thermom'etry n.—clinical thermometer, small glass thermometer for measuring temperature of human body [Gk. thermē, heat; metron, measure].

thermomotor (ther-mō-mō'tor) n. engine worked by heat or hot air.

thermopile (ther-mō-pīl) n. a battery for measuring minute variations in temperature.

thermoscope (ther-mō-skōp) n. instrument for detecting fluctuations in temperature without actual measurement.

Thermos (ther-mos) n. vessel generically known as a vacuum flask; double-walled glass bottle or the like which substantially retains temperature of liquids by the device of surrounding interior vessel with a vacuum jacket [Protected Trade Name].

thermostat (ther-mō-stat) n. instrument which controls temperature automatically, used in refrigerators, ovens, hot-water tanks, incubators, etc.—thermostat a.—thermostat'ically adv.—thermostat'ics n. science dealing with equilibrium of heat [Gk. thermē, heat; and statē].

thermotric (ther-mō'trik) a. pert. to heat. Also thermotical.—thermotics n. the science of heat [Gk. thermotis, heat].

thesaurus (the-sav'rus) n. treasury of knowledge, etc.; lexicon; encyclopaedia [Gk. thesaurus, treasure-house].

these (THĪz) demons, a. and pron. pl. of this. thesis (thē'sis) n. what is laid down as a proposition; dissertation, esp. a University Honours degree.—pl. the'ses.—thē'tic a.—thē'tically adv. [Gk. thesis, placing].

Thespis (thē'spīs) n. Athenian of 6th cent. A.D. supposed inventor of tragedy.—Thespian a. pert. to drama;—n. an actor.

theurgy (thē-ur-jī) n. black art; necromancy; art of working so-called miracles by supernatural agency.—theurgic a. [Gk. theos, god; ergon, a work].

thew (thū) n. muscle; sinew; brawn; (Fig.) mental vigour.—usually used in pl. [O.E. theac, manner, or strength].

they (THĪ) pron. pers. pl. of he, she, it; indefinitely, for a number of persons.

thiamin, thiamene (thī-a-mīn) n. Vitamin B, complex compound, deficiency of which causes beri-beri [Gk. theon, sulphur, and amine].

thick (thik) a. dense; foggy; muddy; not thin; abundant; packed; frequent; muffled, as thick voice; mentally dull; (Slang) intimate;—n. thickest part;—adv. thickly; to a considerable depth; fast.—thick-en v.t. to make thick;—v.i. to become thick.—thick-ening n. something added to liquid, as cornflour, to thicken it.—thick-et n. a shrubbery.—thick-head-ed a. dull mentally.—thick-ly adv.—thick'ness n. quality of being thick; measurement of depth between opposite surfaces; layer.—thick-set a. closely planted; sturdily built [O.E. thicc, thick].

thief (thēf) n. (pl. thieves) one who steals the goods and property of another.—thieve v.t. to take by theft;—v.i. to steal.—thiev'ery n.—thiev'ish a. addicted to stealing.—thiev'ishly adv.—thiev'ishness n. [O.E. thēf].

thigh (thī) n. fleshy part of leg between knee and trunk [O.E. theoh, thigh].

thimble (thim'bl) n. metal or bone cap for tip of middle finger, in sewing; anything shaped like a thimble.—thim'bleful n. the quantity contained in a thimble; very small amount of liquid [O.E. thymel, thumb-stall].

thin (thīn) a. having little depth or thickness; slim; lean; emaciated; sparse; fine;—adv. sparsely; not closely packed;—v.t. to make thin; to rarefy;—v.i. to grow or become thin; to slim.—thin-ly adv.—thin'ness n.—thin'ing n. practice of removing some plants to give remainder a richer soil in which to mature [O.E. thynne, thin].

thine (THĪn) pron. (poss. form of thou) belonging to thee; thy [O.E. thin, thine].

thing (thīng) n. material or inanimate object; entity; specimen; commodity; event; action; person (in pity or contempt);—pl. belongings; clothes; furniture.—thing'am'y, thing'umabob, thing'umajig, thing'ummy n. word used for name which has escaped one's memory [O.E. thing, an object].

think (thīngk) v.t. to conceive; to surmise; to believe; to consider; to esteem;—v.i. to reason; to form judgment; to deliberate; to imagine; to discover; to recollect.—pa.t. and pa.p. thought (thawt).—think'able a. capable of being thought or considered.—think'er n. one who thinks; sage or philosopher.—think'ing a. reflective; rational [O.E. thencan].

third (thērd) a. next after the second; forming one of three equal divisions;—n. one of three equal parts; (Mus.) interval of three diatonic degrees of the scale.—third' class a. pert. to accommodation for passengers not travelling first or second class; inferior.—third estate, the commons.—third'ing n. third part of anything.—third'ly adv.—third man (Cricket) fielder standing on off-side between point and slip.—third-rate a. of third-class quality; inferior; shoddy.—Third Reich, Nazi regime in Germany 1933-45.—Third Republic, republican government in France in 1871 [O.E. thrida, third].

thirst (thērst) n. desire to drink; suffering endured by too long abstinence from drinking; (of soil) drought; (Fig.) craving;—v.t. to crave for something to drink; to wish for earnestly.—thirst'er n.—thirst'ily adv.—thirst'iness n.—thirst'y a. having a desire to drink; dry; parched; eager for [O.E. thurst, thirst].

thirteen (thēr'tēn) a. ten and three;—n. sum of ten and three; sym'ol representing thirteen units, as 13, XI.—thirteenth a. next in order after twelfth;—being one of thirteen equal parts;—n. one of these parts [O.E. threo, three; tyñ, ten].

thirty (thēr-tī) a. three times ten;—n. sum of three times ten; symbol representing this, as 30, XXX.—thirt'eth a. next in order after twenty-ninth;—being one of thirty equal parts;—n. thirtieth part [O.E. thridig, thirty].

this (THĪz) demons, pron. and a. denoting a person or thing near at hand, just mentioned, or about to be mentioned [O.E.].

thistle (thīsl) n. one of the numerous prickly plants of the genus Carduus, with yellow or purple flowers; national emblem of Scotland.—thistle-down n. feathery down of thistle seeds.—thist'ly a. overgrown with thistles [O.E. thistel, a thistle].

thither (thīth-er) adv. to that place; to that point, end, or result.—thith'ward adv. toward that place [O.E. thider].

thole (thō) v.t. pl. in gunwale of boat to keep oar in rowlock. Also thole-pin, thowel, thowl [O.E. thol, a rowlock].

thole (thōl) v.t. and i. to endure [O.E. tholian, to suffer].

Thomism (tō'mizm) n. doctrines expounded in theology of Thomas Aquinas (1226-74).—Tho'mist n. adherent of Thomism.—a. pert. to Thomism.

thong (thōng) n. narrow strap of leather used for reins, whip-lash, etc.; long narrow strip of leather used in leather-craft [O.E. thwang, a thong].

thorax (thô-raks) n. part of body between neck and abdomen; chest-cavity containing heart, lungs, etc.—thoracic a. [Gk. thorax, breastplate].

thorium (thô-rî-um) n. (Chem.) radio-active metallic element, used in manufacture of incandescent gas-mantles—symbol Th. Also thorium [fr. Thor, Norse God of Thunder].

thorn (thorn) n. sharp, woody shoot on stem of tree or shrub; prickly; hawthorn; (Fig.) anything which causes trouble or annoyance; name in O.E. for symbol—th—thorn'y a. full of thorns; prickly; jaggy; (Fig.) beset with difficulties [O.E. thorn, a prickly].

thorium (thô-ron) n. (Chem.) radio-active emanation resulting from decomposition of thorium.

thorough (thur-ô) a. passing through or to the end; complete; absolute.—adv. through.—thoroughbred a. (of animals) pure bred from pedigree stock; (of people) aristocratic hence, high-spirited; mettlesome;—n. animal (esp. horse) of pure breed.—thoroughfare n. passage through; unobstructed passage.—thorough-going a. very thorough.—thoroughly adv.—thoroughness n.—thorough-paced a. absolute [form of through].

thorp (thorp) n. hamlet; village [O.E. thorp, village].

those (THôz) a. and pron. pl. of that.

thou (THou) pron. pres., 2nd sing. denoting the person addressed (used now only in solemn address, and by the Quakers).

though (THô) conj. granting; admitting; even if; notwithstanding; however [O.E. theah].

thought (thawt) pat. and pa.p. of think.

thought (thawt) n. act of thinking; that which one thinks; reflection; opinion; serious consideration.—thoughtful a. contemplative; attentive; considerate.—thoughtfully adv.—thoughtfulness n.—thoughtless a. without thought; heedless; impulsive; inconsiderate.—thoughtlessly adv.—thoughtlessness n.—thought-reader n. one who professes to read another's thoughts.—thought-reading n.—thought-transference n. telepathy [O.E. gethoht, thought].

thousand (thou-sand) a. consisting of ten hundred; used indefinitely to express large number;—n. the number ten hundred; symbol representing any large number.—thousand-fold a. multiplied by a thousand.—thousandth a. constituting one of thousand equal parts; next in order after nine hundred and ninety-nine;—n. thousandth part [O.E. thusend, a thousand].

thowel thowl See thole.

thrall (thrawl) n. slave; bondsman; servitude;—thrall-dom, thrall-dom n. bondage [O.N. thrael, bondage].

thresh (thresh) v.t. to separate grain from chaff by use of flail or threshing-machine; to thresh; to flog. Also thresh—thrasher n.—threshing, threshing n. act of threshing grain, etc.; corporal punishment; flogging.—threshing, threshing-floor n. space on which grain is threshed.—threshing, threshing-machine, or mill n. agricultural machine for threshing grain.—to thresh out, to argue about from every angle [O.E. therscan, to beat].

thrasomical (thra-som-ik-al) a. boastful; bragging.—thrasomically adv. [fr. Thraso, a braggart in Terence's Eunuchus].

thraw (thraw) v.t. (Scot.) to twist; to wrench.—thrawn a. twisted; obstinate; perverse [var. of throw].

thread (thred) n. very thin twist of wool, cotton, linen, silk, etc.; filament as of gold, silver; prominent spiral part of screw; (Fig.) consecutive train of thought;—v.t. to pass thread through eye of needle; to string together, as beads; to pick one's way with careful deliberation.—threadbare a. worn away with wear; shabby; (Fig.) hackneyed; trite.—thread-worm n. thread-like parasitic worm often found in intestines of children.—thread'y a. consisting of thread; resembling thread [O.E. thrawan, to twist].

threat (thret) n. declaration of determination to harm another; menace.—threaten v.t. to menace; to declare intention to do harm to; to portend.—threatener n.—threatening a. menacing; portending something undesirable; (of clouds or sky) lowering.—threateningly adv.—threatful a. forbidding [O.E. threathian, to urge].

three (thré) a. two and one;—n. sum of two and one; symbol of this sum, 3 or iii.—three-cornered a. having three corners; triangular; of an election contest, having candidates of three political parties.—three-fold a. triple.—three halfpence (thré háf-pens) 1d.—three-handed a. (of cards, esp. Bridge) played with three players and dummy.—three-legged race, race run by pairs of competitors, right leg of one being tied to left leg of other.—threepenny bit (thrép, or -thrip-ni-bit) coin worth three pennies.—three-ply a. having three layers or thicknesses; having three strands twisted together, as wool.—three-quarter n. (Rugby) one of the four backs behind half-backs.—three-score a. and n. sixty.—three some n. game (as golf) played by three players, dance performed by three people.—the three R's, reading, writing, arithmetic [O.E. threo, three].

threnody (thren-ô-di) n. song of lamentation; elegy; dirge. Also thren-ôde.—threnodic, threnodical, threnodie a. pert. to threnody; funeral.—threnodist n. [Gk. threnos, lament; odé, song].

thresh See thresh.

threshold (thresh-ôld) n. door-sill; piece of wood or stone immediately under door [O.E. therscan, to thresh; wald, wood].

throw (thró) pat. of throw.

thrice (thris) adv. three times; repeatedly; much, as in thrice blessed [O.E. thriwa].

thrift (thrift) n. thriving condition; economical management; frugality; plant, the sea-pink.—thriftily adv.—thriftiness n. frugality.—thrifless a. extravagant; wasteful.—thriflessly adv.—thrifty a. (comp. thrifter; superl. thriftiest) economical; frugal; sparing [fr. thrive].

thrill (thril) n. emotional excitement; throb; quivering sensation running through nerves and body;—v.t. to pierce; to stir deeply; to arouse tingling emotional response;—v.i. to feel a glow of excitement, enthusiasm, etc.—thriller n. novel, play, or film, etc. with sensational plot.—thrilling a. causing a thrill; exciting.—thrillingly adv. [O.E. thryllan, to bore a hole].

thrive (thrive) v.t. to prosper; to grow abundantly; to develop healthily.—pat. p. thrived and thrived.—pa.p. thriven (thrivén) thrived.—thriving a. flourishing; prosperous.—thrivingly adv. [O.N. thriwa, to grasp].

throat (throt) n. forepart of neck; passage connecting back of mouth with lungs, stomach, etc.; narrow entrance.—throatiness n. quality of having throaty or muffled voice.—throat'y a. guttural; muffled [O.E. throde, the throat].

throb (throb) v.t. to pulsate; to beat, as heart, with more than usual force.—pr. p. throbbing.—pat. p. and pa.p. throbbled.—n. pulsation; palpitation (of heart, etc.); beat [etym. doubtful].

throe (thró) n. suffering; pain;—pl. pains of childbirth.—to be in the throes of, to be struggling with a difficult task [O.E. thruwa, suffering].

thrombosis (throm-bô-sis) n. formation of blood clot in vein or artery during life [Gk. thrombos, a lump, a clot].

throne (thron) n. chair of state; royal seat; bishop's seat in his cathedral; sovereign power and dignity;—v.t. to place on royal seat; to exalt.—pr.p. thrōning.—pa.p. thrōned [Gk. thronos, a seat].

throng (throng) n. multitude; crowd;—v.t. to mass together; to press in crowds [O.E. thringan, to press].

throstle (throstl) n. the song-thrush or mavis [O.E. throstle, a thrush].

throttle (thro^tl) n. windpipe; valve controlling pressure of steam;—v.t. to choke by external pressure on windpipe; to shut off steam in steam-engine; (Fig.) to suppress; to silence;—v.i. to pant for breath, as if suffocated; to open or close throttle of an engine.—to throttle down, to slow down by closing throttle [dim. of throat].

through (thro^o) prep. from end to end of; going in at one side and out the other; by passing between; across; along; by means of; as consequence of;—adv. from one end or side to the other; from beginning to end.—a. (of railway train) passing from one main station to another without intermediate stops; unobstructed, as through-road.—through and through, completely.—thoroughly adv. thoroughly;—throughout adv. and prep. wholly; completely, during entire time of.—to pull through, to recover from serious illness [O.E. thurh, through].

throw (thrō) v.t. to fling, cast, or hurl; to propel; to send, to venture, at dice; to twist into thread, as silk; to mould clay; to unseat, as of a horseman; to shed, as snake's skin; to produce offspring, as animal; to spread carelessly;—v.i. to cast dice; to hurl.—pr.p. throwing.—pa.t. threw.—pa.p. thrown.—n. the act of throwing; round in wrestling-match.—throw-back n. one who in his characteristics reverts to ancestral type.—thrower n. one who or that which throws.—thrown a. twisted.—to throw down the gauntlet, to challenge.—to throw light on, to elucidate.—to throw up, to erect hurriedly; to vomit.—to throw up the sponge, to admit defeat [O.E. throwan, to throw].

thrum (thrum) n. fringe of threads left on loom after web is cut off [O.N. thromr, edge].

thrum (thrum) v.t. to strum on instrument; to play carelessly; to drum with fingers [O.N. thruma, rattle].

thrush (thrush) n. song-bird, esp. mavis or throstle [O.E. thrysc].

thrush (thrush) n. (Med.) inflammatory disease affecting mouth, tongue and lips, commonly found in young children; a disease affecting the feet of horses, etc. [O.E. thyrre, dry].

thrust (thrust) v.t. to push or drive with sudden force; to pierce; to obtrude;—v.i. to make a push; to attack with a pointed weapon; to intrude; to push way through.—pa.t. and pa.p. thrust.—n. stab; attack; assault; horizontal outward pressure as of arch against its abutments; stress acting horizontally, as in machinery; (Geol.) upward bulge of layer of rock due to lateral pressure.—thrusty a.—thrustful a. energetic; self-assertive.—thrustfully adv.—thrustfulness n. [Scand. thrysta, to press].

thud (thud) n. dull sound made by blow or heavy fall;—v.t. to make sound of thud; [O.E. thoden, noise].

thug (thug) n. one of band of professional robbers and assassins of N. India (suppressed in 1830's) who strangled or poisoned victims; cut-throat ruffian; (U.S.) gangster.—thug-gery, thuggism n. gangsterism.

Thule (thū^lē) n. name in ancient times for most northerly parts of Europe, esp. Orkneys, Shetlands, Iceland, etc.—ultima Thule, furthest north of known world [Gk. Thoulē].

thulium (thū^li-um) n. (Chem.) metallic element belonging to rare earths, chemical symbol Tm.—thulite n. silicate of aluminium and calcium; also called scorite [fr. Thulē].

thumb (thum) n. short, thick finger of human hand; part of glove which covers this;—v.t. to manipulate awkwardly; to soil with thumb-marks; (Slang) to hold up thumb, to solicit lift in motor-car.—thumbed a. having thumbs; soiled with thumb-marks.—thumb-in'dex n. system of indexing in which right-hand edges of leaves of notebook or ledger are indented and marked with letters of alphabet to facilitate reference.—thumb'kin n. a thumb-screw.—thumb'-nail n. nail on human thumb.—thumb-nail sketch, miniature; succinct description.—thumb-stall n. sheath like a glove thumb for injured thumb.—thumb'screw n. old instrument of torture by which thumb was compressed till the joint broke.—by rule of thumb, by rough and ready method [O.E. thuma, a thumb].

thump (thump) n. blow of fist; sudden fall of heavy body or weight; thud;—v.t. to beat with something heavy;—v.i. to strike or fall with a thud.—thumper n.—tub'-thumper n. (Slang) street-corner orator.—thumping a. very large; much exaggerated [imit.].

thunder (thun^oder) n. rumbling sound which follows lightning-flash; any very loud noise;—v.t. to declaim or rage with loud voice;—v.i. to rumble with thunder; to roar.—thunderbolt n. flash of lightning followed by peal of thunder; (Fig.) anything totally unexpected and unpleasant.—thunder-clap n. a peal of thunder.—the thunderer, the god Jupiter; (Colloq.) The Times newspaper.—thundering a. thunder; booming, as of guns.—a. making a loud noise; (Colloq.) outstanding; excessive.—thunderous a. thundery; booming like thunder.—thunderously adv.—thunder-plum n. torrential rainfall accompanied by thunder.—thunder-storm n. storm of thunder and lightning with torrential rain.—thunder-struck a. struck by lightning; (Fig.) speechless with amazement.—thunder a. pert, to thunder; sultry.—to steal someone's thunder, to win applause expected by someone else [O.E. thunian, to rattle].

thurbie (thū^o-ri-bi) n. a metal censer.—thurifer n. one who carries and swings a thurbie [L. thus, thuris, frankincense].

Thursday (thurz^o-dā) n. fifth day of week, after Thor, Scandinavian god of thunder.

thus (thūs) adv. in this or that manner; to this degree or extent; so; in this wise.—thus'wise adv. in this manner.—thus far, so far [O.E. thus, by this].

thwack (thwak) v.t. to beat; to flog; to belabour;—n. heavy blow; a hard slap [O.E. thaccian, to stroke].

thwart (thwawrt) a. lying across; transverse; athwart;—v.t. to hinder, to frustrate; to balk;—n. seat across or athwart a rowing-boat;—adv. and prep. across.—thwarting a.—thwartships adv. across the ship [O.N. thvert, perverse].

thy (THI) poss. a. of thee; belonging to thee (contr. fr. thine).

thyme (tim) n. small flowering-shrub cultivated for its aromatic leaves for use as flavouring in cookery [Gk. thymon].

thymus (thi^o-mus) n. small ductless gland in upper part of chest; corresponds to sweetbread of calves and lambs [Gk. l.].

thyroid (thi^o-roid) a. having shape of shield; signifying cartilage of larynx or a gland of trachea.—thyroid gland, ductless gland situated in neck on either side of trachea, secreting hormone which profoundly affects physique and temperament of human beings [Gk. thyreos, a shield; eidos, a form].

thysself (THI-solf) pron. reflex. or emphatic, of a person, thou or thee.

tiara (tī^o-ā^o) n. lofty ornamental turban worn by ancient Persian kings and dignitaries; triple, gem-studded crown worn by Pope on ceremonial occasions; gem-studded head-dress or coronet worn by ladies [Gk. tiara, head-dress].

tibia (tib⁴-a) n. shin-bone; inner and usually larger of two bones of leg, between knee and ankle.—pl. tib⁴iae.—tib⁴ial a. pert. to tibia; pert. to Roman flute, the tibia [L. tibia, shin-bone].

tic (tik) n. spasmodic twitching of muscle, esp. of face [Fr. tic, twitching].

tick (tik) n. a parasitic blood-sucking insect which infests esp. sheep, cows, etc. [M.E. teke].

tick (tik) n. cover of bed-mattress, pillow, etc. stuffed with feathers, wool, kapok, etc.—tick⁴ing n. specially strong cotton or linen material used for mattress covers, etc. [Gk. thékē, a case].

tick (tik) n. (Slang) credit; trust;—v.i. to give credit [abbrev. of ticket].

tick (tik) v.i. to make small, recurring, clicking sound, as watch; to beat steadily;—n. sound made by watch ticking; (Colloq.) very short time.—tick⁴er n. anything which ticks regularly; (Colloq.) watch or clock; tape-machine; the heart [imit.].

tick (tik) v.t. to mark or dot lightly;—n. small mark placed after word, item, entry, etc., esp. in checking; very small piece.—tick⁴ed a. spotted.—to tick off, (Colloq.) to rebuke [M.E. tek, a touch].

ticket (tik⁴-et) n. piece of cardboard or paper entitling admission to anything, to travel by public transport, to participate in function, lottery, etc.;—v.t. to mark with ticket.—tick⁴-et-of-leave n. permit to convict to be at liberty with certain restrictions, before expiry of his sentence.—season ticket, ticket entitling holder to attend a series of concerts, lectures, etc. or to travel daily between certain specified stations over a certain period of time [O.Fr. etiquet, label].

tickle (tik⁴l) v.t. to touch skin lightly so as to excite nerves and cause laughter; to titillate; to amuse;—v.i. to feel sensation of tickling; to itch; to be gratified.—tick⁴ler n.—tick⁴lish a. difficult to understand or solve; requiring skilful handling.—tick⁴lishly adv.—tick⁴ishness n. [freq. of tick, to touch lightly].

tidbit Same as titbit.

tiddler (tid⁴ler) n. (Colloq.) stickleback.

tiddeley (tid⁴-li) a. (Slang) intoxicated.

tiddeley-winks (tid⁴-li-winkz) n.pl. game in which players try to flick small counters into dice-cup [etym. uncertain].

tide (tid) n. time; season, as in eventide, Easter tide; periodical rise and fall of ocean due to attraction of moon and sun; (Fig.) trend.—to tide over, to manage temporarily; to surmount meantime.—ti⁴dal a. pert. to tide.—tidal basin, harbour which is affected by tides.—tidal wave, mountainous wave as caused by earthquake, atom-bomb explosion, etc.—tide gate n. gate which is opened to let water flow into basin at high tide, and shut to prevent water flowing out at ebb-tide.—tide⁴less a. having no tides.—tide⁴-table n. table giving times, throughout year, of highwater at principal sea-ports of the country.

tide-water n. part of river estuary affected by tides.—tide⁴-way n. channel in which tide sets.—ebb, or low, tide, the falling level of the sea.—flood, or high, tide, the rising level of the sea.—neap tide, minimum tide.—spring tide, maximum tide [O.E. tīd, time].

tidings (ti⁴-dingz) n.pl. news; information [O.N. tíðindi, to happen].

tidy (ti⁴-di) a. neat; orderly; (Colloq.) comfortable; of fair size;—n. chair-back cover; ornamental receptacle on dressing-table, for hair-combings, etc.;—v.t. to put in order; to tidy up.—pa.t. and pa.p. tidied.—tidily adv.—tidiness n. [M.E. tīdy, tidily].

tie (ti) v.t. to fasten by rope, string, etc.; to fashion into knot; to bind together, as rafters, by connecting piece of wood or metal; (Fig.) to hamper; (Mus.) to connect two notes with tie;—v.i. (Sport) to make equal score, etc.—pr.p. tying.—pa.t. and pa.p. tied.—n. knot; necktie; fastening; connecting-link; equality of score; draw; one of series of matches in which losing teams are eliminated, till two remaining winning sides play final match; (Mus.) curved line connecting two notes indicating that sound is sustained for length of both notes; (U.S.) railway-sleeper.—tie⁴-beam n. horizontal timber connecting two rafters.—tie⁴er n. one who ties [O.E. teah, a rope].

tier (tēr) n. row or rank, esp. when two or more rows are arranged behind and above the other [Fr. tier, to draw].

tierce (tērs) n. cask containing third of pipe or 42 wine gallons; cask containing 336 or 304 lbs.; third of canonical hours or service at 9 a.m.; in fencing, particular thrust (third position); (Mus.) two octaves and a third.—tier⁴et n. See tercet [Fr. tiers, third].

tiff (tif) n. slight quarrel. Also tift.—v.t. to be in the buff [etym. uncertain].

tiffany (tif⁴-ni) n. kind of gauze or very thin silk [Gk. Theophania, festival of manifestation of God].

tiffin (tif⁴-in) n. (Anglo-Ind.) lunch.—tiff v.i. to have lunch [fr. E. tiff, draught].

tig (tig) n. children's game in which player chases another until he touches him,—v.t. to touch thus [form of tag].

tiger (ti⁴-ger) n. (fem. ti⁴-gress) fierce carnivorous quadruped of cat tribe, with tawny black-striped coat; (U.S.) jaguar; (S. Afr.) leopard; (of person) first-rate sportsman.—tiger-cat n. wild cat; ocelot or margay.—tigerish a. like a tiger; fierce; rapacious.—tiger-lily n. tall Chinese lily with flaming orange flowers spotted with black.—tiger-moth n. any of the varieties of moths with dark streaked or spotted wings.—tiger-shark n. voracious shark of East Indian waters [Gk. tigris].

tight (tit) a. firm; compact; compressed, not leaky; fitting close or too close to body, neat, tense; restricted for want of money, dangerous; (Colloq.) mean, (Slang) drunk; finicky;—adv. firmly.—tighten v.t. to make tight or tighter, to make taut,—v.i. to become tight or tighter.—tight⁴ener n.—tight⁴ly adv.—tightness n.—tight⁴rope n. a strong, taut rope, or steel wire on which rope-dancers perform.—tight⁴s n.pl. close-fitting woven hose and trunks worn by acrobats, dancers, etc. [O.N. thetr, watertight].

tike (tik) n. a dog; a cur; a boorish fellow; a Yorkshireman [O.N. tík, a cur].

tilde (til⁴-dā) n. the mark () placed over the letter n in Spanish, to indicate a following y sound, as in cañon (cañon).

tile (til) n. a thin piece of slate or baked clay, used for roofs, walls, floors, drains, etc.; (Slang) a silk top-hat;—v.t. to cover with tiles.—til⁴er n. one who makes or lays tiles; the doorkeeper at a Freemasons' lodge; a kiln for firing tiles. Also tyler.—til⁴ery n. a place where tiles are made [L. tegula].

tilka (til⁴-ka) n. the Hindu caste-mark on the forehead [Sansk.].

till (til) n. a money-box or drawer in a shop counter; a cash-register [etym. doubtful].

till (til) prep. as late as; until;—conj. till the time when [M.E. till, up to].

till (til) v.t. to cultivate; to plough the soil, sow seeds, etc.—tillage n. the act of preparing the soil for cultivation; the cultivated land.—til⁴er n. [O.E. tilian, to till].

tilt (til) n. boulder-clay [etym. uncertain].

tilter (til⁴-er) n. a bar used as a lever, esp. for turning a rudder [O.Fr. tilter, a weaver's beam].

tilt (tilt) v.t. to raise one end of; to tip up; to thrust, as a lance; to forge with a tilt-hammer;—v.i. to charge on horseback with a lance, as in a tournament; to heel over;—n. a thrust, as with a lance; a medieval sport in which competitors armed with lances charged each other; a tilt-hammer; inclination forward.—til⁴er n.—tilt-hammer n. a heavy hammer used in iron works and tilted by a wheel.—to run full tilt, to run very rapidly [O.E. teall, tottering].

tilt (tilt) n. a tent; the canvas covering of a cart; a small canvas awning over the stern-sheets of a boat;—v.t. to cover with an awning [O.E. teall, a tent].

tilth (tilth) n. act of tilling; cultivated land [O.E. tilian, to till].

tim (tim) n. the 'speaking clock' which answers the time to telephone subscribers.

timbal (tim-bal) n. kettledrum [Sp. tumbal, a kettledrum].

timber (tim-ber) n. trees felled and prepared as building material; trees collectively; single unit of wooden framework of house; rib of ship;—v.t. to furnish with timber.—timbered a. furnished with timber; built of timber; well-wooded.—timber-line n. tree-line, above which altitude trees will not grow [O.E. timber, material for building a house].

timbre (tam-ber, tim-ber) n. special tonal quality in sound of human voice or instrument [Fr. timbre].

timbrel (tim-bril) n. kind of drum, or tambourine [O.Fr. timbre].

time (tin) n. particular moment; period of duration; conception of past, present, and future, as sequence; epoch; system of measuring duration, as Greenwich time; opportunity; occasion; (Mus.) rhythmical arrangement of beats within measures or bars; pl. period characterised by certain marked tendencies. (Victorian times, term indicating multiplication, as four times four);—v.t. to ascertain time taken, as by racing competitor; to select precise moment for. (Mus.) to measure;—v.i. to keep or beat time.

—time-bomb n. delayed-action bomb.—time-gun n. gun fitted with an electrical device which causes it to fire at a given time.—time-honoured a. revered because of age, venerable.—time-keeper n. one who keeps a record of men's hours of work; clock or watch.—time-lag n. period of time which elapses between cause and its effect.—time-less a. eternal; unending.—timelessly adv.

—time-lit n. time permitted for completion or expiry of anything.—time-lines n. —time ly a. in good time; opportune.—timeous, timous (tim-us) a. (Scotts Law) in good time.—timeously, timously adv.—time-piece n. clock.

—time-r n. a stop-watch.—time-server n. —time-serving n. selfish opportunism.—time-table n. tabulated list of duties; roster; booklet containing times of departure and arrival of trains, buses, steamers, etc.—time-work n. work paid for at so much an hour, or day, opp. to piece-work.—time-worn a. aged; decayed.—tim'ing n. as Greenwich time, British standard time as settled by passage of sun over meridian at Greenwich.—to do time (Slang) to serve sentence of imprisonment.—to mark time, to keep feet moving on one spot; (Fig.) to delay [O.E. tima, time].

timid (tim'id) a. wanting courage; lacking in self-confidence; shy.—timidity n. shyness; diffidence.—tim'idly adv.—tim'idness n.—tim'orous a. frightened; very timid.—tim'rously adv.—tim'orousness n. [L. timidus, faint-hearted].

timocracy (ti-mok'ra-si) n. government in which possession of property is necessary qualification for holders of offices [Gk. time, honour; kraos, power].

timothy (tim'-thi) n. timothy-grass grown for hay, and valued as fodder.

timpano, tympano (tim-pa-no) n. kettledrum, esp. as part of percussion section of orchestra.—pl. tim'pani, tymp'ani [Gk. tumpanum, a kettledrum].

tin (tin) n. soft, whitish-grey metal, very malleable and ductile, used for tin-plating, as constituent of alloys (e.g. pewter, bronze) and for food-containers in canning industry; tin-can; (Slang) money;—a. made of tin or plated with tin;—v.t. to plate with tin; to preserve, as food, in an air-tight tin-plated container.—pr.p. tin'ning,—pa.p. and pa.t. tinned.—tin-foil n. wafer-thin sheets of tin; so-called 'silver-paper'.—tin'-op'ener n. gadget for opening tins containing food, etc.—tinned a. preserved in a tin; plated with tin.—tin'ner, tin'man n. a tin-melter; one who makes tin-plate.—tin'ning n.—tin'ny a. like tin; making a sound like tin when struck.—tin'-plate n. sheet-iron coated with tin, to protect it from oxidation.—tin'-pot a. valueless; trivial.—tin'smith n. worker in tin or tin-plate industry.—tin'type n. (Photog.) ferro-type; positive on varnished tin-plate.—tin'-ware n. utensils, etc. made of tin [O.E. tin, tin].

Tin Pan Alley (tin-pan-a-li) (U.S. Slang) the world of the composers of popular music.

tincture (tingk-tür) n. tinge or shade of colour; (Fig.) faint taste; veneer; (Pharm.) solution of a substance in alcohol;—v.t. to tinge; to imbue; (Fig.) to affect to a small degree [L. tinctura, dyeing].

tinder (tin-dër) n. anything inflammable used for kindling fire from a spark [O.E. tynder, tinder].

time (tin) n. tooth or prong of fork; spike of barrow; branch of deer's antler.—timed a. spiked [O.E. timd, point].

ting (ting) n. sharp, metallic sound, as of bell; tinkle;—v.t. and v.i. to tinkle.—ting-a-ling adv. tinkling repeatedly [imit. l.].

tinge (tinj) v.t. to colour slightly; to imbue; to temper.—pr.p. ting(e)'ing—n. a faint touch [L. tingere, to dye].

tingle (ting-gl) v.t. to feel faint thrill or pricking sensation;—v.t. to ring,—n. pricking sensation [prob. freq. of ting].

tinker (tingk-er) n. mender of pots, kettles, etc., esp. one who travels round countryside; rough and ready worker; (Colloq.) an untidy person;—v.t. to do the work of a tinker.—to tinker away at, to potter about trying to repair things [M.E. tinker, one who makes a sharp sound].

tinkle (tingk-ü) v.t. to cause to make small, quick, metallic sounds; to clink,—v.t. to make series of quick, sharp sounds; to jingle;—n. small, sharp, clinking sound.—tin'king n. [M.E. tinken, to clunk].

tinzel (tin-sel) n. very thin, glittering, metallic sheets, used in strips for decorations, etc.; dress fabric with metallic threads interwoven; (Fig.) anything showy or flashy;—a. gaudy; showy and cheap;—v.t. to decorate with tinzel; to make gaudy.—pr.p. tin'selling pa.t. and pa.p. tin'selled.—tin'selly a. showy; meretricious [Fr. dincelle, a spark].

tint (tint) n. hue or dye; faint tinge; colour with admixture of white;—v.t. to give faint colouring to; to tinge; to stipple [L. tinctus, dyed].

tinnabulation (tin-tin-ab-ü-lä-shun) n. tinkling sound of bells pealing.—tinnab'ulant, tinnab'ular, tinnab'ulary, tinnab'ulous a. [L. tinnare, to jingle].

tiny (ti-ni) a. (comp. ti'ner, superl. ti'niest) very small; diminutive. Also teeny (child's form of word) [etym. uncertain].

tip (tip) n. point of anything small; end;—v.t. to form a point on; to cover tip of.—pr.p. tip'ping,—pa.p. tip'ped,—tip'pos adv. on tips of toes;—v.t. to walk on tips of toes; to walk stealthily.—on tip'sos, quietly; all agog;—tip-staff n. officer carrying metal-tipped staff; constable; staff itself.—tip-top a. highest or utmost degree;—a. first-rate [var. of top].

tip (tip) v.t. to touch lightly; to tap; to tilt; to cant, as liquid; to weigh down, as scales; (Slang) to give useful hint to, esp. about betting odds; to recompense with small gratuity;—v.t. to fall to one side; to give gratuity;—n. light stroke; private information; advice; gratuity; refuse-dump.—tip'ping n. one who sells tips regarding horse-racing, etc.—tip'-titled a. (of a nose) slightly turned up; retrousse.—tip'-up a. (of seats) tilting backwards to allow people room to pass along.—to tip off, to warn [M.E. tipen, to overthrow].

tippet (tip'et) n. short cape of cloth or fur [L. lapele, tapestry].

tipple (tip'pl) v.i. to drink small quantities frequently; to indulge habitually in intoxicating drinks;—v.t. to drink excessively;—n. strong drink.—tip'pler n. [Scand. tippla, to drink little and often].

tipsy (tip'si) a. intoxicated; staggering.—tip'sily adv.—tip'siness n.—tip'sy-sake n. sponge-cake soaked in sherry [fr. tipple].

tirade (ti-rād') n. long denunciatory speech; diatribe; volley of abuse [It. tirata, a drawing out].

tire (tîr) v.i. to weary or fatigue;—v.t. to become wearied, bored, or impatient.—tired a. wearied; bored.—tiredness n.—tireless a. unwearied; indefatigable.—tirelessly adv.—tire'some a. exhausting; dull; provoking [O.E. tiorean, to be tired].

tire (tîr) n. attire; apparel; head-dress;—v.t. to dress.—ti'ring-house or -room n. part of theatre where actors dress [short for attire].

tire, tyre (tîr) n. hoop of iron placed round a wheel; solid rubber hoop round carriage-wheels; outer rubber tube of cycle or motor-car wheel [form of attire].

tiro (ti'rô) n. beginner; novice. Also (incorrectly) ty'ro [L. tiro, recruit].

tisane (ti-zan') n. medicinal tea; infusion of herbs. Also pisian [Fr. fr. Gk. pisiane, barley gruel].

tissue (tish'û) n. fine cloth interwoven with gold or silver or with figured colours; (Biol.) any of cellular structures which make up various organs of plant or animal body; unbroken series; web;—a. made of tissue;—v.t. to make into tissue.—tis'ued a. made of or resembling tissue.—tis'sus-pa'per n. very soft, white or coloured semi-transparent paper [Fr. tissu, fr. L. texere, to weave].

tit (tit) n. small bird, e.g. titmouse [O.N. tittr, a little bird].

tit (tit) n. small blow, as in phrase, tit for tat, blow for blow; retaliation.

tit (tit) n. teat [O.E. tit, a nipple].

Titan (ti'tan) n. (Jem. Titanes) (Gk. Myth.) one of sons of Uranus and Ge (Heaven and Earth); person of magnificent physique or of brilliant intellectual capacity;—a. pert. to Titans; colossal; mighty.—Titan's a. pert. to Titans; epic; colossal.

titanium (ti-tā-ni-um) n. metallic chemical element.—ti'tanian, ti'tan's, ti'tan'il's, ti'tanil'-erous, ti'taneous a. pert. to, or containing, titanium.—ti'tanite n. compound of titanium and silicate of calcium. Also called ephene [fr. titan].

titbit (tit'bit) n. choice morsel. Also tid'bit [Scand. tittr, a small bird].

tithe (tith) n. tenth part; orig. tenth part of produce of land and cattle allotted to upkeep of Church and clergy, later paid in form of tax; small portion;—v.t. to levy a tithe.—ti'ther n. tithe-gatherer [O.E. teotha, tenth].

Titanesque (tish-an-es'k) a. pert. to, or in manner of, Titan, Italian painter.—Ti'tian a. rich asburn; from colour of hair in many portraits by Titian.

tickle (tit'li-lit) v.t. to tickle, usually in sense of stimulating mind, palate, etc.—tickle'sion n. process of tickling; any pleasurable sensation.—tickle'sive a. [L. tillare, to tickle].

titivate (tit'i-vit) v.t. and v.i. (Slang) to put finishing touches to one's general appearance [perh. fr. tidy].

titlark (tit'lark) n. titling; pipit [fr. tit].

title (ti'tl) n. inscription put over, or under, or at beginning of, anything; designation; appellation denoting rank or pre-eminence; that which constitutes just claim or right; (Law) legal proof of right of possession; title-deed.—ti'tled a. having title, esp. aristocratic title.—ti'tle-deed n. document giving proof of legal ownership of property.—ti'tle-leaf, or -page n. page of book on which is inscribed name of book and author.—ti'tle-role n. part in play from which it takes its name [L. titulus, title].

titmouse (tit'mous) n. small bird which builds in holes of trees; tit; tomtit.—pl. ti'tmice [M.E. tit, small; mase, name for several small birds].

titrate (ti'trât) v.t. to determine amount of ingredient in solution by adding quantities of standard solution until required chemical reaction is observed.—ti'tra'tion n. [Fr. titre, title].

titter (tit'gr) v.t. to give smothered laugh; to giggle;—n. giggle; restrained laugh.—ti'tt-er n. [imit.].

title (ti'tl) n. minute particle; whit; jot [L. titulus, superscription, small stroke to indicate contraction]. [manner [imit.].

titup (tit'up) v.t. to prance about in carefree titular (ti'th-lar) a. pert. to or of title; nominal; ruling in name but not in deed.—ti'tularity n.—ti'tularly adv.—ti'tulary a. titular;—n. nominal holder of title [L. titulus, a title].

tnesis (tmô'sis) n. separation of two parts of compound word by one or more interpolated words, as 'from what direction sovereign' [Gk. fr. temnein, to cut].

to (tôo) prep. expressing motion towards; as far as; regarding; unto; upon; besides; compared with; as to; expressing purpose, as in gerundial infinitive; indicating dative case or indirect object; preceding infinitive mood of the verb; (U.S.) involved in;—adv. forward; into customary position; on [O.E. to, to].

toad (tôd) n. amphibian of genus Bufo, resembling frog, but brownish with dry warty skin, and short legs; (Fig.) mean, detestable person.—toad'-in-the-hole n. meat or sausages cooked in batter.—toad'stool n. fungus resembling mushroom, but poisonous.—toad'y n. obsequious flatterer; social parasite;—v.t. to flatter excessively; to fawn on.—pr.p. toad'ying.—pa.t. and pa.p. toad'ied.—toad'yism n. sycophancy [O.E. ludage, a toad].

toast (tôst) v.t. to dry or warm by exposure to fire; to crisp and brown (as bread) before fire, under grill, etc.; to drink to health of, or in honour of;—v.t. to drink a toast;—n. slice of bread crisped and browned on both sides by heat of fire, etc.; orig. piece of toasted bread soaked in wine; person in whose honour toast is drunk; lady whose popularity is acknowledged by frequent toasts in her honour.—toast-er n. one who or that which toasts; electrical table device for toasting bread.—toast'-ing-fork, or -iron n. long-handled fork for toasting bread, etc. at open fire.—toast'-master n. one who formally announces toasts at public function [L. lostin, roasted].

tobacco (to-bak'ô) n. plant of genus Nicotiana, dried leaves of which are used for chewing, smoking, or as snuff.—pl. tobac'os.—tobac'oist n. one who sells tobacco, cigarettes, matches, etc. [Sp. tabaco].

toboggan (to-bog'an) n. sledge used for coasting down snow-clad hill slopes;—v.t. to slide down hills on sledge. Also tobog'an, tobog'gan, tobog'ins.—tobog'ganie n. [Amer.-Ind.].

toby (tôbi) n. small jug in shape of an old man wearing a three-cornered hat [fr. Toby, personal name].

tocoata (tok-kâ'ta) n. (Mus.) composition for organ or piano which tests player's technique and touch [It.].

Too H (toḥ āh) n. society organised to keep alive the spirit of comradeship in the war of 1914-18. Its first meetings were held at Taihot House, Poperinghe.

tocsin (tok-sin) n. alarm-bell or its ringing sound [Fr.].

today (tō-dā) n. this day; present day; adv. on this day; at the present time [O.E. to-dæge, today].

toddle (todḏl) v.i. to walk with short, hesitating steps, as child; (Collog.) to stroll.—toddler n. child just learning to walk (prob. form of toller).

toddy (todḏl) n. fermented juice of certain E. Indian palm-trees; drink of whisky, sugar, and hot water [Hind. tari, juice of palm-tree].

to-do (tō-dōḏ) n. a commotion; a fuss [fr. to and do].

toe (to) n. one of five small digits of foot; forepart of hoof; part of boot, shoe, or stocking covering toes; outer end of head of golf-club;—v.t. to touch or reach with toe.—toe-cap n. additional cap of leather on the toe of boot or shoe.—toed a. having toes [O.E. ta, the toe].

toff (tof) n. (Slang) a dandy; a swell [etym. doubtful].

toffee, toffy (toḏf) n. hard sweetmeat made of sugar, butter, flavouring, etc. boiled together [etym. uncertain].

tog (tog) n. (Slang) dress.—usu. in pl.—v.t. to dress (prob. fr. L. toga, a robe).

toga (tō-ga) n. rom. outer garment worn by Roman citizens.—toga-ted, to g a. wearing a toga [L. fr. tegere, to cover].

together (tō-ge-TH-er) adv. in company; in or into union; simultaneously; in same place [O.E. to, to; geador, together].

toggle (togḏl) n. (Naut.) cigar-shaped bar of wood put through eye of rope, to prevent it slipping through loop of another rope; cross-piece at free end of watch-chain;—v.t. to fix with toggle [etym. uncertain].

toll (toll) v.t. to labour; to move with difficulty;—n. exhausting labour; drudgery; exertion; task.—toller n. one who works hard.—tollful, tollsome a. laborious.—toll-somely adv.—toll-someness n.—toll-worn a. weary with toll; (of hands) hard and lined with toll [O.Fr. louiller, to entangle].

toll (toll) n. a net or snare; mesh.—usu. pl. [Fr. toile, cloth].

toilet (toilet) n. orig. dressing-table or its cover; process of dressing; mode of dressing; a lavatory. Also toilette (two-let).—toll-et-glass n. mirror for dressing-table.—toll-et-pa-per n. thin paper for lavatory use.—toll-et-pow-der n. talcum powder [Fr. toilette, dim. of toile, cloth].

Tokay (tō-kā) n. sweet aromatic wine made at Tokay in Hungary.

token (tō-ken) n. sign; symbol; concrete expression of esteem; card issued with stamp of certain value and exchangeable for goods, as book-token.—to-ken-pay-ment n. deposit paid as token of later payment of full debt [O.E. tecan, symbol].

told (tōld) past and past p. of verb tell.

tolerate (tol-er-āt) v.t. to suffer to be done; to endure.—tol-er-able a. endurable; supportable; passably good.—tol-er-abil-ity, tol-er-able-ness n.—tol-er-ably adv.—tol-er-ance n. forbearance.—tol-er-ant a. forbearing; long-suffering; broad-minded.—tol-er-ant-ly adv.—tol-er-ation n. act of tolerating; practice of allowing people to worship as they please; granting to minorities of political liberty.—tol-er-ator n. [L. tolerare, to bear].

toll (tōl) n. tax, esp. for right to use bridge, ferry, public road, etc.; portion of grain retained by miller as payment for grinding; cross-roads where toll was formerly exacted from travellers.—v.t. to exact toll.—toll-bar n. formerly bar which could be swung across road to stop travellers liable to pay toll.—

toll-booth, tol-booth, n. orig. temporary booth erected for payment of tolls, esp. in market-place; (Scol.) town gaol.—to take toll of, to cause great loss [O.E. toll, tax].

toll (tōl) v.t. to cause to ring slowly, as bell, esp. to signify death;—v.i. to peal with slow, sonorous sounds;—n. sound of bell tolling [M.E. tollen, to pull].

Tom (tom) n. short for Thomas.—tom n. used to denote male animal as tom-cat.—tom-boy n. hoyden; romping, mischievous girl.—tom-fool n. complete fool.—tom-fool-ery n. nonsensical behaviour.—Tom Thumb, midget.

tomahawk (tom-ā-hawk) n. war-hatchet used by N. American Indians;—v.t. to wound or kill with tomahawk [Amer.-Ind.].

tomato (to-mā-tō) n. plant with red or yellow fruit much used in salads.—pl. tomatoes [Sp. tomate].

tomb (tōm) n. a grave; underground vault; stone erected over a grave.—tomb-stone n. stone erected over grave [Gk. tumbos, a sepulchral mound].

tombola (tom-bō-lā) n. kind of lottery [It. fr. tombolare, to tumble].

tome (tōm) n. a book; a large, heavy volume [Gk. tomos, a piece cut off].

tommy (tomḏl) n. bread; rolls; provisions, esp. as formerly given to workmen instead of wages.—Tommy Atkins, British Army private.—tommy's-rot n. (Slang) utter nonsense.—tommy's-shop n. shop providing tommy under tommy-system.

tommy-gun (tomḏ-gun) n. automatic short-barrelled, light machine-gun [fr. inventor General John Thompson].

tomorrow, to-morrow (tōḏ-mor-tō) n. day after today;—adv. on the following day [O.E. to, and morgen, morning].

tompson (tom-pl-on) n. stopper of gun barrel; inking-pad of lithographic printer. Also tom pon [var. of tampoon].

tomtit (tom-tit) n. a small bird, the titmouse [fr. tit as in titmouse].

tom-tom (tom-tom) n. small drum used by Indian and African natives; a gong. Also tam-tam [Hind.].

ton (tun) n. (var. of tun) weight consisting of 20 cwt. or 2240 lb; measure of capacity varying according to article being measured;—pl. (Collog.) great amount or number.—ton-nage n. cubical content (100 cub. ft.) or burden (10 cub. ft.) of ship.—n. tons; duty on ships estimated per ton; shipping collectively assessed in tons. Also ton-nage [O.E. tunne, vat].

ton (tōng) n. fashion; latest mode.—tonish, tony (tō-nish, tō-m) a. very fashionable [Fr.].

tone (tōn) n. quality or pitch of musical sound; modulation of speaking or singing voice; colour-values of picture; (Mus.) one of larger intervals of diatonic scale, smaller intervals being called semitones; (Med.) natural healthy functioning of bodily organs; general character, as of manners, morals, or sentiment; (Gram.) stress on one syllable of word;—v.t. to give tone or quality to; to modify colour or general effect of, as in photograph; to tune (instrument);—v.i. to blend (with).—to-nal a. pert. to tone.—ton-al-ity n. quality of tone or pitch; system of variation of keys in musical composition; colour-scheme of picture.—to-nally adv.—tone-deaf a. unable to distinguish musical intervals.—toned a. having tone.—tone-poem n. descriptive orchestral composition.—to tone down, to modify, as loudness of sound, brilliance of colour, or intensity of feelings, etc.—to tone in, to cause to harmonise;—v.i. to blend (with).

tonka (ton-ga) n. a light, two-wheeled vehicle used in India [Hind.].

tong (tong) n. secret society in China [Chin. t'ang, meeting-place].

tongs (tongz) n. pl. implement consisting of pair of pivoted levers, for grasping, e.g. pieces of coal. [O.E. tange, tongs].

tongue (tung) n. flexible muscular organ in mouth used in tasting, swallowing, and for speech; facility of utterance; language; anything shaped like a tongue; flame; clapper of bell; narrow spit of land; slip of wood fitting into groove;—v.t. to modulate with tongue as notes of flute; to chide;—v.i. to use tongue as in playing staccato passage on flute; to chatter.—tongued a. having a tongue.—tongued n. having tongue defect causing speech impediment; (fig.) speechless through shyness.—tongue-twister n. number of words, usually alliterative, difficult to repeat rapidly.—to hold one's tongue, to be silent. [O.E. tunge].

tonic (ton'ik) a. pert. to tones or sounds; having an invigorating effect, bodily or mentally;—n. a medicine which tones up the system; anything invigorating. (Mus.) a key-note.—tonically adv.—tonicity n.—tonic sol-fa, a system of musical notation in which the sounds are represented by syllables, as doh, rap, me, fah, etc. [Gk. tonos, tension].

tonight, to-night (tō-nit') n. this night; night following this present day;—adv. on this night [fr. to and night].

tonite (tō-nit) n. explosive made of gun-cotton and nitrate of barium [L. tonare, to thunder].

tonnage (tun'ij) n. See ton.

tonneau (ton'ō) n. back portion of body of motor-car [Fr. a cask].

tonsil (ton'sil) n. one of two oval-shaped lymphoid organs on either side of pharynx.—tonsillitis n. inflammation of the tonsils [L. tonsillae, tonsils].

tonsure (ton'shūr) n. act of shaving part of head as token of religious dedication; shaved crown of priest's head.—ton'sor n. barber.—ton'sorial a. pert. to shaving.—ton'sured a. shaven; having a tonsure [L. tonsura, clipping].

tonune (ton'ēn) n. form of joint annuity whereby sum received by subscribers increases as their number decreases, until with death of last survivor the tonune completely lapses.—tonin'er n. [fr. Lorenzo Toni, 17th cent. Italian, the originator].

too (tōō) adv. over; in addition; more than enough; moreover [stressed form of to].

took (tōōk) pa.t. of take.

tool (tōōl) n. implement or utensil operated by hand, or by machinery; cutting or shaping part of a machine; means to an end;—v.t. to cut, shape, or mark with a tool, esp. to chisel stone; to indent a design on leather book-cover, etc. with pointed tool.—tool'ing n. [O.E. tol, a tool].

toot (tōōt) v.t. to cause to sound, as a motor-horn;—n. unmusical sound; hoot.—toot'le n. small toot;—v.t. to blow succession of short, sharp sounds, as on flute, horn, etc. [limit].

tooth (tōōth) n. bone projection in gums of upper and lower jaws of vertebrates, used in mastication; prong as of comb, saw, rake; cog of wheel.—pl. teeth.—v.t. to provide with teeth; to indent; to interlock.—tooth'ache n. pain in teeth.—tooth-brush n. small brush for cleaning teeth.—tooth-comb n. small comb with teeth very close together.—toothed a. having teeth.—tooth'ful n. small glass of spirits.—tooth-glass n. small tumbler for mixing mouth-wash.—tooth-pick n. small pointed quill or stick for removing particles of food lodged between teeth.—tooth'some a. palatable; pleasant to taste.—tooth'y a. having prominent teeth; toothed.—a sweet tooth, fondness for sweet things to eat [O.E. toth, a tooth].

top (top) n. highest part of anything; upper side; highest rank; first in merit, as of examination-candidates; green part above ground of root vegetable; (Naut.) platform surrounding head of lower-mast. Also pl.

tops.—a. highest; most eminent; excellent;—v.t. to cover on the top; to rise above; to cut off top of; to hit, as golf-ball, above centre; to surpass;—v.i. to be outstanding.—pr.p. top'ping.—pa.t. and pa.p. topped.—top'boot n. riding-boot with band of light-coloured leather round the top.—top'coat n. overcoat.—top'ful a. brimming over.—top'hat n. tall silk-hat.—top'heavy a. unbalanced; having top too heavy for base.—top'hole a. (Slang) excellent.—top'most a. supreme, highest.—top'notch a. describing persons of high ability or anything which is super-excellent.—top'per something placed on the top; one who excels. (Slang) top-hat; good sport.—top'ping n. act of lopping off top of something, as highest branches of tree; what is cut off;—a. (Coll.) first-rate.—top'pingly adv.—top'sail n. square sail on top-mast.—top'soil n. surface layer of soil [O.E. top, summit].

top (top) n. child's toy made to spin on its pointed end, by means of a string or by whipping [etym. doubtful].

topaz (tō-paz) n. gem-stone, translucent and of varied colours [etym. uncertain].

tope (tōp) v.t. to drink hard or to excess.—to per n. [Fr. toper, to chinch bargain (or 'wet' it)].

topee (tō-pē) n. cork or pith helmet worn by Europeans in tropical climates. Also topi [Ind. topi, hat].

topia (tō-pi-a) n. mural decoration comprising landscapes, popular in Roman houses.—to'piary a. pert. to landscape gardening; cut into ornamental shapes, as trees, hedges, etc. Also topa'rian.—to'piarist n. [L. topia, ornamental gardening].

topic (tō'pik) n. subject of essay, discourse, or conversation; branch of general subject.—top'ical a. pert. to a place; up-to-date; concerning local matters.—top'ically adv. [Gk. topos, a place].

topography (to-pog'ra-fi) n. description of a place; scientific description of physical features of region.—topog'rapher n.—topograph'ic a.—topograph'ically adv. [Gk. topos, a place; graphein, to write].

topology (to-pol'o-jī) n. use of place-names as an aid to memory, by associating things with particular town or region [Gk. topos, a place; logos, a discourse].

topple (top'pl) v.t. to throw down; to overturn;—v.i. to overbalance [freq. of top].

topsy-turvy (top'si-tur'vi) adv. upside down;—a. turned upside down;—n. disorder; chaos [prob. O.E. top, and tearful, to roll].

toque (tōk) n. small, brimless hat worn by women [Fr.].

tor (tor) n. pointed hill [O.E. torr, a heap].

torch (torch) n. piece of wood or rope soaked in inflammable liquid, and used as portable light.—torch-bearer n. one who carries a torch.—electric torch, small hand-light containing electric battery and bulb, operated by sliding switch [L. torquere, to twist].

to're (tōr) pa.t. of tear.

torreador (tor'e-a-dor') n. bull-fighter [Sp. fr. L. taurus, a bull].

tortment (tor'mēt) n. extreme pain of body; anguish of mind; misery; cause of anguish.—tortment' v.t. to inflict pain upon; to torture; to vex; to tease.—tortment'ly a.—tortment'ing adv.—tortment'er, tortment'er n. (fm. torment) [L. tormentum, instrument of torture].

tor'n (tōrn) pa.p. of tear.

tornado (tor-nā-dō) n. violent gust of wind; whirling progressive wind-storm causing wide-spread devastation.—pl. torna'does [Sp. tronada, thunder-storm].

torpedo (tor-pē-dō) n. cigar-shaped underwater projectile with high explosive charge; type of explosive mine; electric ray, fish which electrocutes its prey.—pl. torpedoes.—v.t. to attack, hit, or sink with torpedoes.—torpe'do-boat n. a small, swift naval vessel armed chiefly with torpedoes.—torpedo-boat destroyer (abbr. T.B.D.) now destroyer, fast warship armed with guns, torpedoes and anti-submarine equipment.—torpedist n. expert in handling and firing torpedoes [L. torpere, to be numb].

torpid (tor'pid) a. numb; lethargic; physically or mentally inert.—torpidity n. inactivity, lethargy.—torpidly adv.—torpidness n.—torpitude n. torpidity.—torpor n. numbness; sluggishness; mental inertia.—torporific a. causing torpor [L. torpere, to be numb].

torque (tork) n. collar of gold wires twisted together, worn by ancient Britons, Gauls, etc. Also torc; (Mech.) rotating force in mechanism.—torqued a. wreathed [L. torquere, to twist].

torrely (tor'e-li) v.t. to scorch; to parch; to roast, as metals.—torrefaction n. [L. torrere, to burn; facere, to make].

torrent (tor'ent) n. swift-flowing stream, downpour, as of rain; (Fig.) rapid flow as of words;—a. rushing.—torrential a. pert to, or resembling torrent; overwhelming.—torrentially adv. [L. torrens, a boiling stream].

torrid (tor'id) a. parched; dried with heat, arid.—torridity, torridness n.—torrid zone, broad belt lying between Tropics of Cancer and Capricorn [L. torrere, to burn].

torsion (tor'shun) n. act of turning or twisting. (Mech.) force with which twisted wire or similar body tends to return to original position.—torsional a.—torsion balance, delicate scientific instrument for measuring minute forces by means of steel wire suspended horizontally at end of very fine wire [L. torquere, to twist].

torso (tor'so) n. trunk of human body; statue with head and limbs cut off [It.].

tort (tort) n. (Law) private injury to person or property for which damages may be claimed in court of law.—tortious a.—tortuously adv. [L. torquere, tortum to twist].

torilla (tor-i'lya) n. round, thin cake of maize, used in Mexico as bread substitute [Sp. dim. of torta, a tart].

toroise (tor'ois or tor'oi-z) n. toothless land reptile or turtle, encased in dome-shaped scaly box-like shell.—toroise-shell n. mottled brown outer shell of hawkbill tortoise used commercially for combs, etc.—a. mottled like tortoise-shell [L. tortua, twisted].

tortuous (tor'tu-us) a. full of twists; crooked; devious, circuitous; deceitful.—tortuosity n.—tortuously adv.—tortuousness [L. tortuosus, fr. torquere, to twist].

torture (tor'tur) n. act of deliberately inflicting extreme pain as punishment or reprisal, esp. to extort information or confession; anguish; torment.—v.t. to put to torture; to inflict agony on.—tor-turer n.—tor-turing a. agonising; causing torment [L. tortura, twisting].

Tory (tor'i) n. member of Conservative party in British politics; orig. supporter of Stuarts in 17th cent.—To-ryism [fr. torunche, a pursuer].

tosh (tosh) n. (Slang) rubbish; nonsense.

toss (tos) v.t. to throw upwards with a jerk; to cause to rise and fall; to agitate violently.—v.i. to be tossed; to roll and tumble; to be restless.—n. fling; sudden fall from horseback; distance anything is tossed.—toss'er n. one who tosses.—tossing n.—toss-pot n. heavy drinker.—a toss-up, spinning of coin to decide issue; even chance.—to toss off, to swallow in one gulp; to execute work easily and quickly [W. lingo, to jerk].

tot (tot) n. anything small, esp. a child; small drinking-cup; a dram [Scand. tottr, dwarf].

tot (tot) v.t. to add; to count up;—n. column of addition (abbr. of total).

total (tô'tal) a. full; complete; utter; absolute;—n. the whole; sum; aggregate.—v.t. to sum; to add;—v.i. to amount to.—totalitarian a. relating to one-party dictatorial form of government.—to'talizer, to'talizer, (Collog.) the tote n. automatic betting-machine at horse and dog races.—totality n. whole sum; entirety.—to'tally adv.—to'talness n. [L. totus whole].

tote (tôt) v.t. to carry; to bear; to transport.—to'ter n. [etym. uncertain].

totem (tô'tem) n. natural object, such as animal or plant, taken by primitive tribe as emblem of their mysterious, hereditary relationship with that object, image of this.—to'tem-pole n. ornamental staff with 'totem' carved on one end [Amer.-Ind.].

totter (tot'ter) v.i. to walk with faltering steps; to sway; to shake; to reel.—tot'ter'er n.—tot'tering a. shaky; insecure.—tot'teringly adv.—tot'tery a. shaky; unsteady [O.E. tætl, unsteady].

toucan (tôô-kân, or tôô-kan) n. bird of Brazil with very long orange beak and black plumage [Braz.].

touch (tuch) v.t. to come in contact with; to finger; to reach; to attain to; to concern; to meddle with; to treat of, superficially; to move deeply; to equal in merit; to play on; (Slang) to borrow from;—v.i. to be in contact; to take effect on;—n. contact; sense of feeling, quality of response in handling of instrument or colour, individual style of execution; unique quality; trace or tinge; test; mild attack; (Football) part of field beyond touch-lines.—touchable a. capable of being touched.—touchableness n.—touch and go, precarious situation.—touch down (Rugby) handling of ball on ground behind goal-line.—touched a. (Slang) crazy.—touch'er n.—touch'ily adv.—touch'iness n.—touch'ing a. emotionally moving; pathetic;—prep. concerning; referring to.—touch'ingly adv.—touch'iness n.—touch-judge n. linesman at rugby match.—touch-line n. side line of rugby—or football-field.—touch stone n. Lydian stone, variety of compact, siliceous schist, used for testing purity of gold and silver by streak impressed by it on stone; (Fig.) criterion; standard of judgment.

—touch'y a. easily offended; hypersensitive.—to touch at (of ships) to call at.—to touch on, to refer to briefly [Fr. toucher, to touch].

tough (tuf) a. flexible but not brittle; not easily broken; firm; difficult to chew; stout-hearted; vigorous; hardy; difficult to solve; (U.S. Slang) vicious;—n. a bully; a gangster.—toughen v.t. to make tough or hardy;—v.i. to become tough.—tough'ish a. rather tough.—tough'ly adv.—toughness n. [O.E. tūh, tough].

toupee (tôô-pô) n. tuft or artificial lock of hair to cover bald patch. Also toup'et [Fr. toupet, a tuft of hair].

tour (tôor) n. journey from place to place in a country; excursion; spell of duty;—v.t. to travel round; to visit as part of tour.—tour'er n. open motor-car. Also tour'ing-car.—tour'ism n.—tour'ist n. one who makes a tour; sightseer [Fr. tour, a turn].

tourmaline (tôôr-ma-lin) n. crystalline mineral; of various colours, and lustrous, it is used for optical instruments, and for gems [fr. Singh. toramall, cornelian].

tournament (tôôr-na-ment) n. mock-fight, common form of contest and entertainment in medieval times; any sports competition or championship.—tour'ney n. a tournament [O. Fr. tournoiment, a turning].

tourniquet (tôôr-ni-kê, or -ket) n. surgical instrument for arresting hæmorrhage by compression; a bandage, pad, or first aid device, tightened and periodically released by means of a small stick or pencil inserted in a knot, and used to arrest bleeding in accidental injury [Fr. fr. tourner, to turn].

touse (tous) v.t. to pull; to haul; to tear;—v.i. to tear about.—tous'er n.—tous'le v.t. to make untidy by pulling, as hair; to dishevel.—tous'led a. untidy.—tous'y a. shaggy; unkempt [conq. with twicele].

tout (tout) v.i. to solicit custom; to cadge for orders;—n. one who pesters people to be customers; hanger-on at racing-stables [O.E. totian, to peep out].

tow (tò) v.i. to drag through water by rope; to pull along with rope;—n. act of pulling; rope used for towing; course fibre of hemp used in rope-making.—towage n. act of or charge for towing.—tow'(ing)-path n. path alongside canal used by horses towing canal barge.—to take in tow, to pull along; (Fig.) to take charge of [O.E. toian, to pull].

toward (tò'ard) towards (tò'ardz) prep. in direction of; near (of time); with respect to; regarding;—adv. nearly; at hand [O.E. toeward, future].

towel (tou'el) n. cloth for drying skin, or for domestic purposes.—towelling n. soft fabric for making towels.—to throw in the towel, to acknowledge defeat [O.H. Ger. tuchan, to wash].

tower (tou'er) n. lofty, round or square stone structure; citadel; fortress;—v.i. to be lofty or very high; to soar; to excel.—towered a. having towers.—towering a. lofty; (Fig.) violent [L. torris, tower].

town (toun) n. collection of houses etc., larger than village; inhabitants of town;—a. pert. to town.—town-clerk n. official in charge of administrative side of town's affairs.—town-council n. group of representatives, elected by ratepayers to manage municipal affairs.—township n. district under administration of town-council; parish.—towns'-people n. inhabitants of town [O.E. tan, an enclosure].

toxicology (tok-si-kol'-o-jì) n. science of poisons, their effects, nature, etc.—toxæ'mia, toxæ'mia, toxæ'mia n. blood-poisoning, caused by absorption into blood of toxins.—toxæ'mic, toxæ'mic a.—tox'ic, -al a. poisonous.—tox'ically adv.—tox'icant a. poisonous;—n. poison.—toxicolog'ical a.—toxico'logist n. one who studies toxicology.—tox'in n. poison usually of bacterial origin [Gk. toxikon, poison].

toxophilite (tok-sof'-i-lit) n. student of, or expert in, archery.—toxophil'ic a. [Gk. toxos, bow; philos, fond of].

toy (tò) n. child's plaything; bauble; trifle;—v.i. to dally; to trifle; [Dut. tuig, tool].

trace (trās) n. mark; footprint; vestige; minute quantity; remains; outline; barely perceptible sign;—v.i. to pass through; to copy or draw exactly; to follow track of; to work out step by step; to form laboriously; to walk or tread;—v.i. to move.—trace'able a. capable of being traced or detected; attributable.—trace'ableness n.—trace'ably adv.—trac'er n. one who traces.—trac'er-bullet or -shell n. bullet or shell, path of which is indicated by trail of smoke or flame.—trac'ery n. ornamental openwork formed in head of Gothic window by the mullions diverging into arches, curves etc.; any delicate and intricate pattern of lines.—trac'ing n. traced copy of drawing.—trac'ing-pa'per n. specially prepared, transparent paper for tracing design, etc. [L. trahere, to draw].

trace (trās) n. strap, rope, chain, by which horse pulls vehicle.—trace-horse n. draught-horse hitched on in front of horse and lorry to draw heavy loads up steep hill [Fr. fr. L. trahere, to draw].

tracheæ (trā'ke-æ, trā-kō-æ) n. windpipe between lungs and back of throat.—pl. trach'æe.—trach'æal a. pert. to the tracheæ.—trach'æotomy n. (Surg.) operation by which opening is made in windpipe [Gk. tracheia (arteria), windpipe, and trachēlos, neck].

track (trak) n. mark left by something; footprint; pathway trodden out by usage; laid-out course for racing; (of railway) permanent way; (of motor-vehicles) distance between road-wheels on one axle; (of aircraft) actual direction along which aeroplane is passing over ground; wheelband of tank or tractor; (Fig.) evidence; trace;—v.i. to follow trail or traces of; to tow as boat by rope from bank;—v.i. (of wheels) to move so that rear wheels follow exactly on track of the front wheels; to move cinema-camera backwards, forwards, or in horizontal line while taking pictures.—trac'ker n. one who or that which tracks, or tows canal boat by rope.—in one's tracks, where one stands.—sound-track n. (Cinema) part of cinematograph film which records sounds accompanying it [O.E. trac, track of horse].

tract (trak't) n. region of indefinite extent; continuous period of time; dissertation; short treatise on practical religion.—tractabil'ity n. quality or state of being tractable.—trac'table a. docile; amenable to reason.—tractableness n.—tract'ably adv.—trac'tile a. capable of being drawn out; (of metals) ductile.—trac'tility n.—trac'tion n. act of drawing solid body along a plane.—trac'tional a.—trac'tion-en'gine n. locomotive, steam-driven, for haulage.—trac'tive a. having power to haul heavy loads; pulling.—trac'tor n. traction-engine; motor-vehicle for drawing agricultural machinery [L. trahere, tractum, to draw].

Tractarian (trak'tār-i-an) n. one of the writers of Tracts of the Times, published at Oxford in 1830's and 1840's.—Tractar'ianism n. doctrine advocating breaking away from extreme Protestant rationalism of Anglican Church, and return to ritualism and sacramental emphasis of early Catholic Church; Oxford Movement [fr. tract].

trade (trād) n. the business of buying and selling; commerce; barter; occupation, esp. in industry, shopkeeping, etc.; employees collectively in a particular trade; vocation;—v.i. to carry on a trade; to engage in commerce;—v.i. to exchange.—trade'mark n. registered name or device on maker's goods.—trade-name n. registered name given by manufacturer to proprietary article.—trade-price n. price of commodities as sold by wholesalers to retailers.—trad'er n. merchant (wholesale or retail); trading-vessel.—trade'-show n. preview of a film shown to cinema managers, press critics, etc.—trades'man n. shopkeeper; skilled workman.—trade'-union, trades'-union n. legally recognised association of workmen, clerks, etc. for purpose of securing their rights, safe-guarding wage-scales, and preventing exploitation by employers.—trades'-unionist n. member of trade-union.—trade'-wind n. one of two prevailing winds which blow steadily between the tropics and the Equator; in Northern Hemisphere it is N.E. wind, in Southern Hemisphere, S.E.—trading n.—to trade on, to exploit [O.E. trædan, to tread].

tradition (trā-dish'un) n. belief, custom, narrative, etc. transmitted by word of mouth from age to age; religious doctrine not recorded in writing, but preserved orally from generation to generation.—traditional, tradit'ionary a. handed down from age to age [L. tradere, to hand over].

traduce (trā-dūs) v.i. to defame the character of; to calumniate.—traduce'ment n. calumny.—tradu'cer n. a slanderer [L. traducere, to lead along].

traffic (traf'ik) n. commerce; barter; illegal buying and selling, as drug-traffic; movement of people, vehicles, etc. to and fro, in streets; coming and going of ships, railway-trains, aircraft, etc.; people, vehicles, etc. collectively in any given area;—v.i. to carry on trade; to do business, esp. illegally;—v.i. to barter.—pr.p. traff'icking—pa.p. and pa.p. traff'icked—traff'icator n. movable arrow-indicator by which motorist signals intention to turn left or right.—traff'icker n.—traff'ic-lights n.pl. indicator fitted with red, amber and green lights erected at street crossings to control traffic [Fr. trafiquer, to traffic].

tragedy (traj'ē-di) n. serious and dignified dramatic composition in prose or verse with unhappy ending, principal characters being victims of circumstance, environment, or of fatal flaw in character; sad or calamitous event.—tragedian n. actor in or writer of tragedy.—tragedienne n. fem.—tragic, -al a. pert. to tragedy; distressing; calamitous.—tragically adv.—tragic irony, use in tragedy of words which convey a deeper meaning to audience than to speaker.—form of dramatic irony.—trag-i-com'edy n. drama combining tragedy and comedy (Gk. tragos, goat; aeidein, to sing.—prob. because actors wore goat skins, or goat was prize).

trail (träl) v.i. to draw along ground or through water; to drag; to follow track of; to carry rifle loosely in hand, parallel with ground; to make a track by treading the ground;—v.t. to dangle loosely, touching ground; to grow to great length as plant; to drag one foot wearily after other;—n. track followed by hunter; visible track left by anything; scent of hunted animal; anything drawn to length; part of gun-carriage which rests on ground during firing; mode of carrying rifle at trailing position; tail of meteor.—trailer n. vehicle towed by another; (Cinema) advance excerpt shown as advertisement of coming film.—trailing edge (aero.) rear-edge of aircraft's wing [O.Fr. trailer, to tow a boat].

train (trän) v.i. orig. to entice; to draw along; to discipline; to instruct or educate; to submit person to arduous physical exercise, etc. for athletics; to teach animal to be obedient, to perform tricks, or compete in races; to cause plant to grow in certain way; to turn, as gun, in a certain direction, before firing;—v.t. to exercise body or mind to achieve high standard of efficiency;—n. retinue; procession of people; line of carriages drawn by locomotive on railway-track; trailing back-folds of lady's evening dress; string of pack-animals; sequence of events, ideas, etc.; trail of gunpowder to lead fire to explosive charge.—train-band n. body of citizens trained for home defense, established in London in 14th cent.—train-bearer n. one who carries train of high official's robe, bride's dress, etc.—trained a. skilled; proficient; fully qualified.—trainee n. one who is training to be a skilled worker, esp. in industry.—trainer n. one who supervises training of athletes, horses, dogs, etc.—training n.—training-college, n. for instruction in practice and theory of teaching.—training-ship n. vessel for training boys in seamanship.—to put in train, to set things going; to make necessary preparations [O.Fr. trahier, to drag].

train-oil (trän'oil) n. oil extracted from blubber of whales (O.Dut. traen, whale oil). trait (trä or trät) n. distinguishing feature, esp. in character; (rare) stroke; touch [Fr. trait, a feature].

traitor (trä'tor) n. (fem. trait'ress) one who betrays person, country, or cause.—traitorous a. guilty of treachery; pert. to treason or to traitors.—trait'rously adv. [L. tradere, to hand over].

traject (tra-jekt') v.t. to throw across; to cast through.—tra'ject n. ferry.—tra-jection n. crossing; act of throwing across.—trajectory n. curve of projectile in its flight through space [L. trans, across; jacere, to throw].

tram (train) n. tramcar; public vehicle running on rails on roadway; truck, tub, etc. running on rails;—v.t. to convey by tram;—v.i. to travel by tram.—tram-line n. one of two rails on roadway on which tramcar runs;—pl. (Colloq.) parallel lines down sides of tennis-court.—tram-way n. system for transport of passengers by tramcars (etym. doubtful).

trammel (tram'gl) n. long net for catching birds or fishes; shackle for training horse to walk slowly; anything which impedes movement;—v.t. to impede; to hinder; to confine.—pr.p. tramm'elling.—pa.p. tramm'elled [O.Fr. tramai, a net].

tramp (tramp) v.t. to tread heavily; to walk over or through;—v.i. to go on a walking tour; to plod; to wander as vagrant;—n. homeless vagrant; a long walk; cargo-boat with no regular route.—tramp'er n. [M.E. trampen, to tramp].

trample (tram'pl) v.t. to tread heavily underfoot; (fig.) to oppress; to treat with contempt;—v.i. to tread rapidly;—n. act of trampling.—tramp'ler n. [freq. of tramp].

trampolinist (träm-pul-in'list) n. a gymnast or circus performer who uses a spring-board [It. trampolino, a spring-board].

trance (trans) n. state of complete insensibility, due to morbid nervous condition, or produced by hypnotism; condition in which human soul passes from body into another state of being; ecstasy [O.Fr. trance, a swoon].

tranquil (trang'kwil) a. calm; serene; undisturbed.—tranquillity n. state of being tranquil; serenity; composure (of mind).—tran'quillness n. [L. tranquillus].

trans- (trans, trans) pref. meaning across, beyond, on the other side of [L. trans, across].

transact (trans-akt') v.t. to carry through; to negotiate;—v.t. to do (business).—

transac'tion n. act of transacting business;—pl. records of, or lectures delivered to, a society.

transalpine (trans-al'pin) a. north of Alps (as from Rome). [Atlantic.

transatlantic (trans-at-lan'tik) a. across the Atlantic.—transcend (trans-send') v.t. to go beyond; to excel; to surpass.—

transcend'ence, transcend'ency n. quality of being transcendent. (Theol.) supremacy of God above all human limitations.—transcend'ent a. supreme in excellence; surpassing all; beyond all human knowledge.—transcend'ental a. abstruse; mystical; intuitive.—transcend'entalism n.—transcend'entalist n.—transcend'entalistly adv. [L. trans, across; scandere, to climb].

transcontinental (trans-kon-ti-nen'tal) a. crossing a continent.

transcribe (trans-skrib) v.t. to copy out; to write over again; to reproduce in longhand or typewritten notes taken in shorthand; (Mus.) to rearrange composition for another instrument or voice.—transcrib'er n.—transcrip't n. that which is transcribed; written copy.—transcrip'tion n. act of copying; transcript.

transect (trans-sekt') v.t. to cut transversely. trans'ect (trans-sept) n. transverse portion of church at right angles to nave [L. septum, enclosure].

transfer (trans-fer') v.t. to move from one place to another; to transport; to remove; to pass an impression from one surface to another, as in lithography, photography, etc.; to convey, as property, legally to another.—pr.p. trans'fer'ring.—pa.t. and pa.p. trans'ferred.—trans'fer n. removal from one place to another.—trans'ferability, trans'feribility n.—trans'ferable, trans'ferible a. capable of being transferred; valid for use by another.—trans'ference n. the act of transferring; in psycho-analysis, redirection of emotion, when under analytical examination, towards the analyst.—thought-trans'ference n. telepathy.—trans'fer or transfer n. [L. trans, across; ferre, to bear].

transfigure (trans-fig'ür) v.t. to change outward appearance of; to make more beautiful or radiant.—transfigu'ration n. change of form.—The Transfiguration, miraculous outward transformation of Christ when on the Mount with Peter, James and John (Matth. 17); festival on Aug. 6th commemorating this.

transfix (trans-fiks') v.t. to pierce through; to impale; (Fig.) to astound; to stun.

transform (trans-form') v.t. to change form, nature, character, or disposition of; to transmute;—v.i. to be changed.—transformable a. capable of being changed.—transformation n. change of outward appearance or inner nature.—transformator, transformer n. one who or that which transforms; an electrical device for changing voltage up or down.—transforming a. [L. transformare, to change].

transfuse (trans-füz') v.t. to pour, as liquid, from one receptacle into another; (Med.) to transfer blood from one person to vein of another in same blood-group; (Fig.) to imbue.—transfusion n. [L. trans, across; fundere, fustum, to pour].

transgress (trans-gräs') v.t. to overstep a limit; to violate law or commandment;—v.i. to offend by violating a law; to sin.—transgression n. act of violating civil or moral law; offence; crime.—transgressor n. [L. transgredi, transgressus, to step across].

tranship (trans-ship') v.t. to convey or transfer from one ship to another.

transient (trans-zi-ent) a. fleeting; ephemeral; momentary; not permanent.—transience, transiency n. the quality of being transient.—transiently adv. [L. trans, across; ire, to go].

transit (trans-zit) n. the act of conveying; conveyance; (Astron.) apparent passage of celestial body across meridian of a place, or of a smaller planet across disc of larger.—transit-duty n. charge payable on goods in cross-country transit.—transit'ion n. passage from one place to another; change from one state or condition to another; (Mus.) passing directly from one key to another.—transitional, transitory a.—transitionally adv.—trans'itive a. having power of passing across; (Gram.) denoting verb the action of which passes on to direct object, as he broke his leg.—trans'itively adv.—trans'itiveness n.—trans'itorily adv.—trans'itoriness n. state of being transitory.—trans'itory a. continuing for a brief while only; ephemeral; transient.—in transit, phrase used of goods during period between leaving factory, shop, etc. and being received by retailer, purchaser, etc. [L. transitus, a passing across].

translate (trans-lät') v.t. to remove from one place to another; to appoint bishop to different see; to convey to Heaven without death of physical body; to change from one medium to another; to turn from one language to another;—v.i. to be capable of translation.—translation n.—translator n. [L. transferre, translatum, to carry over].

transliterate (trans-lit-é-rät') v.t. to write words of language in alphabetic symbols of another.—transliteration n.—transliterator n.

translucent (trans-lóo-sent) a. semi-transparent; diffusing light but not revealing definite contours of object, as frosted glass.—translucence, translucency n.—translucently adv.—trans'lucid a. translucent [L. trans, across; lucere, to shine].

transmigrate (trans-mi-grät') v.t. to pass from one country to another as permanent residence; (of soul) to pass at death into another body or state.—transmigration n.—transmigrator n.—transmigratory a.

transmit (trans-mit') v.t. to send from one person or place to another; to communicate; to hand on, as by heredity.—pr.p. transmitting.—pa.p. and pa.p. transmitted.—transmissibility n.—transmissible, transmittible a. capable of being transmitted.—transmission n. act of sending from one place or person to another; in motoring, gear by which power is transmitted from engine to live axle; (Radio), radiation of ether waves by transmitting station; the relaying of a broadcast.—transmission n. transmission.—transmission n.—transmitter n. one who or that which transmits; apparatus for transmitting wireless waves through space [L. trans, across; mittere, to send].

transmogrify (trans-mog-ri-fi') v.t. (Colloq.) to transform completely, as by magic.—transmogrification n. [coined word].

transmontane (trans-mon-tän') a. across, or beyond, the mountains.

transmute (trans-müt') v.t. to change from one nature, species, form, or substance into another.—transmutable a. capable of being changed in form.—transmutableness n.—transmutability n.—transmutably adv.—transmutant a.—transmutation n. act or process of transforming; alteration, esp. biological evolution of one species into another; in alchemy, supposed change of base metals into gold; (Geom.) reduction of figure or area to another having same superficial extent or solidity.—transmutative, transmuter n. [L. trans, across; mutare, to change].

transom (trans-um) n. horizontal mullion or cross-bar in window; lintel; beam across stern-post of ship; any horizontal strut to give support [L. transum, cross-beam].

transparent (trans-pär-ent) a. that may be distinctly seen through; pervious to light; clear; (Fig.) ingenuous; obvious.—transparency, transparency n.—transparently adv.—transparency n. [L. trans, across; parere, to appear].

transpire (trans-spír') v.t. to emit through pores of skin;—v.i. to exhale; (Bot.) to lose water by evaporation; (Fig.) to come out by degrees; wrongly used as a synonym for to happen.—transpiration n. [L. trans, across; spirare, to breathe].

transplant (trans-plánt') v.t. to remove and plant elsewhere; (Surg.) to graft live tissue from one part of body to another.—transplantable a.

transpontine (trans-pon-tín) a. lit. across the bridge; pert. to part of London on Surrey side of Thames; (of style) melodramatic, as supposedly characteristic of third-rate theatre shows in that district [L. trans, across; pons, a bridge].

transport (trans-pört') v.t. to convey from one place to another; to banish, as criminal, to penal colony; (Fig.) to overwhelm emotionally.—transport n. transportation; conveyance of people or commodities; vehicles collectively used in conveyance of passengers; a troop-ship; (Fig.) passion; ecstasy.—transportable a. capable of being conveyed.—transportation n. act of transporting from place to place; banishment, for felony.—transported a. (Fig.) carried away with emotion [L. trans, across; portare, to carry].

transpose (trans-pöz') v.t. to change respective place or order of two things; to alter order of words; (Mus.) to change key of a composition.—transposeable a.—transposal n. change of order.—transposition n. act of putting one thing in the place of another; substitution; (Mus.) raising or lowering of key of a composition [L. trans, across; ponere, to place].

trans-ship Same as tranship.

transubstantiate (trans-sub-stan-shi-ät') v.t. to change into another substance.—transubstantiation n. doctrine held by R.C. Church that the 'whole substance' of the bread and wine in the Eucharist is, by reason of its consecration, changed into flesh and blood of Christ, the appearance only of the bread and wine remaining the same [L. trans, across; substantia, substance].

transude (trans-üd') v.t. to pass through pores of substance; to perspire.—pr.p. transuding [L. trans, across; sudare, to sweat].

transuranic element (trans-ü-rä-nik) n. any element with atomic number exceeding that of uranium, e.g. neptunium, plutonium, etc. [trans+uranium+ic].

transverse (trans-ver'se) a. lying in cross-wise direction;—adv. cross-wise.—transverse n. line which cuts across, esp. parallel lines.—transversely adv. [L. trans, across; vertere, versum, to turn].

trap (trap) n. device, mechanical or otherwise, for catching animals, vermin, etc.; snare; U-shaped bend in pipe which, by being always full of water, prevents foul air or gas from escaping; light two-wheeled carriage; (Fig.) stratagem; deliberate plot to catch person unawares.—v.t. to catch in a snare, or by stratagem.—pr.p. trapping.—pa.p. trapped.—trap-door n. hinged door in floor, or leading to left.—trapper n. one who traps animals, esp. for their pelts [etym. uncertain].

trap (trap) n. one of several dark-coloured igneous rocks, so called because of resemblance in the mass, to a flight of stairs.—trap-pan, trap-pous, trap-py a. [Scand. trappa, a flight of stairs].

trap (trap) horse-cloth; trapping;—pl. one's belongings, luggage, etc.;—v.t. to adorn.—trap-pings n.pl. ornaments, gay coverings, esp. those on horse in olden times [Fr. drap, cloth].

trapan (tra-pan) v.t. to ensnare; to catch by deception.—pr.p. trapan'ing.—pa.t. and pa.p. trappaned.—n. (trick, snare. Also trapan [prob. fr. trap, snare].

trape (trāp) v.t. to trail along.—trapes n. a slut; a vagrant.—trapes, trapse v.t. to walk about idly [perh. fr. trapp].

trapezium (tra-pe-z'ium) n. quadrilateral with only one pair of sides parallel, (Anat.) one of bones of wrist.—pl. trape'zia, trape'ziums.—trapeze n. apparatus comprising horizontal cross-bar swing for gymnastics, acrobatic exhibitions, etc.—trap-oid n. quadrilateral with none of its sides parallel.—trapezoid'al a. [Gk. trapezon, a little table].

Trappist (trap-ist) n. member of Cistercian order of monks, founded orig. at Abbey of La Trappe, Orne, France, noted for austerity of its rules which include vow of perpetual silence.

trash (trash) v.t. to lop off, as branches, leaves, etc.—n. worthless refuse; rubbish; loppings of trees; bruised sugar-canes, etc.—trash-ry n. trash.—trash-ily adv. trash'iness n.—trash-y a. worthless, cheap, shoddy [prob. Scand. tras, twigs for fuel].

trass (tras) n. volcanic earth mixed with cement to give it strength [Dut. tras].

trauma (trau'ma) n. (Med.) bodily injury caused by violence; nervous shock (psychic trauma);—pl. trauma'ta.—traumat to a. [Gk. trauma, a wound].

travail (trau-vā) n. painful, arduous labour; pains of childbirth.—v.t. to labour with difficulty; to suffer pangs of childbirth [Fr. travail, labour].

trave (trāv) n. beam; frame in blacksmith's shop to keep horse steady during shoeing process [L. trabs, beam].

travel (trav'el) v.t. to journey over; to pass;—v.t. to move; to journey on foot or in a vehicle; to tour, esp. abroad.—pr.p. trav'elling.—pa.t. and pa.p. travelled.—n. act of travelling; journey, touring, esp. abroad; in motoring, distance a component is permitted to move;—pl. prolonged journey, esp. abroad; book describing traveller's experiences and observations.—travelled a. having sojourned extensively, esp. abroad.—trav'-eller n. one who travels widely; an employee of business company who travels in certain area soliciting orders for his firm. Also commercial traveller.—traveller's cheque, cheque issued by bank and payable at any branch of that bank in area visited by the traveller.—traveller's joy, clinging plant, species of wild clematis.—travelling a. mobile.—trav'-elope n. travel-lecture illustrated by lantern slides, film, etc.; geographical film (a form of trav'el).

H.O.D.

traverse (trav'ers) a. lying across; built crosswise; sailing in zig-zag fashion;—n. anything set across; a partition; (Archit.) barrier, movable screen, or curtain; (Geom.) line or plane intersecting other lines or planes; gallery across church; course cut across face of precipice;—v.t. to cross; to thwart; to obstruct; to survey scientifically; to rake with gun fire from end to end; to pivot laterally; to discuss, as topic, from every angle;—v.t. to turn, as on pivot; to walk sideways;—adv. athwart; crosswise.—traversable a. capable of being traversed.—trav'erser n. [L. trans, across, vertere, versum, to turn].

travesty (trav'es-ti) n. burlesque imitation of a work; parody;—v.t. to make a burlesque version of; to caricature [Fr. travestir, to disguise].

trawl (trawl) v.t. to catch fish with a trawl;—v.t. to drag with a trawl;—n. trawl-net, shaped like a large bag with one end open.—trawler n. one who fishes with a trawl; fishing-vessel which uses a trawl-net.—trawling n. [O.Fr. trawler, to drag].

tray (trā) n. flat, shallow, rimmed vessel used for carrying dishes, food, or letters; a silver [O.E. træg, a trough].

treachery (trech'ur-i) n. violation of allegiance or faith; treason; perfidy.—treach'rous a. disloyal, perfidious.—treach'rously adv. [O.Fr. trechier, to deceive].

treacle (treck) n. thick dark-brown syrup which drains from sugar during refining; molasses.—treacly a. like treacle; sweet, thick and sticky [Fr. fr. Gk. thériake, antidote to poisons].

tread (tred) v.t. to walk; to move with stately or measured step; (of fowls) to copulate; to crush or step on by mistake;—v.t. to step or walk on; to crush with foot; to oppress; to operate with foot, as treadle.—pr.p. treading.—pa.t. trod.—pa.p. trod or trodden.—n. act of stepping; pace; that which one steps on, as surface of horizontal step of flight of stairs; wear and tear on carpet, sole of boot or shoe; part of a rubber tyre in contact with ground.—treading n.—treadle n. part of machine operated by foot; pressure, as sewing-machine, harmonium, etc.; pedal.—v.t. to work treadle.—tread'ler n.—tread mill n. mill worked by persons treading upon steps on periphery of a wheel, once disciplinary exercise for inmates; (Fig.) drudgery.—to tread on a person's toes or corns, to offend his sensibilities [O.E. tridan, to tread].

treason (trē'zn) n. disloyalty; treachery.—treasonable a. pert. to or t. solving treason.—treasonableness n.—treasonably adv.—treasonous a. treasonable.—high treason, violation by subject of allegiance to sovereign or State [O.Fr. trayson, betrayal].

treasure (trez'ūr) n. accumulated wealth; hoard of valuables; that which has great worth.—v.t. to hoard; to collect, to value; to cherish, as friendship.—treas'-ure-chest n. box for storing valuables.—treas'-ure n. person appointed to take charge of funds of society, church, club, etc.—treas'-ure-ship n.—treas'-ure-trove n. any money, bullion, treasure, etc., of unknown ownership, found buried, which becomes property of Crown.—treas'-ury n. place where treasure hoarded wealth, or public funds are deposited; (Fig.) storehouse; facts and information; anthology.—Treas'-ury n. government department which controls management of public revenues.—treas'-ury-note n. currency note for £1 or 10s. [Fr. trésor, treasure].

treat (trēt) v.t. to handle; to entertain with food or drink; to pay for another's entertainment or refreshment; to behave towards; to apply a remedy to; to subject, as a substance, to chemical experiment; to consider as a topic for discussion; to discourse on;—v.t. to

- discourse; to come to terms of agreement, as between nations; to give entertainment; —n. entertainment given as a celebration or expression of regard; something that gives special pleasure; (Colloq.) one's turn to pay for another's entertainment.—treas'er n.—treas'ing n. act of standing treat.—treas'ise n. dissertation on particular theme.—treas'ment n. act or mode of treating person or subject; method of counteracting disease or of applying remedy for injury.—treas'y n. a negotiated agreement between states; a pact [L. tractare, to handle].
- treble (treb⁴) a. threefold; triple; (Mus.) playing or singing highest part;—n. highest of four principal parts in music; soprano part; soprano voice;—v.t. to multiply by three;—v.i. to become three times as much.—pa.p. treb'led.—treb'ly adv. [L. triplus].
- treddle (tred⁴) n. See troad.
- tree (trē) perennial plant, having trunk, bole, or woody stem with branches; anything resembling cross-like form of tree; cross of Christ;—v.t. to chase up a tree; to corner.—tree'less a. devoid of trees; bare.—tree'-top n. uppermost branches of tree.—boot-tree n. foot-shaped mould for preserving shape of boot (shoe).—family tree, genealogical table of ancestry [O.E. treow, tree].
- trefoil (trē-fōil) n. plant of genus Trifolium, with leaves comprising three leaflets; clover; (Archit.) ornament of three cusps in circle resembling three-leaved clover [L. tres, three; folium, leaf].
- trek (trek) v.i. to travel by ox-wagon; to migrate, esp. a large body of people; (Slang) to decamp;—n. journey by ox-wagon; mass-migration.—trek'ker n. [Dut. trekken, to draw].
- trellis (trell'is) n. light-weight lattice structure of spars for screens, doors, and as frame for climbing-plants.—trell'ised a.—trell'is-work n. lattice-work [L. triliiz, three-ply].
- tremble (trem⁴b) v.i. to shake involuntarily from fear, cold, old age, etc.; to quiver; to quake;—n. involuntary shaking; quiver; tremor.—trem'bler n. one who or that which trembles; (Elect.) automatic device for breaking circuit; electric bell. Also trem'bler-bell.—trem'bling n. state or action of quivering.—trem'blingly adv.—trem'bly a. shaky;—adv. shakily.—trem'ulant, trem'ulous a. quivering; quaking.—trem'ulously adv.—trem'ulousness n. [L. tremere, to shake].
- tremendous (tre-men⁴dus) a. awe-inspiring; overwhelming; formidable; momentous; (Colloq.) great.—tremen⁴dously adv.—tremen⁴dousness n. [L. tremere, to tremble].
- tremolando (trem-ō-lan⁴dō) adv. (Mus.) tremulously.—trem'ole n. quivering of singing voice; device on pipe-organ to produce throbbing sound.—trem'ulant n. organ-device to procure tremolo effect. Also trem'ulant [It.].
- tremor (trem⁴or) n. involuntary quiver; a momentary thrill; shaking, as caused by earthquake.—trem⁴orless a. steady [L.].
- tremulous See tremble.
- trench (trensh) n. to cut or dig, as a ditch; to turn over soil by digging deeply; to fortify with ditch using earth dug out for rampart;—v.t. to encroach;—n. ditch; deep ditch or parapetwork formed by earth piled up, as breast to protect soldiers from enemy fire.—tren⁴shancy n. quality of being trenchant.—tren⁴chant, tren⁴ching a. sharp, as a blade; (Fig.) caustic; biting.—tren⁴ch-coat n. knee-length waterproof coat worn in trenches, as in World War I.—tren⁴cher n. one who digs trenches.—tren⁴ching n.—tren⁴ch-mortar n. short range mortar for hurling bombs, etc. into enemy trenches [O.Fr. trencher, to cut].
- trencher (tren⁴sher) n. formerly wooden plate for holding food; table; bread-board; (Fig.) pleasures of eating.—tren⁴cher-cap (or tren⁴cher)
- n.* college or university cap, with flat, square board on top.—a good trencherman, one who has hearty appetite [O.Fr. trenchoir, platter].
- trend (trend) v.i. to run or stretch in a certain direction;—n. inclination; tendency [O.E. trendin, to make round].
- trepan (tre-pan⁴) See trapan.
- trepan (tre-pan⁴) n. (Surg.) cylindrical saw for removing circular piece of bone from skull, to relieve pressure on brain;—v.t. to operate with trepan.—trepan⁴ation, trepan⁴ing n. [Gk. trapanon, borer].
- trepan (tre-pang⁴) n. sea-slug, dried and used by Chinese for food [Malay].
- trepid (trep⁴id) a. quaking.—trepida⁴tion n. involuntary trembling; alarm; fluster [L. trepidus, trembling].
- trespass (tres⁴pas) v.t. to cross unlawfully boundary line of another's property; to intrude; to encroach; to violate moral law;—n. trespasser n. [L. trans, across; passus, a step].
- tress (trew) n. lock, curl, plait, or strand of hair; ringlet;—v.t. to form into ringlets or plaits; to braid.—tressed a. having tresses [O.Fr. tresser, a lock of hair].
- restle, restless (tres⁴l) n. movable wooden frame consisting of two pairs of braced legs fixed underneath horizontal bar, used to support planks, table, platform, etc.; similar metal or stone construction supporting a bridge [O.Fr. trestel, a cross-beam].
- trews (trōoz) n.pl. trousers, esp. of tartan cloth, as worn by soldiers of some Highland regiments [Gael. truibhas].
- tri- (tri) prefix meaning three, thrice, threefold [L. res, Gk. treis, tria, three].
- triad (tri⁴ad) n. union of three, (Chem.) trivalent atom; (Mus.) the common chord, one of three notes; poem with triple grouping, common in Celtic literature.—triad⁴ic a.—triad⁴ist n. writer of triads [Gk. trias, group of three].
- trial (tri⁴al) n. act of trying, testing, or proving properties of anything; experimental examination; affliction; judicial examination in law-court of accused person; temptation [fr. try].
- dialogue (tri⁴a-log) n. conversation involving three persons.
- triangle (tri⁴ang-g) n. (Math.) figure bounded by three lines and containing three angles; anything shaped like a triangle; set-square; (Mus.) small percussion instrument consisting of a bar of steel bent in shape of triangle and struck with small steel rod.—triangled a.—triang⁴ular a. having three angles, shaped like triangle.—triangularity n.—triangularly adv.—the eternal triangle, three persons, two of them husband and wife, and the third the lover of one of them.
- triarchy (tri⁴ar-ki) n. government by three persons; a state so governed.
- Trias (tri⁴as) n. (Geol.) system of rocks formed during geological period intermediate between Permian and Jurassic, composed of three layers or strata; new red sandstone of British Isles.—trias⁴ic a. [Gk. trias, a group of three].
- triatonic (tri⁴a-ton⁴ik) a. consisting of three atoms; having valency of three.
- tribe (trib) n. family, race, or succession of generations descending from same progenitor; nation of barbarian clans each under one leader; group of plants or animals within which members reveal common characteristics; (Colloq.) very large family.—trib⁴al a.—trib⁴alism n. tribal feeling; clanishness.—trib⁴ally adv.—tribes⁴man n. one of a tribe [L. tribus, one of three divisions of Roman people].
- tribulation (trib-ū-lā⁴shun) n. severe affliction; prolonged suffering, esp. of mind [L. tribulum, instrument for threshing corn].
- tribune (trib⁴une) n. in ancient Rome, magistrate chosen by the people to defend their rights; champion of the masses; a raised platform or pulpit.—tribunal n. bench on which judge or magistrates sit; court of justice.—tribunary a.—tribunate, tribune-ship n. office or functions of tribune [L. tribus, a tribe].

tribute (trib'út) n. pre-arranged payment made at stated times by one state to another as price of peace and protection, contribution; personal testimony to achievements or qualities of another.—tributarily adv.—tributary a. paying tribute; subordinate; contributory; (of river) flowing into main river;—n. state liable for tribute; stream flowing into larger river [L. tribuere, to assign].

trice (tris) n. moment; orig a pulley; haul—hence, in a trice, in an instant, orig. at one haul [O.Dut. trisen, to hoist].

tricennial (tri-sen'i-ál) a. pert. to thirty years; occurring once every thirty years [L. tricennium, thirty years].

tricentenary (tri-sen'te-ná-ri) n. space of three hundred years; three-hundredth anniversary. Also tercen'tenary.

triceps (tri'seps) a. three-headed;—n. three-headed muscle as at back of upper arm [L. tres, three; caput, the head].

tricho- (tri'ko) pref. fr. Gk. thriz, trichos, hair.
trichology (tri-kol'ó-jí) n. expert study of hair and diseases affecting it.

trichosis (tri-kó'sis) n. any disease affecting the hair, (Zool.) hair distribution.

trichotomous (tri-kot'ó-mus) a. divided into three or three parts.—trichotom'ic.—trichotomously adv.—trichotomy n. division into three parts [Gk. tricha, in three, tomé, a cutting].

trick (trik) n. artifice or stratagem designed to deceive; conjurer's sleight of hand, prank for mischief, or to annoy; mannerism, dexterity; cards played out in one round, and taken by player with winning card; spell at the helm of ship,—v.t. to deceive; to hoax; to mystify.—trick or n. cheat.—trickery n. act of playing tricks, fraud.—trickily adv.—trickiness n. quality of being tricky; intricacy.—trickish a. prone to play tricks.—trickishly adv.—trickishness n.—trick say, trick say a. ingenious; neat.—trickster, n. cheat, swindler.—tricky a. full of tricks, requiring great dexterity of hand; intricate—a dirty trick (Slang) a mean prank [O.Fr. tricher, to beguile].

trick (trik) v.t. to dress, to trim, to decorate.—trick'ing n. [etym. doubtful].

trickle (trik'el) v.t. to flow gently in a slow, thin stream;—n. thin flow of liquid, rill.—tricklet n. little rill [etym. doubtful].

tricolour (tri-kul'or) n. national flag of three colours, esp. French National Flag.—tricoloured a.

tricorn (tri'korn) a. having three horns, or points;—n. three-cornered hat, cake of paste in shape of tricorn. Also tricornes [L. tricornis, three-horned].

tricot (tré'kó) n. hand-knitted fabric of yarn or wool; machine-made knitwear fabric.—tricotine n. a ribbed, fine woollen fabric, machine-made [Fr. tricot, knitting].

tricuspid (tri-kus'pid) a. having three cusps or points, as certain teeth, or a valve of the right ventricle of the heart.

tricycle (tri'si-kel) n. three-wheeled cycle, esp. for children's use;—v.t. to ride a tricycle.—tricyclist n. [Gk. tres, three; kuklos, a circle].

trident (tri'dent) n. three-pronged sceptre, symbol of Neptune; any three-pronged instrument, such as fish-spear.—trident, tridentate, tridentate a. having three prongs [L. tres, three; dens, a tooth].

tried See try.

triennial (tri-en'i-ál) a. lasting for three years; happening once every three years.—triennially adv. [L. tres, three; annus, a year].

trier See try.

trifle (tri'fl) n. anything of little value or importance; paltry amount; dessert of sponge-cake and jam, soaked in sherry, covered with custard and topped with whipped cream; pewter;—v.t. to speak or act lightly; to be facetious; to toy.—trifler n.—trifling a.—trivial.—triflingly adv. [O.Fr. trufle, mockery].

triform (tri'for-m) a. having a triple form. Also triformed.—triformity n.—triformous a.

trifurcate (tri'fur-kát) a. having three branches or forks. Also trifurcated.—trifurcate v.t. to divide into three branches.—trifurcation n. [L. tres, three; furca, a fork].

trig (trig) a. trim; neat; compact; smart.—trig'ly adv.—trig'ness [O.N. tryggv, firm].

trig (trig) n. skid, for wheel; any obstacle used to prevent movement of vehicle; starting-mark in game of skittles, etc. [O.N. tryggv, firm].

trigamous (trig'a-mus) a. having three husbands or wives at same time; (Bot.) having male, female, and hermaphrodite flowers on same flower-head.—trigamy n. [Gk. tres, three; gamos, marriage].

trigger (trig'gr) n. catch of firearm which, when pulled, releases hammer of lock; device fitted on wheel for retarding speed of vehicle going down steep incline [Dut. trekken, to pull].

triglyph (tri'glif) n. triple-grooved ornament in frieze of Doric column, repeated at equal intervals.—triglyphic,—al a. [Gk. tres, three; glyphen, to carve].

trigonometry (trig-o-nom'e't-ri) n. branch of mathematics which deals with relations between sides and angles of triangle.—trigonomet'er n. instrument for solving plane right-angled triangles by inspection.—trigonomet'ric,—al a.—trigonometrically adv. [Gk. trigonum, a triangle; metron, a measure].

trihedral (tri-hé'd-ral) a. (Math.) having three sides or faces.—trihedron n. figure with three equal sides [Gk. tres, three; hedra, scal].

trilateral (tri-lat'ér-al) a. having three sides; arranged by three parties, as trilateral pact;—n. a triangle.—trilaterally adv.

trilby (tri'lbi) n. (Colloq.) man's soft felt-hat [Fr. Trilby, novel by De Maurier].

trilinear (tri-liné-ár) a. consisting of three lines [L. tres, three; linca, a line].

trilingual (tri-lín-gwál) a. expressed in three languages; speaking three languages.

trilith (tri'lith) n. ancient monument of two upright stones and a third resting across the top, as at Stonehenge.—trilithic a. [Gk. tres, three; lithos, a stone].

trill (tril) v.t. and v.i. to sing or play (instrument) with tremulous or vibratory quality; to pronounce, as letter 'r',—n. shake or vibration of voice, produced by singing, in rapid alternation, two notes, semitone apart; consonant, such as 'r' pronounced with trill [It. trillare, to shake].

trillion (tri'l-yun) n. million million million (British) i.e. 1 with 18 ciphers; a million million (U.S.) i.e. 1 with 12 ciphers.

trilogy (tri'ló-jí) n. group of three plays, novels, etc. with common theme, or common central character [Gk. tres, three; logos, a speech or discourse].

trim (trim) a. neat; firm; compact; in good order or health;—adv. neatly;—v.t. to put in order; to dress, to decorate, as hat; to clip shorter; to supply with oil and adjust wick, as lamp; (Naut.) to arrange sails according to wind-direction;—v.i. to balance; to fluctuate between two parties, so as to appear to favour each.—pr.p. trim'ming.—pa.t. and pa.p. trimmed.—n. dress; decoration; disposition; state of bodily fitness or mental alertness; state of readiness.—trim'ly adv.—trim'mer n. one who trims; instrument for clipping; one who, for expediency, supports whichever party is in power; time-server.—trim'ming n. that which trims, edges, or decorates; (Fig.) affectation of style.—trim' ness n. neatness; compactness; readiness for use [O.E. tryman, to strengthen].

trimeter (trím'ē-ter) n. verse containing three measures, as 'Bird thōu nēvēr wērt'.—trim'eter, trim'ē'tric, -al a.

trinal (trí-nal) a. threefold; of three, as trinal unity, three in one.—trí-nary a. consisting of three parts; ternary.—trine a. threefold;—n. group of three; aspect of two planets distant from each other 120°, or one-third of the zodiac [L. trinus].

trinitrotoluene (trí-ní-trō-tol'ū-ēn) n. (abbrev. T.N.T.) high explosive produced by adding toluene to nitric and sulphuric acids, much used in World Wars 1 and 2.

Trinity (trín-ti) n. union in one Godhead of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; any combination of three people or things as one.—Trinitarian a. pert. to doctrine of the Trinity.—n. one who believes in this doctrine.—Trinitarianism n.—Trinity Sunday, Sunday following Whitsunday, observed in R.C. and Anglican churches as festival of Holy Trinity [L. trinitas, three].

trinket (trín'ket) n. small ornament worn as ring, brooch, etc.; ornament of little value.—trín'ketry n. trinkets [prob. fr. M.E. trēnket, small knife].

trinomial (trí-nó-mi-nal) a. (Bot. Zool.) having three names as of order, species and sub-species; (Math.) consisting of three terms connected by sign \times or $-$;—n. a trinomial quantity [L. tres, three; nomen, a name].

trio (tré-ō, or trí-ō) n. group of three persons performing together; (Mus.) composition arranged for three voices, or instruments.—pl. trios [It. fr. L. tres, three].

triode (trí-ōd) n. (Radio) three-electrode thermionic valve [Gk. treis, three; hodos, a way].

triolet (tré⁴ or trí-ō-let) n. short poem of eight lines with rhyme-pattern abaabab, lines 1, 4, 7 having identical rhymes, and lines 2 and 8, another identical rhyme [Fr. triolet, a little trio].

trioxide (trí-oks'īd) n. (Chem.) compound comprising three atoms of oxygen with some other element (tri-, and oxide).

trip (trip) v.t. to cause to stumble; to frustrate; to loose, as ship's anchor; to start up, as machine, by releasing clutch;—v.i. to walk or dance lightly; to stumble over an obstacle; to make a false step; (with up) to detect in another's statement an error of fact.—pr.p. tripp'ing,—pa.p. tripped.—n. quick, light step; short journey for pleasure; false step; indiscretion in speech or conduct.—trip-hammer n. tilt-hammer used in forging.—trip'per n. one who trips; holiday-maker, esp. day-excursionist.—tripp'ing a. light-footed.—tripp'ingly adv. with dainty step [M.E. trippen, to tread on].

tripartite (trí-pár-tít, or trí-pár-tít) a. divided into three parts; having three corresponding parts; arranged or agreed to, by three parties or nations, as tripartite pact.—trí-partitely adv.—tripartí-tion n.

tripe (trip) n. large stomach of ruminating animal, esp. of sheep, or ox, prepared for food; (Vulg.) entrails; (Slang) rubbish [etym. doubtful].

triphthong (trí-ph'thong) n. a syllable containing three vowels together, as in beauty [Gk. treis, three; phthongos, a sound].

triple (tríp'l) a. consisting of three united; three times repeated; treble;—v.t. to make three times as much or as many;—v.i. to become trebled.—triple-crown n. papal tiara consisting of three crowns one on top of the other, and studded with gems.—tríp'let n. three of a kind; three consecutive verses rhyming together; (Mus.) three notes played in the time of two; (Colloq.) one of three children born at a birth.—tríp'lex a. threefold;—n. (Mus.) triple time.—Triplex glass, a proprietary name for splinter-proof glass made by sandwiching a layer of plastic or celluloid material between two layers of glass, used for windscreens of motor-cars, etc.—tríp'licate; a. threefold; made three times as much;—n. third copy corresponding exactly to two others of the same kind;—v.t. to treble; to make three copies of.—tríp'lication n. the act or process of trebling.—tríp'ly adv. [L. triplex, three-fold].

tripod (trí-pod) n. stool, vessel, etc. on three-legged support; three-legged, folding-stand for a camera, theodolite, etc.;—a. having three legs.—tríp'od'al a. [Gk. treis, three; pous, podos, a foot].

tripoli (tríp'li) n. mineral substance used for polishing metals, stones, etc.; originally brought from Tripoli. Also tríp'olite.

trips (trí-pos) n. honours degree examination at Cambridge University [fr. old custom by which graduate sat on a trips or three-legged stool at graduation ceremony].

triptych (tríp'tík) n. writing-tablet in three parts; altar-piece or picture in three panels, side panels hinged to fold back on centre one [Gk. treis, three; ptyx, ptychos, a fold].

trireme (trí-rēm) n. Greek or Roman galley or war-vessel with three banks of oars [L. tres, three; remus, an oar].

trisect (trí-sekt) v.t. to divide into three equal parts, as a line or angle.—trisection n. division into three equal parts.

trist (trést) a. sad, gloomy.—triste'sse n. sadness.—tríst'ful a. sorrowful.—tríst'fully adv. [Fr. triste, sad].

trisulphide (trí-sul'fīd) n. (Chem.) chemical compound comprising three atoms of sulphur and another element.

trisyllable (trí- or trí-sil'ā-bl) n. word of three syllables.—trigyl'lab'ic, -al a.—trigyl'lab'ically adv. [Gk. treis, three; syllabē, syllable].

trite (trít) a. made stale by use; hackneyed; banal.—trít'e'ly adv.—trite'ness n. [L. tritus, rubbed away].

tritium (trít'ī-um, trí'tī) n. isotope of hydrogen of triple mass, not found in nature but produced by irradiating lithium in an uranium pile [Gk. tritos, third].

Triton (trí-tōn) n. (Gk. Myth.) merman demi-god, son of Poseidon, god of the sea, depicted as carrying sea-shell used as trumpet to summon storms or calms.—trí-ton n. (Zool.) marine mollusc with spiral shell.

triturate (trít'ā-rāt) v.t. to rub or grind to a very fine powder.—trít'urable a. capable of being pulverised.—trít'uration n. [L. triturare, to pulverise].

triumph (trí-umf) n. In ancient Rome, magnificent ceremonial in honour of a victorious general; victory; conquest; rejoicing, great achievement.—v.i. to celebrate victory with pomp and ceremony; to achieve supremacy; to prevail; to exult.—trí-um'phal a. pert. to triumph; expressing joy for success.—trí-um'phant a. rejoicing for victory; successful.—trí-um'phantly adv. [L. triumphus, a solemn procession].

triumvir (trí-um'vīr) n. one of three men sharing governing power in ancient Rome.—pl. trí-um'vīr, trí-um'vīr.—trí-um'vīr'al a.—trí-um'vīr'ate n. coalition of three men in office or authority [L. tres, three; vir, a man].

triune (trí-ūn) a. three in one.—trí-ūn'ity n. [L. tres, three; unus, one].

trivalent (trí-vā-lēnt) a. (Chem.) having valency of three; capable of combining with or replacing three atoms of hydrogen.—trí-valēnce n.

trivet (trí-vēt) n. three-legged stool, table or support; iron tripod for standing a pot or kettle close to fire; iron bracket for hooking on to bars of a kitchen range [L. tres, three; pes, foot].

trivial (trí-vā-əl) a. paltry; of little consequence; everyday.—trí-vi'alism n.—trí-vi'al'ity

n. state or quality of being trivial; trifle; anything commonplace or insignificant.—triv'ly adv.—triv'ialness n. [L. trivialis, pert. to crossroads, hence commonplace].

troche (trōkē, or trōk, or trōsh) n. medicinal lozenge [Gk. trochos, pill].

trochee (trōkē) n. in English prosody, metrical foot of two syllables, first one accented, as hol'ly.—troche'ic n. trochaic foot or verse.—troche'ic, -al a. consisting of trochees [Gk. trochaion, running].

trod, trodden past-tense, past-participle of tread.

trog'odyte (trōg'ō-dit) n. cave-dweller; kind of ape; a hermit.—trog'odyte, troglody'tic, -al a.—trog'odytism n. [Gk. troglē, a cave; duin, to enter].

troika (trōikā) n. Russian carriage or sledges drawn by three horses abreast [Russ.].

Trojan (trōjan) a. pert. to ancient Troy.—n. inhabitant of Troy.—to work like a Trojan, to work very hard and perseveringly (as the Trojans defending Troy).

troll (trōl) n. in Scandinavian mythology, orig. a giant, but later a mischievous hump-backed cave-dwelling dwarf [Scand.].

troll (trōl) v.t. and v.i. to roll, to sing in succession the parts of a round, to fish with baited line trailing behind boat; (formerly) to pass bottle round;—n. a round or catch.

troll'er n. one who or that which trolls.—troll'ey, troll'y n. form of truck body of which can be tilted over light two-wheeled hand-cart; pulley to connect electric trolley with overhead wires; low truck running on rails.

—troll'ey-bus n. omnibus with overhead trolley but not running on rails.—troll'ey-car n. (U.S.) electric trolley [etym. doubtful].

trollop (trōlop) n. a slattern; a prostitute.—v.t. to drizzle; to be glibly.—troll'opy a. slovenly; tawdry [prob. fr. troll].

trombone (trōmbōn) n. deep-toned brass musical instrument, its notes controlled by a sliding tube.—trombon'ist n. one who performs on trombone [It. tromba, a trumpet].

troop (trōp) n. large assembly of people; body of cavalry; light-horse, or dragoons, command of this, troupe;—pl. soldiers collectively; an army;—v.t. to flock; to gather in a crowd.—troop-car'r'ier n. transport-plane for troops.—troop'er n. non-commissioned cavalryman; troop-horse; troop-ship; (U.S.) mounted policeman, esp. of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.—troop-horse n. cavalry horse.—troop-ship n. vessel for transporting soldiers.—trooping the colours, a ceremony held at the public mounting of garrison-guards [Fr. troupe].

trope (trōp) n. word or phrase used metaphorically.—tro'pical a. figurative.—tro'pically, adv.—tro'pist n. one who uses figurative language.—tropolog'ic, -al a. containing figures of speech.—tropol'ogy n. figurative language, study of such language, a metaphorical interpretation of the Bible [Gk. tropos, a turn].

trophic, -al (trōfik, -al) a. pert. to nutrition.—tro'phic n. pl. masticating organs of insect.—trophol'ogy n. the scientific study of nutrition [Gk. trophē, feeding].

trophy (trōfi) n. orig. pile of arms taken from vanquished enemy; memorial of victory; memento; mural decoration, as stag's antlers, prize, esp. for sports, etc. [Gk. tropaion, a trophy].

tropic (trōpik) n. one of the two circles of celestial sphere, situated 23½° N. (Tropic of Cancer) and 23½° S. (Tropic of Capricorn) of Equator, and marking the point reached by the sun at its greatest declination north and south; one of the two corresponding parallels of latitude on terrestrial globe.—pl. region (horrid zone) between tropics of Cancer and Capricorn.—tro'pic, -al a. pert. to or within tropics; (of climate) very hot.—tro'pically, adv. [Gk. tropos, a turn].

troposphere (trōpō-sfēr) n. lower layer of atmosphere below stratosphere [Gk. tropos, a turn, sphaera, sphere].

troppo (trōp'pō) adv. (It.) too much.—non troppo, moderately [It.].

trot (trōt) v.t. (of horse) to move at sharp pace; (of person) to move along fast;—v.i. to cause to trot.—pr.p. trot'ting.—pa.p. trot'ted.—n. normal pace of horse, quick walk.—trot'ter n. one who trots; horse which trots; foot of an animal; (Colloq.) the foot [O Fr. trotter].

troth (trōth) n. truth; fidelity;—v.t. to plight.—to plight one's troth, to become engaged to be married [O.E. troweth, truth].

troubadour (trōbādōr) n. one of school of Provençal poets between 11th and 13th cents, whose poems were devoted to subjects lyrical and amatory [Prov. troubador, poet].

trouble (trūbl) v.t. to stir up, to vex; to perplex; (Colloq.) to bother.—v.i. to take pains; to feel anxiety.—n. disturbance; agitation of mind, unrest, ailment, inconvenience.—troub'ler n.—troub'lesome a. difficult; vexatious; irksome.—troub'lesomely, adv.—troub'lesomeness n.—troub'lous a. disturbed [L. turbare, to disturb].

trough (trōf) n. long, open vessel for water or fodder for animals; channel; depression, as between waves, part of cyclone where atmospheric pressure is lowest [O.E. trog, hollow vessel of wood].

trounce (trouns) v.t. to punish or beat severely; to defeat completely; (Fig.) to chastise [Fr. tronce, a stump].

troupe (trōp) n. company or troop, esp. of actors, acrobats, etc.—troup'er n. member of a theatrical troupe [Fr.].

trousers (trōnzəz) n. pl. a man's two-legged outer garment extending from waist to ankles; long, frilled drawers worn by women in 19th cent.; slacks.—trou'sered a. wearing trousers.—trou'ser-press, or strat'cher n. device for keeping trousers in shape [O.Fr. troussée, breeches].

trousseau (trōsō) n. bride's outfit of clothes, etc. [Fr.].

trout (trout) n. fish, resembling salmon but smaller, found in lake, river, and sea [O.E. truhtr, trout].

trow (trōr) v.t. to believe, to suppose to be true [O.E. trowian, to trust].

trowel (trōwl) n. mason's tool for spreading and dressing mortar, garden tool for scooping out earth, plants, etc.;—v.t. to smooth or lift with trowel [L. trulla, a small adle].

trowers same as trousers.

troy-weight (trō-wāt) n. system of weight for precious metals and gems [fr. Troyes, in France, the pound weight was adopted in England in 14th cent.].

truant (trōānt) n. one who wastes his time; pupil who absents himself from school.—a. wandering from duty, idle;—v.t. to play truant.—tru'aney, truant'ship n. [O.Fr. truant, vagrant].

Truhenise (trōbēn-iz) v.t. to bind two layers of fabric by intermediate layer of cellulose acetate.—tru'benised a.—tru'benising n. [Tru, protected Trade Name].

truce (trūs) n. temporary cessation of hostilities, armistice, lull [O.E. trowe, faith].

truck (truk) v.t. to exchange; to barter.—v.t. to deal with by exchange.—n. exchange of commodities; (Colloq.) smallwares; rubbish; junk; (U.S.) garden produce.—truck age n. system of barter.—truck'er n. [Fr. troquer, to truck].

truck (truk) n. small wooden wheel; open wagon for heavy transport by rail; porter's barrow for heavy luggage, (U.S.) a lorry.—truck age n. transport by trucks; cost of such transport.—truck'le n. small wheel or castor; truckle-bed; (Fig.) to fawn on; to toady to.—truckle-bed n. low bed on castors which may be pushed beneath another [Gk. trochos, a wheel].

truculent (truk-ù-lent) a. fierce; aggressive; ruthless.—truculence, truculency n.—truculently adv. [L. trux, fierce].

trudge (tru) v.i. to go on foot; to plod along; —n. wearisome walk [etym. doubtful].

trudge (tru) n. fast racing-stroke in swimming. Also (incorrectly) trudgeon [fr. J. Trudgen, English swimmer].

true (trú) a. conformable with fact; genuine; exact; loyal; trustworthy;—v.i. to adjust accurately, as machine; to straighten;—adv. truly; conforming to type (of plants, etc.);—true-blue n. (Fig.) person of unquestionable integrity and loyalty.—true-ness n.—true-penny n. honest fellow.—truism n. self-evident truth.—truly adv. [O.E. treowce, true].

truffle (trufl) n. tuber-shaped edible underground fungus with unique flavour [prob. L. tuber, swelling, truffle].

trug (trug) n. mason's hod; a gardener's shallow wooden basket [etym. uncertain].

truism See true.

trull (trul) n. a drab; trollop [var. of troll].

trump (trump) n. trumpet; its sound; Jew's harp.—trump n. wind instrument of brass, consisting of long tube bent twice on itself, ending in wide bell-shaped mouth, and having finger stops; powerful reed-stop of pipe-organ with full trumpet-like sound; ear-trumpet for the deaf;—v.i. to proclaim by trumpet; to bellow; (Fig.) to praise loudly;—v.i. to play on trumpet; (of elephant) to utter characteristic cry through trunk.—trump-call n. summons on a trumpet; imperative call to action.—trumpeter n. one who plays on trumpet; kind of domestic pigeon; long-necked S. American bird, resembling crane.—trumpeting n.—to blow one's own trumpet, to praise oneself [fr. trompe, trumpet].

trump (trump) n. one of the suit of cards, declared by cutting, dealing, or bidding, which takes any card of another suit; (Colloq.) good-natured fellow;—v.i. to play trump-card; to take a trick with trump.—trump-card n. (Fig.) best means to desired end [fr. triumphe, triumph, game of cards].

trump (trump) v.i. to impose upon; to deceive.—trumpy n. anything showy but of little value; rubbish.—to trump up, to concoct; to gather indiscriminately [fr. tromper, to deceive].

truncate (trung-kát) v.i. to cut off; to lop; to maim.—truncate, -d a. appearing as if cut off at tip; blunt [L. truncare, to cut off].

truncheon (trun-shun) n. short staff; policeman's baton; a baton of office, as of Earl Marshal.—v.i. to cudgel [O.Fr. tronchon, a broken shaft or trunk].

trundle (trun-dl) n. anything round or capable of being rolled; a small wheel or castor; low truck; small wheel, its teeth formed of cylinders or spindles, as in mill-machinery;—v.i. to roll on little wheels; to bowl, as child's hoop, barrel, etc.;—v.i. to roll.—trundle-bed n. a truckle-bed [O.E. trendel, a wheel].

trunk (trungk) n. stem of tree, as distinct from branches and roots; body minus head and limbs; torso; shaft of column; main part of anything; main lines of railway, bus, or telephone system; large box of metal, hide, etc., with hinged lid, for storage or as luggage;—pl. short, tight-fitting pants, esp. for swimming.—trunk a. pert. to the trunk.—trunk-call n. long-distance telephone call involving use of trunk-line.—trunk-line n. main line of railway, bus, telegraph, or telephone system.—trunk-road n. highway directly connecting important centres [L. truncus, maimed].

trunk (trungk) n. proboscis of elephant [orig. trump; fr. Fr. trompe, trumpet].

truss (trus) n. bundle; as hay or straw; tuft of flowers on top of a long stem; framework of beams or girders constructed to bear heavy loads; (Med.) appliance to keep hernia in place; (Naut.) iron clamp fixing lower yards to masts;—v.t. to bind or pack close; to support, as a roof, or bridge-span, with truss; to skewer, as fowl, before cooking.—to truss up, to tie very firmly [fr. trousse, a bundle].

trust (trust) n. confidence; reliance; implicit faith; moral responsibility; property used for benefit of another; combine of business firms in which shareholders turn over stock to board of trustees;—v.t. to rely upon; to have implicit faith in; to credit; to entrust; to hope; to believe;—v.i. to be confident or to confide in;—a. held in trust.—trust-deed n. (Law) document conveying property to trustee.—trustee n. person to whom a trust is committed.—trustee-ship n. functions of trustee.—trustier n.—trust-estate n. estate managed by trustees.—trustful a. trusting; having implicit faith.—trustfully adv.—trustfulness n.—trustily adv. faithfully; confidently.—trustiness n. quality of being trusty.—trusting a. confiding.—trustingly adv.—trustworthiness n.—trustworthy a. worthy of trust; reliable; accurate.—trusty a. (comp. trustier superl. trustiest) staunch; reliable [O.N. traust, confidence].

truth (trúth) n. honesty; conformity to fact or reality; veracity; constancy; true statement; religious tenet based on revelation.—truthful a. honest; reliable.—truthfully adv.—truthfulness n.—truthless a. [O.E. treowe, true].

try (tri) v.t. to test; to attempt; to examine judicially; to purify or refine, as metals; to make demands upon;—v.t. to endeavour; to make effort.—pa.t. and pa.p. tried.—n. trial; effort; in Rugby football, point gained when player manages to place ball over back line of his opponents; (Colloq.) attempt.—tried a. proved; afflicted.—trier n. one who tries— [O.Fr. trier, to pick out].

tryst (trist) n. appointment to meet; place appointed for meeting; fair;—v.t. to make appointment; (Colloq.) to order beforehand.—v.i. to agree on rendezvous.—tryst n. [var. of trust].

Tsar (tsár) n. same as Czar.

tsetse (tset-se) n. African fly; its bite is generally fatal to animals, causing in men sleeping-sickness [S. Afr.].

T-square (tú-shwár) n. ruler with cross-bar at one end for drawing parallel lines.

tuan (tú-an) title of respect in Malaya, equivalent of master [Malay.].

tub (tub) n. open, wooden vessel formed of staves, heading and hoops, as used for washing clothes, etc.; small cask; slow, cumbersome boat;—v.i. (Colloq.) to have a bath.—tubby a. shaped like a tub; (of persons) squat and portly.—tub-thumper n. (Colloq.) street-corner orator; a ranting preacher or politician [M.E. tubbe, a tub].

tuba (tú-ba) n. (Mus.) largest brass instrument of orchestra producing rich, deep tone, and consisting of coiled tube ending in wide, bell-shaped mouth; organ-stop producing similar effect.—pl. tu-bas, tu-bas [L. tuba, trumpet].

tube (túb) n. long hollow cylinder for conveyance of liquids, gas, etc.; pipe; siphon; abbrev. for tube-railway where rails are laid through immense steel tubes; (Anat.) cylindrical-shaped organ, small tinfol container with screw cap for holding paint, solder, glue, etc.; stem of plant; inner rubber tyre of bicycle or motor-car wheel; (U.S.) a valve.— tubing n. act or process of making tubes; length of tube, esp. rubber.—tu-bular a., tu-bulate, -d, tu-bulous, tu-bulose a.—tu-bule n. a small tube [L. tubus, a tube].

tuber (tú-ber) n. fleshy, rounded underground stem or root, containing buds for new plant, as of potato, artichoke, etc.; (Med.) a swelling.—tu-berous, tu-berose a. having tubers; knobby [L. tuber, a swelling].

tubercle (tú-ber-kl) n. small swelling; nodule; (Med.) morbid growth, esp. on lung causing tuberculosis.—*tu*²*ber*²*o* a. having tubercles.—*tu*²*ber*²*ular*, *tu*²*ber*²*ulate*, -d, *tu*²*ber*²*ulous*, *tu*²*ber*²*ulous* a. pert. to tubercles, nodular; affected with tuberculosis.—*tu*²*ber*²*ulin* n. liquid extract from tubercle bacillus, used as injection in testing for, or in treatment of, tuberculosis.—*tu*²*ber*²*ulo*²*sis* n. (Collog. abbrev. T.B.) consumption; phthisis, disease caused by infection with the tubercle bacillus.—*tu*²*ber*²*ulum* n. tubercle [L. tuberculum, a small tuber].

tuberoso (*tû*²*b*²*er*²*ôs*, or *tû*²*b*²*er*²*ôz*) n. a bulbous plant with creamy-white, fragrant flower-spikes [L. tuber, a swelling] tuck (tuk) v.t. to make fold(s) in cloth before stitching down; to roll up, as sleeves; to make compact; to cram; to enclose snugly in bed-clothes;—n. flat fold in garment to shorten it, or as ornament, (Slang) food, esp. sweets, cakes, etc.—*tuck*²*er* n. tucked linen or lace front worn formerly by women,—v.t. (U.S. slang) to exhaust [M.E. tucken, to pull].

tuck (tuk) n. the beat of a drum.—*tuck*²*et* n. flourish of trumpets [Fr. toquer, to touch].

Tudor (*tû*²*d*²*or*) a. pert. to period of Tudors (1485-1603) or to style of architecture in that period

Tuesday (*tû*²*z*²*d*²*â*) n. third day of week [O.E. Tunesdæg, day of Tiw, god of war] tufa (*tû*²*f*²*u*) n. variety of porous carbonate of lime deposited by springs.—*tufa*²*ceous* a. [It. fr. L. tufus, soft stone].

tuft (tuft) n. cluster of each of something soft, as hair, feathers, etc., imperial (beard);—v.t. to adorn with, arrange in tufts.—*tuft*²*ed*, *tuft*²*s* a.—*tuft*²*hunter* n. one who cultivates friendship of people of standing [etym. uncertain].

tuft (tuft) n. green knoll; a plantation.—*tuft*²*et* n. mound [O.E. tuft, knoll].

tug (tug) v.t. to pull with effort, to haul along; to jerk forward.—v.i. to pull with great effort, to comb, as hair, with difficulty.—pr.p. *tug*²*ging*—pa.t. and pa.p. *tug*²*ged*.—n. strong pull, tussle; small steamboat used to tow larger vessel.—*tug*²*boat* n. a small but powerful boat used for towing.—*tug*²*of-war* n. event at sports meetings, in which two teams pull at either end of rope, until losing team is drawn over centre-line [O.N. toga, to pull].

tuition (*tû*²*ish*²*un*) n. orig. guardianship; private coaching for examination; teaching.—*tu*²*tional*, *tu*²*tionary* a. [L. tuere, to watch].

tulip (*tû*²*lip*) n. bulbous plant of order Liliaceae, especially popular in Holland [Turk. tulband, turban].

tulle (*tû*²*l*) n. fine silk net used for dresses, etc. [Fr. Tulle, near Bordeaux in France].

tumble (*tû*²*mb*²*l*) v.i. to fall heavily; to trip over, to toss from side to side, to turn head over heels, to perform acrobatic tricks; to slump, as prices.—v.t. to overturn; to rumple, as bedclothes; to toss about, as contents of drawer, to shoot, as rabbit;—n. act of tumbling, toss, somersault.—*tum*²*ble*²*-down* a. ramshackle; derelict.—*tum*²*bler* n. one who tumbles; acrobat; kind of pigeon which appears to perform somersaults when in flight; glass drinking-vessel, formerly with rounded, pointed base and easily tumbled; spring catch of a lock.—*tum*²*bler*²*-switch* n. (Elect.) switch turned over to produce or shut off current, esp. in lamp circuits.—*tum*²*bling* n. act of falling or turning somersault [O.E. tumbian, to dance].

tumbrel (*tû*²*mb*²*rel*) tumbril (*tû*²*mb*²*ril*) n. covered cart used for transport of army stores; dung-cart; low open cart in which victims of French Revolutionists were conveyed to guillotine; ducking-stool for scolds [Fr. lumber, to fall].

tumefy (*tû*²*m*²*e*²*f*²*y*) v.t. to cause to swell;—v.t. to swell; to develop into a tumour.—pa.t. and pa.p. *tum*²*efied*.—*tum*²*efac*²*tion* n. a swell-ling; a tumour [L. tumere, to swell; facere, to make].

tumid (*tû*²*m*²*id*) a. swollen; turgid; pompous.—*tumes*²*cent* n. state of swelling; turgidity.—*tumes*²*cent* a.—*tumid*²*ly* n.—*tu*²*m*²*idly* adv.—*tu*²*m*²*idness* n. [L. tumere].

tumour (*tû*²*m*²*or*) n. (Med.) morbid, parasitic over-growth of tissue, sometimes accompanied by swelling; a cancer.—*tu*²*m*²*orous* a. [L. tumere, to swell].

tumult (*tû*²*m*²*ult*) n. commotion; violent uproar; mass hysteria; storm.—*tumult*²*uary*, *tumult*²*uous* a. confused; uproarious, disturbing.—*tumult*²*uously* adv.—*tumult*²*uousness* n. [L. tumultus, uproar].

tumulus (*tû*²*m*²*û*²*lus*) n. artificial burial mound, erected by primitive peoples, barrow.—pl. *tu*²*m*²*ull*.—*tu*²*m*²*ular*, -y, *tu*²*m*²*ulous* a. [L. fr. tumere, to swell].

tun (tun) n. large cask; measure of liquid, as for wine, consisting of two pipes, or four hogheads or 252 gallons; vat in a brewery;—v.t. to store in casks.—*tun*²*nage* n. tax formerly levied on every tun of imported wine [O.E. tunne, a cask].

tuna (*tû*²*ô*²*na*) n. prickly pear or its fruit; Californian tunny-fish [Sp.].

tundra (*tû*²*ôn*²*d*²*ra*) n. cold desert; term used of zone north of Arctic Circle, where there is scanty vegetation [Russ. tundra, a marsh].

tune (*tû*²*n*) n. melody; rhythmical arrangement of notes and chords in particular key, quality of being in pitch; temper of mind;—v.t. to adjust to proper pitch; to harmonise; to adapt or make efficient, esp. part of machine; (Radio) to adjust circuit to give resonance at desired frequency.—*tu*²*n*²*able* a. capable of being tuned, as piano.—*tu*²*n*²*able*²*ness* n.—*tu*²*n*²*ably* adv.—*tune*²*ful* a. melodious, harmonious.—*tune*²*fully* adv.—*tune*²*fulness* n.—*tune*²*less* a. without melody; discordant, silent.—*tu*²*ner* n.—*tu*²*ning*²*-fork* n. steel two-pronged instrument giving specified note when struck.—in tune (Fig.) mentally and emotionally adjusted, as to one's company or environment.—out of tune, at variance with.—to tune in (Radio) to adjust wireless set to desired wavelength [O.Fr. ton, a tone].

tungsten (*tung*²*st*²*en*) n. hard grey metallic element used in alloys, special forms of steel, and for filaments in electric lamps [Scand. tung, heavy; sten, a stone].

tunic (*tû*²*n*²*ik*) n. short-sleeved; knee-length garment worn by women and boys in ancient Greece and Rome; short leaved vestment worn by deacon at mass; girl's dress for gymnastics; jacket of uniform, as worn by soldiers, policemen, etc. [L. tunica, undergarment of both sexes].

tunnel (*tun*²*el*) n. arched subterranean passage usually as track for railway-line;—v.t. to cut tunnel through; to excavate.—pr.p. *tunn*²*elling*.—pa.t. and pa.p. *tunn*²*elled*. [O.Fr. tonne, tun or cask].

tunny (*tun*²*û*) n. edible fish of mackerel family found in Mediterranean, larger variety found off east and west seaboard of U.S.A.; tuna fish [Gk. thunnos].

tap (*tû*²*p*) n. a ram; weighted head of pile-driver or steam-hammer.—v.t. (of ram) to copulate with [etym. uncertain].

turban (*tur*²*b*²*an*) n. Oriental male head-dress comprising long strip of cloth swathed round head or cap; close-fitting cap or scarf-head-dress worn by women; whorls of certain shells [Turk. ubend].

turbid (*tur*²*b*²*id*) a. having dregs disturbed; muddy; (Fig.) disturbed.—*turbid*²*ly* adv.—*tur*²*b*²*idness*, *turbid*²*ity* n. [L. turbidus, fr. turbare, to disturb].

turbine (*tur*²*b*²*in* or -bin) n. horizontal water-wheel with curved floats on periphery; rotary engine driven by steam, hot air, or water striking on curved vanes of wheel, or drum; high speed prime mover used for generating electrical energy.—turbinal a. coiled like a spiral.—tur-bine-steam'er n. boat driven by steam-turbine.—tur-bo-jet n. jet propelled gas turbine.—turbo-prop, jet engine in which turbine is coupled to propeller [L. turbo, whirl].

turbot (tur'hot) n. large flat sea-fish, next in size to the halibut, [L. turbo, a top].

turbulent (tur'bū-lent) a. disturbed; in violent commotion; swirling; (Fig.) refractory.—turbulence, turbulency n. [L. turbare, to disturb].

Turcoman (tur'kō-man) n. same as Turkoman.

turd (turd) n. ball of dung [O.E. tord].

tureen (tu-rēn' or tū-rēn) n. large, deep dish with removable cover, for serving soup [Fr. terrine, an earthen vessel].

turf (turf) n. surface soil containing matted roots, grass, etc.; sward; sod; peat; a race-course.—pl. turfs, (obsolete) turves.—v.t. to cover with turf, as lawn; (Slang) to throw out unceremoniously.—The Turf, horseracing and betting [O.E. turf, turf].

turgent (tur-jent) a. swelling; puffing up like a tumour; (Fig.) pompous; bombastic.—turgently adv.—turgescence, turgescence n. swelling caused by congestion; (Fig.) empty bombast.—turgid a. swollen; distended abnormally; (Fig.) bombastic.—turgidity, turgidness n. [L. turgere, to swell].

Turk (turk) n. native of Turkey; Ottoman; a fierce person; a Mohammedan.—Turkey carpet, wool carpet with bold pattern of brilliant colours and thick pile.—Turkey red, brilliant red dye; cotton cloth dyed with this.—Turkish a. pert. to Turks or Turkey.—Turkish bath, steam or hot air bath after which person is rubbed down, massaged, etc.—Turkish delight, soft sweetmeat.—Turkish towel, orig. a rough surfaced towel; a towel of cotton fabric with loops uncut, giving it specially absorbent qualities.—Turkoman n. one of the Turkish race living in C. Asia.—pl. Turk'omans.

turkey (tur'ki) n. large, gallinaceous bird, bred for food, esp. at Christmas.—tur'key-trot n. an eccentric rag-time dance [fr. Turkey, from which country the bird was supposed to come].

turmeric (tur'mer-ik) n. E. Indian plant; root of this powdered, and used, in dyes, medicines, condiments, curry-powder, etc. [etym. doubtful].

turmoil (tur'moil) n. commotion; harassing; labour; upset.—v.t. to harass; to exhaust;—v.i. to be upset [etym. doubtful].

turn (turn) v.t. to move round; to cause to revolve; to deflect; to form on lathe; to apply; to convert; to upset or nauseate; to blunt;—v.i. to rotate; to hinge; to depend; to become giddy, nauseated, or upset; (of tides) to change from ebb to flow or the reverse; to become sour, as milk;—n. act of turning; change of direction; single revolution, as of wheel; bend; an action, as good turn; action done in relation with others; short walk; a subtle quality of expression, as turn of phrase; single performance, as on variety-stage; crisis.—turn about n. merry-go-round.—turncoat n. renegade; one who betrays party or other principles.—turncock n. one who operates stopcock on water-main, etc.—turn'er n. one who or that which turns; one who turns things on lathe.—turn'ing n. act of turning; deflection; winding; junction of two roads or streets; process of shaping and rounding articles with lathe.—turn'ing-point n. decisive moment; crisis.—turn'key n. one in charge of prison keys; warder.—turn'out n. act of coming forth; production, as of factory; strike; striker; number of people at any gathering; carriage and horses, driver, etc.—turn'over n. total sales made by a business in certain period; rate at which employees of factory are replaced by others; part of paste folded over a filling of jam, or fruit.—turn'pike n. gate across road at point where toll is due.

—turnpike road, orig. a main road with toll-gate.—turn'screw n. screw-driver.—turn'spit n. one who turns a spit; a menial.—turn'stile n. revolving gate for controlling admission of people.—turn'table n. revolving circular platform for turning locomotives on to another line or in opposite direction.—turn'up n. disturbance; domestic upheaval.—turn about, alternately.—to turn down, to decline, as offer; to reject, as application.—to turn in, to bend inwards; to hand in; to go to bed.—to turn upon, to attack suddenly; to retort.—to turn one's head, to make one conceited; to make one giddy.—to turn the scale, to decide an issue.—to turn the tables on, to reverse conditions.—to turn turtle, to turn upside down.—in turn, in sequence.—on the turn, at moment of changing, as tides [O.E. tynan, to turn].

turnip (tur'up) n. plant of mustard family with large globular root much cultivated for food and cattle-fodder [etym. doubtful, prob. fr. O.E. naep, turnip].

turpentine (tur'pen-tin) n. oily liquid extracted by distillation of resin exuded by pine and other coniferous trees; (Colloq. abbrev.) turps [Gk. terebinthos, terebith tree].

turpitude (tur'pi-tūd) n. revolting baseness; lewdness; infamy [L. turpis, base].

turquoise (tur'koiz or -kwoiz) n. bluish-green gem-stone.—turquoise-green n. pale jade colour [so called because first brought from Persia to Europe via Turkey].

turret (tur-et) n. small tower on building; revolving gun-tower on ship, tank, or aircraft.—turreted a. having turrets [O.Fr. tourelle, a little tower].

turtle (tur-tl) n. marine tortoise with hard shell and limbs like paddles, hawksbill turtle yields tortoiseshell, green turtle is used for soup.—mock-turtle n. soup of calf's head with curry flavouring.—to turn turtle (Naut. slang) to capsize [Sp. tortuga, tortoise].

turtle (tur-tl) n. kind of pigeon, noted for its soft cooing and its affection for its mate. Also turtle-dove [L. turtur, a dove].

Tuscan (tus'kan) a. pert. to Tuscany in Italy; (Archit.) denoting the simplest of the five classical styles in architecture.

tusk (tusk) n. the long, protruding side-tooth of certain animals such as elephant, wild boar, walrus.—tusk'er n. elephant with fully developed tusks.—tusk'y a. [O.E. tusc, tooth].

tusser (tus'er) n. silk-worm of India; rather coarse fawn-coloured silk fibre spun by tusser, hard-wearing, uneven-textured fawn silk fabric, from this fibre. Also tuss'ab, tuss'ar, tuss'eh, tuss'ore, tuss'ur [Hind. tussar, shuttle].

tussle (tusl) n. struggle; scuffle;—v.t. to struggle [etym. doubtful].

tussock (tus'ok) n. clump, tuft, or hillock of growing grass [etym. doubtful].

tussore-silk Same as tusser-silk. [rebuks. tut (tut) n. interj. exclamation of irritation or tutelage (tū'te-lāj) n. guardianship; state or period of being under this.—tu'tolar, tu'telary a. having protection over a person or place; protective [L. tutelā].

tutor (tū'tor) n. (sem. tu'tores) (Law) one in charge of minor; private teacher; university lecturer who directs and supervises studies of undergraduates;—v.t. to teach; to prepare another for special examination by private coaching; to discipline; to have guardianship of.—tutorial a. pert. to tutor;—n. (Colloq.) extra tuition given by college tutor, usually to section of class.—tutorially adv.—tu'toring n.—tu'torship n.—tu'trix n. (Law) female guardian [L. tutor, a guardian].

tutti-frutti (tū'ti frō'ti) n. macédoine of fruits, ice-cream sundae with fruit, nuts, etc. [It.—all fruits].

tutu (tū'tū) n. ballet dancer's skirt [Fr.].

tuxedo (tu'zē-dō) n. (U.S.) dinner-jacket [fr. Tuxedo Park, country-club, near New York].

twaddle (twod4l) n. inane conversation; nonsensical talk;—v.i. to talk inane. —twaddler n.—twaddling n. twaddle. —twaddly a. silly.

twain (twān) n. two; pair.—In twain, in two parts; amide [O.E. twegen, two].

twang (twang) n. sharp, rather harsh sound made by tense string sharply plucked; nasalized speech;—v.t. to pluck tense string of instrument so that it emits twang; (Colloq.) to strum, as banjo;—v.i. to speak with a twang [imit.].

tweak (twék) v.t. to twist and pull with sudden jerk; to nip sharply;—n. sharp pinch or jerk [var. of twitch].

tweet (twéd) n. woollen twilled fabric esp. for costumes, coats, suits;—a. of tweet [fr. mistaken reading of tweet].

tweet (twéd) n. (Scot.) a var. of twill; the original word for tweet.

'tween (twén) conj. of between.—'tween deck, between upper and lower decks.

twenny (twénd) n. (Colloq.) servant girl helping cook and housemaid [fr. between].

tweezers (twéczérs) n. sing. small pair of pincers, esp. for pulling out superfluous hairs [prob. fr. teezee, obsolete word for surgeon's case of instruments].

twelve (twelv) a. one more than eleven; two and ten; dozen;—n. sum of ten and two; symbol representing twelve units, as 12, xii.—twelfth a. next after eleventh; constituting one of twelve equal parts;—n. one of twelve equal parts.—Twelfth Day, January 6th, twelfth day aft. Christmas; Feast of Epiphany.—twelfthly adv.—Twelfth Night, evening of, or evening before, Twelfth Day, when festivities and special entertainments were held.—the Twelve, twelve Apostles.—twelvemonth n. a year (O.E. twelf, twelve).

twenty (twent4) a. twice ten; thirteen and one;—n. number next after nineteen, score; symbol representing twenty units, as 20, xx.—twentieth a. next after nineteenth;—n. one of twenty equal parts.—twentyfold adv. twenty times as many (O.E. twentig).

twerp (twérp) n. (Slang) end.

twice (twís) adv. two times; doubly [O.E. twi, two].

twiddle (twídl) v.t. to play with, to twirl idly;—v.i. to spin round, to tittle with.—to twiddle one's thumbs, to have nothing to do [etym. doubtful].

twig (twíg) n. small shoot or branch of tree, divining-rod.—twiggy a. covered with twigs [O.E. twig, branch].

twig (twíg) v.t. and i. (Colloq.) to notice; to understand [fr. twig, discern].

twilight (twíllt) n. half-light, preceding sunrise or immediately after sunset; faint, indeterminate light;—a. partially illuminated, obscure.—twilight sleep, in obstetrics, modern method of inducing state of partial insensibility in woman in confinement by use of drug, scopolamine-morphine [lit. 'between-light'; O.E. twi, two; leht, light].

twill (twíl) n. fabric woven with diagonal ribbing;—v.t. to weave with twill [O.E. twílic, two-threads].

twinn (twín) n. one of two born at birth; exact counterpart, a. twofold, being one of two born at a birth, consisting of two identical parts; growing in pairs.—twins n. pl. two single beds of identical size side by side.—twinn-born a. born at the same birth.—twinn brother,—sister n.—twinn-screw n. a vessel with two propellers on separate shafts [O.E. twinn, double].

twine (twín) n. cord composed of two or more strands twisted together; string; tangle;—v.t. to twist together, as fibres; to entwine; to encircle;—v.i. to wind; to coil spirally, as tendrils of plant; to follow circuitous route.—twining a. winding, coiling [O.E. twín, double-thread].

twinge (twíng) n. sudden, acute spasm of pain; pang;—v.t. (rare) to twerk to effect momentarily with sudden pain [O.E. twenjan, to pinch].

twinkle (twíngkl) v.i. to blink; to sparkle; (of eyes) to light up; (of feet) to move quickly and neatly;—n. act of twinkling; gleam of amusement in eyes; flicker; quick movement of feet, esp. in dancing; sparkle.—twinkler n.—twinkling n. twinkle [O.E. twinnclan, to sparkle].

twirl (twírl) v.t. to whirl round; to flourish;—v.i. to turn round rapidly;—n. a rapid, rotary motion; a flourish.—to twirl one's thumbs, to have nothing to do [O.E. thwírl, a whisk for beating milk].

twist (twíst) v.t. to contort; to coil spirally; to wind; to encircle; to distort; to form, as cord, from several fibres wound together;—v.i. to become tangled or distorted; to wriggle; to be united by winding round each other; to coil; to follow a roundabout course; (Fig.) to cheat;—n. cord; string; coil; single strand of rope; small roll of tobacco, an abnormality.—twisted a.—twister n. one who, or that which, twists, swindler [O.E. twíst, rope].

twit (twít) v.t. to taunt, to reproach; to tease.—pr p. twitting;—pa t. and pa p. twitted.—n. taunt [O.E. twicean, to pluck].

twitch (twích) v.t. to pull suddenly with a slight jerk; to snatch;—v.i. to be suddenly jerked, to contract with sudden spasm, as a muscle; to quiver;—n. sudden spasmodic contraction of fibre or muscle.—twitching n. [O.E. twicean, to pluck].

twitch-grass (twích-gras) n. prolific weed, couch-grass or quitch-grass.

twitter (twítér) n. chirping sound; slight trembling of nerves, half-suppressed laugh;—v.t. to make succession of small light sounds; to chirp, to talk rapidly and nervously; to titter.—twittering a. act of twittering; agitation, causing incoherence [imit.].

'twixt (twíks) prep. contr. of between.

two (tú) a. one and one.—n. sum of one and one, symbol representing two units, as 2, ii; a pair.—two-decker n. double-decker bus; (Colloq.) sandwich with three layers of bread and two different fillings.—two-edged a. having two sharp edges, as a sword; (Fig.) ambiguous.—two-faced a. having two faces; hypocritical; double-dealing.—two-fold a. double; doubly.—two-handed a. requiring two hands or two players, ambidextrous.—two-pence (tup-pens) n. sum of two pennies.—two-penny (tup-pén-l) a. costly, two pennies; (Colloq.) worthless.—n. kind of ale.—two-penny halfpenny (tup-pénl háfpén-l) a. rubbishy; quite valueless.—two-ply a. having two strands twisted together in two layers, as wool.—two-seater n. small motor-car designed for two people only, tandem bicycle.—two-sided a. having two surfaces or aspects, (of cloth) reversible; (Fig.) double-dealing.—two-stroke a. denoting an internal combustion engine making one explosion to every two piston-strokes.

Tyburn (tífurn) n. historical, famous place of execution in London.—Tyburn tree, gallows.

tycoon (tí-kóon) n. the title by which the shogun or Japanese hereditary commander-in-chief was known to foreigners between 1854-1868; head of great business combine; a magnate [Jap. taikun, great prince].

tyke (tík) n. var. of tike.

tymbal (tím-əb) n. same as timbal.

tympan (tím-pán) n. ancient Irish musical instrument, (Gk. tympanon, a kettle-drum).

tympanum (tím-pán-um) n. a drum (Anat.) cavity of the middle-ear; ear-drum; (Archit.) flat, triangular space over door between lintel and arch.—pl. tym'pana.—tym'panal, tympanis a. like a drum; pert, to middle ear.—tym'panist n. one who plays drum or any percussion instrument [Gk. tympanon, a kettle-drum].

Tyn(e)wald, Tin(e)wald (tin'wôld) n. Manx Parliament, usually Tyn(e)wald Court [O.N. thing-vollr, the assembly field].

type (tip) n. mark or impression of something; model; pattern; person representative of group or of certain quality; stamp on either side of a coin; (Chem.) compound which has basic composition of other more complex compounds; (Biol.) individual specimen representative of species; (Print.) metal block on one end of which is raised letter, etc. required for letterpress printing; such blocks collectively; style or form of printing;—v.t. to typify; to represent in type; to reproduce by means of typewriter; to classify;—v.i. to use a typewriter.—typ'al a.—type-out'er n. one who engraves blocks for printing.—type-found'er n. one who casts type for printing.—type-met'al n. alloy of lead, antimony, and tin used for casting type.—type-script n. a typewritten document.—type-set'ting n. process or occupation of preparing type for printing.—type-write v.t. to produce by means of a typewriter.—type-writer n. machine with keyboard operated by fingers, which produces printed characters on paper; operator of such machine.—type-writing n.—type-written a.—typic, -al (tip'ic, -al) a. pert. to type; symbolic; true to type.—typical'ity n.—typ'ically adv.—typ'icalness, typification n.—typ'ifier n.—typ'ify v.t. to represent by image; to symbolize; to exemplify.—pa.p. typ'ified.—typ'ing n. act of typing; script typed.—typ'ist n. one who operates typewriting machine.—typog'raper n. printer.—typog'raphy n.—typ'ing n. art of printing; style or mode of printing [Gk. typos, mark of a blow].

typhoid (ti'foid) a. resembling typhus; pert. to enteric fever;—n. infectious disease characterised by severe diarrhoea, profound weakness, and rash. Also called enteric fever.—typhoid'al a. [Gk. typhos, fever; eidos, form].

typhoon (ti'fôon) n. cyclonic hurricane occurring in China seas.—typhon'ic a. [Ar. tuhan].

typhus (ti'fus) n. highly contagious disease caused by virus conveyed by body lice and characterised by purplish rash, prostration, and abnormally high temperature.—ty'phous a. [Gk. typhos, fever].

tyrant (ti'rânt) n. (Jem. tyr'anness) in ancient Greece, usurper; harsh, despotic ruler; any person enforcing his will on others, cruelly and arbitrarily.—tyran'ic, -al, tyrannous (ti'rân-us) a.—tyran'ically adv.—tyr'annously adv.—tyran'icalness n.—tyr'annise v.t. to rule tyrannically; to exert authority ruthlessly;—v.i. to subject to tyrannical authority.—tyranny (ti'rân-i) n. orig. office of a Greek tyrant; despotic government; cruelly harsh enforcement of authority [Gk. tyrannos, an unconstitutional ruler].

tyre See tire.

Tyrian (ti'rî-an) a. pert. to ancient Phœnician seaport of Tyre; of deep purple colour, as dye formerly made at Tyre from gland of shell-fish.

tyro (ti'rô) n. See tire.

Tyrolese (ti'rô-lêz) a. pert. to Austrian Tyrol;—a. native of the Tyrol.

tythe (ti'th) n. Same as tithe.

Tsar, Tzarina Same as Czar, Czarina.

zigany (tsig'ân-i) n. Hungarian gipsy. Also zigane [Hung. Cigany, a gipsy].

U-boat (û'bôt) n. German submarine [Ger. untersee, under the sea, and boat].

udder (ud'ér) n. milk-gland of certain animals, as cow [O.E. uder, udder].

urometer (û-dom'ê-ter) n. an instrument for measuring rainfall.—urom'etry n.—urom'ograph n. self-registering rain-gauge [L. udus, moist; metron, measure].

ugh (uh) interj. exclamation of disgust.

ugly (ug'li) a. offensive to the sight; of disagreeable aspect; dangerous, of situation.—ug'lyly v.t. to make ugly.—ug'liness n.—ug'some a. hideous [O.N. ugg, fear].

Ulan (ûô'lan) n. cavalrman armed with lance, as in certain C. European armies, esp. Russian [Polish, ulan, lancer].

Uitlander (ûô-it'lan-der) n. Boer name for incomers to Transvaal in S. Africa, the majority of whom were British. [S. Afr. uitlander, an outlander].

ukase (û-kâs') n. official Russian decree [Russ. ukaz, edict].

Ukrainian (û-kraîn (or krîn')-ân) n. citizen of Ukraine, republic in S.W. Russia,—a. pert. to Ukraine.

ukulele (û-kôô-lâ'li) n. small four-stringed instrument like guitar [Hawaii'an].

ulcer (ul'sér) n. superficial sore discharging pus; (Fig.) source of corruption.—ul'cerate v.t. to become ulcerous; to suppurate.—ul'cerated a.—ulceration n. state of discharging pus.—ul'cered a. having ulcers.—ul'cerous a. pert. to ulcer.—ul'cerously adv.—ul'cerousness n. [L. ulcus].

ullage (ul'âj) n. amount which cask lacks of being full.—ull'ing [O.Fr. cullage, the filling up of a cask].

ulna (ul'nâ) n. inner and larger of two bones of forearm.—pl. ul'næ, -ul'nar a. [L. ulna, elbow].

ulster (ul'ster) n. long loose overcoat or mackintosh usually with a hood, originally manufactured in Ulster.—ul'stered a.

ulterior (ul'tê-ri-or) a. situated on the farther side; beyond; (of motives) undisclosed; not frankly stated.—ul'ter'iorly adv. [L. ulterior, farther].

ultimate (ul'ti-mât) a. farthest; final; primary; conclusive.—ul'timately adv.—ul'tima'tum n. final proposition; final terms offered as basis of treaty.—pl. ul'tima'tums, or ul'tima'ta.—ul'timo a. in the month preceding current one (abbrev. ult.) [L. ultimus, last].

ultra (ul'tra) a. beyond; extreme; in combination words with or without hyphen, as ultra-marine [L. ultra, beyond].

ultramarine (ul'tra-ma-rên') a. situated beyond the sea;—n. bright-blue pigment obtained from powdered lapis lazuli, or produced synthetically [L. ultra, beyond; mare, the sea (lapis lazuli formerly brought from beyond the sea)].

ultramontane (ul'tra-mon'tân) a. being beyond the mountains, esp. the Alps; used of Italians by those on northern side of Alps, and vice versa; pert. to absolute temporal and spiritual power of Papacy or to party upholding this claim;—n. advocate of extreme or ultra-papal views.—ultramontan'ism n.—ultramontanist n.

ultra-short (ul'tra-shôrt') a. (Radio) used of electro-magnetic waves of wavelength under 10 metres.

ultrasonics (ul'tra-son'iks) n. the science of mechanical vibrations of frequencies greater than those normally audible to the ear [L. ultra, beyond; sonus, a sound].

ultra-violet (ul'tra-vi-o-let) a. beyond limit of visibility at violet end of the spectrum.

ululant (ul'û-lânt) a. howling; hooting.—ul'ulate v.i. to howl; to hoot.—ulula'tion n. [L. ululare, to howl].

umbel (um'bél) n. (Bot.) flower-cluster, the stalks of which rise from a common centre on main stem, forming a convex surface above, as in carrot, parsley, etc.—um'bellal, ubiquity (û-blîk'wi-ti) n. existing in all places at same time; omnipresence.—ubiq'uitous, ubiq'uitary a. existing or being everywhere.—ubiq'uitously adv.—ubiq'uitousness n. omnipresence [L. ubique, everywhere].

U

umbellifer, um'bellate, -d a. having umbels.—umbelliferous a. bearing umbels.—umbelliform a. having shape of umbel [L. umbella, little shade].

umber (um'ber) n. natural earth pigment, yellowish-brown in colour when raw, reddish-brown when calcined or burnt [fr. Umbria, in Italy].

umbilic, -al (um-bil'ik, -əl) a. pert. to umbilical or navel.—umbilicular a. pert. to navel.—umbilical cord (Anat.) fibrous cord joining foetus to placenta [L. umbilicus, the navel].

umbles (um'blz) n.pl. entrails of a deer [orig. numbles, fr. O.Fr. nubles].

umbra (um'brə) n. shadow; (Astron.) complete shadow cast by earth or moon in eclipse, as opposed to penumbra, partial shadow in eclipse.—umbral a. [L. umbra, shadow].

umbrage (um'brā) n. shadow; (Fig.) feeling of resentment.—umbrageous a. shady.—umbrageously adv.—to take umbrage, to feel resentful [L. umbra, shadow].

umbrella (um-brel'a) n. light-weight circular covering of silk or other material on framework of spokes, carried as protection against rain (or sun); overhead protective screen of fighter aircraft during combined operations.—umbrell'a-stand n. stand for holding umbrellas [It. ombrella, dim. of umbra, shade].

umbrose (um'brōz) a. shady.—umbrosity n. [L. umbra, shadow].

umlaut (dōm'lout) n. term used to denote mutation caused by influence of vowel i (earlier y) on preceding vowel such as a, o, u; in Modern German this vowel-mutation is indicated by diacritics over vowel, as in Führer (Fuehrer); in English it is seen in plural forms of man (men), mouse (mice), foot (feet). Also called i'-mutation (Ger. um, about; Laut, sound).

umpire (um'pir) n. person chosen to arbitrate in dispute; impartial person chosen to see that rules of game are properly enforced; referee [orig. numpire, fr. O.Fr. numper, peerless].

umpteenth (umptēn) a. (Slang) innumerable [invented on analogy of thirteenth, etc.].

un- prefix before nouns, adjectives, and adverbs adding negative force, before verbs, expressing reversal of the action, separation, etc.

unabashed (un-a-bash't) a. unabashed.

unabated (un-a-bat'ed) a. not diminished; fully maintained.

unable (un-ā'bl) a. not able; impotent; lacking skill, strength, or training.

unabridged (un-a-brid'ed) a. not shortened; (of text) in full.

unaccounted (un-ak-sent'ed) a. not accounted.

unaccepted (un-ak-sept'ed) a. not acceptable; undesirable.—unacceptableness.

unaccommodating (un-a-kom'ō-dāt-ing) a. not compliant; disobliging.

unaccompanied (un-a-kom'pā-nid) a. not accompanied; sung or played on instrument without piano, organ, or orchestral accompaniment. [accountable; inexplicable.

unaccountable (un-a-kom'tā'bl) a. not unaccustomed (un-a-kus'tōmd) a. not accustomed, unusual.—unaccus'tomedness n.

unadorned (un-a-dorn'd) a. not adorned; plain, void of ornament.

unadulterate (un-a-dul'te-rēt) a. not adulterated, pure. Also unadulterated.

unaffected (un-a-fekt'ed) a. not affected; unmoved; straightforward; sincere.—unaffectedly adv. simply; void of affectation.

unalloyed (un-a-lōid') a. not alloyed; pure; (Fig.) complete; unqualified.

unalterable (un-a-wit'er-a-bl) a. not capable of alteration; fixed; permanent.—unalterability, unalterableness n.—unalterably adv.—unaltered a. unchanged.

unamiable (un-ā'mi-ā'bl) a. not amiable; boorish.—unamiability, unamiableness n.

unannealed, unanneal (un-a-nēd') a. not having received extreme action.

unanimous (ū-nan'i-mus) a. all of one mind; agreed to by all parties.—unanimity n. state of being unanimous.—unanimously adv.—unanimousness n. [L. unus, one; animus, mind].

unannealed (un-a-nēd') a. (of metals) not tempered; not treated by the process of heating followed by cooling or quenching.

unanswerable (un-an'ser-a-bl) a. not answerable; irrefutable; conclusive.—unanswerability, unanswerableness n.

unappetising (un-ap-pē-tiz-ing) a. not appetising; uninviting; repulsive.

unappreciated (un-a-prē-shi-ā-ted) a. not appreciated, not valued.—unappreciative a. not appreciative; lacking in gratitude.

unapproachable (un-a-prōch-a-bl) a. not approachable; inaccessible; (of a person) having an aloof manner.—unapproachableness n.—unapproachably adv.

unarm (un-arm) v.t. to disarm; to render harmless;—v.t. to lay down arms.—unarmed a. defenceless.—unarmoured a. without weapons; (of ships, etc.) not protected by armour-plating.

unashamed (un-a-shāmd') a. not ashamed; unabashed; brazen.

unasked (un-ask'd) a. not asked; unsolicited.

unassailable (un-a-sāil-a-bl) a. not assailable; irrefutable; invincible.—unassailed a.

unassimilated (un-a-sim'i-lāt-ed) a. not assimilated.—unassimilable a. not capable of mixing thoroughly.—unassimilating a.

unassuming (un-a-sūm-ing) a. not assuming; modest, not overbearing.

unattached (un-a-tach'd) a. not attached; dangling, not posted to a particular regiment; non-resident. (Colloq.) not married or engaged.

unattainable (un-a-tān'a-bl) a. beyond one's reach, not attainable.—unattainably adv.

unattended (un-a-tend'ed) a. not accompanied, as by a servant; not attended to, untreated.—unattending a. not attending.—unattentive a. inattentive.

unattested (un-a-test'ed) a. not attested; unsupported by the evidence of a witness.

unattractive (un-a-trakti-v) a. not attractive; repellent; plain; not prepossessing.—unattractively adv.—unattractiveness n.

unauthorised (un-aw'thor-iz'd) a. not authorised; unactioned by authority.—unauthoritative a.

unavailing (un-a-vāil-ing) a. not availing, fruitless, having no result.—unavailingly n.

—unavailable a. not procurable; not at one's disposal.—unavailingly adv. fruitlessly.

unavoidable (un-a-vōid-a-bl) a. not avoidable; inevitable; inescapable; incapable of being made null and void.—unavoidableness n.—unavoidably adv.—unavoided a.

unaware (un-a-wār) a. having no information.—adv. unaware.—unawarely adv. unexpectedly; without previous warning.

unbaked (un-bākt') a. not baked; (Fig.) immature.

unbalance (un-bal'ans) v.t. to upset; to unbalance.—unbalanced a. not balanced; lacking equipoise, or mental stability, not adjusted or equal on credit and debit sides (of ledger).

—unbalance n. [sword] not blunted.

unbated (un-bāt'ed) a. not repressed; (of unbearable) (of pain) excruciating.—unbearableness n.—unbearably adv.

unbeaten (un-bē'tn) a. not flogged; unconquered; unsurpassed; untrod.

unbecoming (un-bē-kum-ing) a. not becoming; not suited to the wearer; (of behaviour) immodest; indecorous.—unbecomingly adv.—unbecomingly n.

unbeknown (un-bē-knōn') a. unknown.—unbeknownst adv. without the knowledge of.

unbelief (un-bé-léf') n. scepticism, esp. regarding divine revelation.—unbelievability n. state of being incredible.—unbelievable a.—unbelieved a.—unbeliever n. sceptic.—unbelieving a. not believing in divine revelation.—unbelievingly adv.

unbelt (un-belt') v.t. to undo the belt of; to take off a belt, as of sword.

unbend (un-bend') v.t. to free from bent position; to straighten; to relax; to loose, as anchor;—v.i. to become relaxed; to become more friendly.—unbending a. not pliable; rigid; (Fig.) coldly aloof; resolute.—unbendingly adv.—unbent a. straight.

unbias (un-bi'as) v.t. to rid of prejudice.—unbias(ed) a. unprejudiced; impartial.

unbidden (un-bid'én) a. not invited; unpremeditated.

unbind (un-bind') v.t. to remove band or fetter from; to loosen; to remove the covers from (a book).

unbitten (un-bit'n) a. not bitten; (Slang) not enthusiastic.

unbleached (un-blécht') a. not bleached; having its natural colour.

unblemished (un-blém'isht) a. not blemished; faultless; (of character) pure; perfect.—unblemishable a.

unblooded (un-blood'ed) a. (of animal) not thoroughbred.

unbodied (un-bod'id) a. freed from the body; incorporeal.

unbolt (un-bólt') v.t. to withdraw a bolt from; to unfasten.—unbolted a. unfastened.

unbolted (un-bólt'ed) a. (of grain) unsifted; not having bran separated by bolter; coarse.

unborn (un-born') a. not yet born; future, as unborn generations.

unbosom (un-bóóz'um) v.t. to disclose freely; to reveal one's intimate longings.

unbound (un-bound') a. not bound, free; without outer binding, as a book.—unbound'ed a. illimitable; abundant; irrepressible.—edly adv.—edness n.

unbowed (un-boud') a. not bowed; invincible.

unbreakable (un-brák'á-bl) a. not breakable; non-brittle, as of plastics.

unbridle (un-brí'dl) v.t. to remove the bridle from, as a horse.—unbridled a. unrestrained; violently passionate.—unbridledness n. unbroken (un-bró'kén) a. complete, whole; (of horse) untamed; inviolate; continuous; unsurpassed.—ly adv.—edness n.

unburden (un-bur'dn) v.t. to relieve of a burden; (Fig.) to relieve the mind of anxiety.—unburdened a.

unbusinesslike (un-biz'nes-lík) a. not businesslike; not methodical.

unbutton (un-but'n) v.t. to loose the buttons of; to unfasten; to dismantle, of steel structural framework.

uncage (un-káj') v.t. to free from a cage.

uncalculated (un-kál'kú-lá-ted) a. not calculated; unexpected.

uncalled (un-kawld') a. not summoned.—uncalled for, superfluous; gratuitous.

uncanny (un-kan'i) a. weird; unearthly.—uncannily adv.—uncanniness n.

uncate (ung-kát) a. hooked [L. uncus, a hook].

uncaused (un-kawzd') a. not caused; without cause; self-existent.

unceasing (un-sé'ing) a. not ceasing; continual; incessant.—unceasingly adv.

unceremonious (un-sér-e-món'i-us) a. not ceremonious; informal; abrupt.—unceremoniously adv.—unceremoniousness n.

uncertain (un-sér'tén) a. not certain; not positively known; unreliable; insecure.—uncertainly adv.—uncertainty n.—uncertainty n. state of being or that which is uncertain; lack of reassurance.

unchain (un-chán') v.t. to free from chains or bondage.

unchangeable (un-chán'já-bl) a. not changeable; constant; immutable.—unchangeability, unchangeableness n.—unchangeably adv.—unchanged a. unaltered; static.—unchanging a.—unchangingly adv.

uncharitable (un-char'á-tá-bl) a. not charitable; mean; censorious.—uncharitableness n.—uncharitably adv.

uncharted (un-char'á-ted) a. not shown on a map; unexplored.

unchristian (un-kris'ti-an) a. not Christian; contrary to principles of Christianity; pagan; not humanitarian.—unchristianly adv.

unchurch (un-church') v.t. to excommunicate; to deprive of name and status of a church.

uncial (un-shál) a. pert. to a type of rounded script, found in ancient MSS from 4th-9th cents.—n. uncial letter or manuscript.—uncialise v.t. to form like uncials [L. uncia, inch. (lit.) letters, an inch high].

unciform (un-shí-form) a. shaped like a hook.—uncinal, uncinate a. hooked, having hook-like prickles.—Uncinaria n. pl. hook-worms [L. uncus, a hook].

uncircumcised (un-sírk'um-sízd) a. not circumcised; Gentile; (Fig.) unregenerate.—uncircumcision n.

uncivil (un-sívl) a. not civil; rude.—uncivilised a. barbarous.—uncivilly adv.

uncle (ung'kl) n. brother of one's father or mother, any elderly man, (Slang) pawnbroker.—Uncle Sam (Fig.) United States of America; typical American citizen [L. avunculus, mother's brother].

unclean (un-klén') a. not clean; filthy; ceremonially un sanctified; obscene.—uncleanliness n. (un-klén'li-nes).—uncleanly (un-klén'li) adv.—unclean'ness n.

uncleanness (un-klén'sh) v.t. to open what is clenched.

unclothe (un-klóTH') v.t. to divest of clothes.—unclothed a. naked.

uncock (un-kók') v.t. to let down hammer of gun without exploding charge.

uncoil (un-kóil') v.t. to unwind the coils of uncomely (un-kum'li) a. not comely; unprepossessing, ugly; obscene.

uncomfortable (un-kum-fórtá-bl) a. not comfortable; uneasy, awkward.—uncomfortableness n.—uncomfortably adv.—uncomforted a. not consoled.

uncommercial (un-kom-tré-shál) a. not commercial; not backed by profit-making motives.

uncommon (un-kom-kón) a. not common; rare, extraordinary.—adv. (Collog) remarkably.—uncommonly adv.—uncommonness n.

uncommunicative (un-kom-mú-ní-ká'tiv) a. not communicative; discreet; taciturn.—uncommunicable a. not capable of being shared or communicated.—uncommunicableness n.—uncommunicated a.

uncomplaining (un-kom-plá'ling) a. not complaining; resigned.—uncomplainingly adv. without complaint.

uncompleted (un-kom-plé'ted) a. not completed; unfinished.

uncomplimentary (un-kom-plí-men'tá-ri) a. not complimentary; unflattering.

uncompromising (un-kom-pró-mí'zing) a. not compromising; making no concessions, rigid.—uncompromisingly adv.

unconcealed (un-kon-séld') a. not concealed, openly shown; frank.

unconcern (un-kon-kérn') n. lack of concern; apathy.—unconcerned a. not concerned; disinterested; apathetic; not involved.—unconcernedly adv.—edness n.

unconditioned (un-kon-dí-shúnd) a. not subject to conditions; absolute; instinctive.—unconditional a. complete; absolute; without reservation.—unconditionally adv.—unconditioned reflexes, the instinctive responses of an animal to external stimuli.

unconfirmed (un-kon-fírm'd) a. not confirmed; not substantiated by authoritative evidence; not having received the religious rite of confirmation.

uncongenial (un-kon-jē-m-əl) a. not congenial; temperamentally disagreeable.—uncongeniality n.—uncongenially adv.

unconnected (un-kon-ek-ted) a. not connected; disjointed; incoherent, unrelated.

unconquerable (un-kon-keg-r-ə-bl) a. not able to be conquered; invincible.

unconscionable (un-kon-shun-ə-bl) a. beyond reason; unscrupulous; excessive.—unconscionableness n.—unconscionably adv.

unconscious (un-kon-shus) a. not conscious; unaware; deprived of consciousness; involuntary.—unconsciously adv.—unconsciousness n. state of being insensible.—the unconscious, in psycho-analysis, part of mind which appears to act without a conscious effort of will.

unconstitutional (un-kon-sti-tushun-əl) a. not constitutional; contrary to the constitution, as of a society or state.—unconstitutionality n.—unconstitutionally adv.

unconstrained (un-kon-strind) a. not constrained; not embarrassed; voluntary.—unconstrainedly adv.—unconstraint n.

uncontrollable (un-kon-trōl-ə-bl) a. not capable of being controlled; unmanageable; irrefragable.—uncontrollableness n.—uncontrollably adv.—uncontrolled a. not controlled; (of prices) not restricted by government regulations.—uncontrolledly adv.

unconventional (un-kon-ven-shun-əl) a. not conventional; original, Bohemian.—unconventionality n.—unconventionally adv.

unconversant (un-kon-ver-sant) a. not conversant (followed by with or in); unfamiliar (with).

unconverted (un-kon-vert-ed) a. not converted; unchanged in heart; heathen; not changed in opinion. (Rapin) a. of a try, not converted into a goal.—unconversion n.—unconvertible a. not convertible.

unconvinced (un-kon-vinsd) a. not convinced; not reassured; not persuaded.—unconvincing a. not convincing.

uncork (un-kork) v.t. to remove the cork from.

uncouple (un-kupl) v.t. to loose, as a dog from a leash; to disjoin, as railway carriages.—uncoupled a. not mated.

uncouth (un-kūth) a. awkward in manner; strange; unpolished; uncivilly.—uncouthly adv.—uncouthness n. [O E. cūth, known].

uncovenanted (un-kūv-ə-nant-ed) a. not agreed to, or bound by, a covenant.—uncovenanted benefit, National Insurance benefit not covered by contributions.

uncover (un-kūv-er) v.t. to remove the cover of; to expose to view; to leave unprotected;—v.i. to take off one's hat.

unction (ungk-shun) n. act of anointing with oil, as in ceremony of consecration or coronation; anointing the dying, according to last rites administered by R.C. Church; (Med.) ointment, act of applying ointment, unguent; (Fig.) that which soothes, fervour of language arousing deep religious devotion in another; sincere emotion; gush.—unctionity n. the quality or state of being unctuous.—unctuous a. oily; (Fig.) excessively suave.—unctuously adv.—unctuousness n.—extreme unction, R.C. rite of anointing the dying [L. ungere, unctum, to anoint].

uncular (ungk-lar) a. pert. to an uncle.

uncultivated (un-kultiv-ə-bl) a. not capable of being cultivated, waste.—uncultivated a. not cultivated; not tilled; (Fig.) undeveloped.—uncultured a. not cultured; not educated.

uncurb (un-kurb) v.t. to free from a curb.—uncurbed a. not curbed; unrestrained.

uncus (ungk-us) n. hook or hook-like formation; barb.—pl. unel (ung-el) [L. uncus, a hook].

uncut (un-kut) a. not cut; having the pages untrimmed, as a book.

undamped (un-damp't) a. not damped; dry (Fig.) not downhearted or dispirited.

undated (un-dā-ted) a. wavy, as a leaf. Also un'date.—undate a. having wavy depressions [L. unda, a wave].

undated (un-dā'ted) a. not bearing a date, as a letter.

undaunted (un-dawn'ted) a. not daunted; fearless; intrepid.—undauntedly adv.

undecieve (un-de-sēv') v.t. to free from deception; to disillusion.—undecieved a.

undecennial (un-dē-sen-i-əl) a. pert. to, or lasting, a period of eleven years; happening every eleventh year. Also undecennary [L. undecim, eleven].

undecided (un-dē-sī-ded) a. not settled; irresolute; vacillating.—undecidable a. not capable of being settled.—undecidably adv.

undecipherable (un-dē-sī-fg-r-ə-bl) a. impossible to decipher; illegible.

undecleared (un-dē-klērd) a. not declared; (of taxable goods at customs) not admitted as being in one's possession during customs examination.

undefended (un-dē-fen-ded) a. not defended; (of a lawsuit, divorce case, etc.) without any defense being produced in court.

undefined (un-dē-find) a. not defined; vague; not made clear by definition.— undefinable a. not capable of being defined.

undemocratic (un-dēm-ə-kra'tik) a. not according to the principles of democracy.—

undemocratically v.t. to make undemocratic.

undemonstrative (un-dē-mōn-strə-tiv) a. not demonstrative, reserved.—undemonstratively adv.—undemonstrativeness n.

undeniable (un-dē-nī-ə-bl) a. not capable of being refuted or denied; certain; obvious.—undeniably adv. palpably, certainly.

undeniable (un-dē-pen-də-bl) a. not dependable; unreliable; fickle.

under (un-dgr) prep. below; beneath; subjected to, less than; liable to, included in, in the care of; during the period of, bound by;—adv. in a lower degree or position; less;—a. subordinate; lower in rank or degree.—

under age, younger than 21 years.—under arms, mobilised for active service.—under cover, sheltered.—under fire, exposed to enemy assault.—under one's breath, in a whisper (O E. under, under).

underact (un-dgr-akt') v.t. or v.i. to act a part in a play in a colourless, ineffective way.—underaction n.

underbid (un-dgr-bid') v.t. to bid a price less than the real value of an article; to sell goods more cheaply than another, to make lower bid at bridge than one's cards justify.

underbred (un-dgr-bred') a. of inferior manners; vulgar.

underbrush (un-dgr-brush) n. undergrowth of shrubs and bushes.

undercarriage (un-dgr-kar-ij) n. (Aero.) landing gear of aircraft including wheels, skids, etc.

undercharge (un-dgr-chārg') v.t. to charge less than true price.—a. price below the real value.

underclay (un-dgr-kli) n. a bed of clay beneath a coal seam.

underclothes (un-dgr-klēthz) n. pl. garments worn below the outer clothing, esp. next the skin.—underclothing; lingerie.—underclothed a.—underclothing n.

undercover (un-dgr-kūv-er) a. (Colloq.) secret; used esp. of secret service agents.

undercurrent (un-dgr-kur-ent) n. current under surface of main stream, sometimes flowing in a contrary direction, (Fig.) hidden tendency.—a. hidden.

undercut (un-dgr-kut') v.t. to cut away from below, as coal seam; to strike from beneath; to sell goods cheaply in order to capture a market or monopoly; (Golf) to loft (a ball);—a. produced by cutting away from below.—undercut n. act of cutting away from below.

meat on under side of sirloin; (Baring) punch from underneath.

under-develop (un-dgr-de-vel'op) v.t. (Photog.) to develop insufficiently so that the photographic print is indistinct.—un'der-develop'ed a. not developed physically; (of film) not sufficiently developed.

underdo (un-dgr-dōd') v.t. to cook insufficiently.—underdone a. not sufficiently cooked.

underdog (un-dgr-dog) n. dog which is beaten in fight; (Fig.) person who fares badly in any struggle.

underdose (un-dgr-dōs') v.t. to give an insufficient dose (of medicine) to.—un'derdose n. an insufficient dose.

underestimate (un-dgr-es'ti-māt) v.t. to miscalculate the value of; to rate at too low a figure;—n. an inadequate valuation.

under-exposed (un-dgr-eks-pōz'd) a. (Photog.) insufficiently exposed to the light to impress details on a sensitive surface with clarity of outline.—un'der-expos'ure n.

underfeed (un-dgr-fed') v.t. to feed insufficiently; to undernourish.—underfed a.

underfelt (un-dgr-felt) n. felt laid underneath carpet to minimise wear and tear.

underfoot (un-dgr-fōot') adv. beneath the feet; (Fig.) in subjection.

undergarment (un-dgr-gär-mənt) n. a garment worn underneath the outer clothes.

undergo (un-dgr-gō') v.t. to bear; to suffer, to sustain; to participate in.—pr.p. undergo'ing.—pa.t. underwent.—pa.p. undergone.

undergraduate (un-dgr-grad'ü-ät) n. student attending classes for degree at university;—a. pert. to such student or university course.—undergrad'uate n.

underground (un-dgr-ground) a. under the ground; subterranean; (Fig.) secret;—n. underground railway-system; a subway; (Fig.) secret organisation or resistance movement.—underground' adv. below surface of earth; (Fig.) secretly.

undergrowth (un-dgr-grōth) n. small trees, shrubs, or plants growing beside taller trees.

underhand (un-dgr-hand) adv. by secret means; fraudulently; (Cricket) bowled with hand and arm kept below shoulder level; (Tennis) served or played with racquet kept below waist-level; secretly; clandestine; slyly.—underhand'ed a. secret; short-handed, as shop staff.—underhan'dedly adv.—underhan'dedness n.

underhung (un-dgr-hung') a. projecting beyond upper jaw, as lower jaw.

underived (un-dē-riv'd') a. not derived; original; natural.

underlay (un-dgr-lā') v.t. to lay underneath; to support by something put below;—v.i. to incline from perpendicular;—n. piece of paper, cardboard, etc. used by printers to raise type-plate; (Geol.) inclination of vein from perpendicular; floor covering of felt, cork-oak, etc. laid underneath a carpet. Also underlie.

underlie (un-dgr-li') v.t. to lie underneath; (Fig.) to be the basis of;—n. (Geol.) an underlay.—underly'ing a.

underline (un-dgr-līn') v.t. to mark with line below, for emphasis; to emphasise.—underline n.

underling (un-dgr-ling) n. one who holds inferior position; subordinate member of a staff; a weakling.

underman (un-dgr-man') v.t. to supply, as ship, with too small a crew; to employ too small a staff, for the work on hand.—

(un-dgr-men-shund) a. referred to below or later in the text.

undermine (un-dgr-min') v.t. to excavate for the purpose of mining, blasting, etc.; to erode; (Fig.) to sap, as one's energy; to weaken insidiously, as another's faith.

underneath (un-dgr-nēth') adv. and prep. beneath; below; in a lower place.

undernourished (un-dgr-nur'ishd) a. insufficiently nourished.

underpay (un-dgr-pā') v.t. to pay inadequately for the work done; to exploit.—underpay'ment n.

under-populated (un-dgr-pop'ü-lā-ted) a. not fully populated in relation to the resources of an area.

underproof (un-dgr-prōof) a. containing less alcohol than proof-spirit.

under-rate (un-dgr-rāt') v.t. to rate too low; to underestimate.—un'derrate n. price lower than the real value.

underscore (un-dgr-skōr') v.t. to underline for emphasis.

under-secretary (un-dgr-sek're-tā-ri) n. assistant-secretary, esp. of Government department.—Parliamentary Under-Secretary, M.P. acting as secretary to Minister with portfolio.—Permanent Under-Secretary, Civil Servant who is head of State department.—un'der-sec'retaryship n.

undersell (un-dgr-sel') v.t. to sell more cheaply than another.—underseller n.

underset (un-dgr-set) n. (Naut.) under-surface current contrary in direction to the flow of the main stream.—underset v.t. to support as masonry, from underneath.

undershot (un-dgr-shot) a. (of mill-wheel) turned by water flowing under.

undershrub (un-dgr-shrub) n. a small shrub.

undersign (un-dgr-sīn) v.t. to write one's name at the foot of or underneath; to subscribe.—undersigned a. and n.

undersized (un-dgr-sīzd) a. smaller than normal size; dwarf.

underskirt (un-dgr-skert) n. petticoat; skirt over which drapery, as of lace, is arranged.

understand (un-dgr-stand') v.t. to comprehend; to grasp the significance of.

understate (un-dgr-stāt') v.t. to state less strongly than truth warrants; to minimise deliberately.—un'derstatement n.

understudy (un-dgr-stud-i) n. actor ready to deputise for principal actor (or actress) at a moment's notice.—v.t. to study theatrical part for this purpose.

undertake (un-dgr-tāk') v.t. to take upon oneself as a special duty; to embark on; to agree (to do); to warrant.—v.i. to be under obligation to act for another; to make arrangements for burial.—pa.t. undertook.—pa.p. undertaken.—undertaker n. one who undertakes; contractor; one who manages a burial.—undertaking n. project, guarantee.

undertone (un-dgr-tōn) n. low, subdued tone of voice or colour.

undertow (un-dgr-tō) n. under current or backwash of a wave after it has reached the shore; underset.

undervalue (un-dgr-val'ü) v.t. to set too low a price on; to esteem lightly; to underestimate.—n. an underestimate.—un'der-valuation n.

underwear (un-dgr-wär) n. underclothes.

underwent (un-dgr-went') pa.t. of undergo.

underwood (un-dgr-wōod) n. small trees growing among larger trees; coppice.

underwork (un-dgr-wurk') v.t. to work for lower wages than; to demand less work than is due; (Fig.) to undermine; to contrive secretly.—v.i. to do less work than is due; to slack.—pa.t. and pa.p. underworked, un'derwrought.—un'derwork n. inadequate labour; slacking; subordinate task.

underworld (un-dgr-würld) n. the nether regions; Hades; the antipodes; section of community which lives by vice and crime.

underwrite (un-dgr-rīt') v.t. to write under something else; to subscribe; to append one's signature to insurance policy (esp. marine insurance) whereby one guarantees to compensate for loss or damage on payment of certain premium per cent; to undertake to buy shares not bought by the public, and thereby guarantee success of issue of business.

capital.—pr.p. underwrit'ing.—pa.t. underwrote'.—pa.p. underwrit'ten.—un' der writer n.
underwrought (un-dgr-rawt') pa.t. and pa.p. of underwork.

undeserved (un-de-zervd') a. not merited; unwarranted.—undeserv'ing a. not deserving; unworthy.—undeserv'ingly adv.

undesirable (un-dô-zir'q-bl) a. not desirable; having no appreciable virtue;—n. person of ill-repute.—undesirability, undesir'ableness n.—undesir'ably adv.—undesir'ing, undesir'ous a. not desirous.

undetermined (un-de-ter'mind) a. not determined; undecided; irresolute.—undeter'minable a. not able to be determined.—undeter'minate a. indeterminate; vague.

undeterred (un-de-tord') a. not deterred; unhindered; resolute.

undveloped (un-de-vel'opt) a. not developed or matured; (of land) not yet exploited or explored.

undeviating (un-dô-vi-f'ing) a. not deviating; resolute in pursuing a straight course; (Fig.) resolute of purpose.

undid (un-did') pa.t. of undo'.

undies (un'diz) n.pl. (Colloq. abbrev.) women's underwear.

undifferentiated (un-dif-q-ren'tshl-â-ted) a. not differentiated; homogeneous undigenous (un-dig'q-nus) a. originated or generated by water [L. unda, a wave; gignere, to produce].

undigested (un-di-jest'ed) a. not digested; (Fig.) not under'stand'ed; unanalysed.—undiges'tible a. indigestible.

undiluted (un-dil-â-ted) a. not diluted, not weakened by the addition of water or other liquid; of full strength.—undilution n.

undine (un-din') n. water-sprite; (Med.) small glass flask used for irrigating eyes with lotion.—undinal a. [L. unda, a wave].

undisciplined (un-disi-plind) a. not disciplined, not controlled; not trained to obey.—undis'ciplinable a. uncontrollable undiscriminating (un-dis-krim'i-nâ-ting) a. not discriminating; not critical.

undisposed (un-dis-pôz'd') a. not disposed; disinclined; not sold off or distributed.

undisputed (un-dis-pû-ted) a. not disputed; unchallenged.—undispu'table a. indisputable.—undispu'tableness n.—undispu'tedly adv.

undistinguished (un-dis-ting'gwist) a. not distinguished; ordinary, not famous.—undisting'uishable a. not known, the one from the other.—undisting'uishableness n.

undo (un-dôo') v.t. to reverse what has been done; to annul; to loose; to unfasten; to damage character of.—pa.t. undid'.—pa.p. undone.—undo'er n.—undo'ing n. act of reversing what has been done; ruin, esp. of reputation.—undone' a. ruined.

undomesticate (un-dô-mes'ti-kât) v.t. to make unfit for domestic life; to allow to revert to wild state.—undomes'ticated a. untamed; not fond of housework.

undose (un'dôz) a. wavy [L. unda, wave].

undoubted (un-dout'ed) a. not doubted; certain, genuine.—undoub'table a. unquestionable.—undoub'tably adv.—undoub'tedly adv. without doubt; certainly.—undoub'tful a. unsuspecting.

undress (un-dres') v.t. to divest of clothes or covering; to remove dressing from a wound.—v.t. to take off (one's) clothes.—undress n. and a. informal dress; off-duty military uniform.—undressed a.

undue (un-dû') a. not in accordance with what is due or proper; immoderate; not befitting the occasion.—undue's n.

undulate (un'dû-lât) v.t. to move up and down like waves; to cause to vibrate;—v.t. to move up and down; to vibrate; to have wavy edge;—a. wavy.—undulant a. undulating; wavy.—undulately adv.—undulating a. wavy; having series of rounded ridges and depressions, as surface of landscape.—un- dulatingly adv.—undula'tion n. wave; fluctuating motion, as of waves; wave-like contour of stretch of land; series of wavy lines; vibratory motion.—undulatory a. pert. to undulation; moving like a wave; pert. to theory of light which argues that light is transmitted through ether by wave motions.—undulous, undulous a. [L. unda, a wave].

unduly (un-dû-ly) adv. in an undue manner, immoderately; improperly.

undying (un-dî'ing) a. not dying; immortal; everlasting.—undyingly adv.—undyingness n.
unearned (un-grnd') a. not earned by personal labour.—unearned income, income derived from sources other than salary, fees, etc. on which one is liable to pay higher rate of income tax.—unearned increment, increased value of property, land, etc. due to circumstances other than owner's expenditure on its upkeep.

unearth (un-erth') v.t. to dig up; to drive as a fox, rabbit, etc. from its burrow; (Fig.) to bring to light.—unearth'liness n.—unearthily a. not of this world; supernatural.

uneasy (un-êz-i) a. not at ease; worried; uncomfortable.—uneasiness n. restlessness; constraint; anxiety.—uneasily adv.

uneconomic (un-ek-on-om'ik) a. not economic, not in accordance with the principles of economics.—uneconom'ical a. not economical; wasteful; thriftless.

unedifying (un-ed-i-f'ing) a. not edifying, demoralising.

unemployed (un-em-ploid') a. not employed; out of work.—unemploy'able a. not capable of being employed.—unemployment n. state of being unemployed.—unemployment benefit, money received by unemployed workers according to conditions laid down by insurance acts.—unemployment insurance, State insurance against periods of unemployment contributed to by workers, employers, etc.

unending (un-en-ding) a. never-ending; infinite, incessant.—unend ed a.—ingly adv.

unenlightened (un-en-lit'end) a. not enlightened, living in state of intellectual or spiritual darkness.

unequal (un-êkwâl) a. not equal; not of the same length, weight, etc.; ill-assorted or ill-balanced.—unequally a. not matched, peerless.—unequally adv.—unequalness n.

unequivocal (un-êkwiv'ô-kwâl) a. not equivocal, undoubted; unambiguous; plain.—unequivocally adv.

Unesco (û-nes'kô) n. coined word from initial letters of United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation, established in November, 1945.

uneven (un-êvn) a. not even; rough; not of equal length or quality; not divisible by two without remainder; odd.—unevenly adv.—une'venness n.

unexceptionable (un-ek-sep'thun-â-bl) a. without exception; irrefragable, perfect.—unexcept'ional a. not exceptional; usual.

unexecuted (un-ek-se-kâ-ted) a. not executed, (of legal document) not signed by witness or witnesses unexpected (un-eks-pek'ted) a. not expected, sudden, without warning.

unextirpated (un-eks'tir-pâ-ted) a. not extirpated, not wiped out.

unfading (un-fâ-dâ-bl) a. not liable to fade; imperishable.—unfaded a. not faded; fresh.—unfading a. everlasting.

unfailing (un-fâ-ling) a. not liable to fail; ever loyal; inexhaustible.—unfailingly adv.

unfair (un-fâr') a. not fair; unjust; prejudiced; contrary to the rules of the game.—unfairly adv.—unfair'ness n.

unfaithful (un-fâth'fôol) a. not faithful; disloyal; inaccurate or misleading.

unfamiliar (un-fâ-mil-yâr) a. not familiar; strange; not experienced in or acquainted with.—unfamili'arity n.—unfamili'arly adv.

unfashionable (un-fash'ə-nə-bl) a. not fashionable; dowdy.—unfashionableness n.—unfashionably adv.—unfashioned a. not moulded or fashioned.

unfasten (un-fas'n) v.t. to loose; to undo.—unfastened a. not fastened.

unfathomable (un-fath'əm-ə-bl) a. not fathomable; not capable of being plumbed; (Fig.) inexplicable.—unfathomableness n.—unfathomably adv.—unfathomed a. unplumbed; bottomless; not solved.

unfeeling (un-fē'ling) a. void of feeling; callous; unsympathetic.—unfeelingly adv.

unfeigned (un-fā'nd) a. not feigned; genuine; sincere.—unfeignedly adv.—unfeignedness n.

unfetter (un-fet'ər) v.t. to remove the fetters from; to emancipate.—unfettered a.

unfilial (un-flī'yal) a. not becoming to a son or daughter; disrespectful.

unfinished (un-fīn'isht) a. not finished; roughly executed; not polished.—unfinished n.—unfinishable a.

unfit (un-fīt') a. not fit; unqualified; improper; not adapted for;—v.t. to disqualify.—unfitly adv.—unfitness n.—unfitting a. unsuitable.—unfittingly adv.

unfledged (un-fled'j) a. not yet covered with feathers; (Fig.) immature.

unfleshed (un-flesh'd) a. (of sword) not yet used in fighting; not having tasted blood.—unfleshly a. uncorporeal.—unfleshy a. having no flesh.

unflinching (un-flīn'ching) a. not flinching; resolute.—unflinchingly adv.

unfold (un-fōld) v.t. to open the folds of; to spread out; (Fig.) to disclose;—v.i. to expand.—unfold'er n.—unfolding n.

unforeseen (un-fōr-sēn) a. unexpected.—unforeseeable a. not capable of being foreseen; unpredictable.

unforgettable (un-fōr-get'ə-bl) a. not forgettable; memorable.

unforgivable (un-fōr-giv'ə-bl) a. unpardonable; not excusable.—unforgiving a. not forgiving; relentless.—unforgiveness n.

unformed (un-fōrm'd) a. not formed; amorphous; immature.

unfortunate (un-fōr'tū-nāt) a. not fortunate; ill-timed; unsuccessful.—n. prostitute.—unfortunately adv.—unfortunateness n.

unfounded (un-fōund'ed) a. not founded; baseless.

unfrequented (un-frē-kwen'tēd) a. not frequented; seldom visited.—unfrequent a. not frequent; happening seldom.

unfriendly (un-frend'li) a. not friendly; hostile.—unfriendly a. having no friends.—unfriendliness n.

unfrock (un-frok') v.t. to deprive of a frock, esp. to deprive of the status of a monk or priest.—unfrocked a.

unfunded (un-fund'ed) a. not funded; having no permanent funds for payment of its interest; floating.—unfunded debt, that portion of the international debt which represents war debts.

unfurl (un-furl') v.t. to loose from furled state, as a flag; to unfold; to expand;—v.i. to be spread out.

unfurnished (un-fur'nisht) a. not furnished; devoid of furniture.—unfurnish v.t. to remove furniture from.

ungainly (un-gā'nli) a. clumsy; awkward.—adv. in a clumsy manner.—ungainliness n. [M.E. ungetin, awkward.] ungarnished (un-gar'nisht) a. not garnished; served without decoration.

unglaze (un-glāz') v.t. to remove glass from.—unglazed a. not fitted with glass; (of pottery) having matt surface.

ungodly (un-god'li) a. not godly; profane; (Slang) shocking.—ungodly adv. in an ungodly manner.—ungodliness n. the state of being ungodly; wickedness.

ungovernable (un-guv'ər-nə-bl) a. uncontrollable; incapable of restraint.—ungovern- ableness n.—ungovernably adv.—ungoverned a. not governed; unbridled.

ungracious (un-grā'shəs) a. lacking in courtesy; not kindly.—ungracefully adv.—ungracefulness n.—ungraciously adv.—ungraceful a. not graceful; grumpy.

ungrammatical (un-grā-mat'ī-kəl) a. not grammatical; not in accordance with the rules of grammar.—ungrammatically adv.

ungrateful (un-grāt'fūl) a. not grateful; not appreciative; not repaying the labour expended.—ungratefully adv.—ungratefulness n. ingratitude.

ungrounded (un-grōund'ed) a. having no foundation, false.

ungrudging (un-grud'ing) a. not grudging; generous.—ungrudgingly adv.—ungrudgingly adv.

ungual (un-gwāl) a. having nails, hooves, or claws.—ungulate a. having hoofs.—ungulate a. walking on hoofs [L. ungulus, a nail.] unguarded (un-guārd'ed) a. not guarded; careless; indiscreet.—unguardedly adv.—unguardedness n.

unguent (un-gwēnt) n. ointment.—unguentary a. pert. to unguents.—unguentous a. resembling an unguent.—unguinous a. oily [L. ungere, to anoint.] unhallowed (un-hāl'ōd) n. not hallowed; profane; wicked.—unhallowing n.

unhand (un-hand') v.t. to let go.—unhandly adv. awkwardly.—unhandiness n.—unhandled a. not handled.—unhandy a. not handy; inconvenient; lacking skill.

unhappy (un-hap'i) a. not happy; miserable; out of place; tactless.—unhappily adv.—unhappiness n.

unhealthy (un-hel'thi) a. not healthy or hygienic; habitually weak or ill; not wholesome.—unhealthful a.—unhealthfully adv.—unhealthily adv.—unhealthiness n.

unheard (un-her'd) a. not heard; not given hearing.—unheard of, unprecedented.

unhesitating (un-hez'ī-tā-ting) a. not hesitating; spontaneous; resolute.—unhesitatingly adv. without hesitation.

unhinge (un-līnj') v.t. to take from the hinge; (Fig.) to cause mental instability.—unhinged a. (of the mind) unstable; distraught.—unhinging n.

unholy (un-hōli) a. not holy; profane; polluted; (Colloq.) frightful.—unholyly adv.—unholiness n. the quality of being unholy.

unhook (un-hōok') v.t. to loosen from a hook; to detach hooks from; to open.

unhorse (un-hors') v.t. to throw from a horse; to cause to fall from a horse.

unhoused (un-houz'id) a. not having received the sacrament.

unhurt (un-hurt') a. not hurt; uninjured.—unhurtful a. innocuous.

unhygienic (un-hī-jen'īk) a. not hygienic; insanitary; unhealthy.

uni-, (ū-nī') pref. one or single [fr. L. unus, one.] uniaxial (ū-nī-āk'sī-əl) a. having a single axis having one direction along which rays of light can travel without bifurcation. Also uniaxial.—uniaxially adv.

unicellular (ū-nī-sel'yū-lar) a. having a single cell; monocellular.

unicorn (ū-nī-kōrn) n. fabulous composite animal with horse's body and a single horn protruding from forehead; team of three horses, with two abreast, and single one in front [L. unus, one; cornu, horn.] unideal (un-ī-dē'al) a. realistic; prosaic.—unidealism n.

uniform (ū-nī-form) a. having always same form; conforming to one pattern; regular; consistent; not varying, as temperature;—n. official dress, as a livery, etc.—uniformed a. wearing uniform.—uniformity n. conformity to pattern or standard.—uniformly adv.—uniformness n.

unify (ū-nī-fī) v.t. to make into one; to make uniform.—unifiable a. capable of being made one.—unification n. act of unifying; state of being made one; welding together of separate parts.

unilaminar (ū-nī-lam'ī-nār) a. having only one lamina.

unilateral (ū-nī-lat'ē-rāl) a. one-sided; binding one side only, as in party agreement.—unilaterality n.—unilaterally adv.

uniliteral (ū-nī-lit'ē-rāl) a. consisting of one letter only [L. unus, one; littera, a letter].

unilocular (ū-nī-lok'ū-lār) a. (Bol.) having single chamber or cavity.

unimaginable (un-im-aj'i-na-bl) a. not imaginable; inconceivable.—unimaginableness n.—unimaginably adv.—unimag'native a. not imaginative; dull; uninspired.—unimag'inatively adv.—unimag'inativeness n.—unimag'ined it. not imagined.

unimpaired (un-im-pā'rd) a. not impaired; not weakened; undamaged.

unimpeachable (un-im-pē'cha-bl) a. not impeachable, irrefragable, blameless.—unimpeachability, unimpeach'ableness n.—unimpeach'ably adv.—unimpeached a.

unimportant (un-im-pō'r-tant) a. not important; insignificant.—unimpor'tance n.

uninflected (un-in-flek'ted) a. not inflected; having no inflexions, as words of language.

uninformed (un-in-fōr'md) a. having no accurate information; ignorant; not expert.

uninhabitable (un-in-hab'i-tā-bl) a. not inhabitable, not fit for living in.—uninhabitability, uninhabitableness n.—uninhabited a. having no inhabitants.—desert uninspired (un-in-spī'd) a. not inspired, prosaic uninsured (un-in-sū'rd) a. not insured; not covered by insurance policy.

unintelligent (un-in-tel'i-jēt) a. not intelligent; mentally dull.—unintelligence n.—unintelligently adv.—unintelligibility n.—unintelligible a. not intelligible, not capable of being comprehended.—unintelligibleness n.—unintelligibly adv.

unintentional (un-in-ten'shun-əl) a. not intentional, accidental; involuntary.—unintentionally adv.

uninterested (un-in-ter-es-ted) a. not interested.—uninteresting a. not interesting, dull.—uninterestingly adv.

uninterrupted (un-in-ter-upted) a. not interrupted, continuous.—unint'edly adv.

uninvited (un-in-vit'ed) a. not invited; unasked.—uninviting a. not inviting, unprepossessing.—uninvitingly adv.

union (ū'n-yun) n. act of joining two or more things into one; federation; marriage, harmony, combination of administrative bodies for a common purpose; trade-union.—pl. fabric containing two or more kinds of fibre, one yarn usually being of less expensive kind.—un'ioned a. joined.—unionist n. one who supports union.—Unionist n. member of Conservative party in British politics; orig. one who opposed Gladstone's proposal in 1885 to give Ireland Home Rule.—Union Jack, national flag of United Kingdom consisting of crosses of St. George, St. Andrew, and St. Patrick (Fr. union, L. unus, one).

union (ū'n-yun) n. large pearl, the only one of its kind [L. unio, single pearl].

uniparous (ū-nī-pā-rus) a. producing normally just one at a birth. (Bol.) having single stem [L. unus, one; parere, to bring forth].

unique (ū-nēk) a. single in kind; having no like or equal, peerless.—uniquely adv.—uniqueness, uniqu'ity n.

unisexual (ū-nī-sek'sū-əl) a. of one sex only, as a plant; not hermaphrodite or bisexual.—unisexual'ity n.—unisexually adv.

unison (ū-nī-son) n. harmony; concord; (Mus.) identity of pitch.—in unison, with all voices singing the same notes or notes with interval of an octave; (Fig.) in agreement.

unit (ū-nīt) n. single thing or person; group regarded as one; standard of measurement; (Math.) the least whole number.—unitary a. pert. to unit(s); whole [L. unus, one].

Unitarian (ū-nī-tā'ri-an) n. one who rejects doctrine of the Trinity and asserts the oneness of God.—Unitarianism n. [L. unus, one].

unite (ū-nīt) v.t. to join; to make into one; to form a whole; to associate, to cause to adhere;—v.i. to be joined together; to grow together; to act as one; to harmonize.—united a. joined together; harmonious, unanimous.—unitedly adv.—unit'ary n.—unity n. state of oneness; agreement, coherence, combination of separate parts into connected whole, or of different people with common aim, (Math.) any quantity taken as one.—United Nations, name given orig. during latter part of World War 2 to those nations subscribing to the United Nations Declaration at Washington, Jan. 1, 1942 (number of nations increased later to 47).—United Nations Organization, organization of peace-loving states set up after World War 2 with Security Council as chief executive body.—popular abbrev. UNO (q.v.).—United States, federal union of states, as U.S.A. [L. unus, one].

univalve (ū-nī-valv) a. having only one valve.—n. a single-valved mollusc.—univalvular a. having one valve only.

universe (ū-nī-vers) n. all created things regarded as a system or whole; the world.—universal a. pert. to universe; embracing all created things; world-wide; general (as opp. of particular); total.—n. universal proposition, general concept, (in motoring) universal joint.—universalize v.t. to make universal.—Universalism n. theological doctrine of the ultimate salvation of all mankind.—Universalist n.—universalistic a.—universal'ity n.—universal joint (in motoring) device whereby one part of machine has perfect freedom of motion in relation to another.—universally adv.—universality n. [L. unus, one, versus, to turn].

university (ū-nī-ver-sī-tī) n. institution for educating students in higher branches of learning, and having authority to confer degrees; members of university collectively [L. universitas, a corporation].

univocal (ū-nī-vō-kāl) a. having one meaning only, unequivocal, sure. (Mus.) having union in sounds.—n. word with only one meaning [L. unus, one, vox, a voice].

unjust (un-jūst) a. not just; partial; biased, dishonest.—unjustifiable a. not justifiable.—unjustifiably adv.—unjustly adv.—unfairly adv.—unjustness n.

unkempt (un-kemt) a. dishevelled; rough (It. un-, not; comben, to comb).

unkind (un-kind) a. lacking in kindness; cruel, callous.—unkindness n. lack of kindness.—unkindly a. not kindly, harsh.—adv. cruelly, in a manner contrary to nature.—unkind'ness n. lack of kindness.

unknowable (un-nō-a-bl) a. not capable of being known.—n. that which is beyond man's power to understand, the absolute.—unknowableness n.—unknowably adv.—unknow'ing a. ignorant.—unknow'ingly adv.—unknown a. not known, incalculable.—n. unknown quantity; unexplored regions of mind; part of globe as yet unvisited by man.

unlawful (un-law'fūl) a. not lawful; contrary to the law; illicit.—unlawfully adv.—illegally adv.—unlaw'fulness n.

unleash (un-le-sh) v.t. to free from a leash; to let go, as a dog.

unleavened (un-lev'nd) a. not leavened made without yeast, as unleavened bread.

unleisured (un-lez'hū-rū) a. having no leisure; busy.—unleisuredness n.

unless (un-lez) conj. except; if not; supposing that unlettered (un-let'rd) a. illiterate.

unlicensed (un-lī-sens) a. not licensed; having no permit to sell certain commodities, as tobacco, wine, etc.

unlike (un-'lik-) a. not like; dissimilar;—prep. different from;—adv. in a different way from.
—unlike'hood, unlike'ness n.—unlike'ly a. improbable; unpromising;—adv. improbably.
—unlike'liness n.

unlimited (un-'lim-'it-ed') a. not limited; boundless; unrestricted.—unlim'itedly adv.—unlim'itedness n.

unload (un-'löd-) v.t. to remove load from; to remove charge from, as gun; to sell out quickly, as stocks, shares, etc. before slump; (Fig.) to unburden, as one's mind;—v.i. to discharge cargo.—unload'ed a. not containing a charge, as gun; not containing a plate or film, as camera.

unlock (un-'lok-) v.t. to unfasten what is locked; to open with a key.

unloose (un-'löö's-) v.t. to make free; to set free.—unloos'en v.t. to unloose.

unlovable (un-'luv-'ä-'bl) a. not lovable; disagreeable; unattractive.—unloved' a. not loved.—unlove'liness n. lack of loveliness; ugliness.—unlove'ly a. not lovely; repellent.—unlov'ing a. not loving; cold.

unlucky (un-'luk-) a. not lucky; unfortunate; inauspicious; inopportune.—unluck'ily adv.—unluck'iness n.

unmake (un-'māk-) v.t. to destroy what has been made; to annul; to pick out stitching of a garment before remaking.—unmade' a. not made.—unmak'able a.—unmak'ing n.

unman (un-'man-) v.t. to deprive of manly courage; to deprive of men, as ship's crew.—unman'like a. not manlike.—unman'liness n.—unman'ly a. cowardly; effeminate.

unmanageable (un-'man-'ä-'g-'ä-'bl) a. not manageable; difficult to control.—unman'ageableness n.—unman'ageably adv.—unman'aged a. not domesticated.

unmannerly (un-'man-'er-'li) a. not polite; ill-bred.—unmann'ered a. discourteous.—unmann'erliness n. rudeness.

unmarried (un-'mar-'id) a. not married; single.—unmarr'ageable a. not fit to marry; under age to marry, without parents' consent.—unmarr'ageableness n.

unmeaning (un-'men-'ing) a. without meaning; unintentional; insignificant.—unmean'ingly adv.—unmean't (un-'men-'t) a. not intended; accidental.

unmeasured (un-'mez-'ürd) a. not measured; limitless; not stinted; overabundant.—unmeas'urable a.—unmeas'urableness n.—unmeas'urably adv.

unmentionable (un-'men-'shun-'ä-'bl) a. not worthy of mention; not fit to be mentioned.—unmen'tionableness n.—unmen'tionables n.pl. facetious synonym for trousers.

unmindful (un-'min-'id-) a. not remembered.—unmind'ful a. forgetful; regardless.—unmind'fully adv.—unmind'fulness n.

unmistakable (un-'mis-'tä-'k-'ä-'bl) a. not mistakable; recognizable; well-defined.—unmistakableness n.—unmistak'ably adv.

unmoor (un-'möö'r-) v.t. (Naut.) to release from moorings;—v.i. to cast off moorings.

unmoral (un-'mor-'äl) a. not moral; not concerned with morality or ethics.—unmor'alising a. not given to reflecting on ethical values.—unmor'al'ity n.

unmounted (un-'moun-'ted) a. not mounted; on foot; (of gem) unset; (of picture) not framed or pasted on cardboard.

unmoved (un-'möövd-) a. not moved; calm; not stirred emotionally.—unmov'able, unmove'able a. incapable of being moved, physically, or emotionally.—unmov'ably adv.—unmov'ably adv.—unmov'ing a.

unmusical (un-'mü-'zi-'kal) a. not musical; discordant; not fond of, or unskilled in, music.—unmus'ical'ity n.—unmus'ically adv.

unnatural (un-'nat-'ü-'räl) a. not natural; not in accordance with usual course of events; not composed; abnormal.—unnat'uralise v.t.—unnat'uralised a. not naturalised; alien.—unnat'urally adv.

unnavigable (un-'nav-'i-'gä-'bl) a. not navigable.—unnavigab'ility n.—unnav'igated a. not sailed over; uncharted.

unnecessary (un-'nes-'ä-'sä-'ri) a. not necessary; superfluous; needless.—unneces'sarily adv.—unneces'sariness n.

unnerve (un-'nerv-) v.t. to cause someone to lose his nerve; to undermine the courage of.—unnerved' a. afraid; deprived of nerve.

Uno (ü-'nō) n. a coined word from the initial letters of the United Nations Organisation. Also U.N.O.

unobtrusive (un-'ob-'tröö-'siv) a. not obtrusive; unassuming.—unobtrus'ively adv.—unobtrus'iveness n.

unoccupied (un-'ök-'ü-'pid) a. not occupied; untenanted; not engaged in work; not under control of troops.

unopposed (un-'o-'pözd-) a. not opposed; having no rival candidate in an election.

unorthodox (un-'or-'thö-'doks) a. not orthodox.—unorth'odoxy n. heresy.

unostentatious (un-'ös-'ten-'tä-'shus) a. not ostentatious; not showy; modest.—unostenta'tiously adv.—unostentat'iveness n.

unpack (un-'pak-) v.t. to remove from a pack or trunk; to open by removing packing;—v.i. to empty contents of.

unpaid (un-'päd-) a. not paid; honorary; still outstanding, as a debt.

unpalatable (un-'pal-'ä-'tä-'bl) a. not palatable; disagreeable; unpleasant.

unparalleled (un-'par-'ä-'löd) a. having no equal; unprecedented.

unparliamentary (un-'pär-'li-'men-'tä-'ri) a. not in accordance with Parliamentary procedure, not fit for usage in Parliament.—unparliamentary language, abuse.

unpeople (un-'pöpl-) v.t. to depopulate.

unperturbed (un-'per-'turbd-) a. not perturbed; unruffled.—unperturb'edness n.

unpick (un-'plik-) v.t. to unfasten; to undo the stitching of.—unpick'ed a.

unplaced (un-'pläst-) a. not placed; (of horses) not one of the winners in a race.—unplace' v.t. to displace.

unpleasant (un-'plez-'änt) a. not pleasant; disagreeable.—unpleas'antly adv.—unpleas'antness n.—unpleasing (un-'plez-'ing) a. unattractive.—unpleas'ingly adv.—unpleas'urable a. not pleasurable.

unpolished (un-'pölish) a. not polished; rough, (Fig.) uncouth.

unpopular (un-'pop-'ü-'lär) a. not popular; out of favour.—unpopul'arity n.

unprecedented (un-'pres-'e-'den-'ted) a. without precedent; having no earlier example, novel.—unprece'dently adv.

unpremeditated (un-'pre-'med-'i-'tä-'ted) a. not premeditated; not previously planned; spontaneous.—unpremed'itable a.—unpremed'itately adv.—unpremed'itableness, unpremed'itation n.

unprepared (un-'prä-'pär-) a. not prepared; done without preparation; not ready.—unprepar'edly adv.—unprepar'edness n.

unprepossessing (un-'prä-'pö-'zesh-'ing) a. not prepossessing; not attractive.—unprepossessed' a. impartial; not prejudiced.

unprincipled (un-'prin-'si-'pid) a. having no moral principles; unscrupulous.

unprintable (un-'prin-'tä-'bl) a. not printable; too shocking to be set down in print.

unproductive (un-'prü-'dukt-'iv) a. not productive; barren; not profitable.—unprodue'tively adv.—unprodue'tiveness n.

unprofessional (un-'prü-'fesh-'äl) a. not belonging to a profession; not in accordance with professional etiquette; (Colloq.) unskilled.—unprofes'sionally adv.

unprofitable (un-'prü-'fä-'t-'ä-'bl) a. not profitable; fruitless; disadvantageous.—unprof'itableness n.—unprof'itably adv.

unqualified (un-'kwöl-'id-) a. not qualified; not having proper qualifications; not modified; absolute.—unqual'ifiedness n.

unquestionable (un-kwɒs'tyʊn-ə-bl) a. not questionable; certain.—unques'tionab'ly, unques'tionableness n.—unques'tionably adv.—unques'tioned a. not questioned; not disputed.—unques'tioning a. unhesitating.

unravel (un-rav'gl) v.t. to disentangle; to separate; to solve, as a mystery.—v.i. to be disentangled.—unrav'elment n.

unread (un-rɒd') a. not perused; (of persons) ignorant.—unreadable (un-rɒd'ə-bl) a. illegible, (of books) not attractive as reading matter; dull.—unread'ableness n.

unreal (un-rɛl') a. not real; insubstantial; illusive.—unrealis'able a. not realisable.—unrealis'ableness n.—unrealised a. not realised; unfulfilled.—unreal'ity n. want of reality.—unreal'y adv.

unreasonable (un-rɛz'n-ə-bl) a. not reasonable; impulsive; immoderate; (of prices) exorbitant.—unrea'son n. want of reason.—unrea'sonableness n.—unrea'sonably adv.—unrea'soned a. not thought out logically.—unrea'soning a. irrational.

unrecognised (un-rek'ɒg-nizd) a. not recognised; denied due honour.—unrecognis'able a. not recognisable.—unrec'og'is'ably adv.

unrectified (un-rek'ti-fid) a. not corrected; (Chem.) not distilled.

unreeve (un-rév') v.t. (Naut.) to withdraw rope from any block, dead-eye, etc. through which it has been passed.

unrefined (un-rɛf'ind') a. not refined; unpolished, not purified, as sugar unregenerate (un-rɛ'ɛnʒ-ɛ-rɛt) a. not converted to new spiritual state. unregen'eracy, unregeneration n.

unrelated (un-rɛ-læ'tɪd) a. not related; having no apparent connection; diverse.—unrel'ative a. not relative.

unrelenting (un-rɛ-lɛn'tɪŋ) a. adamant; inflexible, merciless.—unrelen'tingly adv.

unreliable (un-rɛ-li-ə-bl) a. not reliable, fickle, not to be trusted.—unreliability, unrel'ableness n.

unrelaxing (un-rɛ-mit'tɪŋ) a. not relaxing; incessant, persistent.—unrelit'ed a. not remitted.—unrelmit'tedly, unrelmit'tingly adv.—unrelmit'tingness n.

unrequited (un-rɛ-kwɪ'tɪd) a. not requited.—unrequit'able a. not capable of being requited or returned.—unrequit'edly adv.

unrest (un-rɛst') n. want of rest; inquiet; political or social agitation.—unrest'ful a.—unrest'fulness n.—unrest'ing a. not resting.—unrest'ingly adv.—unrest'ingness n.

unrestricted (un-rɛ-strɪktɪd) a. not restricted; decontrolled.—unrestri'tedly adv.

unrighteous (un-rɪ'tɪʊs) a. not righteous; evil, unjust; contrary to law and equity.—unright'eously adv.—unright'eousness n.—unright'ful a.—unright'fully adv.—unright'fulness n.

unripe (un-rɪp') a. not ripe.—unrip'ened a. immature.—unripe'ness n.

unrobe (un-rɒb') v.t. to undress; v.i. to remove one's robe, esp. an academic or official robe.

Unrra (un'ra) n. coined word from initial letters of United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, temporary organisation (officially ended 31st Dec., 1946) set up to deal with immediate economic problems of liberated and post-war Europe. Also U.N.R.R.A.

unruffled (un-ruf'ld) a. not ruffled, placid.—unruf'le v.i. to become placid.

unruly (un-rʊd'li) a. not ruled; ungoverned, (of paper) blank; unrestrained.—unrul'iness n. state of being unruly.—unrul'y a. lawless; disobedient.

unsafe (un-sɛf') a. not safe; risky.—unsaf'e'y adv.—unsaf'e'ness n.—unsaf'e'y n.

unsatisfactory (un-sat-is-fak'tʊ-ri) a. not satisfactory.—unsatis'factorily adv.—unsatis'fied a. not satisfied; discontented.—unsatis'fying a.—unsatis'fyingness n.

unsavoury (un-sɔ'vɔ-ri) a. not savoury;

tasteless; (Fig.) disgusting.—unsa'vourily adv.—unsa'vouriness n.

unsay (un-sɔ') v.t. to retract (what has been said).

unscathed (un-skæt'ɪt) a. unharmed; without injury.

unscramble (un-skram'bl) v.t. to decode a secret message.

unscrupulous (un-sk-rʊp'jʊ-lʊs) a. not scrupulous; ruthless; having no moral principles.—unscrup'ulously adv.—unscrup'ulousness n.

unseal (un-sɛl') v.t. to remove or break the seal of.—unsealed' a.

unseasonable (un-sɛ-zn-ə-bl) a. not seasonable; inopportune; abnormal for the time of year, as of weather.—unsea'sonableness n.—unsea'sonably adv.—unsea'soned a. not matured; not flavoured with seasoning.

unseat (un-sɛt') v.t. to throw from a horse; to deprive of Parliamentary seat.

unseemliness (un-sɛm'li-nɪs) n. the state or quality of being unseemly. unseem'y a. not seemly; indecorous; unbecoming.—adv. indecorously.

unseen (un-sɛn') a. not seen, invisible;—n. an unprepared passage for translation in a language examination.—the Unseen, the spiritual world, the life beyond.

unselfconscious (un-sɛlf-kɒn'sɪʊs) a. not self-conscious, natural.—unselfcon'sciously adv.—unselfcon'sciousness n.

unselfish (un-sɛlf'ɪʃ) a. not selfish; altruistic.—unself'ishly adv.—unself'ishness n.

unsettle (un-sɛt'l) v.t. to move or loosen from a fixed position; to disturb mind, to make restless or discontented.—unsett'led a. not settled, changeable, as weather; unpaid, as bills, not allocated, not inhabited.—unsett'ledly adv.—unsett'ledness, unsett'lement n.—unsett'ling a. disturbing.

unshackle (un-shæk'l) v.t. to set free from shackles to unfetter.—unshack'led a.

unship (un-ʃɪp) v.t. to remove from a ship, to unload, to remove from the place where it is fitted.—unship'ment n.

unshod (un-shɒd) a. barefoot.

unsighted (un-sɪt'ɪd) a. not sighted; not observed, (of gun) without sights, (of shot) aimed blindly.—unsight'able a. invisible.—unsight'fulness n. ugliness.—unsight'y a. ugly; revolting to the sight.

unskilful (un-skɪl'fʊl) a. not skilful; not expert; awkward.—unskil'fully adv.—unskil'fulness n. lack of skill or experience.—unskilled' a. untrained; requiring no apprenticeship.

unslung (un-slɪŋ') v.t. (Naut.) to remove slings from, as from cargo; to take down something which is hanging by slings, as a rifle.—unslung a.

unsmirched (un-smɪrtʃt) a. not smirched; clean; (Fig.) innocent.

unsociable (un-sɒ'si-ə-bl) a. not sociable; over-reserved in society; unfriendly.—unsociability, unsociableness n.—unsoci'ably adv.—unsoci'al a. not social.

unsolicited (un-sɒ-lɪ'sɪtɪd) a. not solicited, gratuitous.—unsolic'itous a. not solicitous.

unsophisticated (un-sɒ'fɪst-ɪk-ɪtɪd) a. not sophisticated, ingenuous, simple; unadulterated.—unsophis'ticatedly adv.—unsophis'ticatedness, unsophistication n.

unsound (un-saʊnd) a. imperfect; damaged; decayed, (of the mind) insane; not based on logical reasoning; fallacious. unsound'y adv.—unsa'undness n.

unspeakable (un-spɛk'ə-bl) a. beyond utterance or description (in good or bad sense). Ineffable.—unspeak'ably adv.—unspeak'ing a. dumb.

unspoiled (un-spɔɪl't) a. not spoiled; unblemished; ingenuous. Also unspoil't.

unsporting (un-spɔ:t'tɪŋ) a. (Colloq.) not like a sportsman; unfair.—unsports'manlike a. not in accordance with the rules of fair play; not chivalrous.

unsprung (un-sprung') a. not fitted with springs, as a vehicle, chair, etc.

unstable (un-stā'bl) a. not stable; fluctuating; shifting; unbalanced; unreliable; (Chem.) subject to change.—unstability, unstableness n.

unsteady (un-sted'ī) a. not steady; shaky; (Fig.) unreliable.—v.t. to make unsteady.—unsteadfast a. not steadfast; wavering.—unsteadfastly adv.—unsteadfastness n.—unsteadily adv.—unsteadiness n.

unstop (un-stop') v.t. to open by removing a stopper, as a bottle; to clear away an obstruction.—unstopped a. not stopped; having no cork or stopper; (of consonant) made with air-passage half open.

unstrained (un-strānd') a. not strained, as through a filter; (Fig.) relaxed; friendly.

unstuck (un-stuk') a. not glued together.—to come unstuck (Collog.) to come to grief; to fail; to break down.

unsullied (un-sul'ī) a. not sullied; unblemished; not disgraced.

unsung (un-sung') a. not sung; not honoured in poetry; not praised publicly.

unsupported (un-su-pōrt'ed) a. not supported; without backing.—unsupportable a. not supportable; intolerable.—unsupportably adv.—unsupportableness n.

unsure (un-shōr') a. not sure; unsafe.—unsurely adv.

unswerving (un-swer'ving) a. not swerving; not deviating; resolute.—vingly adv.

unsympathetic (un-sim-pa-thet'ik) a. not sympathetic; callous.—unsympathetically adv.—unsympathy n. lack of sympathy.—unsympathisability n.—unsympathisable a.

untamed (un-tāmd') a. not tamed, wild; undisciplined.—untamable a. incapable of being tamed, controlled, or domesticated.

unthinking (un-think'ing) v.t. to dismiss from one's mind; to change one's opinion.—unthinkable a. not capable of being contemplated; (Collog.) highly improbable.—unthinking a. not thinking; heedless.—unthinkingly adv.

untidy (un-tī'dī) a. not tidy, lacking orderliness.—untidily adv.—untidiness n.

untie (un-tī') v.t. to undo what is tied; to loosen a knot.—untied a.

until (un-til') prep. till, to; as far as; as late as;—conj. up to the time that, to the degree that.

untimely (un-tīm'elī) a. not timely; premature; inopportune.—untimeliness n.—untimely a. untimely.—untimely adv.

untiring (un-tī'ring) a. not tiring, indefatigable.—untirable a. incapable of being tired out.—untired a. not tired.—untiringly adv.

unto (un'tōō) prep. to [M.E. und to, as far as].

untouchable (un-tuch'ā-bl) a. incapable of being touched; unfit to be touched; unassailable; belonging to non-caste masses of India;—n. non-caste Indian whose touch or even shadow is held to defile member of a higher caste.—untouchability n.—untouched a. not touched.

untoward (un-tō'wārd) a. awkward; inconvenient; unlucky.

untravelling (un-trav'eld) a. not having travelled; unexplored; provincially-minded.

untried (un-trīd') a. not tried; not experienced; not tested; not having undergone trial by court of law.

untrue (un-trōō') a. not true; false; disloyal; not conforming to a requisite standard.—untruth n.—untruthfully adv. falsely.—untruth n.—untruthful a. dishonest; lying.—untruthfully adv.—untruthfulness n.

untutored (un-tūt'ōrd) a. untaught; ignorant; raw.

unused (un-ūzd') a. not used; not accustomed.—unusual a. not usual; uncommon; extraordinary.—unusually adv.—unusualness n.

unutterable (un-ut'gr-s-bl) a. unspeakable; beyond utterance; thorough-going.—unutterability, unutterableness n.—unutterably adv.—unuttered a. unspoken.

unvarnished (un-var'ništ) a. not varnished; plain, straightforward.

unveil (un-vāl') v.t. to remove a veil from; to perform in public the act of uncovering a newly erected statue; (Fig.) to disclose.—v.i. to become unveiled.

unwarrantable (un-wor'an-tā-bl) a. not justifiable; improper.—unwarrantability, unwarrantableness n.—unwarrantably adv.—unwarranted a. unauthorized; not carrying a guarantee.—unwarrantedly adv.

unwary (un-wā'ri) a. not cautious; rash.—unwarily adv.—unwariness n.

unwashed (un-wosh't) a. not washed; dirty; not reached by the sea.—the Great Unwashed (Collog.) the mob.

unwell (un-wel') a. not well; indisposed.

unwept (un-wept') a. not mourned or regretted.

unwholesome (un-hōl'sūm) a. not wholesome, unhealthy; morally decadent.—unwholesomely adv.—unwholesomeness n.

unwieldy (un-wēl'dī) a. awkward to handle or move; bulky; unmanageable.—unwieldily adv.—unwieldiness n.

unwilling (un-wil'ling) a. not willing; reluctant; disobliging.—unwilled a. spontaneous.—unwillingly adv.—unwillingness n.

unwind (un-wīnd') v.t. to wind off; to loose what has been wound; to roll into a ball from a skein, as wool, silk, etc.—v.i. to become unwound.

unwitting (un-wit'ing) a. unaware; not knowing.—unwittingly adv.

unwonted (un-wōn' (or wān')-ted) a. unaccustomed; unusual.—unwontedly adv.—unwontedness n.

unworldly (un-wūrd'li) a. not worldly; spiritual; not actuated by self-interest.—unworldliness n.

unworthy (un-wūr'thli) a. not worthy; discreditable, unbecoming; not deserving praise.—unworthily adv.—unworthiness n.

unwritten (un-rīt'n) a. not written; oral, not expressed in writing.—unwritten law (Law) custom by which a man is acquitted of the crime of killing the seducer of his wife or daughter.

unwring (un-rūng') a. not wrung; not galled.—his withers are unwrung (Fig.) he is unaffected by the accusation.

unyielding (un-yēld'ing) a. not yielding; stubborn; implacable; not flexible.—unyielding adv.—unyieldingness n.

up (up) adv. to a higher place; aloft; on high, on one's legs; out of bed; above horizon; in progress; in revolt; as far as; of equal merit, as in he is not up to his father in skill; thoroughly; well versed in; competent.

upas (ō'pas) n. tree of E. Indian islands, yielding sap of deadly poisonous properties; antiar-tree; (Fig.) anything of poisonous or corrupt influence (Malay, upas, poison).

upbraid (up-brād') v.t. to reprove severely; to chide.—v.i. to voice a reproach.—upbraiding n. reproach.—a. reproachful [O.E. up, on; bregdan, to braid].

upbringing (up-brīng'ing) n. the process of rearing and training a child, education.

up-country (up-kūn'trī) adv. inland;—a. away from the sea.

upheave (up-hōv') v.t. to lift up, as heavy weight.—upheaval n. raising up, as of earth's surface, by volcanic force; (Fig.) any revolutionary change in ideas, etc.

upheld (up-hēld') pa.t. and pa.p. of uphold.

uphill (up'hīll) a. going up; laborious; difficult.—adv. towards higher level.

uphold (up-hōld') v.t. to hold up; to sustain; to approve; to maintain, as verdict in law court.—uphold n.

upholsterer (up-hōl'ster-er) n. one who supplies furniture, curtains, carpets, etc.

- one who upholsters chairs, etc.—upholster v.t. to stuff and cover furniture with tapestry, moquette, hide, etc.—upholstery n. craft of stuffing and covering furniture, etc.; materials used.
- upkeep (up'kēp) n. maintenance; money required for maintenance, as of a home.
- upland (up'land) n. high land;—pl. dissected plateau;—a. pert. to or situated in higher elevations of district.—uplander n.
- uplift (up-lift') v.t. to lift up; to draw money out of the bank.—uplift n. upheaval; (fig.) emotional or religious stimulus.
- up-line (up'lin) n. railway line leading from the province to a main terminus.
- upmost (up'mōst) a. uppermost.
- upon (up-on') prep. on [O.E. uppon, on].
- upper (up'pə) a. (comp. of up) higher in place, rank, or dignity; superior.—superl. uppermost, up'most.—n. upper part of boot or shoe.—up per-case n. (Print.) case containing capital letters, reference marks, etc.—up-per-out n. (Boeing) blow struck upwards inside opponent's guard;—v.t. to deliver such blow.—up per-hand n. superiority; advantage over another.—up'permost a. highest.—up'pish a. arrogant; affectedly superior in manner or attitude.—up'pishly adv.—up'pishness n. [fr. up].
- uprise (up-riz') v.t. to rise up.—up'rising n. act of rising; insurrection; revolt.
- uproar (up'rōr) n. tumult, violent, noisy disturbance.—uproar'ious a. making a noise and tumult; rowdy.—uproar'iously adv.—uproar'iousness n. [Int. uproar].
- uproot (up-rōōt') v.t. to tear up by the roots; to eradicate.—uproot n.
- upset (up-set') v.t. to turn upside down; to knock over; to defeat, as government, (fig.) to disturb or distress.—up-set n. an overturn; overthrow, confusion;—a. fixed.—up-set price, lowest price at which goods will be sold by auction.
- upshot (up'shot) n. final issue; conclusion.
- upside (up'sid) n. the upper side.—up-side-down adv. with the upper side underneath, inverted, in disorder.—to be up-side with, to be on equal terms with, to be quits.
- upstairs (up-stārz) adv. in the upper storey.—upstairs a. pert. to upper flat.—n. upper flat.
- upstanding (up-standing) a. (of a man etc.) well set-up; erect.
- upstart (up-stārt) n. one who has suddenly risen to wealth, power, or honour, parvenu.—a. arrogant;—v.t. to rise suddenly.
- upstream (up-strēm) adv. in direction of source (of stream).
- upstroke (up-strōk) n. the upward line in handwriting; upward stroke.
- upsurge (up-sūrz') v.t. to surge upwards.—up surge n. swelling, as of emotion.
- upthrust (up-thrust) n. upward thrust, esp. of rock strata.
- uptown (up-toun) a. pert. to, or in upper part of, town;—adv.
- upturn (up-tūrn) v.t. to turn up.—up'turn n. disturbance.—up'turning n.
- upward (up-wārd) a. directed towards a higher place;—adv. upwards.—up'wards, up'wardly adv. towards higher elevation or number [O.E. upweard, upward].
- uraninite (ūr-an'it-in) n. pitchblende, in which uranium was first found in 1789.
- uranite (ūr-rā-nit) n. an almost transparent ore of uranium.—uran'ite a.
- uranium (ūr-rā-ni-um) n. radio-active metallic element (symbol U), used as an alloy in steel manufacture and a variety of it, U²³⁵, in the production of atom bomb.—uran'ic, u'ranous a. [fr. Uranus, the planet].
- uranography (ūr-rā-nō-grā-fi) n. descriptive astronomy.—uranometry n. measurement of heavens; chart of heavens [Gk. ouranos, heaven].
- urban (ūr-bən) a. pert. to, or living in, city or town.—urbane a. refined; suave; courteous.—urbane'ly adv.—urban'ity n. politeness.—urbanise v.t. to make urban; to bring town conditions and advantages to rural areas.—Urban District, in England and Wales, district authorised in 1894 to set up necessary councils for administration of local government [L. urbs].
- urchin (ūr-chin) n. hedgehog; sea-urchin; goblin; mischievous child; a child [L. ericius, hedgehog].
- Urdu (ōr-rōdō) n. form of Hindustani, mixture of Persian, Arabic, and Hindi [Hind. urdu, camp].
- urea (ūr-rō-g) n. white, crystalline solid, the principle organic constituent of urine [Gk. ouron, urine].
- ureter (ūr-rē-tər) n. one of two ducts of kidney conveying urine to bladder.—ure'thra n. duct by which urine passes from bladder.—pl. ure'thræ.—ure'thral a. [Gk. ouron, urine].
- urge (ūr) v.t. to press, to drive; to exhort; to stimulate; to solicit earnestly;—v.i. to press onward; to make allegations;—n. act of urging, incentive, irresistible impulse.—ur'gency n. quality of being urgent; compelling necessity; importunity.—ur'gent a. calling for immediate attention, clamant, importunate.—ur'gently adv.—ur'ger n. [L. urgere, to press].
- urine (ūr-in) n. yellowish fluid secreted by kidneys, passed through ureters to bladder from which it is discharged through urethra.—ur'is n. desire to pass urine frequently.—ur'ic a. pert. to or produced from urine.—ur'inal n. vessel into which urine may be discharged; public lavatory.—ur'inary a. pert. to urine.—ur'inate v.t. to pass urine.—ur'ina-tion n.—ur'ogenital a. pert. to urinary and genital organs. Also ur'ogenital, ur'ogen-italy [Gk. ouron, urine].
- urn (ūr-n) n. vase-shaped vessel of pottery or metal with pedestal, and narrow neck, for ashes of dead after cremation, the grave; vessel of various forms usually fitted with tap, for liquid in bulk, as tea-urn.—urn a. [L. urna, urn].
- urry (ūr-i) n. darkish clay in proximity to coal bed (etym. uncertain).
- ursine (ūr-sin) a. pert. to or resembling a bear;—n. bear.—ur'siform a. resembling bear in shape [L. ursus].
- us (us) pron. pl. the objective form of we.—us'ward adv. towards us.
- use (ūz) v.t. to make use of; to employ; to consume or expend (as in material); to practice habitually, to accustom, to treat;—v.i. to be accustomed only in past tense).—use (ūs) n. act of using, or employing for specific purpose; utility, custom. (Lat.) profit derived from trust.—us'able a. fit for use.—us'ableness n.—us'age n. mode of using; treatment, long-established custom.—us'ance n. usage; usury; usual time allowed for payment of foreign bills of exchange.—us'ful a. of use, handy, profitable, serviceable. (Colloq.) infinitesimal.—us'ful load n. gross weight of aircraft less tare weight.—us'fully adv.—us'fulness n.—us'less a. of no use, inefficient; futile. (Slang) unwell.—us'lessly adv.—us'lessness n.—us'er n. one who uses anything.—use and wont, habitual and long-established practice [L. uti, usus, to use].
- usher (ush-ər) n. doorkeeper, esp. in court of law; one who conducts wedding guests to seats in church; official who introduces strangers or walks before person of high rank; assistant-master in school;—v.t. to introduce; to inaugurate, to show into room and announce the name (of a visitor).—usherette n. girl employed, as in cinema, to show patrons to seats.—to usher in, to precede [O.Fr. ussier, fr. L. ostiarius, a doorkeeper].
- usquebaugh (us'kwe-baw) n. whisky [Gael. uisge, water; beatha, life].

(û-zhû-ál) a. customary; ordinary.—usually adv.—usualness n. [L. usus].
usufruct (û-zû-frukt) n. right of using and enjoying produce, benefit, or profits of another's property provided that the property remains undamaged.—usufructuary a. pert. to usufruct;—n. one who has the use of another's property by usufruct [L. usus, use; fructus, fruit].
usurp (û-zûrp) v.t. to take possession of unlawfully or by force.—usurpation n. act of usurping; violent or unlawful seizing of power [L. usurpare, to gain].
usury (û-zhû-ri) n. orig. business of lending money with interest; charging of exorbitant interest on money lent.—usurer n. money-lender, esp. one who charges exorbitant rates of interest.—usurious a.—usuriously adv. [L. usura, use].
utensil (û-ten-sil) n. vessel of any kind which forms part of everyday domestic equipment [L. utensilis, fit for use].
uterine (û-ter-in) a. pert. to uterus or womb; born of the same mother but by a different father [L. uterus, womb].
utilize (û-tî-lîz) v.t. to make useful; to turn to profit.—utilizable a.—utilisation n.—utiliser n.—utility n. usefulness; quality of being advantageous [L. utiles, useful].
utilitarian (û-tî-lî-târ-î-an) a. pert. to utility or utilitarianism; of practical use.—Utilitarian n. one who accepts doctrines of Utilitarianism.—Utilitarianism n. ethical doctrine, the ultimate aim and criterion of all human actions must be 'the greatest happiness for the greatest number' [L. utiles, useful].
utmost (ut-môst) a. situated at farthest point or extremity; to highest degree;—n. most that can be; greatest possible effort [O.E. ut, out].
utopia (û-tû-pî-a) n. any ideal, state, constitution, system, or way of life.—utopian a. ideally perfect but impracticable; visionary; chimerical [=nowhere; Gk. ou, not; topos, place].
utricle (û-trî-kl) n. (Bot.) little bag or bladder, esp. of aquatic plant.—utricular, utriculate a. [L. utriculus, small bag].
utter (ut-gr) a. farthest out; extreme; total; unconditional.—utterly adv.—utterness n. [O.E. utor, utter].
utter (ut-gr) v.t. to speak; to disclose; to put into circulation.—utterable a. capable of being uttered or pronounced.—utterableness n.—utterance n. act of speaking; manner of delivering speech; pronunciation.—utterer n. [O.E. utan, to put out].
utmost (ut-gr-môst) a. farthest out; utmost;—n. the highest degree.
uvula (û-vû-lâ) n. fleshy tag suspended from middle of lower border of soft palate.—uvular a. [L. uva, grape].
uxorious (uk-û-ri-na) a. foolishly or excessively fond of one's wife.—uxorial a. pert. to wife.—uxoriously adv.—uxoriousness n. [L. uxor].

V

vacant (vâ-kant) a. empty; void; not occupied; disengaged; unintelligent.—vacantly adv.—vacancy n. emptiness; idleness; listlessness; want of thought; place or post, unfilled.—*vacate (vâ-kât) v.t. to leave empty or unoccupied; to quit possession of; to make void.—vacation n. act of vacating; intermission of stated employment; recess; holidays.—vacational a. [L. vacare, to be empty].
vaccine (vak-sîn, vak-sên) a. pert. to, or obtained from, cows;—n. virus of cowpox, used in vaccination; any substance used for inoculation against disease.—vaccinate v.t. to inoculate with cowpox, to ward off small-* pox or lessen severity of its attack.—vaccination n. act or practice of vaccinating [L. vacca, cow].

vacillate (vas-i-lât) v.t. to move to and fro; to waver; to be undecided; to fluctuate in opinion.—vacilliant, vacillating, vacillatory a.—vacillation n. [L. vacillare].
vacuous (vak-û-us) a. empty; vacant; expressionless; unintelligent.—vacuousness n.—vacuity (vâ-kû-î-tî) n. emptiness; empty space; lack of intelligence.—vacuum n. space devoid of all matter; space from which air, or other gas, has been almost wholly removed, as by air-pump.—vacuum-cleaner n. apparatus for removing dust from esp. carpets by suction.—vacuum-flask n. double-walled flask with vacuum between walls, for keeping contents at temperature at which they were inserted [L. vacuus, empty].
vade-mecum (vâ-de-mê-kum) n. small handbook or manual for ready reference, pocket-companion [L. =go with me].
vagabond (vag-a-bond) a. moving from place to place without settled habitation, wandering;—n. wanderer or vagrant, having no settled habitation; idle scamp; rascal.—vagabondage n. state or condition of vagabond [L. vagari, to wander].
vagary (va-gâr-î) n. whimsical or freakish notion; unaccountable proceeding; caprice [L. vagari, to wander].
vagina (va-jî-na) n. (Anat.) canal which leads from uterus to external orifice, (Bot.) sheath as of leaf.—vaginal (vaj-i-nal) a. [L.]. vagrant (vâ-grant) a. wandering from place to place; moving without certain direction; roving;—n. idle wanderer; vagabond, itinerant beggar.—vagrantly adv.—vagrancy n. [L. vagari, to wander].
vague (vâg) a. uncertain; indefinite; indistinct; not clearly expressed.—vaguely adv.—vagueness n. [L. vagus, wandering].
vain (vân) a. useless; unavailing; fruitless; empty; worthless; unsatisfying; conceited; silly; showy.—vainly adv.—vanity (van-î-tî) n. idle show; empty pleasure; futility, conceit; ostentation.—vanity-bag n. lady's small hand-bag fitted with powder puff, mirror, lipstick, etc. [L. vanus, empty].
vainglory (vân-glô-ri) n. excessive vanity; boastfulness.—vainglorious a. due to vanity; boastful; vaunting.—vaingloriously adv.—vaingloriousness n. [vain and glory].
valance (val-ans) n. hanging drapery for a window, bed, couch, etc. esp. that for hiding the space beneath a bed. Also valence [Fr. Valence, in France].
valley (vâl) n. valley [L. vallis, valley].
valediction (val-e-dik-shun) n. farewell; a bidding farewell.—valedictory a. bidding farewell; suitable for leave-taking [L. valere, to say farewell].
valence, valency (vâ-lens, vâ-len-sî) n. (Chem.) the combining power of an element or atom as compared with a hydrogen atom [L. valere, to be strong].
Valenciennes (val-en-sênz) n. rich lace, made orig. at Valenciennes, in France.
valentine (val'en-tin) n. sweetheart chosen on St. Valentine's day; letter containing professions of love, sent to one of opposite sex on St. Valentine's day, Feb. 14th [L. proper name Valentinus].
valerian (val-ê-ri-an) n. flowering herb with strong odour; its root, used as sedative drug [O.Fr. valeriane]. valet (val-et, val-â) n. man-servant who attends on a gentleman [Fr. vale, a groom. Doublet of valet].
valetudinarian (val-e-tû-di-nâr-î-an) a. sickly; infirm; solicitous about one's own health;—n. person of sickly constitution; person disposed to live life of an invalid.—valetudinarianism n.—valetudinarian a. infirm; sickly [L. valetudo, health].
Valhalla (val-hal-â) n. (Norse myth.) hall of immortality where Odin received souls of heroes slain in battle [O.N. valr, slain; hall, hall].

valiant (vāl'yant) a. brave; heroic; courageous, intrepid. — val'iantly adv. — val'iantness n. — val'iance, val'iancy n. valour; courage [L. valere, to be strong].

valid (vāl'id) a. strong; sound or well-grounded; capable of being justified; (Law) legally sound; executed with proper formalities. — val'idly adv. — val'idate v.t. to make valid; to ratify. — val'idness n. — val'idity n. [L. validus, strong].

valise (vā-lōs') n. a small travelling-bag; a portmanteau [Fr.].

Valkyr (vāl'kir) n. (Norse myth.) one of Odin's nine handmaidens, whose duty it was to select those worthy to be slain in battle and to conduct them to Valhalla. Also Valkyrie (vāl-kī'ri), Valkyria (vāl-kī'rya). — Valkyr'ian a.

valley (vāl'i) n. low ground between hills; river-basin [L. vallis, vale]. [work (L.).]

vallum (vāl'um) n. a rampart; an earth-work [L.].

valour (vāl'or) n. bravery, prowess in war; courage; intrepidity. — val'orous a. brave; fearless. — val'orously adv. — val'orousness n. [L. valere, to be strong].

value (vāls) n. worth, esp. one played as concert piece [Fr.].

value (vāl'ū) n. worth; utility, importance; estimated worth or valuation, precise signification; equivalent, (Mus.) duration of note, — v.t. to estimate worth of, to hold in respect and admiration, to prize. — val'uer n. — val'ueless a. — val'uable a. precious, worth a good price; worthy. — val'ue n. thing of value (generally pl.). — val'ueableness n. — val'uate v.t. to set value on; to appraise. — val'uation n. — val'ue set upon a thing, esp. by professional valuer. — val'uator n. [L. valere, to be worth].

valve (vāl'v) n. folding door or one of its leaves, device for covering aperture (as in tube) so arranged as to open communication in one direction, and close it in the other; (Anat.) structure (as in blood-vessel) which allows flow of fluid in one direction only, (Zool.) either of two sections of shell of mollusc, (Radio) vacuum tube or bulb containing electrodes and giving very sensitive control of flow of electrical current, (Mus.) device in certain instruments (as horn, trumpet, etc.) for changing fundamental tone by definite interval. — val'vular a. [L. valva, leaf of folding door].

vamoose, vamoose (va-mōos', va-mōs') v.t. (U.S. slang) to depart quickly; to leave; to decamp (esp. cam.), let us go!

vamp (vāmp) n. upper leather of shoe or boot, new patch put on old article, (Mus.) improvised accompaniment, — v.t. to provide (shoe, etc.) with new upper leather; to patch, (Mus.) to improvise accompaniment to [Fr. vant-pied, front of foot].

vamp (vāmp) n. (Slang) woman who allures and exploits men; adventuress, — v.t. and v.i. (Slang) to allure; and exploit, to flirt unscrupulously [contr. of vampire].

vampire (vāmp'ir) n. reanimated body of dead person who cannot rest quietly in grave, but arises from it at night and sucks blood of sleepers, (Fig.) one who lives by preying on others; extortioner. — vāmp'ire-bat n. of several species of bat of S. America which sucks blood of animals and even of persons [Fr. fr. Serbian campir].

van (van) n. covered wagon for goods; closed carriage attached to train (for luggage, guard, etc.) [contr. of caravan].

van (van) n. leading division of army or fleet; leaders of a movement. — van'guard n. detachment of troops who march ahead of army [Fr. avant, before; garde, a guard].

van (van) n. fan for winnowing grain; wing; — v.t. to winnow; to test quality of ore by washing on shovel. — van'ner n. [L. vannus, a fan].

vanadium (vā-nā'di-um) n. a metallic element (the hardest known) used in manufacture of hard steel [fr. Vanadis, Scand. goddess].

Vandal (vānd'al) n. one of the Germanic nations which ravaged Gaul, Spain, N. Africa and Rome about 5th cent. — vānd'al n. one who wantonly damages or destroys work of art or of literature, barbarian. — vānd'alism n. [L. Vandalus, Vandal].

vandyke (vān'dik') n. one of the points forming an edge, as of lace, ribbon, etc.; broad collar with deep points of lace as worn in portraits by Van Dyck, painting by Van Dyck. — Vandyke beard, pointed beard. — vandyke brown, dark brown [Van Dyck, Flemish painter].

vane (vān) n. a device at the top of a spire; etc. to show the direction of the wind; a weather-cock, the blade of a propeller, of a windmill, etc.; a fin on a bomb to prevent swerving [O.E. fana, a banner].

vanguard (vān'gard) n. See van (2).

vanilla (vā-nil'ā) n. tropical American plant of orchid family; long pod of plant, used as flavouring. — vanill'e a. [dim. fr. Sp. vaina, sheath].

vanish (vān'ish) v.t. to pass away; to be lost to view; to disappear, (Math.) to become zero. — van'isher n. — van'ishing a. disappearing. — van'ishingly adv. [L. evanescere, fr. vanus, empty].

vanity (vān'i-ti) n. See vain.

vanquish (vān'kwish) v.t. to conquer in battle; to defeat in any contest; to get the better of; to refute. — van'quishable a. — van'quisher n. [Fr. vaincre, fr. L. vincere].

vantage (vān'tāj) n. better situation or opportunity, advantage; in tennis same as 'advantage'. Used esp. in vantage-ground, coign of vantage, position of advantage [M.E. avantage, advantage].

vapid (vāpid) a. having lost its life and spirit; flat; insipid — vapidly adv. — vap'idness n. — vap'idity n. [L. vapidus, stale].

vapour (vā'pur) n. any light, cloudy substance which impairs clearness of atmosphere, as mist, fog, smoke, etc.; anything unsubstantial, — pl (Arch.) disease of nervous debility; depression, melancholy; — v.t. to pass off in vapour, (Fig.) to talk idly; to brag. — va'porise v.t. to convert into vapour, — v.t. to pass off in vapour. — vaporisation n. — va'poriser n. mechanism for splitting liquid into fine particles. — va'pours n. a full of vapours, prone to depression or hysteria.

va pourishness n. — va porous n. like vapour, unreal, vain. — va porously adv. — va pourousness n. — va'pouring n.pl. inane talk. — va'poury a. full of vapours; depressed or peevish. — va pour-bath, vaporarium n. steam-bath or Turkish bath [L. vapor].

variable (vā'ri-ā-bl) a. changeable; capable of being adapted, unsteady or fickle; — n. that which is subject to change; symbol that may have infinite number of values, indeterminate quantity; shifting wind. — vari'ably adv. — vari'ableness n. — variability n. (Stat.) tendency to vary from average characteristics of species. — vari'ant a. different; diverse; — n. different form or reading. — variance n. difference that produces controversy, state of discord or disagreement.

variation (vā'ri-ā-shun) n. act of varying; alteration; modification; extent to which thing varies; (Gram.) change of termination; in magnetism, deviation of magnetic needle from true north; (Mus.) repetition of theme or melody with various embellishments and elaborations. — at variance, not in harmony or agreement [L. varius, various].

varicoloured (vā'ri-kul'urid) a. having various colours.

varicose (vā'ri-kōs) a. enlarged or dilated, as veins, esp. in legs [L. varix, a dilated vein, fr. varus, crooked].

variegate (vā'ri-gāt) v.t. to diversify by

- patches of different colours; to streak, spot, dapple, etc.—variegation n. [L. varius, various; agere, to make].
- variety (və-ri-ē-ti) n. state of being varied; diversity; collection of different things; many-sidedness; one of class of objects within a larger class to which it is allied; subdivision of a species.—variety-show n. mixed entertainment, consisting of songs, dances, short sketches, juggling, etc. [L. varietas, variety, fr. varius, various].
- variorum (vā-ri-ō-rum) a. designating an edition of a work with notes by various commentators [L.—of various men].
- various (vā-ri-ūs) a. different; diverse; manifold; separate; diversified.—variously adv.—varioussness n. [L. varius].
- varlet (vār-let) n. page or attendant; scoundrel [O.Fr. varlet, var. of vasslet, fr. L.L. vassalus, vassal].
- varnish (vār-nish) n. clear, resinous liquid laid on work to give it gloss; glossy appearance; glaze; (Fig.) outward show; fair appearance glossing over questionable conduct;—v.t. to lay varnish on; (Fig.) to conceal something with fair appearance [Fr. vernis, varnish].
- vary (vā-ri) v.t. to change; to make different or modify; to diversify;—v.i. to alter, or be altered; to be different; to be at variance; to deviate.—varied a. various; diverse; diversified [L. variare, to vary].
- vas (vas) n. (Anat.) vessel or duct containing blood, etc.—vascular (vas-kū-lar) a. (Anat.) pert. to vessels or ducts for conveying blood, lymph, sap, etc.—vascular system, all blood-vessels of the body.—vasculum n. botanist's collecting-box.—vasomotor a. controlling tension of blood-vessels [L.].
- vase (vāz, (U.S.) vāz) n. vessel, anciently used for sacrificial purposes, sometimes for domestic purposes, now for flowers or merely for decoration; large sculptured vessel, used as ornament, in gardens, on gate-posts, etc. [L. vas, vessel].
- Vaseline (vas-ē-lēn) n. Protected Trade Name applied to brand of petroleum used in ointments, pomades, as lubricant, etc. [Ger. Wasser, water; Gk. elaeon, oil].
- vassal (vas-sal) n. one who holds land from superior, and vows fealty and homage to him; dependant; bondman or slave.—vassalage n. state of being a vassal [Fr. fr. Celt. guaz, servant].
- vast (vāst) a. of great extent; very spacious; very great in numbers or quantity;—n. (Poet.) boundless space.—vastly adv.—vastness n. [L. vastus, very great].
- vat (vat) n. large vessel, tub, or cistern, generally for holding liquids [O.E. foet, a vessel, cask].
- vatic (vat-ik) a. prophetic; oracular. Also vaticinal—vaticinate v.t. and v.i. to prophesy; to foretell [L. vates, a prophet].
- Vatican (vat-ē-kan) n. palace and official residence of Pope on Vatican Hill (L. Mons Vaticanus), in Rome; papal authority.
- vaudeville (vōd-vīl, -vēl) n. orig. light, gay song, sung to familiar air; theatrical piece with light or satirical songs; now often applied to variety-show [Fr. Vau de Vire in Normandy, where this type of song was first composed].
- vault (vawlt) n. arched roof; apartment covered with vault, esp. subterranean; cellar; sky; anything resembling a vault;—v.t. to cover with arched roof; to form like vault.—vaulted a. arched [L. volutus, turned].
- vault (vawlt) v.t. to spring or jump with hands resting on something; to leap or curvet, as horse;—v.i. to spring or jump over;—n. such a spring.—vaulting-horse n. wooden stand, used by gymnasts for vaulting over [Fr. volve, turn; fr. L. volutus].
- vauv (vawnt, vānt) v.t. to brag or boast;—v.i. to boast of; to make vain display of;—n. boast; vainglorious display [O.Fr. vanier; fr. L. vantias, vanity].
- veal (vēl) n. flesh of a calf killed for the table [O.Fr. veel, fr. L. vitellus, calf].
- vector (vek-tor) n. (Math.) any quantity requiring direction to be stated as well as magnitude in order to define it properly, e.g. velocity; disease-carrying insect.—vectorial a. [L. vehere, vecium, to convey].
- Veda (vā-dā) n. most ancient sacred literature of Hindus.—Vēdis a. pert. to the Vedas [Sans. veda, knowledge].
- vedette (ve-det') n. mounted sentinel placed in advance of outposts to give notice of danger; (Nav.) fast motor-launch for reconnaissance purposes [It. vedetta, fr. vedere, to see, fr. L. videre].
- veer (vēr) v.t. and v.i. to turn; of wind, to change direction, esp. clockwise; (Naut.) to change ship's course. (Fig.) to change one's opinion or point of view; (Naut.) to pay out rope [Fr. virer].
- vegetable (vej-ē-tē-bl) a. belonging to plants; having nature of plants;—n. plant, esp. plant used as food, e.g. potato, carrot, cabbage, bean.—vegetarian (vej-ē-tā-ri-an) n. one who abstains from animal flesh and lives on vegetables, eggs, milk, etc.;—a. pert. to vegetarianism; consisting of vegetables.—vegetarianism n.—vegetate v.t. to grow as plant does; to lead idle, useless, unthinking life.—vegetation n. process of vegetating; vegetable growth; plants in general.—vegetable marrow, egg-shaped gourd with tender flesh [L. vegetabilis, enlivening, fr. vegetare, to quicken].
- vehement (vē-he-mēt) a. acting with great force; impetuous; vigorous, passionate.—vehemently adv.—vehemence, vehemency n. impetuosity; fury; violence; force [L. vehemens, very eager].
- vehicle (vē-kl, vēh-kl) n. any means of conveyance (esp. on land) as carriage, cart, etc.; liquid medium in which drugs are taken, or pigments applied, any person or thing used as means or medium of expression or communication.—vehicular (vē-hikū-lar) a. Also vehicularity [L. vehiculum, fr. vehere, to carry].
- veil (vāl) n. piece of thin, gauzy material worn by women to hide or protect face, covering; curtain; disguise;—v.t. to cover with veil, to conceal.—veiled a. covered; concealed; disguised.—veiling n. act of covering with veil, material from which veil is made.—to take the veil, to become a nun [L. velum].
- vein (vān) n. each of the vessels or tubes which receive blood from capillaries and return it to heart, any blood-vessel, (Bot.) one of the small branching ribs of leaf or of insect's wing; layer of mineral intersecting a stratum of rock; streak or wave of different colour appearing in wood, marble, etc.; distinctive tendency, mood or cast of mind;—v.t. to mark with veins.—veining n. system of veins; streaked surface.—veinous, veiny a. [L. vena].
- veld, veldt (delt, velt) n. in S. Africa, open grass-country [Dut. veld, a field].
- veleta (vel-ē-ta) n. kind of waltz [etym. uncertain].
- vellum (vel-um) n. fine parchment made of calf's-skin [O.Fr. velin, fr. L. vitulus, calf].
- velocipede (ve-lo-si-pēd) n. a vehicle propelled by the rider, early form of bicycle [L. velox, swift; pes, the foot].
- velocity (ve-lo-si-ti) n. rate of motion; swiftness; speed; distance traversed in unit time in a given direction [L. velox, swift; Gk. metron, a measure].
- velours (vē-lōor') n. fabric resembling velvet or plush; last made of velours. Also velour and velure (vē-lūr);—veloutine n. corded fabric [Fr.—velvet].
- velvet (vel-vet) n. soft material of silk with thick short pile on one side;—a. made of velvet; soft and delicate.—velvety a. soft as velvet.—velveteen n. poor velvet made of cotton, or of silk and cotton mixed [L.L. velutium, fr. L. velutus, shaggy hair].

venal (və'nəl) a. to be obtained for money; prepared to take bribes; mercenary.—venally adv.—venality n. quality of being purchasable [L. venalis, fr. venus, sale].

venatic, venatical (ve-nat'ik, -i-kəl) a. relating to hunting [L. venari, to hunt].

vend (vend) v.t. to sell; to dispose of by sale.—vendible a. saleable.—vendibly adv.—vendibility, vendibleness n. the quality of being saleable.—ven-dor n. person who sells; seller [L. vendere].

vendetta (ven-det'tə) n. blood-feud, in which it was the duty of the relative of murdered man to avenge his death by killing murderer or relative of murderer, any bitter feud [It. fr. L. vindicta, revenge].

veneer (ve-nēr') n. thin layer of valuable wood glued to surface of inferior wood; thin coating of finer substance; (Fig.) superficial charm or polish of manner;—v.t. to coat or overlay with substance giving superior surface; (Fig.) to disguise with superficial charm.—veneering n. act of treating with veneer thin layer used in this process [Fr. fourir, to furnish].

venerate (ven-er-āt) v.t. to regard with respect and reverence.—ven'er-ator n.—ven-er-ation n. respect mingled with awe, worship.—ven'er-able a. worthy of veneration, deserving respect by reason of age, character, etc., sacred by reason of religious or historical associations.—ven'er-ably adv. [L. reuerari, to worship].

venereal (ve-nēr-ē-əl) a. pert to sexual intercourse; arising from sexual intercourse with infected persons [L. Venus, Veneris, goddess of Love].

venery (ven-ēr-i) n. (Arch.) hunting; sports of the chase [L. venari, to hunt].

Venetian (ve-nē-shən) a. pert. to city of Venice, Italy, n. native, inhabitant of Venice. venetian blind, blind made of thin, horizontal slats of wood, so hung as to overlap each other when closed.

vengeance (ven-jans) n. infliction of pain or loss on another in return for injury or offence. vengeful a. disposed to revenge; vindictive.—venge'fully adv.—venge'fulness n. [L. vindicare, to avenge].

venial (vē-ni-əl) a. capable of being forgiven; excusable. venially adv.—venialness n.—veniality n. [L. venialis, pardonable, fr. venia, forgiveness].

venison (ven-i-zən, ven-zən) n. flesh of the deer [Fr. venaison, fr. L. venari, to hunt].

vennel (ven-ēl) n. narrow street, lane or alley [Fr. venelle, small street].

venom (ven-əm) n. poison, esp. that secreted by serpents, bees, etc., spite, malice.—ven-omous a. poisonous, spiteful, malicious.—ven-omously adv.—ven-omousness n. [L. venenum, poison].

venous, venose (vē-nūs, vē-nōs) a. pert. to veins [L. venosus, fr. vena, vein].

vent (vent) n. small opening, outlet; flue or funnel of fireplace, touch-hole of gun, stop of wind-instrument; utterance, emission; voice; escape, anus of certain lower animals;—v.t. to give opening or outlet to, to let escape; to utter or voice, to publish. to give vent to, to pour forth, to suffer to escape [Fr. venter, fr. L. findere, to cleave].

ventilate (ven-ti-līt) v.t. to fan or whinnow; to remove foul air from and supply with fresh air; to expose to discussion; to make public.—ventilation n. replacement of vitiated air by fresh air; free exposure to air, open discussion.—vent'il-ator n. contrivance for keeping air fresh [L. ventilare, fr. ventus, wind].

ventral (ven-trəl) a. belonging to belly; abdominal; opp. of dorsal;—n. one of the pair of fins on belly of fish.—ven'tricle n. (Anat. or Zool.) small belly-like cavity in certain organs, esp. one of chambers of heart from which blood is forced into arteries.—ventr'i-cular a. [L. ventralis, fr. venter, belly].

ventriloquism (ven-tril'ō-kwiz-əm) n. art of speaking in such a way that words or sounds seem to come from some source other than speaker. Also ventr'il-oguy.—ventr'il-quist n.—ventr'il-quist v.t. to practise ventriloquism [L. venter, belly, loqui, to speak].

venture (ven-tūr) n. undertaking of chance or danger, business speculation,—v.t. to expose to hazard; to risk;—v.i. to run risk; to dare; to have presumption to.—ven'tur-er n.—ven'turous a. daring, fearless.—ven'turously adv.—ven'turousness n.—ven'turesome a. bold; inclined to venture.—ven'turesomely adv.—ven'turesomeness n.—at a venture, at random [shortened form of adventure].

venue (ven-ū) n. district in which case is tried; meeting-place, the scene [L. venire, to come].

Venus (vē-nūs) n. (Myth.) Roman goddess of Love and Beauty; brightest planet of solar system; beautiful woman [L.].

veracious (ve-rā-shi-əs) a. truthful; true.—ver-aciously adv.—ver-acity (ve-rās-i-ti) n. quality of being truthful; truth, correctness [L. verax, veracis, fr. verus, true].

veranda, verandah (ve-ran-də) n. light, open portico or gallery, along side of house, with roof supported on pillars; covered balcony [Sp. veranda, balcony].

verb (vərb) n. (Gram.) part of speech which expresses action or state of being.—ver-bal a. pert. to words, expressed in words, esp. spoken words; literal or word for word; pert. to verb; derived from verb.—ver-bally adv.—ver-balise v.t. and v.i. to put into words; to turn into verb.—ver-balisa-tion n.—ver-balism n. something expressed orally, over-attention to use of words, empty words.—ver-batim (və-rbā-tim) a. and adv. word for word [L. verbum, a word].

Verbena (və-rbē-nə) n. genus of plants of family Verbenaceae, used in ornamental flower-beds. Also called vervain [L.].

verbiage (və-rbi-āj) n. excess of words; use of many more words than are necessary; wordiness, often with little sense.—ver-bigera-tion n. the meaningless repetition of words and phrases.—ver-bose (və-rbōs) a. prolix, tedious because of excess of words.—ver-bosely adv.—ver-boseness, verbosity (və-r'bōs-i-ti) n. [L. verbum, a word].

verdant (və-rd-ənt) a. green or fresh; flourishing, (Colloq.) ignorant or unsophisticated.—ver-dantly adv.—ver-dancy n. greenness; (Colloq.) inexperience.—ver-dure (və-r'dūr) n. greenness or freshness; green vegetation [O.Fr. verd, fr. L. viridis, green].

verdict (və-rdikt) n. decision of jury in a trial, decision or judgment [O.Fr. verdit, fr. L. vere dictum, truly said].

verdigris (və-rī-grēs) n. green rust on copper, basic acetate of copper, used as pigment, etc. [O.Fr. verd de gris, (Greek green)].

verge (vərg) n. rod of office, mace of bishop, etc.; area of jurisdiction of marshal of king's household, limit, border, or edge; brink; grass edging of flower-bed, avenue, etc.—ver-ger n. one who carries verge or emblem of authority, attendant upon bishop, etc.; beadle or pew opener of church [L. virga, slender ty. or rod].

verge (vərg, v.t. to tend; to slope; to border upon [L. vergere, to tend towards].

verify (vē-rī-fī) v.t. to prove to be true; to confirm truth of; to make good or fulfill.—ver-if-er n.—ver-if-iable a.—ver-if-ifi-ability n.—ver-if-ica-tion n. act of verifying or state of being verified; confirmation.—ver-ily adv. (Arch.) truly; certainly [L. verus, true, facere, to make].

verisimilar (vē-rī-sim'i-lər) a. having the appearance of truth; probable; likely.—ver-isim-il-ly adv.—ver-isim-il-tude n. appearance of truth; probability; likelihood [L. verus, true; similis, like]. veritable (ver-i-tā-bl) a. actual; true; genuine. —ver-ita-bly adv. [L. veritas, truth].

verity (ver-i-ti) n. quality of being true; truth; reality [L. veritas]. verjuice (ver-juūs) n. sour juice of crab-apples, unripe grapes, etc. used in cooking [Fr. verjus, fr. L. viridis, green; jus, juice].
vermin (ver-mī) pref. fr. L. vermis, worm. —ver-mi-an a. worm-like; pert. to worms. —ver-mi-cell (ver-mi-sel-ē, -chel-ē) n. paste made from same ingredients as macaroni, and formed into slender, worm-like threads. —ver-mi-cide n. any substance that destroys worms. —ver-mi-ci-dal a. —ver-mi-cu-lar a. pert. to worm; like a worm in shape or movement; vermiculate. —ver-mi-cu-late a. —v.t. to do in-laid work in pattern like worm-tracks. —ver-mi-cu-la-tion n. —ver-mi-form a. having shape of a worm.
vermillion (ver-mil-yun) n. clunabar; prepared red sulphide of mercury; beautiful red colour; —v.t. to colour with delicate red [L. vermiculus, little worm].
vermin (ver-mīn) n. collectively noxious or mischievous little animals, birds, or insects, e.g. squirrels, rats, worms, lice, etc.; low contemptible persons. —ver-mi-nous a. infested by vermin; caused by vermin; tending to breed vermin [L. vermis, worm].
vermouth, vermouth (ver-mōoth, -mōot) n. cordial of white wine flavoured with worm-wood, used as aperitif [Ger.].
vernacular (ver-nakū-lar) a. belonging to country of one's birth; native (usu. applied only to language or idiom); —n. native idiom of place; mother tongue [L. vernaculus, native, fr. verna, home-born slave].
vernal (ver-nal) a. belonging to, or appearing in, spring; of youth. —ver-nally adv. —ver-nal equinox, equinox occurring about March 21 [L. ver, spring].
vernier (ver-ni-er) n. short, graduated-scale instrument, for measuring fractional parts of its spaces [fr. Pierre Vernier, inventor].
Veronal (ver-o-nal) n. hypnotic or sedative drug (Protected Trade Name).
Veronica (ve-rōn-i-kā) n. genus of plants, including speedwell [L. veronica, betony].
verruca (ve-rū-kā) n. wart or wart-like elevation. —ver-ru-cose, ver-ru-cous a. [L.].
versatile (ver-se-ti-l) a. having aptitude in many subjects; liable to change; capable of moving freely in all directions. —ver-sa-tilely adv. —ver-sa-ti-lity n. [L. versatilis, fr. versare, fr. vertere, to turn].
verse (vers) n. metrical line containing certain number of feet; metrical arrangement and language; short division of any composition; stanza; stave; piece of poetry. —versed (verset) a. skilled; experienced (foll. by 'in'); practised —ver-sile n. little verse. —ver-sify (ver-si-fi) v.t. to turn prose into verse; to express in verse. —v.t. to make verses. —ver-si-ler n. [L. vertere, versum, to turn].
version (ver-shun) n. translation; school exercise, generally of translation into a foreign language; account from particular point of view [L. versio, fr. vertere, to turn].
vers libre (ver-lā-br) n. free verse, ignoring rules of metrical composition [Fr.].
verso (ver-sō) n. left-hand page; reverse side of coin or medal [L.]. versus (ver-sus) prep. [Law, Games] against —abbrev. v. [L.]. vertebra (ver-te-brā) n. one of the small bony segments of spinal column. —pl. ver-te-bræ. —ver-te-bral a. pert. to vertebrae or spine. —ver-te-brate a. having backbone; —n. vertebrate animal [L.]. vertex (ver-teks) n. highest point; summit; (Astron.) zenith; (Geom.) angular point of triangle etc. —pl. vertexes, vertices (ver-tek-ses, -ti-sēs). —ver-ti-cal a. situated at vertex; directly overhead or in the zenith; upright or perpendicular; —n. vertical line. —ver-ti-cally adv. —ver-ti-cal-ness n. —ver-ti-cal-ity n. [L. vertex, top].

vertigo (ver-ti-gō, ver-ti-gō) n. sensation of whirling or swimming of head, with loss of equilibrium; dizziness; giddiness. —vertiginous (ver-ti-jī-nus) a. revolving; giddy; causing giddiness. —ver-ti-gi-nously adv. [L. vertigo, whirling, fr. vertere, to turn].
virtu (ver-tōo) n. See virtu.
vervain (ver-vān) n. plant of genus Verbena, formerly a charm against various ills, including witchcraft [L. verbenā].
verve (verv) n. enthusiasm or vigour; energy; spirit [Fr.].
very (ver-i) a. true; real; actual; genuine; now used chiefly to emphasise word following. —adv. in a high degree; extremely. —ver-ily adv. truly [L. versus, true].
Very light (ver-i-lit) n. firework fired from Very pistol and used as a signal of distress [fr. inventor].
vesical (ves-i-kal) a. (Med.) pert. to bladder. —vesi-cant a. tending to raise blisters; —n. blistering application. —vesi-cate v.t. to raise blisters on. —vesi-ca-tion n. process of blistering. —vesi-cle n. small bladder-like structure; blister; cyst. —vesi-cu-lar (ve-sikū-lar) a. pert. to vesicles. —vesi-cu-late, vesi-cu-lose, vesi-cu-los a. vesicular [L. vesica, bladder].
Vesper (ves-per) n. the evening star, Venus; evening; —a. pert. to evening or vespers. —ves-per n.pl. sixth canonical hour; evensong; evening service of R.C. Church.
vessel (ves-el) n. utensil for holding either liquids or solids; ship, esp. large one; (Anat.) tube or canal in which blood and other fluids are contained; in Biblical language, one regarded as recipient of something, e.g. of divine spirit [L. vas, vase].
vest (vest) n. waistcoat; knitted or woven undergarment; vestment; —v.t. to clothe; to cover; to put in possession; to endow; to give right of present or future enjoyment; to furnish with authority. —vest-ed a. that cannot be transferred or taken away. —vest-ment n. ceremonial or official garment. —vest-ure n. clothing; dress; covering [L. vestis, garment].
Vesta (ves-tā) n. (Myth.) Roman goddess of the hearth, whose sacred fire was kept constantly burning and guarded in her temple by Vestal Virgins; small planet. —ves-tā n. short match with wax shank. —ves-tal a. pert. to Vesta or her worship; vowed to chastity; —n. virgin, vowed to service of Vesta; nun; old maid.
vestibule (ves-ti-būl) n. entrance to house; porch; hall next outer door of house; [L. vestibulum, forecourt].
vestige (ves-tij) n. orig. footprint; trace or sign; track; mark of something that has been, remains; (Anat.) trace of some part or organ formerly present in body. —ves-ti-gial a. [L. vestigium, a footprint].
vestry (ves-tri) n. room attached to church for holding ecclesiastical vestments, prayer meetings, etc.; assembly of parishioners to deal with parochial affairs [L. vestiarium, fr. vestis, garment].
vet (vet) n. (Collog. abbrev.) veterinary surgeon; —v.t. to examine or treat animal; (Collog. Fig.) to examine or check.
vetch (vetch) n. plant of bean family used for fodder [L. vicia].
veteran (vet-er-an) n. person who has served a long time, esp. soldier; —a. long exercised in anything [L. veteranus, fr. vetus, old].
veterinary (vet-er-i-nā-ri) a. pert. to healing diseases of domestic animals. —veterinarian (vet-er-i-nā-ri-an) n. one skilled in treating diseases of animals; now veterinary surgeon [L. veterinarius, pert. to beasts of burden].
veto (veto) n. power or right of forbidding. —pl. vetoes. —v.t. to withhold assent to; to negative [L. veto, I forbid].

vex (vekə) v.t. to make angry; to irritate; to grieve; to distress.—vexatious n.—vexatious a. causing vexation; distressing.—vexatiously adv.—vexatiousness n. [L. vexare, to harass].

via (vi-ə, vē-ə) prep. by way of [L.—way].
viable (vi-ə-bl) a. born alive and sufficiently developed to be able to live; capable of living or growth.—viability n. [L. vita, life].

viaduct (vi-ə-dukt) n. high bridge or series of arches for carrying road or railway over valley or stream [L. via, way; ducere, to lead].

vial (vi-əl) n. small glass bottle; phial [Gk. phialē, shallow bowl].

viald (vi-ənd) n. article of food; chiefly pl. food, victuals, provisions [L. vivenda, provisions, fr. vivere, to live].

viaticum (vi-ə-ti-kum) n. Communion or Eucharist given to dying persons; portable altar [L. vita, a way].

vibrate (vi-brāt, vi-brāt) v.t. to move to and fro, to cause to quiver; to measure by vibrations or oscillations.—v.i. to swing or oscillate, to quiver; to thrill or throb; of sound, to produce quivering effect, to sound tremulous.—vibration n.—vibrator (vi-brā-tor, vi-brā-tor) n. one who, or that which, causes vibration.—vibratory a. vibrating, causing vibration.—vibrant a. vibrating, thrilling or throbbing, sonorous [L. vibrare, to swing or shake].

Viburnum (vi-bur-nūm) n. different kinds of shrubs of honeysuckle family, including guelder-rose [L.].

vicar (vik-ər) n. clergyman of parish in which tithes belong to chapter, college, layman, etc. who receives them, and allows out of them a salary to clergyman.—vicarage n. residence of vicar.—vicarial (vi-kā-ri-əl) a. pert. to, acting as, vicar.—vicarship n.—vicarious (vi-kā-ri-əs) a. delegated, substituted; done or suffered for another.—vicariously adv.—vicariousness n. [L. vicarius, deputy].

vice (vis) n. depravity or immoral conduct; blemish or defect in character, etc.; failing or bad habit.—viceous (vi-shūs) a. depraved, wicked; not pure in style; spiteful; not well broken, as horse.—viceously adv.—viceousness n.—viceous circle, describes state in which remedy for evil produces second evil, which when remedied in its turn leads back to first [L. vitium, blemish, fault].

vice (vis) n. device with two jaws that can be brought together by screw; fixed to edge of work-bench it holds anything which needs filing, etc. [Fr. vis, a screw].

vice (vis) prefix in words signifying persons, and denoting one who acts in place of another, or one who is second in authority, as vice-admiral, vice-chairman, vice-chancellor, etc. [L. vice, in place of].

vicegerent (vis-ġ-er-ent) a. exercising delegated power;—n. holder of delegated authority [L. vice, in place of; gerere, to act].
viceroys (vis-ə-roi) n. governor of country or province who rules as representative of his king.

vice versa (vi-ə-ve-ə-sā) adv. the order being reversed; the other way round [L.]. vicinity (vi-sin-i-ti) n. neighbourhood; nearness or proximity.—vicinage n. vicinity; neighbourhood [L. vicinus, near].

vicissitude (vi-sis-i-tūd) n. regular change or succession; alteration; change of circumstances, esp. of fortune;—pl. ups and downs of fortune.—vicissitudinal, vicissitudinous a. [L. vicissitudo, alteration].

victim (vik-tim) n. living being sacrificed in performance of religious ceremony; person, or thing, destroyed or sacrificed; person who suffers; dupe or prey.—victimhood v.t. to make victim of.—victimhood n. [L. victim].

victor (vik-tor) n. (fem. victress, victrix) one who defeats enemy in battle; conqueror; winner in contest.—victory n. defeat of enemy in battle, or of antagonist in contest; conquest; triumph.—victorious (vik-tō-ri-əs) a. having conquered; indicating victory; triumphant; winning.—victoriously adv.—victoriousness n. [L. victor, fr. vincere, to conquer].

Victoria (vik-tō-ri-ə) n. Queen of Gt. Britain, (1837-1901).—Victoria n. low, light, four-wheeled carriage.—Victoria Cross (abbrev. V.C.), highest military decoration for valour, founded in 1856.—Victorian n. person living in reign of Queen Victoria;—a. pert. to, living in, reign of Queen Victoria; old-fashioned; easily shocked.

virtual (vit-ʃl) v.t. to supply with provisions;—v.t. to take in provisions.—virtual n. pl. food.—virtualist (vit-ʃl-ist) n. one who supplies provisions [L. virtualis, fr. vivere, to live].

vidette n. See vedette.

vie (vi) v.i. to strive for superiority; to contend.—pr.p. vy'ing.—pa.p. and pa.t. ried (vid) [O.Fr. enver, to challenge].

view (vi) n. sight; inspection by eye or mind; power of seeing, range of sight; what is seen; pictured representation of scene; manner of looking at anything, esp. mental survey; opinion, aim or intention.—v.t. to see; to look at; to survey mentally; to consider.—viewer n. one who views; one who receives television programme.—view-halloo n. huntsman's cry on seeing fox break cover.—viewless a. (Poet.) invisible.—view-finder n. device in camera for showing lines of picture.—on view, open to inspection.—in view of, having regard to; taking into consideration [L. videre, to see].

vigil (vij-il) n. staying awake, either for religious exercises, or to keep watch; watch or watching; in church, eve of feast;—pl. nocturnal devotions.—vigilant a. wakeful; watchful; alert, circumspect.—vigilantly adv.—vigilance n. wakefulness; watchfulness [L. vigilia, a watch].

vignette (vġn-yet, vin-yet) n. orig. running ornament of leaves or tendrils; small designs in printing, used as headings or tail-pieces; any engraving, wood-cut, etc. not enclosed within border, photograph or portrait showing only head or quarter-length likeness against shaded background; (Fig.) short, neat description in words [Fr. dim. of vigne, vine].

vigour (vig-ər) n. active strength; capacity for exertion; energy; vitality; forcefulness of style, in writing.—vigorous a. full of physical or mental strength; powerful.—vigorously adv.—vigorousness n. [L. rigor].

viking (vik-ing, vġking) n. one of the Scandinavian sea-rovers or pirates, who from the 8th to 10th cents. ravaged the north-west coasts of Europe (O.N. vikings).

vilayet (vil-ə-yet) n. province of the Turkish Empire [Turk.].

vile (vil) a. mean; worthless; base; depraved; repulsive; (Colloq.) shockingly bad.—vilely adv.—vileness n.—villify (vil-i-fi) v.t. to speak ill of; to try to degrade by slander; to defame or traduce.—villifier n.—villification n. [L. vilis, cheap, base].

villa (vil-ə) n. orig. country seat; suburban residence [L. = a farm-house].

village (vil-əġ) n. assemblage of houses, smaller than town and larger than hamlet;—a. pert. to village; rustic.—villager n. an inhabitant of a village [L. villaticus, belonging to a farm-house].

villain (vil-ən) n. wicked, depraved or criminal person; rascal; (Hist.) feudal serf.—villainous a. wicked; vile.—villainously adv.—villainousness n.—villainy n. extreme wickedness; an act of great depravity [L.L. villanus, farm servant].

villanelle (vil-ə-nel) n. poem of 19 lines on 2 rhymes. It consists of 5 three-lined stanzas, followed by one of four lines [Fr. fr. It. villanella].

villein (vil'ēn) n. tenant by villenage; serf;—a. pert. to villein or villenage.—villenage n. tenure of lands and tenements by menial services; serfdom [fr. villain].

villus (vil'us) n. one of the small, fine, hair-like processes which cover certain membranes; one of the fine soft hairs covering certain fruits, flowers, or plants.—pl. villi (vil'i) [L. villus, shaggy hair].

vim (vim) n. (Colloq.) force; energy; vigour [L. vis, force].

vinagrette (vin-ā-gret') n. small box, containing sponge saturated with aromatic vinegar [fr. dim. fr. vinagre, vinegar].

vincible (vin'si-bl) a. that may be conquered [L. vincere].

vinculum (ving-kū-lum) n. bond of union; (Alg.) straight, horizontal mark placed over several members of compound quantity to be treated as one quantity.—pl. vin'cula [L. = bond, fr. vincere, to bind].

vindicate (vin-dik-āt) v.t. to justify; to maintain as true and correct; to clear of suspicion, dishonour, etc.—vin'dicable a.—vindicability n.—vindica'tion n. justification; defence of statement against denial or doubt.—vin'dicator n.—vin'dictory a. [L. vindicare, to claim].

vindicative (vin-dik-ativ) a. given to revenge; revengeful.—vin'dicatively adv.—vin'dictiveness n. [L. vindicta, vengeance].

vine (vin) n. woody, climbing plant that produces grapes; any plant which trails or climbs.—vin'ery n. greenhouse(s) for rearing vines by use of heating.—vineyard (vin-yārd) n. plantation of grape-vines.—vin'ic a. pert. to, or obtained from, wine; alcoholic.—vin'iculture n. cultivation of vines.—vin'ous a. pert. to, or like, wine; due to wine [L. vinum, wine].

vinegar (vin'e-gar) n. acid liquor obtained from malt, wine, cider, etc. by fermentation, and used as condiment or in pickling.—vin'egary a. like vinegar; sour [fr. vinagre, fr. L. vinum, wine; acer, sour].

vingt-un, vingt et un (vangt-ung', vangt-ā-ung) n. card game, in which the object is to count as near as possible to the number of 21 spots, without exceeding it; also called pontoon [fr. = twenty-one].

vintage (vin-tāj) n. gathering of grapes; season's yield of grapes or wine; wine of particular year.—vin'tner n. one who deals in wine; tavern-keeper.—vintage wine, wine made from grapes of particularly good year [L. vindemia, vintage].

viol (vi'ol) n. medieval stringed musical instrument like violin but larger.—bass-vi'ol n. violoncello.—violist (vi-ō-list) n. one who plays viol [fr. viole].

viola (vê-ō-la) n. instrument larger than violin, but smaller than violoncello; alto or tenor violin.—violist (vi-ō-list) n. one who plays the viola [It.].

Viola (vi-ō-la) n. (Bot.) genus of plants including violet and pansy [L.].

violate (vi-ō-lāt) v.t. to infringe or break a promise; to treat with disrespect; to outrage or rape.—viola'tion n. transgression; profanation; ravishment; infringement; interruption.—vi'olator n. [L. violare].

violence (vi-ō-lens) n. force; vehemence; intensity; assault or outrage.—vi'olent a. characterised by physical force, esp. improper force; forcible; furious; passionate.—vi'olently adv. [L. violare, fr. vis, force].

violet (vi-ō-let) n. flower of genus Viola, generally of bluish-purple colour; colour produced by combining blue and red;—a. bluish or purple [fr. fr. L. viola].

violin (vi-ō-lin', vi-ō-lin) n. modern musical instrument of viol family, with four strings, played with bow; fiddle.—violinist n. [It. violino].

violoncello (vê-ō-lon-chel'ô, vi-ō-lon-sel'ô) n. bass violin, much larger than violin. It is held between player's knees; usually abbren. to 'cello.—violoncellist n. [It. dim. of violone, bass viol].

viper (vip'er) n. various kinds of venomous snakes, esp. adder; malignant or malicious person.—vi'perish a. like a viper; malignant.—vi'perous a. venomous [L. vipera].

virago (vi-rā-gō) n. turbulent or scolding woman; manlike woman [L.].

virgin (ver-jin) n. girl or woman who has not had sexual intercourse with man; maiden;—a. without experience of sexual intercourse, unsmilied; chaste; fresh; untilled (of land).—vir'ginal a. pert. to virgin; maidenly; fresh and pure;—n. old musical instrument like spinet.—virgin'ity n.—the Virgin, mother of Christ [L. virgo, virginis, maiden].

Virginia (ver-jin-i-ā) n. kind of tobacco, grown in Virginia, U.S.A.—Virginia creeper, climbing vine whose leaves turn bright red in autumn.

Virgo (ver-gō) n. (Astron.) the Virgin, one of the signs of Zodiac [L. virgo, virginis].

virid (vir'id) a. green.—virid'escence a. turning green; greenish.—virid'ian n. bluish-green pigment.—virid'ity, virid'ness n. greenness, verdure [L. viridis, green].

virile (vir'il or -il) a. pert. to man; masculine, strong; (of style) having vigour.—viril'ity n. being a man; manliness; power of procreation [L. vir, man].

virtu (ver-tōo, ver-tōo') n. objects of art or antiquity, collectively; taste for objects of art [It. fr. L. virtus, excellence].

virtual (vir-tū-ā-l) a. being in essence or effect, though not in fact; potential.—vir'tually adv. to all intents and purposes.—virtual'ity n. [L. virtus, excellence].

virtue (ver-tū) n. moral excellence; merit; good quality; female chastity; power or efficacy.—vir'tuous a. upright, dutiful, chaste.—vir'tuously adv.—vir'tuousness n. [L. virtus manly excellence].

virtuoso (vir-tū-ō-sō) n. one with great knowledge of fine arts; highly skilled musician, painter, etc.—pl. virtu'osi, virtu'osos.—virtuosity (vir-tū-ō-si-ti) n. great technical skill in fine arts, esp. music [It.].

